RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT BULMER,
The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT MITCHELL,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. J. CHRISTIE,
Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

"OUR NAVY."

ONE THOUSAND POUNDS

FOR TWENTY-FIVE SHILLINGS.

TO THE PUBLISHER, "THE ERA."

Sir,—
It may possibly interest you to learn that a Quarter-Column Advertisement in "The Era" (One Insertion) resulted in over £1,000 Bookings for an Entertainment with which I was connected some little time ago. The Entertainment was entitled and the Bookings were effected within a week.

ALFRED WEST'S "OUR NAVY,"

Yours faithfully,
H. GOLDSMITH-WHITTON,
Late Manager, West's "Our Navy," Ltd. &c.
London, May 19, 1904.

THE URBANORA TRANSFER.

After a long and uninterrupted success as THE staple attraction at the ALHAMBRA THEATRE, LONDON, recognising the paramount importance of being included in a characteristic and well-diversified variety programme, is being transferred, on and after Bank Holiday, MONDAY, AUGUST 3rd next, to the

"URBANORA,"

PALACE THEATRE, LONDON,

For some eight years past, Mr. CHARLES URBAN has demonstrated to the world the possibilities of PERFECTED KINEMATOGRAPHY, and he is determined to maintain his firm's supremacy in the production of motion pictures. Claiming to have attained not only artistic perfection, but mechanical precision, and to have brought his art to bear on every subject available to the camera, Mr. Urban is content to leave the verdict to the Trade, the Public, and the Press.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

NOTE. — Artistes, before signing contracts issued by the New Tivoli, Limited, and Oxford, Limited, should very carefully read same, as one Artiste of considerable note has already signed contracts with these two Halls at turn money, by which the said Artiste is now precluded from working any other Hall in the County of London other than any Associated Hall which the two above Companies may select. For the guidance of Artistes we herewith reproduce the two clauses :—

No. 2. "During the period (Sundays included) of performance set out in the Schedule and any extension of such period or during any substituted term the Artiste shall not appear or perform at any public place whatsoever other than the (Oxford in one case and Tivoli in the other) except at such other associated theatre as may be selected by the (Oxford, Limited, or the Tivoli, Limited, respectively).

No. 3. "The Artiste shall not, for a period not exceeding twelve calendar months before each date set out in the Schedule hereunder (Sundays included), appear at any Theatre, Music Hall, Concert, Town Hall, Club, Institute, or other place of entertainment within the COUNTY of LONDON, except at such other associated theatre as may be selected by the (Oxford, Limited, or Tivoli, Limited, respectively)."

It requires very little thought to see that one contract to work one week per year at either place would exclude Artistes from appearing anywhere else in the County of London. The County of London, for the information of Artistes, extends as far—

NORTH: Hampstead, Finsbury Park, Hackney. SOUTH: Streatham Common, Norwood, Beckenham, Wimbledon. EAST: Woolwich, Bostall Heath. WEST: Hammersmith, Putney, Wormwood.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—H. M. THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—This week Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company produce The Dandy Doctor. The piece is very brightly played. Miss Florence Smithers shows remarkable versatility in the highly-amusing part of Jane; Miss Mollie Wynne makes a charming Ivy Pendred; Mr. George Brentwood skilfully portrays the potted meat millionaire, Melchisadek Brown; Mr. Herbert Pearce is successful as a heavy father; Mr. C. B. Williams is a most satisfactory Carl; and Mr. A. Leslie Martin's Julius Cæsar is very funny. Some smart and graceful dancing is contributed by Miss Lottie Stone's Empire and Little Dutch Girls. All the minor parts in the piece are capitally filled.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, the United County Theatres, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Mr. Jack Lorimer, the popular Scotch comedian, makes a welcome reappearance, and is enthusiastically received and encored; Mr. Paul Vandy shows himself to be one of the most dexterous jugglers on the stage; Miss Gladys Huxley is a comedienne of great accomplishment; Miss Stella Stahl sings with considerable dash and piquancy; Mr. Bert Woodward is clever as a cycling coon; Mr. Will Matcham earns applause in his eccentric musical turn; Oakdene exhibits resource and originality as a ventriloquist; Mr. Francis O'Flynn plays the banjo with exquisite skill; and the dancing of the Lillies is exceptionally smart and graceful.

BEACH PAVILION.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. David Thomson.—The principal artists this week are the members of the Downes Family, who excel both as musical instrumentalists and comedians. Miss Violet Davidson introduces a number of new songs, and Mr. Thomson sings some very amusing ditties. Mr. George Park, vocalist, and Mr. Jack Marson are in excellent voice; and the turns of Mr. Dan Williams, vocalist, and Vulcaris, entertainer and accompanist, are likewise highly appreciated.

ALHAMBRA MUSIC HALL. — Proprietor, Mr. John Sinclair; General-Manager, Mr. George B. Lee.—The principal artists this week are Mr. G. F. Rollo, an eccentric comedian of considerable originality; Oliver and Twist, a couple of clever society entertainers; Little Etta, comedienne and dancer; and Mr. Dove Paterson, cinematographist, who, among other pictures, shows a magnificent coloured film, a thousand feet long, called The Clockmaker's Secret.

ABERTILLERY. — THEATRE METROPOLE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. J. Seaborne. —The management provides an excellent holiday attraction in the company of Mr. Evelyn A'Dell, who presents His Sister's Honour. The company possesses capable artists, and deserves the highest praise. The songs and dances are a speciality.

NEW PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. E. and H. Tilney; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Pryce.—After a week's vacation for renovation the Pavilion starts on its second season. The Melody Makers head the bill in a very fine musical exhibition in the scena, A Burglar's Dream; while Corri and Foote submit a very pleasing turn. Miss Daisy Morrell delights the audience with her very fine songs; Fred Rex scores well as a comedian and dancer; Stidder and Dunbar are exceptionally good as musical exponents; Mlle. Naveeda and company keep the audience spellbound in her remarkable magnetic performance; the Pavoscope adds greatly to the night's programme. The band, under the leadership of Mr. F. Drake, is decidedly good.

ACCRINGTON. — TOWN HALL. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—"The World in Motion" animated pictures, exhibited under the direction of Mr. Harold Edwards, provide the bulk of the programme here. Included in this week's long list are The Taming of the Lion Tamer, Bargee's Daughter, Father's Lessons, and a most mirth-provoking film, entitled Galvanic Fluid. The Three Pirmans, novelty gymnasts, meet with a flattering reception, their clever tumbling, combined with humour, being much appreciated; Clarke's Nippers introduce a smart pot-pourri act, including club-juggling, dancing, and ball-punching; Will Hughes, vocalist and dancer, is very popular; and Dorothy Watson submits a capital turn at the piano.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Gladwin.—The Welsh Minstrels sing old melodies (accompanied on harp) that are highly appreciated; Miss Fifi Gordon and her talented troupe of girls, in song-scenas, are highly successful; W. Permane's educated bears have been marvellously trained, and go through many clever tricks; Field appears as a society juggler, and gives an exhibition of balancing, &c.; Miss Lottie Bray sings and dances, and accompanies on the banjo; and Will Farrell sings and patters. The Monckton, in a farcical episode, Two in a Flat, create fun. The bioscope pictures complete.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Revill. — Mr. Gilbert Payne's company is here with the musical comedy, The Honeymoon, the librettist and composer being Mr. Parker, who plays the central figure, Nathiel Noodle, a countryman on his honeymoon. There is much farcical "business" of the pantomimic order, and the ball of fun is kept rolling constantly. Miss Celestine Brandon as Madge Armstrong enacts the flighty and knowing young widow with much verve; Miss Rosie Kearns plays Emeretta Noodle amusingly; capital interpretations of character are likewise given by Misses Myra Douglas and Maggie Cronin in other eccentric female rôles; Messrs. Chris. Ainslie, Leslie Earle, Fred Fulton, Gus Tomlin, Bert Gray, and Fred Bentley are also responsible for much merriment. The Four Godfrey Girls supply the acrobatic dancing as pretty and chic waitresses.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Elliott and Warne (Carrie and Tom) give a very amusing account of themselves in comedy, acrobatics, and dancing. An attractive "turn" is that of Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, in Trafalgar Square, London—4 a.m.; Marcus Boyle is again visiting with new comicalities and old favourite songs and patter; Miss Ada Whitton claims attention as a successful male impersonator; the Foy Brothers and company appear in the comic sketch, Pat in China; the Lovelaces are capital American song illustrators, the pictures being excellent; Burns and Bentley meet with favour as vaudeville artists; a smart juggling act is given by Angelina; Frances Hanlon is a dainty comedienne and dancer; and the L.C.C.'s Unique Musical Navvies are expert musical comedians. The Bioscope shows Shipwreckers at Work.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—Crowded houses are still being drawn by the admirable collection of pictures, interesting and laughable, which are submitted here. This week's selection includes A Lazy Man, Over the Sticks, A Bird of Freedom, An Attractive Catch, Mistaken Vocation, and The Moneylender. Illustrated songs are contributed by Mr. Glanmore Jones.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry Sanders.—After a month's vacation, during which it has been thoroughly cleaned and decorated, this popular place of amusement was reopened on Bank Holiday, when large audiences crowded the place at each performance. A strong and attractive programme was headed by Miss Lillie Soutter, a big favourite here, who received a hearty welcome; a laughable sketch, full of mirth-provoking situations, entitled The Sleepwalker, was presented by Mr. Walter Ellis, assisted by Miss Nydia Marcelle and Miss Elsie Craig in the title-rôle; a pleasing turn was that of Sandy and Carl, in song, dance, and story; a good reception was accorded to the Gentrys, comedy artists; the Dieppe Motor Race on the Palace Attergraph was full of interest; Mr. Harry Luck was an acceptable comedian; Mr. Jack Rae contributed a good turn as comedy gymnast and juggler; and Stelling, with his highly-trained and intelligent dog, came in for well-deserved applause.

BACUP.—NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood. — Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tomlinson's company is here this week with Secrets. Mr. Reginald Brown furnishes a good impersonation of Lieut. Markham; the Hon. Cecil Cholmondeley is capitally portrayed by Mr. F. C. Palmer; the part of Nouredin Ali is embodied in capital style by Mr. John Worth; Ibrahim Al Murad finds a clever exponent in Mr. John B. Tomlinson; Mr. Herbert Woodin as Peter Wilkins and Miss Madge Palmer as Winnie Wilkins, are smart in their comedy scenes; Mr. H. C. Burt gives an able rendering of Kara Mesrour; and Mr. Albert Wilson plays well as Khalil. Miss Lizzie Palmer as Ishmalli is naturally sympathetic, while her rendering of the more spirited lines is admirable; and Miss Maud Steeple as Zulieira acquits herself well. The Warner Girls give a charming exposition of smart dancing.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—The attraction for the opening week of the autumn season at this house is provided by Mr. Lingford Carson and company, in The Great White Chief. Mr. Lingford Carson's conception of the rôle of the dumb chief is very successful; Mr. George Torice is a conventional villain as Hartley Deane, and is ably assisted in his work by Miss Dulcie Lawrence as Hester Stafford; Mr. Mansell Fane very creditably acquits himself as Leo Stanley (the great white chief); Miss Pollie Denville acts with a proper show of feeling as Latika. The other parts are in very good hands, and the mounting of the drama is excellent.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, the Barnsley Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Will Smithson.—Morris Cronin and troupe, in an original juggling act, head the bill; Stanley Waller is entertaining at the piano; Souplessi is an expert contortionist; Wylie's dogs go through their performance, in the absence of their trainer, in an amazingly clever manner; the Paolias are well received in their refined athletic act; Dunning is an exceptionally good ventriloquist; K. C. Note contributes songs with a swing; Kahn and Kahn, illusionists, whose tricks are smartly performed, receive rounds of applause. The Palacescope shows some good films.

BARNSTAPLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Bridge Trust; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—Mr. Herbert Greville's company were greeted most heartily on Monday when they presented Merely Mary Ann. In the title-rôle Miss Jessica Solomon admirably depicted the devotion of a lowly follower of the musical genius Launcelot, the latter part being undertaken with fine skill by Mr. Martin Rowland. Much of the success was shared by Mr. Stanley Logan, who, as the irresponsible Peter, infused just the right touch of comedy, and Mr. Robert Entwistle did well as the loquacious Vicar; Miss Violet Greville delighted the audience with the tribulations of the landlady, whilst the Misses Florence Ratcliffe, Lester Stephen, and Ethel Carlyle accredited themselves with distinction.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—The drama, For Her Husband's Sake, is this week's holiday fare, and is thoroughly appreciated. As Jack Seymour, R.N., Mr. R. Faulkner is all that could be desired; and the villain is effectively represented by Mr. Millar Anderson. Mr. Finn Doyle, Mr. Albert Rogers, and Miss Doris Lane brighten the play with clever impersonations. Camille was billed for Thursday and Friday.

HIS MAJESTY'S.—This theatre reopened on Bank Holiday with the production of the musical comedy, Florodora. Mr. Chas. Constant has assembled a well-balanced company, and the result is all one could wish, the enthusiasm of the audience being unbounded.

THE TIVOLI.—An excellent programme served up this week includes Selma Bratz, a lady juggler of exceptional merit; "The Ragman and the Piano" (Tony Iveson) is both clever and ludicrous. Large houses are the rule.

NEW HIPPODROME.—The up-to-date films which are reeled off rivet attention, and so long as this high quality is maintained this house may depend upon a big share of patronage. Katie Blanche is loudly applauded for her variety contributions.

BARRY DOCK. — THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—Her Nameless Child is being presented by Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company. Mr. J. W. Evelyn as Anthony Ford does the part full credit; Mr. Sydney Cranston gives a good portrayal of the son, Arthur Ford; Mr. Arthur E. Pringle ably enacts the rôle of Lord Woodville, and he is well assisted by Mr. Frank Thompson as Mongrole; Mr. Larry Clements as Jem Rivers proves himself a comedian of no mean ability; Miss Pattie Hastings plays charmingly as Phillis Ford; Miss Beatrice Brookes as Bessie Dover is very amusing, and other characters are well sustained by Misses Geraldine Verner, Mona Grey, and Renie Douglas.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Not for the first time, Mr. Charles Harrington's company is once again the August Bank Holiday attraction, presenting the ever-popular Uncle Tom's Cabin with all its old success and favour. Mr. J. Carr retains the character of Uncle Tom and Mr. Charles Harrington is once again seen as Phineas Fletcher, both gentlemen being as good as ever. George Harris is well portrayed by Mr. Cecil Austin Olgar; Mr. Walter Langford infuses much humour into the part of Marks; Mr. T. Bowron impersonates Legree with all the necessary harshness; Miss Hetty Johnson is good as Cassy; and Miss Hero Hathaway enacts Eliza Harris with due sincerity. Miss Kitty Bell makes a popular Little Eva, as also is Miss Annie Watson as the irrepressible Topsy. The long list of characters in the cast precludes individual mention, but in Act IV. a capital vaudeville entertainment is given by several members of the company with excellent and enthusiastic results.

PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Foremost in the bill are those astounding equilibrists and tumblers the Pasquali Bros., who meet with a rousing reception. Bains and Reed in their speciality act Humpsti-Bumpsti are likewise great favourites; Georgina Middleton is a first-class soprano vocalist; Lawrence Barclay gains much applause for his efforts to amuse; Takio, the Japanese mimic, is on a welcome return visit; and another turn that is cordially received is Alfonzo, equilibrist and tranka performer. Natalia and Diana do many clever and daring gymnastic feats; Edie Coolville is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux and Wright's orchestral selections complete a most enjoyable programme.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—Mr. Carl Fredericks provided excellent fare for the crowds that attended at the commencement of the week to revel in the outdoor attractions he had so liberally engaged, including the Royal Merrymakers' costume party, the Colonial Bioscope, the Bath Military Band, and a display of fireworks by Messrs. Penley.

BEDFORD. — ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—An enthusiastic audience was present at the above on Monday, when Mr. Douglas Bruce's company presented Walter Melville's drama, The Girl Who Lost Her Character. Mr. Harold Macartney had the sympathy of the audience with him as the Rev. Robert

Everton; and Mr. Edward McLean was the popular hero. Mr. Geo. H. Asquin as Dick Punch caused much hilarity, as did his partner, Miss Mary Poulton, as Isabella. Mr. Richard Ferris was the callous, wicked Captain Caversham, who, with his companion, Miss Lydia Mannington as Marian Franklyn, were repeatedly hissed. Miss Madge Morley, in the title-rôle, had a difficult part, and proved herself a clever actress. Miss Sybil Hare's captivating acting and charm of manner as Rose Seymour won all hearts.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—During the recess some structural alterations have been effected on the stage of this popular theatre, by which the management hope to further develop the scenic effects of companies visiting. Much of the interior has also been repainted and decorated, and Mr. G. Jansen, the clever resident artist, has executed a fine new act drop. The opening attraction was furnished by Miss Loie Esmond's company, in The Sorrows of Satan. Mr. Edward Neville appears to great advantage as Prince Lucio Rimanez, his acting being beyond reproach; Miss Rosie Neville acquitted herself admirably as Lady Sybil Elton, and, with Mr. Nevill, shared the honours of the performance. Congratulations are due to Miss Loie Esmond for her charming assumption of Diana Chesney; Mr. F. Douglas Howard's fine acting in the rôle of Geoffrey Tempest would be difficult to excel; Miss Hiliary Burleigh was a delightful Mavis Clare; and Miss Cecil Bryne was the lodging-house keeper to the life. Mr. J. Le Fleming acted with much distinction as the Earl of Elton; and other rôles were adequately presented by Messrs. Claude Casey, E. Ramsdale, E. Holland Day, and Fred White. The Green-Eyed Monster formed a capital curtain-raiser. Nana is also billed.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The chief feature of the programme here is provided by the clever Rio Brothers, who perform the most difficult gymnastic feats with remarkable skill; Mr. Harry Brown delights all with his comic songs and good dancing; Mr. J. G. Grahame, jun., and Miss Zerlina Harrington produce with much effect their clever little playlet, A Daughter of Pleasure; the Hiatts play a number of musical instruments to perfection; and Haig and Novel create much mirth with their smart comedy act. Mr. Charles Santon is a capital double-voiced vocalist and comedian and Miss Jessie Merrilees is a charming comedienne. The Palace pictures complete a fine programme.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fred Willmott and Will Sley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The chief attraction is provided by the Six Brothers Luck, who produce their original pantomimic sketch, entitled Lift 'Ems, which creates roars of laughter. Lawson and Namon appear in their cycling act and ball-punching performance, which is exceedingly smart; the Eight 'Varsity Girls gain a great reception for their well-rendered vocal items and first-class dancing; Mr. Walter Emerson returns with his funny songs, which take well; and Gala and Norris, in their musical duologue, appear to every advantage. Also here are Florence and Rose Showell, the popular duettists; Marco, a good illusionist; Hess and Lisbon, in their grotesque speciality; and the Hipposcope.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The star here is Mr. George Formby, the droll Lancashire humorist, who made a big hit on Monday with his funny songs; the Great Northern Troupe of international dancers exhibit much skill; and the vocal items of Miss May Mars have afforded the utmost pleasure; Miss Jessie Barlee and Mr. Phil Smith must be commended for their capital comedy act; and Bi-Bo-Bi, eccentric musician, is rewarded with a deserved recall. Miss Eva Daunton and Miss Cissie Curlette, comediennes, gain much favour with their charming songs; and the Bioscope exhibits the most up-to-date subjects.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—The animated pictures continue to be a great attraction here. Among the films exhibited this week are The Soldier's Wedding, Toothache, Little Flower Girl, A Sailor's Revenge, and Taming the Shrew. In addition, Mr. T. W. Royal, the marvellous clog-dancer, appears with every element of success; and the Lauri Bros., acrobats, do really marvellous feats.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—Miss Maud Hildyard's company commenced a six nights' engagement on Bank Holiday in The Great Awakening, the development of the plot being watched with keen enjoyment by a crowded audience. As Lola Selby Miss Hildyard handles an exacting rôle with consummate ability; Mr. Wallis Clark gives a powerful and realistic rendering of James Selby; Mr. Stephen Langton is well suited as Guy Rogan, an adventurer; and Mr. Cecil Gray doubles the parts of Sir Henry Merton, Bart., and Jack Merton, his son, with skill and effect; Mr. Dudley Wynton is a capable Captain Harry Lambert; Molly Merton is admirably impersonated by Miss Fay Garnet-Vayne; Mr. Rule Pyott is a good Billy Brass; and Selenio Worts is well represented by Miss Cissie Podmore. Other parts are in good hands, and the scenic effects are on a liberal scale.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. Whit Cunliffe, a volatile comedian, and an immense favourite here, is meeting with all his customary success; Mr. Harry Weldon, a versatile and amusing comedian, is also on a welcome return visit, repeating previous triumphs; and Frank and Jen Latona, musical comedians, are a prominent and attractive feature; Ethel Whiteside and her piccaninnies give a thoroughly enjoyable and clever entertainment; Miss Mayme Cannon is a comedienne of exceptional ability; Nellie Farrell, Irish comedienne, is received with acclamation; and liberal entertainment is also supplied by Lea and Kingston in A Resourceful Lover; Mr. David Poole, a smart ventriloquist; Mr. Josh Dixon, comedian and clog dancer; Miss Connie Mascot, comedienne and dancer; and the ever-popular Brown's Royal Bioscope.

Olympian Gardens, Rock Ferry.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Edwin Adeler.—The attractive vaudeville entertainments command extensive patronage. This week an excellent combination includes Harry Herbert, comedian; Lilian Barnes, comedienne; Reg Stephens, comedian; Aline Sudbury, soprano; Elfie Vincent, comedienne; Maynard Dakin, Pierrot-Mephisto; and Sullivan Brook, accompanist.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Silver King was secured for Bank Holiday here, and with Messrs. Polini and Melford's company has maintained its popularity during the week. Tears and applause in abundance have been evoked by the poignant portrayal of Nelly Denver by Miss Edyth Goodall; the trials and sufferings of Wilfred Denver are represented in a truly heart-reaching manner by Mr. Fred D. Davis; the Spider is made the most polished of scoundrels by Mr. Stanton Sharp, and his sleek and oily accomplice, Coombe, is presented to full advantage by Mr. Arthur Wright; the faithful servitor, Jaikes, is a lovable character as here portrayed by Mr. Edward J. George; and the company is also strong in Miss Kathleen Maude as Olive Skinner, Miss Louie Hale as Tabitha Durdan, Mr. Geo. Belmore as Corkett, Mr. Arthur H. Rooke as Ware, &c. Miss Flossie Hale Daviss and Master Eric Dene shine as Cissy and Ned.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Mr. Poppleton of Ippleton is here on its second visit to Birmingham with its famous representative, Mr. G. P. Huntley. Mr. Huntley is both ingenuous and ingenious in the rôle—delightfully so—and his return has been signalised by crowded houses and loud laughter and applause. The acting and singing of Miss Eva Kelly as the maid, Louise, leaves nothing to be desired by the most exacting; Miss Nellie Hodson sings the numbers and acts the part of La Bolero in the purest vein of comedy; Mr. Max Leeds is unceasing in his efforts to please as the brother, Norman; Mr. Tom May is exceedingly clever and smart as the manservant; Mr. Douglas Phillips renders the part of the singer, Jacques Kenyon, very successfully; Miss Cicely Gray has a very agreeable style with her as Violet Brinton; and the entire cast is very good.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Man and Wife has made a hit here with Messrs. Van Biene and Traynor's company. Mr. John F. Traynor's acting as Paul calls for the highest praise, and his popularity is beyond doubt; Miss Kate Hallam's conception of the fishergirl, Marcelle, is deeply enthralling, and her reception is great; Mr. Edward M. Hamilton puts in some sound, good acting as Captain d'Esparre; Messrs. Geo. Rammell and Ambrose Horton as Colonel Latour and Sergeant Jacques are both good in their respective styles; Messrs. E. Hall-Eldon and Geo. Vinning are splendidly humorous as the brothers Bimbo and Bambo; Miss Millie Doris is smart as Rosette; Miss Violet Temple appeals powerfully as Ruth; and Mr. Geo. Overs secures sympathy as Jean.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The Coal King is drawing crowded houses here with Mr. A. Clifton Alderson and company. Mr. Alderson's portrayal of Tom Roberts causes quite a sensation, the rescue scene in particular being most exciting. Miss Winifred Love infuses the full measure of graciousness and sympathy into the rôle of the heroine, Grace Shirley; Mr. Ulick Burke does well in the title-rôle, Hartford; Mr. George Hanbury as the reputed son (and villain), Walter Hartford, shows great skill; Mr. Frank Dalton gives an acceptable study of the submanager, Dick Shirley; Mr. A. J. Williams waxes eloquent and popular as the sturdy Seth Baker; Mr. Sam Roberts and Miss Max Hinton give undoubted pleasure in the comic parts Jim Williams and Araminta Green respectively; and Miss Joan Wellman makes a clever character of "Mad Ann."

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—A Lion's Heart is attracting full Bank Holiday houses with Mr. Joseph Bebb's company. Mr. Henry Bedford continues to win wide popularity with his thrilling study of Rizardo; Miss Ada Oakley brings the audience under her spell both as the mother and the daughter; Mr. Stephen Scanlan wields the villain's power as Gaspard Dobre with infinite skill, and scores big; Mr. Leonard Booker excels in the part of Lorimore; and Miss Florence Barnes, Mr. H. G. Brandon, Mr. Archie Helsby, Mr. Edward Lowrie, and the rest of the company enjoy the utmost success.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—The Love That Women Desire proves as potent as ever with Astonians, the author's (Mr. G. Carlton Wallace) own company being responsible for the performance. Miss Aimee Gratton Clyndes impersonates Sybil Thorburn with much feeling and power; Mr. Sydney Leyton is received very cordially for his ardent portrayal of the lover, Philip Carnaby; Mr. Morris Maud secures many tributes to his success as the villain, Richard Abingdon; Mr. J. O. Stewart is successful as Squire Abingdon; Miss Jessie Elvin acts with taste as Madge; and the Misses May Neilson, Violet Young, and Dorothy Northmore fill useful rôles.

Palace Theatre, Bordesley.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Saturday to Monday has set audiences here admiring and laughing by turns. The dresses and appointments of Mr. Fred Karno's popular extravaganza are rich and rare, and his company is of the best. Mr. Gilbert Childs as John Willie Jaggs is quite the most amusing of Benedicts; Miss Julie Bassett makes a most vivacious and alluring Clorinda Dobbs; Mr. Victor Crawford creates excruciating fun as John Willie, jun.; and the remaining "offsprings" are uproariously portrayed by Masters F. Dance and T. McDonagh; Miss Mary Young acts sweetly and is fair to look upon as Violet Perrin; Mr. Victor Smith is acceptable as the lover, Tom Freeman; Mr. Harry Fischer is prominent as Mr. Potts; and Miss Ada Maskell, Mr. E. Allandale, and a bevy of bridesmaids and other clever characters give realism to the performance.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Resident-Manager, M. Edward Foster.—The star here is Mlle. Celia Galley. Her Parisian style is pleasing, and her impersonation of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is excellent. A capital turn is done by Miss Arabella Allen, whose impersonations of Shylock and Little Nell's grandad are marvellous; Steward and Morgan have a big reception, their turn being exceedingly popular; Fred Lindsay is certainly a master of whip manipulation; the Sisters Meredith present a pot-pourri of dancing which is most effective; Greener and Fredkin's Imperial Russian Troupe sing and dance themselves into favour; and the Ten-Ji Troupe present some remarkable illusions. Dan Hendy and Helen Trix complete the bill, and the Marathon Race is effectively depicted by the Bioscope.

Empire Palace.—Resident Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Mark Sheridan is entertaining packed houses here, his wit and humour being loudly applauded. A feature of the programme is the "flying chest" trick which is presented by Oswald Williams; the Lyric Quartet are in fine form, and render their selections with success; George C. Doughty and Molly Laney have a bright and amusing sketch, A Woman's Way; and other prominent turns are done by the New York Nippers, Nellie Martell, the Narrow Bros., Harry Sims, and Jennie Johns.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Duchess of Tooting, presented by Sidney Bacon's company, is the holiday attraction here. This bright musical comedy is full of fun. Charles Parker's Six Æolians have a refined vocal and dancing act which is loudly encored; Ernest Montefiore and company appear in a good sketch The Little Colonel; Percy Farrimond is applauded for his songs, as also is Frank Cass; Harry Friskey is a smart American comedy juggler; and the Sisters Wingrove come in for a large share of applause.

Gaiety Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles Owen.—A prominent turn here is La Pia, described as an enchantress. Her dances are delightful and the scenic effects are good. The Lavails are really clever acrobats; Sable Fern is an old favourite, and is always sure of a welcome here; and Edie Gray and Boys, Billy Hobbs, Corona and Corner, and W. S. Dyke complete the company.

Curzon Hall.—Mr. Waller Jeffs opened his autumn season here to packed houses. The Bioscope depicts most of the latest events, and Dulcie Saunderson well supplies some illustrated songs. The Musical Palmers are an attraction, and their clever entertainment is better than ever; and Daisy Ailmer is applauded for her songs.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—During the close season the above theatre has undergone thorough cleaning process. The reopening on Bank Holiday brought a full house, and the variety turns, given by the Pardoes and their company, provided great enjoyment. The Pardoes met with every success. Mr. Harry Keeble did a clever ventriloquial turn; Fritz gave a wonderful illusionary performance; Messrs. France and Frances and Doyle and Gibson entertained in a remarkably clever manner; Zenith gave every satisfaction; and Mr. Wal Owen, in his comedy act, was equally praiseworthy. Miss Lottie Holland rendered her songs in good style; Miss Gladys Wells was effective in her chorus songs; and Mlle. Zelda was a success in her musical turn.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—When Knights were Bold, as enacted by Mr. James Welch and company, is proving a great attraction here for Bank Holiday week. Mr. Welch as Sir Guy de Vere is immense, and carries all before him; Mr. Vernon Saintsbury acts well as Isaac Isaacson, and Mr. Cecil Clayton plays Charles Widdicombe in exactly the right spirit; a capital Lady Rowena Eggington is supplied by Miss Audrey Ford; and all the other parts are in experienced hands. The Wrong Side of the Road forms a most acceptable curtain-raiser.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge again presents The Dairymaids here this week. This company is an admirable one in every respect, the acting, singing, and dancing, together with the dresses and scenery, are all that could be desired. Miss Phyllis Dare makes a charming Peggy, and Miss Edith Blanche is well suited to the part of Lady Brudenell; Mr. E. Statham Staples as Lieut. Brudenell, Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., as Lieut. Meredith, and Mr. Harry Dent as Joe Mivens merit the highest commendation.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The names of George Gilbey and Florrie Ford both appear in big type on the top line of this week's bill, and both artists meet with the most cordial reception at every performance. Other good turns are supplied by The Craggs, acrobats; Frank Sylvo, juggler; Gipsy Woolf, in a song-scena; Tambo and Tambo, tambourine spinners; Dave O'Toole, comedian, and George French, comedian.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—The Hypocrites opened to a good house on Monday, when the drama elicited the highest praise. In the part of the Rev. Edgar Linnell, Mr. A. B. Imeson gave a powerful and faithful impersonation that received hearty recognition; Miss Gladys Harvey, in the rôle of Rachel Neve, won much applause for an artistic performance; the Helen Plugenet of Miss Gladys Purnell was a distinct success; Lennard Wilmore, in the hands of Mr. King Fordham, was satisfactory; and the Mr. Wilmore of Mr. Alfred S. Barber was an able representation. To Miss Amy Ravenscourt every praise is due for a finished rendition of the part of Mrs. Wilmore.

The Hippodrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Doyle and O'Connell.—After a thorough renovation and decoration, a capital holiday programme was submitted to a crowded house on Monday. The pictures on view were most interesting, whilst the comedy act of De Vere and Dagmar aroused the hearty applause of the audience. Edith Corelli introduced some very clever dancing of a pleasing description.

The Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baugh.—The new management presented a strong bill for the opening night, when the programme included John Storm and Glory Quayle in The Veterans; Vera Mayne, comedienne; Sisters Bremner, international dancers; Harry King, comedian; De Lil, illusionist; Miss Omega, songstress; Hulbert, ventriloquist; and the Bioscope. At each house good audiences were present, and gave the artists a warm reception.

BOLTON. — Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. Alfred B. Cross and his company are this week presenting The Manxman. Mr. Cross as Pete, and Miss Minnie Watersford as Kate Cregeen, repeat with much success their clever impersonations of these parts, and they are ably supported by Miss N. Mitchell as Nancy, Mr. Fred Mace as Cæsar Cregreen, Mr. Sydney C. Kearns as Phillip Christian, other parts being suitably filled.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—An excellent Bank Holiday programme was given here by Alice Raymond and her Players, who appear in A Night in Egypt; the Melroses, vaudeville artists; the Saletos, in a marvellous and refined head- and hand-balancing act; Johnny Holland and Co., in a farcical absurdity, The Boat-builder; Ike and Will Scott, comedians; Eva Hope, versatile actress; Flo Hilton, male impersonator; Beau and Belle, in their novel scena, Past and Present; the Bob Hanlon troupe of sensational acrobatic somersault throwers; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOOTLE. — Muncaster Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Wilmott; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young.—The attraction for holiday week is the drama, Home, Sweet Home, by Frank Lindo, and played by the stock company. The staging of the piece is excellent. Mr. Albert Sember is to the fore as Stephen Armitage; and Miss Nina Vaughton is a charming Joan. Mr. Stanley S. Gordon plays Dick Redmayne with good effect; Mr. Cyril Grier is good as Duke of Ancaster; and Mr. Alfred Grenville is well placed as David Armitage. On the reverse side Mr. Alfred D. Adams is very powerful as Lucas Lyle; and Miss Kathleen Magee makes an excellent Lady Summerton. Mr. Tom H. Solly proves himself a capable comedian in his representation of Hon. Percy Ashfield; as also does Miss Effie Macintosh in her handling of Sybil Fay.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—The top of the bill this week is occupied by Maud Dennis, who is appearing in her sensational dance, "Salome," and gained much applause for her grace and beauty of movement. Another good item is a musical comedy, produced by Mr. George Dance, entitled The Burglar's Ball, which creates much merriment throughout. Mr. George Dance is also presenting another sketch, entitled The Local Amateurs, which is much appreciated. An acrobatic wire-walking and musical entertainment is provided by the Five Whiteleys, who display great cleverness; Daisy Wood is an immense favourite in her successful song, "Splash me"; Larry Lewis, a droll comedian, receives a warm reception; and Ella Stockelle proves herself a dainty comedienne. Madge Robertson's renderings of ballad songs are appreciated; and a series of illustrated songs is an agreeable extra turn. The Hippo. pictures conclude.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Mr. George Alexander's company opened here to an enthusiastic holiday audience on Monday in The Thief. Miss Marie Polini was most charming as Marise Chelford, and her portrayal of the part left nothing to be desired; as Richard Chelford Mr. Rupert Lister was thoroughly convincing; so, too, was Mr. Cyril Harcourt in the difficult part of Raymond Leyton. Mr. Owen Nares as Harry Leyton was quite at his ease in a character which fits him admirably; Miss Jean Cadell was quite successful as Isabel Leyton; while Mr. Luke Foster contributed a clever sketch of the detective Prothero. The production is an admirable one in every way. The piece is preceded by a one-act play, entitled Too Happy by Half, in which Mr. Charles King, Mr. Owen Nares, Mr. Bernard Stevens, and Miss Eileen Kerin were successful.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson. — Beautifully redecorated and brilliantly lighted, this house was reopened on Monday evening last by Mr. George G. Day's company, in Hall Caine's powerful play, The Prodigal Son. The realism of the scenes was finely brought out, and the piece, which is not new to Mr. Hart's patrons, had a very cordial reception. Mr. Albert Ward's clever rendering of the part of Oscar Stephensson was earnest and marked by real dramatic skill; Mr. H. J. Crane's Magnus Stephensson was an effort of sympathetic force and subdued strength; Miss Pauline Emeric was surpassingly good in the dual rôle of Thora and Elin; Miss Pearla Gardner acted consistently and with power as Helga Neilson; and Mr. Jackson Hayes as Stephen Magnusson, Mr. James English as Oscar Neilson, and Miss Violet Carrington as Anna Magnusson, also contributed largely to the success of the representation.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—A return visit of Mr. Fredk. Melville's company, in his strong drama, The Ugliest Woman on Earth, is the holiday attraction here, and the piece is again well received. In her impersonation of the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Homer acts with her accustomed power and skill, and she has able support from Miss Gertrude Harrison as the unscrupulous Rose Courtney and Mr. Philip Darien as Jack Merryman. The evil-disposed Hubert Gold is well represented by Mr. Leyton Chancellor; Miss Violet Masaree plays Morita effectively; Miss Nellie Jackson as Aggie Brown and Mr. Freddie Bentley as Tubby Herrick are responsible for much amusement; and the other members of the company contribute to the success of the drama, which is very finely staged.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—A good deal of interest centres this week around the visit of Mr. Laurence Irving, who is presenting, for the first time here, a new sketch concerning the domestic relations between a London street worker and his wife, entitled Feed the Brute. Mr. Irving's impersonation of the Cockney worker is a fine character-study; and Miss Beatrice Lett supports him well as Mrs. Pottle. In their clever musical comedy mélange, In Her Boudoir, Edward Lauri and May Beatty and company, are again appearing with much success; as "the slavey at the piano" Elsie Robey continues to amuse her audience; Tom Lloyd, comedian, sings some capital parodies; In "The Adventures of a Happy Tramp" Howard and Harris are vastly amusing with their dancing and acrobatic work; on the bars Stelling and Revell do some very clever and some very funny work; Rich and Rich are a pair of capital comedians; as a card manipulator, "the gay deceiver," Sydney Lee, is a past-master; David Stewart's songs are well sung and well illustrated; and there are some capital pictures shown by the Bioscope.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Owing to an accident to one of the Denwartz Troupe, which is reported elsewhere, their turn here this week is abandoned. There is a good programme notwithstanding, W. G. Wesley contributing good songs and patter, and Clifton and Gibson a comedy turn. Helen Martin, soprano, sings sweetly; a vocal scena by Lambert and Hands is effective; a duologue by Edwardes and Dacre, What a Life, contains good songs and patter; as the mountebank MacBunker Chas. F. Best does clever work as a contortionist; in a quaint comedy duo Kelly and Agnas dance well and provide capital comedy; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux are a very interesting feature of the programme.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Princes' Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Record crowds have been drawn to this popular resort during the holidays, and Mr. Norfolk Megone's promenade concerts have proved immensely popular. This week Mr. Thorpe Bates, a fine baritone, is gaining great praise. Monday was a gala night, and the splendid illuminations and Messrs. Pain and Sons' fireworks were a source of delight. In the Grand Pavilion, Miss Lily Shaw, the toy Vesta Tilley, is paying a return visit; Morimura, Japanese illusionist, is also a very clever turn; and the Flockton-Foster Entertainers continue to give capital programmes.

New Spa and Gardens.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—Herr Simon Wurm's Viennese Band are giving promenade concerts twice daily to large audiences. The vocalist this week is Mr. Dan Billington, the popular Yorkshire baritone, who is always encored for his admirably rendered songs. The animated pictures in the open air, at the end of the theatre, are a great treat to the large crowds which assemble, and the effect is far better than when shown inside. The Venetian Carnival and Confetti Battle is being repeated this week, owing to its popularity on the first occasion; and Mr. Tunbridge is to be congratulated on this new cause of attraction to the large gatherings which nightly assemble on the Spa.

Spa Opera House.—Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—A large and fashionable audience greeted the first appearance here of that talented combination, The Follies, who had a most hearty reception on Monday night. Miss Dollis Brooke, Miss Gwennie Mars, and Miss Ethel Allandale are a charming trio, and their various items showed each of them to be fully possessed of the true spirit of humour. M. Pellissier is a past master in the art of pleasing an audience; Mr. Lewis Sydney is a most humorous teller of funny stories; Mr. Norman Blume and Mr. Dan Everard are finished vocalists and actors; the trio, "Three old men," by Messrs. H. G. Pellissier, Lewis Sydney, and Dan Everard, with Miss Dollis Brooke as the nurse, being one of the cleverest bits of character-acting to be seen. For the last three nights of the week Mr. G. Bernard Shaw's play, You Never Can Tell, occupies the boards.

The Palace.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Delmar.—The Parisian animated pictures are proving a capital holiday amusement at Mr. Delmar's Palace and Winter Gardens, and the variety turns are being constantly changed to suit the pleasure of the patrons of this popular resort of the visitors.

Summer Gardens.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. Charles Beanland.—An amusing sketch, Fun on H.M.S. Mirthful, arranged by H. B. Esda, was produced here for the first time, and proved highly entertaining, and the amusing Hamleton's Diorama is a most laughable turn, which gives the members of the popular Waterloo Pierrots an opportunity for each member of the troupe to add to the amusement of the crowded audience drawn here every evening.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—The drama, Straight from the Shoulder, was produced here on Monday last, and is fully noticed in another column.

Alhambra.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—The holiday attractions here this week are excellent. Hamilton Ashbee Stewart's sketch, An Outside Chance, is submitted with complete success by Bellew and Stock's London company, Master Edward Garratt being especially effective; the Sousloffs are clever acrobatic dancers; Dora Lyric gives her songs in capital style; Eadie and Ramsden are smart in a comedy duologue, Charley's Visit; Albert Letine's faithful impersonations are well received; Mark Henton is a quaint comedian; Florence Esdaile is a pleasing operatic vocalist; Cissie Lupino dances admirably; Ernest Rees is a droll comedian; Dora Healy, comedienne, is distinctly effective; Walker and Lake are very amusing patterers; and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—There is a capital company here this week. Miss Kate Carney, supported by an able company, submits the musical sketch, The Yiddisher Boy, and wins enthusiastic applause; she is also heard in some of her best songs. The Three Meers are highly successful in their comedy wire act; the Berthos give a wonderful Parisian dancing turn; the Sisters Marion are good duettists; Miss Bertha Winder, "the dancing marvel," wins very hearty applause; Geoffreys and Benson are entertaining in their comedy duologue; Miss Kathleen Cogan, comedienne and dancer, merits warm praise; Gicardo is a clever young juggler; an extra turn is contributed by Mr. Harris, a capital comedian; and the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

West Pier.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company opened here on Monday with Mrs. Dot. Miss Decima Moore gave a delightfully charming and entertaining impersonation of Mrs. Dot; Mr. Frank Lacy was highly successful in his representation of James Blenkinsop; Miss Emma Hutchison acquitted herself admirably as Lady Sellinger; Miss Ethel Grahame made a very pleasing Nellie Sellinger; and Mr. James Geldred's Gerald Halstane, Mr. Philip Leslie's Freddie Perkins, Miss Celia Gordon's Miss Eliza Macgregor, and Mr. William Midgley's Charles merit cordial praise.

Palace Pier Theatre.—Miss Annie Hughes entered on Monday upon a month's season here, and submitted The Mollusc. She won the heartiest of appreciation with her thoroughly natural and convincing portrayal of Mrs. Baxter; Mr. Athol Stewart handled the character of Tom Kemp with great skill; Mr. Cecil Rose made the most of his opportunities as the husband; and Miss Lilias Waldegrave was charming and winsome as Miss Roberts. The whole performance proved highly enjoyable to the large audience.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs M. Barrasford; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Fred Bauer.—The animated pictures here are excellent and up to date, and prove highly attractive. The Olympic Races at the Stadium and the Marathon Race incidents are depicted; the Volunteers at Hollingbury Camp are represented by a realistic film; The Noble Jester and The Squire's Rights convey capital stories, and there is no lack of amusing pictures. Miss Violet Tulley contributes illustrated songs.

Hove Town Hall.—An excellent series of animated pictures is being exhibited here this week by the London Animated Picture Company. The amusing films included When the Devil Drives, The Electric Belt, The Old Mashers, The Fatal Sneeze, and The Modern Burglar. Scenes on a Battleship proved very interesting. Mr. George Lynton contributes illustrated songs in good style; and Mr. George Berry merits praise for his descriptive pianoforte accompaniments to the pictures.

BRISTOL.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—The military drama Second to None is being well performed this week by Mr. T. Edward Ward's company. The drama, by Walter Howard, is well staged, and particular mention must be made of the bright and effective uniforms and dresses generally. Mr. Theo Balfour acts with much dignity as Colonel Sir Reginald Greystone; Mr. Frederick F. Lloyd presents a fine and effective character study of the unpopular part of Captain Philip Mannering; Harry Wilding and Frank Wilding have good exponents in Mr. Leonard Williams and Mr. Charles Halling; Mr. J. G. Maine acts impressively as Sergeant Jack Horseman; Mr. Arthur D. Layland and Mr. Frank Austin do well in their respective parts of Lieut. Archer Ballater and Inspector Trueman; Miss Dorothy Clifton and Miss Mary Mallalieu are both admirable exponents of their respective parts of Nell Greystone and May Greystone; the comic parts of Norah, Joe Ruggles, and Private Flutter are capitally taken by Miss Clarrie Yandell, Mr. Allan Carruthers, and Mr. Louis Edmonde; and Mr. Eric Wilde makes the most of the small part of Private Bertie.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is here with the new version of The Christian, the play being staged in good style. Mr. Roy Redgrave presents an effective study of John Storm; Miss Daisy Scudamore is successful as Glory Quail; and Mr. Fowlass Llewellyn makes an earnest and dignified Father Lamplugh. Other parts are very carefully played by Mr. John T. Hooker, Mr. Wilfred Noy, Mr. Herbert Hewetson, Mrs. Harriet Russell, Miss Kitty Symons, Miss Cora Deane, Miss Stella Campbell, and Miss Florence Hunt. During the vacation a new and complete system of ventilation has been installed in the theatre, which on Monday evening appeared to be very effective in cooling the house, which naturally was packed from floor to ceiling.

Palace — Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Alan Holt's company heads the bill with an effective dramatic sketch entitled A Society Woman, which serves to introduce a sensational fight between a man and woman, and a general smash up of furniture, &c. Dan Whitley, comedian, obtains considerable applause; Rappo and Ella are clever gymnasts, &c.; Sid Cotterell and company score with a comic sketch, The Substitute; Terry and Bentley, comedy artists, are successful; Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian, does a good turn; D. W. Watson scores with his cornet and post-horn speciality; and the performance concludes with Vernon's animated pictures, including The Royal Visit to Bristol and In Time of Rebellion.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire. — King and Benson head the bill with a clever turn, the gentleman being a good tenor vocalist and the lady an expert step dancer. Kitty Colyer is an exceptionally clever speciality dancer and comedienne; Sidney Mason, Theresa Moore, and company present effectively a dramatic sketch, The Usurer; the Whittakers have a novel comedy act, Dick Whittington; Cyril Earle scores with the dramatic GIVEN AWAY.

ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE.

A WONDERFUL BOOK ON MONEY-MAKING.

Within the last few weeks there has been an overwhelming demand for a remarkable book dealing with a subject of absorbing interest, a subject that interests both young and old, rich and poor alike. This little volume does not ascend into the realms of visions; on the contrary, it tears aside the curtain that so often obscures our understanding of things, and it deals with plain, cold facts. It enlightens the man who is interested and instructs and informs the man who is ignorant.

This is not a book for the library shelf. It is a book to be read, and can be read by the young as well as the old. It will serve as a fund of information for the former and a source of inspiration to the latter. For every careful, thrifty man or woman it is one of the books that is essential. The subject of money-making by modern methods is fully explained, and, considering the invaluable nature of the information imparted, it is done in such a masterly manner that your interest is at its highest pitch from beginning to end.

This book, of which nearly two hundred thousand copies have already been distributed, will, for a limited period only, be sent free to all readers of this paper.

There is, of course, no telling how soon it may be impossible to procure further copies, and it would therefore be unwise to miss such an opportunity.

Write at once—to-day—and you will receive a copy by return post.

Simply send your full name and address (a post-card will do) to the publishers, Messrs. Arnold and Butler (Dept. 2,964), 124, Holborn, London, E.C. The Book will be sent you absolutely free of all cost, and you may keep it without incurring any obligation of any kind. [Advt.]

scena Dreams; Harry Cook, comedian, obtains applause; and Lucy Coventry is a pleasing comedienne and a clever dancer. The performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures.

ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS.—Superintendent, Captain Villiers.—August Bank Holiday fêtes attracted an immense gathering here. The variety entertainments were, as usual, under the direction of Mr. Tom Wood, the artists including Benno, hand jumper; the Valescoes, comedians; Marie Tilly, comedienne and dancer; the Two Wambos, musical comedians; Wright and Soho, eccentrics; Clifford and Clarke, negro knockabout comedians; Dave Wallace, comedian; and La Belle Lily and Albert, speciality gymnasts. There was the usual Country Fair, Tom Weymouth's band played selections and for dancing, and Wilders, of Birmingham, supplied effective fireworks.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—This theatre reopened on Monday to a big house with The Worst Woman in London, which appears to gain in popularity. Miss Sidney Crowe plays admirably the title-rôle; and the accomplice, Vincent Lyle, is well sustained by Mr. George Galsford. Mr. Herbert Skardon makes a fine Jack Felton; and a charming Ruth Milford is presented by Miss Dorothy Haigh. Mr. F. Vernon-Travers carefully portrays James Milford; Mr. Willie Scott as Bob Goldfinch and Miss Polly Marsh as Matilda Parker are the principal fun-makers. Among the chief character-studies are those by Mr. W. H. Monte as Hugh Drayton and Mr. Frank Litchfield as Philip Armstrong.

BURNLEY.—EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The chief attraction here this week is a pretty turn by Miss Zona Vevy and Max Erard, in which delightful singing predominates; the Cattanes Company are a troupe of smart acrobats, and the Sisters Geretti, double trapeze performers, are greeted with enthusiasm; the Brilliants give an admirable rendering of Suppé's work on xylophones, and Luigi Salvino is a youthful musician who plays on a variety of instruments; Andie Burns is a clever dancer, and the whirlwind dance of the Bros. Weltman brings forth high appreciation. The Empire Theatroscope concludes.

PALACE THEATRE AND HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Machnow, the Russian giant, is the draw here this week; Little Dando, dwarf comedian, who also appears in conjunction with Machnow, thoroughly amuses the house with songs, and the Bouncing Dillons are responsible for roars of laughter with their bouncing competition; the Four Juggling Geraldos perform some clever and neat tricks, and Gold and Sterling, the Welsh Girl and the Artist, provide a very refined turn; Albert St. Clair is encored for double-voiced vocalism, and Mabel La Blanche is good in song. The Professor's Discovery is the title of the picture by Raymond's Bio-tableaux, and the Twin Sisters Edwardes are good vocalists and dancers.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. De Hague Body.—This theatre was reopened on Monday by Mr. Geo. Alexander's capable company, with The Thief. Dramatic intensity, interspersed by delicate touches of humour, mark the scenes between Mr. Stephen Ewart (Richard Chelford) and Miss May Congdon (Marise), the warmth and frequency of recalls testifying to a highly-appreciative audience. Mr. Gerald Ames is tenderly sympathetic as Raymond Leyton; the rôle of the stepmother is played with natural ease and grace by Miss Mary Dibley; the suffering of the wrongly-accused Harry Leyton is pathetically depicted by Mr. Alfred Lugg; while that astute detective, Mr. Protheroe, has a clever representative in Mr. Cyril Cattley. The piece is preceded by an amusing one-act play, Too Happy by Half, in which Miss Irene Leonard, Mr. Percy Marmont, and Mr. Alfred Lugg appear to advantage.

BURY (Lancs).—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—After being closed for a short season this house reopened on Monday with a variety programme. Paul Spadoni, gladiator and juggler, and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lucas, entertainers, are the star turns; excellent shows are also given by Stowe Bros., equilibrists; Avolos, in a novel performance on upright poles; the Merrions, musical entertainers; Bros. Obo, comedians; Dot Stephens, vocalist; and Edward Davies, late tenor Carl Rosa Opera Company.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The animated pictures are again very enjoyable. They include Napoleon and the English Sailor, Little Savoyard, Lady Doctor's Husband, Students' Jokes, The Gipsy's Revenge, Happy Bob as a Suitor, &c. The variety is supplied by Florence Aylwin and F. S. Hulme, vocalists.

BUXTON. — OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors, The Buxton Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—On Bank Holiday Miss Lena Ashwell and her full London company opened for a three nights' engagement with Diana of Dobson's. There was a full house on Monday evening, and the play was received with rapturous applause. Miss Ashwell, in the name-part, was delightful, and particularly in the serious scene with the Hon. Victor did she raise the audience to great enthusiasm. Miss Francis Ivor acted with great tact as Mrs. Cantelupe; and Mr. W. Lemon Warde was satisfactory in his small part of the Waiter. Miss Gertrude Scott played effectively as Mrs. Whyte Fraser; and an admirable study of the self-made man was submitted by Mr. Dennis Eadie. The Hon. Victor was excellently played by Mr. C. M. Hallard; and the "old woman," by Miss Beryl Mercer, was a capital bit of work. Mr. Norman McKinnel had not much to do as the Policeman, but he certainly did it well. The play was admirably staged and dressed. For the remainder of the week we had Miss Marie Studholme in My Mimosa Maid.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—On Monday night Mr. Redford opened his autumn season with a choice selection. Her Love Against the World is being presented for the first time in Cardiff, by Mr. W. H. Hallatt and Walter Howard's principal company. This stirring romantic play has been accorded a splendid reception by a huge holiday crowd, the drama proving a great attraction. Mr. Walter Howard appears in the all-important part of the Earl of Strathmere, and a finer portrayal of the rôle could not possibly be imagined, the representation being extremely powerful. Quite as successful is Miss Grace Heywood, whose impersonation of Princess of Idalia stamps her as an actress with rare histrionic ability. Miss Rossie St. John charmingly delineates Lionel; while Mr. Lewis Gilbert is a capable Prince Ravensburg. Miss Nellie Fletcher, a well-known Cardiff lady, appears in the rôle of "the villainess," and is accorded a hearty reception. The other rôles in the large caste are in exceptionally good hands, and the piece is capitally played all round and excellently mounted.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—A welcome return visit is made by Bella and Bijou, in their latest répertoire, including that extremely funny sketch, The Suffragette. This visit has greatly enhanced their popularity, and their fresh songs and business have been more appreciated than ever. A clever turn is that of the Gregory Troupe in a marvellous exhibition of hoop-rolling and juggling, their performance being startling for dexterity and precision; Little Zola is a comedian of much merit, his patter causing considerable merriment; an exceptional canine entertainment is Reichen's dogs, which give a fine example of animal-training; the Lyric Mummers are clever operatic duologue artists; while the Four Jumels contribute a pleasing musical act. Others on the bill are Phil W. and Nellie Peters, comedy entertainers; Agnes Tina, comedienne and mimic; Jeannie Mackay, comedienne; and the American Bioscope.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—A strong holiday programme has been put forward at the popular Palace, and packed houses have testified to the appreciation of visitors for the Westgate Street house. The artists contributing this week are Annie Schuberth, in an original song scena, entitled The Deputy; the Pichel Family of risley acrobats; Frank Seeley, the popular comedian; the Three San Remo Girls, comediennes and dancers; Bayne and Hope, in a costume episode, An Emperor's Divorce; Harry Cotton, the eccentric comedian; the Woodwards; and the Sisters Bronson; with Raymond's Bio-Tableaux to complete.

CARLISLE.—H.M. THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—The Power of the Cross is being presented by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. Mr. George A. de Gray, the author of the piece, appears as Curzola, a mysterious character, which requires careful handling. Mr. de Gray is to be congratulated on the success of his performance, which was able and powerful throughout many trying scenes. Mr. Robert Hall as George Fairfax proved himself a sound and capable actor. His drunken scene was one of the hits of the piece. Miss Annie Hylton gave a quiet and artistic impersonation of Margaret Seaton; and Miss Stella Carmichael's fine appearance and clever acting as the adventuress made her hosts of admirers. The comedy relief, in the hands of Mr. Tyrone Power and Miss Etta Turner, was very effective, and warmly welcomed. The other characters were all played with skill, and the scenery and dressing of the piece caused favourable comment.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Morgan.—Mr. Charles Fisher's comedy opera company, who top the bill this week, made an immediate success. Their singing and acting was notable for refinement, skill, and a fine appreciation of the characters portrayed, and the enthusiastic applause which greeted their efforts was certainly well deserved. The Sisters Cora, on a return visit, are again a big success; Miss Mary Ambrose has a fine appearance, and sings catchy songs with delightful vivacity; A. G. Spry is a comedian with a quaint eccentric style, which creates roars of laughter; Eugene Zoly's cornet playing is a strong and popular feature of the bill; the Babusio Brothers introduce many new and clever tricks in their acrobatic act, and meet with a particularly cordial reception; McDonald and Huntington contribute a turn which is immensely popular. Their wonderfully nimble dancing is their strong point.

NEW PUBLIC HALL. — Lessees, Messrs. F. W. Bolam and Sydney Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Uden.—A capital bill of fare is provided for the holiday week by the Edison Animated Picture Company. The principal pictures—The Dusky Princess and A Dash for Liberty—are very much admired. The varieties sustain a high order of merit.

CARMARTHEN.—ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietors, Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—For three nights this week Messrs. Neville and Carnaby's company appeared at the above rooms, and presented, with great success, the comedy drama, English Hearts, the romantic play, Napoleon's Divorce, and the comedy drama, The Silent Witness. Mr. F. H. Neville and Miss Veronica Clinton impersonated the principal characters most effectively, and were ably supported by a powerful company.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman, J.P.—For the reopening of the dramatic season Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Draycott and company produced on Monday The Shadows of a Great City to a crowded audience. Mr. Chas. Draycott is excellent as the thief, Jim Farren, a part which gives great scope for powerful acting and humour; Mrs. Chas. Draycott is natural and pleasing in the dual rôle of Annie and Nellie Standish; the Irish girl, Biddy Roonan, is amusingly played by Miss Louise Millward, who infuses a large amount of fun and "go" into the character; Mr. George Steel achieves an unqualified success as the hero, Tom Cooper; Mr. George Arthur paints a telling picture of the villainous Geo. Benson; and Mr. Chas. H. Herberte is sufficiently smart and abrupt as Detective Arwright. Messrs. Wilfred J. Short and Robert Sawin are typical P.C.'s and warders.

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson. — Two large audiences again assembled here on Bank Holiday to witness a further display of a new and up-to-date series of animated pictures, as projected by the Loyal Dominion Co. By way of variety, Miss Amina Rinder, a contralto, with illustrated songs, wins deserved applause; and Charles Lestree, a clever juggler, is very successful.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—Excellent audiences assembled here on Bank Holiday to witness another of Frederick Melville's companies, in one of his dramas, entitled Her Road to Ruin, which is put on in very good style. Miss Eva Moss makes quite a hit as Jess Willoughby, her sister May having a sweet little representative in Miss Alice Bowes; Miss Marie Wright scores throughout as Jennie Crackling; and other parts are in good hands.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—The Seven Ducos Perizoffs top the bill here, and give a particularly smart juggling act, under the title of An Animated Super at Maxim's; with a song, "Turn Round," and some pert patter Nat Watkins makes a hit; Daddy's Boy is performed by Miss Florence Creagh and company in a very creditable manner. Others appearing are Blanche Newman, comedienne; Harry Milton, Dutch comedian and dancer; Shirley and Ransome, in 'Arf a Quid; and Hughes and Carney, comedians; while Mr. Lacey's Erascope projects fresh and up-to-date films.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. E. G. Woodhouse.—The popular proprietor has a good holiday programme, including a condensed version of The Daughter of the Regiment, staged by Mr. Ernest Charles Gittens and company; Van Allen, the tramp musician; Thelma de Naal, violinist; Lily Butler, low comedy artist; Leonard Gorney, transformation dancer; Duncan and Godfrey, the well-known entertainers, in Me and 'Er and the Baby; and Mabel Sinclair, ventriloquist, on a welcome return visit.

CHESTER. — ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The Eight Stella Girls occupy the top position here; in song and dance they succeed in winning golden opinions. Jack Hayton is a smart clog-dancer; the Three Comedy Chanters render admirably several part-songs, have some smart fooling, and one of the trio gives proof of his versatility by playing "Sweet Adeline" as a cornet solo; the Elsa Satanella Trio appear as vocalists and acrobatic dancers; Zellini, a very funny eccentric juggler, creates roars of laughter with his smartly-worked show; the Imperial Ju-Jitsu Wrestlers (Jack Madden and Tom Pearse) give an exhibition of this interesting form of wrestling. A word of praise is due to the lecturer who introduces this item. Florrie Thurston is an able comedienne and dancer. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope is still featured.

CLACTON-ON-SEA. — WESTCLIFF GARDENS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Graham Russell and Bentley. —The holiday crowds at this popular place of entertainment have been exceptionally large. The efforts of the trio of comedians Bert Graham, Bernard Russell, and Will Bentley are highly appreciated. Miss Emily Hayes, soprano, Mr. Walter Montague, raconteur and musical crank, and Mr. Fred Vallance, the West of England mystery man and ventriloquist, also appear.

PALACE-BY-THE-SEA.—Managing-Director, Mr. P. W. Willard.—The following artists are appearing, and all do well in their respective turns: Virto, in his refined musical act; Harry Bent, humorist and mimic; Eugeine Bolond, contralto; Kenneth and Kane, the comedy duo; Miss Vera Patey, "the summer girl"; Fields and Lewis, burlesque artists; Alice Maple, comedienne and dancer; the Sisters Reno, transformation dancers; and Cumminger and Collonna, sand-dancers. The Palascope shows some fine films.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Harold Montague; Business-Manager, Mr. G. Ivor Sparke.—Harold Montage and his Vagabonds are still here, and are as popular as ever. The company give their usual refined entertainment, in which all the artists appear to great advantage.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—The attraction for the Bank Holiday week is Mr. Louis Calvert's production, Sunday, under the direction of Mr. J. Norman Walter, and on Monday night it was received with every show of delight. The title-rôle was undertaken by Miss Marjorie Murray in a manner which evoked frequent and spontaneous applause; Mr. William Giffard portrayed the part of Col. Brinthorpe in a suave and polished manner, and fully shared in the honours bestowed; Mr. J. Norman Walter enacted the rôle of Tom Oxley in an easy and confident manner; Mr. Alec Alves showed marked cleverness in the more stirring episodes as Jacky; and Mr. James Skea gave a capital glimpse of Western life as Towser. Mr. James Hussey was amusing as Lively; and Mr. A. C. Holmes looked well as Davy. The piece was admirably mounted, and won much approval.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The premier turn in the holiday programme is Fred Russell, with his automaton, Coster Joe, and his show is a great success; Christmas Eve, a midnight episode, enacted by Irve Hayman and Little Marie Montague, is capitally written and admirably portrayed; Percival, the comedian-pianist, is a genuine treat; Morrin and Cardiff shine as comedians and speciality dancers; Hetty Oehms, an attractive lady conjurer, performs in a creditable manner; and Lena Leslie, in fetching attire, is bright and tuneful.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarence. —Mr. Chas. H. Lester and his company are supplying the holiday attraction here, with the emotional drama, A Life for a Life. In the rôle of Don Leo Fernandes Mr. Chas. H. Lester plays with excellent taste; and as Pedro Li Calci Mr. Chas. Yorke is sufficiently villainous. Mr. Chas. Osborne is an able John Evelyn; and as the hero, Kit Oswald, Mr. Harry T. Wood plays with commendable ability. Miss Dorothy Ridelle is a charming Kate Evelyn; and as Vanetta Little Irene is deserving of special mention. Miss Beatrice Anderson in the part of Eulalie proves herself an accomplished actress.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—An interesting piece is at this house, in The Lancashire Lad, written and produced by Mr. G. Carlton Wallace. Some splendid scenes are witnessed, one being a clever representation of Blackpool pier. David Elmore, a Lancashire lad, and the hero of the piece, is forcibly represented by Mr. Alec Alexander; while as the villain, Max Carlton, Mr. G. T. Vain, deserves credit; Miss Stanley Burt acts charmingly as Jessie Wincote; Miss Nell Oliver is very successful as Lorna Wincote; and very interesting and funny is the character of John Willie Wardle, the village carpenter, by Mr. Bob Anderson.

HIPPODROME THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lennox Barry.—The Riogoku Family is one of the cleverest troupes of acrobats ever seen; the Selbinis, the trick cyclists, perform some very clever feats, which are much appreciated; Harwood's Juveniles give a good vocal scena, entitled A Children's Christmas Eve; they also dance very well. A skilful trio of acrobatic dancers are the Three Amaranths. Other artists who submit attractive turns are Selby and Myers, dancers, &c.; Goodfellow and Gregson, entertainers; Evelyn Taylor, and Millie Howell. The Bioscope pictures show the great Marathon Race.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. George Dance; Manager, Mr. K. Draco. — Following a fortnight's vacation for renovating, &c., this popular house re-opened on Monday night to a large holiday crowd, and a good programme is enjoyed, one of the chief items being a dramatic sketch, entitled Told in a Flat, played by Harry Rogers and company. The Picchiani Troupe are a very clever set of acrobats, the chief work falling upon the lady members; Sados is a juggler quite above the ordinary; Ouida Macdermott, as a vocal actress, gives some good songs; Harry Mary Hemsley is a child impersonator and caricaturist. Other turns are Yolande Noble, comedienne; Bros. Lester, duettists and dancers; Steve Bartle, concertina soloist.

CREWE.—OPERA HOUSE (late LYCEUM THEATRE). —Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Howard.—On Monday evening this place of amusement was successfully re-opened by the new lessee and manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett, who is running it in conjunction with his other theatres, the Shakespeare, London; Opera House, Conventry; and Opera House and Hippodrome, Burton-on-Trent. The interior of the building has undergone a vast transformation during the close season, having been re-modelled, re-carpeted, and elegantly embellished in red, white, and gold. Two boxes have been added, and the electric lighting effects add to the general brilliancy of the house. No expense has been spared to make his patrons perfectly comfortable, and good houses should be the order of things this week. A capital programme is being run twice nightly, and includes the Idento Brothers, comedy jugglers; Lena Scott, on the silver wire; Robert Yelding, novel equestrian act; Leo Bertro, with his marvellous midget pony, on the revolving table; Rolla, queen of the rolling globe; Little Sid, with his educated pony, Little Joey; Zasma, society gymnast; Knoto, contortionist; Franco-British Clowns; and great wrestling match on the Bioscope, Hackenschmidt v. Rogers.

CROYDON.—HIPPODROME AND NEW THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. Jackson Hayes; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Samuel James and Newman Maurice.—The following are here this week: Miss Carlotta de Yonson's company, in Crime and the Criminal, the Roxbys, Kitty Willis, Harry Lynx, Victoria Wright, Sisters Thorne, Guest and Newlyn, and animated pictures are shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hal Cummings.—Mr. James Bell's company opened the above, after cleaning and decorating, with The Idol of Paris. Miss Annie Bell (Mrs. James Bell) as Flare-Flare excels in the part, and greatly pleased the audience; Mr. Gordon Robey as Prince Serglus Zoresky gives a powerful rendering; as Philippe D'Esterre Mr. Wilson Howard submits a creditable performance; Mr. C. R. Kilbourne as Gustave Langlois is well up to the mark; Mr. Chris Roberts as Theo. Decline is thoroughly suited; Mr. R. J. Hamer is good as Guillame; and Mr. Henry Hare as Victor Cashelle is convincing; Miss Annie Megson gives a capable portrayal of Ann; Miss Phena Powell as Mme. Sansterre does well; and Miss Grace Noble as Olympe Sotage meets with much approval.

NEW HIPPODROME, LTD. — Managing-Director, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Hersee.—An excellent bill this week is headed by H. O. Wills, comedian, and his bright and breezy manner delights the audience; Lowenwirth and Cohen, Hebrew comedians, are heartily received; Thomas and Taylor, in their quick-change scena, are very smart; other items are furnished by Maggie Walsh, singing mill-girl; Clive Watts, eccentric dancer; Hartley Wonders, in their jumping; and the Kyasyas, in their dental novelty. The Pepiscope is also an attraction.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Langley Wyatt.—An excellent holiday programme this week is headed by Nellie Wallace, whose inimitable eccentricities cause much hearty laughter, and gain her all-round approbation; Francis Gerard, a juggler of the strong man order, gives a unique and sensational performance; Leslie Clare and company are responsible for a clever little comedy sketch, entitled, Wanted, a Wife; Tennis and Laune are clever vocal comediennes; Trentanovi Sisters submit a daring gymnastic act; Wat Tyler appears to advantage in a dramatic scena; Ernesto is a skilful juggler and musical equilibrist; and Gertie Moore is a pleasing comedienne and dancer. The Bioscope concludes a highly satisfactory entertainment.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Herbert J. Taylor.—A thrilling drama, entitled Wanted by the Police, is being presented here this week by Mr. S. James's company. As Philip Stanhope Mr. Samuel James figures prominently all through, and he is greatly assisted by Miss Helen Vigors, as Mrs. Stanhope; the villain is capably represented by Mr. Wilfred Cheetham; and Mr. Fred W. Grahame, a clerk, and Miss Ethel Bateman, a servant, are responsible for the comedy element.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Adverse climatic conditions apparently have no effect on the attractiveness of Mr. James Hare's company in A Destroyer of Men, judging by Monday's house. Tragic and humorous incidents are delightfully intermingled, the whole production running with perfect smoothness. Mr. J. Hare impersonates the dual parts of Herr Runz, an Austrian detective, and Karl Mischla, an exile, in commendable fashion; Mr. Edmund O'Grady is well suited to the part of Coo Tatchoski, and Miss Irene Clifford does well as Olgo Mischla; Mr. Fred Marston has a fine mien and bearing as Count Storevitch, Chief of the Servian Police; and Miss Bessie Frank is a vocalist of promise and ability.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company has entertained large audiences here this week with capital representations of The Old Folks at Home. Mr. Henry Nelson and Miss Sarah Santley handled the rôles associated with the title in a manner which earned for them general favour; Mr. Frank Liston as Lord Howard Kenilworth achieved great success; the part of the unhappy heroine, Dorothy Robin, was enacted with great ability by Miss Maud Warburton; Mr. Frank Caffrey as Ben Jolly was witty and amusing. Characteristic renderings were given by Mr. Aidan F. Lovatt as Andrew Ross, the hero; Mr. Vernon Proctor as Hugh Lovell, a painter; and Mr. Arthur Dudley as Jock, a hunchback. The drama is well staged.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Hemming; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—Mr. H. B. Irving and Miss Dorothea Baird have appeared in Douglas this week, in The Lyons Mail, Charles the First, and The Bells, and their artistic success has been indisputable. Mr. H. B. Irving's creation of Lesurques and Dubosc, in the first-named piece, has fairly caught the public. It is fine acting —strong, virile, imaginative. Miss Dorothea Baird as Janette was deeply pathetic; Mr. Eric Maxon as Courriel was quite successful; and Mr. C. Dodsworth's Choppard added to the ensemble of the production. Miss Phyllis Embury played gracefully as Lesurques' daughter, Julia; Mr. Arthur Curtis's Joliquot was of value; and the old Lesurques of Mr. Frank Tyars was quite in the picture. The engagement is a feather in the cap of the management.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—The Gay Gordons, with Mr. Seymour Hicks, has attracted large audiences to the Gaiety Theatre. It is much to be regretted that Miss Zena Dare was unable, through illness, to appear as Peggy, but Miss Ashe made a charming substitute; Mr. Johnny Danvers was quaintly funny as Nat, the showman; Miss Madge Vincent proved herself an actress of talent and resource. The production is quite perfect, and the general consensus of public opinion in Douglas is that The Gay Gordons is a show to be seen.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain. —In the grounds The Gems, an artistic troupe of entertainers, present a delightful al fresco show; the Bioscope, with the latest films, attracts. The Opera House has for its punctuated attraction Mr. Ernest Shand, also Professor Norton, who performs some adroit card tricks; Farr and Farland are experts on the banjo; Miss May Newell sings ballads with expression; the Violas, in an interlude of telepathy, are interesting; a humorous sketch, The Would-be Actors, is smartly enacted by Miss Lillian Rosseberry, Mr. Albert Mason, and Mr. Carter Livesey.

DERBY CASTLE.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.—Miss Hetty King is the principal feature here this week, and is greatly popular; the Villons give a very clever acrobatic turn; Alcide Capitaine is a graceful gymnast; Dale and O'Malley are quaint and original patterers; and Miss Helen Charles presents an amusing interlude at the piano.

Other attractions in Douglas are the Hippodrome, with Mr. P. G. Connor as chief; Mr. Fred Buxton's Pierrots and Tea Gardens, on the promenade; Mr. Charles Dare's minstrels, at the Empire; and Messrs. Adeler and Sutton's minstrel combination, with Mr. Malcolm Scott as the accentuated drawing-power, on Onchan Headland.

DOVER.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter.—Charcot and his automatic man, who top the bill, give a very interesting performance, while the Gypsy Girls, another star turn, display their well-trained voices in a pleasing harmony scena; Le Groe is an entertaining humorist at the piano; Fred Hallam is an amusing comedian; and the programme also includes A Daughter of the Revolution, a highly dramatic sketch, presented by Miss Georgette Thierry and company; Eugene and Willie, acrobatic musical artists, who are well received; and Dorothy Sephton, with catchy chorus songs.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr. Fred Holt.—A musical act of exceptional ability is presented this week by the Four Cecilians; Della Sisters, the ladies in black, have a very novel turn, and much laughter is won by the Bretons (Dolly and Arthur), with their burlesque Saved from a Watery Grave; Madge Daly is a comedienne with a fascinating style; the Sisters Varley are excellent vocalists; and Johnny Worman and Sam Williams are a couple of comedians who give distinct and highly amusing turns.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. M. Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—At the re opening here on Monday night a large audience was present to witness Mrs. Ponderbury's Past, as presented by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Mr. George Mudie got a great reception for his clever and droll assumption of Mr. Ponderbury, and the rôle of Mrs. Ponderbury was filled in an eminently satisfactory manner by Miss Annie Stalman; Mr. Drew Mackintosh supplied a capital representation of Mr. Mervyn Thorpe, and Miss Florence Wix gave a good account of herself as Mme. Polaca Modjeski; Mr. Charles A. Staite ably sustained the part of Hyacinth Grayling, and Miss Madge Elswick depicted the rôle of Lady Baring to every advantage; Capt. John Rumford was successfully assumed by Mr. George Child, and Miss Florence Wellesley was excellent as Ethel Penniston; Mr. H. Burns won credit as Sir Rover Baring; and other smart impersonations were those of Messrs. James Michael, Alfred Ibberson, and Blarney. The one-act comedy, His Landlady, preceded, and was well received.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—Mr. William Greet's principal company in The Sign of the Cross is drawing large audiences. In the rôle of Marcus Superbus Mr. Cyril Austin Lee gives a powerful and realistic performance, and Miss Constance Little distinguishes herself greatly by an artistic portrayal of Mercia; as Tigellius and Licinius Ædile Messrs. Charles Aldred and J. Weatherall are both good in their respective parts, and Miss Cissie Carlton is most effective as Dacia; Nero has a capable representative in Mr. C. Yorke, and Miss Lily Ward cleverly enacts Berenice; Mr. Walter Fleet as Flavius and Mr. Clifford Yates as Titus are also to be commended, while Miss Edith Drayson successfully fills the rôle of Stephanos; Glabro and Philodemus have excellent exponents in Messrs. Frank Wood and Harry Jones, and Messrs. H. Thurston Harris and G. W. Ruff make the most of the parts of Servilius and Strabo.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. S. Pearse; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Hereford Jones.—A number of excellent films are well enjoyed by full houses. A good variety programme is also presented, and includes Norman and Belle, a capital pair of duettists and dancers; Tom Walters, a humorous comedian, whose songs are in great demand; Fred Wallace, in a smart ventriloquial turn; and Bob Pearson, the popular vocalist and guide.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Truly Shattuck, a talented and refined American comedienne, occupies a prominent position here this week, and meets with a cordial reception; in a smart musical comedy turn the Barton and Franklyn Trio are very successful, and Henry A. Moore, a clever actor and mimic, is deservedly applauded; Miss Carlotta Levey, a charming comedienne, who is no stranger here, obtains considerable applause, and Wright and Elton, in their speciality act, The Lady Artist, elicit much laughter; a highly enjoyable item is contributed by Joan Deering, vocalist and violinist; George Payne, eccentric comedian, is nightly recalled; and as an instrumentalist Willman obtains appreciation. The pictures are, as usual, up-to-date, and the Empire Tournament completes a good bill.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The Lorch Family of risley performers provide the star turn here this week, and are enthusiastically applauded; Barney Armstrong is as funny as ever, and scores heavily, and La Belle Helene, in a juggling act on the rolling globe, submits a capital turn; Jock Campbell is a highly diverting comedian, and Effie White, kaleidoscopic dancer, wins applause; Archie Pitt, with good songs and patter, Adkin, in a smart ventriloquial turn, Corelli, in A Lesson in Magic, and Eva Reed, an excellent comedienne

About six weeks ago I was suffering with

PIMPLES

ALL OVER MY FACE,

brought on probably by painting my face for my eccentric business. I was also suffering with SCURF IN THE HAIR. Being rather alarmed, I asked a friend's advice, and he recommended me to take "Clarke's Blood Mixture." I purchased a 2/9 bottle, and within a week I found marked improvement. The pimples and the scurf is entirely gone. I cannot tell you how thankful I am at having taken "Clarke's Blood Mixture," and I shall recommend it to everybody, as I think it only right that such a remedy should be known.—(Signed) JOHN HENRY JONES, known as "Little Johnny," Llandudno's Popular Comedian, Thorndale, Llandudno, Feb. 24, 1908.

VANISHED LIKE MAGIC,

and dancer, are also in the bill, and the Bioscope shows an amusing picture entitled Magnetic Removal.

Pavilion (Kingstown).—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—Fielding and Hull, musical comedy entertainers, score a decided success; Miss Nell Emerald is warmly applauded for her excellent singing and dancing; Tom Evans, baritone, renders his songs in good style; Marriott Edgar, comedian, has established himself a favourite, and the genial manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott, and Mr. Bernard Knox, pianist, also contribute to a capital entertainment.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The programme here includes:—John Conley, comedian and dancer; Menetta and Ford, comedy duo; Will Titman, lady impersonator; Eva Searle, comedienne and dancer; Harry Dandy, eccentric comedian; James Murphy, comedian and dancer; and the Cinematograph.

EASTBOURNE.—Pier Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—During the week an exceptional attraction is offered here, where Mr. Arthur Bouchier and his company, including Miss Violet Vanbrugh, are appearing. On Monday evening a new one-act play, entitled Admiral Peters, by W. W. Jacobs and Horace Mills, was staged for the first time, and this was followed by The Bishop's Move. In this the calm, benign manner and the placid, penetrating style of Mr. Arthur Bourchier made his performance as Bishop Ambrose a popular and artistic triumph; Miss Violet Vanbrugh, too, as the Duchess of Quenton played with a grace, charm, and distinction which held the keenest interest of the audience; Miss Mary Weigal did clever work as Mrs. Hericourt; and Miss Winifred Bateman was a pleasing, girlish Barbara. Mr. Bertram Forsyth was a handsome and duly-restrained Francis; Mr. Arthur Whitby undertook the part of Monsignor Campden with clearness and cleverness; and as the brothers Hilary and Martin Mr. William Burchill and Mr. Stafford Hilliard were competent assistants. On Monday afternoon The Gutter of Time, a duologue, by Alfred Sutro, was performed for the first time.

Devonshire Park Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Mr. Leonard Boyne and his excellent company are appearing here, on a return visit in Raffles. Mr. Leonard Boyne as the cracksman plays with an earnestness and realism which make his work as Raffles conspicuously successful and interesting; Mr. Arthur Willoughby is a dignified and aristocratic Earl of Amersteth; Mr. E. W. Thomas, natural and easy, is a most effective Curtis Bedford; Mr. Cecil Brymer makes excellent use of his abilities and opportunities as Viscount Crowley; Mr. Harold West plays the difficult part of Bunny in admirable style; and Mr. Buckstone Clair is a very convincing burglar, Crawshay. Miss Lilian Hallows gives a strong, well-marked, and penetrating performance as Mrs. Vidal; Miss Dora Sevening is a sympathetic and appealing Gwendoline; Miss Blanka Stewart is a most appropriate and praiseworthy Lady Melrose; Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald is a pretty, attractive Lady Ethel; and Miss Gordon is a good help as Marie.

The Royal Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Holloway.—Hallen and Hayes occupy the place of honour here this week, and as extremely clever dancers and effective comedians they command great applause; the Havanas Troupe of acrobats combine smart and able work with much comic business; Miss Lallah Brooke has a pleasing original turn, in which, by quick changes, she appears as Girls—Past and Present; Mr. Angus Strong is a very capable baritone vocalist, who sings in good style; Miss Molly Seymour sings and plays well; Mr. Chas. Sloman gets many laughs as a comedian; Miss Florry St. Roy pleases as singer and dancer; and new pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

EDINBURGH. — Royal Lyceum Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie—In the hands of Mr. Charles Macdona's chief company, that very amusing farce Are You a Mason? has drawn large houses here this week. Mr. E. H. Paterson and Miss Adelaide Grace developed the differing characteristics of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Bloodgood in good comedy style; and the young married couple, Frank and Eva Perry, found very suitable exponents in Mr. Francis J. Bithell and Miss Rita Narcelli. The rôle of Hamilton Travers gave Mr. Erskholme E. Clive scope for emphasising the amusing peculiarities of a broken-down tragedian; Mr. H. Langdon Bruce was exceedingly happy in George Fisher's masquerading scenes; Lottie was vigorously acted by Miss Mary Kilpack; Mr. G. P. Polson had quite a congenial part in John Halton; and Miss Viola Garland, Miss Rita Johnston, Miss Dulcie Verney, and Mr. Milton Ross all did useful work in their respective rôles of Mrs. Halton, Annie and Lulu, and Ernest Morrison. A Bad Penny served as a curtain-raiser.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—The chief honours in this week's bill fell easily to Callahan and St. George, whose musical duologue, entitled The Old Neighbourhood, is distinguished by charming novelty and quaint comedy; the great Marathon race was graphically displayed by the American Bioscope; Tom Foy and his associates tickled the audience considerably with the funny absurdity A Yorkshire Lad in London; the Griffiths Brothers created great diversion with one of their characteristically cheerful turns; Marie Santoi and company achieved success in the compressed musical play A Japanese Tea-Garden; and the Brothers Huxter performed very dexterously as high and long-distance leapers and somersault-throwers. Of the single-handed turns, that of Marie Kendal was one of the most popular; Ernie Mayne's grotesque make-up and comic method produced much merriment; and both Ray and Maskell and Steve McCarthy proved themselves accomplished step-dancers.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—The boards are occupied this week by Mr. Horniman's company, under the direction of Mr. B. Iden Payne in two plays by Bernard Shaw, and répertoire. David Ballard was presented on Monday. In the title-rôle Mr. Iden Payne scored a distinct success, his acting throughout being characterised by a style which could not but make it so; Miss Ada King as the elderly Mrs. Ballard was very natural, while the Gladys Ballard of Miss Penelope Wheeler was all that could be desired; Mr. Charles Bibby well sustained the part of Percy Ballard, while Miss Hilda Bruce Potter was a sympathetic Mercy Hainton; Mr. Lewis Casson and Mr. Jules Shaw were good as Simon Ballard and Darwin Snodge respectively, while Miss Louise Holbrook was amusing as Louisa. Gentlemen of the Road, a tramp sketch, was an excellent curtain-raiser.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Gaston Mayer's company in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch played to enthusiastic audiences here the first part of this week. Miss Gertrude Irving won much applause for her fine rendering of the title-rôle; Miss Rita Carlile as Miss Mazy played the difficult part well; Mr. Frederick Forrest's impersonation of Mr. Stubbins was a capital study; Miss Christine Rayner was an excellent Lovey Mary; and the other numerous rôles were well interpreted. For the latter half of the week Mr. Leonard Boyne revisits the theatre in Raffles.

Leas Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—"The Gipsies and their Jester," in a special holiday programme, entertained huge audiences all the week. Whether in concerted or individual items, the Gipsies are thoroughly successful.

Victoria Pier.—Manager, Mr. Robert Forsyth.—The Four Spanish Goldinis in their novel electrical speciality act give a remarkable performance; Charles Coverdale in patter songs and in his laughable sketch impersonations is delightful; the Scarletiers provide a great part of the entertainment with songs, solos, and dances; Mr. Sidney Leon and Mr. Alex B. Gilbert are very good in humorous items; Mr. Tom Walters is a clever banjo soloist; and Miss Daisy May is a dancer of exceptional ability. On Wednesday an illuminated fête and military tattoo was patronised by large numbers.

GAINSBOROUGH.—King's Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stead.—Opened on Bank Holiday with a variety company on the two-shows-a-night principle. A clever handcuff turn is supplied by a charming lady called Empress, the lady Houdini. The company also includes Les Sardous (illusionists), Bros. Farrant, Marie Rivers, Sarco (ventriloquist), Jack Middleton (boy singer), and Tom Joy (comedian).

GATESHEAD. — King's Theatre. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager and Licensee, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Leoni Clarke with his trained cats, monkeys, mice, rats, canaries, and rabbits, has delighted large audiences here; Mysticus provides much amusement with a chameleon turn; Rose Elliott, a pleasing singer, renews acquaintance with numerous friends; the Le Crens have a genuine comedy act; J. H. Greener, a singing collier, is warmly praised; the Tafanos have an amusing musical item; Beta Russell sings and dances with agreeable charm, and the usual living pictures complete the bill.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn is presenting Send Him Victorious here, and large audiences have witnessed an excellent production. Mr. Frank Holyoake ably portrays the King of Ravonia, Mr. G. M. Montanini is well fitted for the part of Colonel Kaufmann; Miss Marie Robson as the Countess plays the principal female part with distinction, and other rôles are in capable hands.

GILLINGHAM (Kent).—The Park Bandstand.—The "Rustics" Costume Concert Party are appearing here this week, and on Monday, gave two performances to crowded audiences. Miss Blanche Myles is an excellent light comedienne; Miss Kate Willey was heard to advantage in her songs; Mr. James Flynne is the possessor of a fine baritone voice and joined with Miss Myles in some excellent duets; the humorous element was in the capable hands of Mr. Tom Merrie and Mr. Alfred Donaldson, the latter also acting as accompanist. Concerted items also brightened the programme.

GLASGOW.—King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—The principal item on the programme this week is Mr. Charles Hawtrey's latest success, Dear Old Charlie. A bright and bustling performance is given, in which Mr. George Lestocq fills the part of Charlie with considerable verve and humour. Peploe and Dumpie are amusingly contrasted characters as played by Mr. C. Douglas Cox and Mr. S. Trelawnay; as Colonel Fishbourne Mr. Duncan Young's make-up and bearing are excellent; and as Mrs. Fishbourne Miss Leonora Braham is finished to a degree. In appearance and acting the Agnes of Miss Marjorie Chard is a charming performance; as Purkitt Mr. Stanley Arthur displays a quiet vein of humour; and a smart maid is seen in Miss M. E. Ellis. The second play is the Hon. Eleanor Norton's version of Salome, in which the famous dance is executed with wonderful expression by Miss Mabilia Daniell, and the characters of Herod and the Astrologer portrayed with grand elocutionary effect by Mr. Robert Hilton and Mr. Philip Desborough respectively.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The sensational drama In Holy (!) Russia graces the boards here this week. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy as Renee Rubinoff is a very clever exponent of this rôle; great credit is also due to Miss Roma Tremayne as Catska Lavotski. Mr. J. Rice Cassidy as Mickey Nolan, a witty Irishman, is the bright spark, and his humour was greatly enjoyed; Mr. Henry Compton as Colonel Richard Forrest is also very amusing. Phonograph selections and animated pictures provide attractive items during the intervals.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—This theatre reopened on Monday after the summer vacation, and presented a bright and cheery appearance, having been entirely redecorated in the interval. A large audience extended a hearty welcome to Mr. Julian Malvern's company in the strong drama I Defy the World. Mr. Percy Ballard acts with powerful effect as Leon Darville; as his erring wife, Blanche, Miss Violet Crauford also gives a strong rendering of a difficult character; Mr. J. Leicester Jackson makes a duly cynical villain as Count de Beaulieu; Miss Blanche St. Albans infuses much sympathy and pathos into the part of Pauline Delaporte; her father, General Delaporte, is acted with military emphasis by Mr. Alfred Denning; Mr. Chas. Conway gives a good character study as Laroche; Mr. Frank Wheatley is manly and impassioned as the young artist André; Messrs. Newton Pearce and Dalton J. Bosher are amusing as a couple of thieves; some clever comedy is introduced by Mr. Charles M. Julian and Miss Maude Lillian as two cockney tourists; Miss Florrie Green is most effective as the child Fanchette. The play is well staged.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Neil Kenyon tops the bill here, and is getting a great reception; Howard and St. Clair get many laughs with their comedy turn; the Proveanics are an exceedingly smart troupe of lady cyclists; the clever sketch The Little Stowaway is much enjoyed; Little Ganty's humour and dancing abilities entitle him to a good place on the programme; a most amusing turn is that of Cestria, the acrobatic juggling waiter; Alice Ford's illustrated songs and the items of Madge May also go well. The pictures of the Marathon Race excite much interest.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. A. Bostock.—The engagement of John Tiller's company in Doon the Watter is a decided attraction here this week, and much praise is due to Bob Selvidge, Teddy Gibbs, Barny Dixon, and Lizzie Hay, together with the dainty and clever little dancers. Silvo's selections on the musical glasses and Silvo chimes are excellently received; the Silvas also take well in their ladder performance, while Tray and Rich, comedians and dancers, prove a very acceptable turn; May Marton, a dainty comedienne, makes herself a pronounced favourite, and Bert Kemble as a raconteur must appreciate his reception. The Bioscope, which winds up the evening, is responsible for a sensational picture in The Great Dieppe Motor Race.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Evan Good.—Ada Colley is again starring here, and her phenomenal voice is heard in a number of songs. Dainty Daisy Dormer remains another week, and is proving a great draw; Raglus, the comedy juggler, gives a very smart and clever turn; Ajax and George contribute some novel gymnastic feats; and a wonderful equilibristic turn is that of Marcel and Boris; J. B. Preston appears in place of an absent turn, and is well suited in several Scotch character songs; Lytton and Bland take well in a smart sketch, A Lesson in Love; and Merton and Rydon, neat dancers, do well in a vocal and comedy turn.

Palace.—Proprietors, Mr. Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—Hayman and Franklin are very funny in their sketch, A Suit for Divorce; Pueblo and Cropp provide a distinctly clever turn; Fred Land is a host in himself, and the McConnell Trio in musical comedy sketch, The Airship, proved they had lost none of their popularity; Rowland Hill is very amusing. Eily Adair, comedienne; Gillin, ventriloquist; Sisters Gladwin, duettists and dancers; and Ed. E. Ford, in patter and facial expressions, complete the programme.

Coliseum.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—The most attractive item of this week's bill is furnished by Ben Nathan and company in the dramatic production The Fairy Uncle, which was thoroughly enjoyed. The Dunedin Troupe of trick cyclists are capital performers, and Sanford and Lyons, comedians and dancers, were specially favoured. Other notable turns include Irene Rose, comedienne; Harry Edson and his wonderful dogs; Wood, Wells, and Wilkins, vocal and humorous artists; Mlle. Eldee, in illuminated posing performance; Norman and Leonard Trio, musicians; Marie Burnette, in illustrated song; and the Bioscope, with interesting pictures.

Gaiety, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—The Seven Wulfrunas are conspicuous in their speciality, Fun in a Café; Geo. Bernard, actor-vocalist, made a good impression, and Lizzie Power has a strong and pleasing voice. The other turns include Alexandra Royal, vocal comedienne; Dave Summerhill, Scotch comedian; the Percys, speciality artists; M'Kinnon Family, vocalists and instrumentalists; and the Bioscope, with up-to-date films. Patrons are noting with pleasure the return of Mr. Wm. Milne to the post of conductor.

Britannia.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—Mlle. Cartia shows agility as a juggler and gymnast, and Rosie Bell is a successful coon singer; Neil Gow, Scotch comedian, is very popular; Walter Ross, comedian, and the Bioscope, with a comprehensive series of pictures, are also in the bill.

GLOUCESTER. — Palace. — Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Director, Mr. C. W. Poole.—Nat Clifford makes a first appearance and a hit here, and Herbert Clifton, mimic, pays a welcome return visit; a very pleasing turn is supplied by Charles Buval as the Happy Dutchman; the Cecilias, lady instrumentalists, do well, and Picitt and Lizette put on a smart magical act, The Crazy Cook; Miss Hilda Valma, clever vocalist at the piano; the Bros. St. Clair, comedy cyclists, and Mlle. Yetta are applauded, as are Dyson and Payne in a neat vocal scena. The Palacescope pictures conclude.

GRANTHAM.—Empire and Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. A. Campbell; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Marshall.—The Empire reopened on Bank Holiday after several alterations, including the addition of an elegant glass awning over the entrances and a new illuminated sign. Inside, the orchestra has been dropped a foot, and on the circle balcony is to be seen a handsome testimonial in a massive gilt frame, presented to Mr. Campbell by the members of His Old Folks at Home company. Mr. Campbell has a good bill this week, the Three Comerfords topping it with a clever knockabout act. The Bros. Curran are also quite smart in their boxing act; Kavados is very good with his cannon-ball juggling; some excellent patter and singing is provided by the Rowntrees; Henriette and Selina do good work on the piano, violin, 'cello, &c.; and Miss Flo Melville is a clever singer of light comedy songs. Pictures on the Bioscope are interesting.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — Royal Aquarium Theatre.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—The patrons of this establishment have a great dramatic treat this week in the first appearance here of Miss Ellen Terry in Captain Brassbound's Conversion. In the character of Lady Cicely Waynflete, Miss Ellen Terry displays all the skill of the true artist, and whenever she is upon the stage rivets the whole attention of the audience; Mr. James Carew gave an excellent portrayal of Captain Brassbound; Mr. George Fitzgerald made a dignified Sir Howard Hallam; the Rev. Leslie Rankin had a clever exponent in Mr. Story-Gofton; Mr. Max Montesole gave a clever character sketch of Felix Drinkwater; the Cadi was well played by Mr. H. Hay-Cameron, and Mr. Frank Powell looked every inch a naval officer as Captain Hamlin Kearney.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company are appearing here in The Bondman. Mr. Oswald Lingard displays great histrionic ability as Adam Fairbrother; Mr. R. Scrope Quentin makes an excellent Jason; Miss Georgina Wynters' acting as Greba is of a fine order; Mr. W. H. Rotherham plays Father Ferrati exceedingly well. The several minor parts are ably filled. The play is well mounted.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert.—Leicester Cooke gives a clever equestrian turn; Mendel, the blind pianist, gave some astonishing illustrations of his retentive memory and skilled playing; Sim Maree is a clever contortionist; Haley's Garden of Girls repeat their success of last week; Captain Max Gruber and Miss Adelina introduce a very cleverly trained elephant, horse, and pony; Szarvasi Ferencz Troupe of Hungarian athletes are exceedingly clever; Doodles is still creating an abundance of fun, especially in the "Spanish Bull-fight" and "Fun on the Broads." Chuting the chute is still very popular, and some excellent pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

Britannia Pier Pavilion.—Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—The Six Brothers Luck are topping the bill here this week, and are proving a huge draw, the fun being fast and furious while they occupy the stage; Miss Beatrice Vernon is an excellent soprano; Mr. W. L. Cockburn's splendid bass voice is heard to advantage; Chummie La Mara is a big favourite with her excellent songs; Bert Lowe is a very funny comedian; Maggie Strachan is a capital musical entertainer, and Nell Brough is very successful in her whistling solos.

Wellington Pier Pavilion.—Proprietors, the Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Arthur Cash.—Hal Chapter is a very smart comedian; Fancourt and Rubie successfully appear in a clever Dutch scena; Julian Ross is a singer of good descriptive songs; Harry Braham is a clever facial expressionist; Kenway and Emery appear in a very witty duologue; Cecilia Maude is a charming vocalist; Georgea Fairburn is successful as a mimic; William Gourlay is very funny; Cressie Leonard is a charming comedienne; Goggin and Davis are clever acrobats.

Chappell's Promenade Concerts. — Proprietress, Mrs. Sarah Lawton.—The new turns are Captain Devereux, who introduces some cleverly trained dogs; and Henry Foden, who appears in a smart hand-jumping and balancing act.

The Gem.—Proprietors, The Yarmouth Amusement Centre, Ltd.—Excellent pictures are being shown throughout the day to large audiences.

Minstrel Arena.—The Black Diamond Minstrels are presenting an entirely new programme of songs and screaming sketches.

GREENOCK. — Alexandra Theatre, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The above theatre reopened on Monday night, when an excellent variety programme was presented. During the vacation the house has been redecorated and painted, and a full and complete installation of electric light has been made. A new act drop from the brush of Mr. John Connor, the scenic artist at the Alexandra, adds to the general effect. The management have made a decided hit in securing Miss Vesta Victoria, and the popular comedienne has been a big success. Miss Maude Mortimer makes herself exceedingly popular in some excellent songs; the Walonells contribute a lively acrobatic turn; Robins and Collier, in their sketch, The Lady and the Porter, are very diverting; Frank Belford and Ethel Mars present an artistic vocal act, entitled A Cook's Tour, which meets with hearty approval; and the Alexandroscope shows the latest pictures.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—Miss Mary Neil and Mr. George Kirk are presenting their new drama, From Shop-Girl to Duchess. Miss Neil displays her customary cleverness as the shop girl, Sylvia Grey, and is especially good in the emotional scenes; Mr. Douglas Cecil acts with distinction as Arnold Vyvian; Mr. T. Lionel Ellis gives a dignified representation of Sir Morris Maitland; Mr. Frank Strickland portrays Gilbert Spate with success; Mr. Douglas Tremayne does well as Pelham; Miss Amy B. Ellis gives a pleasing impersonation of Lady Isabel; Miss Beatrice Hudson is equally good as Lady Celeste, and the same may be said of Miss Marie Clavering as Lady Cinderella. The comedy is well sustained by Miss Florrie Groves as Tilly Dobson, and Mr. Robert Cromwell as Tommy Tinkler.

The Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Florrie Gallimore is repeating her former successes here, and her répertoire of new songs is very popular; Mlle. Sahara is causing great interest by her graceful performance of the celebrated Salome dance; the Brothers Durant give a capital airship burlesque, followed by smart gymnastics; Fred Bamford, the newsboy whistler, gives a demonstration of his exceptional powers; Kitty Clinton is a charming comedienne; the Sisters Brenton are clever dancers; and Johnson and Bert contribute an amusing knockabout comedy act.

GUERNSEY. — Theatre St. Julians.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company gave a delightful presentation of Diana of Dobson's here on Saturday. Miss Dorothy Green merits warmest praise for her clever handling of Diana; Mr. Alfred Harris capably embodied Sir Jabez Grinlay; Miss G. De Serville was very effective as Mrs. Fraser; and Mr. H. G. Bentley portrayed Captain Bretherton with considerable tact. The Bishop's Candlesticks proved a pleasing curtain-raiser.

On Monday Mr. Joseph Poole's Myriorama opened for a season, and crowded houses are the rule. The beautiful pictures are up to date, and the show is bright, attractive, and instructive. Some capital variety business is provided by Loudoun Cameron and Maud Dunham, Eileen and Maynie, the Seddons, and Miss Frederica's wonderful troupe of dogs and a clever pony. Mr. Bert Berry is the guide.

HALIFAX.—Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Pictures are the chief attraction here this week. There are some very entertaining subjects—notably from Pathé Frères and Gaumont—thrown on the screen. Dolly Goldin is a young but accomplished dancer; Fred Athalan contributes a smart balancing turn.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Reg. H. Forster.—The Tossing Austins are providing a clever and amusing turn at the Palace this week. The lady is an agile and clever dancer, and the gentleman a very clever comedy juggler. The Florias are good in a musical and slack-wire performance; Hayes and Merritt, bounding trampolinists, gain hearty applause for their clever acrobatic work. Lew Towers, light comedian; Victor Travers, eccentric comedian; Renee Grahame, character vocalist; John Donald, in A Scottish Exile's Dream; Zeta Grey and company in The Lancashire Lass; and a couple of very interesting Pictures complete an entertaining programme.

Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company opened at the Royal this week with Diana of Dobson's. The company has been carefully selected, and does credit to Miss Ashwell's judgment. Miss Violet Gould, Miss Eva Lonsdale, Miss Dorothy Garth, and Miss Olga Esme as assistants at Dobson's all give evidence of careful study and attention to detail; it will be difficult to improve upon Miss Emelie Polini's versatile rendering of Dana Massingberd; as Mrs. Cantelupe Miss Gwynneth Galton is excellent; Miss Clarissa Selwynne is dignified and ladylike as Mrs. White-Fraser; Mr. W. Kingsford Pearce's Sir Jabez Grinlay is a meritorious performance; Mr. E. C. Villiers as Captain Bretherton plays to life the easy-going, careless military gentleman of small means; Mr. Frank Woolfe makes the small part of Police-Constable Fellowes prominent. Diana of Dobson's is preceded by The Bishop's Candlesticks, in which Mr. W. Kingsford Pearce appears to advantage as the bishop, and Mr. Frank Woolfe gives a splendid rendering of the convict, holding the audience spell-bound throughout his recital.

HAMILTON.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. René Clayton.—Berzac's (late Capt. Woodward's) performing sea lion and seals are topping the bill here this week, and are warmly received; Alice Hughes, who receives excellent support, is extremely popular in a musical comedietta, The Star of the Bazaar; Mabel Thorne sings some catchy chorus songs in such a manner as to quickly persuade her audience to join in; Little Eileen is a dainty child comedienne and dancer; Ruby Dahl and her mock marionettes, in a novelty, entitled The Merry Mannikins, are very excellent; Anita Wayman sings her various numbers in a pleasing manner, Naughton and Gold, comedians and dancers, George Rae, Scottish comedian, and the Bioscope conclude.

HANLEY. — Royal. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—A splendid house gathered on Monday and gave a right royal welcome to Mr. Allan Wilkie and his well-chosen company. The pieces put on this week are Belphegor the Mountebank, David Garrick, Two Orphans of Paris, The Fool's Revenge, and a special triple bill, including Hounslow Heath, The King's Rival, and Delicate Ground. The Two Orphans was played on Monday, and was followed with the keenest possible interest. Mr. Allan Wilkie as Jacques is superb, and won wholehearted approbation; Mr. Alexander Marsh has a difficult rôle as the crippled brother of Jacques, but he comes out with flying colours; the two orphans are played by Miss Carrie Baillee and Miss Mildred Surrey with great skill, the former being especially brilliant; Mr. Frank Royde as Linieres, Mr. Sinclair Neill as the Chevalier, Mr. Ernest Diggins as the Marquis, and Mr. Ian Fleming in a comic rôle performed their parts with infinite credit to themselves. This is Mr. Wilkie's first visit to Hanley, and we feel sure it will not by any means be his last. He has installed himself a very warm favourite already.

Grand.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—Coram, ventriloquist, has a very smart act, which goes finely; the Eight Lancashire Lads sing and dance most cleverly; De Canty's Water Grotto is thoroughly enjoyed by one and all; the Grand Pictures show a capital-tinted film, The Farmer's Daughter, which evokes loud applause. Also appearing are McCann, roller-skate dancer; Blake and Granby, comedy duologue artists; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic; Olive Lenton, comedienne; and Woodhouse and Wells, comedians and dancers.

King's.—Lessees, Messrs. Kennedy and Moore; Operator and Acting-Manager, Capt. F. Shaw.—A splendid holiday programme is put forward this week. The best films are A Flower-Girl's Life-Story, The Pardon, Banana Skins, The Shy Fellow, Under a Crocodile's Skin, March Winds, The Mountaineer' Son, and Weird Symphony. Ida Rochefort, a juvenile of decided merit, with a good voice, sings sweetly and most successfully.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Pescock; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Fielding-Smith.—For the holiday attraction here Mr. Frank Curzon's company opened a three nights' engagement in the new play, My Mimosa Maid, including Miss Marie Studholme. A house packed to the doors witnessed the first performance on Monday night, and it is safe to say that seldom, if ever, has a more beautiful stage picture been seen in Harrogate. Miss Marie Studholme was bright and vivacious as Paulette, and was accorded a most hearty reception. Mr. Charles McNaughton was amusing as Victor Guilbert, the sweep, and Mr. Chas. E. Paton was excellent as Max Guilbert, the bailiff; Mr. Percy Cannot gave a true performance of a self-satisfied man as Gerrard; Miss Rosie Begarnie appeared as Popitte and Miss May Garstang as Mme. de Pilaine, the proprietress of the mimosa plantation. Other parts were in reliable hands, and the orchestra was under the baton of Mr. Leonard Hornsey. For the rest of the week Miss Lena Ashwell and company appeared in Diana of Dobson's and Irene Wycherley.

The Kursaal.—General-Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. Eldrid.—This week is the Harrogate Gala Week, and a host of first class attractions are in the bill. First and foremost of all for three nights is the one and only Vesta Tilley. She is received with rapturous applause at each appearance. Time stands still with this wonderful and ever-fresh artist. Mr. Nelson Jackson is amusing with his songs and sketches at the piano, and Miss Leonora Sparkes has a very beautiful voice, which she uses to the greatest possible advantage. For Thursday the band of the Gordon Highlanders is announced, and for Friday The Follies appear at a matinée only. On Saturday the wonderful Mischa Elman at a matinée will give violin solos. Mr. Julian Clifford has had to take another week's rest after his long and serious illness, and his place this week has been taken very ably by the leader, Mr. John Bridges. Mr. Clifford is announced to return on Saturday if his doctor (his Worship the Mayor, Dr. Neville Williams) will permit.

HARTLEPOOL. — Empress. — Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—Pictures continue to be successful here. This week's special attractions are The Hooligans and Sherlock Holmes. An illustrated song, "When you were sweet sixteen," is well presented pictorially and vocally.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr Charles E. Scutt.—Mr. Mouillot's company has been here on a three days' visit in The Girl Behind the Counter, under the stage-management of Mr. Geoffrey Allsopp, the augmented orchestra being directed by Mr. W. D. J. Damant. Mr. T. Lockridge was notably good as Charles Chetwyn, and his songs were finely rendered; Miss Gracie Moore won all hearts by her pleasing acting and singing as Winnie Willoughby; Mr. Fred Park gave a humorous exposition of the rôle of Adolphus Dudds, and was associated in a comic dance with Miss Irene Lavington, a pleasant and prepossessing Susie. Mr. H. B. Clark Chadwick won much success in his "Sir Walter Raleigh" song; Mr. Claude Dampier was alert and active as Mons. Duval; and Mr. Ferris Pounds did well as the Viscount. On Thursday and for the remainder of the week Tom Jones was billed for performance by Mr. Fred Mouillot's principal company.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Vivian Fisher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—Mr. Frank F. Street is a good singer and delightful story-teller; Amandus, the facial mimic, cleverly impersonates celebrities; a welcome re-engagement is that of the Sisters McCalla (Dolly and Madge), vocalists and dancers; the Hipposcope depicts some effective subjects, Our Dog Friends, A Wife's Revenge, &c.; the Czar's Royal Troupe exhibit some clever and original dancing; a pretty and singularly well-acted playlet entitled Bluff, is presented by Duncan and Brasque; Rosina is very expert on a variety of instruments; Henri Cazman introduces Le Café Chantant, a turn at once clever and entertaining; Allan and Hart, rapid change artists, are accorded a hearty reception.

Pier Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Miss Edith Trew, soprano vocalist, sings with much good taste here; a comedy sketch, entitled A Warm Affair, creates fun; Messrs. Chas. Hawker, Herbert Maule, and Miss Blanche Bayley are associated in the sketch. Miss Violet King makes a first appearance here; she is remarkably skilful either on the piano or violin, and accompanies her own songs; Karr and Kooney are particularly good as comic comedians; Payne's Biophotoscope describes some exciting scenes and accidents connected with the Dieppe Motor Derby; some cleverly-arranged prismatic effects are shown by Mons. Maurin's Fairy Fountains, in which twenty thousand gallons of water are poured on the stage. On Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 4, Messrs. Baring Brothers introduced Mischa Elman, the musical genius, assisted by Miss Eleanor Felix (Soprano) and Mr. Waldemar Lischowsky (accompanist).

Beach Concert Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. George Blackmore.—Wallis Arthur's concert season here has been very successful, and, favoured by the fine weather, continues to draw large audiences. The ballads by Miss Elsie English and Miss Sybil St. Elmo give much pleasure. Miss Marie Schultz is a chic comedienne; and Mr. Dolf Wheeler as humorist, dancer, and instrumentalist has many admirers.

Cricket Ground.—Messrs. Hastings and Whayman returned here on Saturday last, and large crowds have thronged their show throughout the holidays. At dusk the grounds are brilliantly illumined by their own system of electric light, and shooting galleries, quoits, skies, swings, and switchback have been kept busy, providing both amusement and entertainment to the attracted crowds.

St. Leonards Pier Pavilion.—Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—On Monday Messrs. Frank G. Bayly and Arthur Eldred's company opened here in When We Were Twenty-one. Mr. Frank G. Bayley gave a very capable representation of Richard Carewe, and was ably supported by Mr. F. Rawson Buckley (Waddles), Mr. R. Grey (Soldier Man), and Mr. P. L. Julian (Doctor). Miss Margaret Yarde acted very forcefully as the Firefly, Miss Katie Johnson did well as Phyllis, her portrayal gaining general admiration; and Mr. Arthur Eldred was satisfactory as the Imp. Miss G. Bartle-Frère was well-suited to her rôle of Mrs. Ericson.

HUDDERSFIELD. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas J. Phillips.—For the reopening after the summer vacation Mr. Edmund Tearle and his company are appearing in a well-chosen répertoire, which includes It's Never Too Late to Mend, Jeanie Deans, Ticket-of-Leave Man, The Three Musketeers, and Richard III. Mr. Tearle's robust personality and method are well known, and he receives generally admirable support from his colleagues, including Miss Kate Clinton, Miss Mary Campbell, Miss Madge Raper, Mr. Stuart Black, Mr. J. A. Keogh, Mr. Bernhardt Turner, Mr. Arthur W. Jones, and Mr. Fawcett Lomax.

Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The bill here includes the Cole de Losse Duo, a pair of smart comedians, in a clever performance on the Miss Jennie Hartley, a young comedienne and dancer; Wieland, an expert juggler with a keen sense of humour; and interesting pictures on the Bioscope.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—This beautiful theatre has undergone complete renovation, and the Bank Holiday audience gave full and appreciative endorsement of Messrs. Mortons' efforts to make the house one of the most comfortable in the provinces. Bannister-Howard's company, in The Belle of New York, was the opening attraction. Mr. Frank Lawton, in his original part of Blinky Bill, is a great attraction; of the two Bronsons, Mr. Arthur Rickets cleverly portrays the elder, whilst the younger is well sustained by Mr. James A. Watts; Miss Dorothy Doria is a fine type of Parisienne; the Cora of Miss Winnie Brown is a pleasant impersonation; Miss Hebe Knel'er in the title-rôle is equal to every call made upon her.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Manager, Mr. Tom Bogue.—Mr. Morton is still continuing the Pictures and songs for a short season longer. This week, for Bank Holiday and the races, The Marathon Race, cleverly depicted on the screen, has been a great attraction; and Miss Rita Rosslyn and Mr. W. Carriden are responsible for a diverting comedietta, entitled The Suffragette.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—A play, new to this city, The Girl Who Went Astray, was produced on Monday, and instantly caught the public taste. The leading figure is sustained by Miss Gwynne Warren, and this artist proves the possession of no small talent; Miss Ada M. Ryder has a part that draws the sympathy of the house; the heavy rôle, well sustained by Mr. Alf. Stretton, stands out very prominently. A clever comedy trio are Miss Mary Dalby, Mr. Evan Roland, and Mr. Tcd Squires. The mounting of the play is excellent. The Pictures are still a strong feature at the interval.

ILFRACOMBE.—Mr. Will C. Pepper's "White Coons" are doing excellent business here. Mr. Fred Frampton is a droll leader, with a fund of humorous songs and recitations, and can get the utmost out of his wheezes when aided by Mr. Alf Wood, an old Moore and Burgess and Mohawk banjoist and singer; Mr. Dick Loyd (with the sobriquet of "Clarence") warbles ballads and sea songs in a pleasant fashion, and Mr. W. R. Nono infuses great vigour and élan into his many songs and dances; Miss Hilda Hudson's powerful mezzo-soprano voice and good comedy manner gain her plenty of applause, and Miss Lydia Prescott has a tasteful style of singing good-class songs. A recent addition to the company is Miss Evelyn Harrison, who sings feelingly whilst playing an effective obbligato on the violin. The "Coons" have a neat little "fit-up," well lighted by electricity, and are in the full tide of success.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The company of Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond are here this week in A Soldier of France. Miss Florence Zillwood appears as Pauline Lorraine, her reading of the part meeting with marked approval; whilst Little Gertie Renaud is a pleasing little performer as Master Louis Lorraine. Mr. Edward Hobart presents a capital impersonation of Lieut. Louis Lorraine; and Mr. Leonard Aardale as Corporal Jean exhibits much ability. The Rita of Miss Dora Weber deserves praise; Miss Jennie Clare as Margot is a capital exponent; and Mr. Freddie Edwards as Pollyput Jollyboy is very amusing. Mr. Milton C. Curtis gives a suitable rendering of the part of Duke de Laval; and Mr. Albert Guyon makes the most of the unpleasant rôle of Judas Delara.

IPSWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Manager, Mr. Head.—Miss Alice Hollander, the Australian contralto, is winning golden opinions this week; Arthur Ferriss and Ethel May have an amusing sketch entitled Two's Company, Three's—? Phillips and Merritt have also a musical travesty entitled A Touch of Vaudeville, and the Brothers Ashley a boxing sketch called Next Please; other artists are Miss Maud Marshall, a Scotch singer; W. P. Sheen, "the merry widow who talks"; and Sinclair and Parr, Irish comedians; Alfred Graham's Premier Juveniles have a good vocal scena, A Concert on the Lawn, and the Bioscope concludes.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Rex Sugden.—Mr. Wilson Benge and company is here this week in The Eve of Her Wedding. Mr. Arthur Keand gives a first-class rendering of the part of Squire Leverton; and Mr. Henry Danson does full justice to the part of Dick Leverton. Mr. Wilson Benge gives a most manly portrayal of the part of George Tremain; while Mr. C. Digby causes much amusement as Rudolph Earle. Mr. Wilson Campbell plays with force and skill the part of Dean Clifton; and Mr. Ernest Regent is quite at home as Giovanni. Miss Sadie Smith is simply charming in the part of Mavis Leverton; and Miss Daisy Cook handles the part of Gwendoline Younger with skill; while Miss Effie Bartlett gives a most telling portrayal of Reine de Telle, the adventuress.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. E. Marris.—The old love of the legitimate was well evidenced on Monday, when vaudeville gave place to Miss Lena Ashwell's company, in that powerful and pathetic romantic comedy, Diana of Dobson's, which drew a large and enthusiastic audience. Miss Dorothy Green, who takes the title-rôle, is an accomplished and charming actress; Miss Mary Stuart causes considerable amusement as Mrs. Cantelupe; Miss Georgette de Serville is a successful Mrs. Whyte Fraser; and Miss Molly Tremaine, Miss Kate Turner, Miss Nannie Griffin, and Miss Eva Leonard Boyne represent the lady assistants at Dobson's. Mr. H. Greendon Bentley is particularly good as Captain Bretherton; and Mr. Alfred Harris gives a finished interpretation of the difficult part of Sir Jabez Grinlay. The piece is preceded by The Bishop's Candlesticks, in which Mr. Alfred Harris excels as the Bishop.

ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Messrs. Gale and Polden's "Life in the King's Service" are showing a number of new films this week.

SPRINGFIELD PAVILION.—The Motlez are proving a popular company of entertainers, and have this week been reinforced by Miss Lena Leighton, a light comedy vocalist of considerable merit.

TRIANGLE PARK.—The Nonentities opened here on Monday before a typical Bank Holiday audience. The band of the East Surrey Regiment provides the first half of the programme.

KETTERING.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Payne.—The holiday attraction here is Mr. Geo. Cremen's company in The World's Verdict. Mr. Herbert Bentone invests the character of Nathan Black with artistic skill; the villainy of Jasper Woodleigh is powerfully portrayed by Mr. Henry Carlisle; Mr. W. C. Gregory is a capable George Ashford; Mr. Alfred Selwood and Miss May Waugh contribute some amusing comedy; Miss Molly St. George is a most effective Cora; and Miss Madge Blundall as Florence Woodleigh is very successful.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Managers, Messrs. Bailey and Co.—Miss Inez Howard's company is here this week in Driven from Home. Mr. Walter Jeffery is a manly Walter Hatherleigh; Mr. George Claremont presents a fine character study of Anthony Raybrook; Mr. H. C. Hunt is a capable villain, being ably assisted by Mr. H. C. Gilpin as Dick Sanders; and Miss Winnie Donavan quickly gains the sympathies of the audience by her charming representation of the dual rôle of Laura Raybrook and Walter Hatherleigh.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Herr B. Pareezer.—A successful commencement of the theatre season has been made here this week with the presentation of The Dandy Fifth by Clarence C. Corri's company, which is an excellent one. Miss Pauline Hague gave a delightful rendering of the part of Kate Lorrimer, and Miss Nora Morra made a vivacious Polly; Mr. J. Edward Fraser sang and acted exceedingly well as Dick Darville; Mr. Jack Crichton as Trooper Brown was irresistible, and George Beverley was exceedingly funny as Sergeant-Major Milligan; whilst the Colonel of Mr. Percy Baverstock was a most convincing and finished piece of acting.

LANCASTER. — HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. Porter and W. J. Fergusson.—The Trapnell Family of lady acrobats head the bill and receive a hearty reception; May Lilian Levey, comedienne, is paying a return visit, as also is Hobart, comedy juggler; the Sages, comedy burlesque artists, win favour; Harry Wright, comedian, causes roars of laughter; and Dorma Morgan is an acceptable vocalist; Hillman and Russell supply a vocal comedy duologue to perfection, and the Hippograph, depicting The Quicksands, &c., completes a first-rate entertainment.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—A Chinese Honeymoon inaugurates the autumn season here, and good holiday crowds have enjoyed the presentation. Miss Elsie Skillings, in the principal rôle, is a delightful actress, and sings her numbers in pleasing style. Miss Veronica Brady, as Mrs. Pineapple, makes a good impression in the part; Mr. Leonard May makes the most of the generous comedy part of Lord High Admiral; and Mr. Will Harman also makes a big success of the rôle of Mr. Pineapple. Miss Gwennie Harcourt is the Fi-Fi of the company, and is particularly good.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Mr. Hall Caine's famous drama The Christian is the holiday attraction here. Mr. Henry Renouf makes a most effective and convincing figure as John Storm, whilst in that character of many moods, Glory Quayle, Miss Doris Gilham is a complete success. The two leading clerical parts are in the hands of Mr. Edwin Ling and Mr. C. T. Turpin, and both are cleverly presented.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—Miss Winifred Hare is the bright particular star of this week's Empire bill, and her clever turn evokes the lavish applause of hosts of admirers. That popular vocalist, Arthur Lennard, once again gets a gratifying reception; La Belle Titcombe presents her wonderfully trained horse with great success; J. W. Rickaby is a favourite comedian here; and Harry Marte also does well in a similar line. Billy M'Clain and company provide a laughter-provoking speciality; there is a clever dog show engineered by Max Yorke; the Vasilescu troupe of comedy gymnasts do a capital turn; and the Sisters Allen also make a successful appearance.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—A dramatic item, The Princely Betrayer, is the leading turn in a capital programme, Mr. Oscar Adye amongst others achieving distinction in its presentation. Mlle. de Rose repeats her vocal triumphs; Hilda Claremont is another pleasing vocalist; and Slippere, the blind musician, is wonderfully clever, and comes in for a big reception. Other good turns are subscribed by Pat Lynch and Stuart and Evans; Lieutenant Chard's dogs are seen in a wonderfully intelligent exhibition; J. H. Hawtrey enhances his reputation as actor-vocalist; and Talberto and Douglas score with an entertaining speciality.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford.—The leading turn here is Lafayette, an American artist, whose versatile turn makes a big impression, crowded audiences being nightly moved to vociferous applause. He promises the sensational act, The Lion's Bride, for the latter part of the week. A pair of very clever acrobats and tumblers, Olloms and Page, get a big reception; Phil Rees' Stable Lads again provide an acceptable turn; and other leading lights are the Three Sisters Silcott, Susie and Protti, Flo Warner, and May Fairclough.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Neville Graham and company head the bill with a successful episode, The Man in the Street; the Society Quartette provide a capital entertainment; Lillie Lassah, a pleasing comedienne and dancer, is again very popular; Charles Coll leads the comedians in clever style; Mike Cray, with his intelligent dog, makes a hit; whilst of the rest, the Calcotts, the Sisters Lytton, and Elton and Elma are particularly successful.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. Charles Hermann.—After the usual summer vacation this premier theatre reopened its doors on Monday evening, when a really first-rate performance of the still popular drama Alone in London was given by Mr. J. F. Elliston's company. The play has also the merit of being well staged. Miss Theresa Osborne displays exceptional histrionic ability as Nan, the flower girl, and Mr. Percy Rhodes as the unscrupulous Richard Redcliffe is also a conspicuous success; Mr. W. S. Hartford, an actor of ripe experience, leaves nothing to be desired as John Biddlecombe; Mr. Lonnen Meadows scores his usual success as Charley Johnson, and Miss Gertie Douglas as Liz Jenkinson is also very good; Miss Nellie Lauraine is a really smart exponent of the part of Mrs. Maloney; Miss Mary Stafford Smith is excellent as Chickweed, and as Little Paul Miss Elsie Clarke merits warm praise; Mr. Frank Sutherland is good as Spriggins, and both Mr. Percy Bell as Jenkinson and Mr. Harry McClelland as the banker, Mr. Burnaby, are deserving of eulogy.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R Beaumont.—After a short closure this popular drama house reopened on Monday evening, and presented a spick and span appearance after the thorough cleaning to which it has been subjected, and the redecoration of the whole of the building, begun a short time ago, is now completed. The opening attraction was provided by a first visit of Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's company in the modern drama, A Girl Redeemed from Sin, which met with a cordial reception from an audience that filled every part of the theatre; Miss Olive Fulton is a conspicuous success as Nancy Lee; Mr. Jo. Monkhouse, as Will May, is to be highly complimented on a performance of special merit; Mr. Clinton Baddeley is very good as Ernest Sylveston; and Mr. Victor Knight as Jim Jakes, Mr. Walle Spinner as the Hon. Bertie Boyes, and Miss Ada Oxley as Peggy Grey are responsible for amusing and clever embodiments; and Miss Fanny Olive as Mrs. Lee, Mr. Philippe Orr as Robert Denham, Mr. Gifforde Reynolds as Samuel Lee, and Mr. John Turpin as the Prison Governor are also to be singled out for credit. The play is mounted in good style.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—The usual big holiday audiences are unstinted in their delight at the smart programme submitted here, at the head of which is Miss Louie Freear, who is presenting the farcical absurdity, Snooks, in which this remarkably versatile little comedienne as Jemima, the slavey, has full scope for her talents. Miss Freear is assisted by a capable company. Daras is a smart conjurer, a really fine Spanish dancer, and a clever impersonator of various musical celebrities; the Brothers Webb are making a big hit as musical clowns; Barrett and Knowles are really funny comedians; Lottie Bovell is an attractive comedienne and clever dancer; Hawthorn and Burt are entertaining and popular Hebrew comedians and dancers; Howe and Ardie are excellent and novel comedy gymnasts; Walter Wade is a very good vocal comedian; and Gus Le Clerq tells some witty and smart things as a raconteur. A special feature is the Bioscope, showing exclusive films of the Leicestershire Agricultural Society.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—Large holiday audiences heartily appreciate the bill of fare here, at the head of which is Geo. M. Marriott and company in the sensational dramatic sketch, The Maid of the Alps, in which Mr. Marriott as Mother Pethard and Miss Edith Findlay as Louise are conspicuous, being admirably supported by Mr. Fred Conway, Frank Seton, and Mr. John A. Stimson. Miss Emmie Ames makes a hit with her songs, which are given with much daintiness and charm; Madge Field, comedienne and dancer, is another lady who is cordially received; Harry Bancroft scores a well-deserved success, and others in the programme are Rose Gaston, a popular and vivacious comedienne; Keane Harker, a capital eccentric; and Winnie Wentworth, comedienne. Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, as usual, is a strong feature, with well-shown films.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. A. Hurley.—Large holiday audiences are enthusiastic in their praise of the really fine assortment of moving pictures shown here this week, included in which are A Story of Treasure Island, A Bad Shilling, The Woman Who Wasn't, A Romance of the Fur Country, The Great Dieppe Motor Race, and Will Grandfather Forgive? which are interspersed with entertaining turns by Esta May, a capital vocalist, and Joe Audley, a popular local comedian. Mr. Hurley, the painstaking manager, has had the dome of the hall redecorated, and the stage and other parts of the building are undergoing thorough cleansing.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—The above theatre was reopened on Saturday night, when Mr. Dickie Clare presented for the first time here the musical absurdity entitled Lucky Lisa, and was accorded a hearty reception from a full house. Mr. Clare as Silas Slim kept the audience in roars of laughter; Miss Madge Brownie in the rôle of Eliza Bird pleased the audience immensely, her singing being greatly appreciated. Mr. Norman H. Lee admirably enacted the rôle of Paul Pettitoe, and Mr. J. W. Forrest caused much amusement by his droll sayings as the gardener William Biffins. Miss Evelyn Wood was a pleasing Sadie Potts, her singing being much admired; and La Belle Trio contributed a series of clever acrobatic dances. The remaining parts were all in capable hands.

LINCOLN. — ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope.—The theatre has been renovated, special attention being paid to the lighting and heating. The reopening attraction is The Liars, in which Mr. Leslie Faber and Miss Winifred Arthur Jones have scored a triumph. The support is thoroughly good. Mr. L. Willoughby is a forcible Falkner; Mr. W. Gregory is a painstaking Gilbert Nepean, and Mr. Frank Bickley a strong George Nepean, while Mr. Jerrold Manville's Coke is a rich piece of comedy; Miss Ethelwyn Arthur Jones as Lady Rosamund accentuates that character artistically, and Miss May Saker's Mrs. Coke is completely commendable.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. R. R. Black.—Bonnie Goodwin's Piccaninnies, with the aid of lively Lily Prince, score here in blithesome song and dance; the Arleys give a remarkable acrobatic turn, and Martinett and Wallace are a couple of coloured musicians of high quality. The Millicent Freres, Edie Reynolds, the Bartholomew Girls, Alice Lingard, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux add to the enjoyment of a strong bill.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The season commenced at this house on Monday with The Private Secretary, in the presence of a large audience. Mr. Donald Price-Evans delighted everybody with his Rev. Robert Spalding; Mr. W. Hargreave, it is needless to mention, kept his audience in a roar of laughter as the blunt Cattermole; the part of the persistent Gibson was delightfully presented by the able Mr. Frederick Tyrrell; Mr. Laurence Grove made an excellent Douglas Cattermole; the small parts of Edith and Eva were pleasingly undertaken by Miss Florence Trissilian and Miss Dorothy Ripley; Mrs. Alfred Davies did the most with the character of the chaperone; and Miss Cecily Wade acquitted herself as the landlady. The Wild Man from Borneo was a curtain-raiser.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—A Royal Divorce paid its fiftieth visit to this theatre on Monday, when Miss Edith Cole assumed, with her well-known charm, the rôle of Josephine. A new Napoleon was presented by Mr. Keith Fraser, whose reading of the part was intelligent and forceful; Mr. George Hudson made a humorous Grimaud, carefully refraining from "colouring"; excellent work came from Messrs. Percy H. Vernon (Talleyrand), Stanley Harrison (Marquis de Beaumont), and T. G. Bailey (General Augereau). Every credit was due to Miss Winnie Tempest, for her fine portrait of Marie Louise; and Miss Maude Lacy pleased as Stephanie. Mention should be made of a picturesque new drop curtain, from the brush of Mr. Thomas Holmes, the resident scenic artist of the Shakespeare Theatre, which was shown for the first time on Monday evening.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—For Love and the King has drawn large and enthusiastic audiences. Mr. C. Watson Mill had behind him a capable company. As the heroic Jarval, Mr. Mill quickly won the approval of his audience; Miss Rosalind Tate shared honours by her charming portrayal of Princess Athene; the powerful character of Michael Obrenovic was done full justice to by Mr. John Burton; thanks were certainly due to Mr. Henry Earlesmere for his Vladimir; Mr. Jim K. Woods presented a very humorous Carl Oppenheim; Miss Joan Ellis pathetically impersonated the unfortunate Natila; and other parts were capably sustained by Mr. Alfred Hilliard, Mr. Frank Lyndon, Mr. Arthur Trail, Mr. Geoffrey Chate, Miss Frances Tierney, Miss Laura Munro, and Miss Marie Ault.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The holiday attraction here this week has been In the Ranks. Mr. Jerrold Heather played the part of Ned Drayton with power; Miss Violet E. Lawson made an admirable Ruth Herrick; Mr. Andrew Money handled the rôle of Gideon Blake with tact and discretion; Messrs. Bert Lloyd and Walter Thornton ably impersonated Colonel Wynter and Captain Holcroft; Mr. Arthur Crompton proved a humorous Tim O'Flannigan, assisted by Miss Vibray Weaver as Mrs. O'Flannigan; and good support also came from Miss Doris Whyte (Barbara Herrick), Mr. P. Beaufoy (Farmer Herrick), and Mr. Ern Carlton (Joe Buzzard). The company is under the direction of Mr. Beresford Whitcomb.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—Heading a strong programme are the merry Phil Ray, and Carlotta Kara, to both of whom were given hearty receptions; The Organ Grinder is a powerful sketch, well presented by Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph De Cordova and company; Hymack proved as merry as ever; the Three Prestons gave their amusing absurdity, The Liftman's Rise; a pretty and popular scena, The Silver Coon, was submitted by the Ten Dixie Girls, including Miss May Carter; as one-legged equilibrists and dancers, the Bros. Diamond showed to advantage; and other artists in the list were J. G. Aitken, Scotch comedian; and Lena Verdi, comedienne and eccentric dancer.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Granville.—On Saturday evening last a seven nights' engagement was commenced here, with The Conscience of a Judge. Among the principals were Messrs. Kenyon, Musgrove, and Laurence Stevenson, Miss Barbara Fenn, and Miss Elsie Isaacs.

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Miss Helen Roberts, with her Salome and other dances, well merited the rounds of applause she received for her charming and graceful work. Prominent also was George D'Albert, who brought his latest successes; the audience thoroughly enjoyed the funny juggling of Griff; Nash and Noel proved a particularly diverting couple of comedians; an amusing and clever animal show was provided by Silbon; and likewise in the list were Crissie Cross, vocalist and dancer; Joe Archer, comedian; and the Leonas, expert banjoists, with their illuminated musical novelty act.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the programme here this week are Jake Friedman and company, with the artistic and funny operetta, Happy Holland; a neat vaudeville turn came from Albert Bellman and Lottie Moore; Kendrick and Laura submitted an appreciated interlude; Dolly Ross danced and sang in a manner that won much applause; the quaint humour of George Antill made everybody laugh; smart work on the silver chains was done by the Three Donals; Ryder Slone had some amusing songs; an acceptable scena, The Nightingale, was provided by the Two Kays; and the Zaid Trio, with an Oriental speciality, also appeared.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Woman from Nowhere, by Arthur Shirley, has been presented here this week by the "Royal" stock dramatic company. The principal parts were ably undertaken by Messrs. Harry Tresham, Robb Wilton, Cecil Ravenswood, Sydney Grant, R. Seath Innes, Miss Florence Palmer, Miss Lilian Radbourne, and Miss Florence Cameron. Mr. Anthony Brown's Bioscope showed the latest films.

OLYMPIA.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—A welcome visit here this week has been that of Alexandre and Hughes, who kept their audience in shouts of laughter; the remarkable vocal powers of L'Incognita earned for the lady general applause; Tom Edwards caused a deal of merriment with his ventriloquial doll, "Curly"; the Bros. Horne had a comedy boxing match, which aroused much laughter; a flattering reception was given to Gertie Gitana for her dancing and singing; Harold Thorley rendered several numbers in capital style; the Borellis had some smart mimicry, which was funny; and contributions likewise came from Frank Couch, comedian; and Aida Martine, comedienne and dancer.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. Henry Hearn.—Foremost here this week has been William Garland and Fred Douglas's company, with A Trip to Coontown, which proved amusing; Le Diabelo went through a sensational performance on "the Devil's Wheel"; smart acrobatic work came from the juvenile Denaro Bros.; a clever second sight performance was given by the Days; Mabel Robarts had some pretty illustrated songs; as juggler and equilibrist Marlo afforded satisfaction; and also on the programme were George Young, blind musician; and Amos Howard, dancing comedian.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Ritson.—Mr. Arthur Roberts opened here on Monday for the week, in a répertoire of sketches, entitled Courtship and Marriage, Till Sunday, Packing Up, A Midnight Kiss, and The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife. In Till Sunday, Mr. Roberts is the life and soul of the piece, keeping the audience in roars of laughter throughout, undertaking a triple part; Miss Ruby Celeste as Mrs. St. Hilary is excellent, and most winsome in manner; Mr. Harry Huddlestone is good as Biggs; and Mr. William Rokeby well placed as Mr. St. Hilary.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Baron H. Harriss' company are here for six nights, in The Prince of Pilson. The chief interest is centred in Mr. Harry Kilburn as Hans Wagner, his comicalities being loudly applauded; Miss Sophie Harriss as Mrs. Maddison Crocker being a commanding figure, and singing well; Mr. Leslie Owen as Carl Otto is well placed; and Mr. Arthur Geary as Lieut. Tom Wagner sings excellently. Mr. Charles Rogers as Arthur de Willoughby gives a good representation; and Mr. Ernest Gifford as François is remarkably smart with his footwork.

PIER HEAD VARIETIES.—Local Manager, Mr. A. R. Sutcliffe.—Mr. Malcolm Scott heads the bill here, and keeps enormous audiences convulsed whilst he occupies the boards; Miss Lube Gillespie has a soprano voice far above the average; Miss Edith Benson also finds favour; Mr. Paddy Dupres scores as a comedian; Mr. A. R. Sutcliffe, the local favourite, is as popular as ever; and Mr. Bernard Knox is an efficient accompanist.

PIER PAVILION.—Secretary, Mr. S. Hughes.—The pier orchestra is now at full strength, and under Mr. A. W. Payne, of London, has crowded audiences nightly. On Saturday, Madame Crossley and Miss Lucy Nuttall sang magnificently; and an hour before the concert commenced seats were at a premium.

LONGTON. — QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Proprietors, Longton Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. H. Sherriff Howard.—This popular house reopened to a very large audience on Monday with Mr. T. Edward Ward's company in The Love of the Princess, a piece eminently suitable to the habitués. Miss Ward gives a charming reading of the Princess, and together with Mr. Wilson Coleman as Prince Conrad—a very fine performance—enlist the sympathies of the audience throughout. Mr. Ernest E. Imeson is excellently suited in the part of Count Nicholas; Mr. C. H. Dobell as the King, if somewhat lacking in dignity, makes up for it in intensity; Miss Nellie Garside and Mr. George Antley relieve the piece with some laughable comedy, and Messrs. Beckett Bould, Graham Winsford, Charles Herberte, and Miss Helen Elmar are all worthy of especial mention. The piece is most sumptuously mounted and dressed.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Miss Hook of Holland is presented this week by Mr. Geo. Dance's company. Miss Amy Gray works charmingly in the name-part, and Miss Cissie Sephton affords much genuine humour as Mina; Mr. Tom Shale scores admirably as Mr. Hook, and Ludwig Scnapps is carefully played by Mr. Geo. Mudie, jun.; Mr. Tom Seymour does well as Simon Slinks, and Mr. Crimp scores in the character of the Bandmaster. For the latter part of the week The Girls of Gottenberg is staged.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—A crowded Bank Holiday audience witnessed the programme here on Monday. At the top of the bill we have the pleasing and ever-welcome Elliotts and Savonas, the famous musical specialists and expert cyclists, who were recalled again and again; Miss Florence renders in pleasing style some capital illustrated vocal numbers, and the British Biograph Company present the latest and best pictorial subjects.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—Gunner Moir and a very strong variety company gave their services at this theatre on Friday last, July 31, on the occasion of the popular manager's third annual benefit, and to judge by the crowded house he was accorded a good benefit. During the interval Mr. Beard suitably thanked those present for the support they had given him on that evening and during the time he had been in charge of the theatre.—The season commenced at this theatre on Monday with Mr. Austin Knight's drama Mysteries of the Thames, which is put on well and supported by a very good and strong cast.

MAIDENHEAD.—PAVILION PLEASURE GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. G. Gude.—For the Bank Holiday entertainments good preparation was made; still it was impossible to meet the demand to accommodate the immense crowd. Commencing on this day, the style of programme is altered by the introduction of Oriental colouring. New scenery has been painted, and the dressing of the troupe is changed. The two ladies (Miss Twort and Miss Delamere) appear as Japanese maidens; the two comedians (Will Harris and Leo Fallowfield) are dressed as Chinamen; and Mr. Jack Anders (light comedian) and Mr. Colin Gent retain the cadet costume. The programme is of the usual attractive character, each performer being thoroughly capable in his or her own line, and the applause is unstinted. The concerted numbers give evidence of careful preparation, and the incidental "gag" introduced is highly amusing. The sketch, The Runaway Schoolgirl, which was so well received a short time since, is repeated. As a special holiday attraction Miss Edith Manley is engaged; her songs, with topical and impromptu verses, make a decided hit.

MAIDSTONE. — PALACE. — Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—Miss Marie Dainton is the attraction here this week, and to judge by the hearty reception accorded her on Monday her popularity is as great as ever, her imitations of well-known theatrical celebrities being well received. Cliff Ryland is always a favourite here, and his store of stories seems inexhaustible; Chas. Banks and his clever dog Woof are popular; Jo Belmont is a clever whistler; the Jollies, entertainers and vocalists, give a smart turn. Others appearing are Miss Ray Ford, comedienne and dancer; Miss Rita Rhylle, comedienne; Jack Hart, comedian, and the pictures.

CORN EXCHANGE.—Drama holds the boards here this week, and Miss Maud Western's company is being well received in The Prodigal Son and A Mother's Redemption.

MANCHESTER.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Andrew.—Topping the bill here this week are the Geni Family, in an original Risley acrobatic display; Edith St. Clare is a pleasing comedienne; J. W. Gallagher, comedian, is well received; the Sisters Terry are entertaining duettists and character comediennes; and other interesting turns include Moon and Morris, comedians and dancers; Spangles and Sawdust, in an aerial act; Bert Bowden, a quaint comedian; Jack Foley, comedian; Louie Harman, in her new repertoire of songs; and Fritz Kornan, whistler.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—The appearance of George Robey at the top of the programme here this week is ensuring large and delighted audiences; while Henry Coutts, supported by a smart company, is seen to advantage in his great protean sketch, Outflanked. Ethel Haydon, a refined vocalist, is well received, as usual; Les Marbas, humorists and acrobatic dancers, are a capital turn; an accomplished musical turn is given by the Cavallotti Brothers; the Simms (Rosa and Kitty) are distinctly successful in their vocal and dancing act, From School to Stage; while other good turns are added by Hans and Lux, the comic college chums; Will Musgrave, comedian; and Mazie Hibbs, vocalist and speciality dancer.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Resident-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Chung Ling Soo, the well-known conjurer, is the top star attraction here this week, and he succeeds in bewildering with a series of marvellous tricks, all neatly performed. T. B. Vaughan and John Lawson's company are highly successful in W. W. Jacob's amusing sketch, The Boatswain's Mate, which is well acted; Tom Terriss and Betty Gordon play well in a farcical sketch, Just We Two; Rex Fox gives an exceedingly clever ventriloquial and musical act on the slack wire; Orpheus, a master of melody, wins great applause for his delightful musical scena, The Deputy; and Will English makes a big hit with his burlesque "walks." Other entertaining items are those of the King's College Boys, vocalists; the Twin Andersons, clever dancers; a part song by the Choir; "Honey, you'se ma lady love," illustrated song, well sung by Mildred Timms, of the Choir; and some smart Bioscope pictures.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—An excellent programme here is headed by Edmund Bosanquet and company in The Fiddler's Windfall, an entertaining and clever episode; while the Juanitos Troupe of acrobats worthily share the principal honours. Harry Blake, comedian, makes a big hit in his songs and patter; Seims, king of illusionists, is highly popular; Dottridge and Instone's company in Rosie's Birthday Party, provide a clever and delightful act; and other capital turns are the Ramsey Trio, knockabout comedians; Chas. Lilburn, comedian; Hilda De Grey, Tyrolean vocalist; the Musical Morrellis; Day and Knight, the musical bachelors, and Shavo, expert comedy juggler.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr Walter de Frece; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Marie Loftus, delightful as ever, is to the front here this week, and her skit, Singers, Past and Present, is a fine bit of burlesque; Carl Hertz, assisted by Emmeline D'Alton, is successful in several neat illusions; Belle Braham, the pictorial songstress, proves very popular; Alf Ripon, Scotch ventriloquist, is deservedly well received; and other good turns are the Haydas Troupe, sensational comedy acrobats; Baby Vi-Davis, a clever juvenile; the Brothers Ford, smart dancers; Daisy Martell, comedienne and dancer; and Will Johnson, comedian, with some good patter. Pictures on the Bioscope are also included in the programme.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur R. Wilkes.—Charles Angelo, of musical comedy fame, is very much to the front here this week in a pleasing musical pot-pourri entitled Apres le Théâtre, assisted by six very charming actresses, including Christine Ray, the original Continental "Gibson Girl." The Royal Welsh Entertainers, including a clever lady harpist, meet with a big reception, their singing being exceedingly good; Arthur Albert, vocal comedian, sings well, and is greatly appreciated; Rose Cambry, Australian burlesque artist, is well received; and Madge Bryce is a pleasing comedienne with catchy songs. Others who provide good turns are Charles Denton, comedian; the Sisters Les Fleur, duettists and dancers; Sharon, in musical speciality; and Agnes Hanson, comedienne. Ruffell's Bioscope pictures complete.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—The Power of the King, well adapted to suit two shows a night, excellently presented by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, Travis Green, and Arthur Hinton's company, is the attraction here this week. In the heroic parts Messrs. Gerald Blake, Charles Whitlock, and Miss Leila Zillwood are seen to advantage as Captain Rupert Landgrave, King of Vallombrosa, and Lady Annastasia respectively; whilst in the sinister parts Messrs. Travis Green, John H. Firmin, and Miss Georgina V. France are equally good. The lighter vein is well brought out by Misses Wilton Drury, Fred Hughes, and Miss Grace Barton. The scenery is good.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. Kay.—After a highly successful week at the Metropole Theatre, Herbert Lloyd's excellent company are the attraction here in that screaming extravaganza, Happy Hooligan, to the delight of large audiences.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Secretary and Acting-Manager, Mr. George Phillips.—The programme here, which is up to its usual high standard, includes Charley Harvey, the droll; A. J. Braddock, solo pianist; Harrison Latimer, baritone vocalist; Jimmy Watson, comedian; Edna Barrett, comedienne and dancer; Fred Barnes, light comedian; and an absurdity entitled The Broken Statue, played by Charley Harvey and Co.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hardy.—Nothing could have provided a brighter holiday attraction than the presentation here of W. Somerset Maugham's delightful play, Lady Frederick, with Miss Mabel Love in the title-rôle. The happy, sunny philosophy of Mr. Maugham's heroine just strikes the right note, and Miss Mabel Love's winsome interpretation of the part, especially in the famous dressing-room scene, has carried the audience with her completely. Her acting, in conjunction with Mr. Robert Minster as Mr. Baradine Fouldes, has won delighted encomiums and applause as the audience have watched the battle of wits upon which the two enter, and which ends in a complete victory for both sides, if such a thing can be possible. Mr. Patrick Quill sustains the rôle of Sir Gerald O'Mara with briskness; and Miss Eleanor Delaporte plays with effectiveness the part of Lady Mereston, who goes to any length to prevent her son, Lord Mereston (Mr. B. F. Meads) marrying the bewitching Lady Frederick. Mr. Edward Bondfield, as the ambitious and scheming usurer, Capt. Montgomery, is good; and Capt. Gerald Gamber makes an excellent Admiral Carlisle. Miss Lyan Fontanne plays Rose Carlisle pleasingly; and the remaining characters, Thompson (Mr. John Orme), Pierre (Mr. Frank Hillary), Mme. Claude (Miss Beatrice Grosvenor), Albert (Mr. Bruce Smith), and Angelique (Miss Rita Ward), are all efficiently played. The Peacemaker is the curtain-raiser each evening.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The holiday bill of fare is headed by Miss Marie Lloyd, and there have been crowded audiences at both performances nightly. Miss Lloyd has had a magnificent reception, and on Monday night she, at the two houses, had to do no less than ten "turns." She has some quite up-to-date songs, which have been received with great enthusiasm. Vestor, eccentric musician and lightning cartoonist, also has the merit of being up-to-date with Sievier and Dorando among his sketches; Hayes and Watson give a smart exhibition of dancing; and Josie Gallimore, soubrette and speciality dancer, sings pleasingly and dances splendidly; Jack Roland, the happy cowboy, is a man with a remarkable depth of voice; and Johnny Fuller, the cat on the wire, is exceedingly good. A turn by Ella Lane and the usual series of animated pictures complete the programme, the enjoyment of which is much enhanced by the playing of an efficient and effective orchestra, directed by Mr. Wendel Compton.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Sole Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Evans.—A big holiday crowd filled this large building at both the afternoon and evening shows on Bank Holiday, and a good attendance has been the rule during the week. Arthur Rose, in a scena, The Actor's Last Call, gives evidence of high histrionic ability, and has been deservedly applauded for his capable rendering of a difficult subject, in which he portrays Shylock with great dramatic force; Carrie Harding and Jack Preston, comedy artists and speciality dancers, appear with success in various comedy creations, including The Editor and the New Sub; Zaro and Arno, comedians, are extremely funny in their horizontal bar act, in which they create roars of laughter; Dorothy Dacre presents a novelty in vaudeville; Will Cornish gives a unique musical speciality, in which he plays sweet-toned bells and various instruments with effectiveness; the Bob Pender Troupe, eight in number, described as the fun-makers, do not belie their title, and in their pantomimical comedy, The Long and the Short of It, keep the audience highly amused.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, the South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. W. Player.—Geoffrey Langdon's Wife, presented by Mr. Fred C. Somerfield's company, formed an attractive Bank Holiday programme. Miss Cissy Bellamy admirably sustained the part of Mary, and Miss Elsie Capel scored as the Hon. Mrs. Sand; Mr. Paul Beckett plays powerfully as Felix Beverley; Mr. Edward E. Louis successfully undertakes the part of Jack Stirling; Mr. W. E. Passmore does well as Colonel Miles, and Thomas and Sweet Nancy have capable representatives in Mr. Percy Brown and Miss Kate Lever.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The reopening of this hall took place on Monday Bank Holiday with a programme of unusual excellence, contributed by musical selections by Richard Karsy's Mynophone, Mlle. Haydee's miniature vaudeville theatre, De Henau, who paints pictures with his toes; Mlle. Aladina's well-trained cockatoos; Nellie Dunbar, comedienne; Delafiore, xylophone expert; the Lashmars, comedy acrobats; and Irene and Morton. An excellent array of Biograph pictures include Diabolical Itching, The Lazy Man, A Briton's Promise, Nocturnal Thieves, The Counterfeit Coin, and The Music Teacher.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. T. Morton Powell's company is this week presenting Greed of Gold. Mr. James Jarrell plays with intense power the part of the dumb man, Tom Welstead; the rôle of Harry Hood is cleverly taken by Mr. W. H. Domoney; Mr. Chas. Stafford shows ability as Arthur Errol; as Cully Snig Mr. Sydney Bryant is a typical tipster; Mr. J. Narston imparts the humour of the Emerald Isle to the character of Conn Creamer; Miss Elma C. Turner plays with dramatic instinct in the part of Dora; Miss Beatrice May Hughes does well as Cecil; and Miss S. Bryant is a capital Patty Manfield.

NEW PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Will Hunter; Manager, Mr. E. H. Jones.—The Bank Holiday programme here is an exceptionally good one, some of the leading pictures being A Red Man's Justice, The Corsican's Revenge, Physician of the Castle, The Poacher's Wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jollygood Go Tandeming, &c.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—The well-known drama, Man to Man is being presented here this week by Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Frank Adair's company. The play is admirably staged, and the representation of a railway collision, and the escape of convicts from Portland form striking instances of stage realism, and the interest in the development of a powerful story is well sustained throughout; Mr. Frank Adair gives a capital impersonation of the part of Richard Ellerton; and the rôle of George Gordon is in the capable hands of Mr. Edward Lloyd. Mr. Herbert Williams is exceedingly good as Samuel Plumtree; and Mr. H. Holland does well as Matthew Ellerton. Miss Louie Adair is very pleasing in the rôle of Ethel Maythorne; and Miss Evelyn Warde is good as Lavina Dove. Mr. Denham Muir does full justice to the part of the Rev. Philip Dormond; and Mr. Clifford Brown is very amusing as Bill Burkley, a convict.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Jno. Ed. Jowsey; Manager, Mr. W. Ker Chatto.—Leah Kleschna is the holiday attraction here this week. The drama is being presented by Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company, and the performance is thoroughly enjoyed by large audiences. Miss Bessie Rignold, in the title-rôle, has an emotional part of no small difficulty to portray, but she comes out of the ordeal with great distinction; the same may be said of Mr. William Clayton, who appears as Kleschna; while Mr. Hamilton Deane gives an excellent interpretation of Paul Sylvaine; Mr. Algernon Hicks is excellent as Roone Benton; and Mr. Gilbert Heron does full justice to the part of Schram; Mr. Chas. Barrett as General Burton and Valentine Favre, Miss Ethel Russell as Madame Burton, and Miss Emmie Wallace as their daughter, are all that can be desired.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembyes.—A capital programme is provided here this week, and amongst a number of old favourites none enjoyed a more cordial reception than Albert Whelan, a versatile and accomplished entertainer, who quite delights the audience; Terry and Lambert, old favourites with Teesiders, are as good as ever in their character sketches; whilst Peter Bermingham, a quaint little Scotch comedian, who is on his first year's tour, has a great future before him. His songs are very witty, and he keeps the audience in a constant roar of laughter with his patter; Ethel Bourne is a charming contralto; and Boyd and Gilfain are delightful in a vocal sketch.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf. Graham.—Large holiday audiences greatly appreciate the programme given here this week. Exceedingly clever is Halma, who gives a fine exhibition of juggling; Les Rubens also contribute an enjoyable turn in a vocal scena, "A gipsy encampment"; Vaubert, an illusionist, gives a smart entertainment; and other turns are given by Stevens and Renner, Amy and Ada, the Ormesby Quartette, Julian Mack, Dallas and Varden, and Brady and Johnson.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. C. M. Julian.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company, in Wilson Barrett's last play, Lucky Durham, have been appearing with success this week. A fine interpretation of the part of Durham has been given by Mr. S. Herbert Humber; and Miss Alice E. Belmore has proved a charming Helen. Mr. Arthur Leigh has delighted all with his clever light comedy as Reggie; and all other parts are well cast. Admirable indeed is the mounting.

ALHAMBRA PALACE. — Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—Topping the bill, Agnes Spadoni and her well-trained horses have proved a sure draw; Mackinnon's Scottish Meisters, in their vocal extravaganza, Ancestral Spirits, have delighted everybody; Mlle. Laserno's performing cats have pleased at each house; the Sisters Ford have proved their ability as character duettists; Gibbon and Bell present a really novel acrobatic and dancing act, Wanted a Partner; those funny comedians, Walton and Lester, are quite up-to-date; and some clever work on the wire is presented by Johnson and Devere. Frank Coyle and Drum and Major have purveyed comedy; whilst great fun has also been caused by Brayne and Lloyd, in The Tree of Truth.

WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Atkinson.—A very good bill has pleased holiday-makers. Miss Madge Temple, of musical comedy fame, has proved very popular, and her songs are excellent; Morny Cash has demonstrated what humour there is in the Lancashire lad; and Jack and Evelyn have made furious fun. Clever comedy cycling has been contributed by Lotto, Lilo, and Otto; and Burley and Burley have "twisted" and made merry on every occasion. Other features are the Four Karnos, in The Dinner Hour; the Bohemians, smart instrumentalists; Victor and Louis, comedians and vocalists; Passmore Bros., novel dancers; and Blake and Amber, frivolity artists.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr. Emilius Hill.—Tschernoff's wonderfully-trained horses and dogs have proved a magnetic attraction here, and it is certainly a fine act; F. A. Martell has balanced and danced on his finger-tips, to the delight of all looking for a good thing; clever shooting has been accomplished by Major Charles, Vera and Lillian; Oliver Conroy is irresistibly funny in make-up, gag, and dance; the Dartons are nice duettists; the Betsons have a smart comedy cycling act; Arthur Harris sings really good descriptive songs; and Hicks and Hunter are neat skate dancers.

WEST END PIER.—Madame Ella Russell and W. Backhaus gave a most successful concert here last Sunday, and Madame Albani sang on one night. During the week the Middies and Maids, and Herr Morgann's Blue Hungarian Band have been the attractions.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hales.—The dramatic season opened here on Monday, Mr. Herbert Skardon and H. Sherwood Martin's company appearing in The Way of the World. Mr. J. P. M. M'Bryde is well suited in the rôle of Cecil Hardy; his sorely-tried wife finding an equally apt exponent in Miss Nellie de Lacy; Mr. Clarence Temple submits a refined bit of character acting as Matthew Malyon, a circus proprietor; the villainous captain, Slade, and his equally villainous associate, Lady Adela, find excellent exponents in Mr. Victor Gordon and Miss Marie Fontaine; and Mr. Augustus Hammond is to be congratulated for the able manner in which he played the part of Horatio Bluff. There is abundance of comedy work in which Miss Violet Vivienne and Mr. D'Arcy Kelway shine.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. H. E. Jones and A. Douglass.—Miss Bessie Travis, ventriloquist, Mr. Fenton Cross, speciality entertainer, and Mr. G. Maston, mimic, have made distinct successes here. Mr. Walter Stanton in his cockatoo and rooster impersonations has caused wonder, his properties and business in both performances being excellent; Les Bollingers, Parisian rag pickers and painters, do a unique turn; Miss Mina Denvil sings admirably, and Mr. H. E. High, skater, Miss Mary Parkinson, soprano, and Miss Queenie, child vocalist and dancer, distinguish themselves. Herr Spiegler and the beautiful animated pictures complete a fine programme.

TOWER AND GROUNDS.—Directing-Manager, Mr. J. Calvin Brown; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Ellis.—Bank Holiday saw a great crowd all over the grounds, whilst the theatre did fine business. The Four Scorreys, Miss Mollie Doon, Messrs. Herbert and Linden, and the Towerscope were all splendidly received. The Wild West and other side shows were largely patronised.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. W. G. Sutton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Parker.—A large audience assembled on Bank Holiday to witness the performance of the Pierrots. There is an excellent company, including Mr. Tom Stuart, Master Charles Bray, Messrs. Morton and Bowman, Mr. Arthur Aldridge, Miss Evelyn Goldard, and Miss Audrey Esmonde. One and all greatly please the audience. Mr. Stanley Holt is the able accompanist.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—This theatre was re-opened on Monday evening, after the summer vacation, with the ever-popular farcical comedy, Tom, Dick, and Harry. Mr. George Unwin as the choleric General is exceedingly clever; and the title-parts, Tom, Dick, and Harry, are smartly represented by Mr. Fred Conyers, Mr. Dennis Bryan, and Mr. Legai Robinson. Mr. William Foley, as a French barber, is good; and the ladies of the company, Miss Lorna Lawrence, Miss Marie Lewis, Miss Jessie Price, and Miss Ida Scott, handle their parts with discriminating skill and effectiveness. As a curtain-raiser was presented a new one-act play, entitled The Way Out, a notice of which appears in another column.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The attraction for the opening night here was the new musical comedy, The Belle of the Ball. The company has been well chosen by Miss Violet Osmund. Miss Gertrude Melville, who plays Poppy, the belle of the ball, sustains the part cleverly, and receives excellent support from Mr. Robert Hyett as the squire (Mr. James Chippendale), Miss Ethel Bertram, Miss L'Estrange, and Miss Maud Terry. The bulk of the fun is in the hands of Mr. Johnnie Schofield, who has a characteristic part, and proves once more his great ability as a comedian.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. T. W. Rowe.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden this week present the ever-popular drama, The Village Blacksmith. The leading rôle is played by Mr. Sam Livesey with great force and truthfulness; and Mr. Albert Sinclair is equally successful as Captain Leo. Other parts are in capable hands.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. F. W. Bolam.—Miss Grace Warner and her company are here this week, and opened on Monday evening with The Scarlet Clue. Miss Warner, in the rôle of Scarlet Sal, has an exacting part, which she ably plays; whilst Mr. George Gordon lends excellent support as the gentlemanly villain. East Lynne and Lady Audley's Secret are also billed.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—The star this week is Mr. Arthur Playfair, in a sketch, 327, Finsbury. Other excellent turns are those of Wild, Willie, and West, the bounding navvies, Shaun Glenville and company, Gena Manon, Cummin and Seaham, Derrington Family, Lily Black, Will Hay's Juveniles, and Enid Errol and company.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—Reano and his famous band are at the head of an excellent bill this week. It is a combination of thirty instrumentalists, and on Monday evening came in for a well-deserved ovation. Ludwig Amann, impersonator, receives another big welcome. George B. Reno and company evoke screams of laughter with his burlesque military drill; Vanando's ventriloquism is also a feature of the bill; and Ian Colquhoun, the well-known baritone, sings a couple of good songs. A well-performed little sketch is presented by Arthur Jefferson; Little Keeno proves quite a wonderful comedian for his years; Bessie Butt sings and dances in a bright and entertaining style; and the comedy of Mitchell and Cain has considerable merit. The Bioscope completes.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett.—Reopened on Monday, with a continuation of varieties. Green and Wood give an acrobatic display, which is both clever and comical, and highly appreciated; Carney Bros., character vocalists, please with their vocal scena, "Brothers in a true tale of everyday life"; Rene, the girl juggler, receives a flattering reception; Frank Haskoll entertains at the piano; Vandinoff, assisted by Mme. Louie, shows his skill in oil colours; Phyllis Seymour, dainty soubrette and dancer; Roy Beavis, conjuror; and Master May, boy vocalist, all meet with favour. The Premier Imperial Pictures are greatly in advance of previous displays here.

THE NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Thos. A. Evans; Musical-Director, Walter Ashton.—The Five Rays, in a gymnastic display, "Mad Merry Moments," have a method that is immensely amusing; Madge Beresford is a charming and captivating comedienne, with some taking songs; Johnny Dwyer, the versatile comedian, is here again with success; Maude Beaumont, "the lady with a big voice" and an imposing presence, is also a success; Billy Ross and company, in Maloney's Troubles, give a mixed turn of dancing and boxing; the Three Orleans appear in song and dance act; the Watson Family are here again in their musical medley; the Four Delawares, dancers, &c., and Horace Shrillo, whistler, also appear; and the Palace Pictures take their usual place on the programme. The excellent orchestra has been augmented, and the overture, "Popular airs," arranged by Bandmaster W. Ashton, is a great success.

FRANKLIN'S GARDENS.—Proprietor, R. Wainwright.—Good amusement of a varied description was provided on Bank Holiday, for the patrons of these beautiful gardens. Herman's performance on the high wire was intensely thrilling, and was highly applauded; the Great Hodginis gave a good turn on the aerial revolving ladder; La Dor Troupe gained applause for their pleasing act; the Matadors were screamingly funny in their sketch, The Spanish Bullfight. The Testo Brothers, in a musical comedy act; the Two Clarkes, on the globe; Sinclair, juggler; Calile and Rene, on the flying rings; Casselly, table jumper; and the Bodley Brothers, also furnished meritorious turns. Capt. Bidmead, with the new captive balloon, "Wren," was also well patronised for short aerial journeys. The Rushden Volunteer Silver Prize Band and the Finedon Old Prize Band were also engaged.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—This house, after having been redecorated, &c., reopened for the season on Saturday evening last, when Mr. Lingford Carson's répertoire company commenced a seven nights' engagement, The Ticket-of-Leave Man being the attraction. As Robert Brierley Mr. G. Ed. Hall gave a good representation of the part; and Mr. Eric Forth scored as James Dalton. Hawkshaw was capably undertaken by Mr. Ernest J. Fare; Mr. Will White was seen to advantage as Melter Moss; Mr. Arthur Mervin acquitted himself creditably as Green Jones; and Mr. J. P. Lallen did well as Mr. Gibson. Miss Amy McNeill was much appreciated as Emily St. Evremond; Miss Rosa Mervyn gave a satisfactory portrayal of May Edwards; Miss F. Ferina was clever as Sam Willoughby; and Miss Emma Rainbow made the most of Mrs. Willoughby. The Heart of a Hero, A Modern Adventuress, and The Octoroon have also been successfully produced during this week.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—The top of the bill here is occupied by Kennedy's Kiddies, in an entertaining vocal terpsichorean and athletic scena, which has been heartily greeted. Miss Frances Haskoll, with her illustrated songs, has been much appreciated; and Prof. Marvelle's Cockatoos have been one of the hits of the programme. Herr Liston, animal impersonator; Mr. Jim Hilbert, eccentric comedian; the Vocal Chameleon, and the Mouldoscope all contribute successfully.

NORTHWICH. — PAVILION AND PLEASURE GARDENS.—Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Fletcher; Managing-Director, Mr. Hy. S. Dacre.—The above place of amusement was opened on Monday night under the most favourable auspices. The building, which is situated on the banks of the Dane, is admirably appointed, and no expense has been spared to ensure the comfort of both audience and artists. It is decorated in pink and white, and lit throughout with electric light. Commodious dressing-rooms are provided, and the auditorium is comfortably fitted up with crimson plush tip-up chairs for the better-class seats. A covered promenade along one side of the building, tastefully decorated with shrubs and flowers, allows members of the audience to enjoy a stroll and at the same time listen to the performance, as one side of the pavilion can be thrown open. Arrangements have been made for first-class concert parties, and on Monday The Whims opened to a house packed from floor to ceiling. In addition to this excellent party the management have secured the services of Mr. Wheelan (operatic tenor) and Mme. Marie D'Alcourt (soprano).

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Frank Bertram's excellent company is appearing here this week to good houses in The Breed of the Treshams. Mr. Sydney Bland acts with much force and power as Lieut. Reresby, called "The Rat"; Mr. Alfred Hollies is very good as Viscount Dorsington; Mr. W. R. Winning as Colonel Hungerford and Mr. George Traill as Colonel Sir Henry Curwen ably fill their respective parts; Mr. Howard Brenman is satisfactory as the Hon. Francis Trensham; Miss Mildred Hodson is charming as the Hon. Margaret Hungerford, and Batty is pleasingly given by Miss Grace Harlington. The dresses are effective.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—This week's programme is much appreciated. Mr. Arthur Croxon, mimetic comedian, is well received; Bert Danson; American eccentric comedian, is equally appreciated; the Royal Delomes as duettists and dancers in their speciality, The Phantom Clogs, receive much applause; and Fred Sinclair and Gracie Whiteford, in their sketch, Getting Even, create great fun; Hanvaar and Lee, in The Golfer and the Maid, are clever with the clubs and knockabout business; the Three Calbas, in Fun in a Billiard-Room, exhibit much muscular power and skilful hand-balancing; and Miss Florence Burns, ballad vocalist; Mark Leslie, swell coon; Hampton and Ranman, Darktown minstrels, and the Hippo. Biograph, with interesting pictures, are also in the programme.

AGRICULTURAL HALL ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—The Royal Canadian Animated Pictures announce the close of their successful and lengthened season on Saturday next.

ARCADIA LAWN, THORPE GARDENS.—A company of pierrot serenaders are giving pleasing entertainments, which are highly appreciated and patronised.

NOTTINGHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The autumn season had a good send-off on Monday last, when Mr. Milton Bode's company appeared in The Bell of Mayfair. Premier honours must be accorded Miss Queenie Finnis for her charming embodiment of Julia Chaldicott; Miss Blanche Astley makes a delightfully pert Pincott; and Mrs. Paula Fernau is capitally placed as the Countess of Highgate. Mr. Harry Parker is inimitable as Sir John Chaldicott, and never over-emphasises the part; Mr. Edward Hugounet play with the right touch of comedy as Raymond Finchley; and the singing of Mr. Laurence Wensley as Hugh Meredith is a feature of the performance; Mr. Lauri Lisle is sufficiently polite in the character of the Count; and Mr. G. McCloskie makes a suave Dr. Lawrence. Miss De Loviere as the Gibson Girl earns hearty commendation; and Miss Nellie Cozens represents Lady Chaldicott with admirable taste.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—Two Little Vagabonds is proving a huge success this week. Miss Florence Dalton gives a very natural presentation of the much-wronged wife, Marion Thornton, and gains the warmest praise; Miss Denise Zaleski (Dick) and Miss Alice Leon (Wally) acquit themselves with great credit; Miss Marion Fawcett proves thoroughly efficient as Barbara Scarth; and a welcome touch of humour is given by Miss Marie Pritchard in the part of Biddy Mullins. As the jealous husband, George Thornton, the vigorous acting of Mr. Richard Greene is greatly enjoyed; and Mr. Arthur B. Melborne makes a capable exponent of Captain Darville. A good character study of Bill Mullins is supplied by Mr. Martin Sands; Mr. Edmund Cuthbert does well as Leeson; and is ably supported by Messrs. Stanley Field and Fred Archer.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—The visit of Walter Passmore, in The Constable and the Pictures, is drawing huge audiences, and the fun runs fast and furious. He is capitally assisted by Miss Mary Fraser and Charles Childerstone; two smart artists are seen in Hill and Whitaker, whose music and song prove thoroughly interesting; Mason and Bart draw hearty laughter by their comicalities as gymnasts; and Harry Tate's company, in Motoring, is also an excellent mirth-provoker. The popularity of J. W. Rowley is well evinced by his reception; and Leo Stormont makes many friends by his singing and reciting. Peggy Pryde again demonstrates her wonderful vivaciousness; Olive and Owen are well rewarded for their efforts; and the Dieppe Motor Race forms a sensational item as shown on the Bioscope.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS CO., LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—This house was reopened on Monday, when Mr. Frank Lindo's company presented Home, Sweet Home. A capital hero is Mr. Lindo, who as the young fisherman wins hearty applause; Mr. D. Lawrence Doyle is well placed as David Armitage; Mr. J. W. Evans gives a worthy representation of the Duke of Ancaster; the necessary villainy is supplied by Mr. Helsby Wright as Lucas Lyle; Mr. G. Rogers is good as Dick Redmayne; Miss Winnie Warden plays well as Little Dora, and Miss Marion Wakeford is a charming Joan. The remaining parts are filled up satisfactorily. The piece is well staged.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Miss Mary Ford and her company opened on Monday in the new drama, The Power of Lies, written by Miss Ford. That lady's conception of the character of Lady Margaret Harden received well-merited applause; and Miss Gladys Ford-Howitt makes a most winsome Phyllis Harden; Miss Ella Anderson appears as Charlotte Barton, and proves a most capable and amusing artist; Miss Lillian Williams gave an artistic rendering of the part of Ruth Carson. Mr. Otto Minster, in the dual rôle of Sir George Harden and Geoffrey Carson, stands out prominently, his acting being highly appreciated. Mr. Marshall Moore as Dr. Bletchley makes a capital study; Mr. Dudley Stuart is smart as Lord Robert Gordon, and Mr. Herbert Russell plays Joe Barton in a very amusing manner; as Mr. Isaacs Mr. T. W. Ford seems to have a part which suits him very well, and he makes the most of it, with good results. The company also includes Misses Davis, Farmer, McKenna, and Mrs. Williams, and they are very good in their respective parts. The remaining characters are well played, the whole play being well dressed, and the scenery being new and well painted, and no doubt success will attend Miss Ford, as she deserves.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—After being closed for two weeks this popular place of amusement opened on Monday evening with Messrs. O. Silverstone and H. Wright's company in The Nihilist. The company includes Mr. Walter Bentley, who appears as Ivan Nowasky, and he shows his elocutionary powers to the full extent; Mr. Leo R. Neilson as the autocratic Prince Alexander is most capable; and Mr. Silverstone as Piertree Petroff, of the Secret Police, acts very cleverly. Miss Edna Clare as Alexina Orloff makes a sympathetic heroine, her daughter being cleverly played by Little May Ediss; Miss Florrie Kelsey is a forcible Princess Olga, and gains much applause. Miss Jessica Ford as Katrina and Mr. H. Wright as Bobby Smart are responsible for some excellent comedy, and Mr. Butler Stanhope does well as Karl Orloff. The remaining characters are played by a clever company.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kilrow.—Cruikshank, "the fool of the family," furnishes a most amusing turn; the Bellong Brothers are excellent cycle equilibrists, and take well; Richardson Taylor is a very good ventriloquist, causing much laughter; Jack Neil is well received in his Scotch eccentricities; Les Ados present a clever turn in Olympian play; Wright and Lawson are a curious and eccentric couple; Florence Elliott is a good vocalist, and Wilkie Hesketh is a smart mimic. The Dottoscope concludes with some good pictures.

TEMPERANCE HALL, HORSEDGE-STREET.—The Royal Canadian pictures are still drawing large houses, the principal films exhibited being the Marathon Race, The Old Actor, The Reprieve, Magnetic Removal, Uncle's Will, The Serpent's Tooth, and many others, and large numbers are being turned away nightly.

OXFORD.—EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Willard's company opened here on Bank Holiday to a full and appreciative house with The Midnight Mail. Mr. George Harvard, as the hero, Harry Steyne, scored an easy success; while Mr. Chas. H. Longden gave a clever and sympathetic rendering of Leonard Royle. Mr. C. P. Wentworth portrayed the villain, Hassan Padisha, with excellent effect; and Mr. Charles Carte worked very hard and kept his audience highly amused with his humorous rendering of Billy Brewer. Mr. T. C. Glenville was very effective as Jasper Thornleigh; Mr. J. Wilkinson did well as Sergeant O'Flynn; and Mr. Warburton made the most of Edward Barclay. Miss Jeannie Weston made a graceful Lady Phyllis Bustace; Miss Daisy Clifford was bright as Nancy Brewer; and Miss Marie Longden was well suited as Miss Mildmay. Miss Trissie Humphreys sustained the part of Mary Steyne with conspicuous ability and success.

PENTRE. — TIVOLI PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—Carl and May Ohm's Continental animal circus of ponies, dogs, monkeys, and bears is exceedingly well received; Alfonso Silvano, equilibrist, is deservedly applauded; Beattie Foster, an up-to-date vocalist; Dan Conroy, comedian; the Gilberts, in their tight wire act; the Llewellyns, Australian vocalists; Wallace Whitney, character comedian; Yeager and Da Costa; the Blackvilles; E. Morrisean, musical equilibrist; and the Tivoliscope are also in the programme.

PAISLEY.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Douglas F. Bostock.—The principal turn this week is filled by Jock Whiteford, Scotch comedian, who has a gratifying and popular reception. Winifred Ward is an effective male impersonator, and sings her songs in capital style; the Harmony Boys render with admirable ability and expression some part-songs and pleasing ballads; That Dreadful Detective is an excellent mirth-provoking burlesque drama, capitally performed by Fred Moule, E. D. Nicholls, and company; Ted Waite, eccentric comedian, proves exceedingly amusing; Kathleen and Carter Pickford are associated in a laughable comedy duologue, entitled Her First Offence; the Three Coopers, comedy and harmonising vocalists, give a first-rate entertainment; the Brothers Lawrence are applauded for their expert dancing; and the Hippodrome Bioscope concludes.

PETERBOROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—The holiday attraction here this week is the amusing farcical comedy, In the Soup, presented by Mr. Ernest Dare's company. Mr. Esme Parcy fills the part of Horace Gillibrand with success; Mr. Harry Douglas is well placed as Abernethy Ruppershaw; Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm is very good as Paul Hemming; Mr. Huntley Gifford is worthy of praise as Mons. Moppert; Mrs. Edgar Colona is an excellent Mrs. Bates; Miss Margaret Curwen is a graceful Delphine; and Miss B. Egerton and Miss M. Lowe-Dare are good in their respective parts of Mme. Moppert and Judith Gillibrand.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company in The Dairymaids drew a crowded audience to the Royal on Monday, the breezy naval strain permeating the piece being particularly attractive to a West Country audience. As was to be expected, Mr. Dan Rolyat, in his original part of Joe Mivens, was the life and soul of the humorous business, his representation of an irresponsible tar being exceedingly funny, whilst his vocal contributions are also a feature of the performance; Mr. Nelson Keys, who created a splendid impression here in When Knights Were Bold, does excellently as Lieut. Sam Brudenell, and enhances his former reputation; Mr. J. A. Warden has a fine brogue as the amorous Irish medico, Dr. O'Brien; and Mr. A. W. Ashdowne as Lieut. Frank Meredith scores with his feminine make-up in the last act. Miss Clare Marsden is an attractive Peggy, a rich soprano voice adding to her other charms; Miss Gladys Silvani is smart and up to date as Eliza, the maid of all work; Miss Young is dignified and aristocratic as Lady Brudenell; and Miss Madge Avery fills the comparatively small part of Miss Pyechase in most commendable fashion.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The star attraction at the Palace is Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, whose forte is some clever and up-to-date conjuring illusions and humorous business, the whole turn being marked by finish and precision; Wilson Hallett does well as a mimic of children, and provides an acceptable number; Ch

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff.—Crowded audiences have assembled here this week. Heading the bill is N. T. Kioto, a Japanese performer, who gives a smart and interesting exhibition of equilibrium; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, in a vocal act, have refined methods, and are highly appreciated; Bishop and Vale, comedians and dancers, cause roars of laughter with their quaint humour and knockabout business; Marie Neilson, full of vitality, sings well and dances vigorously; Percy Johnson, comedian, is really funny; the ball-punching of the Ives wins warm approval, and Will Wallis adds gaiety to the evening with humorous songs; Gracie Hunt as a chorus comedienne is cordially welcomed. Interesting and amusing pictures by the Alexandra Bioscope complete the programme.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Owners and Proprietors, Messrs. Trenchard and Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—Mr. Fred J. Webb's company in A Knight in Armour is here. Frank Milbourne is capitally played by Mr. Fred J. Webb; Mr. Max Coutts ably enacts James Milbourne; Bill Newton is capably portrayed by Mr. Lewis Nation; Dominie Domino is cleverly characterised by Mr. Hyland O'Shea; Sternhold Keyes is in the able hands of Mr. George Paradise; a distinctive feature is the Olive Webb of Miss M. Danvers-Smith; and worthy of praise are the Misses Lallah Price, F. Nanton, Isabel Stephenson, and Nancy Dorris as Lady Priscilla, Florrie, Nellie Watts, and Trixie Wells respectively.

PORTH.—THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—Sammy Shields, Scotch comedian and football enthusiast, is a big favourite; the Cromwells are deserving of every praise for their unique and novel juggling act; the Sisters Morgan, duettists and dancers, are exceptionally smart; Craig, Roze, and Craig give a clever gymnastic performance; Clark and Hayden delight the audience in their musical comedy duologue, By Appointment; the Royal Korries, in their refined xylophone and dancing act, are accorded a hearty reception; Bessie Willow is a capital burlesque actress and vocalist; Fred Cary, comedian, is paying a return visit here, and scores an unbounded success; Netty Janowsky does remarkably well in her eccentric acrobatic act; and the Palascope, with its series of up-to-date pictures, is thoroughly enjoyed.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—For the August Bank Holiday week Mr. George Edwardes's able company are attracting full and delighted houses here with the sparkling light opera The Merry Widow. Miss Clara Evelyn, in the name-part, played and sang with light-hearted and charming vivacity, and with a fine dramatic touch quite in keeping with the various moods of the gay Sonia; Mr. Robert Michaelis gave a manly personation of Prince Danilo, acting with true comedy, and singing his numbers with excellent point and finish; Baron Popoff, in the hands of Mr. Lionel Victor, was a highly diverting personage, playing the rôle in most amusing fashion; Nisch was taken by Mr. Tom Redmond in a droll manner, most praiseworthy; Mr. Grafton Williams as General Novikovitch was genuinely funny; Vicomte Camille de Jolidon was sustained by Mr. Aubrey Standing with great ability, his vocal efforts being much admired; Mr. J. S. Durant made the most of the part of M. Khadja; and Messrs. Albert Kavanagh (Marquis de Cascada), Lennox Coombes (M. de St. Brioche), and E. C. Spalding (Waiter at Maxim's) were meritorious in their respective rôles. Miss Mary Grey portrayed Natalie in very effective style and sang charmingly; Miss Nora Barry as Olga was very good; and Miss Suzanne Selbourne as Sylvanie and Miss Mary Morison as Prascovia, deserve mention. The mounting and dressing was most sumptuous and greatly admired.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—A huge holiday crowd assembled here on Monday evening to witness the popular sporting detective drama £1,000 Reward, presented by Mr. Frank J. Pitt and company. Mme. Sanson was personated by Miss Katheryne Eckart in a powerfully and well-sustained manner; Vincent Rainsworth, detective, new school, was played by Mr. Pitt very cleverly, and was much applauded; and Mr. Frank Dallas makes a humorous contrast as Inspector Gilbert, detective, old school. Mr. J. Wilton supplies a capital exposition of stage villainy in the rôle of Gilbert Leslie, alias Darrel Grey; Mr. Edward De Vere is successful as Fred Ingleford, the elder; and his son is satisfactorily taken by Mr. W. Gibson. Mr. Arthur Merton gives a very good study as Fighting Jepps; Miss Alice Clarke is excellent as Mrs. McCarthy; Miss Marjorie Seymour is most pleasing in the part of Meg, a flower girl; Miss Minnie Goepel as Kitty Springthorpe and Mr. Joe English as Dick Springthorpe both do praiseworthy work. The piece is most realistically staged.

KING'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The management of this fine playhouse, having decided upon the two-houses-a-night principle, with vaudeville and dramatic sketches, introduced the new feature for the first time on Bank Holiday to a large and appreciative audience at both performances. Arthur Prince, the celebrated ventriloquist, in his famous naval scena, with his pert boy Jim, heads the programme, and gains great recognition of his undoubted talent; Yvonne Valois, ballad vocalist, was admirable in her selections; Diana Hope and company presented the society episode, Her Good Name, with great dramatic detail, and was much applauded; Jay Laurier, Scotch comedian, gained a good hearing for his amusing numbers and business; Vasco, the mad musician, was most entertaining; Harry Merrilees, a comedian of the ilk, did good work; Emmerson and Baldwin, as cyclonic juggling comedians, shaped cleverly, and caused unbounded satisfaction; Hal Godfrey and company in a capitally-depicted and well-mounted sketch A Very Bad Boy, gained great and well-deserved commendation; and animated pictures of an amusing character by the Barrascope concluded an excellent entertainment.

EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Captain Warren Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—An excellent programme is submitted to the holiday folk for the week at this house. The Kurios, in comical concoction of comicalities, scored well with their extraordinary amusing pantomimical act; Bertha Norwood, soubrette and danseuse, was much liked for her pleasing contribution; Vasey and Ramsey, as speciality artists, received a cordial greeting for some clever work; Katie Marsh, an attractive and charming comedienne, vocalised most harmoniously and received many plaudits; Barrington, a capable musician and clever trick performer at the piano, created a good impression, and was encored; the Two Cabiacs, French comedy acrobats, were smart and daring, gaining much applause; T. E. Box, eccentric comedian and siffleur, caused plenty of laughter by his quaint mannerisms; the Three Rubys, graceful gymnasts, always an attractive turn here, did well. Owing to the very sudden illness of Radford, of Radford and Valentine, a substitute had to be found at short notice for these most capable pair of artists, who were top billed. Payne's Bioscope, with some highly amusing films, conclude.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—On Monday Mr. Harry Fragson, the entente cordiale comedian on the piano, created quite a record for his most able and very artistic efforts, the audience vigorously applauding after each item; Miss Minnie Warner, the indiarubber girl, pleased well; Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor, American comedy artists, in sketch, The Dancing Master, were encored for some clever work; Mr. Harry Maynard, vocal comedian, had a cordial reception; the Westwoods submitted a very daring and exceedingly sensational cycling act that was enthusiastically greeted; Mr. Randolph King, in One Man Programme, a protean act of much merit, gained a recall; Mr. Sam Mayo, a comedian with an impassive style and immobile face, was responsible for causing some very hearty laughter; Achmed-Ibrahim troupe of Bedouin Arabs display great daring and cleverness in their performance and posing, and elicited much applause; Miss Marie Blythe, comedienne, and the Hippo. pictures finish.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Executors of the late Mr. W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—This theatre reopened on Monday last after the summer vacation with Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft's company, in Haddon Chambers's charming play, The Idler. The company is a good one, and had an enthusiastic reception. As Mark Cross Mr. Herbert Ford is exceptionally good; Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont is most natural as Sir John Harding; Mr. William Attfield gives a good account of himself as Simon Strong; General Merryweather is most ably portrayed by Mr. Richard Dalton; Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft as Lady Harding leaves nothing to be desired, and deserved the applause she received; Miss Geraldine Somerset plays the part of Kate Merryweather in a vivacious and captivating manner; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon acts the part of Mrs. Cross to perfection; Miss Rita Trekille is an excellent Mrs. Glynn-Stanmore; and Mr. Haldane Dalton renders the small part of Bennett very capably. The play is well mounted. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday Captain Swift was presented.

PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is here this week in the melodrama A Wrecker of Men. Mr. Eric Campbell fulfils the rôle of Jim Murley, the Slogger, very satisfactorily; Mr. Milner Noble is also good as the wily Pharosaphus; Mr. J. Ansdell Wilson is quite at home as Railton; Mr. Arthur Robinson is a clever Guise Strange; Mr. Douglas Campbell makes a capital Hon. Reggie Verincourt; Mr. Chas. E. Lovell enacts the dual rôle of Ezekiel Isaacs, a Jew, and Karnaphus, a mummy, in a commendable manner. Mr. Thompson Carruthers plays the part of Eric Melville in a powerful manner, and deserves much praise; Miss Beatrice Reynolds as Vavasole Slopper extracts much humour from the character, and causes much merriment; Miss Gwendoline Talbot is a sweet Doris Melville, and is a firm favourite; as Risca Mallison (a woman with a past) Miss F. Melrose Millet is distinctly clever, and maintains the character with the utmost sangfroid.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—A refined and varied programme is presented this week, and includes Miss Rose Atherton's comedy sketch, Murphy's Affinity, with Mr. E. Mullins, Miss Audrey Canning, and Miss Cissie Kingsley in the principal parts, all of whom do well, and succeed in raising hearty laughter. Victor Courtney, "boots at the piano," is a good turn, and deservedly well received; Harry Zetter is a comedian and eccentric dancer who pleases; the Sisters Mawdesley and Dolly and Elsie are two duos of dainty juvenile dancers and vocalists; Richard Finbey, character-actor, gives some capital representations of Svengali and John Storm, from The Christian; the Original Zedoras, gymnasts, on an original revolving apparatus, give a clever turn, and win loud applause; Ida Barr is a vocalist with a rich contralto voice; Morander and Darius Trio, lightning simultaneous gymnasts, have a novel turn and a good reception; and the Sprees, in their scena, Twickenham Ferry, are also good. Henri Vernon Harcourt, protean actor and mimic, gives some clever impersonations of celebrities past and present; and Tommy and the Policeman's Whistle on the Bioscope concludes.

RADCLIFFE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—After the summer vacation the reopening performance took place on Monday, Mr. Alex. Grant's company appearing in the sensational drama, Master of Millions. Mr. Grant is very effective as Alexander Daunt; Mr. J. L. Schofield does well as Eric Gordon; and the part of Reginald is ably taken by Mr. A. E. W. Barnes. Stella St. Lisle, an adventuress, has an excellent exponent in Miss F. Russell; and Miss J. Edbrooke acts well as Marion Gordon. The Sisters Grauden dance very acceptably.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Dan Forrest.—The Bank Holiday attraction at this theatre was Mr. Seymour Hicks's famous production from the Aldwych Theatre, The Gay Gordons. The piece attracted a crowded house on Monday night, and the attendances have been good at each of the other performances. The production may well be regarded as the best which has visited the theatre since its renovation. Carrying something like seventy performers, the company is exceptionally well found. Miss Maie Ash (Peggy Quainton) and Mr. Fred Lincoln (Angus Graeme) are the stars of the piece, but everything is well done, and some of the musical numbers are remarkably captivating. The Gay Gordons remains for the rest of the week.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—On Monday and two following nights Mr. F. Mouillot's No. 1 London company appeared before large audiences in the well-known comic opera, Tom Jones. The booking was by arrangement with Mr. Robert Courtneidge. Mr. Cyril Thompson was a great success in the rôle of Tom Jones, the foundling; and Miss Margaret Stonor appeared to especial advantage in the part of Sophia (Squire Western's daughter). Mr. Charles McLagan made a stately Squire Western; and the whole of the remaining characters were well sustained. The scenery and mounting of the play reached a high standard of excellence. On Thursday another of Mr. Mouillot's companies commenced a three nights' engagement in The Girl Behind the Counter, from Wyndham's Theatre.

MARINA THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. C. Dew; Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—The pictures shown are fully up to the high standard previously maintained, and would be extremely hard to beat. The variety turns are also of a capital nature, especially that of Tiny and Mite, two especially clever child artists, who receive encores at each of their two performances nightly.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode.—This popular place of entertainment was reopened for the season after the summer recess on Monday evening, when a strong company appeared in the new sensational play, Man or Beast. Mr. Ernest Vaughan gives a powerful rendering of the important part of Sir Tremere; Miss F. L. Dady is forcible as the Indian Nurse; Miss Irene Carrington is excellent as Bella Newton; Miss Madge Douglas is very charming as the heroine, Rosie Newton; Mr. Charles H. Phelps, as Captain MacDonald, is highly amusing; Mr. W. Boyning as Christopher Sharp, Mr. A. Kitson as Lothario Sinclair, Mr. Fred Newland as Lord Newton, Mr. Charles D. Pitt as the Hon. Jack Newton, Mr. F. Graham as Pat O'Brien, Mr. Frank Hertie as Colonel Bruce Anderson, Miss Cissie Clarke as Marie, Miss M. Pemberton as Lettie Fairfax, and Miss W. Lester as Lady Constantine Winscope sustain their respective characters in good style, and the other parts are in good hands. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings the musical comedy-drama, One Woman's Wickedness, was presented by the same company.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—A splendid holiday programme is presented this week. Lockhart's elephants show wonderful docility and intelligence; Collins's See-Saw Girls give a smart performance, and dance very gracefully; the Sisters Herbert, two juvenile artists, give a pleasing turn; Mr. Alfred Wellesley and company create great amusement in their sketch, Uncle's Courtship; Miss Rosa Loader is very droll as "the happy slavey at the piano"; Messrs. Daleno and Stream are amusing comedians; Mr. Harry Bland, comedian, is also well received. The Marathon Race is realistically depicted on the biograph.

PIERROT PAVILION.—The Original Royal Pierrots are doing excellent business at their pavilion adjoining the new Thames promenade, under Mr. Hamilton Baines' able management. Mr. Gus L. Harris, society entertainer, and Mr. George Green are great favourites; and the other artists are also well up to the mark. A sacred concert is being given every Sunday evening by special artists.

RHYL. — PAVILION.—The new concert pavilion was opened by Lord Mostyn on Thursday, the 30th ult. A fine performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio Elijah was given by the Rhyl Choral Society. The vocalists engaged included Miss Gleeson White, soprano; Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, contralto; Mr. John Harrison, tenor; and Mr. Herbert Brown, bass.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Eric Charlswood.—Mr. J. H. Scotland, the favourite basso, gives a fine rendering of several songs here this week; Miss Elsie Steadman, the charming and accomplished comedienne, obtains a hearty welcome; Miss Dorrie Courtney is an admirable banjo soloist; Mr. Alf. Maynall, comedian, is responsible for great merriment; and Eric Charlswood has some good songs, which he sings with effect. Mr. Douglas Maclaren, comedian, Mr. Austin Mahony, tenor, and Mr. Frederick Arthur, accompanist, complete.

SKATING RINK.—A new skating rink, with a maple floor of 40,000 square feet in area, has been erected in place of the Queen's Palace, which was destroyed by fire in November last. Valosky, the Russian skater, gives exhibitions of fancy skating; and Signor Pecorini's band has been engaged for the season. Other attractions include Gilbert Rogers's Jovial Jesters, W. Churchill's Entertainers, and Cheetham's pictures.

ROCHDALE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—The theatre reopened for the season on Monday evening with The Girl Who Wrecked His Home, a play that found much favour with the popular patrons. Mr. Fred W. Goddard acted with power the part of Jack Marshall, afterwards Lord Lynton; Mr. Paul Barry Lewers cleverly portrayed Leonard Kenyon; and Miss Louie Hampton was most effective in the delineation of Bertha Marshall.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—The programme submitted here this week is one of all-round excellence. The Brothers O'Brien give a marvellous and daring horizontal bar act, for which they are deservedly appreciated; Will Godwin is effective in his descriptive vocalism; Curwen and Belle, in The International Club, are clever and highly amusing; Tiny Arnold sings and dances with charming effect; Agnese and Arthur Lynch, in picture songs; Ulrick, barrel and trancka performer; Lecardo Brothers, comedy acrobats; and The Marathon Race, by the Empire Bioscope, completes the list.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—This place of amusement has been closed for three weeks, during which time it has been entirely redecorated, a very pretty colour scheme in green, pink, and gold being tastefully carried out, the result being particularly pleasing. For the reopening week Miss Ethel Van Praagh and company are paying a return visit, after an absence of about five years, with An Unwedded Wife, and are having crowded houses. Mr. J. Edward Whitty is seen to advantage as P.C. Runyin; and Mr. C. Lodge Percy does well as Philip Blackstone. Mr. George Daiper gives a finished portrayal of the part of Frank Hawthorne; and Mr. Will Casey scores as Napoleon B. Boomer. Mr. R. Wilton Bedford is smart as Christopher Lennox; and Mr. Robert Young is deserving of mention as Inspector Grabbem. Miss Chandos does well as Nurse; and Miss Jessie Gillette is a sprightly Carraway Crumpet. Little Doris as Reggie speaks her lines very effectively; and Miss Ethel Van Praagh, in the title-rôle Marion, gives a strongly emotional and highly-finished portrayal of a most difficult rôle. An augmented orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. S. Burgan, is responsible for some excellent selections, and the mounting and scenery are exceedingly effective.

RYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Constant.—A splendid holiday attraction has been provided by Mr. Robert Macdonald's company in The Dairymaids. Miss Isa Bowman is again a favourite in the part of Peggy, of which she gives a dashing rendering; Miss Mora Hersee as Winifred, Miss Kitty Kirwan as Miss Penelope Pyechase, and Miss Maud Lucy as Eliza, all perform in capital style. Messrs. Sam Lysons, Frank Manger, Frank Barclay, and Edwin Dodds, as Sam Brudenell, St. Meredith, Dr. O'Byrne, and Joe Mivens respectively, all did splendid work, evoking continuous merriment and applause. The choruses were brightly and tunefully rendered under the direction of Mr. Frank Corrie.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company, under the direction of Mr. Teddy Myles, presented on Monday, to a packed house, An Abandoned Woman. Miss Ruth Zillwood makes a great impression as Ninon Malvoisin; and in the able hands of Mr. W. Fraser-Brunner the villainies of Philip Malvoisin are well portrayed. Much fun is contributed by Mr. Teddy Myles as Paddy Boyle, Mr. M. Vayne as Sammy Sharp, and Miss Queenie Fraser-Brunner as Sally Sloper. Captain Herbert Seaton is capably presented by Mr. Herbert M. King; and the heroine, Eleanor Deane, is well sustained by Miss Nellie Thorne-Hallam.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Mr. Sidney Dooley and Mr. Charles Seymour's company, in the musical comedy sketch, A King for a Day, played by Will Letters, James Newland, Sidney Dooley, Robert Barbour, Miss Fannie Wallace, and Miss Maidie Berker, keep the audience (twice nightly) laughing continuously; Edie Veno, an eccentric comedienne, gets much applause. The programme also includes Estrella, a clever barefoot dancer; Bonnetti and Corri, eccentric jugglers; George Prince, crazy comic; Dick Graham, a singer of sensible songs; Conan and Doyle, comedians and dancers; Phern and Phern, musical speciality artists; Gus Hindell, patterer; and Minnie Wren, versatile comedienne.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—When London Sleeps is capably presented twice nightly by Mr. Lester Collingwood's company. Captain Rodney Haynes is very well played by Mr. Harry Wren; Miss Mabel Scudamore is a charming Queenie Carruthers; Mr. E. E. Ashby makes a fine David Engleheart; and Miss Lilla Wilde is an excellent Hilda Carode. Mr. F. E. Thomas as Bob Jones, Miss Mona Hall as Carrie Jones, and Miss Bella Power as Mrs. Jones, cause a lot of laughter. Mr. Douglas Campbell is also a very funny Sammy Blyth; and the other characters are in good hands.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Lester King.—The new animated pictures this week are very interesting, Tommy and the Policeman's Whistle and Baby's Playmate being among the best.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington and Son; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—Mr. Robert McDonald's company is here in The Dairymaids. Miss Empsie Bowman as Peggy was pleasing and graceful; Miss Nellie Bowman as Eliza was genuinely droll; as Joe Mivens, A.B., Mr. Dan Agar kept the fun going; and Mr. Bernard Vaughan as Dr. O'Byrne was exceedingly good.

SPA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. Francis Goodricke.—Compton's Comedy Company is here this week. On Monday The Rivals was performed, with Mr. Compton in his famous part of Bob Acres, in which character he was appearing for the 565th time. Mr. Henry Croker as Sir Anthony Absolute was excellent; and Mr. Ivan Leslie as Falkland did well. During the week the programme has been changed nightly. On Tuesday Mr. Compton appeared for the 1,440th time as David Garrick.

THE AQUARIUM.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. L. Holland.—Hayley's Juveniles make their first appearance here this week in a song-scena, and give a capital show, interesting in all its details. Perdie's Ma-in-Law, a sketch full of originality and humour, is enacted by the Corries; Chief Cody gives a wonderful exhibition of shooting ability; the Three Bardellors are a strong trio of gymnasts; Jack Davie sings comic songs in good style; Caselli is a banjoist of no mean order; and the programme includes Leo and Roland, equilibrists; Wm. Ainsworth, illusionist; and Alpho, ventriloquist. Mme. Le Vante's Orchestra of Ladies gives three concerts daily, the vocalist being Miss Annie Hargreaves, who possesses a fine contralto voice.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Garside; Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan.—Her Marriage Vow is here this week, the company being that of Mr. E. L. Garside and Mr. J. Forbes Knowles's, with Mr. E. L. Garside in the leading part, in which he does exceedingly well. All the other parts are in capable hands.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Fielding Smith.—On Thursday, in the second week of its opening, the New Hippodrome was honoured by their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia, and the Earl and Countess of Londesborough and their guests. The Follies were specially engaged for the Royal visit, and had due recognition of their well-known ability as entertainers. The programme this week includes the names of the Empire Comedy Four; Nada Moret, vocalist; R. A. Speedwell, the wizard painter; Maud Esmond, burlesque artist; Frank Lynne; Derenda and Green, juggling comedians; and the Original Regals. On Sunday evening last Madame Albani sang at a sacred concert to a crowded house.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. James Kiernan; Lessees, The Excelsior Animated Picture Co.; Manager, Mr. George Barry.—The Paris-Dieppe Motor Race is the principal picture attraction here this week; the variety company including Fenron Mulcaster, descriptive vocalist; Miss Kate Kearney and Mr. Evan Davies, in a dramatic scena entitled The Deserter; and the Three Behans, in a novel quick-change comedy act. On Thursday a benefit performance was given for the parents of the late George Henry Woods, who recently lost his life by drowning at Egremont, in a gallant attempt to save his companions.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. H. D. Lyle.—The Outcast of the Family is being played by Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company. Mr. W. Cowell Clarke as Sir Henry Thorne is well placed; Harry Thorne is powerfully sketched by Mr. F. C. Leighton; Mr. C. H. Coleman portrays the villainy of Richard Martin with ability; Mr. Herbert Bentone impersonates Stephen Barry with excellent effect; Joe Bushell is a popular part as presented by Mr. Bert Atherton; Miss Gertrude Morella is a sympathetic Ruth; Grace Redburn is skilfully drawn by Miss Margaretta Tueskie; Nancy Bray is vivaciously played by Miss Vera Neville; and Little Bob is well done by Little Dorothy.

SHEERNESS. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Sheerness Hippodrome Co.—The top line this week is an American speciality, introduced by Hooker and Davis and their six cowboy girls, the chief feature being the eccentric "mad" dance of Miss Mabelle Davis; the Godfreys, comedy artists, provide a most enjoyable turn; Ella Lorraine, vocalist, deserves special mention for her excellent rendering of "Annie Laurie" and "Will you love me in December"; Montague Biggs, female impersonator, is clever and amusing; Lillian Travelle, comedienne, is a chic and dainty artist, and is cordially received. Other entertaining turns are provided by Sam Dalton, comedian; and Fraser and French, comedians and dancers of ability. The Bioscope concludes.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; Manager, Mr. F. R. Griffiths.—The excellent display of animated pictures, which are attracting appreciative audiences, include Chamois Hunting, A Brother's Sacrifice; The Cossacks of the Don at Moscow; Cupid's Pranks, and It's Not the Cowl that Makes the Friar.

SHEFFIELD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The Lyceum reopened on Bank Holiday to a large audience with Mr. Brandon Thomas's popular company, in the laughable farce, Charley's Aunt. General pleasure was expressed at the artistic effect of the redecorations. Particular attention has been given to the sanitary conditions of the dressing-rooms and the comfort of the artists and staff. The prevailing tones are cream and gold, the necessary relief being afforded by the rich hues of the carpets, upholstery, and draperies. The architectural beauties of the spacious plafond and dome are well displayed by the improved electric lighting.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—After a week's closure the historic Tudor-street playhouse has opened its doors, after a general cleaning down and new safety curtain installation, and good houses have this week enjoyed the performance of Mr. G. M. Copping's company in Love Rules the World. Mr. Richard Vane makes a manly hero as Harold Kingston; and as a contrast there is Mr. John Cecil's vivid picture of the villain, Stephen Blight. Miss Gertrude Sterroll wins sympathy as the pretty but suffering Maud; Miss Nelly Freeland is a vivacious Kitty; Miss Constance Medwyn succeeds in the dramatic rôle of Flo Morton; Mr. M. Russell causes hilarity as Billy Binks; Mr. A. W. Wynne, Mr. Frank Etheridge, Mr. Sidney Renneff, and Miss Annie Brunette also appear to advantage.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. William D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—A Heart's Desire was played to a large audience on Monday by Messrs. Elliman's company. Mr. R. F. Stacey's acting as Lord St. Ives shows power and commendable restraint; Miss Lily Prescott cleverly depicts the noble qualities of the half-caste, Olya; and other characters are excellently represented by Mr. Archie Ainsleigh, Mr. Victor Howard, Mr. Edward Leroy, Mr. Chas. King, Mr. John Hames, Mr. Charles Clark, Miss N. Malone, Miss Blanche Leroy, and Miss Gertrude Gilman.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The artists scheduled for the Bank Holiday week included Mr. G. H. Elliott, the well-known and favourite "chocolate-coloured coon"; Mr. Julius Tannen, the clever monologue artist; Lady Mansel and her talented juveniles; Mr. Charles Fraser and his smart assistants, in the new illusion, "Iona"; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden, sketch artists; Mr. Robb Gilmore, "the little lump of drollery"; Miss Leonie Dixon, serio-comic vocalist; Barton and Ashley, in their bright and exhilarating pantomimic and spectacular whimsicality, Adam the Second; the Marathon Race, by the American Bioscope; and the pretty and fascinating burlesque actress, Miss Gracie Grahame, with new songs.

THE HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—The following excellent and palatable bill of fare was set before a packed house on Monday: Mr. George Mozart, the funny comedian and mimic; Mr. Joe Peterman and company, in the diverting sketch, The Pawnbroker; the talented Macdonald Trio in The Musical Garden; the Barrascope, with artistic pictures; the comical Permane Brothers, in a laughable act; Bottelo and Virginia, trapeze artists; Mlle. Edwin, contortionist extraordinary; the Mayos, equilibrists and acrobats; and Miss Carrie Laurie's juvenile company, in The Belles of the Kitchen.

GRAND THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—Engaged at this comfortable resort are J. W. Alkin's company in the dramatic sketch, Nihilism; Corcoran Brothers, speciality artists; Maston, mimic; Bert and Dora; Mr. C. Jones, vocalist; Miss Nora L. Stockelle, serio-comic vocalist; and the Dancing Gilberts, in a novel performance. The Raymond Bio-tableaux are still a popular feature in the Grand entertainment.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Lessees, the Jasper Redfern Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred W. Holmes.—In addition to the French Motor Derby and other up-to-date pictures, are engaged Mr. Blanco White, coon vocalist; the Sisters Draycott, duettists; and the Quavers.

ALBERT HALL.—Mr. Victor Hamilton's U.S.A. Animated Picture Exhibition opened to a large audience on Monday.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—This week Mr. Walter Melville's stirring military drama, A Soldier's Wedding, is proving a powerful attraction. It is capitally played and staged, and meets with a hearty reception from holiday audiences.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank MacNaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Trussell.—Strassburger's Midgets top the bill and prove a great "little" attraction; Ben Albert scores as a droll comedian; the Gregson Trio cause hearty laughter with The Dummy; Les Zelovas excel as acrobats, and the Leslie Bros. are well applauded for a capital musical act. Harry Grey and Keith and Merson also prosper well.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. P. Howell.—Arthur Rigby is presenting his miniature musical comedy, The Isle of Ooma, with remarkable success. The music, girls, and scenery are all exceedingly pretty, and Arthur Rigby is the life and soul of the piece, which bristles with fun from start to finish; Clarice Mayne is a delightful mimic, and wins golden opinions; Walton and Lester score with their "Muddled Magic"; and other successes are achieved by A Ba-Be's Picture Postcard Album; Minnie Mace, comedienne and dancer; Frank Hartley juggler; Alskarno trio of acrobats; and Godfrey James, tenor vocalist.

VICTORIA HALL.—The Royal Italian Circus opened for a short season here on Bank Holiday with conspicuous success. All the animals are splendidly trained, and the performance, which achieved such a triumphant success in London, is one of the smartest ever seen. Great praise is due to Signor B. Volpi, who is undoubtedly one of the most successful animal trainers now before the public; and to Mr. Edwin Gilley, the courteous business manager, for presenting such an interesting performance, which appeals to old and young alike.

PIER PAVILION.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Sait.—Sydney James' Royal Strolling Players, under the direction of Mr. Gilbert Fernie, a popular dialect comedian; another huge success is scored by Mr. H. Scott-Leslie, whose monologues have been quite the feature of the week. He is a very clever artist, and excels in song, sketch, and story; Mr. Hugh Lloyd (tenor) sings beautifully, and his ventriloquial act is highly appreciated; Miss Maidie Harrison is a dainty dancer, and Miss Marie Gerrard (songs at the piano), and Miss Madge Nicholson (soprano) also prosper well. A handsome new crimson silk plush tableaux curtain has been fitted to the stage by Messrs. A. R. Dean and Sons, of Birmingham, which considerably improves the appearance of the interior of this pretty building, besides being most effective and supplying a long-felt want.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. John and Fred Coulson.—Mr. W. H. Hallatt's company is here in Two Little Sailor Boys. Commander Noel Tregarthen is played in breezy fashion by Mr. H. E. Herbert; Miss Blanche Steele displays histrionic ability as Lola Grey; Admiral Grey is skilfully portrayed by Mr. C. W. Spencer; Mr. H. M. Clifford makes a good Tom Yorke; Miss Muriel Dean is a sweet Mildred Grey; Mr. Tom E. Sinclair gets a great deal out of Ben Baxter, and is ably assisted in the supply of the comedy element by Miss Lizzie Chambers as Lucy and Mr. Fred Acton as Jack Jolly, A.B. Lieut. Richard Redstone and Jim Royston are ably accounted for by Mr. Horace Booth and Mr. Sydney Frennes. The scenery and mounting are good.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Mike S. Whallen proves as popular as ever here and gives the "Irish Wake" as an encore. A number of well-trained monkeys are presented by Maud Rochez in an imitation of a music hall stage, and reflect great credit on their trainer; Tom Wootwell in vocal character studies has a good reception; Gwennie Hasto is an old favourite; Will Poluski, jun., is a good comedian and eccentric dancer; Francis McNulty dances well; Boden and Bell, juvenile duettists and dancers, are well received; and the Bioscope completes a good programme.

TIVOLI, LAYGATE.—Proprietor, Councillor J. K. Hall.—Corman's Juveniles are smart young artists, and are received with great enthusiasm. Walter Aubrey, coon vocalist and buck dancer, takes well; and the bill is completed by the Tivoliscope.

COSY CORNER, SEA-FRONT.—Proprietor, Mr. George Burton.—Ross and Gray contribute a capital comedy item, Potted Poetry; "Love me, and the world is mine" is well rendered by Mi

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

Few more suitable attractions could be found for the opening of the season at the Marlborough than Mr. Wentworth Croke's capital company in The Prodigal Son. He has the advantage of a grandly effective impersonator of Magnus in Mr. Hugh Montgomery, and as Oscar Mr. Gordon Macintosh acts with admirable expression and refinement. Mr. Charles Cooper plays Stephen Magnusson with dignity and power, and Miss Barbara Gott as Anna is full of deep feeling and emotional ability. Miss Valerie Crespin depicts Thora with characteristic skill; and as Elin is tender, natural, and sympathetic. Miss Mildred Cottell is able and efficient as Helga, and Mr. Philip Renouf puts plenty of stubborn force into his impersonation of Oscar Nellsen. Miss Marie Harcourt as Margaret is thoroughly satisfactory; and Mr. E. Christopher (the Sheriff), Mr. Ernest Rivarz (Dr. Olsen), Mr. G. Dickson-Kenwin (Director of Casino), and Mr. Arthur Hall (Eric Arnassen) all do well. The stage management, under the direction of Mr. Charles A. Maynard, is excellent in every way, and the drama is picturesquely and liberally mounted.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 3,
"HER FORBIDDEN MARRIAGE."

Agreeable Bank Holiday fare is provided this week at the pretty Notting Hill Gate theatre in the shape of one of Mr. Fred Melville's melodramas of the good old-fashioned sort, Her Forbidden Marriage. It teems with incident and surprising dénouements, and it is by no means wanting in comic relief to leaven the more exciting moments of the drama. Mr. Kenneth Black as Sir George Lancaster, is very well cast; Mr. Henry Lonsdale is a prime favourite as the fervid and intense young inventor, George Madison, and repeatedly earns the enthusiastic cheers of the gallery, just as Mr. Louis Hector as Charles Devereux, a very transparent scoundrel, and Lady Lucretia Lancaster, Sir George's second wife (as the programme cryptically announces it, "married yet not married"), a part admirably rendered by Miss Grace Lester with all the necessary strength of handling. Miss Geraldine le Sage is pretty as a picture as the bright, winsome, and gracious Lucy (Sir George's ward, who flouts her guardian's authority and marries where she loves, and thus gives the piece its name). Mr. Leonard Maxwell is Geoffrey Broughton, who assists in the attempt to force Lucy's hand. Mr. Fred de Vere as Timothy Tuttell, jack of all trades and master of none except the gentle art of mirth-making, and Miss Maude Merrick as Polly Lovejoy, in service and frightened of marriages, helps him in this congenial task with much acumen and ability. Others who take part in the piece are Mr. Arthur Hickman as John William (a clerk thinking of matrimony), Mr. Rawdon Vivian as the parson who performs the ceremony of marriage, Mr. James Raymond (a witness to the marriage), Mr. William Griffin as Inspector Doone. Joe Lambkin, an old rustic very much married, is a part safe in the hands of Mr. Philip Renouf; Mr. George Elsworthy as Benjamin Wardle, Mr. Leslie Nutter as Jenkins, and Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh as the Mother Superior all work hard, and little Lucy, the child of the forbidden marriage, is also capitally played by Little Lucy. Real horses, motors, bicycles, and ponies take part in the scenes of the play. Mr. Harry Dooley is business-manager for Mr. Fredk. Melville's company. Mr. Eade Montifiore is now installed as resident business-manager at the Coronet.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Musical Farce entitled
"HIS MAJESTY'S GUESTS."

A week's reopening of the Crystal Palace Theatre, which was closed for the vacation, is made this week, and large audiences have derived much amusement from the performances of Mr. Fred Karno's company in the diverting farce His Majesty's Guests. The fun of the piece is fast and furious, and is maintained chiefly by the efforts of Mr. George Hestor, who plays that resourceful custodian of the law Sergeant Lightning. Mr. Hestor is a comedian of original methods, and no member of the audience has been able to resist the effect of his drollery, which finds vent in many a fresh-found "wheeze" and much comic by-play. Mr. Rupert Strutfield plays Lord Easem in finished style typical of the young aristocrat. His voice is well modulated, and every effect is given to the lines which he has to deliver. His accomplice, Lady Maud, has a vivacious representative in Miss Aggie Morris, who sings with piquancy and dances admirably. Her song, "In Society," is particularly enjoyed. Mr. C. Usher is again associated with the rôle of Mr. Miffin, and gives a performance complete in every detail. Mr. Sid Kerns is Mr. Minks, and gives a droll impersonation of the rev. gentleman, a penetrating voice aiding him in a character impersonation of great merit. Miss Kitty Brunton is a clever exponent of the "new woman," Miss Manley; and Miss Josie Bryor makes a prepossessing Dolly Miffin. The energetic domestic, Selina, is cleverly represented by Mr. Tom Manardo, whose dancing is an agreeable feature of his performance. Fritz, the majestic doorkeeper at Miffin's Emporium, is portrayed with regal dignity by Mr. T. Ellis Burton, who is the cause of much merriment; Mr. Sam Gosling does well in the part of the nephew Harry, and the rest of the cast are in excellent hands, the bevy of aristocratic maidens being represented by a comely contingent of ladies. The song and dance "Six little burglars" gains the customary tokens of favour, and the knockabout business of the production results in continuous laughter. Mr. Sharp acts efficiently as manager for Mr. Bannister Howard, under whose auspices the theatre is run.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Walter Melville, entitled
"A GIRL'S CROSS ROADS."

The above excellent drama was a capital selection for Bank Holiday, and the large audiences testified to their appreciation of the entertainment by hearty laughter and frequent and prolonged applause. The play is a fine sermon in a palatable form. The tale of Barbara Wade's gradual descent is cleverly told, and the final scene in the life of the unhappy woman is such as to leave a deep impression for good. Miss Hilda Beverly is an excellent exponent of the character, and carries much sympathy with her throughout. Hers is a clever and convincing performance. Miss Dorothy Hildebrande is a charming representative of the young schoolmistress, Constance Cornell; Miss Nita Langford looks and acts well as Nellie Meadows; and Miss Daisy Maynard is a bright and amusing Tilly Vane. Toby Turvey is capitally played by Mr. Fred Hodson, who, with Miss Maynard, keeps the house in roars of laughter. Others doing well in their respective parts are Miss Emily Crossly (Jane Thomas), Miss Nellie Butts (Georgie Watts), Miss Kate Walton (Jessie Wilson), Miss Gibbons (Fay Dudley), and Miss Nellie Noble (Gertie Seemton). Mr. Jack Fortescue gives an excellent performance as Jack Livingstone, the husband of Barbara; Mr. Edward Chester is a clever and gentlemanly representative of Cuthbert Lumley; Mr. Charles Franmore is again the Farmer Meadows, and his acting is as good as ever; Mr. Fred Withers is very good indeed as Luke Ramsden; Mr. Edward Valentine is an earnest and sympathetic Dr. Weston; Mr. J. Johnson is good as the police-constable; and Mr. Walter Johnson is efficient as Crotis. Other capable members of the long cast are Mr. David Borone (Joe Coyle), Mr. George Wilson (Fred Hickley), and Mr. Harold Mace (Harry Butler).

The scenery and appointments are, as usual, complete. Mr. Bertram Iles, the courteous acting-manager of the theatre, looks well after the comfort of patrons of the establishment..

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Comedy-Drama, entitled
"FROM SLAVE TO PRINCESS."

The autumn season at this theatre opened on Bank Holiday with Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company in a fascinating comedy-drama entitled From Slave to Princess. The action of the play takes place throughout in Caspania, and the powerful plot is thoroughly interpreted by an able and well-chosen company. Perhaps the most difficult part in the whole cast is that of the Princess Claudia, played with marked skill by Miss Edith Blande, whose conception of the rôle is remarkably well executed; Mr. Austin Milroy as Prince Julian is seen at his best. There is an amount of pathos in his scenes with Vera, his betrothed, which introduces a touch of sentiment into a drama fraught with thrilling episodes. These are relieved at intervals by the humour displayed by the inimitable Amelia and Patrick O'Brien. The former character is admirably played by Miss Kitty Sinclair, while the latter is in the capable hands of Mr. Harry Benson. The pair combine well in their duet version of "Shy Ann." Miss Sylvia Harrington as Vera, the slave-heroine, does ample justice to her part, of which she gives a most sympathetic rendering. Michael Bordoni, the evil genius of the story, creates quite a sensation as enacted by Mr. Arthur Elwyn, whose delineation of the rôle is unimpeachable. Mr. Dermont Fitzgibbon as Colonel Alexis is certainly very clever; Mr. Arthur Escourt as Peter gives a realistic sketch of a Russian serf, while Mr. Reginald Huntworth as King Adrian is admirable. Messrs. Johnny Leoni, Charles Brooke, and Francis Curtiss all contribute their share towards the success of a striking production. The scenic effects, costumes, and uniforms leave nothing to be desired.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, August 3, the play, entitled
"SAPHO."

The Dalston Theatre reopened on Monday evening after the usual midsummer vacation, and Sapho is presented by Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company to appreciative audiences. Fanny Legrand, otherwise known as Sapho, who is discredited as being "the worst woman in Paris," is sustained by Miss Ida Abbott, who, in spite of the undesirable nature of the character, wins favour by reason of her excellent acting and the amount of feeling she puts into her work. Mr. Ernest R. Abbott is the Jean Gaussin, and the intensity which he brings to bear in the many trying scenes falling to his share entitle him to much praise. Both he and Miss Abbott are the recipients of much applause. Mr. Herbert Morgan does well as Henri Dechelette, an engineer; and Mr. Charles Tring as Flamant, a felon, provides a capital character sketch. The more humorous side of the story finds representatives in Mr. Frank Stephens as Uncle Classaire, Mr. W. Firth as old Legrand, a cabman (Fanny's father), and Miss Louise Gilmore as Aunt Divonne. Miss Florrie Norton as Lucy has the good fortune to represent a most amiable character.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the American Drama, entitled
"THE STILL ALARM."

The Fulham theatre reopened its doors after the summer vacation on August Bank Holiday with a special holiday attraction in the shape of The Still Alarm, given by Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's company. Mr. Matthew H. Glenville undertakes the part of the hero, Jack Manly. He plays it in a vigorous and natural manner, and deserves the applause he gets. Mr. Lewis Kennedy is satisfactory as Franklin Fordham; Mr. Gerald Kennedy enacts the villain, Gorman, in a neat and effective manner, and makes his part tell; Mr. Fred Osmond has a good character part as Doc Wilber, and causes a great amount of amusement; Mr. J. Sutton Pateman also provides an ample supply of humour as Joe Jones; and the other members of the company, who represent firemen, do some very smart work, and also contribute some excellent part-songs which form a pleasing interlude. Nor must we omit those excellent performers Pegasus and Bucephalus, the two fine grey horses, which belong to the Fire Brigade, and the greyhound Laddie, the firemen's pet. Miss Beatrice Shirley plays capitally as Elinor Fordham; Miss Hettie Zillwood is bright and effective as Carrie Wilber; and Miss Mabel Veriton is quite satisfactory as Mrs. Manley. The plan of reducing the prices of admission is being tried, and it is to be hoped that this bold experiment will prove as successful as it deserves to be.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Drama, entitled
"THE GIRL WHO TOOK THE WRONG TURNING."

Well mounted and capably acted, the above drama is attracting large and appreciative audiences to the Royal this week. Although the plot is unfolded in a pathetic vein, still the play abounds in many merry moments and mirth-provoking incidents. Mr. Ronald Adair is warmly received as Willie Mason, a British tar, and both in pathos and comedy he submits a clever study of a vigorous English sailor. Mr. Fred Ingram, as Johnny Walker, is the source of much merriment; James Harcourt is in the capable hands of Mr. Raymond Wood, who carries out his various schemes with marked effect. Mr. Sidney Sarl is responsible for the part of Bill Slater, and makes a favourable impression; Mr. Frank R. Robertson does ample justice to the character of Jack Fenton; and Richard Fenton is naturally essayed by Mr. Frank Denis; Miss Nannie Meade displays much ability as Vesta Le Clere, and is entirely successful; Poppy Slater is humorously portrayed by Miss Marie Kildare, who achieves distinction. Although the character of Sophie Coventry may not be powerfully marked, Miss Jessie Belmore imbues the part with daintiness and charm; Miss Zoe Davis is well placed as Lucy Coventry. In minor rôles Mr. John Wilson, Mr. G. Brackley, Mr. Frank Barnard, Mr. James Green, Mr. Charles Herman, Mr. G. Lacey, Mr. C. Carter, Mr. Danell Greene, Mr. C. Lacey, and Miss Lily Trounsell lend admirable assistance.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Play, in Five Acts entitled
"IN THE MIDST OF LIFE."

A very favourable reception was accorded Mr. Chas. V. Sandford's clever company in Marylebone this week, the West Londoners welcoming the resumption of their weekly drama in gratifying fashion. Mr. Guy Hastings enacted David Armstrong in a most convincing way, his elocution being excellent; Mr. Sydney T. Pease was forceful and vigorous as Henry Gerniston; Mr. Hal Charlton did well as Sir John Rosmead; Mr. John S. Chamberlain proffered a clever character study of Capt. Bargery; Mr. Edgar J. Coyne humorously portrayed Joe Drummond; and Mr. Charles V. Sandford was well to the fore as Richard Dixon. Miss Edith Savery made a good impression as Sybil; Miss Madge Berresford was bright and lively as Molly Bargery; Miss Alice Heather was suitably cast as Lady Helen Rosmead; and Miss Maud Linden sustained Margaret Grey with much womanly grace and tenderness. The play was followed by some excellent animated pictures, and concluded with the highly amusing farcical comedy All Alive. It was pleasant to find back at his duties in front once more the popular Mr. James Sinclair, who always looks after the comfort of Mr. William Bailey's patrons.

DEATH OF H. H. BARRINGTON.

Dramatic suddenness marked the death of Henry Harding Barrington, which occurred at Bradford on Saturday. The deceased actor was taken ill the previous evening, but no immediate danger was feared. He consulted a medical man, and though when he went to bed he did not complain of any particular pain, he died early next morning of severe cardiac trouble. Deceased was forty-four years of age, a native of Southsea, and was remarkable for his histrionic abilities and striking stage presence.

The late Mr. Barrington commenced his professional career at the age of four as Little Willie at the Theatre Royal, Portsmouth. At eight years of age he was taking regular rôles in pantomime, and at twenty he had over 150 different parts to his credit. He went on the first American tour of Muldoon's Picnic, and remained with the company until he had played every male part in the piece, in addition to that of Mrs. Muldoon. He then joined Miss Le Tellie's My Sweetheart company as Dr. Oliver, and stayed with her until her répertoire company was founded, being allotted such rôles as Alfred Evelyn, Bob Brierly, &c. Included in the parts which he afterwards undertook were those of the Doctor in Saved from the Streets, the Priest in A Father's Oath, Owen Glyndon in The Black Flag, Joe Prentice in Proved True, lead and acting-management in Parma Violets, Kershaw in Jane, the Priest in The Rose of Rathboy, Orloff in A Life's Revenge, Milford in The Worst Woman in London, Raybrook in Driven from Home, Captain Norman in Her Second Time on Earth, and the heavy part in The Girl of To-day. Mr. Barrington also played stock seasons with the late Andrew Melville, Mr. Gould at Newcastle, Mr. Sheldon, and the Brothers Melville, and discharged many pantomime engagements and appointments as stage-manager. In London he created the rôle of Cleary, the Yorkshire bookmaker, in Sporting Life, produced by Mr. Leonard Boyne at the Shaftesbury in January, 1898. He also played with Mr. Brien McCullough in sketches at the variety theatres.

The deceased actor's last part was that of Stephen Magnusson in Hall Caine's Prodigal Son, toured by Mr. George D. Day's company, which was appearing at Bradford last week. The widow, professionally known as Miss Florence Lovell, is also a member of Mr. George D. Day's company, playing the part of Anna Magnusson. During their twenty years of married life they had always acted together.

The funeral took place on Tuesday at Scholemoor Cemetery. The chief mourners were the widow and sisters of the deceased. All the members of the company sent a wreath, and floral tributes were also forwarded by the theatre management and others to whom the late Mr. Barrington was well known, both in his professional and private capacity.

We have received the following letter from the widow:—

"Dear Sir,—Doubtless you have read of my irreparable loss in the death of my beloved husband. Our twenty years of married bliss has been remarked by all that knew us. Our work has nearly always been together, and our engagements with the best of managers, including the present one, Mr. George D. Day, whose kindness, together with that of his wife, Miss Lily Hall Caine, has been most touching during my great trouble. Mr. Hall Caine was almost my first sympathiser by wire, a copy of which I send: 'Mrs. Barrington, T. R., Bradford. My deepest sympathy with you in your great bereavement. I share your loss in losing so excellent an actor and so good a colleague. May time bring you comfort.—Hall Caine.' Miss Lily Hall Caine also wired her sweet sympathy: 'I cannot express how shocked and deeply grieved I am at the sad news. Accept my heartfelt sympathy. I only wish I were near you.—Lily H. Day.' Shoals of telegrams and letters still continue to arrive. Mr. John Hart has also shown much kindness.—Yours in sorrow, "FLORENCE LOVELL.
"(Mrs. Henry Harding Barrington).
"T. R., Bradford, Aug. 5."

THE OPERA SEASON.

The Grand Opera season at Covent Garden, which closed last week, has been the most brilliant on record. No special novelties were produced with the exception of Bizet's opera, The Pearl Fishers, which for many years has not been performed and may, therefore, be considered a novelty; and Umberti Giordano's Fedora, given after a lapse of two years, while Meyerbeer's once popular opera Gli Ugonotti, but now somewhat neglected, proved a most welcome revival owing, no doubt, to the fact that the cast included Tetrazzini, Miss Destinn, Mr. Zenatello, Mr. Scotti, and Messrs. Marcoux and Nivette. No cycle was given this season, but fine performances under the admirable conductorship of Dr. Richter were heard of Wagner's Die Walkure, Götterdämmerung, Tannhäuser, Tristan und Isolde, The Meistersinger, and The Flying Dutchman. Faust and Carmen were performed somewhat late in the season, and the two representations of Gluck's Armida proved most complete and artistic. A welcome feature of the past season was the great advance made by our native vocalists, Mr. Walter Hyde, Mme. Edna Thornton, Mme. Edyth Walker, Mr. Clarence Whitehill, Mr. McCormack, Mme. Kirkby Lunn, Miss Hatchard; while two newcomers, Miss Cavalieri and Mr. Nivette, achieved considerable success. Mme. Melba and Mme. Tetrazzini have both been unsparing in their efforts, and special mention must be made of the splendid work accomplished by Mr. Zenatello. A pleasant feature of the season was Mme. Melba's matinée, given to celebrate her twenty years' unsurpassed singing at Covent Garden, and it was a kind thought of the great prima donna to give the proceeds of the matinée, a sum of £2,000, to the London Hospital. Noteworthy also have been the performances of Aida, and the splendid impersonations of the hero and heroine by Mr. Zenatello and Miss Destinn; while Verdi's Otello, with Mme. Melba as Desdemona, a part that admirably suits her beautiful voice, are interesting features of the past season. Lucia di Lammermoor was mounted no fewer than six times, no doubt for the sake of the mad scene and the opportunity it gave Mme. Tetrazzini for a display of her wonderful technique in the florid music. Mme. Maria Gay's Carmen was another successful event, and mention should be made of the excellent work accomplished by Messrs. Sammarco, Scotti, Gilibert, Marcoux, Nivette, Griswold, Miss Dereyne, and Miss Maud Santley. In the list of operas Verdi comes first with La Traviata given seven times, Otello five, and Rigoletto five, Donizetti's Lucia di Lammermoor had six interpretations, and the same number was accorded to Rossini's Il Barbiere di Siviglia. Madame Butterfly and La Bohème were each played five times, Manon Lescaut three, and La Tosca twice. The Flying Dutchman, Götterdämmerung and Tannhäuser were given twice, The Meistersinger, Tristan und Isolde and Die Walkure three times; while four renderings of Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci, two of Faust, two of Carmen, three of I Pescatori di Perle, three of The Huguenots, two of Gluck's Armida, and one of Fedora completed the list. The principal conductors were Dr. Richter, Mr. Campanini, and Mr. Panizza. The excellent chorus and fine orchestra maintained their high reputation, and the season has been notable for the admirable performances of the familiar operas, while crowded houses have been the rule rather than the exception.

The Chancery Lane Safe Deposit, 61-62, Chancery lane, W.C., have made special arrangements, and can afford special facilities for storing jewellery, plate, and other valuables during the holiday season.

The revelations of the seamy side of London life which occasionally appear in the newspapers supply an inexhaustible subject for writers of melodrama, and London with the Lid Off is immediately suggestive of sensational disclosures. The interesting and thrilling story principally deals with the adventures of a young and friendless girl in London, and we might suggest the piece could be more aptly entitled London's Temptations.

When we first meet Astra Bell it is at a West End registry office controlled by a precious pair, Mrs. Glendale and Sarah Shafto, in league with a foreigner (Collini) and a blind burglar (Gratton Gale). The gang run the registry office as a cloak for a very vile and vicious business, and Astra Bell, an applicant for employment, with her fair face and figure, would be "worth hundreds" to them, as one of the gang remarks. But among the callers at the registry office is a young clergyman, Allen Gordon, who interests himself in the friendless girl, their respective fathers happening to have been close friends. On the track of this "Home of Rest for Unemployed Girls" is also Madge Rendall, daughter of a retired detective, who has strongly inherited the parental trait for the detection of crime. Madge, disguised, goes to the registry office at night, when it is transformed into a gay gambling and drinking saloon, and her father, learning her mission and scenting danger, follows. Sam Rendall, feared and hated, meets his doom at the house, for the blind burglar gets him into his clutches and strangles him, exclaiming, with that intuition which the blind must possess, "No one saw me do it." The crime is fixed on Astra Bell, for she discovers the body and summons aid. She is now, indeed, in need of a friend, for the guilty gang have escaped; and though she is not convicted, the fact of being in such a den of vice weighs against her, and finally she is remanded to a reformatory. Chance brings the Rev. Allen Gordon here, and before leaving he assures Astra that he can obtain her discharge and get her a situation. That nefarious pair, Mrs. Glendale and Sarah Shafto, also visit the reformatory, and, under threats of exposure, endeavour to get Astra to go with them; but Allen Gordon returns just in time to frustrate their designs. Astra is duly installed as assistant to Gordon's friend, Mr. Templeton, a jeweller, and, with the fact that she has become affianced to Gordon, her troubles appear at an end. But it is not to be. The gang, who have returned to the burglary business since the police raid on the registry office, plan to rob the jeweller. The two women enter the shop to make purchases, and they recognise Astra. The jeweller is called on one side and is told a tale which evidently impresses him, for Astra is dismissed, her employer giving it as his belief "once a criminal, always a criminal"—an unsympathetic and harsh remark which a clergyman like Allen Gordon, who has come to the girl's aid, ought to have strenuously repudiated. Poor Astra, with a cloud still over her, determines to go right away; but the gang require her now to help in the burglary, and the distraught girl consents to meet them. All this time Nemesis is on their track in Madge Rendall, who has sworn an oath to avenge the murder of her father. At first Madge thought Astra guilty, but is now convinced of her innocence. By feigning a drunken hag, she learns of the projected burglary, and promises Astra to stand by her. The confederates, with Astra, obtain admission to the jeweller's, and with tools which "would cut through a steel bar as easily as through any kind of cheese," the blind burglar sets to work, insured against interruption by having brought a facsimile of the safe door, behind which he conceals himself. Astra, however, rings an alarm bell, and the blind man, with imprecations, gropes around after her. He seizes the girl, and her life is in peril; but the lady detective, aware now of her father's murderer, comes to the rescue. Then ensues a deadly struggle between the powerful blind man and the two women, which is only ended by the timely entrance of the police. Their tether run, the gang meet their deserts at the hands of justice, and the curtain falls on the happy reunion of Allen Gordon and Astra Bell.

The piece is most creditably interpreted by Mr. Stanley Carlton's carefully selected company, and the new scenery is very appropriate. Though the plot is somewhat overburdened with minor characters, and the comic relief, which concerns the matrimonial mishaps of Percy Plunker and his wife Dolly, is inclined to be too obtrusive, the piece can be easily welded into a highly-popular touring production. Miss Rubie Maude as Astra Bell is the central figure of the piece, and she plays with much tact and sympathy, and looks the part well. As the lady detective Madge Rendall Miss Amy Eliam is a decided success, her clear, incisive style making the character deeply interesting; but why the final appearance in the garb of the drunken hag instead of as the smart detective? Mr. Stanley Carlton has a part that suits him well as the Rev. Allen Gordon, acting with sincerity and conviction; Mr. William G. Marshal supplies a graphic sketch of the blind burglar, Gratton Gale, and is especially good in the struggle in the last act; Miss Charlotte E. Bellinger submits a well-defined and resourceful characterisation of Sarah Shafto, whose accomplice in crime, the cunning, hypocritical Mrs. Glendale, is cleverly interpreted by Miss R. Hamilton Balesco. Mr. Marshall Meade is well placed as Mr. Templeton; Mr. James Hart contributes a sound performance as Collini; Mr. Lancelot Usher is very amusing and entertaining as Percy Plunker; and Miss Emily Lewis is a vivacious and engaging Dolly. Other parts are all played with intelligence and care, and London with the Lid Off is likely to add another leaf to Mr. Shirley's laurels.

The Princess Louise with her husband, the Duke of Fife, visited the Hungarian Exhibition, Earl's Court, on Thursday. After inspecting the various sections of exhibits the Royal party entered "the Hungarian Street," where Her Royal Highness made several purchases of the national embroideries worked by the women peasants in their native homes.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

"ADMIRAL PETERS."

A Play in One Act, being an Adaptation from W. W. Jacobs' story of that name, by W. W. Jacobs and Horace Mills, produced at the Pier Pavilion, Eastbourne, Monday, Aug. 3.

George Burton ..... Mr. Arthur Whitby
Joe Stiles ..... Mr. Leon Quartermaine
Mrs. Dutton ..... Miss Mary Weigall

(from our own correspondent.)

The quaint humour contained in Mr. W. W. Jacobs' tales of old sailors has appealed to most readers, and when the experienced services of Mr. Horace Mills, with his extensive knowledge of stagecraft, are enlisted in the staging of one of these tales, the result should be an abundance of fun, and, to judge from the laughter which greeted the first performance on Monday evening, the play will achieve its purpose.

Down at Seacombe lives a naval pensioner, George Burton; there, too, lives a widow named Mrs. Dutton; and it is easy to see that George Burton thinks a great deal of Mrs. Dutton, and she, in return, looks with a favourable eye on George. George is visited by an old messmate, Joe Stiles, and the two friends visit the village inn, the Cock and Flowerpot, where they both get very drunk. Mrs. Dutton, who is "chapel and very particular," hears of George's lapse from his professed semi-teetotalism, and the two sailors puzzle their brains to invent a story which will perchance obtain forgiveness for George from Mrs. Dutton. George ultimately decides to introduce to Mrs. Dutton his old pal, Joe Stiles, as Admiral Peters, and he can then account for his drunkenness as the result of "acting under orders." This explanation is given, and Joe is duly presented as Admiral Peters. Mrs. Dutton is flattered by the polite attentions paid her by such an exalted person, and her affections are quickly transferred to the pseudo Admiral. Poor George is now drilled and exercised by the "Admiral Peters," and he also recounts imaginary tales of travel, in which George Burton does not always appear in a favourable light; and when George is asked to recount the tale of his discovery in the chimney of a room where lived the favourite wife of the Sultan of Zanzibar, Mrs. Dutton leaves with a look of withering scorn for George, and a gracious smile for the "Admiral." George now accuses his friend of being a snake in the grass, and transplanting him in the affections of Mrs. Dutton; but the "Admiral" expresses his willingness to be bought off. George reluctantly pays over £5, and the railway fare to Joe, on condition that he departs for ever and at once from Seacombe. Joe agrees, and pockets the bribe. As a parting shot, he tells poor George that he, "the Admiral," would have had Mrs. Dutton for himself if it had not been that he is already married.

Premier honours must be given to Mr. Arthur Whitby, who gave a delightfully humorous sketch of the rough, bluff, and hearty naval pensioner, George Burton; Mr. Leon Quartermaine spoke well as Joe Stiles, and played the part on refined lines; and Miss Mary Weigall, as the impressionable widow, Mrs. Dutton, caught exactly the style and manner of a woman bred in a country village.

"THE GUTTER OF TIME."

A Duologue, by Alfred Sutro, produced at the Pier Pavilion, Eastbourne, on Monday, August 3.

Mrs. Tansford ..... Miss Violet Vanbrugh
Sir Harry Jardine ..... Mr. Bertram Forsyth

(from our own correspondent.)

The Gutter of Time is a powerful little play, in which a woman with a sensational past is the chief figure. Mrs. Tansford is listlessly skimming a novel when a visitor arrives at her flat in the person of Sir Harry Jardine. Young, rich, and handsome, he has fallen deeply in love with the charming, fascinating Mrs. Tansford. She, although considerably older than Sir Harry, loves him in return, but her life has been such that she feels she cannot accept the true, honest, manly love which is now offered to her, and in order to disgust Sir Harry she recounts her past history and shows to him how her life has been refuse floating down the gutter of time. Married at a very early age, her life began badly, for her husband, an enthusiastic astronomer, paid greater attention to his study of the stars than to his young and handsome wife. For three years she endured this life, and then a singer named Tansford crossed her path, and with him she fled from her lawful husband, who divorced the erring wife as soon as he discovers what has happened. She and the singer then lived together as Mr. and Mrs. Tansford, but ill-luck followed them—the singer lost his position, and he now lives by luring young and rich men to his flat, where he fleeces them at cards. The woman living with him serves as the decoy, and men are lured to the house only to be rooked. This mean, despicable part she is playing she frankly confesses to Sir Harry Jardine, but in face of all these horrors connected with the woman he loves he still asks her hand in marriage; but the adventuress, whose soul still lives, refuses to degrade him, and the servant is summoned to show him out. Miss Violet Vanbrugh plays the part of Mrs. Tansford in a perfectly artistic manner. She has all the charm and attractive appearance which the part of the fascinating woman of the world demands, and she acts with a depth of feeling and sympathy which holds the audience in closest attention. Mr. Bertram Forsyth, too, demands a very large measure of praise for his frank, sincere work as the lover, Sir Harry Jardine.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton, entitled
"THE SINS OF SOCIETY."

Mr. Fred Fredericks is to be congratulated upon securing for the Borough Theatre such a strong attraction as the Drury-lane success, The Sins of Society, which is opening its autumn tour here this week. Crowded audiences are the order nightly, and much applause is bestowed upon the magnificent spectacular effects with which the story is embellished. Mr. F. W. Bolam has secured a very strong cast, the members of which all acquit themselves with credit. Miss Grace E. Leslie plays very powerfully as Lady Marion Beaumont, handling every phase of the character with complete success; Miss Pattie Brown is a delightful exponent of Lady Goldbury, and is a prime favourite; Miss Dorothy Giles is a graceful, charming, and tender Lady Gwendolen Ashley; and the autocratic Duchess of Danebury is very appropriately played by Miss Janet Hodson. Mr. C. F. Collings as the scheming Noel Ferrers submits an artistic assumption of gentlemanly blackguardism; and Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan plays in manly and incisive style as Sir Dorian March. An outstanding performance is the James Hogg of Mr. Blake Adams, who is always very droll and interesting. Other parts in an exceptionally long cast all receive careful treatment.

MRS. ALFRED MELLON.

To the Editor of The Era.

Sir,—In the interesting recollections of Mrs. Alfred Mellon's various rôles, her creation of Ruth Tredgett, in Sir W. S. Gilbert's play Charity, has been omitted, produced at the old Haymarket Theatre. I have a very distinct recollection of this most admirable performance, and associated with her in the cast were Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, the late Messrs. Chippendale, Teesdale, Howe, Clark, and Buckstone; also the late Miss Amy Roselle.—Yours faithfully, G. BRYDON-PHILLIPS.

Broadstairs, Aug. 4, 1908.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

The Council of the Actors' Association held their usual weekly meeting at 409, Strand, on Tuesday. Present Mr. Frederick Moriand, in the chair, Messrs. Robson Paige, Chris Walker, Clarence Derwent, Poole Kirkwood, Jackson Wilcox, F. Annerley, Misses Agnes Imlay, Lucy Sibley, and Mr. Hubert Blount, secretary.

The secretary informed the Council that he had received a verbal message to the effect that Mr. A. T. Hilton, a member of the Association, died on Saturday, Aug. 1.

The chairman read a letter from Mr. Richard A. Greene, who last week tendered his resignation from the Council owing to the fact that he would be away on tour, thanking the Council for asking him to retain his seat, and saying he would be pleased to do what he could whilst on tour.

The hon. solicitor's report was read, and instructions were given to the secretary to write to Mr. Mote expressing complete confidence in him, regretting the annoyance he had been subjected to, and expressing the hope that he would not tender his resignation.

There had been no Finance Committee meeting, but Miss Agnes Imlay read the secretary's weekly statement, which the Council accepted.

The secretary was instructed to place before the Council each week the exact number of members who had paid their subscriptions.

The secretary was instructed to write to the editor of the Morning Leader—with reference to a paragraph which appeared in that paper on July 31—to the effect "that the Council can discover no official by whom the information, as printed, was given. They desire to state that the information, in so far as it refers to the membership of the A.A., from wheresoever obtained, is incorrect, and that as compared with former years the number of members who have paid their subscriptions to date is distinctly good."

Mr. Franklyn Vernon and Miss Phyllis Vaughan were elected members.

The secretary reported two engagements made since the last meeting of the Council.

ACTORS' UNION.

At the usual weekly meeting of the committee the following were present:—Messrs. Cecil G. Calvert (chairman), D. Lewin-Mannering, Paul Lovett, H. Tripp-Edgar, Geo. P. Lester, Fred D. Davis, J. Hastings Batson, J. W. Braithwaite, and Kenneth Blackmore (secretary). Letters were received from the following committeemen during the week:—Messrs. G. H. Child, E. H. Templeton, Owen Roughwood, J. Lennox Pawle, Orlando Barnett, Jerrold Heather, Henry Bedford, Lewis Gilbert, H. C. Momber, E. Y. Rae, Edward Chester, Fred F. Loyd, Edwin J. Collins, Harry Paulton, A. Maitland Stapley, Harry Paulton, jun., Frank Strickland, and Oswald Marshall.

It was decided that the general secretary should represent the Actors' Union at the Trade Union Congress at Nottingham this year.

Mr. Harry C. Momber having tendered his resignation from the executive, the secretary was instructed to inform him that it had been accepted. Mr. H. Naylor Grimson automatically takes up the seat on the committee vacated by Mr. Momber, and the secretary was instructed to notify him of the fact.

A member was advanced the sum of £1 from the Benevolent Fund.

Further details of the club were discussed at length, and the matter was again referred back for further information.

Two candidates who had sent in application forms were elected members.

Special stamps have been decided upon for the purposes of collecting subscriptions for the Benevolent Fund. The secretary would be glad to receive names and addresses of those members who would care to undertake the sale of these stamps.

Members' baskets can now be insured against all risks at the rate of 26s. per cent. per annum, and those wishing to insure their baskets are asked to communicate with the secretary.

Mr. Leslie Arthur has been appointed assistant-secretary to the Union. Mr. Blackmore starts his three weeks' vacation on Saturday next, and will return to town on Aug. 31.

Mr. H. Tripp-Edgar will take the chair at the weekly meeting of the A.U., to be held at Hummums Hotel, Covent Garden, on Tuesday next, the 11th inst., and Mr. Cecil C. Calvert will occupy a similar position on the 18th inst.

"THE WAY OUT."

An Incident, in One Act, by George Unwin, produced, for the first time, at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on Monday, Aug. 3.

The Man .....Mr. Fred Conyers
The Boy .....Mr. Legai Robinson
The Woman .....Miss Lorna Lawrence
Maid .....Miss Ida Scott

(From our own correspondent.)

The story circles round the life of a "social butterfly." Father and son love the same woman, and the latter, while she coquettes with the son, is really deeply attached to the father. With the father it was an episode of his young days. He goes abroad, and returns to find his son enamoured of his former sweetheart. He thereupon urges her not to encourage the boy—who, by the way, is ignorant of what has gone before—and the woman, in a moment of despair, and stung by the words of the father, poisons herself, dying in the presence of the son, the two being alone at dinner. It is a dramatic trifle, with a tragic sequel, and perhaps not very convincing, but it is well written and played. The characters, as portrayed by Mr. Fred Conyers, Mr. Legai Robinson, and Miss Lorna Lawrence, are all really clever and convincing studies.

AN INAUGURATION AT CARDIFF.

The Theatre Royal, Cardiff, was reopened on Monday by Mr. Rollo Balmain, the new lessee, under most promising conditions. The house was packed, and it must have been most encouraging to Mr. Balmain to receive such a flattering ovation at the conclusion of his initial performance. Mr. Balmain has opened and reopened many theatres during the course of his theatrical career, but it is questionable if ever greater appreciation has been extended to him than that given by the City of Cardiff on his assumption of the reins of management of the Royal. Mr. Balmain has literally worked marvels during the brief period he has been in Cardiff. A fine installation of electric light, decorations, alterations, structurally and otherwise, have all been made under his control, and that his idea of popular prices (4d. to 2s. 6d.) has caught on there can be no manner of doubt.

The new lessee opened with his own company in Hoodman Blind, and appeared with his usual success as Jack Yeulett, supported by Miss Sara Mignon Balmain in her now famous delineation of the dual rôle of Nance and Jess. Mr. Balmain has a carefully selected and powerful company, who all work exceptionally hard in their respective characters. Mr. Balmain was called before the curtain, and in response to enthusiastic demands for a speech uttered a few felicitous words, and read a number of telegrams from prominent managers and artists of the theatrical and music hall profession wishing him good luck in his new venture. While thoroughly appreciating such kindly expressions from his friends and colleagues, he doubly valued a message from Mr. Robert Redford, of the New Theatre. The speaker's remarks were cheered, and at the fall of the curtain the vast audience gave three ringing cheers for their new manager.

"A MERRY MAID."

Musical Comedy Burlesque, Produced, for the first time, at the Grand Theatre, Chorley, Lancs., on Monday, Aug. 3.

Larry O'Hooligan .....Mr. Vivian Wakeman
Hon. Cecil Taft .....Mr. Niel Hardy
Thady Clancy .....Mr. Ireland Cutter
Von Swank .....Mr. Phil Goldie
Sharpe Scrivener .....Mr. Horace Hillerby
Angelina Vere-de-Vere....Miss Fanny Adamson
Bertie .....Wee Geo. Wood
Biddy O'Hooligan ..Mr. W. Shaw Hutchinson
Flossie Kixie .....Miss Ray Watson
Peggy O'Hooligan .....Miss May Gibson

(From our own correspondent.)

This theatre reopened for the season on August Bank Holiday, when a capital house assembled to witness the production for the first time of a new musical comedy burlesque, entitled A Merry Maid. The story deals with Irish life, and is woven around the O'Hooligan family, who have inherited a large fortune from a relative. The action opens at the home of the O'Hooligans, where Peggy's eighteenth birthday is being celebrated. The family lawyer, Mr. Sharpe Scrivener, comes to read the will, the contents of which are satisfactory. At the same time, the lawyer has formulated a scheme to obtain the money, and instructs two of his friends, the Hon. Cecil Taft and Mrs. Angelina Vere-de-Vere, to visit the O'Hooligans, Cecil to win the hand of Peggy, and Angelina to woo Larry, the head of the family, the lawyer himself designing to wed Biddy. Peggy, however, has other views, and is interested in Thady Clancy. The lawyer persuades Larry to take a holiday at the Riviera, and they all start for Liverpool to join the steam yacht Merry Maid. Larry becomes entangled with a music-hall artist, Flossie Kixie, who determines to accompany them on the voyage.

The second act opens aboard the yacht. Larry discovers Flossie Kixie as stewardess, and Flossie releases him from his promise. He, however, discovers her to be the daughter of an old friend, and renews his engagement, resolving to marry her on their arrival ashore. The last scene is that of a ball given by Larry to celebrate his engagement, and the finale sees the lawyer and Cecil betrothed to Angelina and Biddy respectively.

The whole constitutes a very bright and up-to-date entertainment, the interest never flagging from beginning to end. The music is sparkling and melodious, and includes many very catchy numbers. The scenery is all that can be desired, and reflects the greatest credit upon Mr. James Hemingway, the artist. The play was excellently represented by Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's company. As Larry O'Hooligan Mr. Vivian Wakeman acquitted himself with every credit; Mr. W. Shaw Hutchinson as Biddy O'Hooligan caused roars of laughter by his exceedingly clever study; Mr. Niel Hardy was a successful Cecil Taft; as Angelina Vere-de-Vere the scheming widow, Miss Fanny Adamson was admirable; and Miss Ray Watson as Flossie Kixie deserves congratulations. Miss May Gibson, who possesses a beautiful voice, acted charmingly as Peggy. The chorus was strong and efficient, and the production owed much to the efforts of Mr. H. B. Levy, who wielded the bâton.

TRINITY COLLEGE CONVERSAZIONE.

On Thursday evening, July 30, a large number of visitors assembled at the conversazione given by the principals of the Trinity College, in the handsome rooms of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water-colours, Piccadilly. After the reception of visitors the first part of a small concert was given by the pupils of the Trinity College. Mr. Patrick Thayer played Edouard Schütt's "Etude Mignonne," pianoforte; and Miss Kathleen Lawler was much applauded for her violin solo, Allemanda from Suite, Op. 26 (Franz Ries). Chaminade's showy song, "L'été," was cleverly sung by Miss Florence Griffiths; and a very young student of the college, Master Richard Johnson, displayed marked executive ability in Olsen's pianoforte solo, Papillons, No. 5, being heartily recalled and warmly greeted by the visitors. Mr. John Searcy Physick sang "The Two Grenadiers" (Schumann) with considerable power and expression; while Miss Margaret Richardson produced a good tone in her violoncello solo of Godard's "Sur le lac," the first part of the concert concluding with a brilliant performance of Liszt's Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 2, for piano, by Miss Maud Agnes Winter, L.T.C.L. After an interval for refreshments the second part of the concert commenced with a piano solo by Master Edward S. Mitchell, L.T.C.L., who played the first of Six Preludes (MS.) of his own composition, which showed much promise, and was well received by the audience. A recitation, "What my lover said" (Homer Greene), was admirably delivered by Miss Olive Warren; and Miss Ethel Izard greatly pleased the visitors with her violin solo, Allegro Moderato from Seventh Concerto (De Beriot). Miss Hilda Felstead sang "Oh, Love from Thy power," from Saint-Saëns' "Samson and Delilah," ably; and Miss Bertha Tomlin received much applause for her performance of Chopin's Nocturne in F sharp. Mr. Horace Witty was set down for Clay's effective song, "The Sands of Dee"; and the programme concluded with Popper's Polonaise in D minor, played by Mr. Walter Britton. The accompanists were Mr. Leonard Gordon, Miss Bertha Tomlin, and Miss Maud Agnes Winter.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS GEORGIE DE LARA.

Unlike many of our modern actresses, Miss Georgie de Lara, the descendant of a fine old theatrical family, and the grand-daughter of the late Charles Dibden Pitt, tragedian, has been thoroughly "through the mill," playing every kind of part, from Willie Carlyle upwards. At the age of thirteen she had some good experience in répertoire, under the excellent management of the late Charles Bernard. Then came some hard stock work and rough "fit-up" experiences, till 1896, when she was engaged for musical comedy by Messrs. Morell and Moulliot, under whose management she remained for five years, playing several characters in The Shop Girl, My Girl, The Circus Girl, &c. A series of pantomime engagements followed, including two seasons at the Court, Liverpool, and two at the Gaiety, Dublin,

MISS GEORGIE DE LARA.

at the latter theatre being specially engaged by Mr. Robert Courtneidge. Shortly after came a special Exeter engagement, to play Hortense, in Poor Jo, supporting Miss Jennie Lee, by whom she was highly complimented on her performance. Closely following came an engagement with the late John Atkin, for the Grip of Iron, in which she played successively the three parts, Marie, Sophie, and Cora. Miss de Lara remained with the piece two years, at the conclusion of which period she was engaged by Mr. Ernest B. Norris for heavy lead in the stock company at the Elephant and Castle. Then came a most successful pantomime engagement at the Borough, Stratford, as fairy godmother, in Oscar Barrett's Cinderella. Shortly after Miss de Lara was engaged by Messrs. W. and F. Melville for stock, at the Standard and Terriss Theatres, and played Queen Gertrude in Hamlet, Widow Melnotte (Lady of Lyons), Marcel (Woman and Wine), and created the rôle of Peggy Munro in Mr. Walter Melville's successful play, The Soldier's Wedding. Miss de Lara is the wife of the well-known comedian, Mr. Kennedy Allen.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

PIETERMARITZBURG, July 10. — Scott's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. D. B. Scott; Lessees, B. and F. Wheeler, Ltd.—The above theatre was opened on Thursday night with The Girls of Gottenberg, which was played to an enthusiastic audience. The piece, which went with a swing from start to finish, reflects great credit upon Mr. Frank Wheeler, under whose personal supervision it was produced. Mr. Wheeler himself undertook the rôle of Max Moddelkhoff, and realised the comicalities of the part in a manner entirely his own. Miss Alice Pollard as Mitzi captivated all by her charming singing and graceful dancing. As Brittlbottl Mr. C. Willoughby added largely to the success of the piece; Kannenbier was well accounted for by Mr. Simpson, his impersonation of the aged innkeeper being a fine character study. In Miss Lilian Bell the part of Elsa had a charming interpreter; Miss Ethel Clarke as Clementine acted delightfully; Mr. W. Clarke as the Burgomaster scored an undoubted success; and Mr. N. Hancock's fine voice was heard to advantage in the rôle of Otto, a Prince of Saxe-Hildesheim. Miss Mabel Medrow gave a capital representation of Minna, her dainty singing meeting with appreciation. All the minor parts were in capable hands, and there was an efficient chorus. The three sets for the piece are the handiwork of Mr. Roland Pym, and were all that could be desired.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, the Comedy, in Four Acts, entitled "BREWSTER'S MILLIONS."

After being closed for eight weeks for extensive alterations and redecoration, the Royal County Theatre reopened its doors on Monday evening, when the above attractive comedy was presented to an appreciative audience. The admiration of those present was divided between the play, which was admirably presented by a capable company, under the joint captaincy of Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison, and the greatly improved interior of the theatre, which was the theme of universal congratulation. The general interest of the play, which comes to Kingston for the first time, was not, however, lost sight of, and those taking part in it were warmly applauded for their efforts. Chief amongst them were Mr. Percy Hutchison, who played Monty Brewster with great success, Miss Violet Ley as Mrs. Dan de Mille, and Miss Cicely Stucky as Peggy.

Mr. H. Tripp Edgar has been re-engaged by Mr. Oscar Asche for his autumn tour.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(From our own correspondent.)

PARIS, Thursday, Aug. 6.—The Ambassadeurs has given us As-tu vu mon nu? a revue in three tableaux by MM. Max Viterbo and Jules Moy, the latter gentleman the well-known comic "chansonnier" of the Boîte à Fursy. M. Moy's répertoire is peculiar in so far that it is exclusively composed of songs and recitations, all of them shriekingly funny, but at the same time woefully coarse. Nor is M. Moy a respecter of persons, and I am therefore inclined to think that of the two collaborators it is he who is responsible for having introduced into the above revue a scene which, at the dress rehearsal, provoked a terrific uproar. As no doubt you know, Mlle. Fallières, the daughter of the President of the French Republic, is engaged to be married to M. Lanes, the President's private secretary. In their attempts to be funny the authors, in the second scene, introduced M., Mme., and Mlle. Fallières, and M. Lanes, but in doing so they had overstepped the mark. The audience, incensed at this mark of disrespect towards the head of the State, began to shout "Rideau!" ("Lower the curtain!"), and when the artists ignored these calls the tumult became indescribable. Cries of "Vive la République!" "Down with Viterbo and Moy!" "Vive la France!" were heard on every side, and even when at last the curtain was lowered the audience were not satisfied. They insisted on an apology, and as this was not forthcoming they called for the "Marseillaise," which was played amid tremendous applause, the spectators rising and waving their hats. On the night of the première the objectionable scene—almost needless to say—was left out, and the revue, amusing in some parts, met with a favourable reception, although many of the jokes are coarser than any I have ever heard on a music hall stage. As is generally the case in revues, most public men come in for a large share of chaff. Thus in the first tableau we had M. Clemenceau, Senator Humbert, M. Bunau-Varilla (editor of the Matin), M. Lépine, Count Moltke, M. Ruez, the Brothers Isola, and the Emperor William, without whom no revue is complete. Nor is M. Bérenger, the prude Senator—to whom I referred last week—forgotten, and we see him in conflict with the ladies whom he caused to be prosecuted for exhibiting themselves on the stage too scantily dressed. We next are introduced to the "Kiss-Kiss," a new dance gracefully performed by Mlles. Poussette and Launey. We also see Baron Henry de Rothschild, M. Claretie of the Comédie-Française, Polin, Miss Compton, and Yvette Guilbert; and the revue ends with a parody on Chantecler, i.e., a défilé of all the animals which M. Edmond Rostand's work is said to contain.

Two theatrical lawsuits on the list for this month will only come for hearing in October next. The first is an action for libel brought by MM. Messager and Broussan, directors of the Opéra, against the New York Herald, the said libel being contained in articles written by our confrère, M. Pierre Véber. M. Véber is very talented, but he hits rather hard, and the directors of the Opéra say that his attacks were unjustifiable. The case promises to be interesting.

The other important action is that of M. Victorien Sardou against the Matin, which, as will be remembered, published an account of L'Affaire des Poisons after the dress rehearsal, a proceeding not in keeping with Paris customs.

Altogether, many theatrical disputes will have to be settled in a court of law in the month of October. Thus pretty Mlle. Carlier is suing Mme. Réjane for breach of contract, and her example has been followed by the fascinating Mlle. Lantelme. M. Bruhé, the actor, has gone to war against M. Parel, manager of the Vaudeville, who, in his turn, is fighting M. Bataille, the well-known dramatist. "Art," says good old Horace, "has a softening influence." I often wonder whether he meant these words seriously.

Not long ago we had the pleasure of applauding Mlle. Maggie Gauthier in a revue at Marigny, and we little thought that this charming comedienne, who looked bewitching in the rôle of a little princess, would soon wear a genuine tiara. "Oui, ma chère, une vraie princesse." For Mlle. Gauthier is now the fiancée of Prince de l'Isle-Montréal, and the wedding will take place next month. The Era offers her its hearty congratulations.

The Variétés will reopen with Le Roi, after which will come MM. Francis de Croisset and Feydan's comedy Le Circuit. The principal rôle therein will be played by Mlle. Diéterle, one of the "stars" of the Variétés.

It is rumoured that M. Henri Busser, one of the chefs d'orchestre at the Opéra, intends to resign his post, but the news wants confirmation. It is also whispered that Mme. Litvinne is throwing up her engagement at the Opéra, which would indeed be a matter of regret, and for which we should have to thank Mme. Cosima Wagner, who, as I have informed you already, compelled the Opéra management to entrust the principal rôle in the Crépuscule des Dieux to another artist than Mme. Litvinne.

M. Mathieu, the new manager of the Ambigu, announces two important novelties for the coming season. One is L'Agence Legris, by M. Jacques Roullet, a sensational work. The other is La Boscotte, by M. Georges Maldague.

A few months ago the opérette Le Chevalier d'Eon was brought out at the Porte-Saint-Martin. It was magnificently staged, excellently interpreted, but—it proved a disastrous failure because the libretto and the music were dull. Poor Chevalier d'Eon! He has now been liquidated, for everything connected with the work was, on Tuesday last, brought under the hammer. Gone the scenery which we admired so much: the Court of the Hôtel Ramponneau, the famous room in the Versailles palace, the Tuileries Gardens, &c. Gone also the splendid Louis XV. coach, the rich harness, the luxurious chairs, tables, &c. An enormous sum has been lost over this venture by those who were rash enough to enter into it.

Every day our papers bring letters from admirers of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt insisting on the great artist receiving the Cross of the Legion of Honour. Too much fuss is being made about this business. May Mme. Bernhardt soon receive this distinction, for it will make her happy, and one will then no longer have to listen to the hysterical outbursts of Mme. Bernhardt's injudicious friends.

ANNUAL OUTING OF STAFF OF PAVILION THEATRE, E., TO BOGNOR ON SUNDAY, JULY 26th, 1908.

PAVILION THEATRE OUTING.

The annual outing of the staff of this theatre took place on Sunday, the 26th ult., at Bognor. The party, numbering over forty, left London Bridge Station in reserved carriages at 8.40, arriving at the pretty Sussex town at 11 o'clock. At 12.30 the company sat down, under the presidency of the manager, Mr. Edward King, to a sumptuous repast, provided by host Potten at the Belmont Restaurant, to which everyone did full justice. After the usual toasts, the health of the management of the theatre was proposed by Mr. C. E. Crosby in well-chosen and appropriate terms, which was eloquently replied to by Mr. Edward King, who spoke strongly of the necessity in any theatre of system, discipline, and loyalty. After the toast of "The Chairman," humorously given by Mr. Leveson Linton and heartily drank, the whole party motored over to Chichester, returning in time for tea, and leaving Bognor at 6.30, after having spent one of the most enjoyable days ever remembered. The weather was perfect, and every praise is due to Mr. C. E. Crosby, who zealously and successfully carried out the duties of hon. secretary to the outing, which will remain a red-letter day in the history of the establishment.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree has returned to town from Harrogate, and is assiduously engaged in preparations for the forthcoming production at His Majesty's of Stephen Phillips and Comyns Carr's new play, founded on Faust. The authors themselves are affording Mr. Tree all possible assistance in the staging of their piece, which promises to equal, if not surpass, in scenic elaboration any of Mr. Tree's former productions.

Mr. Forbes Robertson will produce, during his forthcoming season at the St. James's, a new play elaborated by Mr. Jerome K. Jerome from his own short story, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." The piece will be in three acts, and the rôle to be played by Mr. Forbes Robertson will be that of a stranger who exercises a bewildering, but beneficent, influence over the various personages in a Bloomsbury boarding-house. Miss Gertrude Elliott will be happily in the cast, which will also include such conspicuous favourites as Mr. Marsh Allen, Mr. Ian Robertson, Mr. Ernest Hendrie, Mr. Edward Sass, Mr. Wilfred Forster, Miss Kate Bishop, Miss Agnes Thomas, Miss Carlyon, Miss Haidée Wright, and Miss Alice Crawford.

Mr. Arthur Collins has strengthened the cast of the autumn drama at Drury Lane by the engagement of Miss Wallis (Mrs. Walter Reynolds). The last appearance of Miss Wallis at the National Theatre was with Sir Henry Irving as the Abbess in Dante. She also accompanied the late great actor on his last American tour and in the provinces.

Mr. H. B. Irving's reappearance at the West End will be made either before Christmas or early in the New Year. His plans give promise of a most interesting season, which will include the assumption for the first time in London of many of his famous father's parts, including Lesurques and Dubosc, Charles I., Louis XI., and Mathias. An important feature of Mr. Irving's London season will be the production of Justin Huntly McCarthy's Cæsar Borgia, which he tried, with gratifying results, in Edinburgh last November. It has attractive parts both for Mr. Irving and Miss Dorothea Baird, and the opportunity of seeing these two admirable artists again in the West End will be eagerly seized.

A new play for Mr. Irving will be forthcoming in a three-act "Society" piece, at present called Lord Arthur Saville's Crime—a title which we suggest would be more euphonious if the "Arthur" were left out. It is the work of Messrs. Cannan and Peacey, and its scene is laid around Mayfair. Mr. and Mrs. Irving are provided in this play also with fine parts.

Mr. Irving started his tour auspiciously at Douglas, Isle of Man, on Monday, and had a magnificent reception. His répertoire includes The Lyons Mail, The Bells, Hamlet, Louis the Eleventh, Cæsar Borgia, and The Sergeant of Hussars—the little play by Miss Cicely Hamilton, which was performed by the Play Actors' Society. Mr. Irving's travels will take in Llandudno, Dublin, Belfast, Scarborough, and Eastbourne, and other important bookings pending will make up a tour brief but brilliant.

Mme Patti will make one of her few but heartily welcome appearances in the autumn, having promised to sing at a concert in aid of Father Vaughan's charities. The entertainment will be given at the Albert Hall in November. The celebrated vocalist has been enjoying a holiday at Carlsbad, but has returned to London this week on her way to Craig-y Nos Castle.

The list of works to be performed during the first week of the Moody-Manners season of opera in English at the Lyric gives promise of a rare musical feast. The season begins on Monday, Aug. 17, with Lohengrin, in which the principal rôles will be sung by Mesdames Fanny Moody and Marie Louise Roger and Messrs. Philip Brozel, William Dever, Charles Moorhouse, and Charles Manners. Faust is underlined for the Tuesday, with Mesdames Kate Anderson and Rosina Beynon and Messrs. Seth Hughes, Lewys James, and Charles Manners in the cast. The Wednesday matinée will be devoted to Il Trovatore, in which Mesdames De Vere Sapio and Mary Norton and Messrs. Charles Carter and William Dever will appear, and the evening will welcome Madame Butterfly, rendered as far as the principals are concerned by Mesdames Fanny Moody and Toni Seiter and Messrs. Seth Hughes and Lewys James.

"Aida" is announced for Thursday, Aug. 20, the chief artists being Mesdames De Vere Sapio and Toni Seiter and Messrs. Philip Brozel, Lewys James, Charles Manners, and Charles Magrath; and Tannhäuser is set down for Friday, when the principals will be Mesdames De Vere Sapio and Kate Anderson and Messrs. Louis Laurier, William Dever, and Charles Magrath. For Saturday's matinée Madame Butterfly is announced, with Mesdames Fanny Moody and Toni Seiter and Messrs. Charles Carter and William Dever; and the week will be completed with Cavalleria Rusticana, with Miss Enriqueta Crichton and Messrs. Seth Hughes and Lewys James in the cast, followed by Pagliacci, in which Miss Kate Anderson and Messrs. Philip Brozel, William Dever, and Lewys James will appear.

The statement that Mr. Frederick Volpé is in the cast of Lady Epping's Lawsuit, the forthcoming production at the Criterion, is incorrect.

The contemplated amalgamation of the O.P. and Playgoers' Clubs having fallen through, a special general meeting of the members of the former will be held in the Club Room on Thursday, Aug. 20, at 8 p.m., to consider, and, if approved, to sanction, its future policy. Among the propositions to be submitted to the meeting will be that of admitting ladies to membership, at an annual subscription of 10s. 6d.

At the meeting of the Playgoers' Club on the 20th ult., the general feeling was that the O.P. Club should realise their own assets and then come to the Playgoers' Club, which would mean a payment by the Playgoers' Club of about £100 instead of £460. Under the new conditions, it is intended to discontinue the present O.P. Club premises. Their headquarters will be after Oct. 1 at the Criterion Restaurant.

"Princess Marie," the new musical play, written by Mr. Frederick Lonsdale and composed by Mr. Sydney Jones, will be produced at the Prince of Wales's on Sept. 3. The action takes place in a supposititious country, the King of which, laying aside the affairs of State, disguises himself in order to go freely among his people. During his disappearance the heir-presumptive becomes regent, but, coming under suspicion of having caused His Majesty's removal, is the object of much unpleasant attention, out of which great fun arises. The cast will include Mr. Huntley Wright, Mr. George Barrett, Mr. F. Pope-Stamper, Mr. Bertram Wallis, Mr. Akerman May, Mr. J. T. MacCullum, Miss Gracie Leigh, Miss Amy Martin, and Miss Isabel Jay.

During Sir Charles Wyndham's absence holiday-making at Ems, his part in The Mollusc at the Criterion is being played by Mr. Yorke Stephens. Miss Frances Vine has the rôle associated with Miss Mary Moore.

Mr. Seymour Hicks, now completely recovered from the effects of his recent mishap, is applying himself to work in good earnest, and began this week by starting three companies of The Gay Gordons on the road, himself appearing with Miss Zena Dare in the No. 1 company at Douglas. While on his travels he will devote his leisure to rehearsals of a new comedy, the work of Mr. Michael Morton and M. Paul Gavault, which is to be presented in due course either at the Hicks or some theatre other than the Aldwych. The popular comedian's return to London will be made on Dec. 10, when he and Miss Terriss will begin an engagement at the Palace lasting six weeks.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hicks' deft pen has been busy, and he has completed his transformation into a musical play of The Court Scandal, produced some nine years ago at the Court. The new title is to be that of The Laughing-Stock, and the music is by Mr. Frank Tours, with lyrics by Mr. Adrian Ross. The mounting of the piece will be daintily done on the lines of a Meissonier picture, and the principal lady's part will afford Miss Terriss one of the best acting opportunities of her career.

"Richard III.," in which interest is growing enormously, will be presented by Mr. Hicks in the near future. The version owes nothing to Cibber, but is purely Shakespearean It will be mounted on an elaborate scale, but the provinces will not be denied a sight of the production, for Mr. Hicks intends afterwards to take it on tour entire, visiting all the big towns. The actor-dramatist's labours have also included the making into a new form of musical play of La Dame aux Camellias, which will also have lyrics by Mr. Adrian Ross and music by Mr. Frank Tours. Mrs. Hicks will play Marguerite, who will be a model of virtue, and Mr. Hicks will be an Anglicised Armand Duval.

Mr. Hicks has also secured the rights of The Dictator, to make into a musical play with Mr. Harding Davis, who is coming over to England for the purpose. With the purchase of The Hampton Club, Stevenson's little piece, from le Grand Guignol, which he proposes doing next season, Mr. Hicks may be said to have laid up a goodly dramatic store.

A dramatist whose name was almost as familiar in English theatrical circles as in those of his native country has passed away in the person of Mr. Bronson Howard, one of America's foremost writers. His literary gifts have been employed in numerous clever pieces, some of which have enjoyed great popularity in London. From his pen emanated Brighton and Truth, which furnished Charles Wyndham with two of his earlier successes, the former produced at the Court in 1874 and the latter at the Criterion in 1879. In America they were played under the titles respectively of Saratoga and Hurricanes.

"The Old Love and the New" (originally known as Lilian's First Love, and subsequently The Banker's Daughter, was also popular in England, where it was produced in 1879, and other examples of his art witnessed here were Young Mrs. Winthrop, brought out at the Marylebone in 1882, and The Henrietta, produced in 1890. Later works were Shenandoah, Aristocracy, Peter Stuyvesant (in collaboration with Brandon Matthews), Diamonds, Moorcroft, Old Love Letters, Wives, Baron Rudolph, One of Our Girls, and Met by Chance, all of which were greatly popular in the States.

Mr. Howard was born in Detroit, Michigan, U.S.A., on Oct. 7, 1842, and was educated at New-haven, Connecticut. He began his literary career as a journalist in New York, but from 1872 devoted his attention solely to playwriting. In 1880 he married in London Miss Alice Wyndham, thus becoming the brother-in-law of Sir (then Mr.) Charles Wyndham. He was a member of the London, Savage, and Green Room Clubs, and was president of the American Dramatists' Club, which had its origin in a dinner given to Mr. Howard in 1891. He died at Avon-by-the-Sea (New Jersey) in his sixty-sixth year.

Among the comparatively long list of deaths in the profession to be recorded this week is that of Mr. A. T. Hilton, who died suddenly in London on Saturday morning last, at the age of sixty-seven. The late actor was a native of Aberdeen, and his name is widely associated with the rôle of Rob Roy in Scotland's national drama. He had the distinction of playing with Kean, Dillon, G. V. Brooke, and other well-known old actors. He travelled the provinces extensively, and also visited Australia. One of his last appearances was at Terry's during Miss Godfrey Turner's season. The interment took place in his native city of Aberdeen.

America is claiming many of our leading actors and actresses, who are already on their way, or are engaged to visit the States this month. Among those who have already departed for the hospitable shores of the New World are Mr. George Grossmith, jun., Mr. James Blakeley, Mr. Lionel Mackinder, Miss Edith Kelly, and Miss Gertie Millar. Included among those who have booked their passages for New York in time for the production of new plays are Miss Alexandra Carlisle, Miss Constance Collier, Miss Beatrice Forbes Robertson, and Mr. Julian L'Estrange.

A new play from the pen of Mr. Charles Hannan has been accepted for West End production by Miss Julia Neilson and Mr. Fred Terry. The piece, which is in four acts, is of a somewhat different class from the costume plays in which these artists have recently been appearing, and is a modern play, containing strong rôles for both the principals.

Mr. A. B. Imeson, who returned from America three weeks since, was immediately engaged by Mr. Sylvanus Dauncey to play Rev. Edgar Linnel, in Mr. Chas. Frohman's principal company, The Hypocrites. Mr. Tree saw the play at Harrogate last week, and afterwards went round to Mr. Imeson's dressing-room and heartily congratulated the actor upon his performance. Mr. Imeson, it may be remembered, was with Mr. Tree for some time at His Majesty's.

Miss Evelyn Millard, who begins her season at the Garrick with Mr. Roy Horniman's adaptation of Mr. W. J. Locke's novel, "Idols," on Sept. 2, has surrounded herself with a competent body of artists. The complete cast will consist of Miss Millard, Miss Edyth Latimer, Miss Augusta Haviland, Mrs. Harry Cane, Miss Ethel Ingram, and Messrs. Herbert Waring, C. W. Somerset, Alfred Brydone, Charles Rock, Arthur Wontner, C. Leveson-Lane, Evelyn Vernon, Heath Haviland, Guy Fletcher, Frank Danby, Albert Sims, and Allan Aynesworth.

One of the most beautiful theatres in the kingdom is disappearing from London by the destruction of the Imperial, which, after vain attempts at disposal, is now in the hands of the house-breakers. Its marble columns, stately halls, and classic proscenium are all gone, and the work of pulling down the walls is in progress. The theatre was rebuilt for Mrs. Langtry, and opened on April 22, 1901, with A Royal Necklace, in which the famous actress appeared as Marie Antoinette. Among the distinguished names which have been associated with the theatre during its short career are those of Mr. Herbert Waring, Mr. Somerset Maugham, Mr. Bernard Shaw, Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Oscar Asche, Mr. Lewis Waller, Miss Evelyn Millard, and Mr. Martin Harvey. The site of the theatre will shortly be offered for sale.

Mr. George Edwardes' two weeks' season with The Girls of Gottenberg at the Adelphi begins on Monday. Mr. Edmund Payne will have his original part of Max Moddelkopf, and Happy Fanny Fields will essay the rôle of Mitzi. The cast will also include Miss Thelma Raye, Miss Maisie Gay, Mr. Fred Allandale, and Mr. Lawrence Grossmith.

Mr. George Edwardes had a highly encouraging report to make at the annual general meeting of the Gaiety Theatre Company, Ltd., over which he presided on Tuesday. He congratulated the shareholders upon the result presented, and upon the fact that the directors were able to pay a dividend of 15 per cent. for the past year, which went to prove the truth of what he said at the last meeting, that the set-back which they then had was only of a temporary nature. When the present production of Havana came to an end the whole of the old Gaiety company would return to the theatre; but up to the present he must say that the experiment which they made of having an entirely new company to play in that piece was justified.

They were, he continued, about to send The Girls of Gottenburg on tour, with Mr. Edmund Payne in his original part; while Miss Gertie Millar had started for the United States to play in that piece there. As to the future, the directors did not propose to declare interim dividends, because it might be desirable to hold the money in hand, and they therefore intended to adopt the policy of making only an annual distribution. It was in the opinion of the directors very desirable that the reserve fund should be further augmented, and they would pursue that policy, and he hoped to be able to keep to the payment of a regular dividend in the future at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

The report was unanimously adopted. Mr. A. G. Mackenzie was elected to a seat on the board. In reply to a vote of thanks, Mr. Edwardes stated that the reason why The Merry Widow had gone to Daly's Theatre instead of to the Gaiety was that it was a piece which, owing to the singers required, and for other reasons, it was quite impossible to cast with the original Gaiety company.

We extend our sympathy to Mr. Watkin Wynne in the great bereavement he has sustained by the loss of his wife, following very closely upon that of his eldest son, Jack, who died in April last. The deceased lady was interred in the family vault at Southend-on-Sea on Tuesday last. The pathetic interest of Mr. Watkin Wynne's double loss is deepened by the fact that it was his wife and son who inspired him to write the play Light in the Darkness, which he is producing at the Lyric, Hammersmith, on Monday next Every assistance has been rendered by Mr. Wentworth Croke, and Mr. Arnold Bell is helping to rehearse and produce the piece.

The cast of Light in the Darkness, which Mr. W. Watkin-Wynne will present for the first time in England at the Lyric, Hammersmith, on Monday, includes Messrs. Alfred Beaumont, H. Elmore Frith, Arthur Rodney, Charles L. Ludlow, Bert Lloyd, Norman Clark, Frank Sturt, and W. Watkin-Wynne, and Misses Maud Buchanan, Beatrice Western, Agnes St. Clair, and Little Marjorie Lawrence. On the same evening a handsome souvenir of the new version of Mr. Hall Caine's play, The Christian, which will visit Hammersmith this autumn, together with a gold mounted pendant of Miss Grace Chalmers (Mrs. Wentworth Croke), will be presented to every member of the audience paying for admission.

We regret to record the death on Monday last, after a long and painful illness, of Miss Gertrude Glyn, the accomplished and well-known composer. The deceased lady, who was fifty-two years of age, was the wife of the Rev. W. Mitchell Probert, Chaplain of the Bethnal Green Infirmary, and was younger daughter of the late Sir George Parker, Bart., of the 74th Bengal Native Infantry, and Cantonment Magistrate of Cawnpore. Amongst her various works should be mentioned the waltz "Amore," Egyptian march "The Sirdar's Own," war march "Roberts of Candahar," Norwegian dance "Etoile Polaire," and the waltz "Fair Bride of Madrid." The funeral took place on Thursday at Fulham Cemetery, in the presence of many relatives and friends, the Rev. E. G. Barnes, of St. Thomas's, Victoria Park, officiating. There were many floral tributes.

The successful comedy, What the Butler Saw, started its sixth tour under the joint management of Miss Ada Blanche and Mr. Lionel Rignold at the Coliseum Theatre, Aberystwyth, on Bank Holiday. Owing to slight indisposition, Miss Ada Blanche was unable to appear during the week's visit, but joins the company on Monday at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle, where she will again take up her part of Kittie Barrington, in which she has appeared considerably over 600 times.

While staying at Harrogate last week, Mr. Beerbohm Tree saw Miss Gladys Harvey's performance of Rachel Neve, in The Hypocrites. During his "visit behind" the distinguished actor asked to be introduced to the young actress, and expressed himself highly delighted with her work.

The Theatre Royal and Hippodrome, Barry Dock, celebrated this week the anniversary of its opening. An artistic souvenir has been issued, depicting various parts of the house, and giving portraits of the managing-director, Mr. Arthur Carlton, and his able manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden, since whose appointment business has wonderfully improved.

Following upon the triumphal production of Brewster's Millions at the Theatre Royal, Bournemouth, Mr. Percy Hutchison and his company have moved to the County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, for the holiday week, and were greeted with great enthusiasm, the excitement of the ship scene having an appropriate accompaniment in a hurricane of applause from the audience. Talking of the yacht, it is said that this superb set, weighing, as it does, 10½ tons, is the biggest "prop" ever toured.

"The Head of the Firm," a comedy, translated by Mr. Leslie Faber from the Danish of Hjlmar Bergstrom, will be produced at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, on Thursday next. Included in the cast will Mr. Faber, who will produce, Mr. Charles V. France, Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm, Mr. Frederick Morland, Mr. Richard Neville, Miss Beatrice Ainley, Miss Muriel Pope, and Miss Elizabeth Watson. Mr. Walner Gregory will be manager.

The Brixton Theatre reopened after the summer vacation on Bank Holiday afternoon, when Mr. Frank Bertram's company presented The Convict's Daughter, which hitherto had been seen in all the theatres on the Surrey side of the Thames with the exception of the house on Brixton Oval. Mr. Bertram is a host in himself in the characters of Weary Willie, Michael Graham, and Convict 99.

The prettily-decorated Opera House at Kidderminster reopened on Monday for the autumn season under the most favourable auspices. The energetic managing-director, Mr. James P. Moore, has secured an irresistible list of bookings, including The Prince of Pilsen, Florodora, Dairymaids, When Knights Were Bold, and The Merry Widow, all to be presented before the pantomime season.

A meeting of the Touring Managers' Association was held at the Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, Strand, on the 31st ult. Present: Messrs. E. Lockwood (in the chair), Herbert Ralland, Wentworth Croke, Norman V. Norman, E. Graham Falcon, F. Weathersby, A. Clifton Alderson, G. Brydon Phillips, W. Muskerry-Tilson (hon. solicitor), and Mr. Martin (secretary). A letter of complaint was received, and further information asked for. It was resolved that Mr. Walter Howard's name be placed on the register of members.

Communications were received from the Actors' Union, in reference to standarised contract, complaining of the letter written to The Era and Stage, and the secretary was instructed to reply that the committee think that it was unwise for a member of the Union to announce at a public meeting in Manchester a matter that was sub judice.

A discussion took place re an advertisement in a contemporary offering to play copyright pieces in certain clubs on Sundays, and the hon. solicitor was instructed to deal with the matter. The revised standardised theatre contract, with alterations made by the hon. solicitor, was referred to the sub-committee, in order to complete. A member wrote in reference to a week out at commencement of tour, asking for advice as to how to proceed. After consideration, the best advice available was given. Mr. T. Arthur Jones was elected a member of the Association.

On the same date a meeting of the committee of the Managers' Club was held. Present: Messrs. E. Lockwood (in the chair), A. Clifton Alderson, E. Graham-Falcon, Charles Carey, F. Weathersby, W. Muskerry-Tilson (hon. solicitor), and M. Martin (secretary). The monthly accounts were submitted and passed, and cheques ordered to be drawn.

The attention of the committee was called to an advertisement in the Referee, wherein a member gave the club address for business purposes. As it was considered against the interests of the club, the member in question was asked to attend the meeting, and gave an undertaking that such advertisements should not appear again. Letters of resignation were received and accepted from Mr. George Clarkson, Mr. Lilford Arthur, and Mr. Arthur Jefferson. The following gentlemen were elected members of the club: Mr. Arthur Elliott, Mr. T. Arthur Jones, Mr. Joseph St. Clair, and Mr. Charles E. Hardy.

Mr. Rollo Balmain, the new lessee and manager of the Theatre Royal, Cardiff, can boast of a pedigree going back to the Scandinavian Vikings. The ancestral prestige was maintained in 1715, when members of the family turned out for the Elder Pretender, and later in '45, when they followed the flag of Prince Charlie. One of the race, Count Balmain, was the Russian Government representative guarding the fallen Emperor Napoleon at St. Helena, whilst another member founded the city of Balmain, in New South Wales.

The Cardiff Watch Committee last week received a deputation from the Cardiff Theatre Royal Company, with a request for a licence for the performance of stage plays. The chairman explained that when Mr. Balmain appeared before the committee last week they were under the impression that the licence could not be granted until the late lessee's consent to the transfer had been obtained, but they had since learned that Mr. Redford's interest in the theatre had ceased, and they now only had to consider the theatre company and Mr. Balmain. Reports having been submitted showing that the lessee had taken steps to effect certain immediate improvements which they considered necessary in the theatre, and an undertaking having been given to make certain structural alterations with the least possible delay, the committee granted the customary licence for twelve months.

"The Belle of the Ball" met with a flattering reception at the Tyne, Newcastle, on Monday, no fewer than eight curtains being taken for the second and third acts. Mr. Charles Adeson has been added to the strong cast. Mr. Alexander to the production of the play at a West-end theatre.

Mr. Challis Herrick opened on Saturday last at the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway, as business-manager for Mr. Wentworth Croke's The Prodigal Son company.

Mr. John McCormack, the gifted young vocalist, who appeared recently at Covent Garden, will go to Naples in the spring, and is appearing at the San Carlo Opera House. Mr. McCormack has been re-engaged for Covent Garden next season; and on closing he will sing at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. The youthful singer, who is only twenty-three years of age, had no idea of taking up music as a profession till 1902, when he was induced by a friend to enter for the National Irish Festival, and won the gold medal.

A "dramatic evening" formed part of the social programme which marked the visit to Sheffield last week of the British Medical Association. The Lyceum Theatre, spick and span from the hands of decorators and upholsterers, was generously placed at the disposal of the reception committee, and Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont, with the loyal help of Mr. C. N. Crossland and other local amateurs, opened the theatre on Oct. 29 for a special performance of Much Ado About Nothing. A special charm was given to the function by the appearance of those two distinguished artists Miss Constance Collier and Mr. Henry Ainley, who were both received enthusiastically. The play was staged in a careful and artistic manner, and Mr. Beaumont was heartily congratulated on the success of the performance.

A silly and heartless joke was on Monday afternoon perpetrated on the friends of Mr. Ernest Howard, the well-known scenic artist, who is now at Bristol superintending the working of scenic properties used in Hall Caine's play The Christian. Mr. Howard, in the best of health, left Northampton, where his studio is situated, on Sunday, in order to be in attendance at Bristol, and at five o'clock on Monday afternoon there was received in Northampton a telegram announcing that Mr. Howard was dead. The message shocked and grieved the gentleman's friends beyond expression, and no time was lost in wiring for confirmation or denial. The reply came through quickly, and great was the relief felt when it was found that the first message was a grim joke on the part of the sender—a friend of Mr. Howard's and of the gentleman to whom it was despatched.

The visit of Mr. Percy Hutchison's Lady Frederick company which concluded on Saturday at Llandudno was marked by an extraordinary scene of enthusiasm. At the fall of the curtain on the last act Miss Mabel Love was called no less than eight times, and the stage was a perfect garden of flowers. Mr. Robert Minster, who gives an artistic performance as Paradine Fouldes, also obtained unstinted applause on taking his call. The company opened at the Grand Theatre, Margate, on Monday, to a crowded house, and Miss Love and Mr. Minster had to acknowledge the plaudits of the packed house on more than twenty occasions in the course of the evening.

The handsome new building at Stockton-on-Tees, called the Castle Theatre, which is designed to take the place of the old Theatre Royal, burnt down two years ago, was formally opened on the afternoon of the 30th ult. by the Borough Member, Sir Robert Ropner, in the presence of a large and representative gathering. The lessee of the theatre, which seats 2,500, is Mr. J. Chas. Imeson, and the acting-manager, Mr. Cecil C. Imeson. The opening performance was The Lady of Lyons, played by local amateurs in aid of charities. Mr. W. Kirk, J.P., appeared as Claude Melnotte, a part, it may be noted, which he undertook on the occasion of a similar performance shortly after the opening of the old Theatre Royal in 1868.

The success attending the production of A Country Girl in London has been so pronounced that Mr. Alfred Northway and Mr. W. V. Garrod have already acquired the rights of another play from the pen of Mr. Frank Price. The title has not yet been decided upon, but preparations will be started at once, and the production may be expected early in 1909. This will be the third company touring under the direction of Messrs. Northway and Garrod.

Mr. Montague Beaudyn will have three companies touring this autumn and next spring, namely, Send Him Victorious, The Power of a Wicked Woman, originally produced under the title of The Woman Who Was Dead, and A Traitor Prince, which is being revived on a large scale with new scenery and effects.

Mr. Derwent Hall Caine is about to appear in a new play written by Hall Caine specially for his son. It is entitled The Fatal Error, and its story deals principially with Iceland. The first production will take place at the Prince's Theatre, Llandudno, on Sept. 14 next.

Miss Maisie Hanbury, long known as leading lady with Mr. A. Hamilton Warden's companies, is fulfilling a special engagement with Mr. Fredk. Melville's new production at the Elephant and Castle Theatre this week and next. She afterwards rejoins Mr. Warden for important parts in A Woman's Past and his new play, which will shortly see the light.

Miss Ella Anderson, an Australian actress and vocalist, has made a hit on her first appearance in drama in the English provinces. She plays a sort of "Connie Ediss part" in Miss Mary Ford's Power of Lies company, and her clever performance at the Empress Theatre, Oldham, this week has won warm praise.

Mr. Frank Adair has secured from Mr. Fred Maxwell the entire theatre rights of his play, The Heathen and the Christian, which was successfully produced at St. James's Theatre, Manchester, on July 8, 1907, and made a pronounced hit on a subsequent trial trip. The play, which is written round the Boxer rebellion, will be sent out in the spring of 1909. New scenery is now being designed for the production, and everything, including real Chinese dresses, flags, trophies, and armour, will be carried. An entirely new plant of printing is also being designed by the author. Mr. Adair will play the principal part of Li, the Chinese avenger.

"Twelfth Night" has been selected for the second annual general performance of the British Shakespeare Society at the Memorial Theatre, Stratford-on-Avon, to be held (under the direction of Mr. Acton Bond) on Sept. 30, Oct. 1, 2, and 3. There will be two matinées and two evening performances, and the two casts will be drawn from the acting members all over the kingdom. Several of these engaged made successes last year in The Merchant of Venice.

Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton has been engaged to succeed Mr. Leslie Faber as the Rev. Edgar Linnell, the leading part in Mr. Charles Frohman's South company of The Hypocrites. Mr. Leyton was the Jack Frobisher in Mr. Bourchier's Walls of Jericho company last autumn, and he will also be favourably remembered for his excellent work in the recent performances by the Play Actors at the Royalty and Scala Theatres.

A memorial praying for the renewal of the patent of the Queen's Theatre, Dublin, which expired on March 25, 1907, was received by the Solicitor-General for Ireland at a sitting held in Dublin Castle on Wednesday. The application was made on behalf of Mr. Frederick Wentworth Marriott Watson, and there was no opposition. Details of the proposed alterations to the building were submitted, and an undertaking was given that the safety of the public would be ensured. The Solicitor-General said they were all agreed as to the desirability of granting the patent. The application will be laid before the Lord-Lieutenant in due course.

Mr. R. A. Roberts's new play, Straight from the Shoulder, has made a pronounced hit on its first production at Brighton this week. Wednesday night's returns greatly exceeded those of Monday, and everything points to a huge week. The London production takes place at the Broadway, New Cross, on Monday.

Mr. J. H. Savile, after busy seasons at his theatres at Perth and Paisley, has been enjoying a brief vacation in town, visiting also Brighton and other places on the South Coast. His theatres reopen for the season immediately—Perth on Monday next and Paisley on the 17th.

The death has occurred at Buenos Ayres of José Ferenczy, formerly the leading tenor of the famous Court Theatre at Weimar. In the early eighties he took over the management of the Carl Schultze Theatre at Hamburg, where he remained for ten years. After a short time at the Muncipal Theatre at Karlsbad, Ferenczy accepted the post of Director of the Central Theatre at Berlin. With such plays as The Geisha and La Poupée he did well at the commencement, but eventually ill health led to financial difficulties last year. He then took a company out to South America.

The Kennington Theatre is now fitted up with the Ozonateur apparatus for purifying the air, and Mr. Robert Arthur claims that the atmosphere of the house is as healthful as that of Margate.

Miss Marie Hall gave a most successful violin recital at the Opera House, Jersey, on the 31st ult., standing room only being available long before the commencement of the performance. Miss Hall was assisted by Miss Lonie Basche at the piano, and Mr. C. Stuart Edwards, the brilliant baritone, sang several songs, including Handel's "Wheree'er you walk." His Excellency Major-General H. S. Gough, C.B., C.M.G., was present with a Government House party.

A movement is on foot to celebrate Salvini's "eightieth birthday," which is still some years distant. The committee in Rome, it is said, requested the Italian Ambassador in London to ask of the leading English actors and actresses leave to include them in the honorary committee. The celebration, at which Salvini will be present, is fixed for New Year's Day. Salvini's chief successes in England were made in Othello, King Lear, and Morte Civile, the exciting tragedy recently given by the Sicilian Players at the Shaftesbury.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Sir John Hare's Surprise.

"DURING the time which elapsed between the closing of the St. James's and the building of the Garrick Theatre," writes Sir John Hare in the Strand Magazine, "I spent a season in association with my old friend Arthur Chudleigh, on the opening of the new Court Theatre. I had secured the rights of a French farce by MM. A. Bisson and Mars, which had been produced with enormous success in Paris. It was entitled Les Surprises du Divorce. I obtained the English rights on the strong advice of my agent, who had been present at the répétition générale. He had wired me that the part was one eminently suited to myself, and on no account whatever ought I to lose the option secured. In fact, so urgent did he deem it that he begged me to send him the money over in cash the next day, which I did. It was fortunate that I followed his advice, as the French author wished to withdraw his promise of the previous night, and was only kept to it by the presentation of the money in hard cash in fulfilment of the agreement.

"I AWAITED the arrival of my somewhat costly purchase with eager curiosity and anxiety, which was not allayed by my discovery on reading the MS. that I had become the possessor of a roaring farce, and not a comedy, as I had anticipated. The chief character, said to be 'eminently suited' to me, was obviously intended for an eccentric light comedian. I determined, however, to experiment on this part, although somewhat out of my line, at the solicitation of Chudleigh, who, with Mrs. John Wood, was about to inaugurate a joint management of the new Court Theatre. Thus I found myself once more in my old neighbourhood, and had the gratification of finding that the play (Mamma, as we christened it) was a remarkable success all round. It ran for one hundred nights to packed houses.

The Fortunes of Production.

"APROPOS of The Profligate, I may mention a curious fact which shows how unreliable and uncertain are the tastes of the public. Pinero's play was performed to crowded houses till the end of the London season, and in the autumn I started my provincial tour at Manchester with the same piece and cast. Having at all times met with the warmest support from the Manchester public, I naturally expected in this most theatre-loving of all cities an endorsement of the London verdict, and looked forward with confidence to a great success. To my dismay, however, we opened at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, to a house of forty pounds, which, strange to say, did not show any signs of increasing.

"ON the Tuesday the manager of the theatre entreated me to revive Mamma, the play previously produced at the Court. The Profligate company very kindly consented to rehearse in two days parts they had never seen played, and on the Thursday Mamma was presented to a two hundred pound house. This continued, and the extraordinary circumstance was emphasised by the fact that the Manchester public had not hitherto seen either play. Then came the reverse. We went to Liverpool the next week and played to the utmost capacity of the theatre with The Profligate! We did not require Mamma at all!

Hare and Millais.

"ONE of my happiest memories is of when I sat to Millais for my portrait, at the request of the great artist himself. This was indeed a labour of love on his part, for he not only paid me the compliment of inviting me to sit for it, but presented the picture when finished to my wife. The recollection of the hours that I spent in Millais's company (and I had over twenty sittings for this portrait) remains a treasured memory. He was as delightful in his conversation when engaged in the exercise of his art as he was in private life. I was never allowed to see the portrait until it was quite finished. Directly a sitting was completed, and I attempted to get a glimpse of his work, he would turn its face to the wall and say, 'Run away, boy' (an affectionate attitude he frequently adopted to me, though there was no great disparity in our ages), as he pushed me playfully out of the room.

H. B. Irving's Success.

"IT was in A Fool's Paradise that young Harry Irving made his first success and gave promise of that ability he has since developed to a degree which has already given him a high position in his profession. His first appearance had taken place in my revival of School, and no doubt his performance was marred by the nervousness of a beginner and was not altogether successful. His father was very anxious about him, but I had no doubt as to his latent ability, and told Sir Henry so. The following is an extract from a letter I received from Irving subsequently, and will speak for itself:—'. . . I am afraid that Harry has been a great anxiety and worry to you, but your affectionate kindness will be remembered by him as long as he lives. For myself, my dear Hare, I have no words to thank you with. No one could or would have done what you have done, and with my heart and soul I hope and trust you may not be disappointed. God bless you, old friend.—Ever, Henry Irving. Sept. 4, 1891.'

An Odd Error.

"BEFORE I went to America, Sir Henry Irving kindly suggested I should give a performance of Caste at the Lyceum Theatre, and I then made my first London appearance in the part of Eccles. By this revival I am reminded of an amusing slip made by that fine actor, Forbes-Robertson, when playing D'Alroy. I don't think he cared very much about the part, and was sometimes apt to be a little abstracted. At the performance in question—no doubt engrossed in his own managerial plans, which were then ripening, and have since matured and reflected the greatest credit on himself and the stage he so worthily adorns—he came to the couplet:—

"'Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood!'

But in thinking of his brother, perhaps, in connection with the cast of a play he was shortly to produce, he rendered it thus:—

"'Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman Forbes!'"

Toole and the Yankees.

MR. EDWARD SIDNEY sends us a curious extract from an old paper containing a speech of the late J. L. Toole at the Lyceum Theatre, New York. In the course of his address from the stage he said:—"I hear the objection made occasionally that my characters are rather too English. Well, ladies and gentlemen, there ought to be no misunderstanding about that. I came here as an English actor, and never pretended to be anything else.

"WHEN my very good friend, Mr. Joseph Jefferson—(applause)—visited London, I played with him every night—not in the same piece, but on the same evening—and nobody objected that his inimitable Rip Van Winkle was too American. We all knew that it was an American character, and he could not properly make it anything else. And what would be the use of my playing Paul Pry and Off the Line as if they were Irish or Dutch? (Laughter.) I am glad to see that my friends Mr. Montague and Mr. Rignold are not reproached in the same way. After all, you know, Henry the Fifth was tolerably English—(laughter)—and it would be no good to talk about making him otherwise."

Feminine representatives of vice on the stage have hitherto reached a more or less mature age, but in Mr. James Willard's absorbing play, which had its first production at the Shakespeare on Monday, the chief atrocities are the work of a young girl with flaxen curls and a face of cherub-like sweetness, who lies, calumniates, and assassinates with the best—or the worst—of her class. She is the ward of the wealthy Sir John Wentworth, who has taken her under his protection at the request of his brother Thomas. The latter has gained an unenviable reputation through some shady business in connection with the rubber industry in the Congo, and wishing to disappear from society, requests his brother to carry out a funeral, by which it will appear that Thomas has been buried. So striking is the likeness between the brothers that Thomas's daughter, Ena, actually imagines that it is the baronet who is dead, and that her father is falsely passing himself off as Sir John. She refuses to take any help from him despite the fact that some years before she had been betrayed by a scoundrel named Stephen Arkwright, and is living in the direst poverty. The mystery surrounding the mock burial has been partly penetrated by the old sexton, Jasper Death, who knows no more than that it was not the body of Thomas Wentworth that was buried in the village churchyard at West Marlow. He communicates his suspicions to Angel, whom, he gives out, is his granddaughter. Learning that Ena is to benefit by the baronet's will, Angel determines to have her removed, and engages a ruffian, named Martin Flood, to murder her on her way to London. The evil deed is, however, prevented by the Rev. Gordon Cross, who is in love with Ena, and offers her marriage. In the third act Ena is seen living with her child in a garret in Drury-lane, and is there visited by Angel and her grandfather, who wants to supplement his information about the dead body. While the mother has gone out Angel puts poison into the medicine of the little girl, who is lying dangerously ill; but the youngster revolts at the liquor, and is let off at the request of her mother's sister, an actress, who arrives in the dress of a pantomime prince.

Anxious to find out what is contained in the tomb at West Marlow, Angel repairs thither after dark with the intention, if possible, of forcing open the grave. She is discovered by the Rev. Cross, who accuses her of sinister motives, but she retorts by threatening to declare that she had been lured there by the rev. gentleman himself. The secret of the grave is eventually disclosed in Act V., when Angel plays her last card. She has succeeded in inducing her guardian to make a will in her favour, and coming upon him in the hall, contrives to blindfold him while he sits in a chair, and taking a pistol blows out his brains. The police are summoned, and Angel declares that she saw her victim commit suicide. The position of the body, however, makes that theory impossible, and Angel is arrested on suspicion. Incensed at her discomfiture, she seizes the pistol and fires at Ena, but the bullet reaches the heart of the old sexton, who ere he succumbs declares that the girl was no other than a nameless workhouse child. The document which the dead man had left in Ena's charge to be opened after his death is read, and reveals the fact that the body about which so much discussion has been aroused was that of a woman, the wife of Thomas Wentworth, who had died in Africa and was sent to England for burial. The assertion is substantiated by Thomas himself, who comes forward and declares his identity, claims his daughter Ena, and joins her hand with that of the Rev. Gordon Cross.

The play received admirable interpretation at the hands of Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Willard's company. Miss Florrie Green has all the qualifications for the title-rôle, which she renders with every effect. Her assumption of innocence and girlish modesty is admirable, and the vindictive characteristics of the part are equally well portrayed, Angel's evil deeds being accomplished with a jaunty air and a contempt for convention which gives them added piquancy. An impersonation of outstanding merit is also that of Mr. Fred G. Evison, who makes much of the part of Jasper Death. His make-up is a study, and as a portrayal of senility, combined with cunning and unscrupulousness, it is an impersonation that would be hard to surpass. Mr. Evison took a comic view of the old reprobate, and much laughter was aroused in consequence. The performance was also brightened by the appearance of Miss Mildred Carr, who played Mollie Maitland, an actress. At one period of the play Mollie appears in the dress of a principal boy, but really acts the good fairy throughout, and Miss Carr's buoyancy and chic are effective in keeping the house in good humour. The much-tried Ena Wentworth is artistically represented by Miss P. Dailley, who brings to bear on the part agreeable intelligence and sincerity; and Ena's child, Nellie, is presented in a pleasingly natural way by Miss Winifred Delevanti. Mr Naylor Grimson plays with grim earnestness as Sir John Wentworth, with whom he doubles the rôle of the brother Thomas; and Mr. Austin Mortimer submits a capable impersonation of the scheming Stephen Arkwright, speaking in clear and forcible tones, impaired only by a cutting of the consonants that should be easily remedied. A manly and energetic parson is found in Mr. Cecil Mannering, whose acting and elocution are excellent; and a sound and vigorous performance of Martin Flood, a blackmailer, is given by Mr. Dobell Lyle. The comic side of the cast is enhanced by the presence of Mr. Dicky Bird, who is a mirthful exponent of a chauffeur, and by Mr. Allen Charles, who provides a funny interpretation of a foppish youth. The entire scenic production was built and painted at Mr. Wentworth Croke's studios at the Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith. The hall at Wentworth House is a massive scene of great beauty, with its oaken walls, polished floor, and rich furnishings, and the village church is also realistically set; but the handsome carpet which covers the floor of the garret in Drury-lane scarcely harmonises with the dilapidated walls and other indications of poverty. The piece, which is well-knit and interesting throughout, was received with every token of satisfaction, and at the end the author was given the compliment, unusual in a melodramatic production, of a call, which Mr. Willard duly acknowledged.

MISS DORIS BROOKES made a decided hit on Monday last at Motherwell, where she appeared as Adela, in Messrs. Herbert Skardon and H. Sherwood Martin's Way of the World company. She has been engaged to tour right through the autumn with the piece.

The name of Melville in association with melodrama is synonymous with success, and the latest production from the pen of Mr. Frederick Melville, played before a crowded and delighted house at the Elephant and Castle Theatre on Monday, contains all the ingredients necessary in a compound of this nature—exciting episodes and pathetic passages in abundance, and plenty of comic relief that is especially welcome. The "wrong man" of the title, who is married to the long-suffering heroine against her will, is a cowardly cur named Deering, a captain in the King's Own, who, when ordered to the front, is afraid at the last moment and deserts. It is Jasper Skinner, a rascally innkeeper, who brings about his marriage with Ruth, thought in the neighbourhood to be his daughter. She is really no relation to Skinner, and the old man has only kept her under his roof because he imagines her to be the offspring of a South African millionaire, and a rich heiress. The girl at first will not consent to wed Deering, but the old reprobate and Deering—who is his son—eventually manage to get her to a registry office, and she is taken to a tavern near Portsmouth to spend her honeymoon. Skinner and Deering have brought a box supposed to contain documents that will reveal the girl's identity, but when opened it is found to hold nothing that will lead to the acquisition of the wealth the precious couple hoped to handle, and the rage of Deering when he finds out that he has wedded a penniless girl can be imagined. Jasper takes his departure, and Deering, deciding to make the best of his bargain, endeavours to caress his bride, who declares that rather than he shall touch her she will kill herself. Here it is that the hero, Jack Gladwin, formerly a briefless barrister but now a private in the King's Own, comes to her aid, and eventually bargains with Deering to sell his wife for £15 in cash, the villain leaving after pocketing the "yellow boys" and promising not to write to or molest his wife in any way in future. In the second act, a villa at Goring-on-Thames, Ruth is living with Rose O'Connor, a friend of Gladwin's, who has promised to protect her, and the couple are anxiously awaiting the home-coming of Jack, who, for gallantry at the front, has been promoted to the rank of Captain, and has also come into millions. Rose has all along made it evident she is in love with Jack, and Ruth, discerning this, declines his offer of marriage when first made. It must here be explained that Deering has been reported to have died abroad. Eventually she consents to wed Gladwin; but further misfortune is in store for her, and on her second wedding day whilst left alone for a few minutes, Deering breaks into her apartment. The shock of seeing the man she had been led to believe was dead, and the vile accusations he makes against her before Gladwin, apparently unhinge her mind, and deprive her of the power of speech. In the third act she is being looked after in a hospital, and there is a chance of her ultimate recovery, a harrowing scene being enacted where Jack, who has again volunteered for active service, comes to bid her good-bye. Deering and Skinner succeed in abducting her from the ward, and she is taken to a wretched garret, brutally ill-treated by Deering, and tied to the bedpost. From this unpleasant position she is released by Sergeant Manners, who has come to find Deering, who, he learns, is the betrayer of his daughter Olive. She endeavours to explain by dumb actions that Deering and Skinner intend to murder Gladwin, whom they learn has left all his wealth to Ruth should he be killed. She finally thinks of writing on the wall, and Manners goes out to be revenged. He is mistaken by the villains for Gladwin, and killed, and Ruth, coming on the scene, is charged with the murder. In the last scene, the Interior of the Old Bailey, she is seen in the dock, her husband, owing to the sudden illness of counsel for the defence, taking his place and pleading for her life. The afflicted Ruth enacts the tragedy in dumb-show, and most of the principal characters give evidence; and finally Jasper declares that it was Deering who killed Manners; Ruth, who regains the power of speech, is released, and Deering arrested.

The success of the drama was largely contributed to by the excellent all-round representation, especially praiseworthy being the acting of Miss Gertrude Boswell in the trying part of Ruth. In the early scenes of the play the actress admirably indicated the despair of the ill-treated girl; and in the episodes where she had to rely entirely on dumb-show she was most convincing, her acting throughout of an arduous rôle being meritorious, and one for which she gained frequent recognition by the audience. Miss Maisie Hanbury was a refined and natural Rose O'Connor, and admirably suggested the girl's affection for Jack; and Miss Rosalie Natrelle as Nurse Manners skilfully indicated the devotion of the wronged woman for her betrayer, Captain Deering. Mr. Oswald Cray made a gallant and manly Jack Gladwin, particularly praiseworthy being his acting in the last scene; Mr. H. Lane Bayliff as Captain Deering pursued his career of crime with a calmness and ease which were very effective; a forcible and realistic portrait of Sergeant Manners was submitted by Mr. Joe Livesey; and Mr. Charles Vivian as the crafty and crawling Jasper Skinner enacted an unpleasant character with much cleverness. Mr. Paige Lawrence as Archie Brown, Jack's friend, and the patient wooer of Rose O'Connor, contributed considerably to the enjoyment of the evening by his bright and natural portrayal. The comic scenes were quite safe in the hands of Miss May Davis, a pert and pleasing Dolly Fritter, the point and distinctness with which she delivered her lines being of immense value in the scenes in which she appeared; and Mr. Syd Claydon, an alert and resourceful Timothy Clinker—pot-boy, soldier, and doctor's assistant. The tooth-extracting scene was especially provocative of laughter, and throughout the happily-associated couple worked hard and always with success. The numerous other characters were all admirably enacted. The play, which had evidently been well rehearsed, was excellently dressed and staged, particularly praiseworthy being the sets representing On the Road to Portsmouth, A Villa at Goring-on-Thames, and the Interior of a tavern near Portsmouth.

MR. SYDNEY PAYNE, who has been touring in South Africa as Mme. Esty's musical director, has accepted (by permission) an engagement to conduct a special week of grand opera in Johannesburg. He will therefore not arrive in London till Sept. 5.

"A COUNTRY GIRL IN LONDON."

Domestic Drama, in Four Acts, by Mr. Frank Price, Produced at the Theatre Royal, Macclesfield, on Saturday, Aug. 1.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod are well and favourably known in Macclesfield by reason of their production of The Prodigal Parson, and expectation ran high as to their new play, A Country Girl in London, which had its initial performance at the Theatre Royal on Saturday last. The piece scored an immediate and emphatic success.

The story tells of a young country girl, Marjorie, daughter of Squire Hamilton, of Langdale, who in a fit of pique makes an unfortunate marriage. She is really in love with Frank Gordon, her father's farm bailiff. The latter's sister, Gwen, has been betrayed in her early days by an unscrupulous adventurer, Godfrey Clinton, but she has kept his identity concealed. She comes to borrow money from Frank with a view to starting afresh in another country. Overhearing a part of their interview, Marjorie believes her to be a former lover of Frank's, and, piqued at his supposed duplicity, accepts Clinton's proposal. The latter has only Hamilton's money in view in making the match. During the day Frank has transacted business for his master at a neighbouring cattle market, and a large sum of money is locked in the safe for the night. Aided by a degraded accomplice, Job Smithers, Clinton is resolved to secure this money, and hopes to throw the blame upon a young couple named Puddyphat, to whom the Squire has given a night's lodging. Clinton and Smithers have knocked the Squire insensible, and are making off with the money when Gwen confronts them and seizes the bag. An alarm has been raised, and they disappear. Frank enters, and, seeing the bag in her hand, believes Gwen to be the thief. Not realising the situation she goes, fearing her presence may compromise her brother. To save his sister, Frank takes the onus of the crime on his shoulders, and Marjorie is left to believe him not only false to her, but a thief into the bargain. Six months have elapsed when the next act opens, the scene being laid in the flat of Heinrich Oppenheim, a Continental swindler of the "swagger" order. The Puddyphats are now installed here as hall-keeper and maid. Made reckless by the failure of her effort to lead a better life, Gwen has returned to her old ways, and is now Oppenheim's mistress, but his heartless treatment of a young fool who has lost "borrowed" money to him at cards and intends to blow his brains out is too much for her, and, after treating him to a piece of her mind, she takes her departure. Clinton, finding Oppenheim disconsolate at the loss of his "decoy duck," suggests that his wife, Marjorie, should take her place. She is lured to the flat, but in the meantime Frank Gordon, just released from prison, turns up with an introduction to Oppenheim from a fellow prisoner. Only then does he realise that this introduction is with a view to joining Oppenheim's gang. Learning, however, of the plot against Marjorie, and of her marriage with Clinton, he remains for a time shamming drunkenness, but is led to an inner room to sleep it off, and, re-entering at the critical moment, effects Marjorie's escape. The next act takes place in a mean street near Blackfriars Bridge. Exposure has come to Oppenheim, and warrant is out for Clinton's arrest on a charge of burglary. The prison brand follows Frank, and now he is reduced to the post of a nightwatchman. Marjorie, despite his treatment, is still faithful to her husband, and will not leave him. She learns now who really committed the robbery, and that it was Frank's sister she saw in his arms. Hamilton, coming to town in search of his daughter, is trapped by Clinton, Oppenheim, and Smithers, and threatened with murder if money is not forthcoming. Smithers, it should be mentioned, has long entertained a secret passion for Gwen, and, despite his reckless manner, he is not so bad at heart. Playing upon his love for her, Gwen secures the key of the house where Hamilton is held prisoner and effects his escape. This last outrage is too much for Marjorie, and she returns home with her father, leaving Clinton for ever.

In the last act we are back at Langdale Manor. Gwen and Frank have decided on sailing for Canada the next morning, Mr. Hamilton having provided for them in return for their kindness to Marjorie. The love between Marjorie and Frank has grown stronger through adversity, and it is to avoid painful meetings that he is going abroad. After the family have retired Clinton, Smithers, and Oppenheim break into the house. They are in very low water now, and are making a last attempt on Hamilton's money. Frank, sitting in the darkened room unseen, closes the window and traps them. Clinton, cornered, draws a revolver, and Gwen, entering at the moment, receives the shot. Maddened at seeing the woman he loves fired at in cold blood, Smithers snatches the revolver and shoots Clinton dead. Gwen, however, is only wounded, and, Clinton dead, Marjorie is at last free to marry Frank. The final situation is very cleverly worked up and exciting to a degree. There are many subsidiary incidents in the plot, in which the Puddyphats play a prominent part; and a gem of humorous characterisation is the German Oppenheim.

The mounting of the play calls for unstinted praise, it is beautifully staged, and Mr. E. Egerton, the scenic artist, is to be heartily congratulated. The incidental music has been made a special feature, and Mr. Gordon E. Stutely's efforts in this direction add greatly to the general success and effect.

Mr. Garrod is responsible for the production, with Mr. Clifford Marle as stage-manager and Mr. John B. Sheridan as assistant stage-manager. The first performance went without a hitch, and it is evident that neither trouble nor expense had been spared in the making of the general success.

Miss Bertha Kingston has a quiet and effective style and personal charm exactly suited to the title-rôle. She portrayed all the pathos of the part with rare emotional power. Miss Josephine Colona made a handsome Gwen, and was equally good in both pathetic and passionate scenes. Miss Lesley Adair was an imposing Adelaide, towering over her small husband, Wilberforce, played by Mr. Seymour Perry in a delightfully dry and droll manner. Frank was in the able hands of Mr. W. V. Garrod. The part does not give the opportunity of other rôles we have seen him in, but he was more than equal to its requirements. Mr. G. Moreton Williams made Clinton a handsome, well-bred scoundrel, adding plausibility to Marjorie's marriage. Mr. Clifford Marle had a difficult part in Smithers, but showed well the varying moods of his wayward character; and Mr. E. W. Avery gave an irresistibly funny account of the craven Oppenheim, his broken German being very well managed. Weight and dignity, combined with ripe experience, marked the Squire Hamilton of Mr. John B. Sheridan; and characteristic sketches of a Metropolitan policeman and a rustic by Mr. T. Edward Evans and Mr. Charles Mitchell completed the cast.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A very cordial reception was given to Straight from the Shoulder last Monday afternoon, when it was produced at the Grand Theatre, Brighton, and attracted a large audience. The nerve-exciting drama is ably written; the characters are true to life; and the play possesses a powerful love interest; while the deeply-emotional episodes have pleasing contrasts in entertaining comedy scenes. The story opens in David Gleeson's home, in a poor lodging-house in the East End of London. David is a drunken bully, but his wife, Mary Gleeson, is a good soul, who strives, but with no success, to reform her husband. From David's companion, Jim Green, alias "Bunky," Mary learns that the pair have some important "business" in hand for the night, and while she is engaged repairing David's ragged jacket she finds a letter in the pocket. From the letter she learns that David and his evil associates intend robbing a Mr. Grant, a diamond merchant, who is expected to meet his daughter at the docks. Further, the letter is accompanied by a portrait of the daughter, Millicent Grant. Mary determines to go to the docks and apprise Miss Grant of the intended robbery. David puts on his coat, misses the letter, and, demanding it from his wife, strikes her to the ground; but, happily, Dr. Francis Bedford arrives upon the scene, hits David "straight from the shoulder," and floors him. The doctor recognises in Mary one who was his patient in her village home. David vows vengeance upon the doctor. In the second scene of the act, in a street near the docks, the doctor is paying a visit to a patient; he meets Millicent Grant and promises, after terminating his visit, to conduct her to her father. Mary arrives, tells Miss Grant of the impending danger, and the young lady repairs to the adjoining house to find the doctor. Mr. Grant enters upon the scene, escorted by the scamp "Scotty," disguised as a porter. The latter is one of the villains, and, as may easily be imagined, Mr. Grant is robbed of his diamonds and beaten to death, and before the scene closes Millicent finds her father dead, and the doctor accused of the murder; for, as "Scotty" has secreted a packet of diamonds in that innocent man's pocket, the policeman who arrives upon the spot readily believes the doctor guilty of robbery and murder, and marches him off. The second act opens in the Vicarage Gardens. Six years have elapsed, and five of them Dr. Bedford has spent in prison for the assumed robbery of Mr. Grant's diamonds. The doctor is now known as Harry Bletchley, a land steward, and David Gleeson poses as Major Lucas, with Jim Green as his "man." The Major is enamoured of Millicent Grant, but she spurns him and falls in love with Bletchley, and soon consents to become his wife. The Major and his "man" both identify Bletchley; but Jim Green, tired of his association with the Major, determines to champion the cause of the innocent doctor. In the third act we find Bletchley and Millicent married and happy, and learn that the Major has been sent to prison for forgery. Millicent is curious, and anxious to learn more of her husband's early life. She comes across an old newspaper giving an account of her father's murder, and becomes possessed of the letter which Mary Gleeson had, years before, found in her husband's coat pocket. It is, however, enclosed in an envelope, which is not to be opened till Mary's death. Millicent's suspicions are aroused. A thunderstorm ensues; and the villainous Major (David) arrives, seeking shelter from the storm, and also from the police. Husband and wife are confronted by the revengeful Major, who accuses the doctor of luring away his wife Mary, and unfolds the whole story of the doctor's imprisonment. A powerful scene ensues, in which Millicent discards her husband, throws her wedding ring to the ground, and bids him farewell. In the final scene, at Blackstone Abbey, there is an exciting meeting and struggle between the doctor and the villainous Major. Millicent arrives with the letter which proves the Major's guilt; but the miserable and dying wretch, simulating remorse, secures the letter and tears it in pieces. There is another struggle between the hero and villain. The latter, who makes no attempt to clear the character of the wrongly-accused doctor, dies; but, fortunately, Jim Green confesses to the whole of the villainy, and husband and wife are happily reunited.

Mr. Matthew Boulton gave an earnest, manly, and convincing impersonation of the deeply-wronged Dr. Francis Bedford, known also as Harry Bletchley. In the affecting and stirring scenes with his wife he won the unanimous favour of the audience. Mr. Leonard Clarke was powerfully effective as David Gleeson, afterwards Major Lucas; Mr. Fred Beck as Jim Green, alias "Bunky"—who suffered from a chronic "dry mouth"—was very amusing; Mr. Cuthbert Dennison as Donald Macgregor, alias "Scotty," Mr. Franklin McAvoy as Mr. Henry M. Grant, and Miss Frances Bruce as Mary Gleeson did well in their small parts. Mr. George H. Child made a sympathetic Rev. John Armitage; Mr. George Fisher was effective as the unlucky Fred Stafford, who was assisted in his financial troubles with the villainous Major by the warm-hearted Dr. Bedford; Miss Edie Casson was well suited as the garrulous Miss Brittle; Miss Beatrice Moore made a vivacious Gladys Brittle; and Mr. Bertram Carlton was an able Sergeant Bright. Very warm praise must be accorded Miss Beatrice Burdett for her charming and artistic treatment of the character of the long-suffering Millicent Grant. The play was produced, rehearsed, and equipped by Mr. R. A. Roberts, under the personal direction of Mr. Charles Boult. The appropriate music incidental to the drama has been expressly composed by Mr. Denham-Harrison, of the Royalty Theatre, London.

"DIE MEISTERSINGER" IN ENGLISH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA

SIR,—I see it stated in many papers—The Era amongst them—that during their forthcoming season at the Lyric the Moody-Manners Opera Company will perform Die Meistersinger for the first time in English. This statement, which I presume is founded on a managerial communication, is incorrect, as the opera in question was performed in English by the Carl Rosa Opera Company at Covent Garden in October, 1897, when Mr. Ludwig appeared as Hans Sachs and Miss Alice Esty as Eva.—Yours faithfully,

EDWIN H. SHEAR.

MME. MELBA is to visit America in December, and will sing at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, and at the Philadelphia Opera House. She leaves England on Dec. 5, and will remain in Australia for about seven months. Mme. Melba reappears at Covent Garden in 1910.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Empire Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—The Girls of Gottenberg drew a large and fashionable audience on Bank Holiday, and the strong company Mr. George Dance presented obtained a hearty reception. Mr. Bertie Wright was strikingly popular in his skilful inpersonation of Max Moddelkopf, and was equally successful in both singing and dancing; Miss Ellaline Thorne made herself a great favourite as Mitzi, her talented interpretation being enhanced by pleasing dances and delightful singing; Mr. Tom Shelford in both song and dance gave entire satisfaction as Prince Otto; Mr. Hugh Henson as Captain Kilbrecht, Mr. Howard Cridland as Sergt. Brittl Bottl, and Mr. George Foley as the Burgomaster represented their parts successfully. Miss Gladys Guy was seen to great advantage as Elsa, her songs and dances gaining general recognition; and her maid, Lucille, had a good rendering by Miss Susie Raymond; Miss May Marshall characterised Clementine with successful results, being very pleasing also in songs; Messrs. Rudd Allen and H. C. Williams were other capable exponents. Miss Hook of Holland was the attraction for the last three nights of the week.

The Kursaal.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—The Bank Holiday programme opened with a morning performance of an attractive character in the theatre, followed immediately by an entertainment in the café chantant, while both were repeated in the afternoon and evening. That produced in the theatre is an excellent and diversified one that wins hearty applause from most appreciative audiences. A very popular turn is that given by the Misses Renee Reel and Rubie Bradfield, who are loudly recalled for their skilful toe and step dancing. Smart acrobatic feats by the Four Leopolds gained equal merit; Rhyming to Win is an absurdity that gives immense pleasure in the happy interpretation by Mr. J. B. Rand and Miss Gracie Mack, who also entertain with good dancing; Miss Madge Ainsley is a decided success in song and dance; Mr. Wal Robbins, well known to local audiences, maintains his reputation as a black-and-white comedian; Messrs. Allen and Hall, comedians, and Mr. Charles Russell, vocalist, also contribute in pleasing style. Mr. Geo. Neno introduces funny songs in his usual amiable manner, and appears in the sketch The Bunkum Beauty Show at the evening performances, being assisted by Mr. Louis R. Morton. Bioscope pictures conclude each evening. For the café chantant programme the following artists make a capital concert party: the Misses Kate Oxford, Esme Delmar, Carrie Wood, Marie Lester, Nellie Giles, and Lillian Devon. Mr. Alec Cater is master of a long dancing programme, and Mr. Harry Read directs the musical arrangements of both theatre and dancing.

Pier Hill Bandstand.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless; Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—A special holiday programme is provided by the Pick-Me-Ups, the talented concert party of Mr. George Robins, who command large crowds daily. The 'cello solos by Mr. Stanley E. Angless deservedly win recalls, and the mandoline solos by Miss Nina Lorenza are also heartily applauded; Mr. Harry Ruming is a humorist of ability, and his sketches cause much laughter; Mr. Alf Wharton proves popular in humorous songs; Mr. Walter Dolphin is a vocalist well received, with a good selection of songs; Miss Nellie Hutchinson sings delightfully, and Miss Lorenza contributes humorous songs in pleasing style.

Pier Pavilion.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless; Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—An enjoyable entertainment of pictures is presented here by the London Animated Picture Company, and the two daily performances get well supported. Extra films were shown for the holiday attraction. The beautifully coloured illustrated songs are well rendered by Mr. Geo. A. Stevens.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House, Winter Gardens.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary and General-Manager, Mr. R. Singleton.—Mr. Charles M. Bestic's company, under the direction of Mr. F. Martin Morris, in the two-act musical play The Flower Girl provides an attractive entertainment here for the Bank Holiday week. Miss Dorothy Firmin is very successful in the title-rôle both histrionically and vocally; Mr. Martin Adeson is responsible for much of the merriment in the part of Joe Wheeler, which he portrayed with irresistible humour; the Hon. Billy Greenhill was very ably impersonated by Mr. Robert H. Howard, and the same may be said of Mr. Alfred Donohoe in the character of Johnny Wheeler; Miss Florence Wilton is very smart as the French lady, Lizette de Racquet, and is well supported by Mr. Henry Adnes as Alphonse de Racquet; excellent comedy sketches are presented by Miss Jennie Holmes as Miss Greenhill, a typical suffragette, and Mr. Edward Kipling as Reginald Rackit.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre and Opera House.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. A. McLeod Loader.—The theatre reopens this week with Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company in Two Little Drummer Boys, which is excellently staged. Mr. Edward Bikker is soldierly and well set up as General Kingsley, and Mr. Harry Scott plays the part of Capt. Frank Carsdale with appreciation; Mr. Oswald Douglas has an exacting part in the character of Capt. George Darrell, and does well, while Mr. Alexander Knight makes a capable Lieut. Allen Kingsley; Miss Mary Ainslie is winsome as Alma Kingsley, and Miss Nesta Sandford gains the sympathy of the house as Margaret Rivers; the two little drummers, Eric Carsdale and Jack Smith, are excellently taken by Miss Maggie English and Miss Maudie Douglas; roars of laughter are caused by the comicalities of Mr. Will Percy and Mr. Chas. Gallier as Quincy O'Quirke and Timothy Trimmer and by Miss Patricia Connaughton as Molly Meadows. The drum and fife band is also an attraction.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic. Carnell.—Bob Hutt heads an attractive bill with a sketch entitled Welcome Home, supported by an excellent company; the Sisters Petram present the Marionette Circus; Alec Kendal's patter is very amusing, and Harrigan and Holt are well applauded for their efforts; Molly Woolstenhulme sings sweetly, and Forrest and King dance well.

STOCKPORT.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Revill, jun.—The numerous exciting incidents and interesting situations in The Best of Her Sex, capably presented by Mr. W. A. Armour's company, have commanded the close attention of large audiences here this week. Mr. Percy Horton gives an excellent impersonation of Philip Faringdon; Mr. Henry Lloyd acts powerfully as Leslie Verney, and Mr. Edwin Worsley is thoroughly pleasing as the Rev. Stephen Maxwell; Mr. J. W. Hooper is an exceedingly funny P.C. Jorkins; Mr. Hume Fergus as Simon Denny and Mr. Dan Mining as Holy Joe are amusing; Miss Alvina Mining is charmingly sympathetic as Ruth Raeburn; Polly Perkins is delightfully played by Miss Alice Buckland, and Miss Dora Price's portrayal of Vera Delorme is realistic in a marked degree.

Empire.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—The musical comedy sketch The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, presented by Arthur Watson, Flo Stanley, and troupe, is the chief attraction here this week, and provides an abundance of mirth. Agnes Molteno, a delightful vocalist, in her scena A Dolly and a Couch is repeating her success of a previous occasion here; the Krags, gymnasts, are muscular men of much ability; Harry Bold, comedian, is an able story-teller; Webb and Branston, operatic duettists, are deservedly applauded; Amy Bellwood is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; and the Claymores are smart buck dancers and club jugglers.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—Castle Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil C. Imeson.—Last night the above theatre opened with Mr. George Edwardes's company of The Merry Widow before a crowded audience. Miss Constance Drever impersonates Sonia (the Merry Widow), and she was a big success, her playful and mischievous pranks being as amusing as her singing was excellent; Mr. Leonard Mackay is Prince Danilo, and establishes himself a favourite with his style and acting, while the tuneful waltz with the Widow was rendered time after time; as Baron Popoff Mr. Eric Thorne has a stock of quaint sayings, which never fail to elicit shrieks of laughter; Miss Ethel Cadman's singing earned a fair share of the evening's applause; Mr. W. H. Rawlins as Nisch caused continuous merriment; Mr. Haigh Jackson as Viscomte Camille de Jolidon has a fine voice and does justice to his songs. During the evening Mr. Imeson (lessee) received numerous telegrams wishing him success in his undertaking.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—A splendid holiday programme has been arranged for the re-opening. The Boller Brothers, trick cyclists, head the bill here this week; they are very clever and graceful; Mr. Chas. Diamond and Miss Beatrice, harpist and saxophone manipulators, are exceedingly clever and receive loud applause; Little Pam, comedian and dancer, quite charms the audience with his catchy songs; Frank Elliston and company, in a sketch entitled Aunt Matilda, create roars of laughter; other attractive turns come from Ross and Lewis, in a Yankee-Doodle Duo; Saville Brothers, acrobatic comedians; Miss Alice Blandford, comedienne; the Four Monte Carlo Girls, speciality dancers; Miss Maud Vera, comedienne and dancer; Everhart, hoop manipulator. The Bioscope, with up-to-date pictures, concludes.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. M. Montgomery reopens here this week with a drama entitled A London Actress. There were crowded houses last night, and the drama will undoubtedly prove a holiday attraction. A number of the latest pictures are shown by means of Payne's Bio-photoscope.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—The Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; General-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—This hall again reverts to variety this week, the chief attraction being provided by Heseltine's Musical Twelve, vocalists and pianists, who render parts of the Bohemian Girl in charming and efficient manner. Spry and Monti are highly diverting; Henry Herne and company, on a return visit, present the thrilling sketch Blackmail; the Onlaw Trio in their wire act are clever; and Rozel gives a fine exhibition as an aerial gymnast; Ethel Donna, Jack Manley, and Ernest Clifford also appear. The Bioscope depicts various stages of the great Marathon Race.

STROUD.—Fromehall Park.—Messrs. J. and W. Wilder, of Birmingham, the well-known caterers and firework artists, supplied the talent and firework display for a Bank Holiday fête, which proved very successful. Percy Victor's dogs are a novel and interesting turn; the Great De Ova is a smart and clever gymnast; the clever acrobatic performance of the Seftons was a feature of special interest; an attractive turn was given by the Reays, hand balancers; Mlle. Tosca was graceful and skilful on the silver wire; the Leros caused great merriment as knockabout boxers; and Mlle. Vanda did excellently in her juggling act on the rolling globe. Messrs. Symonds' world's fair and side shows were in attendance and did good business. Stroud Town Prize Band, under the direction of Mr. W. C. Smith, played up-to-date selections of music during the day.

SUNDERLAND.—Theatre Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Esden.—Percy Norman's company in A Woman Worth Winning is drawing crowded houses here this week. Mr. George Edwin Clive gives a capital impersonation of Fergus Lovinsky, whilst Amos Pauloff finds an apt exponent in Mr. Gilbert Standing; the rascally General Borinski is in the powerful hands of Mr. A. B. Mackay; Mr. Wynne Davies makes the most of his opportunities as Fedor Petronovitch; and Miss Chrissie Dunbar gives a refined and pathetic impersonation of Roma Pauloff.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; a capital holiday programme is provided here this week, the chief attraction being the appearance of Charles T. Aldrich in his clever and original burlesque on modern magicians and jugglers; Russell Wallett, female impersonator, provides a surprising and diverting turn; the Molossa Quartette give some remarkable and unique exhibitions of cyclonic dances; the Schafers score a huge success by their novel musical act; Lola Patey is a character comedienne of considerable ability; the Five Olracs, rag-time acrobats, score in their amusing sketch entitled The Tourist and his Tormentors; William Lee and Helen Bentley contribute a racy sketch entitled A Sure Thing; Harry Drew, Welsh basso, also contributes. The entertainment winds up with the usual show of animated pictures.

SWANSEA.—The Grand.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. Walter Dean.—The Grand reopened on Monday to typical holiday houses, when Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company presented in brilliant style The Midnight Wedding. Miss Annie Saker appeared in her original part of the Princess Astrea Von Strelsburg, and her interpretation of the part was a noteworthy one; as Paul Valmar Mr. Alfred Paumier acted with distinction; another capitally played character is that of Capt. Rudolph von Scarsbruck, in which Mr. Mayor Cooke was excellent; as was also Mr. A. E. Winnington Barnes as Lieut. Eugene von Strelsburg; excellent humour was dispensed by Messrs. James E. Page, Harry Richardson, and Algie Spalding, who as Sergeant Max, Corporal Otto, and Private Otto kept the house well amused.

The Star.—Manager, Mr. William Coutts; Assistant-Manager, Mr. S. J. Powell.—Mr. Andrew Melville had a rousing reception here on Monday night, when he opened a week's stay with Driven from Home. Mr. Melville himself played the part of Willie, and his touching portrayal of the part was the outstanding feature of the play; Miss Rose Ralph enhanced her reputation here by her Laura Raybrook; Mr. Felix Pitt was a thorough success as Anthony Raybrook; whilst Mr. Chas. Bendon was a thorough villain; comic relief is well provided by Mr. Fred C. Imbert.

Empires, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. P. C. Rowe; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—No better attraction could possibly have been brought to the Empire than John Lawson, who in Humanity on Monday night fairly captured the house. Humanity will be played also on Friday and Saturday, and Pigs in Clover (Tuesday), King's Minister (Wednesday) and The Monkey's Paw (Thursday) will complete Mr. Lawson's répertoire. Some excellent head balancing is contributed by the Willie Bros., while Verno and Voyce in the skit on the aeroplane craze is a very funny effort; Syd May comes with excellent impersonations of well-known artists; Hugh Barclay sings illustrated songs with effect; and Kent and Keith prove themselves bright and effective. May Brilliant, comedienne, Blanche Vincent, vocalist, and the Bioscope complete.

SWINDON.—Empire Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—After being closed for a short vacation this theatre reopened on Monday evening last with a good programme. The Five Vernons, the great xylophone specialists, are vociferously applauded for their musical entertainment; Edith Garrick, contortionist, is particularly smart; the songs of Frank Boyse, singing comedian, go well; and a very clever turn is that of Kartelli on the slack wire. Cynthia, child comedienne, gains applause; and Clara Greta, comedienne, is pleasing in her Spanish song and dance. Harry Taft, the American comedian and whistler, causes roars with his comicalities. The Empire pictures are amusing.

TORQUAY.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—A crowded and delighted house on Monday evening welcomed Mr. Reginald Dance's company in Raffles. In the title-part Mr. Reginald Dance acts with superb subtlety, and thoroughly pleases the audience. He is excellently supported by Mr. Stanley Lathbury as Lord Crowley; whilst Mr. Edward Irwin makes a keen and calculating Curtis Bedford. Miss Ruth Mackay plays the part of the adventuress, Mrs. Vidal, with clever effect, and wins for herself frequent applause; and Miss Beatrice Marsdene is a dainty and attractive Gwendoline Conron. Miss Frances Titherage has a winsome manner as Lady Ethel; whilst Miss Dora Lewis as Marie also does well. As Crawshay Mr. Rivers Bertram was all that could be desired; and Mr. Lewis Edgard made a pleasing Harry Manders.

Princess Pier Concert Hall.—Proprietors, the Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—The Bank Holiday attraction here is Mr. Reuben More's concert party, "Artists and Models." Miss Gwennie Ross is a talented soprano, and is frequently encored; and Miss Florence Driver also sings very acceptably. Miss Mabel Wier introduces some pleasing step dances; whilst Mr. Robert G. Dunn has a powerful baritone voice. Mr. Arthur R. Carlton is a humorist and impersonator of considerable talent; whilst Mr. Reuben More is a clever ventriloquist.

WAKEFIELD.—Opera House.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here this week in the drama A Broken Heart. Mr. Frank Beresford gives a good representation as John Barnard; Mr. George M. Newall fills with distinction the part of Stephen Raylton; Mr. Tom Armitage causes much merriment as Tony Tibbetts; Mr. Harry Barrs submits a strong portrayal of Gash Gills, and Mr. P. M. Wright ably represents Rev. Mr. Staunton; Mrs. Harry Foxwell gives an excellent portrayal as Mary Barnard; Miss Margaret Thorne is seen to advantage as Mrs. Barnard; Miss Elsie Deane is admirable as Sally Turner; Miss Daisy Rocheford is efficient as Little Mary; and Miss Dorothy Oswald is praiseworthy as Grace Fanshawe.

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Mr. Harry Roxbury's company, including Mr. Tubby Edlin, appear in a musical mélange, The Prince of Monte Carlo, which is bright and amusing; Phillips and Tony are successful in a sketch, The Revolt of Man; Miss Dolly Denver is an excellent dancer; Will and Roze are diverting in an acrobatic conjuring turn; Hilda and Beatrice give a pleasing musical act; Alvar is a smart gymnast; and Mr. Hubert Davis, comedian, is entertaining.

WALSALL.—Her Majesty's Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Heading the bill here are the Royal Entertainers, the Gothams, who prove a great attraction; Elton and Edwin, banjoists, are exceedingly clever; Wilson and Waring are amusing in their comedy act, An Ugly Duckling; the Three Lloyds prove themselves marvels on the bounding cables; Bob Hamilton is a smart comedian, as also is Marie Empress, who is well received; a most amusing and entertaining pair are Carney and Armstrong, who sing, dance, and whistle. The American Bioscope completes the bill.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. Alfred Northway and Mr. W. V. Garrod are presenting the drama entitled The Prodigal Parson. Mr. Logan Darra as the Rev. Tom Godley is capital; Mr. Alfred Northway does well as Enoch Jaggins; and Mr. Charles Ashwell is good as Ben Jaggins; and Mr. Walter Vincent is well placed as Ned Kettlepin. Miss Violet Hammersley appears successfully in the part of Fern Godley; Miss Madge Gillard is capital as Myrtle Godley, the blind child; and Miss Carlene Yorick makes a smart Fräulein Korale.

WARRINGTON.—Royal Court.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—During the fortnight this place of amusement has been closed handsome decorations have been effected. The reopening on Monday night was welcomed by a large audience. Mr. Lewis Waller's company, under the direction of Mr. F. Clive Ross, gave a capital representation of the romantic play Robin Hood. In the title-rôle Mr. Ethelbert Edwards gave a finished portrayal of the bold outlaw; a graceful and tender Lady Marian was Miss Lilian Stennis; as Friar Tuck Mr. C. Bruce Winston was highly humorous; Mr. F. Clive Ross made the most of Little John; Mr. Lawrence ably sustained the part of Will Scarlet; Mr. Spencer Lloyd made the most of Allan a' Dale; Mr. J. N. Bryant scored as Richard, King of England; and a capital study of Prince John was submitted by Mr. H. Elliot Ball. Valuable support was forthcoming from Mr. Ernest Gray as Fritz Alwynne, Mr. Richard Fielding as Hugo de Longespel, and Mr. Lambert Plummer as the Abbot of Jervaux. Miss Irene Malvesyn was a dignified Eleanor; Miss Laura Flockton pleased all as Adela; and Miss Gertrude de Burgh was an arch Alison. The staging was very effective.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—Hurman is a capital juggler, and Vardon a clever ventriloquist. Pictures showing the King's prize cattle at Worral Show are amongst the list of an excellent series.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. G. D. Bradbury.—There was a rare holiday crowd at this house on Monday night, and Jack Pleasants, who heads the bill, had the house convulsive with laughter with his humorous songs. Margit and Lener are especially clever, and their feats are all deftly executed; Ethel Sheffer contributes an excellent turn with illustrated songs; Dunn and Reano are smart comic acrobats; Harry Nelson is a quaint comedian with a stock of original patter; Mlle. Bartinelli supplies a weird contortion act; Matthews and Brown are clever comedians; and Hanid Alexander scores well in a novel act at the piano. The pictures are an amusing set.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Grand.—Manager, Mr. H. E. Feather.—After a season of some eight weeks' variety business, a change to drama is proving very successful. Mr. Fred Granville's company is this week appearing to capital houses in It's Never Too Late to Mend, in which Mr. E. Howard Templeton acquits himself well as Tom Robinson, excellent work being done by Mr. Cecil A. Melton in the rôle of George Fielding. Mr. Charles F. Johnson is an ideal Rev. Francis Eden; Miss Gertrude Entwistle enlists the sympathy of the audience throughout with her charming acting in the character of Susan Merton; and a clever piece of character work is the Josepha of Miss Millie Wilton.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Miller.—First place in the holiday bill is that of Marie Jones in her quick-change novelty The Way to Win a Bet, the changes in dress and character made by the lady being so complete and quick as to be almost inconceivable. Effective and neat dancing is done by the Glenroy Troupe of international dancers; some smart acrobatic eccentricities by the Kremka Bros. are repeatedly aplauded; Gravetta and Parr introduce sand-pictures, clay-modelling, impersonations, paper-tearing, and burlesque ventriloquism; Carr and Rose retain their popularity in an operetta; and Dora Noble, comedienne and dancer, Rose Archer, mimic at the piano, and some excellent pictures by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux add to the attractions of the programme.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Knightstone Pavilion and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is here for the first time in When Knights Were Bold. Mr. Bert Beswick, a hard-working and clever comedian, kept the house convulsed with laughter whenever he was on the stage; Mr. Chas. Benson made an excellent Isaac Isaacson; Mr. Algernon W. Lee was praiseworthy as the Hon. Charles Widdicombe; Mr. Colin Johnson looked and acted the part of the Rev. Peter Pottlebury extremely well; the braggadocio Sir Bryan Ballymote found an excellent exponent in Mr. Humphrey Warden; Mr. Chas. Roadknight's Wittle was a good performance, and so was the Barker of Mr. Sydney F. Courtenay; Miss Edith Anton Laing, a really good actress, gave an artistic impersonation of Lady Rowena Eggington; Miss Madge Devereux as Miss Sarah Isaacson, Miss Ada Waugh as Lady Millicent, and Miss Mary Guthrie as Kate Pottlebury were all distinctly good in their respective rôles; Miss Norah Kingsley as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave is entitled to the highest eulogy, and Miss Eva Ellis as Alice Barker deserves a word of praise.

Grand Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The John Ridding Opera Company is paying another visit here, and is attracting crowded houses. On Monday Maritana was staged. Miss Sarah Williams's beautiful voice was heard to great advantage in the title-rôle; her acting, too, was exceptionally good; Miss Vera Vizard's Lazarillo proved her an artist to the finger-tips, her singing of "To the mansions of the blest" received quite an ovation; Mr. John Ridding's Don Jose deserves the highest encomiums; Mr. Edward Arthur's Don Cæsar was an admirable impersonation; Mr. Frank Clarke made an imposing Charles II.; Mr. Geo. Humphrey was capable as the Captain of the Guard, and so was Mr. E. Ditchfield as Alcade.

WEYMOUTH.—Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. J. Nobbs.—Raffles is here this week. Mr. Reginald Dance scored a great success as Raffles; Mr. Edward Irwin as Mr. Curtis Bedford played carefully and well; Mr. Lewis Edgard was exceedingly good as Harry Manders, and Mr. Oswald Griffiths as Lord Amersteth and Mr. Stanley Lathbury as Lord Crowley sustained their respective parts most capably; Mr. Rivers Bertram as Crawshay was excellent; Miss Ruth Mackay as Mrs. Vidal gave a clever rendering, and Miss Frances Titherage as Lady Ethel was charming; Miss Beatrice Marsdene was a winning Gwendoline Conran, and Miss Mildred Orme was successful as Lady Melrose; Mr. L. Willing as Goldby, Mr. D. Grogson as Barraclough, and Mr. Charles Baker as Merton were good in their respective parts, and Miss Dora Lewis was effective as Marie. The play was well mounted.

WIDNES.—Alexander Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiddie.—The theatre reopened for the dramatic season on Monday, the house being crowded in every part. During the "close time" extensive decorations have been artistically carried out, and the electric light system has been completely reorganised, the result being a marked increase in illumination. Mr. Ian Maclaren, who created quite a furore in Widnes six months ago, pays a return visit with his Shakespearean productions. Othello was finely acted and well staged on Monday. Mr. Maclaren is physically suited for the part of the Moor, and played with distinction. His resonant and sympathetic voice declaimed the bard's lines splendidly throughout. Mr. Wilson Gunning was excellent as the cunning Iago; Miss Marguerite Cellier played Desdemona charmingly and with dignity; Mr. A. Linson Wells was a good Lodovico; Mr. J. V. Bryant was an impressive Cassio; the Gratiano of Mr. Geo. Relph was a good study; Mr. Murray Hathorn was a sound Brabantio; the Duke of Venice found a capable exponent in Mr. Sproston; Mr. C. Kingsley gave a sound reading of Montana; Mr. Gordon Philipot played Roderigo on excellent lines; Miss Muriel Dole was capable as Emelie; and Miss Gertrude Littlewood played effectively as Bianca. On Tuesday Mr. Maclaren gave his version of Garrick with success. In The Merchant of Venice on Wednesday he was an excellent Shylock; Miss Cellier won much applause as Portia. On Thursday The Rivals was presented, and on Friday The School for Scandal, Mr. Maclaren appearing as Charles Surface. On Saturday evening Hamlet is to be presented.

WIGAN.—Royal Court Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Herbert Lloyd and company in The Millionaire Tramp, are appearing before large houses. Mr. Jack Lyle is seen in the rôle of Pierpoint, and his clever impersonation is most humorous; Edwin Forest-Black is ably presented by Mr. Paul Lovett; Mr. Charles Weir is creditable as Staley; Mr. Gilbert Clark sustains the rôle of Arthur Edgerton with great ability; Mr. Harry Gregory deserves special recognition as Ezra Trumbull; while Abraham Jones finds a capable exponent in W. W. Evans. Miss Sybil Carl Rosa as Estella Hampton portrays the character with much charm and reality; Miss Daphne Gelstone ably enacts the part of Cynthia Trumbull; and Miss May Yates causes much mirth as Josie Trumbull.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—The star turn is a delightful one, the Ten Loonies revelling in a rollicking musical sketch entitled Dotty. The Mayvilles also deserve special mention for their clever performance; Mezzetto is an accomplished juggler, who introduces some particularly clever feats; Great Albas is a daring wire performer who accomplishes some clever tricks; and the Two Countees cause quite an ovation with their songs. May de Rowse, comedienne and dancer, wins much applause; Henri Bekker mystifies the audience with his conjuring tricks; and Jack North, comedian, is accorded a hearty reception. Other excellent turns are given by Pearce and Ward and Alf Holt.

The Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; District-Manager, Mr. Gerald Hunt; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Marco.—Sabino, the musical marvel, plays on numerous instruments with skill, and introduces his dancing figure, whose steps and gyrations cause much merriment. The beautiful pictures include Sports of the World, The Doctor's Experiment, The Cider Industry, Love too Late, and many other amusing and instructive films. Crowded houses have been the rule nightly.

WORTHING.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—A happy selection has been made for this week in Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company in Flordoroa. Mr. Fred Eastman as Anthony Tweedlepunch is the life and soul of the piece, his quaint humour procuring rounds of applause. Mr. Stanley White does well as Cyrus Gilfain, as does Mr. Basil Mercer as Frank Abercoed; Miss Lily Gullick is well placed as Angela Gilfain; Miss Cazella is extremely good as Cynthia Belmont; and as Lady Holyrood Miss Edith Hously puts in good work. Special mention is due to the well-balanced chorus. Mr. Harry Benet's company in Sergeant Brue is also billed.

WREXHAM.—Empire.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Jno. J. Scott.—This week Frank and Violet Payte, in their racing sketch, entitled Also Ran, proved a splendid attraction; Purvis and Partner, in their original up-to-date musical comedy duologue, did well; while Miss Lily Brammer, comedienne and vocalist, and F. Dunlo, eccentric comedian, also proved acceptable turns.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

Notwithstanding the heat on Monday last the indoor attractions of the Alexandra Palace were as largely patronised as the outside. All the available bands were requisitioned to play in selected parts, so there was never a dull corner to be found. At four o'clock Professor Auguste Gaudron's representative made a successful ascent in a hot-air balloon and parachute descent. Curiously, the accompanying weight attached to the balloon left before the allotted time and fell with a thud simultaneously with the detachment of the parachute, fortunately doing no harm. The effect was that the balloon instead of overturning in the usual manner went sailing merrily away and was lost to view. At six o'clock the new gas balloon made an ascent in the South Front; at 6.15 a display by girls of the Islington Drill Brigade in the Skating Rink. In the Central Hall three performances took place. Amongst the many meritorious numbers may be mentioned the pedestal dancer, Mr. Arthur James; the silver chime handbell ringer; Rolls and Ritz, triple-bar experts; and particularly pleasing and well-executed cornet solos by Miss Adeleine Parkyn, who may be congratulated for the continuous marks of approval of which she was the recipient. A pair of sensational flying gymnasts, Aerian and Btara, were remarkably smart in their business, and their agility without a hitch evoked loud applause. The massed bands concert, consisting of the Queen's Military Band, conductor, Mr. S. Norris; band of 21st Battalion County of London Regiment, conductor Mr. W. King, and the Middlesex Military Band, conductor Mr. W. Garlick, at seven o'clock was likewise successful. Great praise is due to the M.C., Mr. W. H. Treasure, who travels many miles on a Bank Holiday to act in that honorary capacity. The organ solos of Mr. G. D. Cunningham were never-tiring items of appreciation. A fine firework display by James Pain and Son, the Royal pyrotechnists, was given on the Lake Island at nine o'clock, and included many new specimens of the fire art. The theatre was occupied on Monday and during the rest of the week by Stewart's Perfect Pictures and Popular Entertainers. To select one number more than another for commendation appears superfluous, for all were good. The Incendiary Foreman film amongst the pictures was a wonderfully realistic effort, and the laughter-provoking ones were cordially received. Doretta, a clever vocalist, did well. Daisy Graham's birds and her baby dog Nap (whose photo may be termed a striking one) were received with acclamations. Harry Stewart, the protean artist, won warm favour; Leonard and Mac as knockabout comedians hold their own with any; and Miss Kitty Woodford not only attracts with her American illustrated songs, but possesses a wonderful combination of trained dogs in her circus and orchestra.

AMUSEMENTS IN NEW ZEALAND.

(From our own correspondent.)

WELLINGTON, June 20.—Theatre Royal.—Notable amongst the artists at Messrs. Fullers' theatre are Mr. Fred Graham and Miss Nellie Dent, who, having migrated from the theatre, now temporarily relinquish the "halls" for a holiday. They are sailing for England by the Athenic, but promise to return. Their sketch, entitled Packing Up, has been enthusiastically received.

Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Allen Hamilton.—Mr. Harry Rickards invades this colony once again with a variety company, which is appearing for some ten nights. The audiences are extremely large, and the turns are popular. The more effulgent stars are the Stavordale Quintette, Sisters Kloss, Alma Gray, and the Brothers Artois.

Kubelik is advertised to appear at the Town Hall on Saturday next and two other nights. This is an event that provides a change from cinematograph shows and football matches.

AUCKLAND, June 18.—His Majesty's Theatre.—Messrs Meynell and Gunn's dramatic combination entitled the "Beatty-Mackintosh" Company are here. The stars, as may be supposed, are Miss Madge Mackintosh and Mr. Harcourt Beatty. They opened with Her Love Against the World.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—Sir Henry Irving.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

The Royal Princess's Theatre, Glasgow, the sole proprietor of which is Mr. Rich Waldon, will reopen on Monday, after extensive structural alterations and decorations. Many improvements have been effected, and have resulted in the provision of practically a new theatre. The reopening attraction will be the famous Adelphi drama, In the Ranks. Smoking, it may be added, is permitted in all parts.

Peter Adair, the hero of the 1,000 mile walk from Land's End to John o' Groats in 1904, called at The Era office yesterday at noon and informed us that his old friend Mr. Will Oliver, the world-famed variety agent, desired him to remain in London a few more days, and postpone his walk from London to Land's End and then from Land's End to John o' Groat's till Thursday next, as he (Mr. Oliver) is going to approach the management of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund Committee, with a view of seeing whether arrangements can be made for Peter Adair to do a special walk of five hours duration—from the commencement to the end of the sports—to give the public at large an opportunity of witnessing the stamina of a man at sixty-six years of age, and absolutely the oldest recognised working athlete in the variety profession, and the only all-round athlete in the United Kingdom who possesses seven complimentary letters from King Edward VII. Mr. Oliver has kindly offered to pay for all extra advertising for Peter Adair's special performance.

The dramatic season at the Opera House, Tunbridge Wells, commenced on August Bank Holiday with a welcome visit from Mr. Harry Benet's company in Sergeant Brue. Mr. Denis Lyndon gave a capital interpretation of the title-rôle, and was well supported by Mr. Harry Benet as Crookie Scrubbs; Mr. Lister Marrch and Miss Daisy Dare were excellent as the son and daughter of the Sergeant; while Miss Ray Anderson made an admirable Lady Bickenhall and Mr. Edwin Lancaster was very successful as the police magistrate and Mr. Frank Farrant as Gerald Treherne. For the week-end Mr. Bannister Howard's company is paying a revisit with Florodora, with Mr. Fred Eastman as Tweedlepunch and Miss Lily Gullick as Angela Gilfain.

Arthur Williams.—The cast, as far as we can give it, of A Poor Girl's Temptation; or, A Voice from the Streets, produced at the City of London Theatre, March 1, 1858, was as follows: Jessie Bolton, Mrs. Henry Lindon; Luke Bolton, Mr. Wm. Searle; Mrs. Bolton (Jessie's stepmother), Mrs. Moreton Brookes; Lord Whetherton, Mr. W. Harmer; Signor Nobbilini, Mr. W. Travers; Eelskin Jack, Mr. Beaumont Hughes; Elinor Warren, Miss Ada Clifton. Amongst those engaged were also Mr. E. Shirra, Mr. G. W. Simms, and Miss Lizzie Johnson.

W. H. Whiteway-Wilkinson.—The firm that originally published the song is now non-existent, and the work is, in all probability, out of print.

Francis Hawley.—The original cast of The Man in the Street, produced at the Avenue, May 14, 1894, was:—Jabez Gover, Mr. James Welch; Philip Adare, Mr. G. R. Foss; Minnie Adare, Miss Winifred Fraser.

J. A. C.—Miss Vesta Tilley's first appearance was made at Gloucester at the tender age of three. To state the exact date would be an infraction of our rule never to give the ages of members of the profession.

Mr. Francis O'Flynn, "the man who makes the banjo talk," writes:—"I am informed by several conductor friends that a humorous musical sketch, entitled A Southern Wedding, has been recently published. From description, I find it is similar to one of the comedy sketches I occasionally introduce into my act. To prevent any misunderstanding, I might mention that Messrs. Clarke and Earle were the first to introduce an imitation of a negro wedding in public years ago. At that time I obtained permission to use this number, and since then have been playing the same in my solo act, and also whilst I was associated with the Earle and Earle Banjo Duo. My Press notices referring to the above sketch date back to 1901, and to-day I am the only solo performer in the country giving a faithful representation of a coloured Southern wedding. I only mention this matter, as I think in all fairness some credit is due to the persons who produced and popularised the number."

At the Theatre Royal, Wednesbury, this week, Mr. Harry Battersby has been presenting his company in the drama, The King of Crime. Ronjarre, alias Gaston Lemaire, is artistically portrayed by Mr. F. B. Woulfe, and as the old miser Gandelu Mr. W. T. Miller makes a decided impression; Mr. Claude Aymond submits a capital characterisation as Simon, whilst the rôle of Louis Mascarot is in the safe keeping of Mr. William Melvyn; excellent comedy is infused into the part of Mick Maloney by Mr. Sam Williford; Miss Ethel Griffies as Henriette, Ronjarre's blind wife, wins the appreciation of all her hearers; as Minnie Patenlair Miss Grace Evelyn proves a great favourite; Miss Lillie Lawrence's delineation of Mme. Mourivot is well worthy of the highest praise, as also is Miss Edith Loraine in her interpretation of Clarisse.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

For Sustaining the Voice.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS

Gentlemen,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), Mary Rose Mapleson.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1908.

THE MINIMUM WAGE.

The thoroughness with which everything connected with the stage is analysed and argued out is shown by the remarkable article on the above subject which has been contributed by Miss DAISY HALLING and Mr. CHARLES LISTER to the August number of the Socialist Review. The question of the Minimum Wage is debated with scientific calmness; and, whatever we may think of the deductions of the author and authoress, we cannot help admiring the earnest and thoughtful spirit with which their opinions are advocated. They begin with the statement that there are three kinds of provincial companies—two exporting plays from London to provincial centres of culture, and a third providing fare intended almost exclusively for provincial—we suppose they mean lower-class provincial—audiences. There are:

(1) Companies touring recent London successes, paying leading parts as much as £12 a week, and the salaries vary from about £5 to £12.

(2) Companies where the lowest salaries are £1 10s. or £2, and the highest £4 and £5 per week.

(3) Melodramatic companies, where the highest are £2 10s. per week, and the lowest £1.

"Now the last two classes," say the writers, "are far the most numerous. In Class 3, out of £2 10s. the actor must provide his clothes for the part he has to play, unless the piece be a costumed play. When he is not on the stage, he is a 'collar man,' and has to look respectable—a serious responsibility on less than £2 a week. Further, it must be remembered, actors are only employed for about thirty weeks out of the fifty-two of the year. At Christmas time there are ten weeks' pantomime; there is also a slack time in the summer."

"Let us take," say Miss HALLING and Mr. LISTER, "the budget of a leading actor in one of the Class 3 plays, earning an average of £2 5s. a week. £2 10s. is a maximum for those engaged in a melodrama, £2 a minimum; £2 5s. would therefore be a fair mean.

RECEIPTS.	£	s.	d.
30 weeks' salary at £2 5s.....	67	10	0
EXPENDITURE.	£	s.	d.
Washing	5	4	0
Wardrobe	10	0	0
Newspapers and Tobacco	5	0	0

Balance for food £34 6s., i.e., about 1s. 10½d. per diem.

"The leading lady would, of course, have the same sort of budget; the wardrobe item would be higher, but then there would not probably be any expenditure on tobacco and newspapers.

"The £2 minimum suggests itself after scrutiny of the actors' budget given above; it does not appear to be excessive. After taking off expenses incurred—lodging, wardrobe, newspapers, tobacco, &c., we have a margin left that gives the actor under 2s. a day for food. A minimum can only be decided in terms of food, lodging, board, luxuries, &c.; and if we allow an average of thirty weeks' employment in the year for actors we must see that £60 per annum is the least that an actor or actress can live on respectably."

The authors append a touring manager's budget for a week:

EXPENDITURE.	£	s.	d.
Salaries paid, leading parts, 2 at £2 5s. each	4	10	0
Joint Couple	3	10	0
4 smaller parts £1 10s. each	6	0	0
3 Supers at 6s. a week	0	18	0
Sundries	6	18	0
	32	16	0
45 per cent. of gross receipts to Resident Manager	27	0	0
	£59	16	0

The authors, in continuation of their arguments, allude to the Actors' Union in no very respectful terms. They say: "Actors, it appears, are too respectable to go to pubs, and there are actresses to be considered too. The snobbishness of the actor is really at the root of the whole matter; that is the underlying cause of his aversion to (sic) trade union methods, and his sentimental aspirations to management that cause him to forget that his relation to the manager is still one of labour to employer. His high and mighty views, and his abhorrence of anything that savours of the horny-handed, make him a difficult subject for the organiser. This inability to face facts serves to explain why there is no adequate and really representative actors' organisation now in existence, in despite of the fact that actors suffer from the same economic forces as other sections of labour."

We have a higher opinion of the intelligence and character of the actor and actress than Miss DAISY HALLING and Mr. CHARLES LISTER appear to have; and we believe the fact that the actor has shown himself a difficult subject for the organiser simply shows that he is sharp enough to realise the economic differences between his calling and those in which trades unionism has proved successful. In such trades we have hundreds of persons receiving about the same salary and doing about the same amount of work. The average bricklayer has no hope of becoming a speculative builder or an architect. He does his work stolidly and honestly, without enthusiasm, but without neglect. (As it is, it is only the cream of the great body of mechanical workmen who belong to unions; there are a great many non-union workers, ad some firms will employ none others.) But the point is that trades unionism is difficult, if not impossible, in a profession with a gradation of salaries from that of the leading man down to that of the supernumerary, and where a happy hit may raise a humble performer to a position of affluence. There is one obstacle, too, in the way of improvement which, in all these discussions about incompetent paying amateurs and poor companies, has never been mentioned, though, in our opinion, it, and not the "snobbishness of the actor," is the root of the matter; and that is the ignorance and toleration of many audiences in the provinces. If "rotten" companies were hissed off the boards whenever they appeared, it would be absolutely necessary to engage better performers. But there are many places in the provinces where, provided the play be written down to the level of their tastes and intellects, audiences will encourage the poorest and crudest acting. Actors who ought to be sawing wood, actresses who have mistaken their vocation, and paying amateurs hastily coached by the stage-manager, are endured, and even applauded, by these child-like and animal folk. It is the want of critical faculty and discrimination in the English lower class that makes possible the poorness of acting—and consequent poorness of salaries. If the public positively refused to tolerate any performance which was beneath a certain standard, the bogus actor could not exist, and the underpaying travelling manager would be crowded out. By the way, the statement in the article that "in France the evil of the unpaid amateur is obviated by the fact that the Paris managers will not take on any actor or actress who has not been through the Conservatoire," is incorrect.

"LUCKY JIM."

A New and Original Interlude, first Performed in this Country at the Walthamstow Palace, on Monday, Aug. 3.

Gilbert Carstairs .....MR. HERBERT HARDER
Dyson .....MR. MAITLAND STAPLEY
Miss Wilson .....MISS WHITBY
Mason .....MR. MORRICE SEATON
Lucky Jim .....MISS MARGARET PARKER

A smart and bright little sketch is Lucky Jim, produced by Miss Margaret Parker and received with shouts of delight at the Walthamstow Palace on Monday. The story is cleverly designed, the situations are naturally led up to, and the dialogue is smart and always in character.

Mr. Gilbert Carstairs, a diamond broker, discovers to his dismay, on opening his evening paper, that certain shares on which his fate depends have gone down to zero. His "confidential" clerk, Dyson, whose pecuniary circumstances are desperate and whose morals as regards property have been entirely mislaid, enlists the aid of a sharp, saucy young newsboy, only known by the name of Lucky Jim. On the departure of Mr. Carstairs, Dyson tells Jim that there are some valuable diamonds in the safe, hands him some burglar's tools, and threatens his life if he refuse. The boy makes a pathetic and stirring appeal on behalf of honesty, but, seeing a loophole through which he can appear to consent without consenting, he promises. While he is in the act of picking the lock, Mr. Carstairs returns, Jim disappears into a wine room, and the diamond broker proceeds to take the diamonds from the safe, and then sits down to pen a letter to his wife, explaining all. While so engaged he is surprised to find Jim in the room. A stormy scene ensues. The lucky one tells such a clear tale that Carstairs begins to believe him, and when Dyson appears matters reach their climax in highly dramatic manner.

The interpretation of the piece by Miss Margaret Parker and her company is deserving of the highest praise all round. As the slangy, cheeky, cheery London gamin, Miss Parker has a part that suits her admirably. Whether saying impudent things to her elders, singing a jolly song, or pleading with almost tragic intensity for the aged mother at home, who depends on him, the actress carries all before her, and is rewarded with salvoes of applause and shouts of laughter. Mr. Herbert Harder as Gilbert Carstairs looks well, acts with quiet force, and speaks with great distinctness. As the rascally Dyson, Mr. Maitland Stapley is very villainous—indeed, seems to take a vindictive pleasure in the agony he is inflicting on the boy. Miss Whitby is the lady typist; and Mr. Morrice Seaton an unusually real policeman.

DR. BODIE'S FIRST SPECULATION.

The book of "Stage Stories," by Dr. Walford Bodie, which has just been published by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent, and Co., Ltd., is "chock full" of amusing matter. But the fame of Dr. Bodie lends particular interest to the following account of his first attempt as a public performer:—

It is not a very important place—the Town Hall, Stonehaven—writes Dr. Bodie, but for quite a long time my mind had been made up that it was there that my first appearance in my own sole entertainment should be made. It suited me in many ways. It was only a few miles from Aberdeen, and, therefore, easily accessible, but it was far enough away to afford a full and fair test. I knew no one in the town, and no one in the town knew me. I should arrive there as a stranger and be judged entirely on my own merits. And, I said to myself, and to the two or three friends that I took into my confidence, upon that verdict I will decide whether my future career is to be on the stage or off the stage.

I knew a little of the business. For instance, I knew the value of preliminary advertising, and for weeks before the day on which I was to descend on Stonehaven my bills were placarded all round that doomed town.

Twice I went over from Aberdeen and had a look at the bills. They were to be seen all round the district—on every barn, on every second gate, and on every third house. I do not suppose there was a man, woman, or child in Stonehaven who did not at some time or other pause and look at those bills. Several times I watched people engaged in this task, and speculated as to whether they would take two-shilling stalls or shilling circle seats, or would fight their way into the sixpenny pit.

I was up on the fateful morning at six o'clock, and I hurried over my bath and breakfast. Heaven knows why I hurried. The train from Aberdeen to Stonhaven only takes about an hour, and the performance was not to begin until half-past seven o'clock in the evening. I suppose it was because I was nervous. At any rate, I was nervous.

I spent the morning practising my conjuring tricks, and making my vanishing lady vanish, and vanish, and vanish, until—well, I am rather surprised that she ever came back at all. But she did eventually come back, and, done up neatly in her box, carefully labelled, "This side up with care," she, with the rest of my outfit and my one particular friend, journeyed to Stonehaven.

There was an orchestra—a piano, a fiddle, and a nondescript instrument to fill up the gaps. Soon after seven it began to play. During the first piece the house was empty. During the second piece two or three people forced their way into the pit. During the third piece one bold buccaneer, having presumably parted with a blood-stained Spanish doubloon at the front door, spread himself along the front row of the stalls and gazed fiercely at the stage-curtains.

Behind those curtains I was stationed; and through a hole in them I watched the gathering of the clans, and counted the money they had brought with them. Still the orchestra played, and still the audience increased; but very slowly. I was noting it all down on my shirt cuffs. This sort of thing: Pit, 2s.; buccaneer in stalls, 2s.; pit, 2s. 6d. (a family party this); circle, 2s. (a lover and his lass); pit, 5s. (ten rolling stones); stalls, 4s. (two young men after the vanishing lady).

Half-past seven came and went. Very anxiously I consulted my cuff, and added to it one or two late arrivals. Twice I checked the total—30s. Yes, 30s., not a 6d. more or a 6d. less—and the rent of the hall was £2! And I and my properties and my friend had to get back to Aberdeen that night! I paced up and down the stage trying to work the problem out. My calculations were disturbed by a loud clapping of hands and whistling. The audience—the vast audience—now swelled to about 35s., was getting impatient. What was I to do? Should I go on, or should I, like the Arabs, fold my tent and silently steal away? It was not left to me to decide. My friend had shut up the box office, put the contents of the cash-box into his trouser pocket, and come round to the stage.

"Go on," he whispered.

"Is it worth while?" I began. "Hadn't we better——"

For answer with one hand he pulled the curtain cord, with the other shoved me before the audience.

Tremendous applause, during which I bowed repeatedly, and tried to remember whether or not the doorkeeper was a fighting man.

"Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking," were my first words. They seem to me somewhat humorous now, and those of my readers who have hard my stage speeches during recent years will probably take the same view. Even then the words were not quite justified, except by the temporary embarrassment of my hurried appearance. The full sentence was: "Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking, I will now show you a few conjuring tricks."

The inconsequence of the statement was not noticed by my audience. They gave me a sympathetic cheer, and fixed their eyes on me as I produced a pack of cards and made them disappear one by one into the air. Great success! And the other tricks equally so. Then came the ventriloquism. In the course of this I managed to work in a few local allusions which greatly pleased the buccaneer in the stalls and caused some excited whispering among the crowd in the pit. After this my pièce de résistance—the vanishing lady. She vanished in her very best style, and completed my triumph. The applause at the end of the performance was—well, it was simply prodigious, considering the size of the audience. I do not think that before or since so few people have ever made so much noise.

Down came the curtain, and I walked off the stage to find my friend and the doorkeeper engaged in intimate talk. The doorkeeper wanted his £2. My friend was explaining to him that as the takings had only amounted to 35s., and as the private wealth of himself and the Great Walford Bodie was about 10s., it was rather doubtful whether we could give him the £2.

"That's just it," I broke in. "We've got to get back to Aberdeen to-night, and we must keep enough for the railway fare. Suppose you take the 35s., and we will call quits."

After a prolonged talk, and the discussion of a little whisky, which, by good fortune, my friend happened to have in his pocket, the doorkeeper agreed to this, and we shouldered the two boxes containing the paraphernalia of my performance, and started to walk to the station.

It was a weary walk. We were both thoroughly disheartened, and hardly exchanged a word. I, for my part, was re-constituting my plan of life on a basis which did not include stage performances, and my friend was probably doing much the same.

When we reached the station we found to our horror that the last passenger train to Aberdeen had just gone. The financial difficulty with the doorkeeper at the Town Hall had taken longer to settle than we had imagined, and although we had escaped with our railway fares it looked as if we should not be able to travel home that night. But the station-master came to our rescue. There was a goods train, he said, due to pass in a few minutes. He would signal it to stop, and would persuade the guard to take us on board. He was as good as his word. And so presently, seated on the box containing the vanishing lady, the Great Walford Bodie ingloriously rode home from his first battle.

MR. W. H. ARMSTRONG, the well-known solicitor to the variety profession, is starting a testimonial to Mr. Fred Miller, late of the Canterbury and Paragon Music Halls.

"A TIMELY AWAKENING."

A Duologue, produced for the first time in England at the Tivoli on Monday, Aug. 3.

Charles .....MR. CARLETON MACEY
Effie May .....MISS MAUD HALL

A bright, well-written little piece, which moreover conveys an excellent lesson to thoughtless, selfish husbands, it thoroughly deserved the favourable reception that marked its first production in this country. Unfortunately, it is only too true that the loving, devoted wife does not always reap the reward which is her just due. In fact, her lucky husband is apt to become spoilt. It so happens in the case of Charles and Effie May. When the head of the household returns home from his city office he finds that his wife has prepared the tea with her own fair hands; but instead of thanking her, he only grumbles that she is ruining the servants by doing their work for them. He is not in the least grateful for her loving regard for his comfort. On the contrary, he flies into a temper because he cannot find a collar-stud while donning evening dress in an adjoining room. Effie thinks he may take her to the theatre, but he has no such intention. Though begrudging his wife pecuniary assistance for her blind sister, he has, according to his own admission, been carrying on an imprudent flirtation with his new typewriting girl, and has treated her to an expensive luncheon. While taking a rest on the couch Charles falls asleep, and has a bad dream. But it has good results, for it is the means by which he is brought to his senses. He dreams that Effie suddenly appears before him very gaily dressed; and not only has she put on grand apparel, there is quite a startling change in her manner. She knows all about the new typewriting girl, and makes scornful allusions to the expensive luncheon and the cheap photograph of the giddy typist which that young lady has given him. But if he imagines that Effie has been pining at home alone all day he is very much mistaken. She has had luncheon, she tells him, with a man who is a "real sport," and generous in the matter of loans. Charles is overwhelmed by these appalling domestic revelations, and when his wife helps herself to a neat whisky, lights a cigarette, and shows an inclination to indulge in high-kicking he abandons himself to utter despair. After a few final remarks which are very much to the point, Effie leaves the house. Charles is by this time reduced to such a condition of wretchedness and despair that he determines to put an end to his miserable existence, and a revolver is the instrument which he selects for his deadly purpose. But at this tragic crisis Charles awakens from his bad dream, and is bewildered to find his wife in her ordinary indoor dress and showing no difference in her manner. Charles has been taught a salutary lesson; and he proceeds to make open confession of his faults, and to admit that he acted as a brute towards his charming little wife. Of course she forgives him, and gladly falls in with his proposal to take her to the opera. The duologue was admirably played.

Mr. Carleton Macey proved an excellent representative of the selfish, inconsiderate husband, who by means of a timely dream is turned from the error of his ways. Miss Maud Hall acted very cleverly and naturally as the wife, presenting a most effective contrast between the real Effie and the Effie of Charles's dream.

"A QUEEN OF MUSIC."

A Dramatic Sketch, produced at the Middlesex on Monday, August 3.

Jim Stockson .....MR. LEO V. GORDON
Captain Burlington ..MR. H. WRIGHT-SCADDAN
Margaret Hamilton.....MISS ESTELLE COLLETTE

There is hardly any task more difficult of attainment to the playwright than the surrounding of a central figure possessed of some outstanding accomplishment with a background at once appropriate and suited to exhibit the particular talents of the leader. In A Queen of Music the author, a well-known novelist, has had to find opportunity for the display of a really finished artist's musical abilities and the provision of a reasonably probable outcome of their surpassing influence. Pathos is a sentiment the handling of which requires very considerable skill, as the slightest degree of over-colouring may lead to a degeneracy into bathos. And the artists who undertake the performance of such a piece have to be extremely careful lest they unduly accentuate their own parts and cast a shadow over what is meant to be the feature of the whole situation. In the playlet under review we are confronted with Jim Stockson making his entry to the drawing-room of a famous lady violinist, Miss Margaret Hamilton. As he appears by the window, his intentions are manifest, but their immediate execution is delayed by the entry of the lady and her lover, Captain Burlington. The latter, in urging his suit upon his fair companion, offers her a valuable violin, reputed to have been used by Paganini—a statement carefully noted by the burglarious Jim, concealed for the time being behind a screen. The lady gives her audience a crowning proof of the instrument's latent excellence by performing in excellent style Mendelssohn's Concerto. After her lover leaves she further, for her own, and certainly for her hearers', pleasure, renders the "Salut d'Amour." Then Jim announces his presence, and demands the violin, but accepts instead various articles of jewellery. As he is examining his plunder he recognises among it a woman's portrait as that of his dead wife. The girl begs its restoration because it is her mother's. Then repentance comes to Jim, and he vows his self-inflicted banishment. But Captain Burlington appears on the scene, and, naturally enough, at first proposes to adopt unpleasant measures towards the now regretful sinner. Jim realises that it is hopeless to reform his evil ways, but ere he starts on his long journey he begs his daughter to play to him the air of a song his wife used to sing to him in happier days. Margaret complies, and the wail of "Come back to Erin" leads him to place on the table the jewels he had taken and to surreptitiously depart by the window. As the last notes of the haunting melody die away a shot is heard. Burlington rushes outside, and Jim is assisted in to die in his daughter's arms—he has started on his long journey.

Mr. Leo V. Gordon plays the part of the burglar with a very considerable amount of tragic intensity, while all the time exercising great self-restraint. Mr. H. Wright-Scaddan is a manly lover, who has made up his mind to have the lady he loves in spite of her unfortunate parentage. Of course, Miss Estelle Collette as Margaret Hamilton has the onus of the work upon her shoulders, and it may be said that she does it extremely well. She possesses dramatic power in no inconsiderable degree, and she is a violinist of really outstanding ability. Her tone is good, and she exhibits an admirable command of technique. Good music, as we have often pointed out, always appeals to an audience at a variety house, and in this little piece there is a demonstration of really first-class artistry. And, in addition to the remarkable qualifications we have already enumerated, Miss Collette has a striking and attractive appearance, which is enhanced by charm and freshness of manner and personality.

IN the popular sports provided by the Bath Wheelers' Cycling Club on Saturday an interesting event, arranged as an additional draw, was a half-mile cycle race between Mr. Carlton and Mr. J. E. Melhuish (vice-captain of the Bath Wheelers). Carlton was the winner after a close race, and immediately collapsed in the orthodox manner, and was carried to the tent.

"THE PHILOSOPHER'S DIAMOND."

A Comedy of Marvels, by Nevil Maskelyne, produced at the St. George's Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 5.

Sir Grimley Greensward, Bart. .....MR. NEVIL MASKELYNE
Huckaback .....MR. E. MORRELL
Bottles .....MR. ARNOLD MUSSETT
Lady Catherine Greensward .....MISS HELEN MCCULLOCH
Ali Ben Slobur .....MR. B. S. ELTON
Djinn al Kohl .....MR. CHARLES GLENROSE
Moonsheen .....MISS CASSIE BRUCE

We understand that a sketch similar to the one under review, but with different illusions, was introduced some years ago at the Egyptian Hall under the title of The Philosopher's Stone. This title, however, having been recently adopted for a drama, the present sketch has been renamed The Philosopher's Diamond.

The scene, we are told, is "the ancient alchemical laboratory at Corselight Castle, Graveleigh, Ghostershire." Here we are first introduced to Bottles, a servant of Sir Grimley Greensward, who is expecting a visit from a mysterious alchemist, who is supposed to visit the laboratory once in every three hundred years. Already there are omens that something out of the ordinary is going to happen, for, as Bottles attempts to dust a shelf full of old flagons, these suddenly become illuminated, and this strange phenomena is made still more weird by an awe-inspiring whistling sound. Huckaback, a marine store dealer, who comes to fetch away some old clothes and other oddments, prides himself upon the possession of a diamond which he discovered in the pocket of a discarded waistcoat sold to him by the baronet, and Huckaback's honesty is of the kind which does not realise the necessity of returning the stone. Sir Grimley attires him in the fantastic and highly coloured robes of an Eastern magician, and leaves him in the laboratory—an experience which the worthy marine store dealer relishes not. Suddenly, and as mysteriously as suddenly, there appears out of the chamber of a furnace one Ali Ben Slobur, a Mahatma "on the track," presumably for purposes of revenge. Two other "astral forms" come on the scene in the persons of Djinn al Kohl and Moonsheen, the latter a beautiful maiden who possesses the supernatural gift of being able to float in the air, and who appears to assume life and shape out of nothingness. Thoroughly terrified Huckaback conceals himself in the furnace, which is set blazing by the Mahatma. There are other adventures in which Sir Grimley's spouse and that gentleman himself take part, and the sketch, which is thoroughly diverting from beginning to end, ends amusingly with the discovery that Huckaback's diamond is a piece of worthless paste. All the characters are capitally represented, and the illusions most cleverly worked.

There are several contributors to the remainder of Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant's entertainment. Mr. Ernest Hastings submits a delightful musical, anecdotal, and singing performance, to his own accompaniment at the piano; and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marriott, the "technopathists," demonstrate the mysteries of thought transference in a truly marvellous manner. The sketch The Magical Master is still in the bill, and in it Mr. David Devant in the title-rôle; and Mr. Charles Glenrose, Mr. B. Mackenzie, Miss Dora Devant, and Miss Florence Eaton contrive to furnish great merriment. Essman, styled "the juggling waiter," gains loud applause for his marvellous displays of dexterity with various articles.

ROTHERHAM HIPPODROME OPENING.

Rotherham may now be said to have been brought up to date by the completion of the Hippodrome, which was opened for a public performance on Monday last (Bank Holiday) in the presence of a distinguished audience, including his Worship the Mayor (Councillor G. H. Lodge), a large number of the members of the corporation and officials, local magistrates, and other influential residents. Amongst the special visitors were noticed Messrs. G. Drake, G. Drake, jun., Leo Fritz, Fred Richardson (from London), Gerald Morton, of the Moss' Empires, Ltd., who motored from town specially for the opening, W. H. Haywood, and many other notable patrons.

The front façade is Italian Renaissance in character, and the two domes give dignity to this well-balanced elevation. The main entrance is reached by a flight of terrazzo mosaic steps, the floor of which is marble mosaic with Roman mosaic centre, the whole of the woodwork being of polished walnut. A wide staircase on each side with terrazzo marble treads and Sicilian marble risers, and wrought-iron balustrading bronzed, and headed with solid walnut rail, lead to the mezzarine corridors, which in their turn give access to the front tiers of circle, boxes, and the stalls. The manager's office occupies a most convenient position near the entrance, a ladies' cloak-room also being very easy of access. Staircases from the mezzarine corridors lead to the circle entrance landing. The circle is very compact with ladies' and gentlemen's lavatories and cloak-rooms at opposite sides. The tip-up seats are very comfortable, and are upholstered in rich crimson velvet. The other parts of the house, including pit and gallery, are finished in an equally comfortable and artistic manner. The entrances and exits are very numerous, and by this means the house can be cleared in a very short time.

The interior decorations are Georgian in character, and the colour-scheme is of pink and gold with scarlet furnishing, the whole being particularly pleasing.

Electric lighting is the means of illumination with a secondary gas arrangement in case of failure of the electric light at any time. Six electric fans and a large centre exhaust placed at the top of a beautiful central dome make up an almost perfect scheme of ventilation, and the heating arrangements are carried out by means of low pressure hot-water radiators. The dressing-rooms are very commodious, and the stage fittings are all up to date.

The architects are Messrs. Chadwick and Watson, of Leeds, Messrs. J. Parkinson and Sons, Ltd., Blackpool and London, being responsible for the buildings. Other portions of the work were carried out by Messrs. F. De Jong and Co., Ltd., London (fibrous plaster and decorations), and Messrs. Dean and Son, Birmingham (carpets and curtains). Mr. Thomas Edgar Fox, of Leeds, is managing-director of the company and licensee, and Mr. Claude Shayler is an energetic and courteous manager. The building, which will seat 2,500 persons, was commenced on March 25, 1908, the whole of the work being completed in a little over four months.

The management had been fortunate in securing a strong bill for the opening week, including Mr. J. Gar Kiddie's company in the exceedingly funny absurdity, The House of Tinn, which was received with roars of laughter. Miss Ailsa Douglas had the honour of first turn, and the confidence of the management was unanimously endorsed by the crowded house, her songs being received with well-deserved applause; Miss Lily Lonsdale, soprano, was also favourably received; the Ted Moxon Trio are a very clever combination of acrobatic eccentrics; Ernie Myers is a smart comedian; Yamamoto and Miss Koyoshi are watched with breathless interest, and bring down the house with their brilliant performance; the Tally-Ho trio is The Three Buttercups and Fyne and Hurley are clever. A splendid orchestra of fourteen performers has been got together under the able leadership of Mr. Thomas Richardson.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

The funeral of the late Harry Lundy took place at Farningham Church on Saturday. Amongst the mourners were the son of the deceased, his two brothers, Messrs. E. A. and L. S. Lundy, his three brothers-in-law, Messrs. Blott, Godfray, and Chanter, Mr. Wood, of Farningham, Mr. Frost, and Dr. Stares. Amongst those present in the churchyard were Mr. Joe Elvin and Mr. Lotto. The inscription on the coffin was, "Harry Lundy, died July 29th, 1908, aged 45 years." The following wreaths and flowers were sent:—Cross from widow and son and daughter, wreath from Mr. E. A. Lundy (brother), wreath from Mr. L. S. Lundy (brother), anchor from Mrs. Chanter (sister), wreath from Mrs. Blott (sister), wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey (brother-in-law), wreath from Mrs. de Gruchy and Miss Godfrey (sisters-in-law), sheaf of lilies from Mrs. D. Lundy), bunch of lilies from May and Toots (nieces), sheaf of lilies from Bertie and Hilda (nephew and neice), wreath from Mrs. E. A. Lundy (sister-in-law), wreath from Mrs. and Miss Hodgson (aunt and cousin), wreath from Mr., Mrs., and Miss Palmer (aunt, uncle, and cousin), wreath from Mrs. Harvey (cousin), harp from Mrs. Abratt (London), sheaf from Mrs. Cowley and Miss Weatherley (London), chaplet, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Gordon (Farningham), wreath, Messrs. Farrar and Salibury (London), wreath, Mr. Fred McAvoy and mother (London), wreath, Mr. Harry South (Reading), cross, Messrs. Wood and Frost (Farningham), wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Nash (Brighton), wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nash and Mabel (Brighton), wreath, Mrs. Reed (Bedfont), sheaf, Mrs. Robinson (Farningham), wreath, Licensed Victuallers, Dartford District, wreath, staff of the Lion Hotel, bunch of flowers, an old servant, cushion of flowers, the manager and staff Oxford Music Hall, wreath, Mr. H. W. Ellis (Farningham), wreath, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elvin (London), wreath, Messrs. Elvin, Lotto, and Stratton.

The Water Rats have organised a motor outing on Sunday to Marlow, where lunch will be eaten at the Compleat Anglers' Hotel, at 3.30. Rats, ratlings, and invites will meet at the Vaudeville Club at 11 a.m. on Sunday, and the start will be made soon after. The procession will be led by Mr. W. H. Clemart, King Rat, in the Hon. C. S. Rolls's famous touring car, "Silver Ghost." Messrs. Joe O'Gorman, Fred Russell, Harry Tate, Fred Ginnett, Will and Sam Poluski, Harry Radford, Carlton, Chas. Austin, Dave O'Toole, The Maples, Seth Egbert, Dusty Rhodes, Frank Haytor, and V. O. Granville are expected to be of the party.

Dr. Walford Bodie has been breaking all his previous records at the Palace, Aberdeen, for two weeks, playing to packed houses twice nightly. This week he is turning hundreds away nightly at the Palace, Dundee. Last week he chartered a special train, and took his company and staff, numbering over fifty, for a day's outing at his Highland home, Macduff. All the company on arrival sat down to a sumptuous breakfast, after which Dr. Bodie, who motored through in his new 35 h.-p. Argyle, took them all over his estate, visiting many of his properties, returning to the Manor House, where Mrs. Bodie had prepared a substantial lunch, which was served in the Bijou Theatre of the Manor House. The rest of the afternoon was spent in song and story, and the company left at 4 p.m., arriving at Aberdeen at 6, after having spent a most enjoyable day. Before leaving Macduff the whole of the company visited the late Marie Walford's (Mystic Marie) memorial, and placed a mammoth floral wreath on her tomb. Dr. Bodie finishes on Saturday night at Dundee, and then goes home for a well-deserved four weeks' rest at Macduff, during which time he will have a motor tour in the Highlands. He restarts his tour in September, and is booked up to the end of 1909.

We are sorry to have to report the death of Mrs. M. Moss, widow of the late James Moss, sen., who passed away at Middleton Hall, Midlothian, on Sunday morning last, the 2nd inst., at the age of seventy-five. The deceased lady, beloved by all who knew her, was the mother of Sir Edward Moss, chairman of Moss' Empires, Ltd., to whom will be extended the sympathy of artists and playgoers alike. The funeral took place at Joppa Cemetery, Edinburgh, on Wednesday last, at 2.45 p.m. Many personal friends were present at the graveside, including Mr. Richard Thornton, of Newcastle, Sir Robert Cranston, and Major Elliot Cranston. Sir Edward and his two sons were chief mourners, also Major Elliot Cranston. Floral wreaths were sent by a great number of sympathisers, including Sir Robert and Lady Cranston, Sir Edward and Lady Moss, the grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen and Miss Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Stoll, Mrs. Adelaide Stoll, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Mr. Cooper, Mrs. Tinsley, and Mr. and Mrs. Houlding, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Richard Warner, Dr. and Mrs. Inch, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roberts and family, Mr. E. Wyer, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Rhind, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson, Mrs. Fielding, the Head Office Staff (Cranbourn Mansions), Mr. Sam Gething and Staffs of Empire and Coliseum, Glasgow, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook and Mr. C. Bayne, Empire, Edinburgh, tenants of Middleton Estate, and the Orchestra and Staff of Empire, Edinburgh.

"They manage these things better in France," said Sterne in his "Sentimental Journey"; but the statement evidently does not apply to variety contracts in Germany, as Mr. William Berol's informing speech at the Hotel Provence on Sunday showed. The "three days' cancellation" clause, the law that the transference or sub-letting of a theatre voids all contracts, and the other numerous excuses for cancellation, make the existence of an International Artists' Lodge an absolute necessity. The good work done by that lodge in supplying information to English artists as to these and other matters is invaluable.

The following remarkable affidavit, in connection with the performance of the Tomsons at the Alhambra, has been sworn by one of the police female searchers:—"I, Jane Hopkins, female searcher of Vine-street Police Station, hereby declare that I visited the Alhambra Theatre on Wednesday night, July 29, and formed one of the ladies' committee on the stage, and examined Mrs. Tomson before and after her séance, and after a most careful and exacting search I am quite satisfied that she had no birds, flowers, or white material concealed on her person.—Signed, Jane Hopkins. Witness, J. F. Abbott."

Mr. E. H. Bostock, proprietor of the Zoo-Hippodrome, Glasgow, and several other music halls, has consented to become a candidate for the seat in the Town Council of Glasgow which will be rendered vacant by the retirement of Councillor Dallas, one of the representatives of Cowcaddens Ward. Mr. Bostock has been associated with this district for over ten years.

"Private Towser," J. A. Wilson's wonderful dog, has been successfully operated on by Mr. Wm. Taylor, veterinary surgeon, Clumber-street, Nottingham. No doubt this will be very pleasing news to a great many in the profession, as Towser had a host of friends. The latest bulletin from Mr. Taylor is that Towser is going on first class, and will be all right in a few days. Mr. Wilson returns thanks for various letters and wires inquiring about Towser, and is pleased to say that, with the care and personal attention he has received from Mr. Taylor, he is now out of danger.

All the stars of the variety firmament will be seen at the Herne Hill Athletic Grounds on Wednesday, when a special fête and sports day will take place in aid of the Variety Artists' Fund. Twenty-five events have been arranged. The 50yds. flip-flap race is certain to be of interest, as all the competitors have to turn somersaults for the whole distance. In the sack race, several startling innovations will be seen, and the fertile brain of Mr. Joe Elvin has evolved a novel 360yds. steeplechase. Over a dozen silver cups are to be competed for, besides a long list of prizes, ranging from an egg-stand to a silver tea and coffee service. There will be motor-cycle races, in which Mr. C. R. Collier, the holder of the world's record, will attempt to lower the five mile record on the Herne Hill track; and an aeroplane race, in which each machine will be built from special designs by the competitors. Over 400 entries have been received, and six hours' continuous amusement will be supplied.

The variety profession is taking up these sports most enthusiastically, and with such sympathy and support it is impossible for them to prove a failure. The money from the entries indeed more than covers expenses. The handicapping will be found in another column. Mr. Harry Tate and Mr. Fred Earle, it may be noticed, have entered for all heats in which ladies are concerned; and a child of four months old, Master Carlo, is a competitor for the boys' 100 yards race. The first heat of the 120 yards running handicap will start at 11.30 prompt, and runners are requested to be on their marks at that time, as Mr. Albert Le Fre will run the sports by the clock.

Mr. Maurice Fritz regrets he is unable to enter for the sports, as while he was travelling on his 7-9 h.p. Brown motor-cycle at a speed of sixty-five miles an hour on Herne Hill track, he raised it to seventy-five. Herne Hill track being so small, was not fast enough for this powerful machine, and Mr. Fritz, going round the bend, went over the banking, but fortunately escaped with a few bruises on the back and legs. The machine was completely smashed.

Mr. Harry Priest, late manager of the Theatre Royal and the Hippodrome, Wolverhampton, has been appointed by Mr. T. Allan Edwardes resident-manager of the Palace of Varieties, Atterchiffe, and entered upon his duties last week.

Mr. Peter Davies, F.A.I., will sell, by order of the High Court of Justice, on Thursday, Sept. 24, at three o'clock p.m., at the Law Association Rooms, 14, Cook-street, Liverpool, the Tivoli Theatre, Lime-street, Liverpool; the Park Palace, Mill-street, Liverpool; and the Paddington Palace, Paddington, Liverpool.

The Grand Pavilion South Parade Pier, Southsea, will be opened with befitting ceremony next week. The South Parade Pier is being rebuilt by the Corporation of Portsmouth, who have appointed Mr. Walsh, a manager of experience extending over the past twenty years, and he will settle all engagements and will have sole managerial control. The scheme of entertainment to be provided in the Grand Pavilion will necessitate the engagement of variety artists of the highest order, as well as artists of the theatre stage and concert platform. Furthermore, the very best British bands available will appear during the season.

La Belle Titcombe, the actress-equestrienne, started on a ride through the streets of Cardiff the other day in the same Directoire costume which attracted so much attention when worn by her in Rotten Row some months since. The lady was mounted on her Arab stallion Ali, which is so well trained that it did not appear alarmed at the dense crowds and the cheering. She was preceded by a motor-car, and followed by a groom in uniform, rode via Duke-street and St. Mary-street to the Docks, and returned via Grangetown, Canton, the municipal buildings, and Park-place to the Cardiff Empire.

The recent gale did serious havoc at Whitstable, the New Pavilion, managed by Mr. Jack Rowland, a promising young actor, late of the Apollo Theatre, being totally wrecked. On Wednesday evening there was a large attendance of visitors, and the season had been so far very successful, but on Thursday a distressing sight met the caretaker's eye on his arrival to do his duties for the next performance. Hardly a vestige of the building remained; even the gas brackets had been torn away by the terrific force of the wind. Workmen were at once on the spot endeavouring to get the débris cleared away. It is evident that a more substantial structure is required at this pretty and healthful seaside resort, and Mr. J. Rowland has decided to erect a fine new building for the next season.

The business of the various shows and entertainments at New Brighton Tower on Bank Holiday was by far the largest in the history of that resort. More than 40,000 people paid their way into the Tower grounds, and it was necessary for Cummins' Wild West to give four performances in order to satisfy the demands of the crowd, while the theatre, with its variety programme, gave three performances, and the ballroom, the scenic railway, the figure 8, and all of the other amusement devices were utilised to their fullest capacity by the apparently insatiable crowd of pleasure-seekers. The people of Liverpool and district are begining to wake up to the fact that they have a first-class pleasure resort, with an extremely varied line of amusements and attractions, at their very doors, where they can spend a day of pleasure at a minimum cost.

"A Birthday" testimonial is being prepared for Mr. James Doughty, who claims to be the oldest actor, clown, and trainer of animals, being ninety years of age. He is now working with his troupe of pets on the West Pier, Brighton; and for seventy-five years has followed his professional occupation at Drury Lane, Covent Garden, Surrey, Marylebone, Standard, Sadler's Wells, Victoria, Astley's Amphitheatre, and all the principal theatres in the provinces, Birmingham, Manchester, Liverpool, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Perth, and with Hengler's Circus, Newsom's, William Cooke's, John Henry Cooke's, and the Great American Circus in the Exhibition of 'fifty-one. He was commanded in 1890 to appear at Osborne before the late Queen Victoria, our present King and Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Victoria, Princess Beatrice, and all the members of the Royal family, and he has been presented with a certificate of merit from the R.S.P.C.A. for kindness to animals.

The employees of the Palace and Hippodrome, Burnley, and a few friends, to the number of seventy-eight, had their first annual outing, with perfect weather. In four motor-brakes, supplied by Mr. Groome, of Whalley, they proceeded by Nelson and Colne to Skipton, and thence via Settle to Ingleton, where, at Ye Olde Hostelrie, there were a capital dinner and tea. After the chief repast, Mr. J. Smith, of the Dog and Duck Hotel, proposed the health of the King, and the toast of "The Directors" was submitted by Mr. Simpson, the manager, and that of "The Visitors" by Mr. Thoburn, and responded to by Mr. Albert Thompson of the Royal Oak Hotel. A presentation was made to Mr. Julius Simpson, the manager, in the shape of a dressing-case, subscribed to by the whole staff. The ceremony was carried out by Mr. Anderson, musical-director, supported by Mr. John Rentoul, the stage-manager. After an enjoyable day's outing the party reached Burnley about midnight.

It is only two years ago since Carney and Armstrong gave a trial show at a Moss-Stoll Empire, with a little absurdity called The Pro. and the Baggage Man. Mr. Carney is a Liverpool man, and was engaged in Nottingham some years before he went out to South Africa with the Yeomanry. Armstrong had previously gone out to Africa with the Cape Mounted Police, and it was out there that they first met and struck up a friendship, which developed into their present partnership. Their meeting has a touch of romance. Carney was sent out with a force of the Irish Yeomanry escorting a convoy into Griquatown, when they were attacked by a strong party of Boers. The engagement was a furious one, and there seemed to be no hope for the little band of Britishers, for the enemy outnumbered them six to one, and every man of the escort was hit. At a critical moment, however, a troop of mounted police appeared on the scene, and succeeded in driving off the Boers. Armstrong, who was in the relief party, was attracted by a familiar tune being sweetly whistled, and a search revealed Carney lying behind an ant-hill with a shot through his ankle. Armstrong assisted the wounded man on to his horse and took him into the town, and from that day to this they have been bosom friends. Many a lonesome "Tommy's" heart was cheered by their entertaining efforts, for Armstrong sang ballads and Carney comic songs, and their little impromptu concerts were a real delight to the "boys." Leo Tell, Duncan and Godfrey, Ben Albert, the Eight Lancashire Lads, the Haytors, Madge Osmond, and Fred Kitchen's company in No. 99, are other arrivals at the Hackney Empire.

Miss Sadie Simpson, the clever little comedienne and dancer, after three months' illness, will resume business at the Canterbury and Paragon on Monday next.

That well-known composer and arranger, Reginald Allan, was presented on Bank Holiday by his wife with a fine boy. Though not yet in partnership with his proud father as an arranger, the newcomer has on several occasions been already heard trying his voice. Mother and child are doing well.

Miss Rosie Lloyd, home again from America, has been re-engaged through Mr. George Foster's agency, at a large increase in salary, and will commence a short provincial tour on Monday at the Hippodrome, Southampton, with Boscombe, Margate, Clacton, and the Barrasford tour to follow.

Professor Wingard, one of the oldest and most amusing conjurers living, once more had the honour of an engagement at Osborne to amuse the Royal guests of H.R.H. Princess Henry of Battenberg during the Cowes week, and was personally congratulated by H.R.H. Princess Christian and Victoria and Princes Leopold and Maurice on his neat and amusing entertainment.

We regret to announce the death of Rosa Annie Guest, sister of Mr. Charles Crowder, who died on Monday at 38, Wilcox-road, South Lambeth, aged fifty-eight. The funeral was announced for Friday at Tooting, the arrangements being in the hands of Mr. Theophilus Dunkley. We have also to record the recent death of Mr. Milner Verren, a well-known music-hall tenor.

Mr. Verren travelled with the Bohee Bros. and was for two years with the Mohawks. Amongst his most successful songs were "Say Au-revoir," Edgar Bateman and Henry H. Pether's "Playground in the sky," Bateman and Harrison's "Where the ocean meets the sky," and Austin Turner's "Be as you used to be." Mr. Verren died at Southsea on the 29th ult. The funeral will take place at Kingston Cemetery on Sunday. The deceased was only thirty-four years of age.

At the Empire Theatre, Sheffield, on Monday, owing to the holiday rush, Miss Gracie Graham lost her luggage, and had neither music nor stage clothes to open in. Luckily, Mrs. Harold Finden was of the company, and she kindly volunteered to play the accompaniment on a grand piano of a song that she had lately written for Miss Graham, and the ditty was enthusiastically received by the audience. On Wednesday night, Miss Ashley, of Barton and Ashley, met with an accident, and was prevented from appearing, and again Mrs. Finden came to the rescue, and went on at a few minutes' notice to play Miss Ashley's part in their latest production, Adam the Second, and came out with flying colours, being congratulated and thanked by Mr. Barton and the whole of the company.

An extraordinary animal entertainment will be given at the Palace on Monday, the 17th inst., when Mr. Butt will present Professor Macart's troupe of comedian and athletic monkeys. Prof. Macart was originally a dog-trainer, and has been with animals of every description all his life. He commenced training monkeys about twelve years ago, and now possesses what is said to be the most valuable troupe of performing animals extant. The intelligence displayed seems incredible. Two of the animals have been taught to waltz, and offer a funny burlesque of the "Merry Widow" waltz. Bill, aged six years, is a baboon who is a keen automobilist and possesses his own car, correctly fitted up in every detail. Joe is an ardent cyclist, and is the only animal who has ever been seen riding a safety cycle, and the construction of this machine differs in no way from those ridden by the ordinary person. Others of the tribe have a penchant for music, and Tony and Bill play "Home, sweet home" as a duet on the sleigh bells. The entertainment also includes a miniature comedy, in which a gentleman, having had a hair-cut and shave, forgets to pay, which results in a fight between barber and client, the latter suggesting that the barber is incompetent.

Mr. Albert Mitchell, formerly manager of the Swansea Empire, who was lately appointed South Wales district manager of the Moss and Stoll Empires, was on the 31st ult. furnished with a striking proof of the appreciation in which he is held by the patrons of the Swansea Empire and the townspeople. The Mayor of Swansea (Alderman Lee), who was accompanied by the Mayoress, Miss Nancy Lee, and the Lady Mayoress of Cardiff, Miss Dearie Thomas, and Miss Willie Thomas, in the presence of a thoroughly representative gathering, including Councillors Sinclair and Protheroe, Mr. R. L. Sails, J.P., Mr. William Coutts (manager Star Theatre), Mr. P. C. Rowe (Mr. Mitchell's successor at Swansea), and Mr. W. H. Lennon (assistant-manager), presented to Mr. Mitchell an address. Eulogistic speeches were made by the Mayor of Swansea, Mr. R. L. Sails, and Miss Lottie Lennox, and the Mayor then formally presented Mr. Mitchell with the address, which was beautifully illuminated and enclosed in a rosewood case, having on the one side (surrounded by exquisite floral work, and surmounted by water-colour paintings of Mr. Mitchell and views of The Mumbles) the address, while the other side contained the signatures. Mr. Mitchell, who was received with musical honours, thanked the Mayor and his Swansea friends for the honour they had done him by presenting him with that beautiful souvenir, which would always remind him of his associations with the dear old town. The Mayor also presented Mr. Mitchell with a purse of gold, and Mr. P. C. Rowe, on behalf of the staff, presented him with a handsome smoker's cabinet. Mr. Mitchell having also acknowledged these, the proceedings closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

It is stated that meetings of the proprietors and directors of some of the most important music halls in the provinces have been held in London within the past few days, with a view to arriving at a working agreement, so as to avoid expensive competition in towns served by two or more establishments. Should these plans fructify, it will mean that Moss's Empires, Ltd., which has a capital of £2,086,000, will direct the entertainments at some thirty additional halls.

Miss Melinda May, secretary of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, begs to acknowledge gifts of clothing from La Foy, Miss Alice Chapin, Mrs. Crowther, and from an anonymous donor at Gravesend. All are welcome to the receptions, which are held every Wednesday from three to five.

Mr. Fred Land, comedian, has been engaged through Pacey's agency for thirty-two weeks at the Oxford, and will appear on Monday at the Pavilion, Newcastle.

Mr. J. A. Wilson, the favourite negro comedian in the North, should be appearing at the Glasgow Empire this week, but is unfortunately off duty with a sprained ankle.

Mr. Henry Kemble, the popular agent, has just returned to town after a lengthy and most successful tour in the provinces.

Miss Louie Tinsley has written, in collaboration with Mr. Ivan P. Gore, a duologue sketch for herself and husband, Mr. Fred Knight, which will shortly be produced. It is entitled Betsy's Burgle, and the music has been arranged by Mr. Denham Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Payne will conclude a most successful tour with their vocal scena at the Porth Palace next week, after which Mr. Payne will go to rehearse his part in The Prince and the Beggar-Maid, and Mrs. Payne will enter on a tour of the principal London and provincial halls.

Big Ben Brown and little George Le Clerq commence a Stoll tour at Walsall on Monday next, and are away till Christmas. Mr. Brown has been taking holiday at his bungalow at Shoreham, where he says he has been taking the waters, with a little "something" in them.

Mr. Edgar Bateman has, during the last week or so, been paying his annual visit to different pleasure resorts on the coast, and has had hearty greetings from the members of the various concert parties on beach and pier, notably at Hastings, Brighton, Bognor, Lowestoft, Weston-super-Mare, Margate, and Weymouth, and received an uproarious welcome at Southend.

Mr. George Newburn, the well-known mimic, is appearing at the London Coliseum this week with remarkable success. Immediately after his first performance there on Monday he was approached by representatives of two different American entrepreneurs, who made him very tempting offers for a series of appearances in the Land of Stars and Stripes. He will commence on the Moss tour on Monday.

A new turn, entitled Arizona, by Mr. and Mrs. Kemp, will be presented at the Oxford on the 31st inst. It is a series of Indian stories, told by Mrs. Kemp, and illustrated by Mr. Kemp with coloured slides and bioscope films. The pictures include "the only bioscope film in existence showing the Indian rattle-snake dance of the Mopi Indians, taken at great personal risk by Mr. Kemp." The act has had a good reception in America.

Mr. Vernon Bland, the erstwhile comedian, is now, under his own name of Ben Packham, the popular host of the Victory, which adjoins the Hippodrome, Brighton. Ever on the alert for novelty, "Ben" has secured a powerful little playlet from the pen of Edwin France, called The Honour of Her Sex. This is being rapidly booked for an autumn tour in the halls, with Mrs. Packham in the principal rôle, and it is expected the production will take place at Brighton in the near future.

At the Hippodrome, Paisley, on the evening of the 30th ult., in the course of Miss Alice Hughes's performance of The Star of the Bazaar, one of Cliff Berzac's wild sea-lions, which has only recently been captured and imported, broke out of its cage and made its way to the stage while Miss Hughes and Mr. Frank Lurin were busy with their repartee. Instead of leaving the stage Miss Hughes went on playing as usual, and Mr. Charles Dillon, by his mimicry of the sea-lion, caused roars of laughter. Eventually Captain Walter Ashcroft and his two sailor assistants rushed on in front of the footlights and secured the animal.

The first meeting was held on Wednesday before Mr. Walter Boyle, assistant receiver, of the creditors of Alfred James Dodd, otherwise known as Alfred Wood, who stated that he was a song writer, residing at Brixton-road, S.W., and that he had been engaged in the music hall profession for fifteen years. He occasionally performed, and produced music hall sketches, and he attributed his insolvency to the non-success of a musical comedy called The Terrible Tomboy, which he produced about five years ago. The chairman said that there appeared to be only one creditor for £102, his claim being secured to the extent of £80, and no assets were disclosed. The debtor had been adjudged bankrupt, and his affairs would remain in the official receiver's hands.

A newcomer at the Oxford on Monday will be Harry Thurston, hitherto well known as the "Silver King." He will appear in a new burlesque and chorus number on The Merry Widow. This has been written and composed by J. W. Tate and Ballard McDonald. Joe Elvin and company will appear in their famous absurdity, King of the Castle, and Little Tich will be singing his famous skit, "The General," and the "Park-keeper." Cinquevalli makes his very welcome reappearance here, as also does Kitty Rayburn, Victoria Monks, France and Stewart, Tony Black, Selbo, Madoline Rees, the Eight Dainty College Girls, Dan Crawley, T. E. Finglass, Herbert Le Martine, Venie Clements, Wilkie Bard with his great Limerick monologue, Amber Austa in "Oysters and Clam" and her new song "A House Cleaning," the Warsaw Brothers, and the Bioscope.

A very agreeable Bank Holiday attraction is provided at the Crown, Peckham, over the fortunes of which Mr. Cecil Paget so ably presides, by the New Bioscope Company. The films, which treat of both humorous and dramatic subjects, are of unusual merit, and crowded audiences have signified their enthusiastic approbation. The incidental music provided by the excellent orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Charles Avis, is also a considerable factor in the general success of the entertainment. In addition to the display of animatography, there are several clever variety turns sandwiched in between the pictures. Mr. Jack Monks, a brother of Miss Victoria Monks, who possesses a pleasant tenor voice, is loudly applauded for his rendering of "I'll be waiting for you at the old toll-gate" and "My lady's eyes." Sylvene proves himself a very smart equilibrist; and Violi is accorded an excellent reception for a new musical mélange, introducing various kinds of instrumental music. As at present arranged, the regular dramatic season will recommence in September.

Before his Honour Judge Woodfall, in the Westminster County Court, on the 31st ult., Mr. George Reno, an American variety artist, claimed £46 odd from the Oxford Music Hall. Mr. Doughty was counsel for the plaintiff and Mr. Walter Payne for the defendants. Plaintiff's case was that he performed sketches with his wife and three comedians. Mr. Wilkie Bard was unable to perform, and defendants' manager communicated with Marinelli's agency for a big act to take his place. Reno was mentioned at £50 to £55 for a week, and eventually £40 was agreed to. The claim was for a week and a matinée. The manager from Marinelli's, in cross-examination, said Miss Marie Lloyd might have been known to perform without charge in the place of an artist who was unable to appear, and Mr. Harry Lauder had attended the Alhambra to oblige a sick artist. Witness was acting as plaintiff's agent, but in this case he was requested by the Oxford to supply a turn. There was no idea that the engagement was for one night. Plaintiff, in answer to the judge, said he had never deputised for anyone. He performed at the Oxford on the Monday only, but his company was prepared to go on every other night in the week and at the weekly matinée. His scenery was at the Oxford all the week. For the defence, Mr. Collins, the manager of the Oxford, declared the engagement was to deputise for Mr. Wilkie Bard for one night. Plaintiff refused to take payment for one night. He never heard of an artist sending another as deputy. Cross-examined: An artist was brought from the Tivoli to deputise on other nights. When a turn was engaged for one night the price mentioned always meant at the weekly rate. Other evidence having been given, his honour found for the plaintiff for a week's salary, £40, with costs.

Mr. Herbert Taylor has resigned his position of manager of the Palace Theatre, Derby, after five years, to undertake the managmeent of the Hippodrome, Devonport, which will open about Sept. 7.

Mr. F. V. St. Clair's reception at the Hippodrome, Blackpool, on Monday was enthusiastic. It was from Blackpool Mr. St. Clair took the heroic shoeblack who made a gallant but unsuccessful attempt to save some Bolton lads who had been swept off the steps on the North Shore by a tremendous sea. Mr. St. Clair took the lad on the stage with him, appearing in a little scena at many of the London and provincial halls.

Mr. Chas. Schuberth, the popular resident-manager of the Palace, Bath, has just returned from his holiday, most of which has been spent in motoring to Birmingham, Leeds, Halifax, Bradford, London, and Ramsgate, where a little yachting was indulged in, Mr. Schuberth finishing with a week at Weymouth. A portion of the holiday was also spent in Paris with his chief, Mr. Macnaghten, amongst other things seen being the wonderful Pathé establishment for making cinematograph films.

Mr. Wm. Henry Thorne has once more scored in the swimming world, not as a veteran this time. The race for the "Otto Beit" trophies was a win for him, as—though only a good second (nearly a dead-heat)—there were three prizes, and, of course, he took the second. For the Daily Telegraph cup on the 31st ult. he was heavily penalised on account of the two previous wins, therefore he had no chance, his handicap for the cup being 55 yards, and he fears that for the rest of the club's season his chances of again winning are remote.

The tallest actor on earth will be seen at the Hackney Empire next week. This is Mr. George Auger, who stands over 8ft. in his stocking-soles, and weighs 365lb. Mr. Augur will play the giant in Jack the Giant Killer, an up-to-date version of the old nursery story. Most of Mr. Auger's fellow-players are short in stature. Ernest Rommell, for instance, is only 36in. in height, and weighs 40lb.; and other tiny players are Caroline Hass and Judy Field. Miss Sylvia Herne, a tall young lady, takes the part of the Princess. Carney and Armstrong, an entertaining couple, are also due at Hackney next week.

A concert was organised by the saloon passengers of the Mauretania on Saturday, the 25th ult., in aid of the Liverpool and New York Seamen's charities. Senator J. S. Frelingheuysen presided. Amongst those present connected with the profession were Miss Rosie Lloyd, who was returning to England after her American successes; and Mr. A. E. Pickard, the well-known Glasgow amusement caterer, who had been visiting Canada and the United States on business and pleasure combined. In the interval, Senator Frelingheuysen made a stirring appeal to the ladies and gentlemen present, on behalf of the widows and children of those brave sailors who had sacrificed their lives in the execution of their duty, with the result that the sum of £69 12s. 6d. was realised.

The record of the family to which the Brothers Egbert belong is extremely interesting. So far as can be remembered, every member has been in the entertaining profession, and even at the present time it is possible for the Brothers Egbert to ennumerate no less than 144 relations who are now appearing before the public. The Brothers Egbert, who jumped into fame some years ago with their Happy Dustman tumbling act, are members of the Gee family, which now comprises, among many others, the Maples, acrobats and dancers, the Musical Avolos, the Four Burnells, Miss May Henderson, the Musical Gees, James H. Gee, the wire-walker, and the Philipi Bros., who are well-known acrobats. Boswell's Circus is also numbered amongst this happy family. Indeed, as one of the Egbert Brothers remarked the other evening, "It is impossible for us to appear in any town in England without meeting one or another of our relatives."

Though the successful ballets, Covent Garden and Coppélia, with Mme. Zanfretta as a leading lady in the one and Miss Adeline Genée as a magnet of irresistible attraction in the other, combined with the dramatic episode After the Opera, still constitute the staple fare at the Empire, the variety entertainment receives due attention. Stuart Barnes is a humorist with a dignified and agreeable style, who puts an admirable amount of expression into his delivery of a song, in which he pretends to recognise a lady in the audience as one whom he has already met somewhere. The lady replies to him in song, and finally abashes him by her spirited defence of his gallant attack. Darren and Brockway embellish their clever performances on various musical instruments with many droll diversions, one of the pair impersonating a big and stupid nigger porter very ludicrously. Emma Frances and her Arab boys give way to the spirit of their dancing and acrobatic turn entirely, and charm the audience by the spontaneous energy of their tumbling, Miss Frances's step-dancing being especially quick, active, and accurate. Velanches' dogs create hearty excitement by their energetic efforts in a football match, and his tame fox revolves at will in an illuminated drum. The jumping done by the greyhounds is high and clean. Miss Ray Wallace is a pretty young lady with a winning style, who gives accurate imitations at the piano of well-known variety stars; and the exhibition of films depicting the Marathon Race, the Olympic Games at the Stadium, the Olympic Regatta at Henley, and the French Motor Derby—the last-named including numerous "spills"—excites great enthusiasm.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

The example of Douglas and Blackpool in the matter of that huge song-success, "Oh! Oh! Antonio," by Murphy and Lipton, has been speedily followed all round the coast, and the number so finely sung by Miss Florrie Forde has been seized upon with avidity by every prominent company of seaside entertainers everywhere in Great Britain. Messrs. Francis and Day's printers are throwing off copies of the song without cessation.

The holiday season has set in with its usual severity among the members of Mr. David Day's staff. Lester Barrett will start on Monday for Douglas, Isle of Man, where it is confidently expected he will hear sufficient of "Oh! Oh! Antonio," "Sue, Sue, Sue," and "Take me on the flip-flap," to enable him to recognise the melodies when he returns to Charing Cross-road; Charles Wilmott has been "doing" the Lakes, Blackpool, and the afore-mentioned Mona; Hermann E. Darewski has been busy idling at Morecambe; Henry E. Pether is enjoying a vacation at Margate; and Arthur Francis has been thinking out new waltzes at Scarborough.

Edgar Bateman, who has just begun his twelfth year with Messrs. Francis and Day, has, in conjunction with T. M. Down, written a humorous song, "The Daylight Bill; or, all through altering the clock"; and another off his own bat, entitled "A nice thing commencing with a G." Hermann E. Darewski has set both songs to characteristic melodies.

The Pavilion Girls have been going very well with Messrs. Francis and Day's latest importation in the coon line from the United States. It is called "Mandy Lane," is by William J. McKenna, and professional copies are now ready with concerted chorus for pantomime use.

That magnificent march song, "Johnny Macintyre," which Miss Marie Blythe and Miss Madge Daly have scored so emphatically with, has been already brought out by Messrs. Francis and Day, and a rush of other artists to secure rights is expected. Fred W. Leigh, the author-composer, is to be congratulated on an assured pantomime success.

Two of the late Milner Verren's successes were among the first songs to be issued as "Sixpenny Pops" by Messrs. Francis and Day, namely, "The playground in the sky" and "Where the ocean meets the sky," the former by H. E. Pether, the latter by Denham Harrison. Both lyrics were by the author of "It's a great big shame."

Mr. George Lashwood's phenomenal success, "Hang out the front door key," has been in great request all over West London, in both its "Sixpenny Pop" and dearer form, since the great star put it on on Monday last at the Empire, Shepherd's Bush, and Messrs. Francis and Day report a steadily-increasing demand from all parts of these islands.

Fred E. D'Albert is the author and composer of several new numbers being introduced by Miss Gertie Lewis, the latest male impersonator. The same writer is also responsible for Mr. Harry Leybourne's new act. Mr. Leybourne is this week at the Tivoli and Putney.

Two of the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s latest "winners" have been the property of the "man in the street" in Brighton during holiday week:—"From Poverty-street to Golden-square," by Paul Pelham and Herbert Rule, which Miss Kate Carney has been singing nightly at the local Hippodrome; whilst at the Alhambra, Miss Dora Lyric has been doing ditto with Percy Edgar, Worton David, and Kenneth Lyle's stirring number, "I'm leaving Monte Carlo." Miss Lyric opens in town at the Holborn Empire, and Empress, Brixton, with this latter number.

Those delightful entertainers, Miss Clarissa Talbot and Mr. Albert Pearce, are achieving a pronounced success at the Oxford nightly with Messrs. A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's delightful "song of sentiment," entitled "Somebody cares for you," which is one of the most successful numbers published in the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s now lengthy catalogue of "Sixpenny Successes."

The Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s tuneful and evergreen number, "My Tiny Firefly," seems to be veritably more popular than ever, for not only is it being sung by practically every pierrot troupe at the seaside this season, but also at the Hippodrome, Aldershot, this week, Miss Fifi Gordon and her talented troupe of girls have been charming all auditors with their rendering of this melodious morceau.

From far-away Swansea comes news of the emphatic success of Miss Blanche Vincent at the local Empire, in two of the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s latest songs (the words of both of which are written by Mr. John P. Harrington), viz., "Down at Shepherd's Bush" and "My Cuban Girl." Miss Jose Collins is also singing the last-mentioned number, and "scoring" very heavily therewith at the Tivoli, Strand, nightly.

Crowds of holiday-makers at sunny Margate have nightly acclaimed Miss Marie Lloyd to the echo in her latest and greatest success, "The Directoire Girl," by Harrington and Powell, and her delightfully arch rendering of the song, and equally charming costume, are already the principal topic of conversation in this favourite seaside resort. Metropolitan patrons of "variety" will soon have an opportunity of resuming acquaintance with "The Directoire Girl," as Miss Marie Lloyd is opening at the Oxford and other West-End halls immediately, where this successful Monte Carlo Co.'s publication will be her pièce de résistance for many months to come.

Maud and Sidney Wood, who are following in the footsteps of the older members of the Lloyd family, and presently visiting the States, will appear at the Euston Palace on Monday next, in their latest successful song-scena, "Tennis Courtship," specially written and composed for them by those ubiquitous writers, John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell.

Miss Carlotta Lunn will introduce next week at the Pavilion, Leicester, a new number entitled "Cheer up, Nobody's Girl."

Mr. Wilkie Bard's new song, "All Day," by Frank Leo, has caught on tremendously in town, being a really humorous idea wedded to a melody which is a compeer of the same talented writer's "Cowslip and the cow" and "O! O! O!" Not a little of the success of the item, which Messrs. Francis and Day have in the press, is due to the splendid orchestration supplied by Walter Johnson, the chef d'orchestre of the Tivoli, whose 'cello obbligato to the accompaniment has been greatly admired. Mr. Johnson, who possesses both experience and ability, has at this first-class theatre of varieties proved himself a man fully fitted for an onerous post.

On Monday evening last, the clever Russian acrobats, the Denwartz Troupe, consisting of two youths and three girls, were concluding a clever performance at the Palace Theatre, Bradford, when one of the daring youths fell head first on to the stage, sustaining in the fall a serious injury to his shoulder.

FEDERATIONS AND FUNDS.

Mr. William Berol, addressing a well-attended meeting on Wednesday at Blackpool, Mr. F. V. St. Clair (ex-committee V.A.F.) in the chair, explained the whole situation on the Continent, speaking very strongly regarding the conduct of some Continental managers, more especially as to their treatment of lady artists. The meeting passed a unanimous vote to support (financially if necessary) the I.A.L. in its struggle.

Mr. Berol addressed another meeting of the profession at Liverpool on Thursday. He said that German artists asked for better and more equitable clauses in their contracts than those now prevailing, which had proved very unfair. On the Continent an International Artists' Lodge had been founded, and although only a few years old had become a strong body, and was asserting itself. The managers had retaliated by establishing a league, and a boycott of those who belonged to the Lodge had commenced. Both sides were strong in numbers and finance, and probably the war would develop seriously. Their desire was to get British, American, and other artists to co-operate with them, to stand by them, and not to help the German managers in their policy of injustice. They should refuse to make contracts with those whom the artists were now opposing. Mr. Berol mentioned that during his fortnight's tour through England he hoped to gain the sympathy of all variety artists. The meeting enthusiastically passed a resolution strongly supporting, both morally and financially, the International Artists' Lodge in their struggle.

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, on Tuesday next at 4 p.m.

THE COLISEUM.

A welcome return is being made this week to the Coliseum by Mr. Albert Chevalier, the fine character actor appearing in the favourite old farcical sketch The Goose With the Golden Eggs as Mr. Turby, a part played by him some 200 times on his recital tours. The popular comedian is seen at his best as the somewhat eccentric and parsimonious old Turby, who, having a goose sent him by his sister, and not taking kindly to the bird, sends it on to an acquaintance in settlement of a bet. When he learns that the goose has been stuffed with £500 his dismay can be imagined, and his anxiety to get it back and the concluding episode, especially when it is, after all, discovered there is no wealth inside the carcase, were provocative of much hilarity. Mr. Chevalier embellished the part of Turby with many clever bits of by-play and much comic business; and able assistance was rendered him in the fun-making by Messrs. Harry Brett, Arthur Brankston, Bertie Baxter, and Miss Daisy Irvine. Mr. Chevalier also contributed his latest song, "The Workhouse Man," in which he appears as an aged inmate of the Union who evidently feels his position very keenly. The old man doesn't complain much, though; he is allowed to see his life partner occasionally, and talk over old times, and there's something to be thankful for in that. Those who are familiar with Mr. Chevalier's "My Old Dutch" can imagine what a vivid portrait he gives of the old inmate of "the house"—the faltering gait, the feeble voice, and the appearance generally of senility all being most skilfully indicated. The pathos and truth of the impersonation made a deep impression on the audience on the night of our visit, and the accomplished and versatile actor was recalled and loudly cheered at its conclusion.

Early in the programme much applause is lavished on that clever mimic of music hall favourites, Mr. George Newburn, very faithful reproductions being given of Mr. Mark Sheridan, Mr. George Lashwood, and Mr. Harry Tate and some of his assistants in Motoring, the last-named being a particularly popular selection. Mr. John Warren submits his clever and diverting conjuring show, concluding with the mystical and smartly-worked interlude, The Magic Carpet, assisted by a capable little company—a turn that gave evident appreciation; and the Donaldson Brothers and company presented a burlesque sketch, Sports in the Jungle, an elaborately staged and amusing trifle that was accorded the hearty welcome it deserved. Some of the loudest applause heard during the evening was evoked by the wonderfully expert wooden-shoe dancing of Milt Wood; Pip Powell and Katie Vesey present a laughable duologue A Perfect Woman; Cornalla and Eddie are droll and clever tumblers and jugglers; and the renowned juggler Mr. Walter Bellonini executes many difficult feats with all his old dexterity and neatness, his assistant, Wal, also contributing considerably to the success of a most attractive show. Mr. James Moran, Scotch humorist, creates merriment by his singing of "Bonnie Maggie Doon" and another number; the cultured vocalism of Mlle. De Lilo, a Parisian singer with a fine voice, is appreciated at its true worth, the lady being rewarded with lavish applause; and other popular items are contributed by Maxey and Pete, trick and comedy cyclists; Carrie Swain, American vocalist; the Sutcliffe Troupe, acrobats, pipers, and dancers, and the Bioscope.

"THE PROFESSOR'S SECRET."

Sketch, by Louie Dagmar, produced for the first time at the Ealing Hippodrome, on Monday, Aug. 3.

Professor Nathan Boronski..Mr. Leslie P. Paget
Julie Boronski ....Miss Margaret S. Fareleigh
Harold Carnaby .....Mr. Stephen Hards

The story of a new combustible is told in this gruesome playlet, which held the close attention of the audience on Monday evening, and obtained an instant and complete success. An effective scena has been invented for the presentation of the underground laboratory in which the action passes. Innumerable flagons of mysterious essences, sparkcoils, models of aerial machines, &c., adorn the subterranean den, the centre of which is occupied by a reverberatory furnace of a power hitherto unknown. It is the invention of a certain Nathan Boronski, who, by a combination of chemicals, has succeeded in producing a caloric whose power is claimed to transcend the electric-arc ten-fold. To secure possession of £1,000, which Harold Carnaby has promised him on certain conditions, Nathan Boronski has, using his beautiful daughter Julie as a bait, lured him to his underground den with the intention of first drugging and then murdering him. Harold arrives with the money, is invited to drink success to the new invention, is drugged, bound, and then searched. Julie, who has until now fallen in with the plans of her father, revolts on the discovery that Harold has treasured her portrait, and really loves her. Delirious with rage the old man seizes her, binds her, and tells her he will thrust her into the furnace, adding, by way of further torture, that he will so far revive Harold that he may witness her death agony ere he himself follows her into the horrible furnace. The piercing screams of Julie, as she is forced towards the fire, are heard without, the police rush in, and in mad despair at the failure of his plans, Nathan Boronski precipitates himself into the furnace and is instantly incinerated. Excellently staged and played by Wellesley and Deveyne's company, The Professor's Secret was enthusiastically received, and gave every promise of a successful run.

Mr. George Dance's sketch, The Local Amateurs, which was produced on Monday at the Palace, Ramsgate, proved another "bull's-eye." The audience shrieked with laughter, and the screaming but not vulgar situations were heartily enjoyed.

A CHAT WI' W. F. FRAME.

The noted Scottish comedian above named commenced his autumn tour with his concert party on Bank Holiday at Saltcoats. Frame is a very busy man, and someone has said of him, "He very rarely has a cold, as he never has time to catch it." Frame wears well, and seems to wage a perpetual war with Time. He has gone smiling and laughing his way through the world, a quip here, a jest there, and ever the cheery lilting song with the infectious melody which haunts you until you have mastered it. It is now over thirty years since Frame started the tours with which his name is associated, and in that time he has gone to and fro over the land singing and jesting himself into the hearts of thousands.

"I've visited every town and village of any note," said Frame, "from the North of England to the Orkney Islands, and in all the years I've met with nothing but kindness. I've had my disappointments; who hasn't? but I've put a stout heart tae a stey brae, and when I revisit a town I know I'm going amongst friends. Why, I meet people who remember me as far back as I remember myself, and often I am asked to sing a song which I've long forgotten."

"The ladies and gentlemen who comprise my concert company," he continued, "must be clean and clever, whatever be their branch of business, and I fancy that hitherto I've given my Scotch and English patrons every satisfaction in this respect. My programme for this tour, which opens to-night at Saltcoats, includes Mons. Argo, the great animal mimic; Burnetti, the quick-change musical man of many instruments; A. F. Hands, the American sand-dancer and club-swinger; Brull and Hemsley, in the skit Fun in a Music Shop; Belrose and De Velin, duettists, and my old freen, Jamie Booth, the musical conductor.

"Tell you about my songs? It's no easy job, I can assure you, for in my time I've sung hundreds. I have never forsaken the 'braid Scots' sang, and never shall, for I find that Scotchmen the wide world o'er delight in the mother tongue, and there is a quaint and convincing humour about the dialect which seems to strike home to the heart of every one. A favourite song of mine in the old days was "My nobby new white hat," and I sang that for a very long time. Another favourite was 'She danced like a fairy,' which went to a lilting tune, and was always the means of putting my listeners into a good humour. 'Jock Tamson's tripe,' sung to an old Scotch tune, is called for even yet, and 'The waddin' o' Dougald Macnab' was a great favourite. One of my most popular songs was undoubtedly 'Hielan Rory,' which captivated not only music-loving Scotland, but also England and the States. Next in popularity comes 'It's a braw, bricht munelicht nicht the nicht, hooch aye,' which was the rage of London for a long time, and served as the catch-word of a season. During this tour I'm going to sing 'Deoch-an-doruis, Donald Dhu,' 'She's a braw, braw lass,' and a female golfing song entitled 'I'm getting married.'"

Just then some of Frame's company came upon the scene, and the interviewer bade the famous Scotch comedian adieu.

"THE GOVERNOR'S NEPHEW."

A Comedy Sketch, by Herbert C. Sargent, produced at the Holborn Empire on Monday, Aug. 3.

Governor of Prison .....Mr. Cecil Frere
Joe .....Mr. Windham Guise
Jenny .....Miss Kate Carroll
Tozer .....Mr. Tim Ryley

This little piece has for its theme the frustrated escape of a convict from prison, and the eventual release of another convict, who is unwillingly made to share his efforts at running away. We find the Governor engaged in business in his room, and he receives news of the approaching arrival from India of a nephew whom he has not seen since childhood. On the Governor leaving his apartment, Joe, the terror of Whitechapel, climbs in at the window, and looks around for means of disguising himself. He is disturbed by the arrival of Tozer, a winkle merchant, who has been forced to escape with the other convicts who have broken prison. Tozer sees the telegram announcing the coming of the nephew from India, and proceeds to attire himself in some of that party's clothes which have been forwarded in a bag in advance. Then Joe emerges from the Governor's bedroom, where he has attempted to disguise himself in that official's uniform. Of course, some amusing play takes place between these two until they discover their mutual delinquency. Then Joe annexes Tozer's stolen garb, while the latter adorns himself in a suit of hunting clothes. The gallant behaviour of the purveyor of shellfish to the pretty servant-maid leads to the latter championing his cause. Eventually the Governor returns, and discovers the identity of the intruders into his room, and while Jim is re-consigned to the cells, a pardon arrives for Tozer, and the little scene closes with the announcing of the forthcoming wedding of the latter and the servant-maid.

Messrs. Windham Guise and Tim Ryley are two capable comedians, who extract the maximum of fun out of their respective pretensions to be the returning nephew; Mr. Cecil Frere is an austere-looking official; and Miss Kate Carroll is a lively and attractive maid. Altogether, the sketch goes with dash from start to finish.

Miss Margaret Ashton, whose engagements upon the Moss-Stoll tour were kindly postponed by Mr. Oswald Stoll on account of her recent illness, has been recuperating for some time past at the Royal Hotel, Weymouth. The charming American soprano returned to town this week, and was to be seen with a party of friends in the Members' Enclosure at Sandown Park on Monday last. She resumes her engagements next week at the Empire, Portsmouth.

THE OXFORD.

CRIMEAN AND MUTINY VETERANS' NIGHT.

Occasionally the British public realises the fact that it has some duty to perform towards the old veterans who have taken part in stirring deeds in their country's cause. Of course, a crowd or an audience will shout itself hoarse on the slightest provocation in honour of the hero of the moment. But—not, we firmly believe from any stinginess, but purely from want of consideration—when the shouting is over, the everyday needs of the heroes are apt to be forgotten. Now both the legitimate and the variety stage have done their part well in supporting every movement which has for its object the brightening of the declining days of old men of the services. In the variety profession Mr. George Leyton has taken what might almost be termed an aggressive interest in this good cause, for he has actually devoted not only the proceeds of the sale of his songs, but has also given much time, care, and attention to the actual relief of necessitous cases. On Friday, the 31st ult., there was a special performance at the Oxford, under the patronage of Lord Roberts, V.C., Lord Cheylesmore, and the Lord Mayor, in aid of the veterans of the Crimea and Indian Mutiny, one-half of the door receipts being given to the fund already in existence. There was a strong programme at the Oxford last week—Dorando, the moral winner of the Marathon Race proving a powerful attraction—so there was a very good house to encourage Mr. Leyton, who, assisted by Mr. Philip Nolan's choristers, appeared in his latest military scena, The Last Muster. In this he presented two effective pictures of Chelsea Hospital. To give just the necessary touch of realism there were present a number of old pensioners from the Royal Hospital, wearing their well-known uniforms, and an array of medals which spoke of participation in many a memorable struggle, either around the walls of the great Russian fortress, or on the sun-baked plains of India. The splendid band of the Blues contributed a series of selections in their own superb style, and the audience seemed perfectly willing to have prolonged their performances. During the evening copies of Mr. Leyton's songs were willingly purchased by the audience, as, apart from their intrinsic merits, the proceeds go entirely to the Crimean and Indian Mutiny veterans. It will astonish many people to learn the fact that by such sales a sum of upwards of £3,000 has already been raised, and applied to this splendid end. The other artists in the programme were Clark and Hayden, in musical duologue; Miss Isabelle Dillon, comedienne; Mr. Randolph King, the one-man programme; Mr. Walter Munroe, comedian; Miss Addie Dorina, in her protean production, How It Is Done; Mr. Fred Land, comedian; the Marquades, the Waltz Craze; Mr. T. E. Dunville, the funny man; My Fancy, in dancing scena; "Winter, Spring, and Summer"; Miss Dorothy L. Clark, vocal comedienne; Mr. Louis A. Simon, Miss Grace Gardner, and Co., presenting Miss Gardner's latest version of the farce, The New Coachman; Signor Dorando, the heroic Italian runner; Dale and O'Malley, comedians; Miss Aimée Roberts, comedienne; Chanti, in his quick-change act; Mr. G. H. Elliott; Emil Solbrig's Automatons; and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

The celebrated Pimple, principal comedian of Tom White's Arabs, who has successfully run the show for eight years "on his own," terminated yesterday nineteen years' faithful service with that troupe, with which he still remains connected.

Miss Louie Tinsley has written, in collaboration with Mr. Ivan P. Gore, a duologue sketch for herself and husband, Mr. Fred Knight, which will shortly be produced. It is entitled Betsy's Burgle, and the music has been arranged by Mr. Denham Harrison.

Miss May Vincent, described as a music-hall artist, of Gascoyne-road, South Hackney, was sued by the London Photographic Company at the Southwark County Court yesterday in respect of work done. The plaintiffs did not appear, but Miss Vincent, looking refreshingly cool in a light summer dress, told Judge Willis, K.C., all about the claim. She said that she explained to the plaintiffs how often unsatisfactory photographs had been taken for her, and that she would only agree to have photographs from them if the proofs were successful. "As a matter of fact they were most unsatisfactory," the lady added, indignantly; "and now they put in a claim for 17s. 6d. for work done." Judge Willis (smiling): You might bring an action for damages against them for not taking a proper portrait of you. (Laughter.) But it might be difficult to present you truly, you know (with an admiring glance at the lady). Miss Vincent (diffidently): Might I ask for costs, your Honour? Judge Willis: Yes, you shall, and a very pleasant afternoon to you wherever you are going. "Thank you very much indeed, sir," said the defendant, bowing gracefully to the judge as she left.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

The fairs ahead for next week are:—Denholme, on the Great Northern; Drypool (Hull), on the Great Central and North-Eastern; Eccleshill, on the Great Northern; Horncastle, on the Great Northern; Rawdon Feast; Silsden, on the Midland; Stockport, on the Great Central, Great Northern, London and North-Western, Midland, Great Western, and the Sheffield and Midland; Earlestown, on the London and North-Western; Mitcham, on the London, Brighton, and South Coast; Sowerby Bridge, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; York, on the Great Central, Great Northern, North-Eastern, London and North-Western, Great Eastern, and Midland; Brighouse, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Gildersome, on the Great Northern; Highworth, on the Great Western; Padiham, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Queensbury, on the Great Northern; Ashton-under-Lyne, on the Great Central, London and North-Western, and Lancashire and Yorkshire; and Oldham, Ashton, Guide Bridge; Astwood Bank, on the Midland; Droylesden, on the London and North-Western and Lancashire and Yorkshire; Glossop, on the Great Central; Lelant, on the Great Western; Mottram, on the Great Central; Rochdale, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Shaw, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Alloa, on the North British and Caledonian; Biggar, on the Caledonian; Hawick, on the North British; and Malpas, on the Great Western Railways.

Dartford Fair.

Mr. Robert Clasper, the lessee, set out the fair in capital order. In the centre of the ground were Forrest Brothers' Japanese airship, J. Manders' three-abreast galloping horses, T. Knighton's aeroplanes, C. Thurston's helter skelter tower, juvenile horses and motor-car sets by Messrs. S. Mayne, Manning, Harvey, and Stackwood, and park swings, highfliers, and overboats by Messrs. Clasper, Stenning, Pettigrove, and Mayne.

The cinematograph theatres were those of Messrs. W. Biddall, W. Payne, and Biddall Bros. These fine concerns stood in a line at the top side of the fair ground, and at night presented a brilliant picture with their thousands of electric lights. The other shows were W. Le Neve and Norah Sullivan's, the expert exponents of physical culture, T. Ridley's Variety Empire, Sol. Elliott's school of boxers, T. Knighton's fine art gallery, and Bacon's novelty booth.

Two sides of the fair ground were fully occupied with throwing games, novelty and penalty frames, shooting ranges, toy bazaars, variety stalls, pannam and sweet stalls, confetti stalls, and all the many adjuncts of a well-organised fair. These were provided by Messrs. Pettigrove, Reynolds, C. Bailey, R. Clasper, T. Knighton, W. Stenning, H. Peters, H. Peters, jun., T. Manning, J. Manning, S. Bolesworth, S. Mayne, J. Mayne, G. Harvey, G. Bond, R. Bond, Dalton, Holmes, Clark, Edwards, H. Smith, W. Manning, Bailey, and others.

Guild Meeting at Dartford Fair.

A special emergency meeting of the Showmen's Guild was held on Saturday morning, at twelve o'clock, in W. Biddall's show, the business being to take action against the Movable Dwellings Bill, and to consider the question of defending the fairs in the metropolitan district threatened by local governing bodies with extinction. Mr. Alf. Ball, V.P., was in the chair, and the principal speaker was the Rev. T. Horne, Guild Chaplain. Amongst the prominent showpeople were Biddall Bros., J. Manders, H. Forrest, R. Clasper, W. Payne, S. Bolesworth, S. Mayne, H. Peters, T. Manning, G. Harvey, R. Bond, C. Pettigrove, Mrs. Le Neve, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. W. Biddall, and Mrs. Clasper. There were also a number of amusement caterers and van-dwellers present whose names did not transpire.

Mr. Ball's Speech.

He had come, he said, to Dartford that morning, at considerable inconvenience to himself, in order to arouse his fellow-showmen in the London district to take immediate steps to defend their business and their home life, so seriously menaced by legislation now before the country. This legislation, as they knew, was being pressed upon Parliament by busy faddists and by local authorities anxious to obtain excessive and prohibitory powers against the show business and the showman's mode of life. It was for that meeting to protest against such restrictive powers being granted to corporations. He asked them to remember what it would mean to have their homes subjected to the invasion and the compulsory inspection of the officers of every town they visited. If such proposals became law then their liberty and security of life would be taken from them.

He asked them to rally to the support of the Guild, their trade society, that was engaged in the arduous fight for their trade and business rights, and for the protection of their homes on wheels from inquisitorial inspection or regulation. They resented being stigmatised and held up to public scorn as a class needing special legislation. They were already under the ample and necessary provisions of the ordinary laws of the land. All the law that was necessary for the whole community they found quite good enough for them. Special legislation would stigmatise them as a class separate and distinct from other people, and that was a disgrace they justly resented. (Great applause.) He concluded by calling upon the Rev. T. Horne to propose a resolution against the Movable Dwellings Bill.

The Guild Chaplain's Speech.

The Rev. T. Horne said that before submitting the resolution he held in hand he desired to explain why it was showmen and other amusement caterers following the fairs objected to such proposals as the Movable Dwellings Bill. He was especially anxious to make the claim for the showpeople that they do live, and always have lived, cleanly, moral, and law-abiding lives. It was not only a gross falsehood to say otherwise, but the bringing of such a charge against them was a dastardly attack upon them, for it involved the loss of their character in the esteem of the public, the very people amongst whom the showman had to live his life openly and seen of all men day by day.

He repudiated the base insult and the lying accusation that such proposals involved. (Cheers.) The show business and the domestic life of showpeople had grown with the growth of the nation. It had won its way and it had progressed like all other industries of the British races. Under the laws common to all classes in the Empire—industrially, socially, morally—the showman was just as other men. Specially drastic and inquisitorial legislation would rob him of his rights and liberties as a citizen of the Commonwealth. Why should the showman be penalised by unjust legislation? Why should he be laid under the stigma of being a menace to public health? Why should his home life be subjected to invidious scrutiny and placed under special penalties? These were questions they were justified in asking, and questions to which no adequate reply had as yet been given.

What the Bill would Mean to Them.

It would place their living-vans under the inspection, control, and registration of all the county authorities in the country. They would have to be inspected, licensed, and numbered. Every officer of every public authority would have the right of invading their homes under the pretence of satisfying himself that the conditions set out in the licence were being observed. ("Shame, shame.") This Bill, if passed in its present form, would destroy the privacy and the domestic security of their home life. It was local government run mad, and any attempt to impose such conditions on any other class of industrious and law-abiding people in the community would lead to rebellion.

Showpeople were already subject to the ordinary laws of health and sanitation. Every law applicable to a permanent dwelling applied to movable dwellings. To these laws they had complied. It was to their own comfort and to their own benefit so to do. It was also to their business advantage to always appear before their patrons and customers as free from reproach. Why, all his hearers knew the sound business value of that proposition. The bare suspicion of a risk to public health was enough to kill a fair. The rumour of it would empty a fair ground and utterly ruin its prospects. He protested against the Bill on this ground alone. It cast an unwarranted slur upon the trade and business of showmen and the habits of life in their homes.

Powers to Prohibit Fairs.

Clause 5 in the Bill gave county authorities power to prohibit fairs. The clause proposes that "where it appears to the registration authority that the encampment of occupiers of movable dwellings on any specified place or places within their area would be dangerous to public health, or constitute a nuisance to the neighbourhood, the registration authority may by bye-law prohibit such encampment on such specified place or places; and any person acting in contravention of any bye-law under this section shall be guilty of an offence under this Act."

It did not need much investigation to see, or much experience of the way in which local authorities strain their powers, to know that, with such powers as that clause indicated, corporations and county authorities would abolish fairs, without even asking the Home Secretary or considering the trading rights of the showpeople, or the holidays and pleasure fairs of the people. He protested against such extraordinary powers being given to local governing bodies, and he moved the following resolution:—

"That this meeting of showmen and fair-ground traders engaged at Dartford Fair protests against the Movable Dwellings Bill. We claim as lawful traders to be under and obedient to the ordinary laws of the realm. We deny that special inquisitorial and liberty-destroying legislation is needed for our trade and mode of life. If the promoters of the measure want to deal with and to penalise gipsy life, let them make their object clear in their Bill by exempting showmen and fair-ground traders from its proposed penalties and restrictions." The motion was seconded by Mr. J. Manders, supported by Mr. H. Forrest, and carried with acclamation.

Petition against the Bill.

The Rev. T. Horne read the petition against the Movable Dwellings Bill, now being signed so extensively at the British fairs. This was signed by those present at the gathering, and left for further signatures at the fair.

The Defence of London District Fairs.

The meeting then went into committee on the question of trade defence in the metropolitan district. The Rev. T. Horne, Mr. A. Ball, Mr. James Manders, Mr. H. Forrest, and other speakers referred to the various hindrances to the show business, both at the fairs and private venture amusement resorts. A most useful discussion took place, and the Guild officials were instructed to take all necessary steps to protect the interests of showpeople. Votes of thanks were given to the Rev. T. Horne, Mr. A. Ball for presiding, and Mr. W. Biddall for the use of his show for the meeting.

Subscriptions to London Fairs Defence Fund.

S. Bolesworth, £1; S. Mayne, £1; W. Stenning, £1; F. Bailey, £1; T. Knighton, £1; H. Peters, £1; H. Peters, jun., £1; Mrs. S. Edwards, £1; amount already acknowledged, £3.

The Alexandra Palace and Park.

The fair grounds are now in full swing. P. Collins's carousals and various appurtenances were doing a roaring trade on Monday, Bank Holiday. Two new camera obscuras have been erected near the East Front by Prof. Charles, who superintends the Punchinello exhibitions and other side shows in the Industrial Hall. The switchback railway commands an important site, and its exhilarating effects were duly appreciated. The shooting gallery in the corridor adjoining the theatre was largely patronised, as were also equally interesting billiard tables on entirely new principles by the inventor, Mr. J. R. Mally. Slipping the slip and the haunted swing were items which did much to empty the pockets of their patrons, and returned full value for the small sums expended. The Italian Gardens in summer beauty enticed many on their way to the renovated conservatory, where the zoological collection was never dull, for who could be tired of listening to the amusing reminiscences of the well-known lion-tamer, "Captain" Henry, the superintendent of that department. The Kinograph Company's bioscope display in the Londesborough Hall attracted large audiences, for which the clever and astute doorman, Mr. Day, was largely responsible. Another meritorious show was that held in the Bijou Theatre, the opposite side, viz., the "A. P. Cadets," whose musical entertainment was varied, humorous, and up to date. Judging by the appreciative audiences these artists have come to stay, and will entice many. Other features in the corridors were receiving such patronage as the frequenters of a Bank Holiday crowd are noted at the Alexandra Palace.

The White City, Old Trafford.

Another of the additional side shows is the Cabinet of Death, known as "La Mort."

Frank Burley gives his ride for life down the water chute on an ordinary bicycle into the lake, and also his daring dive of 60ft. into the lake, and claims to be the only man who does this double act.

He belongs to London, and is thirty-eight years of age. He first started the bicycle dive as one of Captain Paul Boyton's troupe in 1894. He became champion of England at the Royal Aquarium in 1895. He created the American record for head-first diving at Lagoon Park, Kentucky, of 103ft. 6in. into 8ft. of water, and beat Harry Magee, world's champion, at the World's Fair, Chicago.

As a most daring diver he has not escaped without several wounds. He has also done well among the well-known ports of Sweden and Norway, especially Stockholm, Gothenburg, Christiania, Copenhagen, &c.

Princess Trixie, the wonderful thinking horse, draws full houses every time.

The weather continues fine, and this week enormous crowds have kept all the shows and outdoor amusements busy.

THE PEOPLE'S FIGHT FOR MITCHAM FAIR.

The Home Secretary and the People's Rights.

The Rev. T. Horne visited the Home Office last week. He stated the case for the showmen re Mitcham Fair, and left for the consideration of the Home Secretary the whole of the correspondence between the Conservators and himself (in his capacity of official conciliator for the Mitcham Fair tenants), and explained the action taken by the Showmen's Guild to mediate in the matter, and the failure of the efforts made for a peaceful solution of the question.

The Home Secretary Refuses to Abolish Mitcham Fair.

The Guild Chaplain was told that the issues remained the same in the present year as in the years 1906-7. The Home Secretary saw no adequate reason to abolish the fair. When the question comes before him again he will consider the expressions of public opinion embodied in the resolutions of public bodies, public meetings, and petitions.

The Fair Remains.

Mitcham Fair will take place on the usual three days, Aug. 12, 13, and 14. Despite the efforts of the Conservators and the owners of the tollage rights to abolish the fair, or to prevent it taking place, shows, roundabouts, and other popular fair-ground amusements will be on exhibition in Mitcham. We wish it to be clearly understood that so long as Mitcham people desire a fair there will be one, whether it is held on the old Fair Green or on some convenient site. It may please the Conservators to think otherwise, but the fair will remain until the people of Mitcham declare for its abolition. It is the people's annual fair, and the Home Secretary will not abolish it without a strong expression of public opinion in favour of abolition.

What is the Present Position?

We assume that the Conservators and the owners of the fair franchise will do again what they did in the two previous years—this is, refuse to let sites on the Fair Green for the purposes of a fair. We also assume that showmen will attend for the purpose of holding the fair, and the same measures will be taken as in previous years—proceedings by injunction. Forty or more showmen will be added to the noble band of martyrs for fair rights. These men will obey the order of the Court, and next year will leave the field open for other passive resisters to the will of the would-be autocrats of Mitcham.

The Brief for the Showmen.

It will be well to state clearly how the showmen stand at the present moment. The action of the Showmen's Guild has been consistent and quite intelligent throughout, and its policy is set forth clearly in the annual report, published before the decision of the Conservators was known. It reads as follows:—

"No report of this year's work would be complete without a reference to the Mitcham Fair dispute. Carefully avoiding any reference of the questions at issue to the Law Courts, your committee have rendered every possible assistance to the showmen tenants of Mitcham Fair by organising a monster public petition against the abolition of the fair, and presenting it to the Home Secretary, by organising and conducting public meetings in Mitcham itself, and by advising the showmen tenants to keep well within the authority of the charter governing the fair, by scrupulously observing peaceful methods and by negotiating with the Board of Conservators, by petitioning the local governing bodies interested, and by endeavouring to bring about a reasonable compromise, in advocating the removal of the fair from its present congested site to a larger and better ground on Mitcham Common. The action of the Guild Executive in this important matter has been throughout of a pacific and advisory character, and your committee have been careful at all times to differentiate between the appeal to public sympathy and any reference of the matter to the arbitrament of the Law Courts."

The Guild Executive has all along abstained from giving either sanction or support to legal action, or to any attempt to test the powers claimed by the Conservators under their private Act of Parliament obtained in 1891. They do dispute the justice of the claim to ignore the rights of the tenants and traders of the fair. They still further resent the closing of a fair by private Act of Parliament and not by the more just means of the Abolition of Fairs Act, under which both people and traders have a right to be heard in opposition to the proposal to deprive them of rights and privileges long time enjoyed.

What the Guild has Done and will Continue to Do.

It will defend by all proper and constitutional means the great industry and the growing enterprise of the fair-ground. It will put the claim of the showman for full citizenship before the justice-loving public. It will vindicate the character and the work of the showman in the national life, and will show to all men that the showman has a true place in the social evolution and the well-being of the Empire.

It will rouse the general public, and instruct the conscience of the nation in the necessary and all-important work of preserving the local holidays of the working-classes, and encourage every movement for the betterment and the uplifting of the open-air pleasures and amusements of the toiling masses of the country. To understand the work of the Guild, these are ideals that must be borne in mind. With regard to Mitcham, there is one point clear: if the fair is to be saved it must be done by the people themselves. For the showmen tenants, and, of course, in serving them, for the good of the show-loving public, the executive officials of the Guild have worked hard, and have spared neither time nor money in the struggle.

What will Mitcham Do?

Let the situation be properly faced. Where does Mitcham stand to-day on this, to them, important question? What pressure of public opinion is to be exercised by the people of the town over the Conservators?

The showmen know exactly where they stand. Forty-eight showmen have perpetual injunctions out against them; they—the forty-eight—dare not and will not venture on the fair-ground again. The Conservators claim the right to let, or to refuse to let, sites on the Fair Green at fair-time—that is their claim. They want to narrow the issues down to one issue—"to let or not to let" ground for the people's fair. Showmen refuse to follow them in the legal maze of that claim—that is not the real issue. The issue is, Shall the people of Mitcham have and hold their fair as their fathers did before them, or shall it be taken from them by the arbitrary action of a small body of men who object to the popular amusements of the vast body of the people?

It is easy for the Conservators to issue a notice "that no sites will be let on the Fair Green." But that is not the real question. The question is the one behind that refusal—the practical denial of the right of Mitcham to use the Fair Green or any other portion of Mitcham Common for the people's fair. The power of the Conservators to abolish Mitcham Fair at their own will is, in all justice, a proper question for the people of Mitcham. What will their answer be, and what action will the people take whose fair and local holiday is being taken away? That, we confidently anticipate, will not be left uncertain for very long. We look forward, with every hope and confidence, that the people will rise in their sovereign majesty, and the would-be dictators of Mitcham will find that justice and fairplay will triumph over all high-handed interference with the rights of the people.

LONDON'S GREAT HOLIDAY FAIRS.

In the year 1874 Frost, the author of that interesting book, "The Old Showmen and the Old London Fairs," ventured to prophesy the total extinction of pleasure fairs. "Fairs," he said, "are becoming extinct, because, with the progress of the nation they have ceased to possess any value in its social economy, either as marts of trade or as a means of popular amusement." He finishes his book with these words: "What need, then, of fairs and shows? The nation has outgrown them, and fairs are as dead as the generations which they have delighted, and the last showman will soon be as great a curiosity as the dodo."

It will be news to the 70,000 showmen of 1908 to know that their one and only historian in 1874 was a prophet of evil; that just before the invention of the steam roundabout, responsible and sympathetic writers like Thomas Frost—whose words we have quoted—looked upon the travelling showpeople as a doomed race, rapidly dying out.

Pleasure Fairs a Growing Necessity of Life.

The writers of 1874 had before them the object-lesson of great provincial cities like Manchester, Birmingham, Leeds, and Liverpool, following the bad lead of London in abolishing their corporation-controlled fairs. Local government was beginning to exercise its almost absolute powers to curtail the old customs, holidays, and amusements of the people. Showmen were regarded as non-producers, living on the hard-won pence of foolish people, who would be better at work for their masters than spending their earnings at the fair. That was the economic doctrine of 1874. In order to teach it properly and effectively, the City strained their powers, and fairs of great historic importance were killed by the corporations of our great towns and cities.

"All Work and No Play."—Economic Heresy.

The economists of "the deadly dull school of thought" forgot the two main factors in the crusade against the open-air pleasures of the English people—they forgot the showmen, and they forgot the people. Persecuted men live long lives. The showman, driven out of the centre of the town pitched his tent in the suburbs. The people followed the fair. Wherever the shows went there the people gathered. Nay, the very persecution of the showman excited popular sympathy, and the English spirit of independence led the workers to resent, silently it may have been, yet none the less effectively, the interference of the employers with the holidays and amusements of the workers. The end of the struggle as we see and know it to-day is the triumph of the people, and the full vindication of the showman.

The L.C.C. and the People's Fairs.

Amongst the first of the great local governing bodies to recognise the importance of providing for and controlling wisely and well the open-air amusements of the people was the London County Council. We visited the pleasure fairs of London on Bank Holiday Monday. We saw the London workers at play. We noted the marvellous capacity of the average Londoner to enjoy himself, and to help others to like pleasure. The vast majority of the great crowds at Hampstead, Blackheath, Wormwood Scrubs, and Wanstead Flats were in family groups; this is undoubtedly a great social and economic feature. No other kind of amusement for the workers gives this inducement of the family life. It is not individual, but associated pleasure; all the members of the family have their share in it; it is the triumph of the bassinette and the wheeled chair "pram." When the children were on the roundabout father and mother enjoyed the fun of seeing their little ones in the ecstasy of new joys. This and many other evidences of the real value of a fair came under our observation as we watched the people at play.

The parks and the open commons are sometimes called the "lungs of London," but they are more than "lungs," they are, in a real sense, the theatre of the common life.

The Fair at Hampstead Heath.

"From the Strand to the Heath in Twenty Minutes," that is how the Tube railway has annihilated time and space. The dusty pavements of the heart of London may be exchanged for the greensward of Hampstead and Golder's Green. Life and merriment, fun and frolic, for all alike—one hundred thousand people enjoyed it to the full. The People's Fair on the glorious carpet of the breezy Heath—the great pageant of London at play—was in the making as we traversed "the Horseshoe Walk," and made the grand promenade of the fair. Here were youth and beauty from all parts of North-West London, "Harry and Harriet," "Jarge and 'Liza," bursting with the joy of life. Here at last the glorious time so long anticipated, so laboriously prepared—weeks of wonderful self-denial to end in the fulness of one glorious day, brimming over with delight and happiness.

There were also, and equally happy in their mood of life, other types of character—young men and maidens who never—never except at Hampstead—forget the restraints of the position they hold in the City. The student of human life can find at Bank Holiday time at Hampstead the answer to many of the problems of town life. You do not know your London until you have seen this mixing of the classes and the masses on the open playground of the fair at Hampstead Heath.

The Popular Amusements of the People.

There are three great centres of showlife on the Heath. The first, known as "the Entrance Avenue," stretches from the village right across the Heath. Here were evidences of the careful provision of the London County Council for the necessities of the vast crowds using the fair—municipal control in its best and highest sense—ambulance tents, horse ambulance vans, fire preventive and rescue appliances. Here, too, were temperance refreshment tents, able to deal with big crowds. Following these necessary adjuncts of a properly-ordered fair were scores of coker-sheets and throwing games, novelty stalls, shooting ranges, bazaars, juvenile roundabouts, gem and park swings, and side shows. These were provided by the following capable amusement caterers: Messrs. Forrest Bros., Wilson, Bolesworth Brothers, Ellcott, Burgess, Mayne, Simpson, Birch, Edwards, Peters, Bibby, Shaw, Rowe, White, and scores of others.

The Vale of Health Fairground.

The second great showground was the well-known amusement resort, "the Vale of Health." This is one of the permanent features of the Heath, yet it never fails to obtain its full share of public patronage at holiday times. Mr. Harry Cox provided the principal amusements at this popular centre of the fair—a very fine set of galloping horses, three sets of park swings, and the big wheel overboats. On the open Heath in the Vale were other amusements of a most attractive kind.

The Battery Fairground.

There were three avenues of stalls, throwing games, shooting ranges, sideshows, and riding machines. The principal shows on the Heath were Biddall Bros.' electric cinematograph theatre, and Le Neve and Norah Sullivan's athletes. The smaller shows were those of Messrs. Elliott and Goldsmith.

Wormwood Scrubs Fair.

This popular resort at holiday time drew its tens of thousands of pleasure seekers. A real open-air carnival for the people of South-West London. The shows, roundabouts, and other amusements were provided by W. Beach, who exhibited galloping horses, racing birds, shooting gallery, aerial flight, and other attractions; J. Chittock, with his well-known theatre of animated photography; J. Buckley, with trained animal show; W. Wilson, with electric motor-cars; G. Bond, with juvenile motor-set; Taylor, with gem roundabouts; and a great crowd of other caterers with throwing games, variety stalls, and novelty frames.

Blackheath Fairground.

Unlike the other two popular fairs under L.C.C. control, Blackheath was set out in one long avenue of fairground novelties and stalls, stretching for half a mile on either side of the great central roadway of the Heath. The principal concerns here were W. Wilson's Electric Coliseum, Arnett's ghost illusion show, S. Forrest's Japanese airship, W. Wilson's steam roundabouts, C. Thurston's helter-skelter tower, Wilson's overboats, T. Knighton's amusements, R. Clasper's swings and games, Brown's railway sensation, and coker-sheets, novelty and penalty frames by Messrs. Baker, Irving, Holding, Cain, Pickard, Saunders, Serle Bros., Campbell, Beach, and many others.

Wanstead Flats Fair.

This fair was attended by vast crowds of the workers of East London. The principal concerns were those of Ball and Son, with New Lyceum of Living Pictures; H. Thurston and Sons, with their immense variety of machine and other novelties; Moore Bros., with swings, throwing games; and Bolesworth, with similar concerns.

There were also in attendance many other amusement caterers, with the usual minor novelties and side shows.

Hanley Wakes.

Notwithstanding strenuous opposition by a few cranks on the council, this great fair is still held in the centre of the town, and attracts many thousands from the outlying densely-populated areas. Our representative passed round the show, visiting Mr. Pat Collins's No. 1 Wonderland, with its marvellously devised exits and fine organ. Dave Godfrey was giving a clever sleight-of-hand show. The pictures seen were Billy's Saw, Brigands of Calabria, Up-to-date Removal, and The Inexhaustible Barrel, and The Marathon Race.

Mr. P. Collins also had the cake-walk machine, a large steam yacht, No. 1 and No. 2 motors; Mr. Wm. Davies had two lots of racing-horses, two Atlantic liners, and a set of juveniles; H. Hughes's boxing saloon was doing well, as was Shaw's fine art exhibition; Marsden, Wright, Hughes, and Martin were persuading people to shoot; James Connor and Johnny Cordwell, jun., were doing good business with sallies and rings; and Professors Ellis and Semio obtained many purchasers. There were all and sundry other kinds of shows and stalls, &c., and the wake was favoured with beautifully fine weather.

Swinton Feast.

Under the direction of Messrs. Tuby and Sons an excellent fair was held in this pretty Yorkshire town. The well-known attractions of the Doncaster firm were in attendance, and these included the New Coliseum of animated pictures and varieties and the four-abreast galloping horses. T. Wortley had his two shows on exhibition, the fine art academy and the colliery model. There were also swings and highfliers by Pullan, Silverwood, and Percival; shooters, bottle batteries, throwing games, variety stalls, and other attractions, by Messrs. Campfield, Smith, Shaw, Percival, West, Roland, and other caterers. From the same circuit we have news of Tuby's motors and swings being at Exthorpe and Bloom's variety theatre at Mexborough.

Terry and Lambert's new version of English types through American eyes has made quite a sensation at the Empire, Middlesbrough, some of the latest Yankeeisms by Miss Lambert scoring amazingly. Terry and Lambert recently arrived from America after six months' continuous triumph in that country.

FILM GOSSIP.

Showmen and Managers throughout the United Kingdom, and in every English-speaking country, will find in this column particulars of some of the best and newest Films in the Market. Many of these Films we have seen ourselves, and can confidently recommend showmen to add them to their list of attractions.

Pathé Frères.

PIERRETTE'S TALISMAN.—In this we get several clever trick scenes. Pierrot, faithless and clumsy lover that he is, has left an incriminating paper in the pocket of his clothes. This Pierrette finds, and, weeping, gets up and leaves him in the middle of the night and runs out into the cold. She lays down on the trunk of an old tree, and goes to sleep. The good fairy, always so obliging in these matters, comes to her and gives her a talisman, by means of which she can, if she is fairly good, do and have anything she wishes for. What will she not have! First of all, a sedan chair, from which steps an old, well-worn courtier, but by the aid of a little puppet he is soon replaced by a delightful young marquis. All the young swells become enamoured of the pretty girl, who, being now magnificently dressed and with fine jewels, turns the heads of these young gentlemen. A duel takes place, the marquis is killed, and Pierrette accepts the attentions of the victor. Pierrette has now tasted all the pleasures and joys of life, but not yet the delight of seeing Pierrot paid out for his faithlessness, so she makes him see how she is enjoying herself, and how she is made love to by all, just to make him jealous. But this time she has gone too far, and she wakes up with a start to find herself still in the snow. She is neither cruel nor unkind, and it is only in a dream that she has tried to punish Pierrot so severely for his unfaithfulness. All's well that ends well, and one moonlight night we find Pierrot and Pierrette as much in love with each other as ever, in spite of the fact that six little Pierrots have appeared on the scene.

A RUNAWAY MOTHER-IN-LAW.—Mothers-in-law are not supposed to be always on the best of terms with their sons-in-law, but the one in this picture is so unselfish that she undertakes to remove his furniture, and takes the place of the horse in the shafts. This self-denial of hers is badly repaid, however, for, having to go down a sloping street, the poor lady cannot withstand the weight of the carriage, which drags her down and all the furniture with her, making her graze everybody and everything on her way, until she lands in the pool at the end of the village, where she takes a free bath; whereas her son-in-law, delighted at seeing her in such a plight, makes a show of doing his best to help her out.

ON BAD TERMS WITH THEIR HOUSE PORTERS.—A married couple have had the good luck to be on good terms with these officials, but their wish to have a dog is the beginning of war between the two families. The picture of the accidents and misadventures of the tenants harried by the porters is one of the most comical, ending in the removal of the couple and their dog to a quieter abode.

THE MYSTERY OF THE MOUNTAIN is a dramatic and realistic film. The masked man, invisible and unseizable, whose presence in the neighbourhood makes itself known by the horrible murders he perpetrates from time to time, for the bodies of his strangled and stabbed victims are found in the morning, has become such a terror that all the men in the village go on a beat. Their amazement is great, however, when they discover that the culprit is the forester himself, the man to whom has been entrusted the safety of the village and woods.

THE HAUNTED CASTLE.—The peasants in Brittany know a dreadful tale, which they whisper to one another at night; a story that makes one's hair stand on end, which we will relate below as the plot of a very interesting film. During clear nights, the Squire of Badnews used to walk about his castle wrapped in the moonlight, looking like an unearthly being. One night Sir Baldhead and his page Odin, who happened to be on the moor, saw the ghost, and as they were gallant cavaliers, they assaulted the haunted castle, broke in the door, and entered the old buildings, where they became the sports of all sorts of amazing and unheard-of delusions. In one part of his large castle the Squire of Badnews had been holding sequestered for years a noble and titled lady whom he wished to marry against her will. After a series of extraordinary incidents, which ended in the release of the lady, Sir Baldhead was lucky enough to be given her hand and heart for his reward, and so the story ends well, after all.

Charles Urban Trading Co., Ltd.

QUEBEC TO NIAGARA.—Previous series have dealt with the majesty and sublimity of the great Falls of Niagara, but the noble river into which the waters are hurled has never before been kinematographically depicted from its mouth to the head of the Falls. Beginning with the City of Quebec, a tour is made of the principal streets, with their public buildings and markets. Next is given a deeply interesting panorama of the river front and Alexandra Bay. The ever-restless Lachine Rapids follow, a most fascinating scene of foaming waters rushing through their rocky channels to the Atlantic. By a small steamer, the Island Wanderer, the audience is next taken on a Fifty Miles' Ramble amongst the Thousand Islands dotting the river in beautiful and charmingly irregular sequence. This most romantic journey is an ideal one, even for the experienced traveller.

THE principal islands, verdure-covered and laid out with exquisite taste, form the palatial homes of many of the millionaires and merchant princes of the United States. Built in every conceivable style of architecture, these mansions rear their pinnacles, domes, and spires above the trees amidst which they nestle, and charming close views are afforded as the little vessel negotiates the various coves and inlets of these isolated beauty spots. A pause is made at the Thousand Island Park Landing to permit a view of the liner New York of the Richelieu-Ontario Line, on its journey from Toronto to Montreal. The journey is then resumed, amid most picturesque scenery of islands and umbrageous banks, until the great Niagara Falls are approached. First the busy little Customs boat is seen on its inquisitive and often unwelcome errand; then a view is afforded of the great Power House, which generates electricity for lighting the distant City of Buffalo—a triumph of engineering genius. The Rapids below the Falls are next seen, the waters boiling in fretful resentment of the imprisoning walls on either side; and finally the Falls in their full glory burst upon the delighted gaze.

THESE are viewed from aspects innumerable, and though each picture differs from its fellows, all the scenes are grand and impressive in their majestic beauty. In their order appear the Horseshoe Fall, the American Fall, Grand View of the Rapids from the Brink, Goat Island, Moonlight View of the Falls from Below, with the spray and mist rising to a great height in dense and picturesque clouds, Distant View of the Main Fall, Close View of the Bridal Veil Fall, a very close picture of the waters rushing in immense volume over the brink, the Cantilever and Railway Bridges Spanning the River and Connecting the United States with Canada, the Rapids below the Falls, and the Whirlpool from the American Side. For variety, grandeur, romance, picturesque loveliness, Nature defying science on the one hand and coquetting with human ingenuity and enterprise on the other, this original travel series is unsurpassed, and has few equals.

THE LIGHTNING POSTCARD ARTIST. — Unusually vivid, engrossing, and comic pictures are rapidly drawn upon postcards without apparent human agency. The pencil moves mysteriously, and a penknife sharpens the point in full view of the audience, no hand controlling either instrument. Lively and entertaining results follow, and another series is added to the long list of unique "magical" productions for which this company is famous. It is a delightfully whimsical subject of genuine humour, magic, mystery, and original treatment.

Gaumont Company.

THE Gaumont Co., of Chrono House, Sherwood-street, London, have just received a cabled advice from Mr. Frank Lascelles, the master of the Quebec pageant, stating that a special command has been received from the Prince of Wales for a cinematograph record of the scenes of pageantry at the 300th anniversary birthday of Canada, which have just taken place on the Abrahams Heights, Quebec.

THE Gaumont Co. had already received the exclusive rights for cinematographing this gorgeous historic display, and had arranged for the exhibition of same at all the principal theatres in Great Britain, but the Prince of Wales especially interested himself in the matter, and commanded that no detail of the event should be left unrecorded. The work was therefore entirely taken in hand by Messrs. Gaumont, who sent out special operators direct from London. The Gaumont Co. were the only cinematograph firm on the scene, and an honour has been accorded them by this special Royal command.

The Salomé Dance.

WALTER TYLER, LTD., have secured an interesting film of the Salomé dance, as performed by a highly-talented artist. The film, which is of Messrs. Tyler's own taking, is of photographic quality which promises well for the firm's subjects when they commence manufacturing on a large scale, as we believe they purpose immediately. The dance opens by Salomé, clad in the customary light costume and ornamental headpiece, walking down the steps at the back of the stage. She comes slowly forward, waving her arms in the graceful manner which Miss Maud Allan has rendered famous, then begins dancing, and at last, falling fatigued to the ground, sees the head of John the Baptist, recoils in surprise, then is overcome with joy, and dances joyously round the head and kisses it. Then, however, she is overcome with horror at the blood, and, throwing the head away, herself falls in a swoon. This subject should certainly be a success, considering the vogue of the dance which it represents, and its success will certainly be assisted by the manner in which Messrs. Tyler have set and produced it.

URBANORA AT THE PALACE.

Even a Palace audience, accustomed as it is to the perpetual feast of good things provided by Mr. Butt, would be guilty of hypercriticism if it could find the least fault with the Urbanora programme presented for the first time on Bank Holiday, after its transfer from the Alhambra on the expiration of its eighth consecutive year of display. The Charles Urban Company lives fully up to its reputation, and has this week at the Palace excelled its past brilliant records in variety of subject, originality of conception, photographic excellence, and thorough grasp of the requirements of the audience. Not only does the display prove of general interest, but each section appeals particularly to a particular class.

The Marathon Race, with its dramatic finish, is depicted with a wealth of detail from the start by Royal hand at Windsor Castle, past various points of vantage en route, to the arrival of Dorando, Hayes, and Hefferon at the Stadium. The Grand Prix motor race on the Dieppe circuit, by reason of the spills, thrills, speed, and dangerous curves, holds the audience in breathless fascination. The picturesque Downs, paddock, enclosure, course, and fashionable crowds at Goodwood, with the race for the Gold Cup, acclamation of the winner, and weighing-in episodes, have always a peculiar charm, but this year the advance made by Urbanora in the kinematographic art secures the presentation of the views in greater perfection than ever before. Olympia-at-Hanley, which follows, is a brilliant presentation of what is regarded as an historic river event. The lawns, houseboats, punts, and the well-dressed people lining both banks form an admirable setting for the spirited struggles of the wet bobs, and Leander is well depicted as showing the way to the Belgian crew from start to finish.

Next come the always-welcome—and, in this case, more-than-ever fascinating—studies of the Kearton Brothers of Wild Birds in Their Haunts. These nature lovers, who were long ago admitted to the freedom of the feathered community, seem able to work their own sweet photographic wills with birds of every degree. Wonderful confidence between them is firmly established, both mother and baby birds feeding from the hand of one brother while that of the other Kearton turns the handle of the camera. A well-thought-out programme is concluded by a marvellous film of the magical variety, quaint, whimsical, clever, and intensely amusing, entitled The Lightning Post-Card Artist. In rapid movement comic pictures are drawn, apparently without human aid, upon post-cards. Puppet forms move in comical fashion, a penknife sharpens a pencil, a wooden hobby horse throws its equally wooden rider, and a coal black negress changes colour, first to stolid white loveliness, then to that of a vivacious brunette, and finally at a critical moment back to the original, to the discomfiture of a male admirer.

We predict for Urbanora at the Palace an engagement which will, at any rate, equal in length and popularity that just terminated at the Alhambra. Mr. Urban thoroughly understands his business; in fact, what to the manager of a theatre is simply a star turn is to him the study of a lifetime. Failure of that to which he puts his hand is impossible, and, knowing his public and their tastes, with the facilities he enjoys, he is both capable and confident of satisfying the kinematographic demands of the most fastidious audience in the world.

Harry Banford's Accident.

MR. BANFORD sends us the following interesting letter:—

"Dear Sir,—I regret to inform you that I am still unable to resume work. For thirteen years past I have never missed Mitcham Fair, and this enforced absence from the show front will be a great disappointment to me. I thank Mr. T. S. Whiting, of Oxford, and my many other friends for their letters of good cheer and comradeship. I had a pleasing adventure the other day. I drove to Wanstead Flats just to see the fair and the dear show. It was indeed a tonic to me. Mr. and Mrs. Ball were, as usual, all kindness and good fellowship. I returned to my rooms at Tilbury Docks all the better for my jaunt to the fair."

MISS LOUIE PEACH will be at the Palace, Reading, next week, with her sketch, Taming a Husband. She will be assisted by Mr. Nelson Watts-Phillips and Mr. W. T. Blount.

In sound-boxes the stylus bar is sensitively and securely hinged in two brackets on the sound-box, and has an arm depending between two springs actuated by hollow nuts in two other brackets on the sound-box, which carries at its back two brackets (u, Fig. 2), each having a centre-screw (w), holding the flange of a tube (v), and securing a rubber washer (t) in an annular groove (s). The tube (v) carries a pin (1) which is secured by a spring (2) and a cap (5), or by a rubber ring, and engages two holes in the tone-arm connected by a groove, thus locking the sound-box in the two positions for playing or needle-changing. The circular or partly-circular stylus bar (c) works in a doubly countersunk hole in the brackets (b, Fig. 1), and has an arm (f) with one or two springs (k) set in hollow nuts (h, Fig. 2), which adjust the sensitiveness of the stylus or the tension of the diaphragm. According to the provisional specification, the damping springs may be used without the nuts, but fixed to the stylus bar and brackets. The back of the sound-box may be formed in two parts (6, 7, Fig. 5), so that the centre part (7), which is nearly equal to the diameter of the diaphragm, may be screwed or pushed in, and held at any distance to allow variation of the air-space between the diaphragm and the back of the sound-box.

4,798.—Programmes. Wertheim, J., of London.

A programme is utilised as an advertising medium and as a fan. In Fig. 1, the blank is formed with two approximately rectangular portions (a, b) connected by a narrow piece (c) and provided with a folding flap or flaps (a1, a2, and b1, b2). The upper portion of the central part (a3) is left blank for the application of a separately printed programme slip, a space above this having the name of the theatre, &c., upon it. The portion b3 is provided with a similar programme slip, the remainder of the space on both the central portions and the flaps being occupied by advertisements. To facilitate folding, the blank may be cut away at the parts a4, b4. By constructing the programme of card, &c., a firm handle is obtained for the fan when in the extended position, as shown in Fig. 7. The fan may be formed of honeycomb paper or by zigzag folding, and may be applied to a pamphlet, catalogue, or like publication.

4,507.—Gramophones. Landon, J. M., of London.

A flat spring (d) has one edge fixed to the shell (a) of a sound-box, and is parallel with the stylus bar (b) and the diaphragm, the other edge over which the stylus bar is connected being left free to move. A screw (h) is provided to adjust the tension of the diaphragm.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

INTERNATIONAL ARTISTS' LODGE.

Under the auspices of this body a well-attended meeting of variety artists was held in the Hotel Provence on Sunday night. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. Robert Steidl, Mr. Charles Coborn took the chair, and briefly introduced Mr. William Berol, who has specially travelled from Berlin to this country for the purpose of clearly laying before British artists the reasons which have led to the boycotting of five variety theatres in the Rhineland.

MR. BEROL said that on behalf of the I.A.L. he had to express his high appreciation of the reception he had met with in this country. He had expected to see the meeting that night principally composed of his fellow Continental artists, but was more than pleased at the presence of such a number of representative British artists. The matter which was most interesting and most dangerous to British artists entering into contracts with Continental managers was the correct interpretation to be placed on such contracts. There were now few contracts in existence similar in terms to those of eight years ago. Then any cause for cancellation barred the performer from all halls. Managers had bitterly resented the introduction of free contracts, preferring instead "slaves' contracts." To such iniquitous contracts the I.A.L. owed its origin, and its seven years of hard work had borne good fruit in many directions. It had struggled to place clearly before artists the real meaning of many of the clauses in the contracts, which in their ignorance artists were too ready to sign, only to find when it was too late that they were subjected to some utterly inequitable restraint. There could be no provision more harsh or unjust than the "three days' cancellation clause," which placed the performer absolutely at the mercy of the unscrupulous manager. As distinguished from England, Continental engagements were by the month instead of the week, and this involved a variation according to the exact length of the month, and in Germany "days of repentance" were also legally struck out. A provision, Mr. Berol continued, which must seem perfectly astonishing to his English hearers, was that the transference or sub-letting of a theatre voided all contracts. This, of course, enabled a manager, if he wished to disencumber himself of any artist or body of artists, simply to effect a transference to some dummy, and then, ipso facto, the contracts lapsed. Again, occasions of public mourning were made the grounds for cancellation. Thus in 1888 the deaths within about three months of two Emperors led to complete disorganisation in the engagements of artists in Germany. Many engagements were entered into, not with the object of securing the actual appearance of artists, but with a view of precluding their engagement in opposition houses. A most irritating and dangerous stipulation, of which nefarious advantage could easily be taken, was that any infraction of the "rules of the house" was a ground for immediate cancellation. Such rules were usually quite amorphous and indeterminate, and were very often concocted to suit the exigencies of the moment. As an instance of this Mr. Berol related how a lady had been engaged to perform at a Continental house. On her arrival the manager wished to break the contract, but naturally the performer refused. For three nights she did her turn evidently to the satisfaction of the audiences. On the fourth night, expecting her turn to be, as on the other nights, far on in the evening, she lingered with a friend over dinner, and when she presented herself at the theatre was informed that she was to have appeared early in the evening, and as she was not there her contract was cancelled. In addition to the arbitrary injustice of such cancellations of contracts, loss of travelling expenses was incurred, and the managers retained the right to the payment of damages. While the leading artists could, of course, refuse to accept all such contracts, their smaller brethren had no alternative, and the I.A.L. strongly urged the united action of all members of the profession. During their seven years' existence they had secured the abolition of the payment of 4 per cent. on all salaries to the authorities in Bremen, and they were now combating the active opposition of Mr. Gluck, the president of the Managers' Association. While they were at present engaged in an active contest with the managers of five halls in the Rhineland, they made no appeal that contracts should be broken. Their policy was to bring about the introduction of contracts of a different kind, and with a view of being in a position of bringing matters before the notice of the shareholders the Lodge had purchased shares in a number of halls. These, Mr. Berol concluded, were the facts and policy of the I.A.L., and he made a strong appeal to British artists to give them both financial assistance and active personal co-operation.

Mr. C. C. BERTRAM pointed out that the artist's life on the Continent was a pleasant one. The climate was usually delightful, engagements were for a month at least, and the life generally was an agreeable one. But all these advantages ought to be accompanied by equitable contracts whose clauses could not be abused. At present many of these contracts were nothing more than options which the managers could refuse if they felt inclined. As the I.A.L. was by law only allowed to utilise its funds in the assistance of its own members, it was now trying to raise another fund which should be for the benefit of outsiders.

Mr. GEORGE GRAY remarked that he had heard with amazement some of the clauses which were included in Continental contracts. Stringent as many contracts might be on this side of the Channel, England was yet a paradise compared with the Continent. But Mr. Gray strongly deprecated any such aggressive action as strikes, and urged the adoption of diplomatic methods in the struggle for freedom and justice, and moved a resolution that "This meeting wishes to extend its sympathy, and pledges its unstinted support to the International Artists' Lodge in its endeavour to obtain a fair and equitable contract."

Mr. Walter Hast seconded, and Mr. Delbose, Mr. Edward Clark, and others having joined in the discussion, the resolution was unanimously carried. A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the meeting.

Notes from Scotland.

LORD GEORGE SANGER'S Hippodrome paid a highly-successful visit to Leven last Monday, the matinée being well patronised, while the evening performance was witnessed by an appreciative audience of quite 7,000. The outspanning of this great city on wheels attracted numbers of spectators on Sunday. Stately elephants and contemplative camels quietly moving about in their allotted sphere on the links, had quite a following.

THE entertainment was altogether praiseworthy. "Dick Turpin's Ride to York," of course, was a popular item. Perhaps the most graceful turn in the lengthy programme was Miss Lina's "haute école" act, with her fine thoroughbred Hawcombe." Some excellent horsemanship was exhibited, the elephants were amusing, the acrobats were clever and daring, the clowning was specially good. There was no waiting between turns, and the show went with a snap from start to finish.

A NEW arrival at the Tivoli is Clarissa Talbot and Charles Pearce in their delightful Japanese sketch Yo San. Alexandra Dagmar, the dashing serio, will also make her reappearance at this hall. The rest of the bill includes Karno's Mumming Birds, Harry Tate in Fishing, Harry Leybourne, Frank Harwood, the Bensons, Will Evans, Max Waldron, Foreman and Fannan, Bertha Stewart, Wilkie Bard, José Collins, R. G. Knowles, Millie Lindon, and T. E. Finglass.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

THE prizes for the successful competitors in the Theatrical Regatta will be presented on Sunday evening at the Freemasons' Arms, Long Acre.

THE application of the Oldham Branch of the N.A.T.E. for certain increases in the rate of pay in the local music halls has, in the absence of a mutual agreement between the local managers and the society, been referred to the General Federation of Trade Unions, who have deputed their sub-committee for the Oldham district to go into the matter. Messrs. T. Ashton, J.P. (secretary of the Amalgamated Operative Cotton Spinners) and Mr. James Crinion, J.P. (of the Amalgamated Card and Blowing Room Operatives) are members of this sub-committee. It is understood that the sub-committee are acting in a similar capacity for the Musicians' Union.

THE agenda of the Trade Union Congress, which will assemble in Nottingham on Sept. 7, has been issued. The Amalgamated Musicians' Union are responsible for resolutions Nos. 3 and 4, as follows:—

3. "That this Congress reaffirms the condemnation of the action of the Government in allowing Army and Navy bandsmen to compete with civilian musicians, and instructs the Parliamentary Committee to render every assistance to the Musicians' Union to put an end to the competition of Army and Navy bandsmen against civilian musicians, a great number of whom through this competition are thrown out of employment and deprived of their means of livelihood."

4. "That this Congress condemns the practice of allowing Police bandsmen to enter into competition with civilian musicians, as such competition deprives the civilian musician of his means of livelihood; and, seeing that the Police regulations forbid policemen from entering into competition with civilians, this Congress considers that civilian musicians should be equally protected with other civilians."

RESOLUTION No. 13 stands in the name of the Actors' Union and the Artists' Protective League, and is as follows:—

"That this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to take steps to bring about a revision of the laws and regulations affecting (a) the licensing of theatres and music halls, (b) the licensing of plays, and (c) the censorship of plays."

RESOLUTION No. 14 appears over the name of the Variety Artists' Federation, as follows:—

"That this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to demand of the Government a special Commission to investigate the existing laws regulating theatres of varieties, and, if necessary, to introduce such legislation as may be necessary to protect the interests of variety artists and others who are dependent upon same for their livelihood."

IT is difficult to say from the concluding portion of the "V.A.F." resolution whether "and others" means others who are dependent upon employment in variety theatres or upon the artists for a livelihood. It is, however, highly probable, even if the Standing Orders Committee of the Congress do not redraft these last two resolutions, that the general scope of the Actors' Union resolution will be retained, as, obviously, the general public represented by the Congress are just as much concerned in the reform of regulations governing theatres as those governing music halls, and they will, no doubt, take a comprehensive view of the amusement business as a whole. The Congress is much opposed to sectionalism, either in reform or in organisation.

THE Stage Employees are more concerned in the first resolution of the Musicians' Union than in the others, as they also suffer from the competition of soldiers in all the military towns, where in many cases soldiers are employed in the various stage departments. This is a form of competition which the civilian workman is justly entitled to object to. The soldier is assured of food, clothing, and shelter, and pocket-money. Far too many workmen have little of either of these, and no sort of security in their enjoyment as is possessed by every soldier.

THE National Executive Committee of the N.A.T.E. met on Friday evening to consider the above resolutions, and to decide as to the attitude of their delegate at the Congress towards the same.

THE Cinematograph Operators' Society have been informed by the L.C.C. that the Council will be glad to consider any observation the society may desire to make on a new apparatus to be used to extinguish fires arising out of the use of the cinematograph. The matter is to be considered at a special meeting of the committee of the society.

MR. S. J. KESSELL, who has been in hospital for a considerable period, is now out, and, although unable to resume work, is making satisfactory progress. The Heads of Departments' Association are considering ways and means of assisting Mr. Kessell to effect a complete restoration of his health and strength.

MR. T. HONOUR, a popular member of the General Staff, N.A.T.E. Committee, was married on Sunday, and at a meeting of the committee of the branch on Wednesday evening a cordial and unanimous vote of congratulations and good wishes was passed to Mr. and Mrs. T. Honour. Mr. Honour is employed at Wyndham's Theatre.

THE announcement that the Mysterious Cross illusion being performed at the Palace, Bath, last week by Carlton was to be exposed attracted many to the hall on the 30th ult. The exposure was the result of a challenge made on Monday night by a gentleman who, after witnessing the performance, demanded proof that it was not accomplished by the aid of mirrors or wires. Carlton, who deposits £50 with the managers of the houses where he performs as a forfeit in the event of his failing to show that the trick was faked, offered to give a private exhibition of the trick on the following morning, but this was refused, and a public exposure demanded. Carlton thus faced with the difficulty of either having to pay over the £50 or make good his offer by exposing the trick chose the latter course.

AT both houses on the 30th ult. Carlton, after giving his "show" under ordinary circumstances, explained that in response to the challenge he had decided to expose the trick, and there and then proceeded with the business with the curtains of the cabinet up and in full view of the audience. It was plain to all present that the trick was the outcome of a very smart change between the lady and gentleman, the former being cleverly concealed in the cabinet and changing place with the gentleman without disturbing the ropes and knots with a deftness only acquired by constant practice.

CARLTON, in a conversation after the performance, stated that the illusion was the outcome of his own ideas, and it has been presented at all the principal London music halls with great success. The exposure in Bath is absolutely the first time it has been done in public, and it will, of course, prevent it being brought to Bath again. Carlton assured our representative that never before had he been forced to give a public exhibition, a private view always satisfying the challenger. Having exposed the trick locally, it would be useless to continue it as a mystery, and consequently for the remainder of the week Carlton performed it in full view of the audience.

CRYSTAL PALACE AMUSEMENTS.

The foreigner was largely conspicuous in the crowds who thronged the beautiful glasshouse at Sydenham, on Bank Holiday, and visitors from other lands have also formed a goodly proportion of the large numbers who have patronised this favourite resort during the week. The usual generous provision has been made for holiday makers, and the permanent attractions of the Palace have been supplemented by many alluring shows. The theatre is reopened for the week with performances twice daily by Mr. Fred Karno's company of His Majesty's Guests, to which reference is made in another column, and in the centre transept is located a variety show in which some admirable artists are included. The programme is begun by Clack and Clack, acrobatic barrel jumpers, who combine comedy with agility. Particular praise is given to the child Rosie, who leaps from a table in and out of barrels blindfolded and with feet tied. The Tiger Lily is a young lady of colour who sings and dances blithely, turning somersaults meanwhile with celerity. She also manages to play a concertina while executing similar manœuvres. Another lady of dusky hue is Texas Hattie, who does marvellous feats on the tight-rope, including somersaults, skipping rope evolutions, and the playing of a violin as an accompaniment. Her feats are performed with agreeable smoothness and finish. Kyoto has a new Japanese pot-pourri in which contortionism, conjuring, and burlesque juggling are combined with agreeable effect. Kyoto's twistings and turnings are of snake-like intricacy, and are executed with a sense of humour that is heartily appreciated. His dog Oto, said to be the only thoroughbred performing pug in the country, contributes greatly to the hilarious effect of the act, which is enjoyed to the full. The prettiness of the show presented by Miss Judge's cockatoos, parrots, and macaws commends itself to all. One of the birds is a triple bar performer, and does feats that would tax the ability of the best in that line, and the display of the clever birds, who still go through the stirring house-on-fire scene, is heartily relished. Domino the clown makes much fun out of his conversations with Domino the donkey, who gives convincing proofs of his sagacity so well brought out by his trainer. The accompaniments to the variety performance are furnished by the Crystal Palace Military Band, who also give performances in the North Tower Gardens under the conductorship of Mr. Herbert Godfrey.

Mr. Robert Leadbetter's menagerie is still to be found in the North Tower Gardens, and furnishes one of the finest zoological collections ever exhibited. Included in the wild animal company are nine lions, of which Prince, who was born in the menagerie, is a magnificent specimen; and lordly elephants, Royal Bengal tigers, a herd of camels and dromedaries, leopards, panthers, bears, wolves, antelopes, kangaroos, and gazelles are among the interesting collection. There are also Babs, the baby elephant, and Tree-ilby, the baby camel, neither of whom should on any account be missed.

To the Mexican Village, situated in the grounds near the North Tower, many visitors have repaired. They have been well repaid in a sight of a "Corner of Mexico," in which are to be seen houses typical of the country occupied by natives, all of whom are busily engaged at their trades and crafts, which include those of lace-making, feather-working, butterfly-making from silk, beadworkers, and embroidering. A family of Yucatecos is seen in native costumes and work, and native cooks preside over a real Mexican kitchen. Picturesque scenes surround the village, and include a realistic view of Mount Popocatepetl, the "smoking mountain," and of the Cathedral, the St. Peter's of Mexico. Not the least striking of an interesting exhibition are the exercises in throwing the lassoo indulged in by the young men of the community.

In the Chinese Court Mlle. Dalmere's troupe of educated rabbits, cats, dogs, doves, rats, upwards of forty in number, all go through a novel and unique performance, and in the Electric Theatre Dekhna, the Man of Visions, presents examples of Indian temple magic, including clairvoyance and visions, the Indian rope trick, and other marvels of the Hindu Thaumaturgists. The performance is under the management of Mr. Stanley H. Bell, member of the Inner Magic Circle, St. George's Hall. An exhibition of works of art, by Prof. Zeiller, Sculptor to the Royal University of Munich, is given in the Pompeian Court. The organ recitals by Mr. F. W. Holloway have excited the deepest admiration, the selections comprising excerpts from the best masters.

A grand firework display by Messrs. C. T. Brock and Co. was also in the Bank Holiday scheme of amusement.

Belle Hemsley, daughter-in-law of the well-known scenic artist of that name, has joined forces with Austin Ambrose, better known as Sam McCulloch, son of the well-known scenic artist of that name, in a "screaming" absurdity, The Coster's Motor Honeymoon, with great success. They have also another novelty of the coster type, A Fatal Rehearsal, a domestic episode of comedy and pathos, by Sam McCulloch.

In an interval in the performance at the King's Theatre, Southsea, on Monday the Rev. Bruce Cornford made a few remarks to the audience. He said:—"My title to make a few remarks to you to-night must lie in the fact that for over nine years I have had the honour to be associated with the theatres of Portsmouth as their hon. chaplain. . . . There is no doubt that all thoughtful people should be concerned in both the quality and the tone of all public entertainments and amusements. They extend from the Lord Chamberlain at the top to the little boy who has paid his twopence to get into the gallery, and who is just as welcome as anyone else in this great house. The past ten years have undoubtedly marked a very great improvement in this respect. There are an ever-increasing number of people, respectable and clean-living, who demand, and will have, a respectable and clean entertainment to which they can take their wives and daughters in the evenings.

"At this moment the wave of public patronage turns to a lighter form of amusement with more variety in the programme. This beautiful playhouse from to-night will endeavour to satisfy that want in this great and rapidly growing neighbourhood. It is a great pleasure to me to be allowed the privilege of welcoming this new departure on the borders of my own great parish. Mr. Boughton and his many friends have built and equipped one of the most handsome theatres in England, and now, in association with Mr. Thomas Barrasford (whose name is of course a household word in connection with this class of entertainment), propose to give us a series of vaudeville dramatic entertainments, interspersed with flying matinées, which shall be unexceptionable in character, and free from gross vulgarity or veiled indecency.

"I ask you to give this laudable attempt your heartiest support. That is why I am here. And if any should deem it an inconsistency I would remind them of this patent fact: what the public demand the public will have. A theatre, to pay, must meet that demand. If you wish for what Mr. A. Chamberlain, speaking of Mr. Barrasford's theatre at Birmingham, called 'an example of what a good, clean entertainment should be,' see that you get it! It is the declared intention of this management to give it you, and at a cost that will not strain your pockets."

THE PARAGON.

Good audiences have witnessed a most attractive holiday programme here this week. The most prominent place in the bill is occupied by Mr. Joe Elvin and company in Riding to Orders. The famous Cockney comedian has a character in which his racy humour is fully employed, and he is supported by a company and numerous auxiliaries who work perfectly together. Needless to say, a hearty welcome is given to popular Joe, and loud laughter is aroused during his occupancy of the stage. Mr. Paul Cinquevalli, appropriately named as the incomparable juggler, receives many encomiums for his difficult and clever feats, while the facial expressions of his smart assistant keep the audience in good humour. Miss Lily Langtry, full of dash and go, obtains immediate favour with her first song, "The person at the house next door." Further opportunities are afforded in her second item, "At the Exhibition," in which a clever sprint dance is accomplished. Munroe's Black and White Comedy Team are very entertaining, for they give a good all-round performance of comedy, singing, and dancing, the funniosities of the humorist keeping the house in a continual ripple of laughter. Thos. E. Finglass in character negro songs proves himself a talented artist. His first number, "The black sheep," is very tuneful, and is well rendered, and in "Idaho," a catchy lyric, concluding with a well-executed dance, he is assisted by a clever young lady.

King Leo, ventriloquist, possesses some smart gags, and diverting repartee take place between himself and the doll Jerry. His singing, too, of "Rocked in the cradle of the deep" is exceedingly good, and obtains a hearty round of applause. Miss Lilian Lowe's well-trained voice is heard to advantage in "Flight of ages" and "I never knew till now how much I loved you." The Markies, in comedy, From Pavement to Stage, are interesting, many popular tunes being played on instruments of an original design. Their speciality is the rendering of "Stars and Stripes" on ordinary bottles, a performance which is distinctly good. Memora, in feats of memory, is amusing and interesting, for the gentleman answers instantly and accurately many difficult questions. Much good humour is caused by some of the queries emanating from the gentlemen in the lofty regions. Miss Nellie Stratton sings daintily "In an old Sedan chair" and "Little songbird."

Miss Beaumont Collins and company, in a one-act dramatic playlet, The House of Terror, by John C. Brandon, supply one of the best sketches seen on the halls for some time. The scene is that of Mother Crawley's den off Ratcliff Highway, and a certain John Dason (a gentleman cracksman) arrives and interviews the old woman. Dason has committed a murder, and the wife of the murdered man is imprisoned in the old woman's house, the death of her husband having turned her brain. Many engrossing scenes take place, the finale being reached by the wife (Meg Harding) stabbing the murderer just as he is about to shoot a detective who has come to arrest him. Miss Beaumont Collins as Meg Harding supplied an artistic study, and Mr. Boyd Pearson as John Dason played perfectly throughout; Miss Stella Leigh as Mother Crawley and George Mallett (a detective) worked well together, their characters being finely portrayed. Viviana and company in a toy-shop dancing scena provide an interesting few minutes with their characteristic dancing and comedy. Lambert and Glover in the absurdity The Wrong Room cause much merriment, and Miss Emma Don and Miss Jessie Star contribute tuneful numbers. Many interesting films are displayed by Ruffell's Bioscope. The popular and genial manager, Mr. Chas. Beecham, looks well after the visitors' comfort. He is completing his arrangements for the change which takes place at the end of the month, when he goes into partnership with his assistant, Mr. Wheeler, as dramatic and variety agents. His staff and friends are sorry to lose him, and he has the best wishes of all.

RICHMOND HIPPODROME.

The autumn season began here on Monday, when a huge audience filled the house from floor to ceiling. During the recess Mr. George Dance has not been idle in adding to the comforts of his clientèle. The "pretty little house on the green" has been redecorated, cleaned, and generally smartened up; the seating arrangements have also been attended to, and the keynote prevailing is comfort generally. Wallan opens the programme with some wonderful balancing; he is deft of hand, and his tricks are clean cut; his general smartness met with prompt recognition on the part of the audience, and it may be added he richly deserved the applause showered on his efforts. Variety followed in the shape of Mr. Teddy Edmunds' company in The Lady Jockey; it is the old question of misunderstanding. A wealthy young sportsman, Mr. Ranaleigh, who combines the turf with the drama, is running a drama entitled A Fast Life, and has engaged a lady for the leading rôle; he has also a vacancy for a stable lad, who is mistaken by the actress for Ranaleigh's manager. There is the usual amount of cross purposes, and everyone concerned in the sketch works hard. The audience enjoyed The Lady Jockey amazingly. Juvenility is represented by Beattie and Babs, and apparently appreciated. Knockabout business is faithfully depicted by Hall and Earle, who appear in a laundry scene as a tramp and a Chinaman respectively, and generally make things lively. Their antics and gambols proved quite diverting and thoroughly amused the audience. Miss Daisy Jerome was incomparably bright, and evidenced that histrionic ability which has done so much to enhance her reputation. The audience laughed heartily at the troubles brought about by "A little pat of butter on the floor"; but in the second song her dramatic ability was realised at its best in a song-story dealing with Mephistopheles, and his triumphs and disappointments. Lastly she gave her quaintly irresistible ditty, "Doh, rah, mi," &c. Comedy was supplied by Walter Stanley, who warbled amusingly of lodgers and such-like trifles. All London has laughed ere this at the drolleries of the Harmony Four, a turn rich in humour, cleverness, and talent; at Richmond this happy quartette created another triumph. Their various items were cheered to the echo, and they were called four times before the curtain. There is not so much novelty about that one can ignore altogether a novelty entitled The Maid in the Moon. Here we have a distinctly artistic and tuneful addition to the programme admirably enacted by a couple of clever artists, but modesty is evidently their motto, as there is no clue to their identity on the programme. The Bioscope scene gave a dramatic story dealing with The Recruit and the Bully, and the entire programme was one of the best ever given here—which is saying much. Mr. H. B. Harries is the new business-manager here, and as such leaves nothing to be desired.

The holiday programme at the Palace, Hammersmith, includes the names of Fred Lindsay, whip champion, T. E. Dunville, May Henderson, Daisy Jerome, Fred Poplar, Kitty Wager, Lanos and Monks, Franco's Midgets, Jerrold Robertshaw in new and novel sketch The Devil's Mate.

While a cinematograph exhibition was being given at the Islington Empire Music Hall on Monday, some films came in contact with a flame, and the cinematograph machine took fire. The audience left without panic, and the flames were confined to the cinematograph machine. Two men, Daniel Wiltshire and Richard Augustus Macaulay, were, however, burned on the faces and hands.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, June 30.—Miss Margaret Auglin opened at Her Majesty's Theatre on the 27th to an overwhelming house, every seat in the theatre being sold a week before at a 50 per cent. advance in price, and the famous Canadian actress created the greatest impression of any actress, save Ristori and Bernhardt, and the clamour at the booking office is almost unprecedented. The Thief was the play, Miss Auglin being the Marise Voysin, and nothing could excel her comedy, pathos, love-making, despair, or contrition. Miss Auglin held her audience spellbound during the whole of the second act, which she and Mr. Henry Kolker (as Richard) have to themselves. At the end of that act there came thunders of applause, lasting some minutes. Mr. Henry Kolker is a very fine actor. His Richard was tender and strong, with a manly bearing throughout. An old and much-loved favourite, Mr. George S. Titheradge, came back to us, and enjoyed the rapturous welcome awaiting him aften ten years' absence. Mr. Titheradge's acting as Raymond Lagardes was marked by careful detail and absolute naturalness. Mr. Dion Titheradge, who was the Henri of his own age (nineteen), made a most creditable début, and proved himself, as an upper-circler shouted, "a chip of the old block!" Miss Susie Vaughan was the Isabel Lagardes—comely, winning, and correct in every syllable and action. Mr. Sydney Stirling made the most of M. Zambard, the detective, completing a small cast of singular value. Mr. John Coleman provided three exquisite interiors, and Mr. J. C. Williamson personally saw to their superb furnishing. Mr. J. W. Hazlitt stage-managed the play, which should have a very long run.

Mr. Flemming's new bill, The Morals of Marcus, provides the Criterion audiences with acting and comedy of the best. Miss Beatrice Day, Mr. A. S. Homewood, and Miss Guildford Quin hold their own in their respective parts, so that no change will be necessary for some time.

"The Prince of Pilsen" at the Royal gives Messrs. Loder and Myles Clifton lots of opportunities for fun-making; and Miss Olive Godwin increases her popularity at each performance. The "Sea Shells" duet between Miss Amy Murphy and Mr. Whitehead, the popular baritone, goes with éclat, and the chorus and ballet are perfect.

The Tivoli added Mr. Harry Salmon and Miss Ida Chester to its Rickardsian bill. They give a sketch, The Blacksmith's Boy, gladly accepted by the audience. Miss Olga Montez was another newcomer who had a most encouraging greeting.

The Royal Artillery Band concluded a long series of recitals on the 27th, and with its conductor, Mr. Robert Smith, went north next night. The band returns in August, when, it is hoped, arrangements will be made for it to play during the visit of the American Fleet.

West's Pictures are still at the Palace, where, in addition to night and afternoon shows, the place is crowded every Saturday morning with school children, who are shown instructive and humorous pictures—a most creditable innovation. The Lyceum, Queen's Hall, and Victoria Hall have pictures, and the Hippodrome has melodrama nightly. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mallinson begin their song-recitals at the Town Hall to-morrow night, when the Yorkshire Society will muster in force, and give Mr. Mallinson (a Leeds man) an official reception. The recitals are being managed by Mr. Wynn Jones.

Mr. Lewis de Gwen gave a dinner to the Royal Artillery Band, at which his own Viceregal Band attended, and in the spirit of true fraternity a very happy time was spent.

MELBOURNE, June 30.—Her Majesty's Theatre, —Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—The Merry Widow has now been running for seven weeks, yet there is no diminution in the numbers or enthusiasm of the audiences which fill this theatre nightly. The gorgeous setting of the production, its catchy music, and the admirable manner in which the minor parts are filled form a fitting setting for the acting of Miss Carrie Moore, Mr. Higginson, and the rest of an admirable company. Mr. J. C. Williamson is running cheap excursion trains from the principal country towns this week at exceptionally low rates to enable our "country cousins" to witness this excellent production.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Meynell and Gunn; Business-Manager, Mr. Stanley W. Cherry. The Belle of Mayfair is meeting with a success no less than that of Miss Hook of Holland. Saturday night saw a packed house, which heartily appreciated the many gems in a production that is full of life and colour. Miss Gracie Sinclair has won an assured position with Melbourne playgoers, and Miss Ruth Lincoln has added to her previous honours; while the rest of the company lend capable aid to one of the most fascinating performances that have been presented to Melbourne audiences.

Bijou Theatre.—Director, Mr. Edwin Geach; Business-Manager, Mr. George Marlow.—A packed house witnessed the sensational melodrama The Heart of a Hero on Saturday night. The company includes Mr. Ernest Leicester, who made a distinct "hit" in the part of Jem Resdale, a Lancashire lad. His acting throughout was followed with keen interest. Mr. Leicester was ably supported by Miss Ethel Buckly, who infused the part of Mary Ryder with an amount of sweetness of manner that appealed to all. Other characters were most satisfactorily played by Mr. Stewart Garner (Mark Marle), Mr. Tait (Wilfred Marle), Mr. Kenneth Hunter (Jack Collison), Miss Nellie Ferguson (Nell Resdale), while Mr. J. P. O'Neil as Timothy Keighno deserves to be specially mentioned. The play was elaborately mounted, and several striking tableaux were shown.

Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon.—A particularly strong programme is being submitted just now, and includes the Meymotts, English sketch artists; the Four Musical Ibsens; Austin Rudd, descriptive vocalist; J. P. Ling, monologue entertainer; Regan and Ryan, eccentric comedians; Charles Mildare, whistling comedian; the Four Rosebuds, Eugene Elliott, Irving Sayles, Ethel Preston, Les Warton, Muriel Andrews, Fanny Powers, and Myrtle Marsden. Mr. Fred Aydon, Mr. Rickards' genial manager, met with a sad domestic bereavement last week, when death removed his eldest, dearly-loved daughter. Universal sympathy is felt in professional circles for the popular manager and his family.

Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—A complete change of programme was presented on Saturday evening to a full house. The Two McLeans made their first appearance, and astonished all with their remarkable dancing. Excellent turns were contributed by Maxwell and Roberts, Miss Vivie Keeling, Hagan and Fraser, Clements Brothers, Ernest Pitcher, Joe Charles, Maggie Fraser, James Croydon, Eunice Hemmings, Baby Sylvia, P. J. Knowles, James Marion, and many others.

Wirth's Olympia.—Manager, Mr. P. Miller.—An entirely new series of West's Pictures were presented here on Saturday evening to a crowded house. This enterprise has now been running for nearly twelve months, and the attendances nightly show no signs of falling off. The films submitted include every variety of subject. West's full military band provide excellent music.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD AND DISTRICT,
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT BULMER,
The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT MITCHELL,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. J. CHRISTIE,
Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1908.
Daily Express:—
An interesting illustration of the proverb, "Brevity is the soul of wit," is given in some correspondence between Mr. Robert Arthur, the theatrical manager, and Mr. Lennox Pawle, published by the latter in "The Era" Annual for 1908.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1908.
Evening Standard, Jan. 20:—
"The Era" Annual shows its customary excellence, and has some good "yarns."

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1908.
The Star, Jan. 16:—
Mr. Lennox Pawle's appearance in pantomime at Drury Lane gives point to some correspondence, now published by "The Era" Annual for the first time. As an example in brevity it should commend itself to managers and actors.

ON BAD TERMS WITH THEIR HOUSE PORTERS.

Code Word, "EMPLOI."

Mr. and Mrs. Cake had the good luck to be on good terms with their doorkeepers, but with their wish to have a dog they upset everything. The picture of the accidents and misadventures of the tenants harried by the worthy officials is one of the most comic, ending in the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Cake and their dog to a quieter abode.

PIERRETTE'S TALISMAN.

Code Word, "ENCRE."

Pierrot, faithless and clumsy lover that he is, has left an incriminating paper in the pocket of his clothes. This Pierrette finds, and she leaves him in the middle of the night and lays down on the trunk of a tree and goes to sleep. A good fairy, always obliging in these matters, comes to her and gives her a talisman which will enable her to have anything she wishes for. First she asks for a sedan chair, and all sorts of magnificently dressed young gentlemen come to her and make love to her. She is so pleased, for Pierrot will be jealous. But she is not cruel, and it is only in her dream that she tried to punish Pierrot for his unfaithfulness. All's well that ends well, and one moonlight night we find Pierrot and Pierrette as much in love with each other as ever.

THE HAUNTED CASTLE.

Code Word "DOMPTEUR."

This is a dreadful tale, which the peasants whisper to one another at night, and it goes thus:—Once upon a time the Squire of Badnews used to walk about his castle in the moonlight, and anybody happening to be near could have heard him sneering. One night Sir Baldhead and his page Odin saw the squire's ghost, and they assaulted his castle, for they knew that it was enchanted; they broke in the door and entered the old building, where they became the sports of unheard-of delusions. In one part of his castle the squire had been keeping sequestered for years a noble and titled lady whom he wished to marry against her will. After a series of extraordinary incidents, which ended in the release of the lady, Sir Baldhead was lucky enough to be given her hand and heart for his reward, and so the story ends well, after all.

610ft. The Subject, £10 3s. 4d. Toning, £1.

A RUNAWAY MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Code Word, "ENVOI."

The mother-in-law in this picture is so unselfish that she undertakes to remove her son-in-law's furniture, and takes the place of the horse in the shafts. But, having to go down a sloping street, she cannot withstand the weight of the carriage, which drags her down and all the furniture with her. At last she lands in the village pool, where she takes a free bath, whereas her son-in-law, delighted at seeing her in such a plight, makes a show of doing his best to help her out.

THE MYSTERY OF THE MOUNTAIN.

Code Word "ENVOLEE."

The masked man, invisible and unseizable, whose presence in the neighbourhood makes itself known by the horrible murders he perpetrates from time to time, for the bodies of his strangled or stabbed victims are found in the morning, has become such a terror that all the men in the village go on a beat. Their amazement is great, however, when they discover that the culprit is the forester himself, the man to whom has been entrusted the safety of the village and woods.

495ft. The Subject, £8 5s. 0d.

THE JEALOUS FIANCÉ.

Code Word, "ENFONCER."

The daughter of Earl High-Born is engaged to her cousin, a very handsome but effeminate gentleman, and she prefers the manly and strong highwayman Red Ike to him. Her cousin is so vexed on hearing this that he promises the police to deliver over to them his rival if they will send a few men to Red Ike's den. The latter, however, having been warned in time by the Earl's daughter, baffles all her fiancé's plans, and succeeds in involving him in his own trap; after which he escapes with the young lady while his enemy is fretting himself to death in the hands of the police.

QUEBEC TO NIAGARA.

Delightful and comprehensive views of the buildings and street traffic of Quebec. Romantic and picturesque scenes also depict the beauties of River St. Lawrence, with The Thousand Islands dotting the course, each principal island the home of a millionaire or a merchant prince. Majestic features of Niagara in most of its grandest aspects of falls, whirlpool, and rapids, complete one of the most beautiful travel series ever presented.

No. 2220. Code "Lachine." Length 500ft. Price £8 6s. 8d.

TRAVELLING THROUGH RUSSIA.

Unusually versatile scenes depict the palaces, streets, military, sporting, and river life of Petersburg, Moscow, and Tiflis. Grand March Past of Troops; Racecourse Incidents; Primitive Occupations of Peasants; Rafts of Logs hauled ashore by powerful Teams of Oxen; The Big Bell of Moscow, showing the fracture; Cossacks at Play—Dances and Pastimes, wonderful movement of nimble feet and twirling bodies; Enactment of a Love Scene—Stealing a Bride, Chase, Capture, Rejoicing, etc., etc.

No. 4055. Code "Don." Length 690ft. Price £11 10s.

GOODWOOD RACES.

Urban Cameras enjoyed privileged and unique positions by special permission of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, and particularly good results of this great society and sporting function were secured. Paddock, Weighing-in, Ring and Enclosure Scenes, Fashionable Crowds, Beautiful Surroundings. These, perfectly photographed, with the thrilling races for the Goodwood Cup and the Stewards' Cup, all go to the making of a highly successful series.

No. 2236. Code "Goodwood." Length 200ft. Price £3 6s. 8d.

OLYMPIC REGATTA AT HENLEY.

Favoured again by choice of positions, the whole length of the course from start to finish is under command. Scenes of great enthusiasm depict the Finals in the Sculling Race won by Blackstaffe, the Eight-oared Race won by Leander, and the Four-oared Race won by Magdalen College, Oxford. The Club Lawns, Houseboats, and crowds lining the banks make a highly successful reproduction of a historical river event.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

LORD GEORGE SANGER'S FREEHOLD PROPERTIES.

THE

GRAND HALL-BY-THE-SEA, MARGATE,

TO BE SOLD OR LET ON LEASE

(Five, Seven, or Ten Years).

This Extensive Property Includes

THE MAGNIFICENT BALL-ROOM

measuring about 250ft. by 50ft., far superior to any place of its kind in any part of the British Empire.

THEATRE OF VARIETIES

to Accommodate about 1,500.

Commodious Refreshment Bars, Billiard Saloon, and all necessary accommodation.

The whole Fully Licensed.
Together, with the Charming, Well-wooded RUSTIC PROMENADE GARDENS, and Big Area of Land, with three entrances, adjoining, Specially Adapted for Sports of Every Description.

This well-known property, the Leading Attraction in the County of Kent, has been carried on by the Freeholder, Lord Geo. Sanger, for the last thirty-six years in this World-famed Health Resort (Margate), with its Excellent Railway and Steamboat Service, almost hourly through the Season from London, and is undoubtedly worthy of the consideration of young blood.

Also to be

SOLD or LET on LEASE

the Magnificent, Newly-constructed including a Grand Hotel and Five Shops attached.

This Theatre has every Modern Improvement and Comfort, recently carried out by Mr. Frank Matcham, architect, and will accommodate 2,000 people.

This Extensive Property is known to be one of the most imposing Block of Buildings in Kent.

There is no disguising the fact that these two Establishments are the most Popular Places of Amusement in the County.

The only cause of parting with same is the pressing advice of Medical Adviser, and taking into consideration that Lord Geo. Sanger is now in his 81st year, no one will be surprised at the necessity of retirement.

To avoid curiosity correspondence, no letters will be answered, but Lord George Sanger can be interviewed at the Hall-by-the-Sea for the next month; afterwards at Park Farm, East Finchley, N.W.

General-Manager, MR. CHAS. EVANS.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1908. Financial Times, Jan. 28:—"The Era" Annual, 1908. This well-known almanac and annual is replete, as usual, with information of all sorts regarding the dramatic and theatrical world, and will be found not only useful to those directly connected with the stage whether in a histrionic or literary capacity, but also interesting to the average member of the playgoing public, who is regaled with some forty pages of "Stories Told by Well-known People"—mostly actors and actresses. Dramatic authors will appreciate the importance of the very full list that is given of new plays and important revivals at the London and provincial, as well as Paris and Berlin theatres during the past year. The publication is well illustrated with portraits of theatrical and music-hall celebrities.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER. BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Chapter I. COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II. PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III. INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
Chapter IV. MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V. INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

SHAKESPEARE ON TOUR.

The chief differences between the methods of theatrical representation in Shakespeare's day and our own, writes Mr. Sidney Lee in his "Life of William Shakespeare," lay in the fact that neither scenery nor scenic costume nor women-actors were known to the Elizabethan stage. All female rôles were, until the Restoration in 1660, assumed in the public theatres by men or boys. Consequently the skill needed to rouse in the audience the requisite illusions was far greater then than at later periods. But the professional customs of Elizabethan actors approximated in other respects more closely to those of their modern successors than is usually recognised. The practice of touring in the provinces was followed with even greater regularity then than now. Few companies remained in London during the summer or early autumn, and every country town with two thousand or more inhabitants could reckon on at least one visit from travelling actors between May and October. A rapid examination of the extant archives of some seventy municipalities selected at random shows that Shakespeare's company between 1594 and 1614 frequently performed in such towns as Barnstaple, Bath, Bristol, Coventry, Dover, Faversham, Folkestone, Hythe, Leicester, Maidstone, Marlborough, New Romney, Oxford, Rye in Sussex, Saffron Walden, and Shrewsbury. We may refer to Halliwell-Phillipps's "Visits of Shakespeare's Company of Actors to the Provincial Cities and Towns of England" (privately printed, 1887). From the information there given, occasionally supplemented from other sources, the following imperfect itinerary is deduced: 1593, Bristol and Shrewsbury; 1594, Marlborough; 1597, Faversham, Bath, Rye, Bristol, Dover, and Marlborough; 1603, Richmond (Surrey), Bath, Coventry, Shrewsbury, Mortlake, Wilton House; 1604, Oxford; 1605, Barnstaple and Oxford; 1606, Leicester, Saffron Walden, Marlborough, Oxford, Dover, and Maidstone; 1607, Oxford; 1608, Coventry and Marlborough; 1609, Hythe, New Romney, and Shrewsbury; 1610, Dover, Oxford, and Shrewsbury; 1612, New Romney; 1613, Folkestone, Oxford, and Shrewsbury; and 1614, Coventry. Shakespeare may be credited with faithfully fulfilling all his professional functions, and some of the references to travel in his sonnets were doubtless reminiscences of early acting tours. It has been repeatedly urged, moreover, that Shakespeare's company visited Scotland, and that he went with it. In November, 1599, English actors arrived in Scotland under the leadership of Lawrence Fletcher and one Martin, and were welcomed with enthusiasm by the king. Fletcher was a colleague of Shakespeare in 1603, but is not known to have been one earlier. Shakespeare's company never included an actor named Martin. Fletcher repeated the visit in October, 1601. There is nothing to indicate that any of his companions belonged to Shakespeare's company. In like manner, Shakespeare's accurate reference in Macbeth to the "nimble" but "sweet" climate of Inverness, and the vivid impression he conveys of the aspects of wild Highland heaths, have been judged to be the certain fruits of a personal experience; but the passages in question, into which a more definite significance has possibly been read than Shakespeare intended, can be satisfactorily accounted for by his inevitable intercourse with Scotsmen in London and the theatres after James I.'s accession.

A few English actors in Shakespeare's day occasionally combined to make professional tours through foreign lands, where Court society invariably gave them a hospitable reception. In Denmark, Germany, Austria, Holland, and France many dramatic performances were given before royal audiences by English actors between 1580 and 1630. That Shakespeare joined any of these expeditions is highly improbable. Actors of small account at home mainly took part in them, and Shakespeare's name appears in no extant list of those who paid professional visits abroad. It is, in fact, unlikely that Shakespeare ever set foot on the continent of Europe in either a private or professional capacity. He repeatedly ridicules the craze for foreign travel. To Italy, it is true, and especially to cities of Northern Italy, like Venice, Padua, Verona, Mantua, and Milan, he makes frequent and familiar reference, and he supplied many a realistic portrayal of Italian life and sentiment. But the fact that he represents Valentine in the Two Gentlemen of Verona (I. i. 71) as travelling from Verona to Milan by sea, and Prospero in The Tempest as embarking on a ship at the gates of Milan (I. ii. 129-44), renders it almost impossible that he could have gathered his knowledge of Northern Italy from personal observation. He doubtless owed all to the verbal reports of travelled friends or to books, the contents of which he had a rare power of assimilating and vitalising.

The publisher Chettle wrote in 1592 that Shakespeare was "exelent in the qualitie he professes," and the old actor William Beeston asserted in the next century that Shakespeare "did act exceedingly well." But the rôles in which he distinguished himself are imperfectly recorded. Few surviving documents refer directly to performances by him. At Christmas, 1594, he joined the popular actors William Kemp, the chief comedian of the day, and Richard Burbage, the greatest tragic actor, in "two several comedies or interludes" which were acted on St. Stephen's Day and on Innocents' Day (Dec. 27 and 28) at Greenwich Palace before the Queen. The players received "xiiili. vjs. viiid. and by waye of her Majesties rewarde vili. xiiis. iiijd., in all xxli." Neither plays nor parts are named. Shakespeare's name stands first on the list of those who took part in the original performances of Ben Jonson's Every Man in his Humour (1598). In the original edition of Jonson's "Sejanus" (1603) the actors' names are arranged in two columns, and Shakespeare's name heads the second column, standing parallel with Burbage's, which heads the first. But here again the character allotted to each actor is not stated. Rowe identified only one of Shakespeare's parts, "the Ghost in his own Hamlet," and Rowe asserted his assumption of that character to be "the top of his performance." John Davies of Hereford noted that he "played some kingly parts in sport." One of Shakespeare's younger brothers, presumably Gilbert, often came, wrote Oldys, to London in his younger days to see his brother act in his own plays; and in his old age, when his memory was failing, he recalled his brother's performance of Adam in As You Like It. In the 1623 folio edition of Shakespeare's Works his name heads the prefatory list "of the principall actors in all these playes."

That Shakespeare chafed under some of the conditions of the actor's calling is commonly inferred from the "Sonnets." There he reproaches himself with becoming "a motley to the view" (cx. 2), and chides fortune for having provided for his livelihood nothing better than "publike means that public manners breed," whence his name received a brand (cxi. 4-5). If such self-pity is to be literally interpreted, it only reflected an evanescent mood. His interest in all that touched the efficiency of his profession was permanently active. He was a keen critic of actors' elocution, and in Hamlet shrewdly denounced their common failings, but clearly and hopefully pointed out the road to improvement. His highest ambitions lay, it is true, elsewhere than in acting, and at an early period of his theatrical career he undertook, with triumphal success, the labours of a playwright. But he pursued the profession of an actor loyally and uninterruptedly until he resigned all connection with the theatre within a few years of his death.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

EARLY TRAINS.

The Railway Companies are despatching many morning trains earlier than hitherto. This will enable subscribers and advertisers in the provincial towns to get copies of "The Era" in time for the breakfast table. Advertisers are requested to forward their advertisements as early in the week as possible, and not later than 7 p.m. on Thursday.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—His Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—A highly-sensational piece, The Power of the Cross, by Mr. George de Gray, was played by Mr. Lingford Carson's company for the first time in Aberdeen on Monday. Mr. de Gray himself spiritedly impersonates the part of the pronouncedly Mephistophelean Baron Woulfe Corzula, who is the master villain of the piece, and he is admirably supported by Miss Stella Carmichael as the adventuress. Mr. Tyrone Power plays rollickingly as an Irishman; Miss Annie Hylton makes a graceful heroine; Miss Phyllis Vaughan is no less charming as the "good fairy" of the drama; and Mr. Alexander A. Hayiland gives a powerful portraiture of a young doctor. The piece is elaborately staged.

Palace Theatre. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Mr. Jack Lorimer continues on his triumphant career, and responds nightly to many encores; Miss Paula Peters gives a marvellous performance with his trained animals; Mysticus's famed chameleon act earns the heartiest plaudits of the audiences; Mr. J. C. Scotter is a smart comedian and dancer; Ford and Barras show singular dexterity as "legomaniacs" and singers; Miss Stella Stahl is a captivating comedienne; Mr. Woolmer Young's fine voice makes his turn very popular; the Le Crews appear with the utmost success as burlesque artists and dancers; and Miss Zeta Russell dances gracefully and sings sweetly.

Beach Pavilion.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. David Thomson.—The Downes Family, which includes four artists of remarkable talent and versatility, are now prime favourites; Miss Violet Davidson continues to sing charmingly; Mr. Jack Marson varies his fine vocalisation by telling good stories; Mr. Thomson has several capital humorous ditties which he renders most "pawkily"; Mr. Dan Williams is a superior comedian; Mr. George Park possesses a splendid bass voice; and Vulcaris (the accompanist) contributes some original and entertaining musical interludes.

Alhambra Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. John Sinclair; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. B. Lee.—Miss Amy Bathurst contributes the principal turn. This clever lady not only sings her coon ditties with skill and vivacity, but ranks as a champion sand and wooden-shoe dancer. Oliver and Twist are comedians of resource with a dash of originality in their methods; and Mr. J. W. Dewar makes a hit with his comic Scotch songs. Mr. Dove Paterson, who will appear at the Crystal Palace shortly, shows a highly interesting selection of the latest cinematograph films.

ABERTILLERY.—Theatre Metropole.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. J. Seaborn.—Miss Frances Delaval is presenting the sensational and thrilling drama, Love's Golden Dream. The leading part Margery is excellently portrayed by Miss Delaval, whose acting is very realistic; the Captain Jack Darrell of Mr. Harry Rutland is a fine assumption; and Mr. Edmund Grogan scores highly as Rev. Harold Tre Wynne. Mr. W. Bradford as Gustave de Marconi (an Italian) is all that can be desired, and Pete, with songs, is agreeably portrayed by Master Johnny Johnson. Mr. L. W. Halfpenny makes an ideal coster of Covey, and Little Carry Johnson as Tommy Tittlemouse is admirable.

Pavilion.—Lessees, E. and H. Tilney; Manager, Mr. E. Pryce.—Saturday to Monday is excellently staged at this popular hall by Mr. Fred Karno's talented company. John Willie Jaggs is excellently sustained by Mr. Gilbert Childs, who is very amusing throughout, and keeps the audience in roars of laughter. Miss Julia Bassett as Clorinda Dobbs is a success, and Miss Ada Maskell represents Belinda Dobbs to the delight of the audience. Mr. Harry Fischer as Mr. Potts is good, and Miss Mary Young acts cleverly as Violet Perrin.

ABERYSTWYTH. — Coliseum. — Mr. Arthur Roberts was the chief attraction on Monday and Tuesday evening, when he was heartily welcomed by a crowded house. He was ably supported by Miss Ruby Celeste and vaudeville company in their répertoire. During the remainder of the week the Follies occupy the boards.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—This theatre reopened on Monday after the summer vacation with Mr. Lingford Carson's company in The Great White Chief. Mr. Mansell Fane gives a first-class rendering of the title-rôle; Mr. Lingford Carson plays with force and skill the dumb part Reindeer; Mr. George Torice does full justice to the part of Hartley Deane, and Mr. Leonard Maitland causes much amusement as George R. Walker. Miss Pollie Denville submits a charming representation of Latika; Miss Dulcie Lawrence is effective as Hester Stafford, and Miss Amy Ross Clyde is all that can be desired as Martha Jane Curtley. The play is mounted in good style.

Town Hall.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—A capital series of animated pictures is being shown here, including a number of dramatic and comic subjects. The films include The Despatch Bearer, A Lottery Ticket, A Poor Man's Romance, and The Architect's Apprentice. The Three Comedy Chanters are singers of merit, Marion Blake is a fine serio comedienne, the Artes (coloured vocalists and dancers) have a great reception, Miss Dulcie Milner is a dainty vocalist, and Milner and Story (comedy duo), are excellent.

ALDERSHOT.—Royal and Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Out of a good variety programme the best item is undoubtedly that of Alfred Wellesley in Uncle's Courtship. Mr. Wellesley's humour is quaint and natural, and he is supported by Miss Beatrice Webb and Frank Harris. The Three Berlin Belles give some clever speciality dances and marches; Miss Kitty Malone sings and dances with fine effect; Glen Alva renders two songs; Keegan and company evoke fun with their antics as awkward cyclists; and Prof. Buer and his donkey afford variety. One of the most appreciated items on the programme is the Bioscope, on which several interesting and funny pictures are given.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE. — Theatre Royal. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Revill.—Annual closing week previous to the Wakes holidays.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The head of the present week's bill is taken by Garland and Douglas's company of coloured coons in the attractive sketch A Trip to Coontown. The genuine sable-skinned nigger plays a conspicuous part in the songs, choruses, and grotesque antics. The Sisters Mawdsley are clever juvenile performers; Petro and Leon (Hattie and Pete) give some really startling exercises as gymnasts; the Sisters Terry are charming duettists; George Edney is a good character vocalist; Langslow, the balancing wonder, introduces variety into the performance with his sharp-shooting on the flexible rope; Denaro Bros., the troupe of juvenile acrobats, are expert and daring performers; Moon and Morris, as simultaneous dancers, whose stepping is a wonder in the poetry of motion, nightly evoke admiration and applause. The Bioscope this week is a very special performance in cinematography—Gaumont's masterpiece, a wonderful film, produced at big cost. Shakespeare's romantic tragedy Romeo and Juliet, with perfect scenario.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—This week's selection of pictures is varied and interesting, the principal items are Driven by Hunger, Too Much Champagne, Wild Birds, A Gipsy's Devotion, John the Idiot, and the great Marathon Race. The illustrated songs are also an attractive feature.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry Sanders.—Astley's American Circus heads the bill here this week, and in connection with this turn, amateur riding competitions are held at each performance, and cause hearty laughter. Mr. Cull Pitt is a clever and interesting conjuror, whilst his running fire of witticisms adds much to the charm of his performance; a pleasing turn is that of Tennis and Laune, a couple of ladies who are good in both song and dance; the Godfreys (lady and gentleman) are applauded for their musical and comedy act; Eugene is an effective juggler; Miss Mabel Le Roy, comedienne, Mr. Charles Rowen, comedian and dancer, and the Marathon Race on the Palace Attergraph also contribute interesting turns.

AYR.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—The theatre was re-opened on Monday for the season with I Defy the World, played by Mr. Julian Malvern's company. Miss Blanche St. Albans gives a pathetic rendering of Pauline; Mr. Alfred Denning as Pauline's father does ample justice to the military character; as Leon Darville Mr. Percy Ballard acts with power, and he has a splendid foil in Miss Violet Crauford. The villain of the piece is adequately taken by Mr. J. L. Jackson; the Laroche of Mr. Chas. Conway is a capable impersonation; and the manliness of Mr. Frank Wheatley as André is much admired. Miss Maude Lillian and Mr. Chas. M. Julian are responsible for wholesome fun as the two cockney tourists; and Messrs. Pearce and Bosher are amusing as the two thieves.

BACUP.—New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood. — Mr. Frederick Melville's company is here this week with The Ugliest Woman on Earth. Miss Beatrice Flower gives an excellent reading and a clever study of the Ugliest Woman; a manly and convincing performance is that of Mr. Philip Dorien as Jack Merriman; Mr. Leyton Cancellor gives a really good interpretation of the unscrupulous Hubert Gold, and receives excellent support from Mr. Leonard Thackeray as Antonio Luchesi and Miss Gertrude Harrison as Rose Courteney; Mr. William De Brigard gives a good representation of the gambling artist, Tom Redvers; the comedy characters of Tubby Herrick and Aggie Brown are in the capable hands of Mr. Freddy Bentley and Miss Nellie Jackson; a clever and realistic portrait of a London hooligan is presented by Mr. Harry Leyton; Dr. Carr is sympathetically played by Mr. Gerald Nolan; and Miss Violet Macree gives an impressive portrayal of Morita, an Italian girl.

BARNSTAPLE.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Bridge Trust; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—On Monday and Tuesday, Mr. Wentworth Croke's company presented The Christian, and although this is its third visit, the popularity of the play seems undiminished. As John Storm, Mr. F. Gedge Twyman displayed undoubted ability; Miss Margery Fane won golden opinions for her bright and forceful rendering of Glory Quayle; Miss Alice Maude made a dignified but kindly Mrs. Callender; Miss Gladys Vernon, as Polly Love, quickly gained the sympathy of the audience; and the Misses Grace Baring and Kate Lee admirably undertook the two "backsliders," Black Meg and Mother Kent. Mr. John H. Batson's impersonation of Father Lamplugh had much to commend it, and his acting throughout was keenly appreciated; Archdeacon Wealthy was delineated with reverence and dignity by Mr. W. Mallalieu; Lord Robert Ure received ample justice at the hands of Mr. G. Montague Lane; and Mr. Edward Ouston proved a clever exponent of the repentant Horatio Drake; Mr. F. Russell Kirkley making the most of the exhortative parent, Lord Storm.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre.—Patrons are this week regaled with the American novelty, A Millionaire Tramp. Mr. Herbert Lloyd has secured a company which gets all possible out of the piece.

His Majesty's.—When We Were Twenty-One is being produced this week by Messrs. Frank G. Bayley and Arthur Eldred's company, and is receiving much appreciation. This production introduces us to a very good company. The principals, Mr. F. G. Bayley as Richard Carewe and Mr. A. Eldred as the Imp, are ably supported by Miss Margaret Yarde as Firefly, and by the rest of the company.

The Tivoli.—Chas. Fisher's Pocket Opera Company takes first place here this week. These three singers render very effectively the best known parts of Il Trovatore. Alf Chester, comedian, and Rozel, on the rope, receive much applause. The bill throughout is a very attractive one.

New Hippodrome.—There is no diminution of the crowds which nightly flock to this living picture exhibition. The film When Casey Joined the Lodge is screamingly funny, and for those whose chief delight is a good laugh no better entertainment could possibly be provided. Legerdemain by Vanbert is a further contribution to the long programme.

BARRY DOCK.—Theatre Royal and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—The Prodigal Parson is being presented here. Mr. Logan Darra as the Rev. Tom Godley sustains the rôle with ability; Miss Violet Hammersley plays Fern Godley on excellent lines; Mr. Alfred Northway does full justice to the heavy part of Enoch Jaggins; Mr. Charles Ashwell plays Ben Jaggins in a capable manner; Mr. Walter Vincent does well as Ned Kettlepin; and Miss Enid Edoni and Mr. Owen Remonde as Gretchen and Phil Drive respectively are really excellent.

BATH.—Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Strassburger's Midgets, comprising three ladies and two gentlemen, are providing a versatile entertainment this week, the little folk causing much interest and plenty of amusement. That brilliant violinist Miss Edie Reynolds meets with a remarkably favourable reception; the Bartholomew Girls score a success in their military and Irish duets and dances; the Gregson Comedy Trio once again create hilarity in their comic act, The Dummy. Rosie Everette, comedienne, also appears.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The Coal King, which is being played here by Mr. A. Clifton Alderson and company, is admirably staged and produced. The Lancashire dialect and infectious laughter of Mr. Sam Roberts as Jim Williams make him a great favourite; Mr. Ulick Burke as Sir Reginald (the Coal King) comes in for much applause, and Mr. Geo. Hanbury, who undertakes the difficult rôle of the schemer, is amply rewarded by the hisses from pit and gallery; Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's natural impersonation of the true man—Tom Roberts—is much appreciated; Miss Winifred Love gains sympathy as Grace Shirley; Miss Max Hinton is a pretty and vivacious Araminta Green; Miss Joan Wellman plays the trying part of Mad Ann with conspicuous success, and Miss Lucy Cato is good as Mrs. Baker.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—The return visit of the musical comedy, The Dairymaids, has afforded much pleasure to the patrons of this theatre. Presented by Mr. Robert Courtneidge's capital company, which includes Miss Phyllis Dare, the piece met with great success on Monday. Miss Dare assumed the rôle of Peggy in a delightful manner, and her reception was something to be proud of. Her songs, The Sandow Girl" and "Hello, little stranger," won immense favour. As Joe Mivens Mr. Harry Dent was simply inimitable, his humour being fairly irresistible; and a most charming interpretation of Winifred was submitted by Miss Gladys Ivery; Miss Edith Blanche deserves praise for her clever impersonation of Lady Brudenell, and Miss Marjorie Manners was good as Helene; a capital impersonation of the stern schoolmistress, Penelope Pychase, was submitted by Mrs. Rose Edouin Lewis, and a more diverting impersonation of Sam Brudenell than that of Mr. E. Statham Staples could scarcely be desired; Miss Lottie Sarjeant, an accomplished comedienne, was exceedingly droll as Eliza, and Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., appeared to advantage as Lieut. Frank Meredith, R.N.; Mr. Percy Marshall was admirable as Dr. O'Byrne, R.N. The full chorus and augmented orchestra were under the skilful direction of Mr. Arthur Wood.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The Tally Ho Trio top the bill, and with comedy and vocalism have been most successful. Mr. Frank Fenton stages Only an Actor, in which his capital acting calls for more than ordinary praise; Baby Vi Davis, vocalist, exhibits remarkable ability for one so young; and the feats of Lazern, magician, are really marvellous; the droll songs of Mr. J. G. Aitken, Scotch comedian, keep the audience highly amused; and Miss Ethel Whiteside, with her piccaninnies, provides a capital entertainment consisting of vocalism and dancing; the Zaid Trio appear in their clever Oriental speciality, and the programme is completed by Selby and Myers, comedians, and the Palace pictures.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Messrs. Fred Willmott and Will Sley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The first appearance in Belfast of Zena Vevey, in her vocal scena, My Lady's Bower, must be chronicled as a great success. Miss Vevey, who is the happy possessor of a fine voice, is assisted by Herr Max Errard, composer and conductor, and not a little of the triumph of the scena is due to his efforts. The Lorch Family appear in their marvellous acrobatic performance, their feats being startling in the extreme; the Great Weiland is aptly described as America's funniest juggler, there being nothing but laughter while he occupies the stage; and Miss Mabel Thorne is a delightful comedienne with fine songs; Alice Hughes and company appear to advantage in their musical comedietta, Star of the Bazaar, and Mr. Johnny Dwyer is a capital comedian who knows how to please an audience. Also here are Baby Bowden, vocalist and dancer; Tremel and Fremel, eccentrics; Archie Pitt, comedian, and the Hipposcope.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The star here is Mr. Neil Kenyon, the droll Scotch comedian, whose songs have created the heartiest laughter. The Norman Leonard Trio return with their musical act, The Itinerant, which is always welcome; and a hit has been made by the Herald Comedy Four with their droll comedy and capital singing; Mr. Will Man plays a number of musical instruments with much cleverness; and Little Ganty's comic songs have been hugely enjoyed; Boden and Bell, juvenile duettists, take well, and Miss Madge May is a charming comedienne. The Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. McGibney, exhibits some capital films.

New Alhambra Theatre. — General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—This old-established theatre is still achieving great success with the new programme submitted. Under the watchful eye of Mr. Will White nothing is left undone to merit this gratifying support. This week, under the direction of Mr. Cecil Wilson, another new set of views are being exhibited, including The Lottery Ticket, Unknown Talent, The Miser, The Suffragette, Pony Express, &c. Also appearing are Mr. Syd Herman, a droll Hebrew dialect comedian; and Gilroy and Gros, clever comedians, whose patter is certainly most amusing.

BILSTON.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Battersby; Musical-Director, Mr. J. E. Machin.—London With the Lid Off is the title of the piece presented here this week by Mr. Stanley Carlton's company. Mr. William G. Marshall plays the part of Gratton Gale, the blind burglar, in a masterly manner; Miss R. Hamilton Balesco and Miss Charlotte E. Bellinger are very good as Mrs. Glendale and Sarah Shafto; Miss Amy Ellam is successful as Madge Randall, the lady detective; and Miss Rubie Maude wins sympathy as Aston Bell. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr. Lancelot Usher (Percy Plunker), and Miss Emily Lewis (Dolly).

BIRKENHEAD. — New Theatre Royal. — Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—A return visit from Mr. Frank Bertram's company with The Breed of the Treshams has been attended with excellent results. On the present occasion Mr. Sydney Bland is the representative of Lieut. Reresby, "the rat," and wins high eulogium by his portrayal; Viscount Dorsington is finely played by Mr. Alfred Holles; Mr. W. R. Winning gives an effective rendering of Col. Clement Hungerford, Colonel Curwen is well impersonated by Mr. George Traill, and the Hon. Francis Tresham is cleverly embodied by Mr. Howard Brenan; as the Hon. Margaret Hungerford Miss Mildred Hodson is admirably suited, playing the part with much acceptance; Miss Grace Harlington is a capital Batty, and Miss Madge Cottier, as Mrs. Bagshaw, and Miss Dorothy Duncan as Helena Pierrepoint are both excellent in their respective impersonations.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties. — Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Ching Lung Soo, the marvellously expert Chinese magician, is again here, and his clever and imposing show is unmistakably the attraction of the evening; Les Voces, talented operatic duettists, are also an agreeable feature, and the Firmans in their sketch, The Fire Station; Mr. Victor Travers, eccentric comedian; the Brothers Dean, exceptionally smart dancers; Mr. Will Musgrave, a good comedian; Carozi and Keith, comedy jugglers; Miss Leoni Dixon, a charming comedienne; and Martini and Son, with illustrated songs, are all prominent successes.

Olympian Gardens, Rock Ferry.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Edwin Adeler.—An entire change of company introduces Harry Leslie's Comedy Cadets, Jim Pullin (Lancashire comedian), Miss Rene (comedienne), Blanko White (American comedian and dancer), George Curzon (baritone vocalist), Miss Annie Coxen (contralto), Vernon Noble (light comedian), and Mr. Fred Shepherd (pianist). Business is excellent.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Christian (new version) is once more the attraction here, creditably presented by Mr. Wentworth Croke. The John Storm of Mr. Henry Renouf is a performance of fine merit, and elicits the most favourable of receptions; Miss Doris Gilham puts a clever and highly-enthralling portrayal of Glory Quayle to her credit; Mr. Oswald Marshall is successful as Horatio Drake; Mr. George R. Montford gives a suave and polished study of Lord Robert Ure; Mr. Edward Ling puts earnestness and dignity into the character of Father Lamplugh; Mr. C. E. Turpin lends full play to the traits of Archdeacon Wealthy; and Mr. Arthur E. Maskell, Miss Sinna St. Clair, Miss Margaret Brodie, Miss Alice Leigh, and others play with vigour and also with discretion.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Widowers' Houses, preceded by Gentlemen of the Road, formed the attraction here on Monday, since when The Return of the Prodigal and The Postern Gate, and David Ballard and The Subjection of Kezia have been played on respectively Thursday and Friday evenings. The company, which is Miss Horniman's, is excellently constituted, and is under the direction of Mr. B. Iden Payne, who, in Widowers' Houses, played Lickcheese in a manner that left nothing to be desired; Miss Penelope Wheeler acted as Blanche in quite the "Shavian" spirit; Mr. Jules Shaw was likewise true to the part of Sartorius; Mr. Chas. Bibby was successful in his efforts to amuse as Cokane; Mr. Lewis Casson deserved encomiums as Harry French; Miss Louise Holbrook and Messrs. Basil Dean and Leonard Mudie completed an excellent cast.

Alexandra Theatre. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—The Woman Who Gambles, with Mr. Morton Powell's company, takes the public well here. Miss Edith Wallis, in the titular rôle, the Countess Natalie Steinbach, acquits herself with fine passion and feeling; Miss Doris Pass secures much sympathy with her clever presentment of the persecuted heroine, Cora Gouldhart; Mr. Clifford Kean makes a very popular hero as Count Otto; Mr. Norman A. Overton proves a powerful villain as Baron Cratzlaw; Mr. Reginald Fox declaims finely in the part of the friend, Lieut. Carl Ctzarteriski; Miss Brenda May is a fascinating maid as Zanette; and others who score are Mr. Victor T. Raymond, Mr. Reginald Oldroyd, Miss Lillian Rignold, Miss Lily Malvern, &c.

Metropole Theatre. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Her Marriage Vow is meeting with favourable reception here, with Messrs. Edward L. Garside and J. Forbes Knowles's company. Both named are in the cast, Mr. Garside as Gilbert Carlton, and Mr. Knowles as Ned Benton, putting all their well-known powers into these respective characters; Miss Helena Walbram as Kate Walters is a stage heroine that appeals successfully to all hearts; Mr. Edwin J. Collins is quite equal to the part of Daffy Dan; Mr. John W. Ryder undertakes the rôle of Walters most creditably; Miss Nelly Shirley is distinctly good as Hester Norton; Miss Winifred Barton is popular as Maggie Clare; and Mr. Dan Ryan as that "broth of a bhoy," Larry Leary, is responsible for many merry moments.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley. — Licensee and Manager Mr James Alexander.—The New East Lynne, furnished by Mr. W. W. Kelly, has proved positively irresistible to Saltley playgoers, tears, cheers, and laughter overtaking each other in quick succession. Miss Laura Hansen's portrayal of the ill-starred Isabel is exquisitely drawn; Mr. Frederick Harker is a dignified and withal sympathetic Carlyle; Mr. W. H. Garbois invests the despicable qualities of Levison with admirable point; Mr. Byron Pedley relieves the intensity of the play with some welcome and clever comic relief as Murty O'Flynn; and the others are successful, including Miss Sophy Shinton, Miss Nellie Lucas, Miss Amy Manfree, Miss Ivy Jackson, Mr. Cole Aspinall, and Mr. M. Talbot.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—In the Midst of Life, with Mr. Chas. V. Sandford's company, is playing to good houses here. The rôle of David Armstrong is played on excellent lines by Mr. Guy Hastings, his diction being notable; Mr. Sydney T. Pease plays with commendable energy as Henry Gernison; Mr. Hal Charlton gives a meritorious rendering of Sir John Rosmead; Mr. Sandford's ability in the part of Richard Dixon is cordially recognised; Mr. John S. Chamberlain submits a clever study in character as Captain Bargery; Miss Maud Linden acts like a heroine of true womanly feeling as Margaret Grey; Miss Elsie Forster makes an acceptable part of Sybil; Miss Alice Heather is good as Lady Rosmead; and Mr. Edgar J. Coyne as Joe Drummond and Miss Madge Beresford as Molly are specially bright and humorous.

Palace Theatre, Bordesley.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Two Lancashire Lasses in London, presented by Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer, has drawn plenty of patronage hither. Mr. Herbert Pearson imparts a natural manliness to the character of John Edmonds which is very pleasing; Mr. Chris. Mason fills the rôle of Samuel Hallett admirably and consistently; Mr. E. Rayson-Cousens acts well without overdoing the part of the Rev. Frank Selby; Mr. Fred Morgan scores well as Jonas Deane; Mr. Harry V. Mann as the partner, Langley, does well; Miss Marguerite Trevosper gives an ideal representation of Bessie Edmunds; and the child, Lucy, is nicely played by Miss Marie Longden. The Misses Rosslyn Vayne and Alice Defoe account satisfactorily for "the lassees"; and Miss Evelyn Shaw is excellent as Jane Adelaide Bloomfield.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—The Donaldson Bros. are here with their game-hunting burlesque Sports in a Jungle, which is very funny. J. W. Rickaby was loudly applauded for his eccentric songs; Pip and Powell have a smart duologue, A Perfect Woman; the King's College Boys give a "Students' Concert," which is well received; Hallem and Hayes were well applauded for their turn, their dancing being far above the average; Mena Brae sings and dances in her usual merry Dutch style; and Nora Emerald, comedienne; a dramatic sketch, The Organ-grinder; and Edward Clark and his winning widows are in the bill.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—The excellent programme provided here is headed by Queenie Leighton, whose catchy songs are delightfully rendered and loudly applauded. The dancing of Bonnie Goodwin's Four Real Apollo Piccaninnies is exceptionally smart; the athletic world introduce Bert Wickham, whose marvellous feats of strength are much admired; while the Three Orros have a good gymnastic display. Told in a Flat is a bright comedy sketch; Ralph and Nellie Howard have a pleasing musical entertainment which was highly appreciated; and other popular turns are the New Macs, Carl Rosine and Mlle. Margaret in an illusion, and Andy Burns, comedian.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Another big bill of excellent turns is provided here, the foremost being Star and Leslie, whose humour is most enjoyable. The Bros. Martine are clever on the xylophone; Grahame and Harrington Lane have a smart Parisian episode, A Daughter of Pleasure; Clown Barker and Rozska, Kendrick and Laura, the Bethos, Ajax and George, Herbert Rule, and W. T. Thompson and company in the sketch Watch the Cheese are all good turns.

Gaiety Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles Owen.—There is an excellent programme here. A Society Woman, a sketch presented by Alan Holt's company, being a big turn, while the acting all round was good. Woodhouse and Wells are very funny comedians, as also are Farr and Farland. Millie Denham is a charming comedienne, and Edgar Budden and Harry Taylor and Sylvia are well applauded.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Mr. Harry Tilbury's company occupies the boards here this week in His Dishonoured Wife. Mr. Victor Rae gives a creditable portrayal of Frank Lindon; Mr. Fred Owen displays his detective powers as Neil Locksley in grand style; as Lord Devant Mr. Horatio Sinclair proves most capable, and his accomplice (Tom Redman) is well presented by Mr. Bernard Webb; Mr. Harry Tilbury keeps the house in merriment as Micky Doolan, and the same might be said of Miss Etta Spalding as Araminta. Miss Arline T. George is particularly effective as Alice Harvey, and little Miss Phyllis gives a characteristic rendering of Mabel Lindon; Miss Belle Tilbury wins the hearts of all by her charming acting as Florence Lindon.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Sir John Hare is paying his last visit to Blackpool this week, and although the utmost enthusiasm prevails at every performance, there is naturally a touch of sadness in the air. During the early part of the week A Pair of Spectacles was the attraction, when Sir John repeated his world-famed impersonation of the benevolent Benjamin Goldfinch, and Mr. Charles Groves was equally successful as Uncle Gregory; Miss Mona K. Oram was delightfully natural as Mrs. Goldfinch, and Miss Amy Brandon Thomas pleasingly portrayed Lucy Lorimer. The other parts are also in the most capable hands. The Gay Lord Quex was in the bill for the latter part of the week, and Caste is to be played on Saturday.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Mr. Seymour Hicks and company are packing this popular house to overflowing every evening this week. The Gay Gordons is exactly suited to the palate of the holiday-makers, with which the town is now crowded. Mr. Hicks is a big favourite in Blackpool, and his Angus Graeme is equal to anything he has done before—which is saying a great deal. A capital comedian is Mr. Johnny Danvers, who plays Nervy Nat, and Mr. George Carroll is the right man for Edmund Sidons. Miss Zena Dare sings and dances nicely as Peggy; while Miss Madge Vincent as Victoria Sidons and Miss Nellie Dade as Charlotte Siddons also merit the highest commendation. A capital dancer is Mr. Will Bishop, who plays Jack McPhrisky. The chorus, dresses, and scenery are excellent.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Eugene Stratton tops a big holiday bill here this week, and his quaint characterisations again meet with marked approval. The Bros. Ashley contribute a sketch; Steve Bartle is a capable concertina soloist; Burley and Burley are clever acrobats; Harris and Worth find favour as comedians; Frank Hartley is a smart juggler; Florrie Forde is retained because of her great success last week; and George French is here for the same reason.

Hippodrome.—Manageress, Mrs. Fioni.—Pete and Juno, comedians, Patta Bella, vocalist, and the Bros. Harrison, comedians, are engaged here this week.

North Pier.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. James Walker.—A capital entertainment is provided here this week by Mr. Foden Williams, society entertainer; Mr. Richard Taylor, silfleur, ventriloquist, and mimic; Mr. Teddy Whittle, humorist; Mr. Hyam Long, musical humorist; Master W. Hyslop boy soprano; and Mr. Alfred Ainsworth, pianist.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company has fulfilled a successful engagement here in the drama entitled A Broken Heart. In the principal rôle of John Barnard, Mr. Frank Beresford plays in a vigorous manner; Mr. George M. Newall is good as the young man of fortune, Stephen Raylton; Mr. Herbert Barrs assumes the character of Gash Gills with ability; Mr. P. M. Wright is satisfactory as the Rev. Stainton; Mr. George Addison gives a good piece of character acting as Shrimps alias the Ostrich; and Miss Shella Walsh as Mary Barnard plays with artistic ability.

Gaiety.—Lessee, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baugh.—Heading the bill here this week we have Mr. J. H. Milburn, the popular vocal comedian and burlesque actor; France and Francis are clever comedy acrobats; Palette and his dog Max are very amusing; Fred Mayne supplies a humorous turn; Fern and Fawn have a laughable sketch, The Conqueror; and the Three Gilbeys are instrumentalists of merit.

The Hippodrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Doyle and O'Connell.—The engagement of Kennedy's Kiddies, comprising twelve clever juveniles, has proved a strong attraction here, and the pictures shown continue popular.

BOLTON. — Theatre Royal, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—An original mystery drama, The Girl With The Angel Face, is the attraction here this week. The play is presented by an excellent company (Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Millard's). Miss Florrie Green plays the title-part with such ability as repeatedly to call forth the execrations of the audience; Mr. Fred G. Evison displays a fine piece of character acting as Jasper Death, a former village sexton; Mr. Naylor Grimson is responsible for the dual part of Sir John Wentworth and Thomas Wentworth; Miss Phyllis Dailley is clever as Ena Wentworth; Miss Mildred Carr proves herself a capable comedienne in the character of Mollie Maitland; and others worthy of note are Mr. Cecil Mannering as the Rev. Gordon Cross; Mr. Allen Charles as the Hon. Percy Paget; Mr. Forbes Leighton as Matthew Crupps; Mr. Austin Mortimer as Stephen Arkwright; Mr. Fenton Wingate as Mark Fenning, and Miss Winifred Delevanti as Nellie.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—Big houses have this week welcomed the return of the musical sketch Dotty, by the Ten Loonies, mad musicians; another item in an excellent programme is a spectacular and mystic production, entitled Outflanked, in which Mr. Henry Coutts, protean actor, makes some remarkably quick changes. Also in the bill are Mr. Will Freedo, comedian and dancer; Mike Cray, comedy juggler, and his dog Dooley; A. G. Spry, Anglo-Australian comedian; McDonald and Huntingdon, eccentric entertainers; Harry Barrett and Jack Knowles, versatile comedians; Alec Kendal, comedian and patterer, and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Nothing succeeds like success, and The Merry Widow, as presented by Mr. George Edwardes's company, is an illustration of the axiom. The play was most cordially received on Monday night, when a packed house demanded calls at the end of each act. Miss Clara Evelyn as Sonia was a conspicuous success, her acting being finished and graceful, and her singing delightful; Mr. Basil Foster played the part of Danilo with rare skill; Miss Mary Grey's fine voice was heard to great advantage in the character of Natalie, which she played and dressed with exquisite taste; as Baron Popoff Mr. Lionel Victor is fitted with a part which suits him admirably, and gives him full opportunity to display his undoubted humour; Mr. Grafton Williams as Novikovitch and Mr. Albert Kavanagh as Nisch were delightfully droll. Mention must be made of the valuable services rendered by Mr. Harrison Frewin, the musical director.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Under the direction of Mr. Charles H. Williams the farcical comedy of Dear Old Charlie was presented for the first time here on Monday, when a large audience assembled and entered heartily into the humour of the situations. As Charles Ingleton Mr. George Lestocq is very amusing; Mr. S. Trelawney as the gloomy bore, Thomas Dumpie, and Mr. C. Douglas Cox as Gabriel Peploe contribute largely to the fun of the piece; the pompous Colonel Fishbourne is capitally played by Mr. Duncan Young; Miss Leonard Braham in the part of his showy wife various companies now appearing at the several places of amusement in the town.

BRIGHTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company opened here on Monday with Under Two Flags, and has been doing excellent business. Owing to indisposition Miss Molesworth was unable to appear as Cigarette, but the part was admirably sustained by Miss Agnes Verity; Mr. Mark Blow as Bertie Cecil Royellieu, afterwards known as Louis Victor, achieved distinct success; Mr. Austen Mulroy was excellent as Lord Rockingham; Mr. Arthur Elwyn did well as Colonel Chanteroy, the Black Hawk; Mr. Dermot Fitz-Gibbon was suited as Lord Royellieu; Mr. Harry Benson proved very entertaining as the valet, Rake; Miss Kitty Saville was a pleasing Lavina; and the remaining characters were ably sustained.

ALHAMBRA.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—Malcolm Scott, "the woman who knows," evokes hearty laughter with his amusing patter; Sam Mayo, "the immobile one," is very humorous; Sterling and Love are highly successful in A Domestic Musical Squabble; Chummie La Mara's songs are warmly appreciated; Takio, a Japanese mimic, is well received; the Leytons are smart as "Bertie and the Barmaid"; Ina Lorimer is a pleasing comedienne; Ray and Lingard are entertaining in the comedy duologue, The First of April; George Fairburn is a capital comedian; and the Alhambrascope pictures are excellent.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Lafayette, "America's foremost entertainer," gives a clever and very amusing turn, replete with marvellous illusions; Marcel and Boris are smart equilibrists; Harry Friskey is an amusing comedy juggler; Carlton, comedian and card manipulator, wins cordial applause; Mlle. Edwin is a skilful contortionist; W. Fulbrook and company are well received in Astronomy; Dolly Rose is a dainty comedienne and dancer; the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is here this week with Lady Frederick. Mrs. Brown Potter submits an artistic and charming impersonation of Lady Frederick Berolles; Mr. Philip Cunningham gives an excellent portrayal of Paradine Fouldes; Mr. Herbert Garthorne acquits himself admirably as Lord Mereston; Miss Phyllis Menners is well suited as the dressmaker, Mme. Claude. The play is attracting large audiences.

PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Miss Annie Hughes and her company, opening their second week here on Monday, gave a capital performance of Miss Tommy. Miss Hughes presented a delightful enactment of the title-rôle, and won frequent and hearty applause; Mr. Evelyn Vernon was very effective as Peter Hope; Mr. Alick Chumley submitted a good impersonation of William Clodd; Miss Athol Stewart was excellent as Dick Danvers; and Miss Elinor Foster gave an able rendering of the part of "Mr. Morrison."

COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. M. Barrasford; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Fred Bauer.—The exhibition of animated pictures here continues to draw good houses. The films, The Territorials Under Canvas at Hollingbury Camp and The Court Physician are excellent, descriptive, and thrilling; and others meriting especial recognition are The Gladiators' Fight, the Haunted Castle, A Mother's Secret, and The Lottery Ticket. Miss Violet Tulley contributes capital illustrated songs.

HOVE TOWN HALL.—The London Animated Picture Company's exhibition here continues to do good business. The portrayal of the Ober-Ammergau Passion Play is an especial feature.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Leslie Faber and his company are here for the week. On Monday evening The Liars was played to a good house. Mr. Faber presented a convincing performance of Colonel Sir Christopher Deering; Miss Winifred Arthur Jones acted admirably as Lady Jessica Nepean; Miss Ethelwyn Arthur-Jones was pleasing as Lady Rosamond Tatton; Mr. Lewis Willoughby was sufficiently fervent and expressive as Edward Falkner; Mr. Walter Gregory and Mr. Frank Bickley did well as Gilbert and George Nepean; and the remaining parts were all carefully played by the Misses Elizabeth Watson, Hilda Moore, May Saker, Beatrice Ainley, Messrs. Richard Neville, Jerold Manville, Frank Lathom, John Moorhead, and George Stretton. The Manœuvres of Jane and The Head of the Firm were also billed.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—The Midnight Mail is being well played here by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Willard's company. Mr. George Havard acts admirably as Harry Steyne; Miss Trissie Humphreys is pleasing as Mary Steyne; Mr. Charles Carte presents a highly creditable impersonation of Billy Brewer; Miss Daisy Clifford does well as Nancy Brewer; and other important parts are well acted by Mr. Charles H. Longden, Mr. J. Mann, and Miss Jeannie Weston. The play is staged in a very effective manner.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Master Edward Garratt is amusing as the Little Stranger in the racing sketch, An Outside Chance, and is well supported by other members of the company. The Jackley Trio score with a pot-pourri speciality; Alex Prince is a clever concertina soloist; the Lyric Mummers, vocal duologue artists, are successful; Maud Prenton is a pleasing comedienne; Sam Spira, society entertainer, is successful; and Madge Allan is a capable comedienne and dancer. The performance concludes with a good selection of animated pictures by Vernon's Bioscope.

EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Charcot succeeds in mystifying the audience with his "automatic man"; Henry Barnes and company present a good act, The School of Dancing; the Six Idols being exceptionally clever dancers; Queenie May is a pleasing character-vocalist; Eva Hope and company score in selections from Dickens; Angus Strong, baritone vocalist, is successful; Mabel Carr is a capable comedienne; and the Geoffs successfully present a smart comedy sketch. The performance concludes with animated pictures.

BROUGHTON. — VICTORIA THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—The Great Awakening was welcomed by a full house on Monday, when Miss Maud Hildyard made an admirable Lola Selby; Mr. Stephen Langton ably assisted as Guy Rogan; James Selby was well played by Mr. Wallis Clark; Mr. Cecil Gray did well in the dual capacity of Sir Harry Merton and his son; Mr. Rule Pyott as Billy Brass and Miss Cissy Podmore as Selina Worts capably sustained the comedy parts; Mr. Dudley Wynton adequately presented Captain Harry Lambert; and a charming Molly Merton was that by Miss Fay Garnet-Vayne. Mr. David Curtis, Mr. Tracy Barrow, Mr. Godfrey Sheldon, Mr. Eric Dane, Mr. T. Bancroft, and Mr. Edwin Gordon did well in their several characters. The scenery was excellent.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. De Hague Body.—Messrs. Elliman's company, with A Heart's Desire, is here for the week. Miss Lily Prescott as the half-caste heroine gives a successful rendition of that somewhat original part; Miss Gertrude Gilman is a pleasing Elsie Beresford; Mr. R. F. Stacey acts with spirit and pathos as Lord St. Ives; as does also Mr. Archie Ainsleigh (Eric). A villain of the most pronounced type is Mr. Edward Leroy (Luke Forest); and an amusing quartette are Mr. J. Mitchell (Bertie), Mr. John Hames (Coombes), Miss Blanche Leroy (Gwendoline), and Miss N. S. Malone (Julie). The two latter contribute graceful dances.

BURY (LANCS.). — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The programme here for the "Wakes" week is a capital one. Large crowds have patronised the show, which includes Minnie Kaufmann, the clever trick cyclist; the Mirthful Mariners (Will Probyn and company) in a nautical burlesque; Chinko, the juggler; Clive Watts, comedian and dancer; Fitzroys, gymnasts; Fraser and French, dancers; Nellie Walton, singing mill girl; Nancy Renshaw, laughing comedienne; and the Ottograph pictures.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The pictures are again very interesting this week. The chief ones are Summer Months in North Europe, A Cruel Joke, Catching a Tartar, Oh, that Boil, and Stolen Boots. Variety turns are given by J. S. James, banjoist and bone soloist, and the Russels, American song illustrators.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons.—A capital programme includes the Foy Brothers and company in a sketch, Pat in China; the L.C.C.'s, musicians who play on novel instruments; Mr. Henri Vernon Harcourt, protean actor; Harry Blake, comedian; Pat O'Connor, step dancer; Hilda de Grey, burlesque actress; Jack Foley, comedian; the Camerons, comedians; and Louie Hurman, vocalist.

BUXTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Buxton Gardens Company, Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—The first three nights of this week were devoted to a return visit of The Hypocrites, played by Mr. Silvanus Dauncey's company. As the Rev. Edgar Linnell Mr. A. B. Imeson proved himself an actor of exceptional ability, and well suited to the part; Mr. Wilmore was very ably played by Mr. Alfred S. Barber; a capital sketch of the son, Lennard Wilmore, came from Mr. King Fordham, and Mr. Charles Harley gave a spirited picture of Mr. Viveash, the family lawyer; Mr. Cecil Brooking was typically clerical as Rev. Everard Daubeney, and Mr. Sydney Hamilton played effectively as Sir John Plugenet; Mr. Hanworth Browning stage-managed and played Dr. Blaney; Miss Gladys Harvey acted with charm and power as the ill-fated Rachel Neve, and Miss Gladys Purnell played nicely as Helen Plugenet; Miss Florence Steventon was amusing as the busybody, Mrs. Blaney, and Miss Madge Severne played efficiently her small part of Mrs. Linnell; Miss Violet Harley was successful as Patty; Miss Amy Ravenscroft must be given unstinted praise for her excellent and artistic work as Mrs. Wilmore. For the remainder of the week we had Mr. James Welch and company in When Knights were Bold.

CARDIFF. — NEW THEATRE. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Most popular has proved this week's visit of The Beloved Vagabond, for the excellent representation of which Mr. Mouillot's No. 1 company is responsible. The piece has been remodelled since its production by Mr. Tree at His Majesty's. A fourth act has been added, and the ending of the piece is now in conformity with that of the novel. Mr. Arthur Royston undertakes the rôle of Gaston de Nerac, and depicts with exceptional skill the various moods and exhilarating adventures of the philosophic Bohemian. Miss Nita Faydon achieves great success by her perfect rendition of Blanquette, a part which seems particularly suitable for this gifted actress; Miss Kathleen Harrington displays much ability by her handling of the rôle of Joanna; Mr. Ramsey Macbeth's histrionic powers are given full scope in the character of Asticot; the Comte de Verneul is portrayed by Mr. Warburton Gamble with a regard for details which denotes the true actor; and the impersonation of Lord Rushworth by Mr. Alfred Drayton is the work of an artist of experience. The staging of the play is admirable.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—Mr. George Robey is paying a more than welcome return visit this week, and on Monday night two crammed houses accorded the popular comedian a hearty reception. A clever sketch, entitled The Boatswain's Mate, is presented by T. B. Vaughan and John Lawson's company in humorous fashion; a great favourite is Miss Ethel Haydon, who sang her numbers so sweetly as to evoke enthusiasm; Gus Garrick proves himself a comedian of undeniable merit; Tennyson and Wallis, patter comedians and dancers, cause considerable fun; Frank Bernard and company are first class in a comedy act entitled Hello! and Bert Weston is an excellent comedian. The Sisters Grovini are graceful and clever gymnasts; Maggie Rimmer, singer and dancer; and a bioscopic film complete.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Rollo Balmain.—The second week under the new management has been crowned with even greater success. The piece in evidence is Driven From Home, an exceptionally strong drama, presented by Andrew Melville's capable company. Mr. George Beresford fills the rôle of Walter Hatherleigh with credit; in Mr. Charles Burdon the part of Geoffrey has a smart exponent; and Mr. Felix Pitt is admirably suited as Anthony Raybrook. Miss Nancy Roberts enacts the part of Laura Raybrook in artistic style; Miss Edith Leslie as Margaret Bailey is greatly admired; and Miss Lizzie Ingles deerves praise for her rendering of Barbara Ashdown. Jabez Thomas is safe in the hands of Mr. Harry Cornwall; and Mr. Fred C. Imbert is a successful John Anderson. Mr. Edward Finlay (Dick Saunders) and Mr. Percy Dawsone (Willie) are worthy of mention.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Big audiences have been drawn during the week. The Six Brothers Luck fill a very large proportion of the entertainment, appearing in two of their best sketches, The Hermit and Lift 'Ems, Ltd. The amusing combination prove quite up to expectations. The Kremka Brothers are a duo of particularly smart acrobats; Irene and Morton do well in their clever comedy interlude; an extra turn is given by Bert Maddison, a Welsh character impersonator, who naturally takes well in Cardiff; and other turns are contributed by Georgina Middleton, a dainty vocalist; Millie Howell, a refined character singer; and Alpho, a clever ventriloquist.

LARGE audiences assembled on Monday to show Cardiffians' appreciation of the first year's existence of the Palace, that day being the anniversary of the opening. In the absence of the lessee, Mr. Arthur Burton expressed his principal's thanks for the support given him during the previous twelve months.

CARLISLE.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—This week Mr. Harry Foxwell's company fills the bill with An Abandoned Woman. Miss Ruth Zillwood, who appears in the principal rôle, gains well-deserved appreciation and applause; Mr. Teddy Myles, as the comedy Policeman, evokes laughter; Mr. Herbert M. King contributes a sound performance as Captain Seaton; and Mr. Frederick Hendry is quite successful as Sir Marmaduke Seaton; and Mr. Wm. Fraser-Brunner makes the heavy part conspicuous.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Morgan.—Jock Whiteford, Scotch comedian, who tops the bill this week, is paying his first visit here; the Hartley Wonders are the "last word" in a jumping act; Henry Hilton is a conjuror with a nice style and good tricks; Hicks and Hunter contribute a laughable comedy act; and Maggie Walsh, the Lancashire mill-girl, sings her way into favour. Cambo, the musical monkey, is quite at home on quite a variety of instruments; Arthur Melrose is an excellent comedian; and some fine pictures by the Pepiscope complete.

PUBLIC HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Thomas France; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Uden.—That excellent film, Napoleon and the English Soldier, is the principal attraction submitted by the Edison Animated Picture Company, and is attracting good audiences.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott are here on a second week's visit, and opened on Monday to a large audience with A Stolen Birthright. The company are thoroughly capable and the scenery quite adequate. Mr. Draycott appears in the rôle of Stefano and makes a great success with a clever and telling reading; Mrs. Draycott's portrayal of Princess Miranda also merits much praise; the knavery of Count Marco loses none of its sinister effect at the hands of Mr. George Arthur; Mr. George Steel's impersonation of Prince Andrea is admirable throughout; Mr. Charles H. Herberte is noticeable for good work as Prince Antonio, and Mr. Wilfred J. Short is thoroughly in his element as Prince Michele; Miss Eva Norman sings effectively, and is a dainty and charming Nita; with his quaint and humorous business Mr. Harry Scratchard causes much laughter as Pedro; Miss Issa Steel makes the most of her part as Fidella; and Mr. Harry Hazell makes a capital sergeant. Other plays billed for the week are The Colleen Bawn, The Octoroon, and The Ticket of Leave Man.

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manger, Mr. Will H. Emerson.—The entertaining programme here finds favour with appreciative audiences. De Vere's Marionettes score a decided success; Nellie Nord on many musical instruments contributes an enjoyable turn; the Loyal Dominion Co. furnish some amusing, instructive, and interesting living pictures, which are vastly enjoyed.

CHESTER. — ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Corman's Juveniles are scoring in their scena, The Waif, the best individual effort being that of a little girl who sings "Sunset turns the ocean's blue to gold." Tom Garland has a novel and well-worked ventriloquial act, and also submits a conjuring entertainment under the name of Bert Anderson; the Sisters Clifton are applauded for their skipping-rope dance; a turn out of the ordinary is provided by the Hughes Brothers Trio, in a football match on bicycles, which is greatly appreciated; Flo Chevalier renders her songs in a sweet voice; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shelley appear with success in a merry little trifle, entitled Betsy's Blunder; O'Malley and Brown, the popular comedians, are responsible for a laughable ten minutes; and Vernon's Bioscope projects an entire change of films weekly.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hemingway.—Messrs. A. Northway and W. V. Garrod's excellent company is appearing here this week in the new play entitled A Country Girl in London. The drama is of exceptional merit, and the scenery (by Mr. E. Egerton) and mounting particularly well done. Mr. W. V. Garrod represents Frank Gordon in his usual masterly style, Mr. J. B. Sheridan doing exceedingly well as Mr. John Hamilton; Godfrey Clinton is rendered in effective and telling manner by Mr. G. Moreton Williams, while Mr. E. W. Avery as Heinrich Oppenheim and Mr. Clifford Marle as Joe Smithers are very capable; Marjorie Hamilton is sympathetically played by Miss B. Kingston, Miss Josephine Colona giving a charming and powerful interpretation of Gwendoline Gordon; and Miss Lesley Adair is well placed as Adelaide Puddyphat.

CLACTON-ON-SEA. — PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Harold Montague; Business-Manager, Mr. G. Ivor Sparke.—Harold Montague and his Vagabonds are performing to large and appreciative audiences here. Mr. Montague keeps the house in roars with his item, The Choral Society. With Miss Olive Sparke he introduces some clever duets. The latter lady charmingly renders "Hunting for a husband." Miss Leslie Lu Lu, in her songs and dances, is as vivacious as ever; and Miss Marie Longmore proves herself an able vocalist. Mr. Leslie Burgess renders his songs capably; Mr. Arthur Thomas cleverly manipulates various musical instruments; and Montague's White Ladies' Orchestra scores with some excellent selections.

PALACE-BY-THE-SEA.—Managing-Director, Mr. P. W. Willard.—Farley, Rennie, and Farley head the bill here this week, and are enthusiastically received in Fun at a Railway Station; Duncan and Brasque make a hit with their playlet, Bluff; Ida Kathrena, "the human doll," gives a clever performance; Eugene and Wille, "musical grotesques," do some clever business; Miss Vera Patey, "the Summer Girl," charmingly renders catchy chorus songs; and Madge Daley, comedienne, Ethel Dove, character artist, and Johnny Worman appear to advantage. The Palascope shows some fine pictures.

WEST CLIFF GARDENS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Graham Russell and Bentley.—Miss Emily Foxcroft, contralto, on a return visit, is meeting with great success; Mr. Fred Vallance, conjurer and ventriloquist, gives some smart turns; and Mr. Joseph Bull is a revelation as a banjoist. The trio—Bert Graham, Bernard Russell, and Will Bentley—score all along the line with their humorous items.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. W. F. Jury; Manager, Mr. Dudley Harcourt.—The films displayed here are as instructive and amusing as ever, and include, among others, Crazy Conjurer, Corsican's Revenge, Lady Doctor's Husband, Brigands of Calabria, and £100 Reward. The vaudeville portion of the entertainment is in the able hands of the Henris, clever equilibrists, and Miss Clarisette Florence, in illustrated songs.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—The first three nights of the present week were blank, the last three, with a Saturday matinée, being apportioned to Miss Ellen Terry and company in Captain Brassbound's Conversion.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter De Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Mr. Frank Hardie and company are paying a return with the dramatic sketch For the Honour of the Regiment, the cast comprising, in addition to Mr. Hardie himself, Miss Irene Carlton, Mr. Arthur Stratton, Mr. Reginald Payne, and Mr. Fred Dobell. Kyoto, the acme of versatility, is roundly applauded for his varied entertainment; Jack Roland scores remarkably with his "Bacchus" song and other contributions; Phil Bransby appeals strongly to the coster-loving public; Fancourt and Rubie work particularly hard with their comedy business and with success; Chas. Banks and Woof, also on a return visit, are well received; and May Geraldine is an appealing comedienne and dancer.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. William Greet's chief company opened a week's engagement on Monday in The Sign of the Cross to a crowded house. The exacting part of Marcus Superbus was filled by Mr. Cyril Austen-Lee in a manner that left nothing to be desired. As the heroine, Mercia, Miss Constance Little gave a convincing conception of her rôle. She possesses a pleasing voice and emotional instincts, and holds the sympathy of her audience throughout. Mr. Frank Wood made an admirable Glabrio, and amused in his humorous ways; Mr. C. Yorke as Nero was very successful; Miss Lily Ward was a most impressive Bernice; Miss Edith Drayson was very realistic as Stephanos; Mr. Charles Aldred as Tigellinus and Mr. J. Weatherall as Licinius were effective; and Mr. Arthur Budd as Virtarius was most satisfactory. The other members of the company acquitted themselves creditably. The staging and scenery were capital.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—A large and appreciative audience witnessed a return visit of that powerful historical drama A Royal Divorce, presented by Mr. W. W. Kelly and a strong company. Miss Margaret Watson gives a highly finished rendering of the Empress Josephine; Mr. Keith Fraser is to the fore with a very fine impersonation of Napoleon; Miss Maude Lacey makes a charming Stephanie; Miss Winnie Tempest displays marked ability as the haughty Marie Louise.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. L. Barry.—The top of the bill is occupied by the Geni Family, Continental Risley acrobats, whose feats are remarkably well executed; Mackinnon's Scottish Meisters, in their vocal scena, Ancestral Spirits, are good entertainers, their singing being delightful; the Three Cunards are dancers of exceptional ability; Charles Lilburn is full of funny sayings and songs, and Arthur Albert, the popular actor-vocalist, had a hearty reception. Other artists are Ivy Aberdare, dancer, and Tiny Arnold, an entertaining little artist. A fine series of pictures finish a good programme.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. K. Draco.—The Craggs head the bill with a comedy sketch in which their well-known skill is evident; the veteran J. W. Rowley is well received; Carl Lynn is very successful as an imitator of wild animals; the Lyric Quartette captivate the house in illustrated quartettes; and other well-rendered items are those of Alf Drinkwater, comedian; Sisters Allen, duettists and dancers; the Cromwells, comedy jugglers; Wilson and Waring, and Harry Marte, comedian. The Bioscope pictures conclude.

CREWE.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—An excellent programme here this week includes Lack and Ford Trio, clever comedy acrobats; Ethel Yorke, comedienne, sings well; Miss Maie on the wire is good; Harry Brayne and Bert Lloyd, in The Tree of Truth, create laughter; Mozetto, assisted by Button, does some smart juggling; W. P. Sheen makes a hit with his songs; Wellesley and Deveyne's company, in a sketch, The Professor's Secret, is entertaining, and the pictures on the Operascope conclude.

CROYDON.—HIPPODROME AND NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Jackson Hayes; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Samuel James and Newman Maurice.—A capital programme is provided here. The Gelderns are clever magicians; Ivy Dene is a smart comedienne and dancer; Hilda Mascot is a dainty comedienne; The Rivers, duettists and dancers, are appreciated; the Four Kellys are accomplished acrobats; two fine sketches, entitled Kingdom of Hate and A Russian Spy, are submitted by Miss Carlotta de Yonson and company; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux Pictures are particularly interesting.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. James Bell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hal Cummings.—Daly's Circus is here with a good company, including Zama, gymnast; Miss Lena Scott, wire walking; Knoto, contortionist; Robert Yelding, equestrian; Raymond's performing dogs; Idento Brothers, comedy jugglers; and Leo Bertro, with his marvellous midget pony on the revolving table. The wrestling match, Hackenschmidt v. Rogers, is portrayed on the Bioscope.

NEW HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Hersee.—Selma Braatz, lady juggler, heads the bill, and scores a big success; Matthews and Cowper, in the sketch When The Clock Went Wrong, take well; Harry and Elsie Mayville, Lilliputian novelty artists, contribute a good entertainment; and other good turns are those of Smarie Brothers, acrobatic eccentrics; Fyne and Hurley; Sam Redfern, comedian; and Amy Marsden, low comedy artist. The Pepiscope provides an interesting feature.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Langley Wyatt.—Miss Helen Roberts is appearing this week as the star turn in a series of classical dances, including the Salomé dance, and is accorded a hearty reception; the Four Rios, described as America's foremost gymnasts, are responsible for a distinctly neat and clever turn; the Bendini Trio are exceedingly good; their pantomimical efforts causing a continuous roar of laughter; Ernest Clifford is a praiseworthy comedian and dancer; Elton and Elms, triple bar knockabouts, are clever and amusing; Spry and Monti, in a hodge-podge of nonsense, are diverting; Jack Manley is successful as a character vocalist; and Ethel Donna is a charming comedienne and dancer. The Bioscope also adds to an entertaining programme.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Miss Bonwin Carlton's company, in The Plucky Nipper, furnish this week's bill of fare. Miss Carlton undertakes the rôle of Polly Hittard with first-rate ability; Miss Kitty Maynard as the blind girl, Daisy Paget, also earns high encomiums; and other hard-working members of a good cast are Messrs. F. W. Lowther, E. Surrey, F. Dalend, and S. Moore.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—The first visit here of The Girl Who Lost Her Character, as presented by Mr. Douglas Bruce's company, has excited the keenest interest. Mr. Edward McLean pleases with an earnest realisation of the Rev. Robert Everton, bestowing a worthy carefulness in action and utterance admirably in agreement with the strength and charm; the heroic rôle played by Mr. Harold Macartney is sustained with decision and impressiveness; as Captain Geoffrey Caversham, the schemer and scoundrel, Mr. Richard Ferris is most satisfactory; Marian Franklyn is in the excellent hands of Miss Lydia Mannington; Miss Madge Morley, as Molly Vernon, acts and speaks effectively; the work of Miss Sybil Hare in the part of Rose Seymour exerts a potent charm; much merriment was forthcoming from the joint exertions of Mr. Geo. H. Asquin as Dick Punch, a whimsical, eccentric young soldier, and of Miss Mary Poulton as the dressmaker Isabella Jones. Mr. Augustine Bowerman was a successful exponent of Detective Weathersby; Mr. Geo. Mitchell spared no effort in his depiction of the repentant forger; and very droll was Mr. Campbell as the market quack doctor.

DONCASTER.—GRAND THEATRE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Musical Keiths top the bill here in clever renderings of popular songs; Helen McGregor, a Scotch contralto vocalist, greatly pleases by her singing of Scotch ballads; Primavesi, with his novel juggling tricks, is highly appreciated; Sisters Edwardes, in their clever dancing, excite admiration; Bert Bowden, comedian, is warmly received; and Dot Stephens, in impressions of prominent artists and her phenomenal success, "What is home?" is a great favourite; the Bouncing Dillons, comedy gymnasts, are most amusing.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director Mr. Alfred Hemming; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—Mr. Milton Bode's Belle of Mayfair company, under the direction of Mr. Hugh Nolan, is here this week. Miss Queenie Finnis presents an artistic realisation of Julia; her maid is well enacted by Miss Blanche Astley; Miss Ayres Tandy sings remarkably well; Mr. Lawrence Wenley is an interesting Hugh Meredith, and the other rôles are sincerely played.

GAIETY THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—Miss Hook of Holland is giving great delight here this week. Mr. Arthur Reynolds in the title-rôle is quaintly humorous; Mr. Frederick Lyne displays genuine capacity for low comedy; Miss Marie Wilson as Miss Hook of Holland is really charming, playing with exquisite taste and admirable artistry. The other members of Mr. George Dance's company make the characters effective.

THE PALACE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—Miss Vesta Tilley is at the Palace, and the audiences have this week been enormous. She is a real magnetic attraction. Other turns here are Alcide Capitaine, Dale and O'Mally, May Newall, Helen Charles, the Villons, Binns and Binns, all clever, all successful. In addition, Vernon's Bioscope and dancing, under the direction of Mr. Harry Woods.

DERBY CASTLE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alfred Kelly.—Mr. Carter Livesey and Miss Lillian Roseberry present a clever sketch, The Would-be Actors, which evokes laughter; Mr. Charles Bignell, with his new songs, which have catchy choruses, excites enthusiastic applause; Marin and Lona show great talent in an original juggling and acrobatic act; Humpsti Bumsti is a very funny interlude; Pinnifax and Paulo are remarkably smart; and other clever turns are those of Helena Cecile, a society entertainer, and Sylvo, a quaint juggler.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. F. J. Connor.—Large audiences have responded to the attractions of a liberal programme. Whimsical Walker is a great success, his witticisms being really original; Little Mona Connor, the talented daughter of the proprietor, gives a dashing performance on her pretty performing pony Shamrock. The programme also includes Mons. de Marco and his wonderful animals, monster baboons, pretty ponies, clever dogs; Mlle. Leah Claire in a really wonderful display of horsemanship; James and Jenny Gee in their act on the revolving wire.

OTHER amusements in Douglas are Mr. Charles Dare at the Empire Theatre, Mr. Frederick Buxton with his Pierrot Village, and Messrs. Adeler and Sutton on Onchan Head with minstrelsy.

DOVER.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. F. G. Whitelock.—Miss Clarice Mayne, at the top of the bill here, has become the rage with her well-rendered ditties; Lallie Brooke has a charming and artistic scena, entitled Girls, Past and Present; the high-class dancing of C. S. Melvin, the Scotch comedian, rouses encores; the Havannas Troupe introduce novelties into their acrobatic act; the effective violin playing of Mollie Seymour is duly appreciated; and a series of interesting and up-to-date films on the Hippodrome Bioscope meets with a favourable reception.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—That amusing comedy The Private Secretary is drawing full houses nightly. As the Rev. Robert Spalding Mr. Donald Price Evans evokes hearty laughter; and Miss Florence Tressilian cleverly enacts the rôle of Edith Marsland; Mr. W. Hargreaves gives an exceedingly droll impersonation of Mr. Cattermole; and Mrs. Alfred Davis excellently sustains the part of Miss Ashford; Mr. Marsland is capitally embodied by Mr. Frank Stanley; and Miss Cicely Wade makes a pleasing Mrs. Stead; Mr. Frederick Tyrrell is a capable exponent of Mr. Gibson; Miss Dorothy Ripley plays with success as Eva Webster; Mr. Lawrence Grove impersonates Douglas Cattermole with credit; and Mr. Andrew Wright is satisfactory as Harry Marsland. The laughable farce, The Wild Man from Borneo, capitally played by Mr. Lawrence Grove, Miss Florence Tressilian, Mr. Andrew Wright, and Miss Dorothy Ripley, precedes.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's excellent company, in The Silver King, is patronised by large audiences nightly. Mr. Fred B. Daviss as Wilfred Denver acts with force and convincing sincerity; and Miss Edyth Goodall portrays with charm and feeling the rôle of Mrs. Denver; Mr. Stanton Sharp is to be commended for his admirable impersonation of Captain Herbert Skinner; and as Cissy Miss Florrie Hale Daviss is decidedly good; Jaikes has an able exponent in Mr. Edward J. George; and Miss Kathleen Maude acquits herself well as Olive Skinner. Mr. Arthur Wright does full justice to the part of Elijah Coombe, and Miss Mabel Gardener gives a good account of herself as Mrs. Gamage; Mr. George Belmore makes the most of Henry Crockett; and Frank Selwyn is satisfactorily played by Mr. Charles Birch.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. S. Pearse; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Hereford Jones.—Among the pictures exhibited here this week are: An Intruding Husband, The Magnetic Removal, Catching a Tartar, The Troubles of a House Agent, A Good Repentance, The Shipwrecker, &c.; the variety artists Fritz and Fritz, comedians and dancers.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—George Formby scores his usual success with his mirth-provoking songs. Another capital turn is that of Miss May Mars, whose catchy chorus songs are nightly encored; the Northern Troupe of dancers are warmly applauded for their graceful and artistic performance; and Bi Bo Bi, eccentric comedian, causes many a laugh. The Sisters Belmont, duettists and dancers, contribute acceptably; much hilarity is created by Rose and Calvert, with a comedy act; Miss Barlee and Phil Smith, comedy musicians, are greatly appreciated; and Cissy Curlette, a chic comedienne, meets with a flattering reception. The pictures are as usual interesting, and the Empire tournament completes a good programme.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The Eight 'Varsity Girls, in a vocal and dancing act, entitled A Musical Evening, give a clever and much-appreciated turn; the Martonelli Troupe provide a smart acrobatic and vaulting entertainment; and Gibbons and Bell present a pleasing speciality act. Lilian Lee, a charming soprano, meets with a cordial reception; in their musical dialogue, "Down South." Gala and Norris are highly successful; and Violet Gillis is a dainty comedienne and dancer; Harry Verdon, in his ventriloquial act, is a popular turn; the Brothers Lecardo are diverting acrobats; Will Walton is an amusing comedian; and the Bioscope, depicting the Marathon Race, concludes.

ROUND ROOM ROTUNDA.—The Irish Animated Photo Company commenced a short season here on Saturday last, when an excellent programme was presented to a large audience. The films, which are both instructive and amusing, include: The Pierrot's Talisman, Quebec to Ni and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Harry Peters.

Pavilion, Kingstown.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—The Anglo-Indians are appearing here this week in A Musical Comedy without a Plot, and drawing capital houses. Miss Ethel Bryant is warmly applauded for her rendering of "In an Old Sedan Chair"; Mr. Harrison Brockbank's powerful voice is heard to advantage in several popular numbers; and Miss Kitty Kennedy Allen, a dainty comedienne, scores a decided success. An enjoyable turn is given by Mr. Alf Johnson, character impersonator; and Miss Lilian Messon, soprano vocalist, contributes some capital songs. The comedian, Mr. Kennedy Allen, gains deserved applause; and Mr. James M. Lowe ably assists at the piano.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here this week: Professor Wallace, novelty ventriloquist; Harold Colin, comedian; Will Rollason, baritone; Nellie McMerry, comedienne; Fox and Fox, duettists and dancers; Will Titman, comedian and lady impersonator; together with the cinematograph.

DUDLEY.—Opera House.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. Lewis Waller's principal company, in Robin Hood, is greatly appreciated here this week. Mr. Ethelbert Edwards in the title-rôle is a big success, and displays distinct artistic ability; and the part of the heroine Lady Marion is played by Miss Lilian Stennis with remarkable power and pathos; Mr. Lawrence Tessier makes a bold and manly Will Scarlett; Mr. H. Elliot Ball fills in the part of the despotic Prince John in convincing style; Mr. F. Clive Ross combines effective general-managership with the humorous part of Little John; and Mr. C. Bruce Winston is a jovial and refreshing Friar Tuck. An excellent Adela is found in Miss Laura Flockton; and Miss Gertrude De Burgh plays Alison in a pretty and natural style. The piece is well staged and the scenery excellent.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. B. Peberdy.—An enjoyable programme this week includes the following clever and well-known artists: The Brothers Ross, in comedy act and boxing competition; the Fixe X Rays, very smart athletic lunatics; Madge Bryce, a charming contralto; Maudie Beaumont, a lady with a big voice; Nellie Sheldon, comedienne; Ramsey Trio, knockabouts; and Alfred Grady, comedian and dancer. Excellent pictures are given on the Empire Bioscope.

EASTBOURNE.—Devonshire Park Theatre.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. Wentworth Croke presented the new version of The Christian during the first half of the week. An admirably earnest portrayal of the Hon. John Storm came from Mr. Roy Redgrave, and Miss Daisy Scudamore brought much artistic endeavour to bear upon her reading of the ever-varying part of Glory Quayle. Mr. Wilfred Noy's Horatio Drake merited fully the very warm commendation it received; Mr. Herbert Hewetson's Lord Robert Ure was depicted in sufficiently lurid colours; Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn contributed a powerful study of the outspoken Father Lamplugh; Mr. John T. Hooker caused no little amusement as Archdeacon Wealthy; Miss Molly Hayden made a delightfully natural Mrs. Callender, Miss Cora Deane easily gained sympathy for the cruelly-wronged Polly Love, and Miss Florence Hunt was clever as Black Meg. Brewster's Millions is the week-end attraction.

Royal Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Holloway.—The bill is headed by Charles Baldwin's comedians and pantomimists in a new absurdity entitled The Bank Clerks (an amalgam of rough-and-tumble pantomime and melodrama). Tamanoto is an expert wire-walker and perpendicular rope performer; the Gypsy Girls (four in number) are warmly appreciated for their admirably-rendered vocal quartettes; Mollie Doon is a dainty and refined comedienne and dancer; Ruby Emerson is an altogether charming comedienne; and Mark Henton (the mirthful one) and Hippodrome Pictures complete the programme.

Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. G. Hayes.—Mr. George Dance's company is appearing here this week, and on Monday evening attracted a full house. A musical comedy sketch, The Local Amateurs, smartly acted and well staged, caused much laughter; Miss Francis Migley is a pretty, bright, and attractive Molly; Mr. G. B. Hargreaves works hard in some funny business as the Sailor; Mr. Edward Royston does excellent duty as Seth; and Mr. Fred Richards is full of effective vivacity as Mons. Jules. Another sketch, The Burglar's Ball, proved very successful. The smart work of Mr. Billy Stephens as Swank, and the handsome presence and capital acting of Miss Florence Hylton as Lady Humphreys, are distinctive features. Miss Maud Dennis gives a weirdly fascinating "Salomé" dance; Mlle. Leonie de Lausanne contributes a surprisingly skilful exhibition of shooting; Hugo and Smit are very clever acrobats and bar performers; Miss Kate Robertson sings with taste and effect; pictures are shown on the bioscope; and Mr. Tom Dunmore and Mr. Percy Dalton complete the bill as comedians.

EDINBURGH.—Royal Lyceum Theatre, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—The light refreshment afforded by a new musical piece, entitled The Belle of the Ball, seen this week for the first time in Edinburgh, has proved very acceptable here to summer playgoers. Running on tolerably familiar lines, the thread of its Cinderella-like story is found strong enough to sustain a little of everything, from pantomime to grand opera, from melodrama to farce; and the compound is made entertaining by the efforts of the performers. Mr. Johnnie Schofield as Timothy Timkins, the comic valet, has some lively scenes, in which his quaint humour is displayed. The rôles of the young Squire and Farmer Jones are well filled by Mr. Robert Hyett and Mr. Charles Adeson; and an unusually quiet type of stage villain is portrayed with due restraint by Mr. E. W. Chewd. Messrs. Llewellyn C. Hughes, Jack Hale, and Frank Collins, in minor parts, also contribute to the general entertainment. The Cinderella rôle of Poppy is gracefully played by Miss Gertrude Melville; Queenie Trevor is presented as quite a bright and charming suffragette by Miss Maud Terry; and the disagreeable sisters Alice and Mary have their weak points sufficiently emphasised by Miss Ethel Bertram and Miss L'Estrange; while Miss Vera Grafton does well as Lucy Foster. Songs, duets, choruses, and dances receive their full marks of appreciation.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Mike S. Whallen is at the head of a pleasant programme, his animated patter and cleverly-extemporised verses being productive of great amusement. The vocal character studies of Tom Woottwell, marked by a peculiarly quiet and commendable method, formed another enjoyable item on the bill; which further included entertaining vocal selections contributed by Gwennie Hasto, and a musical scena entiled The First Engagement by Irene Rose, a juvenile artist, whose songs were warmly applauded. Another smart ladies' turn was provided by the Proveanies, a bevy of six pretty girls, forming a wonderfully clever troupe of trick cyclists. Orpheus displayed his accomplishments as a performer on an almost unlimited number of musical instruments; the Five Olracs achieved some new and difficult feats in their acrobatic interlude; Les Marbas did some extraordinary twirling and somersault flinging; Mitchell and Cain gave a brisk duologue between a Frenchman and another fellow; the Bioscope showed incidents in motor-car racing; and Sandford and Lyons were loudly encored for their smart cross-talk and their very ingenious simultaneous step-dance movements.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Diana of Dobson's is being presented here this week by Miss Lena Ashwell's principal company, and is attracting houses which, by the continued applause, show how much they appreciate the efforts of all the members of this talented company. In the title-rôle, Miss Dorothy Green is charming, infusing abundant spirit and vivacity into the part; Mr. H. Grendon Bentley is a capital Captain the Hon. Victor Bretherton; Mr. Alfred Harris is excellent as the self-made man, Sir Jabez Grindley, Bart; and Miss Mary Stuart as the match-maker is good. The Bishop's Candlesticks makes an excellent curtain-raiser, with Mr. Alfred Harris as the Bishop and Mr. Alfred Wainwright as the Convict.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—Herbert Skardon and H. Sherwood Martin's company, in The Way of the World, opened the season here to a good house on Monday night, for a week's engagement. As Matthew Malyon, the circus proprietor, Mr. Clarence Temple acquitted himself well; while Mr. D'Arcy Kelway, as Joe Sparrow, the clown of the circus, also put in some effective work. Mr. J. P. McBride as Cecil Hardy, and Mr. Victor Gordon as Captain Fred Slade, also played their parts with conspicuous ability; while Mr. Wm. Gibson as Tiny Green, the jockey, had much to do with the success. Miss Doris Brookes, as Lady Adela Hardy, had an exceedingly heavy and difficult part to play; Miss Nellie de Lacy as Kate Montague (equestrienne) had a highly popular part, which she rendered well; and Miss Violet Vivienne as Polly Bell and "Mlle. Bellini" (a lady of Amazonian proportions and great muscular power) created much diversion by the ease with which she performed many "manly" feats.

FLEETWOOD.—Queen's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Snelson.—Lucky Liza is paying a welcome return visit. Miss Madge Brownie as Eliza Bird (Lucky Liza) is the life and soul of the piece, and is a most vivacious comedienne; Miss Vesta Brownie takes the part of Virginia Blatherwick delightfully; Miss Evelyn Wood sings two songs well; as Billy, the page-boy, Mr. Will Merry does good work; and Mr. T. W. Benson is a most convincing Barrister. Mr. Norman H. Lee makes the best of a difficult part; Mr. Dickie Clare attempts a triple rôle as Silas Slim of New York, the Judge, and the French Waiter; La Belle Trio give some smart dances.

Co-operative Hall.—The Loyal British Empire Animated Picture Co. are showing films this week, and are being rewarded with crowded houses. Some excellent variety turns appear at intervals, and the show is invariably well received. On Wednesday the crew of the R.M.S. Viking gave a grand concert and dance in aid of the local hospital by kind permission of Mr. Robinson, the manager. The hall was packed.

GATESHEAD.—King's Theatre.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager Mr. Harold Arnold.—Kennedy's Kiddies, in song and dance, are extremely popular here; a turn deserving high praise is that of Tom Bryce and Miss Price; the Peps, comedy gymnasts, please with trampolin business; Barney Murphy, a local mimic, is rapidly coming to the front; Les Rubens have an enjoyable scena named A Gypsy Encampment; the Five Bom Boys, singers and dancers, and Clack and Clack, lady acrobats and barrel jumpers, complete the programme.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolan; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. W. H. Hallatt's company, in Two Little Sailor Boys, has met with a good reception here this week.

GLASGOW.—King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—The frequent visits to Glasgow of Mr. Charles Macdona's company with Are You a Mason? give good proof of its popularity, and the enthusiasm of the audience on the opening night was as pronounced as ever. The company is a good one, and Mr. E. H. Paterson as Amos Bloodgood fills that humorous part splendidly, and is well supported by Mr. Francis J. Bithell as the son-in-law. Other notable parts are in the hands of Messrs. H. Langdon Bruce, Erskholme E. Clive, Wilton Ross, and Miss Rita Narcelli. The comedy is preceded by an interesting dramatic episode, entitled A Bad Penny.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company is this week paying a first visit in the moving drama A Gambler's Daughter. Miss Hill appears in the first act as the gambler's neglected wife, and afterwards as the daughter, Miriam Grant, both parts being played with capital effect. For the rôle of the witty, easy-going Irishman Mr. Ayrton has all the qualifications, so that his Desmond O'Dare is a pleasing study; the humour of the play is also helped by the Solomons of Mr. Harry Elliston. Mr. Harry C. Robinson renders excellent service by his vigorous portrayal of the villain, Brand, whose son, Tom, is successfully represented by Mr. Mortimer Hancock. The Ralph Gillman of Mr. Fred G. Ingleby is a creditable performance; as Captain Stanhope Mr. Frank Wheatcroft bears himself well; and as Jack Grant Mr. Basil Mitchell is also good. The part of the negress, Auntie Zeb, is particularly well done by Miss Harriette Loydall, other well-filled parts being the Carmen of Miss Maude St. John and the Carita of Miss Lovell.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—The Female Swindler is at Govan this week, and appeals to the patrons of this popular house. The drama is cleverly staged, and Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company gives the play every justice. Miss Violet Ellicott, in the title-rôle, shows herself an adept in the part (her original one, by the way), her acting being very powerful all through; Mr. Joseph Millane as John Coulson makes a decided hit, and both acts and looks the part; the villain (for this play possesses the male as well as the female element) is splendidly personated by Mr. Stanley Radcliffe (Geoffrey Warden). Mr. John Hitchings, who during the play takes no less than four characters, is entrusted with the comedy parts, and, along with Miss Bella Moody (Mary Ann), keeps going the humorous interludes.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—That versatile little artist Miss Louie Freear takes the place of importance here with her carefully-selected company in a farcical sketch from the pen of B. Soane Roby, which is entitled Snooks. As Jemima (the "slavey") Miss Freear is par excellence, and keeps her audience in roars of laughter. Callaghan and St. George are exceptionally well received in their musical duologue, The Old Neighbourhood, their vocal and instrumental efforts being alike capital; the Brothers Huxter, who are always welcome to Glasgow, meet with the reception which they so well deserve; Ernie Mayne, a pantomime favourite in the city, is also particularly well received. A clever and original juggler is Sados, whose various tricks never fail to amuse. At the commencement of the week Lily Burnand, being indisposed, was deputised for by a Scotch comedian. Lola Patey, a Dutch colleen, is very well received; Helen Trix, in her songs at the piano, must indeed feel pleased at the reception accorded her. Her American songs are very catchy. In her illustrated songs Marie Burnette does well.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. A. Bostock.—This week John Tiller's company is giving A Trip to Paris, and the rollicking fun provided by Bob Selvidge, Barney Dixon, Teddy Gibbs, May Sharples, Nelly Rodney, and Lizzie Hay is much enjoyed. A good variety company, in addition, includes Queenie Essex, in all her latest catchy songs; Sinclair and Parr, in their comedy duets; Florence Esdaile, a pleasing vocalist; Maud Marshall, a clever comedienne; and Ruhart, who gives an amusing travesty of vaudeville items, assisted by La Belle Rosalind.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Evan Good.—Vasco, "the mad musician," tops the bill here, and his clever turn, helped by the elaborate stage-setting he now gives it, takes extremely well. Hayman and Franklin, the Hebrew artists, cause roars of laughter with their sketch, A Suit for Divorce, and their song and dance items go well; Rose Elliott retains her firm hold on the Glasgow public, her catchy songs being always popular; Alexander and Bertie contribute a clever and daring trapeze act; Blake and Granby are highly diverting in their Man in Possession sketch; Karr and Kooney's songs and patter take well; Haig and Novel give a clever dancing and knockabout turn; Marjorie Cannon is a smart comedienne; and Ethel Walker, despite her loss of voice, is clever in her mimicry at the piano. Will Vay's Juveniles were also appearing on the earlier evenings of the week.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—The short musical comedy A King for a Day is the star turn here, and Messrs. Sydney Dooley and Charles Seymour's company give an enjoyable performance, their principal comedian being Will Letters. Conan and Doyle are smart patterers and dancers, and take well; G. W. Hunter as a raconteur is accorded a hearty welcome once again; the Two Kays present a well-arranged musical scena, entitled The Nightingale, with several excellent songs; Ike and Will Scott, in their comedy act, are a smart and popular turn; Josh Dixon's quaint style makes him a great favourite here; Ida Barr as a vocalist was accorded a hearty reception; and Ingram and Irving are funny in their sketch, The New Office Boy.

Coliseum.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—An excellent company is headed by Charles T. Aldrich, whose lightning changes and burlesque magician business meets with well-deserved applause; a most amusing sketch, The Yorkshire Lad in London, is submitted by Tom Foy and company; Marie San Toi and the Merry Japs provide a very pleasing miniature musical comedy in A Japanese Tea Garden; the Griffiths Brothers' duelling and wrestling absurdity keeps the house in a continuous roar; Walter Wade's admirable voice is heard to advantage in the mimetic monologue Patsy Burke; Alice Forde sings chorus songs with charming effect; a promising comedian and dancer is seen in Little Keeno; Ray Maskell excels as a dancer; and Frank Lynne gives point to several comic ditties.

Gaiety, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—In spite of the holiday season, large audiences are turning up nightly, and the various artists are well received. Hess and Lisbon are responsible for a clever and interesting performance on roller skates; the Sisters Bremner also take well in Glasgow, and their turn is appreciated. In a head-and-hand equilibrial entertainment the Seymons are seen to advantage; while Hargadon and Cole meet with a very enthusiastic reception for their Scotch speciality act. Cissie Norton as a male impersonator does well, a like remark applying to Bell and Bright and Harry Arnold. The Bioscope, with its latest and up-to-date films, proves also an interesting item.

Panopticon.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—An interesting variety programme is arranged here for the week. Charles Ously, expert clog-dancer, is the principal attraction; Lizzie Power, vocalist, is also specially favoured in her songs. The other turns include Jim Anderson, Scotch comedian, and Kitty Lavigne, comedienne and dancer. The Bioscope is a special feature.

GLOUCESTER.—Palace.—Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole.—Tschernoff's dogs are exceedingly clever and well trained; Dan Conroy causes laughter with songs and patter; Clark and Hayden play a neat little duologue, By Appointment; Telka is a good ballad vocalist; Frank Coyle rattles off his songs smartly; Voules and Bryan have a refined scena, Song and Story of a Garden; and Craig, Rose, and Craig give their clever gymnastic speciality. Wylie, a tramp musician; Titan, strong man; and May Fayne, soubrette, also entertain.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—Royal Aquarium.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—A bumper house greeted the first appearance in Yarmouth of Miss Marie Studholme in My Mimosa Maid. Her charming manner, graceful dancing, and sweet singing soon captivated the audience, and for each of her songs encores were demanded. Mr. Charles McNaughton was irresistibly funny as Victor Guilbert, and kept the house in a continuous ripple of laughter; Master Archie McCaig, a diminutive comedian, appeared as Bock, his rich vein of humour making him a big favourite; Mr. Percy Carr was excellent as Emilie Gerrard; Mr. John H. Goldsworthy and Mr. Leslie Fairfield were very good as Captain Laurier and Lieut. Courmardet; Miss Ruby Gray's charming voice was heard to advantage as Marcelle Pilaire; Mr. Arthur Jackson gave a clever character sketch of Groue, the waiter. The play was exceptionally well-dressed and mounted, and the orchestra was ably conducted by Mr. Leonard Hornsey.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. George Alexander's excellent company is presenting The Thief here this week to crowded audiences. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart gives an excellent portrayal of Richard Chilford; Miss May Congdon is a great success as Mrs. Chilford; and Mr. Harry Lugg is good as Harry Leyton. As Isabel Leyton Miss Mary Dibly is very good, and Mr. Gerald Ames gives a fine interpretation of Raymond Leyton.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert.—The Savonas are presenting their ever-welcome musical turn, which proves a great draw; the Elliotts are introducing many new novelties in their cycling turn, and are as popular as ever; Leicester Cooke appears in a clever equestrian act, entitled "Peace and War"; Miss Eloine is a graceful gymnast; Max Gruber and Miss Adelina repeat their success of last week; the Czar's Royal Troupe of Russian whirlwind dancers are amazing in their dexterity; Ada Webb's troupe of lady swimmers continue their success; Doodles is still a favourite, his new absurdities creating much laughter; and excellent pictures are exhibited on the Bioscope.

Britannia Pier Pavilion.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. George Mozart (who is a native of Yarmouth) is topping the bill here this week, and proving a huge draw; Mr. W. L. Cockburn is repeating his success of last week; Little Sunbeam is a very accomplished artist; Miss Maggie Strachan introduces some new and pleasing numbers at the pianoforte; Bros. Lang are very clever; Lena Leslie is a smart quick-change artist; and Mr. A. B. Houghton is entertaining at the pianoforte.

Wellington Pier Pavilion.—Proprietors, the Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Arthur Cash.—An excellent programme, full of tuneful songs and amusing ditties, is presented by the Gaieties (Misses Ruby Wilson, Gertrude Hart, and Messrs. Percy Watson, Harry Collman, Alan Stainer, and Wilson James).

Chappell's Promenade Concert.—Proprietress, Mrs. Sarah Lawton; General Manager, Mr. Harry Barker.—The same artists as those appearing last week are doing duty here.

The Gem.—Proprietors, the Yarmouth Amusement Centre, Ltd.—Excellent films are being shown here, and are giving great satisfaction, especially the one illustrating the flight of the airship La Republique.

Minstrel Arena.—The Black Diamond Minstrels continue to present a good programme, and are very popular.

GREENOCK.—Alexandra Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The principal attraction here this week is the well-known male impersonator Miss Hetty King, who is heard to advantage in several catchy songs, and meets with an enthusiastic reception. The Viviana Troupe present a novel scena, The Toy Bazaar, which meets with hearty approval; Ray and Delmore are seen in a comedy act, which gets its full share of praise; J. B. Preston, Scotch comedian; Dora Martine, a particularly graceful gymnast; Jennie Lynwood, comedienne; and the Alexandroscope are other attractions.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—A new romantic military drama, A Fight For a Throne, is being presented by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. Mr. John S. Millward is a prominent figure as Captain Fortescue, and is well suited to the part; Miss Dora Eastlake is also responsible for an important share of the work as the Princess Esme; Mr. Gerald Cyrne acts well as the King, Nicholai; Mr. Charles B. Linney vividly portrays the scheming Prince Otto; Mr. Tom Royden is equally good as his fellow conspirator, General Rodna; Miss Margaretta Tueskie is thoroughly equal to all demands as the Countess Valeska; and others taking part in the play are Miss Lilith Gabriel as Lady Pat, Mr. Chas. H. Hughes as Tom Ferrett; Mr. Patrick Evans as Lieutenant Fitzmaurice; Mr. Gerald Clark as Lieutenant Rodna, and Mr. Stewart Quartermayne as Sir George Coventry.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—The Delevines appear in an amusing speciality, Flip and Flop, which includes excellent knockabout comedy and eccentric dancing; the Waldrons are a talented pair of comedy artists with original humour; Louie Goodofsky, a youthful violinist of eight years, has taken the audiences by storm with his wonderful performances; Les Belles Americaines are a quartette of charming vocalists and dancers, their coon business being especially good; Florence Somers, the picture post-card girl, is a popular artist; the Melroses appear in a comedy act; and Bonnetti and Corrie are clever eccentric jugglers.

HALIFAX.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—The Grand picture season is in full swing, and some excellent subjects, including animated views of the Yorkshire Agricultural Show held in Halifax the previous week, were much appreciated by a crowded house. Edward Davis, tenor, was well received, and a smart banjo turn was contributed by G. H. Pardoe.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Reg. H. Foster.—Conway and Leland top the bill at the Palace this week, and are deservedly popular; Edwards and Dacre are good in the comedy duologue, What a Life; Baker and Balfe as xylophone experts, give a fine rendering of Maritana, and Mr. George M. Maker introduces his eccentric dancing to good effect. Frank Leon contributes an excellent turn, in connection with which he has organised a clog dancing tournament; Dunn and Reano are eccentric parody gymnasts; Helen Martin scored as vocalist; W. G. Wesley, character comedian, Madge Field, comedienne, and a series of pictures comprise a programme which gives endless amusement to good audiences.

Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmond's company open at the Royal this week with Woman and Wine. Miss C. St. Elmo as Marcel Rigadout acts with powerful dramatic effect; Mr. J. Milne Taylor as Hugh Seymour, the aged and blind artist, infuses much pathos into the part; Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds as Dick Seymour portrays the erring son with intense dramatic effect. Mr. W. Manning as Professor Sauter, Mr. Harry Harrop as Charles Sauter, and Miss Ethel Vinroy as Janet Marlow, a young widow, are responsible for clever and amusing comedy. Mr. Ashmore Vincent as Phineas Collins, the attorney, makes a successful schemer, and Mr. Frank Thomas is good as the Moneylender. Miss Violet Simns as Mary Andrews gains much sympathy in her finished rendering of a difficult part, and Mr. Edwin T. Kisby as Caliban, the Hunchback, is very popular. The play is well staged.

HAMILTON, N.B.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. B. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr René Clayton.—Kathleen and Corton Pickford furnish a refreshing and altogether excellent bit of comedy acting in their comedy duologue, Her First Offence; Ted Waite is funny in the extreme in his rendering of parodies of popular songs; Winifred Warde is dainty and debonair as the "Immaculate Boy"; the Silvos furnish an interesting ladder act; Fred Moule, E. D. Nicholls, and company are amusing in burlesque melodrama, That Dreadful Detective; the Elite Harmony Boys are an entertaining glee party; the Three Coopers and the Bros. Lawrence, together with the Bioscope, conclude.

HANLEY.—Royal.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—A Chinese Honeymoon, which was originally produced here some fifteen years back, is with us again with new scenery, dresses, and songs, and is making things hum in the Potteries. Mr. Milton Bode's company has been well selected. Miss Gwennie Harcourt as Fi-fi installed herself a warm favourite at once, and her numbers were enthusiastically encored; Miss Veronica Brady as Mrs. Pineapple has opportunities for using her fine voice as well as her acting abilities; Miss Elsie Skillings plays Soo-Soo well, and her vocal efforts are warmly appreciated; Mr. Will Harman as Mr. Pineapple is excruciatingly funny; Mr. Harry Jennings as Tom Hatherton acts and sings capitally; Mr. Leonard May deserves warm praise for his portrayal of the Admiral; Miss Maud Adams does infinite credit to herself; Mr. Rudolph Kloss as Hang Chow is admirably suited; and Mr. P. Allerton Turner is well placed as the Lord Chancellor.

Grand.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—The Australian wood-cutters (Jackson and Maclaren), with axes and saws, are the talk of the district; the Three Royal Dreadnoughts astound everyone by their marvellous marksmanship; the Mezzettis, horizontal bar performers, in their absurdity, The New Recruit, gain warm appreciation; Edie and Ramsden introduce a novel act. The top-liner is Whit Cunliffe, whose return visit finds him more popular than ever. He introduces a couple of smart songs in "Exercise" and "Not satisfied," and the old favourite, "Hello." Marie Empress is a clever comedienne; Maidie Scott, comedienne, causes merriment; and Russel Wallet surprises all by his clever make-up, and his business is smart.

King's.—Lessees, Messrs. Moore and Kennedy; Acting-Manager and Operator, Capt. F. Shaw.—Packed houses are this week keenly appreciating the pictures shown. Mr. Will Calvert, a truly versatile vocalist, is thoroughly enjoyed in pathetic and comic songs.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Felding Smith.—For the first three nights of this week Mr. James Welch, supported by his company, opened in the phenomenal success, When Knights Were Bold. Mr. James Welch, a great Harrogate favourite, repeated his clever and exceedingly funny performance of Sir Guy de Vere to a house packed in every part. Miss Ernita Lascelles as Lady Rowena was all that could be desired; Mill William Lockhart was well placed as the pompous Dean; and Mr. Cecil Kinnaird made the most of his opportunties as Sir Brian. Miss Ethel Royale as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave was dignified; and Millicent and Marjorie Emington, and Kate Cottlebury were well played by Misses Violet Grahame, Gretchen Yates, and Adrienne Yates. Mr. Vernon Sanabury was good as the Jew, Isaac Isaacson; and Miss Phillis Back was very successful as his daughter Sarah. Mr. Cecil Clayton was amusing as the would-be jester, the Hon. Chas. Widdicombe; and Mr. Talbot Homewood was a hard worker in the part of Wittle, the valet. A special word of praise is due to Mr. Herbert Ransom for his Herald. For the last three nights of the week Mr. Forbes Robertson and company appeared in a new play by Jerome K. Jerome, entitled The Passing of the Third-floor Back, preceded by the popular curtain-raiser, Carrots.

The Kursaal.—General-Manager, Mr. Julian Clifford; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. Eldrid.—Miss Marguerite Cornille is here this week, and makes a great success in her extensive répertoire as a singer and comedienne. Miss Palgrave Turner is also heard to great advantage. Harry Lauder was announced for a flying matinée on Thursday, and Madame Ella Russell and Herr William Backhaus were down for a special concert on Friday.

HARTLEPOOL.—Empress.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—Pictures continue to provide the entertainment here, and many that are shown are more than usually amusing, the Wrong Bag and Too Fat being exceptionally so. Considerable interest is shown in those depicting Tunny Fishing, An Indian Idyll, and A Tour Through the Tyrol Alps. An illustrated song, "Come back to Erin," is prettily presented.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—A large house was attracted here on Monday to the first performance in Hastings by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in Brewster's Millions, and the success attained was undeniably well deserved. Mr. Percy Hutchison made a very effective Monty Brewster, and gave reality and conviction to the rôle. Miss Cicely Stuckey was simple and pleasing as Peggy; Mr. Cyril Rawdon acted very commendably as Charlie Harrison; the financially embarrassed Colonel Drew was admirably impersonated by Mr. A. P. Kaye; Mr. George Salver did good work as Captain Perry; Miss Sybil Walsh was an attractive Trixie Clayton; and the remaining numerous rôles were creditably represented. The mounting of the piece was very praiseworthy, the yacht scene being marvellous. Mr. A. P. Kaye stage-managed. On Thursday and for the remainder of the week Mr. Gaston Meyer presented the excellent comedy Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Vivian Fisher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—Harry Desmond is a favourite character comedian; the scenes depicted on the bioscope give an interesting contribution to the bill; Calile and Walker are excellent vocal comedy artists; the Three Sisters Ruby are smart and original singing contortionists; a truly eccentric comedian is found in Charles Gardener; Le Gros is remarkably clever in his entertainment, "Songs, Bits, and Pieces at the Piano"; Miss Lillie Langtry sings in a spirited fashion, and leaves a distinctly favourable impression; an interesting turn is given by the Zampas, speciality dancers and duettists.

Pier Pavilion.—Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—The variety entertainment that was so successful last week is still occupying the boards here. Miss Winifred Dixon is a popular soprano vocalist and renders her songs with delightful ease and fluency; Curtis Leo gives a mysterious speciality, Fun in a Drawing-room; Miss Katie Moss is an excellent vocalist and solo violinist; the prismatic effects of Maurin's Fairy Fountains are singularly attractive; Thornley Dodge scores a decided success as a versatile comedian; the programme would hardly be complete without Mr. J. D. Hunter and his smart little company, appearing in an amusing sketch. Mr. Hunter is associated, in the farce The Secret Panel with Messrs. Herbert Manle, Charles Hawker, and Charles Tubbs, and Miss Eva and Miss Blanche Bayley.

Public Hall.—The London Animated Picture Company continues here its interesting coloured and stereoscopic living pictures, and provides a pleasing and instructive entertainment, the comic element being by no means neglected.

Beach Concert Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. George Blackmore.—The company provided here by the Wallis Arthur Syndicate continue a popular item of entertainment. The baritone songs of Mr. H. V. Cropton are of real merit; and no less successful on the humorous side are the topical songs by Mr. George Blackmore.

Alexandra Park.—The Borough Amusements Association held its second fête of the season on the evening of the 6th inst. The attractions were a torchlight tattoo by the local military and Territorials. The Borough Band, conducted by Bandmaster Vince, combined with the regimental bands in the British Army Quadrilles and the "1812" overture. Mr. Philip Goepel's Red Hungarian Band provided the music for dancing on the lawn.

HUDDERSFIELD.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas J. Phillips.—Mr. J. F. Elliston has organised a thoroughly capable combination for his tour of the well-known drama Alone in London. The cast includes Miss Theresa Osborn, who plays Nan with fine feeling; Mr. Percy Rhodes, crisp and callous as her brutal husband, Richard Redcliffe; Mr. W. S. Hartford, a bluff John Biddlecomb; Mr. Harry McClelland, dignified as Mr. Burnaby; Mr. Blundell Fenten, careless and merry as young Burnaby; Mr. Percy Bell and Mr. F. Sutherland as Jenkinson and Spriggins, a pair of pretty scoundrels in league with Redcliffe; and Miss Mary Stafford Smith, a pathetic figure as Tom Chickweed. The drama is admirably mounted.

Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The attractive bill here consists of Carl and Mary Ohm with a troupe of trained ponies, dogs, bears, and monkeys; Miss Nellie Starr, comedienne and dancer; a dainty sketch touchingly played by Eade Montefiore and company; the Eight Stella Girls, vocalists and dancers; Bennett and Martell, a pair of comedians and eccentric dancers whose comedy roused the house to great enthusiasm; Will Doran and company in a sketch entitled An Inventor's Troubles; Mr. Ernest Chas. Gittins's company in potted opera, The Daughter of the Regiment; Mlle. Adele Prescott, who sings artistically as Marie; and exciting pictures on the Bioscope.

HULL.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—The dramatic season opened on Monday with a very fine representation of Captain Drew on Leave. The play created a very fine impression and drew forth pleasant and appreciative comment from the large audience. A delightfully strong company has been gathered together, and Miss Cynthia Brooke invested the rôle of Mrs. Moxon with an infinite charm, such as we expect from so talented an artist. The part of the Captain, entrusted to Mr. Claud King, had some nice work thrown into it by this gentleman, the best being in the third act. Mr. Gerald Venning caught all the point of the heavy rôle, and filled it well. The Miss Mills of Miss Norah Carton was a very commendable piece of stage study, and met with full appreciation. The remainder of the cast did well.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton;

Annie and Nellie Standish Miss Frances Campbell makes an unqualified success.

KIDDERMINSTER.—NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Gudgeon.—This week we have here Mr. George Cremen's company, who nightly produce the sensational domestic comedy drama, The World's Verdict. Mr. Herbert Bentone strongly enacts the part of Nathan Black; Mr. William Forde ably portrays the character of Sir Geoffrey Woodleigh; and Mr. Henry Carlisle that of Jasper Woodleigh. Messrs. W. Gregory and Alfred Selwood are respectively good as George Ashford and Sammy Carrott, a great oddity; and Miss Molly St. George gives an able display of acting in the rôle of Cora Cassillis. The staging and mounting are all that can be desired.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Herr B. Poreezer.—The visit here this week of Miss Lena Ashwell's company in Diana of Dobson's has proved enormously popular. The production was in every way exceedingly good. In the title-rôle Miss Violet Vorley was distinctly "great," and was supported by a capable company. Mrs. Cantelupe was played well by Miss Hilda Francks, and as Mrs. Whyte Fraser Miss Pamela Hope appeared to advantage. Mr. Briscoe Owen, with his capital portrayal of Captain Bretheton, helped the play much; and Mr. Philip Sanders took the part of Sir Jabez Grinlay successfully.

LANCASTER.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. Porter and W. J. Fergusson.—Capital business has been done this week, and the proprietors have every reason to congratulate themselves. The Four Netherlands supply a pleasing turn, being good singers and dancers, with attractive costumes; Bros. Bright, athletes, give a fine display of strength; and Ernie Myers, comedian, has humour. Lily Lonsdale, vocalist, sings well; Les Curreys, in a musical turn, are acceptable; Jennie Hartley, juvenile artist, is well received; and the star turn is supplied by Ethairien Bros. The Hippograph also adds to the enjoyment of audiences.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—That successful play, Leah Kleschna, is being presented here for the first time. Miss Bessie Rignold displays considerable ability in the name part, winning much appreciation; Mr. William Clayton is in the character of Leah's father, and his restrained, yet forceful, acting is most convincing; Mr. Hamilton Deane's portrayal of Paul Sylvayne is a meritorious performance, manly and impressive in every phase; whilst the remainder of Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company all prove very capable.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Another sensational drama, The Girl Who Wrecked His Home, is the attraction here, and, being full of striking incidents, is quite successful. The hero, Jack Marshall, is portrayed in manly and convincing style by Mr. Fred Goddard; the adventuress is a really clever effort by Miss Louise Hampton; and, in fact, the company all round is a powerful one, and well up to its work.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires.—District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—The crowded state of the house at every performance during this present week testifies to the increasing popularity of Harry Lauder, who leads the bill, and delights his admirers with several favourite items; the Daunton-Shaw Troupe are doing some sensational trick cycling feats; one of the most successful turns is Charles Norton, in character impersonations; Howard and Harris contribute a vocal comedy turn which is well liked; Russell Brandow, Harold Thorley, and Tom Lloyd each provide acceptable entertainment in their respective styles; whilst the Four Figaros and sisters St. Julian also make a successful appearance.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—A realistic dramatic sketch, Blackmail, is the principal item of entertainment here, and the presentation is much appreciated; De Henau does some marvellous things with his toes; the Soho Trio do extremely well in song and dance; and that comical trio, Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, with their performing mule, provoke much amusement. Other leading turns in a good bill are Bert Danson, Lucy Coventry, Fred Hallam, Aladina, and Babusco Brothers.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos, Barrasford.—Kartelli, a clever performer on the slack wire, is very popular here, doing some particularly smart things on a cycle; Wild, Willie, and West are again vastly amusing in their speciality; Enid Errol and Co. score well in a singing and dancing speciality; Botello and Virginia are most expert trapeze performers; that popular comedian, Ryder Slone, has a big reception; L. W. Harris is also amusing in a similar line; Carrie Laurie's company again present a successful entertainment; and of the rest, Percy Farrimond, Sisters Wingrove, and Lily Black are doing particularly well.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—That clever and versatile artist, Daisy Dormer, heads a good programme here, and her items are loudly applauded; Sammy Shields, always a favourite here, again gets a rousing reception for his comical turn; Master May achieves success as a vocalist; Souplessi is a wonderful contortionist; Beau and Belle present a vocal comedy sketch in clever style; and of the rest, Phern and Phern score well with comedy speciality.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. Charles Hermann.—We have as the attraction this week Mr. Edmund Tearle and company in a répertoire of popular plays, including Othello, A Woman's Revenge, Richard III., and It's Never Too Late to Mend. The famous tragedy was performed on the opening night, when Mr. Edmund Tearle appeared with his usual success as Othello, and received admirable support from Miss Vera George as Desdemona. Mr. Stuart Black made an excellent impression as Cassio, and Mr. Bernhardt Turner as Iago did full justice to the part. Others deserving special commendation are Mr. Fawcett H. Lomax as the Duke of Venice, Miss Mary Campbell as Emilia, Mr. Joseph A. Keogh as Barbantio, and Mr. Vernon O. Crabtree as Roderigo. On Tuesday evening Miss Kate Clinton (Mrs. Edmund Tearle) appeared as Mary Lonsdale in A Woman's Revenge, with Mr. Edmund Tearle as Frank Drummond, and were supported by a good all-round cast.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—A first visit is being paid here this week of Geoffrey Langdon's Wife, presented by Mr. Fred C. Somerfield's excellent company. The drama is well staged. Miss Cissie Bellamy is a conspicuous success as Mary, and as Felix Beverley Mr. Paul Beckett is also deserving of high praise. Miss Elsie Capell renders a good account of herself as the Hon. Mrs. Sands, and Mr. William E. Passmore as Colonel Miles, Mr. Wilson Summers as Geoffrey Langdon, and Mr. Edward E. Louis as Jack Stirling are good. Both Miss Katie Lever as Sweet Nancy and Mr. Percy Brown as Thomas are well suited in comedy parts. The play is received with special favour.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—At the head of a capital list of turns this week is George Lashwood, aptly styled the vaudeville Beau Brummel, who is meeting with his usual ovation from all sections of the audience. At the other end of the bill is Mendel, the blind pianist, whose really marvellous exposition of intricate pianoforte playing is rewarded with rounds of well-deserved applause. Roars of laughter continue while J. W. Hall, a really funny comedian, occupies the stage, and he is also accorded a fine reception. Rhoda Paul, a dainty, smartly-dressed, and vivacious male impersonator, renders her songs in a manner that elicits unstinted praise; Bob Hamilton is an excellent Scotch comedian, and an expert concertina player; Ouida Macdermott, the vocal actress, is very good, and achieves success with her song "Redwing"; Max York introduces a number of cleverly-trained fox-terriers; the Vasilescu troupe of comedy gymnasts give a funny and smart act on the triple bars; W. G. Webber is a bass vocalist who sings delightfully; the Marathon Race is well shown on the American Bioscope.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—Retained over another week, Mr. Geo. M. Marriott and company take the lead with the dramatic episode Oliver Twist, in which Mr. Marriott as Fagin is seen to conspicuous advantage. Mr. Fred Conyers is a success as Bill Sikes, and as Nancy Miss Edith Finlay is to be complimented on an excellent embodiment. Mr. John A. Stimson as the Artful Dodger and Miss R. Dance as Oliver Twist are both good. The vaudeville part of the programme is contributed to by the Gentrys, who are favourites, and display smartness in their comedy, dancing, and eccentric tumbling act Bits; Harry Bent, who gives some clever imitations of leading stars with great success; Albert Sinclair, who sings in two distinct voices to the delight of the audience; Nellie Lunelle, a capital comedienne and dancer; Carlotta Lunn, a popular chorus vocalist; Leon and Noel, comediennes and dancers; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope throws on the screen the Marathon Race and A Drama in Morocco.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. A. Hurley.—There is the usual excellent supply of grave, gay, and humorous moving pictures here this week, the principal ones being the Marathon Race, the Dieppe Motor Race, The Doctor's Experiment, Love too Late, Sports of the World, The Cider Industry, Father's First Baby, The Sorcerer's Scissors, Wanted a Maid, and The Student's Ransom. Minnie Frazer, vocalist, and Edwin Holmes, comedian, also appear. The eighth singing competition is taking place this week, the competitors being allowed to sing any song, and the audience to act as judges.

ASSOCIATION HALL.—Cook's Pictures (from Australia), presenting Sunny Queensland, Life Among the Australian Blacks, The Great Rush for Gold, and a large number of entirely new pictures to Leicester, are located here this week. There are also popular picture songs.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—A crowded house welcomed Hardie and Von Leer's company in the celebrated drama, Two Little Vagabonds. Mr. Richard A. Greene gives a powerful presentation of George Thornton, and Mr. Arthur E. Melborne submits a finished performance of Captain Darville. Miss Florence Dalton is highly successful as Marion Thornton; Miss Marion Fawcett makes an effective Barabara Scarth; Wally is capably characterised by Miss Alice Leon; and Dick finds a vigorous exponent in Miss Denise Zaleski. Mr. Martin Sands supplies a characteristic study of Bill Mullins, alias The Gaffer, and is ably assisted by Miss Marie Prichard as Biddy Mullins. The remaining parts are all well filled.

LINCOLN.—ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Pope.—Sherlock Holmes was billed to open on Thursday for three evenings, with Mr. H. Hamilton-Stewart in the title-rôle.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. R. R. Black.—A novel and entertaining acrobatic show is that of Bains and Reed, who evoke continual applause and laughter. The Florias give a smart wire act; Virto's musical mélange is entirely meritorious; and the songs of Laurence Barclay go well. Kitty Clinton sings acceptably, as does George James, and Pearce and Ward contribute some lively burlesque boxing. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux exploit various entertaining films with complete success.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—Here during the week delighted audiences renewed acquaintance with the merry Belle of New York, a really excellent company having been sent by Mr. Bannister Howard. Mr. Frank Lawton gave his inimitable study of Blinkey Bill; Miss Hebe Kneller made a dainty "Belle"; Miss Florence Hersee pleased greatly as the vivacious Mamie Clancy, her dancing being particularly appreciated; Miss Winnie Brown was an up-to-date Cora, a rôle she filled to everybody's satisfaction; Mr. James A. Watts, as the younger Bronson, was full of life; roars of laughter followed the work of Mr. Joseph R. Tate, "the polite lunatic"; and also that of Mr. Arthur Ricketts, who undertook Ichabod; Miss Dorothy Doria was a winsome Fifi, receiving encores for her songs; and excellent support also came from Messrs. Wm. Hartigan (Snifkins), Alec. Godfrey (Mugg), Hal Kirke and R. L. Cody (the twins). The mounting of the comedy was capital, and many new numbers were introduced.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Merely Mary Ann made another appearance here on Monday, Mr. Herbert Greville's company presenting it. Miss Jessica Solomon was given a most cordial reception for her admirable conception of the title-rôle; Mr. Martyn Rowland displayed rare skill as the musical genius Lancelot; the part of Peter was ably handled by Mr. Stanley Logan; Miss Violet Greville, along with Miss Florence Radcliffe, were extremely funny as the lodging-house keeper and her daughter; Mr. Robert Entwistle contributed largely to the merriment as the loquacious clergyman; and others worthy of mention were Miss Ethel Carlyle (Countess Foxwell) and Miss Lester Stephen (Lady Chelmer).

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The attraction here during the week is Two Little Drummer Boys, presented by an able company, under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley. The prominent part of General Kingsley found in Mr. Edward Bikker an able exponent; Mr. Harry Scott did excellently as Captain Carsdale; the trying rôle of Captain Darrell was carefully handled by Mr. Oswald Douglas; Mr. Alexander Knight did justice to Lieut. Kingsley; Miss Maggie English and Miss Maudie Douglas, as the "boys," were much appreciated; capital comedy came from Messrs. Will Percy (Quiney) and Charles Gallier (Trimmer), and Miss Patricia Connaughton (Molly Meadows); Miss Nesta Sandford showed ability as Margaret Rivers; and Miss Mary Ainslie proved a pleasing Alma Kingsley.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—An acceptable version of Sapho, given by Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company, has been a big draw here throughout the week. In the title-rôle Miss Ada Abbott played with remarkable intensity, and deserved the general applause she received; Mr. Ernest R. Abbott showed much tact and discretion as the tempted Jean Caussin; Mr. T. B. Wilson clearly understood the part of Dechelette; as the felon Flamant Mr. Charles Tring did all that was necessary; Mr. Frank Stephens presented a humorous Cesaire; Sapho's father was ably undertaken by Mr. Herbert Morgan; and worthy support also came from Miss Isabel Singleton (Aunt Divonne), Miss Florence North (Lucy), and Miss E. Gertrude Jones (Josaph).

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—Heading the programme here this week was Joseph Hart's Futurity Winner, a racing sketch that was much enjoyed; Tom Edwards gave his neat ventriloquial turn; Barry Lupino astonished by his remarkable dancing; Oswald Williams introduced some surprising conjuring feats; Carlotta Levey earned a warm reception for her latest songs, including "He was one of the boys," and "I'm going to try my luck in London"; the Lombards had a clever gladiatorial act; a pretty musical sketch, entitled Starry Ski, was supplied by Lena Maitland and company; and contributions also came from Mlle. Eldee, with beautifully illuminated poses, and Maizie Hibbs, vocalist and speciality dancer.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Granville.—Here during the week The Outcast of the Family was given by Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company, which included Miss Gertrude Morella (Ruth), Miss K. M. Davies (Grace), and Messrs. F. C. Leighton (Harry Thorne), and W. J. Miller (Stephen Barry).

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Top of the programme here this week we have had Mooney and Holbein, whose comedy sketch, Oysters, 1s. per Bucket, caused shouts of laughter; James Willard and company presented in capital style a dramatic episode, The Ace of Hearts; a most appreciated turn was that provided by the musical Wakeman Quintet; as gymnasts and equilibrists La Faille troupe showed ability of a high order; Dorothy Watson, at the piano, had some neat trifles; Forrest and King were a couple of smart comedy acrobats; Hurman proved himself an accomplished hoop manipulator and juggler; Marco went through a number of clever conjuring tricks; and Edith Chantler, juvenile soprano, sang several numbers with taste.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—The Duchess of Tooting, with Stephen Adeson as Fitz, has been here this week, under the control of Sidney Bacon; Francini Ollome and Page had a smart musical act; Frank Cass brought his latest and delighted everybody; Diana Hope and company presented a neat society episode, Her Good Name; the dancing of Susie and Protti was watched with keen interest; the Permane Brothers amused greatly with their eccentricities; Lieut. Travis gave an interesting ventriloquial show; clever gymnastic work came from Ariel and Astarte; and Phil Rees' Stable Lads went through a novel entertainment.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The stock company here have during the week given A Touch of Nature, the principal parts in which were capably undertaken by Messrs. Harry Tresham, Sydney Grant, E. D. Allen, Cecil Ravenswood, Robb Wilton, and the Misses Florence Palmer, Lilian Radbourne, Florence Cameron, Helen Richmond, and Evelyn Kingston.

OLYMPIA.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Much interest was aroused here during the week by the appearance of Mr. Laurence Irving with the new sketch, Feed the Brute. The eminent actor was worthily supported by Miss Beatrice Lett and Miss Mollie Russell. That always popular comedian, Ernest Shand, was as merry as ever; the able McConnell Trio gave their appreciated vocal and comedy sketch; Hilda Jacobsen pleased with her latest numbers, including "Flip flap"; clever wire-walking was executed by the Five Whiteleys; as duettists and speciality dancers the Twin Andersons won favour; George C. Doughty and Miss Molly Laney had an amusing trifle, A Woman's Way; the Barton and Franklin Trio presented a most satisfactory instrumental, vocal, and dancing speciality; and Eily Adair, comedienne and dancer, also appeared.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. Henry Hearn.—The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, presented by Arthur Watson, Flo Stanley, and company, is a sketch that pleased greatly here this week; Lockhart's elephants, under the control of Captain J. Taylor, went through an interesting show; as coon specialists Yeager and Da-Costa were a good turn; the Moncktons submitted a most amusing episode, Two in a Flat; W. J. Raby had some funny songs and patter; the Musical Morrellis showed high accomplishments; Dolly and Elsie did good work as juvenile vocalists and dancers; and also in the list were Fritz Kornan, whistler, and Harry Zetter, comedian and eccentric dancer.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Ritson.—Mr. Charles Constant's No. 1 company appeared here for three nights in the musical comedy Florodora. Mr. Gus Danby as Anthony Tweedlepunch causes endless amusement; Mr. Jack Parker is good as Cyrus G. Gilfain; Mr. Martin D. Pitt sings well and evokes applause as Frank Abercoed; Mr. Stanley Bartram is well placed as Captain Arthur Donegal; Miss Daisy Lake is a capital Dolores; and Miss Lillie Blythe is captivating as Lady Holyrood. You Never Can Tell was announced for the latter end of the week.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Mr. H. B. Irving and Miss Dorothea Baird occupied the boards on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday with The Lyons Mail, Hamlet, and The Bells, with a matinée on Wednesday of Charles the First. On Monday, in The Lyons Mail, Mr. Irving was seen at his best, acting throughout with great power; Miss Dorothea Baird as Janette also won the greatest admiration; Courriol, Choppard, and Fouinard were in the safe hands of Messrs. Eric Maxon, Charles Dodsworth, and Tom Reynolds respectively; Mr. Frank Tyars gave a good representation of Jerome Lesurques; Mr. Frank Cochrane was at home as Dorval; Mr. Arthur Curtis was well placed as Joliquet; and Miss Phyllis Embury gave an excellent portrayal of Julie. On Tuesday night a large audience witnessed Hamlet, and Mr. Irving was called and recalled. The Hypocrites was announced for the remainder of the week.

PIER HEAD VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. A. R. Sutcliffe.—The Gay River is here for the week. Mr. Bert Byrne is excellent, Mr. Frank Dunlop is irresistible as the waiter, and Mr. A. R. Sutcliffe contributes several items in his usual vivacious manner. Misses Connie Clive, Nellie Crawford, Harriet Greene, Harriet Fawn, and Nora Walker render good songs; and the same may be said of Messrs. Rayne and North.

LONGTON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Longton Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. H. Sherriff Howard.—Mr. Lester Collingwood, whose name is a household word here, presented a fourth visit of When London Sleeps to a packed house on Monday. In the part of David Englehart Mr. Edward C. Ashby gave a powerful impersonation; Miss Mabel Scudamore, in the rôle of Queenie Carruthers, submitted a telling performance; the Hilda Carrode of Miss Lilla Wilde was excellent; Captain Rodney Haynes, in the hands of Mr. Harry Wren, was in every respect satisfactory; the comedy element, in the charge of Messrs. Douglas Campbell, Frank Howard, Miss Mona Hall, and Miss Bella Power, provokes unstinted laughter; Mr. Fred Barnardo played P.C. Stone during the first visit of the piece over twelve years ago, and again gave a finished and artistic character study.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Manager, Mr. E. A. Smith.—This week Mr. Seymour Hicks's company appear in The Gay Gordons, in which Miss Maie Ash scores well as Peggy Quainton, while Mr. Frank Lincoln is equally successful as Angus Graeme. Other parts are carefully treated by the Misses Ida Laurie, Emily Mellon, Nellie Lonnen, Katie Butler, and Messrs. Tom Graves, Edward Beecher, and Edward Mainby.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—This huge building continues to draw splendid business, the programme presented being in accordance with the popular taste. The British Biograph Company, under the experienced management of Mr. Fred Gilbert, are again to the fore with a fine series of animated pictures, including a couple of dramatic subjects, The Wreckers and Blue Bird. The variety bill include the Four Andersons, in a funny knockabout sketch, Uninvited, and Natalia and Diana, a smart couple of lady gymnasts. The Bros. Pasquali are the cleverest athletes seen here for some time, and mention should also be made of the stirring vocal numbers of Wilson Martell, whose efforts meet with universal approval.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—Mr. Walter Melville's military drama, A Soldier's Wedding, is here this week, under the able management of Mr. Whitcombe. The piece is effectively produced. The cast is of the best, and the scenery and effects conduce to a bright and thrilling performance.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—The Franco-British Animated Picture and Vaudeville Company are here this week with a fine assortment of moving pictures. Miss Poppy Holland makes a hit with her songs; Percy Curry is a good vocal comedian; Miss Francis Haskoll was pleasing with her illustrated songs; and Miss Ada Jenner in the burlesque absurdity, The Lady Barber, was well received.

MAIDENHEAD.—TOWN HALL.—Secretary, the Town Clerk.—Miss Maggie Morton is always sure of a good house at Maidenhead, but that on Tuesday last, when her company played Is Life Worth Living?, must have been a record one. Mr. Marchant Penn is good as Lionel Roy, Mr. Benn Carr is natural as Rowland Roxton, and Mr. Raymond Chester is well suited in the part of Randolph Kerr. Mr. Thomas Spencer as the watchman, Mr. James Welch as Peter Stoke, and Mr. Frank Venn as Tim, all present well-studied representations of their parts, and Mr. Fred Collins does well as the policeman. Miss Nina Harding acts with feeling as Madge, Miss Sybil Grey is pathetic as Isabel, and Miss Margaret G. Davidge and Miss Amy Lloyd-Earle are remarkably good as Bet Dabs and Sally Sloke. The scenery is good, and the steam-roller incident is received with much enthusiasm.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—Good business is being done here this week. The famous Kellino Troupe are the great attraction, their feats of skill as acrobats, tumblers, &c., being quite sensational; they are also clever musicians. The Polio Trio of experts on the xylophone gain genuine applause; Ernest Rees, the well-known comedian, is irresistibly funny; Dot Hardy gives a vivacious and pleasing turn; Hamilton and Chester delight all with their refined singing; T. W. Watson, the one-armed cornet and post-horn player does well; Alice Maple sings some good songs and dances skilfully; Johnny Fuller, the "cat on the wire," is popular; and the Biograph exhibits some up-to-date films, including the great Marathon race.

MANCHESTER.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Andrew.—Mr. Alex. C. Grant and company in A Master of Millions provide the attraction here. Mr. Alex. C. Grant presents a powerful sketch of Daunt, "the Master"; Eric Gordon is cleverly impersonated by Mr. J. L. Schofield; Mr. E. W. Barnes is an effective Reginald Carrington; and Miss F. Russell plays Stella St. Lisle with considerable success. Some smart humour is contributed by Mr. C. Clarke as Isaacs, and Mr. Leo N. Lambourt as Widow Murphy. The staging is very good.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—An enjoyable programme here this week is headed by Alexandre and Hughes, the ever-welcome fun-makers, in gag and melody, and Gertie Gitana, an exceptionally clever vocal artist and dancer; while Barton and Ashley also figure prominently in a new farcical creation, Adam the Second; the Ten Dixie Girls add a pretty vocal and dancing scena; Lena Verdi, comedienne and eccentric dancer, is well received; Carl Howard gives a smart comedy act; Betty Green is a pretty and promising juvenile comedienne and dancer; and pleasing items are added by David Stewart, in an illustrated chorus song, and Harry Simms, light comedian.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Reano and his famous band are scoring a huge success here this week in a series of classical pieces handled in remarkable fashion by the conductor; and Phil Ray, the well-known patter comedian, has a fine comic répertoire, and is tremendously popular. Harry May Hemsley is a smart caricaturist and child impersonator; Farnley and Lee give a clever exhibition of eccentric step-dancing; Mlle. Carlotta Kara, the Oriental singer, is a pleasing and novel turn; and other clever and accomplished items are provided by George Ridgwell, vocalist, conductor, and instrumentalist; Hawthorn and Burt, Hebrew comedians and dancers; the Molasso Quartette of cyclonic dancers; and Aida Martine, dainty comedienne and dancer. The Bioscope depicts a sensational "pirate" episode.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. R. Trippett.—Morny Cash, the popular Lancashire comedian, tops the bill here this week with his usual success. Le Diabolo loops the "Devil's Wheel" in a highly sensational manner; and Dorma Morgan, a dainty American comedienne and vocalist, sings delightfully, and meets with a deservedly good reception; Allen McAskell, the man of few words, provides a smart "showing-up" turn; and other good turns are given by Leo D'Alva, gymnast; the Days, remarkably expert sight seers; Marcus Boyle, Elliott and Warne, eccentric dancers. The School-boy's Joke is the Bioscope subject.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Much laughter is caused here this week by Joe Peterman and company in The Pawnbroker; and La Belle Titcomb, the famous Parisian actress, with her wonderfully trained Arabian stallion, provides a pleasing turn. Madge Gray, the mimetic comedian, scores, as usual; and lees, who sings nicely; Gladys Mavius, the Canadian girl; Wanis, clever Russian dancer; J. G. Kempton, comedian and dancer; Burns and Bentley, vocalists and dancers; and the Primrose Quartette, harmonious vocalists. Pictures are also included in the programme.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The Krags go through a remarkably clever and sensational gymnastic act here this week; George Langdon and company, including Connie Laurie, are highly successful in "Scenes from Famous Plays"; and excellent turns are contributed by Flora Cromer, contralto entertainer; Annie Braddon, the Manx Girl; and Rud and Stevens, in their comedy sketch, Married or Photographed. Entertaining items are also those of Mary Ambrose, character vocalist; J. S. Evals, the patterer with pictures comic and otherwise; Clancy Girls, acrobatic dancers; and Charles Coll, comedian. Ruffell's capital Bioscope pictures complete a good all-round show.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—The Four Bruns, who top the bill here this week, juggle with clubs in a very clever manner; and Martin Conway, a favourite comedian, is highly amusing; the Original Zedoras give a neat, though daring, flying gymnastic act; and Dunningarto is a clever sleight-of-hand artist; Cumminger and Colonna are excellent sand dancers; Morander and Darius Trio, novel gymnasts and vocalists, in a musical interlude sing and perform gymnastic feats with ability; George Young is a successful blind concertina player; the Maddison Brothers, comedians and burlesque boxers, patter in a breezy manner; Scott, Scott, and company are amusing in sketch, That Awful James; and J. W. Gallagher, comedian, sings in pleasant style. The Elixir of Life on the Bioscope completes.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—The Original Szarvaci Ferencz Troupe are exceptionally clever acrobats, and are very much to the front here this week; Wyndham and Waters, in their laughable act, The Professor and His Pupil, are very successful, and are well received; Fanny Robina, a favourite Manchester comedienne, scores as usual; Ikey Moe, a smart little Hebrew, makes a big hit; Florry Cooper sings nicely, and is greatly appreciated; Amos Howard dances well; whilst other entertaining turns are offered by Edith St. Clair, a pleasing comedienne; Les Rallis, in amusing novelty, The Artist and His Monkey; and Billie Brit, a capital comedian. Too Old for Work is the Bioscope subject.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Manager, Mr. George Phillips.—The Saucy Arethusa, a musical comedy without plot, is the attraction here this week, and is playing to record houses. The company includes the following capable artists, all of whom play and sing well: Miss Mabel Danby, Miss Jessie Buckle, Miss Elaine Reed, Mr. Cecil Warwick, Mr. Bertram Noel, Mr. Kemsley Scott-Barrie, Mr. Dick Tubb, Mr. Jack W. Hughes, Mr. Norman Osborne, and Mr. Willmott Fowler.

MANSFIELD.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Captain Cecil Clayton.—This theatre reopened on Monday with Mr. Sydney Spenser's company in My Sweetheart. Mr. Edward Rawlinson, in the part of Tony, played to perfection; Mr. Sydney Spenser was well placed as Joe Shotwell; the rôle of Harold Bartlett was in the capable hands of Mr. Harry T. Butler, jun.; Mr. Wilton Hardinge filled the rôle of Dudley Harcourt with credit; Mrs. Fleeter was well portrayed by Miss Florence Delmar; and Miss Alice Inman caused much merriment by her Mrs. Hatzell. Tina was in the capable hands of Miss Lizzie Hall.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hardy.—Mr. George Edwardes's company opened here on Monday to a packed house with The Merry Widow. It was a three nights' engagement, with a matinée on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Mysie Devine impersonated Sonia with vivacity and charm; Mr. Frank Greene played Prince Danilo in a breezy and altogether satisfactory manner; as Baron Popoff Mr. Edward D'Arcy was extremely funny, his stock of quaint sayings eliciting repeated outbursts of laughter; Mr. Ripley Evans was extremely good as Vicomte de Jolidon, doing full justice to the songs entrusted to him; Miss Ada Thomas displayed ability as an actress and vocalist in the rôle of Natalie, being particularly good in her songs; the subtle humour of Mr. Fred Fowler as Nisch was also responsible for a good deal of boisterous merriment. Mr. Mouillot's No. 1 company, with the opera, Tom Jones, was in the bill for Thursday.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—This week's programme has included Harry Randall and Harry Champion, both of whom have had flattering receptions; the Woellhafs, comedy artists; Daisy Stratton, comedienne and dancer; B. H. Alunn, the upside-down marvel; Daisy Wood, comedienne; and Percival, the clever comedian-pianist, are also in the bill.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Evans.—The list of artists here for the week is an attractive one, among those contributing to an all-round good entertainment being Harvey's American Boys and Girls, including Daisie Dennis; Maude Vera, comedienne and speciality artist; Rita and Roma, vaudeville entertainers; Massona, the jolly juggler; Dolly and Madge McCalla, juvenile entertainers; and the Brothers Obo, burlesque artists.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, the South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. W. Player.—The Master Criminal is presented here by Miss Winifred Chalmers. Mr. Henry L. Osmond is well suited in the character of Telford Lestage; Miss Chalmers skilfully sustains the part of Cecile; and a lengthy cast also includes Mr. Edward Avenal, Mr. J. C. Carlyle, Mr. Chas. Tolcher, Mr. Harry Cooke, Mr. Russell Yorke, Mr. B. C. Hacking, and Miss Violet Lytton, Miss Frances Trevelyan, Miss Mabel Tremere, and Miss Frances Carlyle.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—Victor Newman provides the star turn here this week in characters from Shakespeare and Dickens. Other excellent turns are also submitted by Lomas, the man monkey; Leslie and Player, duettists and patterers; the Gilberts, in a light wire act; the Korries, in a drawing-room musical entertainment; the Three De Venas, in a juggling speciality; Jac kand North, comedian; and the Three Alskarnos, in a comedy Risley act.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arnold.—This theatre was reopened on Monday with Mr. Charles Majilton's company in Round the Clock. It was a good send off for the new season, and a well-filled house punctuated the performance with laughter and applause. Mr. Chas. Majilton as Gabriel Gadforth was quite in his element; Mr. Randie Wilson as Old Geugan was most amusing; Messrs. Ben Storey (Denby) Jock Laughran (the cabman), and Jim Bond (Bartle Burke), all contributed generously to the fun. Mlle. Salprunelle had a flirty representative in Miss Maddie Majilton; Mrs. Gadforth was well played by Miss Rennie Walton; Miss Nora Christie was eminently successful as Bertie Kelvin; Miss Jenny Hughes as Mary Chatterton, Miss Nellie Clifford as Georgina, and Miss Lizzie Boyle as Miss Binkie were good. The Plumber was billed for the last three nights of the week.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and J. E. Cardwell's company is this week presenting the musical comedy burlesque, A Merry Maid. Mr. Vivian Wakeman plays excellently as Larry O'Hooligan; the Hon. Cecil Toft is cleverly typified by Mr. Neil Hardy; Mr. Lawrence imparts the atmosphere of the Emerald Isle to the character of Thady Clancy; Mr. Horace Hillerby makes a hit as Lawyer Sharpe Scrivener; Mr. Phil Goldie is successful as Von Swank; Mr. W. Shaw Hutchinson makes a most entertaining dame as Biddy O'Hooligan; Miss May Gibson is a sprightly and entertaining Peggy O'Hooligan, and sings charmingly; and the widow Angelina Vere de Vere is cleverly played by Miss F. Harrison.

NEW PICTURE HAL

Dome, in his neat clay modelling and bright comedy; and the dancing Gilberts.

Central Pier.—Manager, Mr. Emilius Hill.—The Hadji Mohamed Ben Mendani troupe of Moroccan tumblers, and the wonderful Selbinis, cycling extraordinary, have been the features of a bill of general excellence at this popular pavilion. Charles Santon, double-voiced vocalist (his soprano is charming); and David Poole, ventriloquist, have equally proved favourites. Elton and Edwin are brilliant exponents of the art of banjo twanging; Lillie Currie is a capable vocalist; Indiana a nimble contortionist; the Kramer Family are excellent aerial performers; and Miss Henriquette Maude tells with picture and story of her journey round the world.

MOTHERWELL. — New Century Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hales. — Miss Winifred Maude and company are this week appearing in The Convict. Mr. G. M. Olivert is a manly and convincing Jack Britton; and Miss Winifred Maude is deserving of praise as the sorely-tried heroine, Dora Renshawe. The villainous Captain Hurley and his female accomplice in crime find suitable exponents in Mr. T. Arthur Coleman and Miss Wingold Lawrence; Mr. Leonard S. Harris is well suited in the rôle of Charles Renshawe. There is a strong comedy element in the play, which provides ample scope for the excellent comedy acting of Messrs. Victor du Cane, W. E. Simpson, Herbert Rossiter, and Miss Alice Leslie.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—Interesting and attractive entertainment is provided here this week by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company in Henry Seton Merriman's great work, With Edged Tools (arranged as a play by H. Armitage). The company is well chosen and strong, and in the part of Jack Meredith William F. Grant is responsible for a most interesting and convincing study; as Guy Oscard Mr. Henry Nunn gives a manly and forceful interpretation, whilst the unscrupulous West African trader, Victor Durnovo, could not have been better and more truthfully portayed than by Mr. Campbell Goldsmid; in the character of Jocelyn Gordon Miss Phyllis Relph displays a sympathetic touch and charm; Miss Marie Leonhard is responsible for a clever study of the wayward and thoughtless Millicent Cheyne. Other leading rôles are ably played by Mr. J. A. Rosier, Mr. C. Hartopp, Miss Isabel Grey, and Miss Frances Wolviston.

Tyne Theatre and Opera House.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche's company in What the Butler Saw, received a hearty welcome here on Monday by a large and discriminating audience. As Pink, the butler, Mr. Lionel Rignold is seen at his best, and provides most of the mirth and amusement of the play; Miss Ada Blanche, who has quite recovered from her recent indisposition, is again seen to great advantage in the character of Mrs. Barrington, achieving once more a signal success. The principals receive splendid support from the other members of the company, particular mention being due to Mr. Charles Fawcett, the bogus bachelor, Mr. Hornby Warburton as Dr. Clayton, and Mr H. H. Rignold, Mr. George Ascot, Mr. Raymond Dudley, Miss Christine Jenson, and Miss Lilian Rose.

Palace Theatre.—Manager, Mr. T. W. Rowe.—Mr. Bulmer, supported by a powerful company, presents here this week, for the first time in Newcastle, The Girl Who Went Astray. In the title-part Miss Gwynne Warren gave a clever delineation, and very successful impersonations were those of Mr. John B. Shinton, Mr. Alf. Stretton, Mr. Evan Roland, Mr. Percy Warlow, Miss Ada M. Ryder, and Miss Sybil Houghton.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. F. W. Bolam.—A crowded audience greeted the first appearance in Newcastle of the new military drama, Send Him Victorious, on Monday evening. In an all-round strong company, Mr. Montague Beaudyn as Captain Allison and Miss Irene Monroe deserve special mention, whilst Mr. G. M. Mantanini, Miss Marie Robson and Miss Cecilia Crawford contribute in no small degree to the success of the undertaking.

Pavilion Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—The premier position here this week is occupied by Eva Williams and Joe Tucker, assisted by Bert Smith, in their original absurdity, Skinney's Finish; Violet Lloyd provides a pleasing turn with contributions on the piano and violin; Fred Hand always proves amusing, and was accorded a hearty reception, whilst other capital turns are provided by Harwood's Juveniles, Tom Yorke, Thomas and Taylor, Flo Warner, Evelyn Taylor, Horace and Olga's dogs and cats, and the Marathon Race on the Barrascope.

Empire Theatre.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—There is an exceptionally strong programme here this week, with Mr. Hymack and Maud Rochez occupying the principal line. The former gives his customary marvellous quick-change act, which well merits his name of the Chameleon Comedian, and Maud Rochez presents an entirely new animal novelty, a variety theatre controlled by monkeys; a wonderfully clever company of juveniles is presented by Carrie Laurie, their dancing and singing being heartily encored; whilst roars of laughter greeted Cornalla and Eddie in a really smart juggling and acrobatic knockabout turn; another amusing turn is provided by Johnson and Bert, The Landlord and his Queer Customer, and the Imperial Russian Troupe of singers and dancers are also well received. Other good turns are provided by Harry Drew, Welsh basso, the Musical Schafers, and Harry Tate's company in Motoring, the Bioscope completing with views of the Marathon Race.

NORTHAMPTON.—Opera House.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett.—The Musical Saxonias are paying a return visit with their saxophone band "Poet and Peasant" and "Away down South" being their principal items; Max Stuart and Kessie Stuart are amusing and eccentric comedy entertainers and quaint dancers; Marie Neilson is a pleasing comedienne and an expert dancer. Other items are furnished by Sig. Carlos, the upside-down juggler; T. C. Edwards, with bass songs; Flo Hilton, male impersonator; and Davis and Gledhill, roller cyclists. The Premier Imperial pictures, with new subjects, give the finishing touch to the programme.

The New Palace Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans.—Sable Fern tops the bill here, and provokes great enthusiasm; Chris Van Bern is a genuine comedian, who amuses by his funny patter and droll surprises; Les Elgonas excel as gymnasts; and the Four Janowskys give a good acrobatic display; Ivy Leaf is a nimble-footed comedienne; Silver Sybil pleases with her song "Beware," which suits her deep contralto voice; the Two Countees gain great favour with their humours; Gertie Lewis appears as a male impersonator; and The Brigands of Calabria, shown by the Palace Pictures, gains great applause.

NORTH SHIELDS. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Miss Grace Warner and her company opened here on Monday with The Scarlet Clue before an appreciative audience. As Sal Scarlet Miss Warner was well received, and Mr. George Gordon was responsible for a capital impersonation of Michael Stanton; Mr. T. O. O'Brien was good as the twin brothers, Jack and Harry Esmond; Mr. A. B. Lyons displayed much ability as Edward Crocker; Mr. W. Black made the most of Billy the Rotter, and Mr. Guy Routh scored as Crazy Jim; Miss Kathleen Cranson as Mother Scrooge deserved praise; Miss E. Conway was well suited as Elsie Dane, and little Nora Bretton as Little Polly was very pleasing. For Thursday and Friday East Lynne was announced.

Central Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Miss Cassie Walmer, an immense favourite, tops the bill here, and her various songs are loudly applauded; Otto and Olga present an enjoyable musical and comedy act; Messrs. Doyle and Gibson, comedians and dancers, are accorded a hearty reception; the Brothers Lavelle, acrobatic comedians, are smart; Little Ena, comedienne and dancer, is a decided success; Mr. George Dormard, comedian, does a good turn, and the Mouldoscope pictures are as usual interesting.

NORTHWICH.—Pavilion and Pleasure Gardens.—Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Fletcher; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry S. Dacre.—The beautiful pavilion is crowded out, and numbers are turned away. Owing to their success, the Whims Concert Party have been re-engaged for this week, and in addition to this capable company, Madame Marie D'Alcourt, and Mr. J. Wheelan have also been retained. This talented couple have been the source of much enjoyment with their excerpts from grand opera. Of the Whims, Mr. Alfred Bennett is an easy first. He is a clever, refined comedian, and his graceful dancing and quaint humour cause roars of applause. Miss Nellie James is rightly recalled for her dainty rendering of coon songs; a droll performance is that of Miss Dorothy Herries, whose study of a boarding-house chambermaid is true to the life; Mr. Edwin Wolseley is a capable baritone; Miss Eileen Dagmar possesses a sweet soprano voice, which she uses with good effect; Madame Anna Lang is an excellent violinist; Mr. Geoffrey Morris is a capable accompanist. The concerted numbers of the company are good, and the dances of a high order of merit.

NORWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Clarence C. Corre's company in The Dandy Fifth is here this week, gaining high appreciation. Mr. Percy Baverstock is excellent as the Colonel; Mr. J. Edward Fraser, both in singing and acting, admirably impersonates Dick Darville; Mr. George Beverley as Sergt.-Major Milligan deserves praise; as Trooper Brown Mr. Jack Crichton was a great favourite; Miss Pauline Hague is a charming Kate Lorrimer; Miss Nora Morra as Polly is most successful; Miss Maud Nichols is good as the Vivandiere and Mrs. Von Blitzen; Miss Sada Thompson gave a clever tambourine dance; and the concerted pieces by the Blue Moon Quartette obtain much appreciation.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The Royal Tokio company of Japanese performers are very clever in their Oriental entertainment; Frank Elliston and company are amusing in a comedy sketch, entitled Aunt Matilda; and Irve Hayman and Little Marie Montague are equally so in their little sketch. Jack Rae with his trained terrier arouses interest, and Simms and Simms are good musical comedians. The other items of the bill are Nora Stockells, comedienne and dancer, George Acre, Australian comedian, and Rose Sartella, American comedienne, and the Hippodrome Bioscope.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Miss Lena Ashwell and company are here this week, in Diana of Dobson's, and crowded and enthusiastic audiences are the response to so attractive an engagement. Miss Lena Ashwell assumes the rôle of Diana in a thoroughly efficient manner, and it is an unqualified pleasure to watch her powerful, yet restrained, acting; Miss Francis Ivor is successful as Mrs. Cantelupe; and a clever piece of characterisation is that of Miss Beryl Mercer, as the old woman. Miss Gertrude Scott is charming as Mrs. Whyte Fraser; and a good representation of the horrified forewoman is provided by Miss Ada Palmer. Mr. C. M. Hallard has a most congenial part as Capt. Bretherton to which he does full justice; and Mr. Dennis Eadie adds no little, as Sir Jabez Grinley, to the success of the play. Mr. Norman McKinnel, though only on the stage so short a time, proves himself a thorough artist; and Mr. W. Lemmon Warde does well in a small part. The other assistants at Dobson's are capably represented by Misses Nannie Bennett, Mary Barton, Muriel Vox, and Doris Lytton. The play is well mounted and produced. It is preceded each evening by an interesting little episode, The Likes o' Me, in which Master Philip Tonge makes a thoroughly successful appearance.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—A powerful drama, Mysteries of the Thames is produced here by Mr. Augustine Knight's company. In the part of Richard Brandon Mr. Knight finds ample scope for his gifts, and is well supported by Miss Francis Waring; Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson, as a genuine stage villain, earns the unstinted deprecation of the audience; whilst plenty of sympathy is evinced for Grace Rochdale and Doris, two parts well taken by Miss Ella Vane and Miss Elsie Jones. Miss Vane also successfully doubles the part of "Flash Nell." Mr. Edward E. Swinton does well as the burglar; and a clever representation is that of Mr. Tom J. Taylor as a country bumpkin. Mr. Charles E. Hill makes a good detective; and a typical publican is found in the person of Mr. George Stephens. Messrs. Edward Fryer, Joseph Cairns, J. E. Abbott, and J. L. Carroll, as the warders, are conspicuous; and Messrs. Sydney James and William Young both do well in small parts. Miss Olive Lanty, in a male part, and Miss Marie Robertson complete the cast, and the whole production is of the highest order of merit.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—Mlle. Celia Galley presents to Nottingham audiences a good French turn, which is highly appreciated; Miss Truly Shattuck, the American comedienne, has a gratifying reception; the Ten-Ji Troupe have nothing to learn in the art of conjuring and mystification; and Edward Lauri and May Beatty are as amusing as ever. Spry and Austin always succeed in raising plenty of laughter; and Stewart and Morgan are old friends, whose appearances never seem to tire the Empire's patrons. As acrobats of the more refined and finished sort none can possibly be better than De Wynne Bros.; and a bright little singer of pleasing songs is Miss Jennie Johns. Gifted with a charming presence and a reserve of dramatic force, Miss Arabella Allen is very successful in her impersonation of literary characters. The programme is completed by the usual Bioscope pictures.

NUNEATON.—Prince of Wales's Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—On Monday Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company opened here in A Soldier of France. Mr. Leonard Aardale is a capital Corporal Jean; Judas Delara is capably portrayed by Mr. Albert Guyon; and Mr. Edward Hobart is good as Capt. Lorraine. Miss Florence Zillwood gives an excellent interpretation of Pauline Lorraine. Comedy is well supplied by Mr. Freddie Edwards (Pollyput Jollyboy) and Miss Jennie Clare (Margot); and little Gertie Rennad is good as Louis Lorraine.

OLDBURY.—Palace.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Tyrer.—After a month's vacation this cosy hall was opened on Aug. 3 to packed houses. This week's programme includes the following artists: Eva Reed, dancer; Little Lilla, comedienne; Miss Dorothy Drew; Prof. Lewis, ventriloquist; Mr. Reg. Shaw, bass vocalist; Ethardo and Pardo, jugglers; and Doyle and Massey, eccentric comedians.

OLDHAM.—Empire Theatre.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Fred Karno's celebrated comedians opened here on Monday with the farcical sketches, Mumming Birds, Early Birds, London Suburbia, and The Casuals, which are greeted with roars of laughter. Harry Brown's songs are excellent; Chas. E. Stelling and his clever dog Kiswaski give a smart turn; Everhart, the timber scientist, gives a clever exhibition of hoop manipulation; the Jean Idara Troupe perform some ancient and modern dances delightfully; Lily Arthur is a capital vocalist and dancer; Devon and Earle are capital dancers in the wooden shoe; Jos. Belmont whistles exceedingly well; and Walter Emerson is as effective as ever.

Colosseum Theatre.—General Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company opened here on Monday in The Conscience of a Judge, by Madge Duckworth. Mr. Kenyon Musgrave appears as Herbert Granstone, the judge, his acting being talented; Miss Barbara Fenn as Jessica Draycott is sympathetic; Miss Mabel Coleman as Ethel Vaughan is also very good; Little Kitty is cleverly played by Miss Elsie Isaacs; Miss Mona Dawlish makes a good Mrs. Draycott, and a rich vein of comedy is well worked by Miss Madge Seymour as Mary Rostron, being ably assisted by Mr. Frank Ayrton as John Summers; Mr. Sam Courtney is a most vindictive Sir Edward Mervin, and Geoffrey Granstone is ably played by Mr. Lawrence Stevenson.

Temperance Hall, Horsedge-street.—The Royal Canadian Pictures are still proving very popular here.

OXFORD. — East Oxford Theatre. — Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. James Hare's company is here with A Destroyer of Men. Mr. James Hare undertakes the triple rôle of Karl Mischla, Herr Runz, and Uno with great success, exhibiting undoubted ability and versatility; while Mr. Fredk. Marston enacts Count Starevitch with force and power. As Michael Mischla Mr. James Duncan is seen to advantage; and Mr. Duncan Bell is good as Paul Starevitch. Mr. Edmond O'Grady is a prime favourite with his bright and witty interpretation of Coco Tatchoski, and is very amusing; Miss Jessie Yatman proves herself a very charming and dainty actress with her delightful performance as Vida Ravel; and Miss Bessie Frank, with some good songs, is a vivacious Nina Pattakake. The part of Olga Mischla is sustained with telling effect by Miss Irene Clifford, an actress of no mean histrionic power.

PAISLEY.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Douglas F. Bostock.—Marie Loftus, who heads the bill this week, is delighting her many admirers with new songs, and renews her popularity as a comedienne. Tony Iveson, assisted by David Hornby, is responsible for a clever musical and comedy act entitled The Ragman in the Drawing-Room; Musical Silvo provides an excellent entertainment by playing on musical glasses and the silvochimes; the Carpos Brothers exhibit a wonderfully neat and novel acrobatic and head-balancing act; Minnie D'Aubyn scores an unqualified success by her singing; a clever and sprightly little comedienne is May Marton, who sings and deports herself well; Bert Kemble as a comedian and raconteur gains approval; the Two Walonells are entertaining as comedy acrobats and gymnasts; and the Hippodrome Bioscope is to the front with interesting and amusing pictures.

PENTRE.—Tivoli Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—An excellent bill of fare is presented here this week. On the top is Cussac Talma, assisted by Mlle. Yvonne de Force, in a series of illusions; Mlle. Haydee's miniature vaudeville theatre is up to date; May Lilian Levey, the popular comedienne, is enthusiastically received; smart and sensational feats are presented by the Wambas, trapeze artists; novel acrobatic tricks are introduced by Les Zelovas; Kisbey, the call boy, is applauded; the Orchids are smart comedy artists; and Lily and Albert, comedy instrumentalists and patter duo; Miss Adey Spencer, drawing-room entertainer; and the Tivoliscope complete.

PETERBOROUGH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—Mr. Wentworth Croke presented The Prodigal Son on Monday to a crowded house. Mr. Hugh Montgomery gives a powerful reading of Magnus Stephensson; and Oscar Stephensson is dramatically portrayed by Mr. Gordon Mackintosh. Stephen is finely impersonated by Mr. Charles Cooper; Mr. Philip Renouf is successful as Oscar Neilson; Miss Mildred Cottell gives an interesting performance as Helga; and Miss Valerie Crespin is an excellent Thora Neilson. Miss Barbara Gott is well received as Anna; and Miss Marie Harcourt charmingly embodies the part of Elin. Other parts are ably taken by Mr. E. Christopher, Mr. Ernest Rivarz, Mr. G. Dixon-Kenwin, Miss Una Gilbert, and Miss Nellie Gilbert.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Mr. Herbert Sleath's company, in A White Man, is this week supplying a welcome change. To Mr. Frank Petley is entrusted the part of Capt. James Wynnegate, and his acting is of a high order; Mr. Lewis Broughton has a somewhat thankless task as the Earl of Kerhill, but carries out his duties satisfactorily; Mr. R. A. Brandon as Big Bill creates a profound impression, and deservedly obtains hearty applause; and Mr. Thomas Swem as the impetuous Shorty is very amusing. Mr. Eric Hudson's sonorous voice is well adapted to the rôle of Jab-y-Wana; and Mr. A. C. Hardie is "at home" as the bully, Cash Hawkins. Miss Rhoda Ray makes a pathetic Nut-u-Rich, and admirably portrays a part that could easily be overdone; and Miss Eleanor May is delightfully sympathetic as the Countess of Kerhill. The piece is admirably mounted.

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Arthur Norton is starred as the 9st. Græco-Roman champion, and has had some tough encounters with local aspirants; the Cattaneo Troupe entertain with interesting tricks; Jimmy Shields is a smart one-legged comedian and dancer; Bessie Knight is an accomplished comedienne and dancer; Marguerite Ismay and company have a pretty coon item; and Sid Cottrell and company and James Laurie also appear.

PONTEFRACT.—Alexandra Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff.—Wragg and Wragg, military athletes, gain a fine reception; a capital performance is that of Will and Rose, acrobatic conjurers, their comedy is good and their feats original; J .P. Carroll, tambourine manipulator, scores with clever business; Smith and Johnson, coloured comedians, receive well-merited recognition; Bessie Travis, a good ventriloquist, gives an amusing performance; Johnny Dewar, patterer and comedian, keeps the house in continual roars of laughter; Dale and Vale, singing and pedestal dancers, receive well-deserved applause; and Flo Christine sings and dances successfully. The Three Tivoli Girls sing well, and their dancing is exceptionally good. Some realistic pictures are exhibited, which are much appreciated.

PONTYPRIDD. — Royal Clarence Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Trenchard and Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—The attraction this week is the return visit of Mr. Charles Harrington's company in Uncle Tom's Cabin. Phineas Fletcher is ably delineated by Mr. Harrington; Uncle Tom is sympathetically played by Mr. J. Carr; Mr. Edwin Clarke capably enacts the part of Mr. St. Claire; Mr. T. Bowron impersonates Legree realistically; and Mr. Walter Langford scores as Marks; Miss Hero Hathaway effectively portrays Eliza Harris. Worthy of every praise also are Miss May Turner as Mrs. St. Claire, Miss Annie Watson as Topsy, Miss Hettie Johnson as Little Eva, and Miss Carr as Aunt Chloe.

PORTH.—Palace, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—Topping a capital programme here this week is Nat Clifford, comedian, who scores a decided success; Hilda Valma, who vocalises at the piano, possesses a sweet voice, and meets with approval; Chas. Buval, the happy Dutchman, is thoroughly appreciated; the Cecilias, lady instrumentalists, provide an admirable turn; Mlle. Yetta proves herself an efficient and graceful wire equilibrist; Herbert Clifton, mimic, scores highly; Dyson and Payne, in their pretty vocal scena, supply a noteworthy turn; and Picitt and Lizette deserve unstinted praise for their magical extravaganza, The Crazy Cook. The Palascope with its grand series of up-to-date films concludes.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Messrs. Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton's powerful drama The Sins of Society is being presented here by Mr. F. W. Bolam's strong company. The scenery and mounting are very fine, notably Windsor Weir, which was much admired. Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan gave a vigorous and manly interpretation of Sir Dorian March; as the unscrupulous Noel Ferrers Mr. C. F. Collins was all that could be wished; Mr. Blake Adams's embodiment of James Hogg was very amusing; Mr. Frederick Annerley as Mr. Morris presented an admirable study; the Rev. Martin Hope was played with sympathetic feeling by Mr. Edwin Palmer, and Mr. George Walters was good as servant to James Hogg; Miss Grace E. Leslie portrayed with dramatic power and with great distinction the erring Lady Marion Beaumont; Miss Patty Browne was a charming Lady Goldbury; Miss Dorothy Giles a graceful and winsome Lady Gwendolen Ashley; Miss Janet Hodson a clever Duchess of Danebury; Miss Mabel Murray did well as the Hon. Mrs. Murgatroyd; and Miss Kathleen was praiseworthy as maid to Lady Marion.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Messrs. F. Marriott-Watson and Sanderson Moffatt, with a capital company, are staging here for the week the romantic musical drama What a Woman Did. Mr. Marriott-Watson makes of Raffaelle Duros an excellent scoundrel; Mr. Reg. Kloof ably seconds the Marquis in his rascally proceedings; Mr. S. Moffatt plays Conrad in admirable fashion; Mr. C. Elton Morgan is well placed as Fritz; and Mr. Owen Edwin is genuinely funny as Peter Pippin. Miss Florence E. Florence evokes the sympathy of the house by her pathetic Elise de L'Orme; and Miss Phillis Hamilton makes the very best of the rôle of La Papillon; Miss Flo Norman ably portrays Fanchon, and Miss Nora Waylett does well as Nannette.

King's Theatre. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Harmony Four are most diverting in their original musical comedy, and Messrs. Begeran, Barrett, Hughes, and Scott Rae are admirable in their several impersonations; Grace Langley is a dashing serio; Beattie and Babs a highly gifted pair; and Hall and Earle, the Chinaman and the Tramp, have a smart acrobatic turn; Mr. Frank Hardie and company present an exciting American episode, Pedlar Sam, gaining many recalls; Blake and Amber, American frivolity artists, prove popular in a parody on grand opera; the Three Meers in a comedy wire act are side-splitting in their capital fooling; Ferris and May in a comedy musical spasm, Two's Company, Three's —? are heartily greeted, and The Maid and the Moon, the latest musical novelty, and a series of amusing pictures by the Barrascope conclude.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Capt. Warren Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The bill of fare for the week here includes John Lawson and company in Humanity, which has lost none of its attractions; the Sisters Selwyn, in a refined vocal and dancing act, gained much applause; the Donnas Trio, triple trapeze equilibrists, have a warm greeting for their clever and daring business; Bessie Herbert, soubrette with a sympathetic and vigorous style, does well; Harry Rogerson, the tired comedian is responsible for much amusement; Gladys and Alber, acrobatic comedy couple, are keen and smart; Fred Herbert, topical vocalist, is well received; Miss Margaret Ashton, American comedienne, dashing in song and vivacious in personality, scores well; and Payne's Bio, with extremely clever pictures, concludes.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Topping the bill are Mr. Lew Lake, the Cockney comedian, and his company in the farcical absurdity, The Bloomsbury Burglars; Miss Violet Stockelle, vocalist and dancer, is very charming; Gicardo, boy juggler, submits some smart and clever work; and Mr. Larry Lewis is a quaint comedian with dry, droll manner; Les Sousloffs, whirlwind dancers, are well named; Mr. Michael Nolan, Irish comedian, is genial and racy of the soil, and does exceedingly well; Walton and Lester, billed as the World's Worst Wizards, give a capital and amusing entertainment; Mr. James Fawn, the ever-green humorist, gains a good hearing for his well chosen and smartly rendered numbers. The Hippo pictures, depicting up-to-date events, finish a capital programme.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Executors of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Crowded houses have extended a hearty welcome to Miss Lena Ashwell's company in Diana of Dobson's. In the title-rôle Miss Emelie Polini is most successful, and enacts the part in a manner that carries conviction and arouses sympathy; Mr. E. C. Villiers as Captain the Hon Victor Bretherton is likewise a success, and receives hearty plaudits; Miss Gwynneth Galton as Mrs. Canteiupe, and Miss Clarissa Selwynne as Mrs. White-Fraser are both admirable; Mr. W. Kingsford Pearce presents a clever character study as Sir Jabez Grinlay, Bart.; Miss Dorothy Garth gives another clever piece of character acting as the Old Woman. Mr. Frank Woolfe as P. C. Fellowes and Mr. Stewart Dawson as the Waiter are equally good in their respective parts. Miss Daisy England as Miss Pringle and the Misses Violet Gould, Eva Lonsdale, Olga Esmé, and Dorothy Garth as the assistants (living in at Dobson's), carry off the dormitory scene in a most spirited manner. The comedy is preceded by The Bishop's Candlesticks, a dramatic little playlet founded on an incident in "Les Misérables," in which Mr. Frank Woolfe gives a most powerful portrayal of the convict.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Miss Mary Neil and Mr. George Kirk's company in their new drama, From Shop Girl to Duchess, are doing good business here this week. As Arnold Vyvian Duke of St. Baynum Mr. Douglas Cecil gives a clever rendition of the part; Mr. Douglas Tremayne is very humorous as Pelham; Mr. T. Lionel Ellis is a capital character study as Sir Morris Maitland, M.D.; the Gilbert Spate of Mr. Frank S. Strickland is a clever bit of acting; Mr. Robert Cromwell has most of the comedy in his hands as Tommy Tinkler, and Miss Florrie Grove as Tilly Dobson ably supports him, the part being well fitted for this young lady's particular style. As Sylvia Grey (the Shop Girl) Miss Mary Neil has a most exacting part to fulfil, and right well she does it, eliciting the hearty and sympathetic applause of the house; Miss Amy B. Ellis as Isabel the Dowager Duchess, and Miss Winifred Trevor as the Countess are both equally good; Miss Mary Clavering is a vivacious Lady Cinderella; Miss Beatrice Hudson as the unprincipled Lady Celeste Delamere gives a most clever portrayal of a by no means easy part; Miss Dora Woodberry and Miss Queenie Lamont as Fifine and Gertrude Haynes respectively are good; Messrs. Henry Gerald as M. Scalameux, E. S. Nuttall as Corbet, and Cresswell as Mason give good accounts of themselves. The dresses are excellent, and the scenery good. Special mention should be made of Scene 3, Act 2, Waiting-room at Charing Cross Station, which is certainly novel.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—A very welcome change from the ordinary bill of fare is provided here this week in the musical comedy, Happy Hooligan, and crowded houses (twice nightly) accord it a most hearty welcome. The piece overflows with catchy songs, tricky dances and sprightly girls, not to mention the broad American comedy which is judiciously introduced. As Happy Hooligan Mr. Wm. H. Lester is much in evidence, and causes much laughter with his drolleries; Mr. Jos. J. Sullivan as Donald Macgregor, in conjunction with Mr. John K. Hawley as Max Guggenheimer, succeed in bringing down the house at every entry; Mr. Harry Emeric is good as Charley Fipp; Miss Lottie Wilson is a most charming Widow Johnson; while Miss Rose Lyndon is bewitching as Rose; Miss Blanco Moure is an excellent Nettie, and wins rapturous applause for her speciality dancing in Scene 2; Miss Lilian Lilyan as Daisy and Mr. Jack Henery as Oki San are also good. The chorus is composed of some very pretty girls with good voices, who each and all add much to the success of the piece, which is splendidly mounted, the dresses (of which there is a great variety) being excellent. Great praise is due to Mr. Herbert Lloydd, under whose direction it is produced.

RADCLIFFE. — Grand Opera House. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—The Honeymoon, an entertaining farcical comedy, has been played this week. Among several able comedians with the company the foremost is Mr. Gilbert Payne, who as Nathaniel Noodle keeps the audience in merry mood; Mr. Fred Hulton is also very entertaining, and Mr. C. Ainslie (the Colonel) and Mr. L. Earle (Jack Armstrong) also add to the success of the piece. Some capital singing, dancing, and instrumental music are introduced.

RAMSGATE.—Royal Victoria Theatre.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—Mr. Fred Karno's company of clever comedians have been paying a welcome return visit to Ramsgate this week in an intensely amusing production, His Majesty's Guests. There have been crowded houses, and the laughter has been great. Mr. George Hestor as Sergeant Lightning, the eccentric custodian of law and order, is wonderfully droll in gesture, movement, facial expression, and spoken line. His performance is mimicry par excellence, and he is well supported by the other members of the company. The "Burglars' Chorus" still remains an exceedingly popular feature of the show.

Royal Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr. Dan Forrest.—On the first three nights of the week Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company played to large houses in the well-known comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, Lady Frederick. The feature of the engagement is the appearance of Miss Mabie Love in the title-rôle, and this charming actress was at each performance loudly applauded at the fall of the curtain. Mr. Robert Minster was greatly successful as Paradine Fouldes, the part of Sir Gerald O'Mara (Lady Frederick's brother) was admirably assumed by Mr. Patrick Quill, and Messrs. E. F. Meads and E. Bonfield did capitally as Lord Meneston and Captain Montgomery respectively. Smaller parts were filled in excellent manner by Messrs. A. Bruce Smith, Harry Winton, John Orme, and Gerald Gambier. Miss Mabel Love was well supported by Miss Eleanor Delaporte as Lady Meneston, Miss Lynn Fontanne as Rose Carlisle, Miss Beatrice Grosvenor, and Miss Rita Ward. The various situations of the comedy were attentively followed, and the splendidly epigrammatic lines keenly enjoyed. The Peacemaker, an excellently-played curtain-raiser, has preceded the comedy each evening. On the second three evenings of the week another of the Hutchison companies has occupied the boards, staging in first-rate style Peter's Mother.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Benton.—The Adventures of Sexton Blake is being played here this week. Mr. Horace Hunter gives a powerful rendering of the title-part; Mr. Charles East as Randolf Lo[illegible] acts in forcible style; and Simon Faggas is characteristically impersonated by Mr. John M. East. Roger Blackburn is well represented by Mr. William Felton; Mr. Algernon Syms acts well as Squire Lovell; the part of Tinker is amusingly sustained by Mr. Billy Rose, who is well supported by Miss Alma Vincent as Euphemia Pattacake; Marjorie Lovell is charmingly portrayed by Miss Lily Hammersley; and Miss East Robertson gives a good sketch of Philadelphia Kate.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—Sidney and Partner do some clever trick cycling feats, including a daring sensation, entitled "The Devil's Drum"; Miss Dora Barrington and Miss Lesley Grey appear with success in a vocal scena, Sentiment and Jest; Wells and Mackenzie introduce an effective vocal turn; Miss Louisa Peach and company are amusing in the sketch Taming a Husband; the Brothers Brooks are droll comedians; and Celeste gives an expert slack-wire and baton juggling performance. Herbert Shelley shows versatility in the Irish protean play, Dan, the Outlaw, the whole of the characters being impersonated by himself; Louie Belrose and the Sisters Brand, comediennes, are well received; and some Russian scenes are depicted by the Palace Bioscope.

Pierrot Pavilion (Thames Promenade). — Mr. Hamilton Baines took his benefit on Wednesday, and his enterprise in providing an excellent series of al-fresco performances found appreciation in a very numerous attendance of friends and patrons.

ROCHDALE. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—The Flower Girl is proving a welcome attraction here this week, the music is light and catchy, and some capital songs are introduced. Miss Dorothy Firman charmingly enacted the title-rôle, Lily, her vocaliam, dancing, and acting established her a warm favourite. Mr. Martin Adeson as Joe Wheeler is a most versatile artist, and created roars of laughter; Mr. Alfred Donohoe successfully played the part of Johnny Wheeler; Mr. Robert H. Howard possesses a capital voice, and fulfils the part of the Hon. Billy Greenhill to great advantage; Mr. Edward Kipling as Reginald Rackit, and Mr. Henry Adnes as Alphonse de Racquet, are both successful; Miss Florence Wilton is a vivacious Lizette de Racquet, and Miss Jeannie Holmes admirably enacts the part of Miss Greenhill, a suffragette.

Empire.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—The Four Geraldos, club and hoop jugglers, top the bill here with an exceptionally clever and bewildering performance; Lozelle is a graceful gym

Ferina. The Shaughraun was staged on Wednesday night.

SHEERNESS. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Sheerness Hippodrome Co.—A musical comedy drama, entitled At the World's Mercy, performed by Mr. Carr Loates's company, is meeting with a favourable reception. Miss Cissie Milford displays versatility in the dual rôle of Skittles and Kitty Knott; Mr. Leo Rodway is a typical Capt. Frank Manley, being ably assisted by Miss Molly Bee as Alice Lloyd; and Mr. Carr Loates is a conventional villain as Jabez Barber.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; Manager, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; Local Representative, Mr. Cyril Parkes.—A judicious selection of animated pictures, both interesting and laughable, has met with hearty approval here this week. The series include The Bad Shilling, The Sacrifice, A Modern Samson, A Pierrot's Mother, Dora, Aunt Maria, and The Moneylender.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—There was a large audience here on Monday, when Mr. George Edwardes's company began a welcome return visit in The Merry Widow. Brilliantly staged and well performed, the play was again received with enthusiastic applause. Miss Constance Drever repeated her arch, vivacious, and captivating impersonation of the lively young widow; Mr. Leonard Mackay shared the honours of the famous waltz song with Miss Drever, and his acting and singing as Prince Danello were enjoyable; Mr. Eric Thorne was heartily welcomed as Baron Popoff, and caused great hilarity; Miss Ethel Cadman sang effectively; and the vocalism and acting of Miss Sylvia May, Mr. W. T. Andrews, and Mr. S. Bellamy was thoroughly appreciated. There was a large and admirable chorus, and the scenery was artistic.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—A very pleasing and instructive domestic drama, The Old Folks at Home, is being acted here this week by a talented company, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Campbell. Miss Maud Warburton wins the sympathy of the house as Dorothy; Mr. Frank Liston acts with discretion and care as Lord Howard Kenilworth; that old Sheffield favourite, Mr. Frank Caffrey, keeps the audience in roars as the irrepressible Ben Jolly; and other characters are well played by Mr. Henry Nelson, Mr. A. F. Lovatt, Mr. Vernon Proctor, Mrs. Arthur Dudley, Miss Kate Froude, and Miss Sarah Santley. The drama is effectively mounted.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. William D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—The charming actress, Miss Chrissie Dunbar, opened to a good audience on Monday, supported by Mr. Percy Norman's company, in A Woman Worth Winning. Miss Chrissie Dunbar acted with her usual emotional power as Roma Pauloff, and looked superb in her beautiful costumes; Mr. Sidney Barton made a dignified Nicholas; and other characters were well sustained by Mr. Gilbert Standing, Mr. George E. Clive, Mr. A. B. Mackay, Mr. Jack Corlass, Mr. W. Davies, Mr. Carthage Caldclugh, Mr. Louis Newman, Mr. Ernest Kendrick, Mr. H. Stuart, Mr. W. Burnett, Miss Trixie Leighton, and Miss Ida Mackay. Effective scenery and properties add spectacular interest to a thrilling story.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The graceful and accomplished comic opera artist, Miss Winifred Hare, is delighting her countless local admirers this week with charmingly-rendered songs; Mr. Mark Sheridan's patter makes the "welkin ring" with roars of laughter and applause; the clean humour and quaint remarks of Mr. Cruikshank are in great favour with all classes; the sketch The Stowaway is a great success, and proves well worthy of revival. Leading characters are cleverly portrayed by Mr. J. K. Walton as the captain, and Miss Marjorie Armstrong in the title-rôle. The Three Lloyds do a smart act on the bouncing ropes, and receive hearty applause; Miss Elsie Roby's style is quite novel and full of "go"; and other good turns are done by Messrs. Rich and Rich, low comedy merchants; Mr. Sydney Lee, conjuror; Howard and St. Clair, &c.

THE HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—Mr. Walter C. Kelly, in his original mimetic monologue, the Virginian Judge, made a hit here on Monday; a smart and refined musical comedy sketch is given by those talented artists Bellman and Moore; the Three Donals, graceful athletics, win loud and deserved applause; some good excuses for merriment are supplied by those diverting comics, Mr. Dan Whitley and Mr. George Antill; the Tafanos are versatile duettists and dancers; and Webb and Branston, operatic vocalists; Ormonde Penstone, prestidigitateur; the Barrascope, with humorous episodes; and the Shaun Grelville farce company, in The Art of Deception, make a very attractive programme.

GRAND THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—Good business is the rule here with the following array of talent:—Cliff and Kean, comedy entertainers; the Hamiltons, sketch artists; Miss Winnie Wentworth, serio-comedy artist; the Almas, equilibrists and acrobats; Mr. Keane Harker and Mr. J. Wright Atkins' company, in a thrilling one-act play, The Oath of Vengeance. Some artistic, dramatic, fantastic, and comic films by the Raymond Bio-Tableaux Co. are much enjoyed.

ALBERT HALL.—Victor Hamilton's U.S.A. Picture Co. concludes a successful season this week.

SHREWSBURY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and company are here this week, playing in a talented fashion Ibsen's famous pieces, A Doll's House, The Master Builder, and Hedda Gabler. In The Master Builder Mr. Lovel acts with great ability and success as Halvard Solness; Mr. Arthur McCulloch makes a genial and capable Dr. Herdal; Mr. C. W. Sykes plays carefully and well the part of Knut Brodik; Mr. E. Stanley Yorke merits praise as Ragnar Brodik; Miss Catherine Maynard as Aline Solness performs a somewhat thankless part in a most creditable manner; Miss Gladys Morris is a sweet Kaia Fosti; and Miss Octavia Kenmore acts with artistic grace and talent as Hilda Wangel.

SOUTHAMPTON.—GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Mr. George Alexander's company has been scoring a great success in The Thief. The company is well-balanced, and an excellent representation is given. Richard Chelford is played in convincing style by Mr. Rupert Lister; and Miss Marie Polini ably sustains the part of Marise Chelford; Miss Jean Cadell and Mr. Cyril Harcourt are seen to great advantage as Mr. and Mrs. Leyton; whilst Mr. Owen Nares as Harry Leyton and Mr. Luke Forster as the detective are also excellent. The scenery and effects are in excellent taste, and the ladies' costumes handsome.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wm. Trussell.—Miss Marquis and her performing cobs provide the star turn, the cleverly-trained ponies being received with enthusiasm. Chanti is a clever protean artist who scores all along the line; and Annie Schuberth sings admirably. Barrington's musical turn is highly enjoyable; and other good items are given by the Pichel troupe of acrobats; Alfonzo, equilibrist; Jock Walker, Scotch comedian; and Harry Cotton, comedian.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. P. Howell.—Harry Fragson, the "entente-cordiale" comedian, is the bright particular star, and scores with his humorous songs at the piano; that well-known Achmed Ibrahim troupe of tumblers and acrobats win golden opinions; Josie Gallimore, a chic comedienne; The Westwoods, cycling duo; Harry Maynard, comedian; Minnie Warner, a smart dancer; and Ida Brophy, a comely comedienne, also prosper well.

PIER PAVILION. — Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Sait.—"The Scarlet Mr. E.'s," headed by that prince of humorists, Mr. Walter Dowling, drew good houses to this favourite resort on the first three days of the week. The Penarth Male Voice Choir gave two capital concerts on Thursday.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. — EMPIRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—A three-nights' engagement of The Dairymaids drew excellent patronage, and on Monday Mr. Robert Courtneidge's strong company gave a delightful and enjoyable presentation of the popular musical play. Sweet singing, pretty dances well executed, and choruses under the direction of Mr. Albert Bartlett aroused keen enthusiasm. Mr. Johnny Osborne was immensely popular in his able characterisation of Joe Mivens, his dancing being especially admired; Miss Gladys Silvani gave him worthy assistance as Eliza, and well deserved the many recalls she won by a clever impersonation; Mr. Nelson Keys, who made a lively rôle of Lieut. Sam Brudenell, R.N., won honours as a comedian; and Messrs. A. Wykes Ashdowne and J. A. Warden also provided good fun as Lieut. Frank Meredith, R.N., and Dr. O'Byrne, R.N., respectively. Miss Clare Marsden was seen to advantage in the rôle of Peggy, and her singing was greatly pleasing; Miss Mabel Younge made a stylish and successful character of Lady Brudenell; Miss Madge Avery gave a dignified portrayal of Miss Penelope Pychase; and Miss Clarice Lockstone as Winifred and Miss Dorothy Laine as Helen also were successful. Mr. George Edwardes is presenting The Merry Widow the remaining three nights of this week.

THE KURSAAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—At both afternoon and evening entertainments encouraging support from large audiences is given here. Mr. J. Carter's Ten San-Tan Girls make another appearance after a week's absence, and their rendering of the scena in An Eastern Slave has a popular reception; the retention of Miss Madge Ainsley, burlesque actress and dancer, gives evident satisfaction; Zaro and Arno are seen in clever acrobatic feats which greatly please; as do also the smart acrobatic eccentricities of Griffin and Ardel. Mr. Edward Mortimer provides hearty merriment as a humorist; and the Misses Nellie Giles (operatic vocalist) and Carrie Wood (soubrette and danseuse) also contribute with success. The Kursaal Belles give a no less enjoyable programme in the Café Chantant, which includes a capital series of bioscope pictures.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless; Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—Mr. Henry Swinerd is paying his annual visit here this week with Dare-Devil Dorothy, which is admirably presented by a clever company. Mr. Walter Ashley as Captain George Fielding is decidedly good; Mr. Walter B. Nugent as Captain Edward Dudley gives a well-studied impersonation; Mr. Harry Ugar in the rôle of Silas Crump never ceases to entertain; Mr. Dean Cliffe as Featherstone Haugh and Mr. William H. Hearson are responsible for much good humour; Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith displays talent in acting, singing, and dancing; Miss Dorothy Desmonde in the name-part is eminently suited, her singing being a special feature of a creditable portrayal; Miss Nellie Valentine is successful as Ruth Montrose, and also gains singing honours. Smart and clever acrobatic dances by the Misses Florence Corri and Daisy Holbrook are well applauded.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS. —Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary and General-Manager, Mr. R. Singleton.—A more than usually attractive entertainment is provided during the current week by the engagement of Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's capital company in Mr. W. Somerset Maugham's charming comedy Mrs. Dot, which was presented here on Monday evening for the first time, and was received with marked evidence of approval. Miss Decima Moore gave a brilliant interpretation of the title-rôle, the varying moods of the volatile widow being skilfully and artistically treated throughout; Miss Emma Hutchison depicted the part of Lady Sellenger in a highly commendable and natural manner; Miss Ethel Grahame finds favour with the audience by her winsome portrayal of Nellie Sellenger; Mr. Frank Lacy is an admirable and clever exponent of James Blenkinsopp; Gerald Halstane had a capable and fitting representative in Mr. James Gelderd; Mr. Philip Leslie sustained the part of Freddy Perkins very successfully; other good comedy sketches were supplied by Miss Celia Gordon as Miss Eliza MacGregor; Mr. H. Allistoun Sampson as Mr. Rixon; Mr. R. Van Courtland as Mr. Wright; and Mr. William Midgley and Mr. F. F. Abbott as Charles and George respectively. The play is preceded by a one-act comedietta, entitled Her Dearest Friend.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. John and Fred Coulson.—Mr. George D. Day's company is here in The Prodigal Son. Mr. Albert Ward as Oscar Stephenson displays histrionic ability; Magnus is splendidly portrayed by Mr. H. T. Crane; Stephen Magnusson and Oscar Nellsson are well played by Mr. Charles Herberte and Mr. James English; as Thora and Elin Miss Pauline Emeric is seen to advantage; Helga is powerfully depicted by Miss Pearla Gardner; Miss Florence Lovell and Miss Kate Osborne as Anna and Margaret are all that can be desired.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The South Shields Empire, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton.—Mlle. Sahara renders classical dances in pleasing style here; Cadwell and Verne, who appear instead of Howard and St. Clair, are well received; Vernando is an able ventriloquist; Lee and Bentley and company contribute a smart comedy sketch, A Sure Thing; some excellent music and dancing are submitted by Espinosa and Neilson; Geo. Payne is a clever comedian. The remaining items are the Brothers Weltman, good acrobatic dancers; the Volners, refined entertainers; and the Bioscope.

TIVOLI (LAYGATE LANE).—Proprietor, Councillor J. K. Hall.—Professor Marveles and his wonderful performing parrots and cockatoos do an excellent turn here; a musical item is contributed by Sabino, who introduces some dancing figures; Herr Nichel is a clever bird imitator; and the Tivoliscope completes the bill.

COSY CORNER.—Mr. George Burton's clever entertainers are much appreciated here, contributing good songs and patter, some excellent comedy items, new concerted pieces, and an admirable sketch.

STALYBRIDGE.—GRAND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Fioni; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson.—The premier position in this week's bill is worthily filled by Will Godwin, a vocalist who gains in favour on each engagement; the Voco Duo are exceedingly diverting in their vocal scena, The Spider's Web. Mlle. Rene, the lady Cinquevalli, is warmly applauded; Roy Bevis, court magician; the Three Transfields, in their musical act; Violet Leslie, vocalist; and Clark and Heap, vaudeville entertainers, complete an enjoyable programme.

ST. LEONARDS.—PIER PAVILION.—Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Frank Westhersby's company on Monday opened a week's engagement here in Facing the Music. Mr. Dare Austin was commendable as the Rev. John Smith; Miss Ida Chapman as the Curate's wife carried out her rôle convincingly; John Smith was breezily played by Mr. Arthur Dennis, who had capital support from Mr. Robert Noble as Dick Desmond; Miss Amy Lorraine was ideal as Mrs. Parting; and Miss Helena Parsons added to the merriment as Nora.

ST. HELENS. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. A. McLeod Loader.—Man to Man is being presented here under the personal direction of Messrs. Edwin Lloyd and Frank Adair. Mr. Lloyd appears in the part of George Gordon with admirable success; and Mr. Adair's Richard Ellerton is well worth seeing. Mr. H. Holland takes the part of Matthew Ellerton acceptably; and Mr. Denholm Muir makes quite the conventional parson as Rev. Philip Ormond. The love-making of Samuel Plumtree (Mr. H. Bruce Williams) and Miss Lavinia Dove (Miss Adeline Lester) is much enjoyed. Miss Louie Adair shows much spirit and force in the character of Ethel Maythorne. Mr. Clifford Bown gives a capital study as Bill Burkley.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic Carnell.—A big programme includes a welcome return visit of Les Piccolinos, the wonderfully clever midgets, whose performance is received with great favour; Griff is specially engaged to make laughter, and succeeds admirably; the Leonas play duets on several instruments pleasingly; Marie Rouse sings a coon song and dances well; the Three Pirmans perform on the bars; Cavalli is an excellent ventriloquist; and Sandy and Carl, comedians, and Joe Archer add to the gaiety of the night.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Revill, jun.—A distinct attraction for the Wakes holidays is provided here in Why Men Love Women, which is presented by Miss Ellen Snow and company in capable style. Gerald Fielding is impressively portrayed by Mr. Oliver Rogers; Mr. Lionel Gadsden acts admirably as Capt. Staniloff; Mr. Basil Horsfall makes a fine Maharajah of Balore; and Orlando Figgins is amusingly played by Mr. Harwood Roberts. Miss Ellen Snow acts with feeling and grace as Violet Livingstone; Miss Maud Court ably fills the character of Muriel Zoluski; and as Mrs. Figgins Miss Roland Watts Phillips sustains the part with marked ability.

EMPIRE. — Proprietors, the Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Atlas and Vulcana and the Sisters Atlas have attracted crowded audiences here this week, their clever weight-lifting and the beautiful Vulcana's posing being enthusiastically applauded. The Burnells, in their sketch, On the Links, are boisterously funny; Kirk and Saraski give an entertaining display in the electric aquarium; Henry Curwen and Marie Belle are highly amusing in their impersonations; the Lynchs, song illustrators, are successful; Day and Knight are pleasing in a musical episode, What Might Have Been; and Marian Armitage, comedienne, and Jack Hayton, comedian, are favourably received.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES. — CASTLE THEATRE. — Lessee, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company presented here this week in brilliant style The Midnight Wedding. Miss Annie Saker appeared in her original part of Princess Astrea Von Strelsburg, and completely won the hearts of the audience; as Paul Valmar (Swordmaster of the Red Hussars) Mr. Alfred Paumier acted with distinction; Mr. A. E. Winnington-Barnes as Eugene Von Strelsburg was excellent, as was also Mr. Mayor-Cooke as Rudolf Von Scarsbruck, Mr. James E. Page as Sergeant Max, Mr. Harry Richardson as Corporal Otto, and Mr. Algie Spalding as Private Bobo caused much merriment in their love-making with Miss Ada Champion as Kathie.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—Tarro Miyake, ju-jitsu wrestler, who heads the bill here this week, gives a fine exhibition of his style of wrestling, and causes much excitement with his challenges among the locals; Messrs. John Brandon and company, in a sketch entitled The Lovely Liars, cause much laughter; Victor and Lewis, the golfer and the caddie, are good comedians; Brothers Bradshaw, acrobatic eccentrics, are very clever; Brenda and Green are smart club jugglers. Lillian O'Gorman, comedienne; Sisters Herbert, duettists and dancers; Three Royal Temples, operatic vocalists; and the Pictoscopes are also in the programme.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. M. Montgomery's stock company presents here this week to crowded houses a drama, entitled The Guiding Star. Payne's Bio-photoscope shows some up-to-date pictures.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; General-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—Miss Nellie Wallace, the popular comedy artist, provokes much amusement by her various contributions; the grotesqueness of her wardrobe and the way she "flits" about the stage are really too funny for words; Martell gives a good exhibition of ball-juggling and bouncing; Royston and Royce are a clever comedy couple; the Brady-Johnson company presents a laughter-raising concoction of misunderstandings; Morrisey, as an instrumental equilibrist, presents a novel and pleasing act; Handel and Lee are clever instrumentalists; Harry Luck's parody song takes well; Babs Lloyd is a dainty little dancer; and The Dieppe Motor Race is shown on the bioscope.

SUNDERLAND. — THEATRE ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mr. Ronald Yorke's company, in The Old Home, is drawing crowded houses here. Mr. David G. Noble gives a masterly impersonation of the Rev. Eric Armstrong; Mr. Ronald Yorke infuses considerable power into the rôle of Lord Avondale; Mr. J. H. Clyndes, as Daddy Dean, gives a clever character study; Miss Laura Walker is a refined and pathetic Hazel.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Rich. Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Fred Edward's company top the bill here this week, and submit a capital sketch entitled Kleptomaniacs, the principal parts being in the able hands of Miss Bertha Northam and Mr. Fred Edwards; Arthur Jefferson and company score a huge success in a capital comedy sketch written by himself, and entitled Home from the Honeymoon; Cestria proves himself to be a comedy juggler and acrobatic comedian of exceptional merit; May Edouin, in an original novelty costume act, receives a flattering reception; Bessie Butt, soubrette, pleases with her songs and delightful dances; Rex Fox submits a unique musical act on the wire; Will Poluski, jun., comedian and dancer, has a budget of good songs; Howe and Ardie are two comedy gymnasts of more than usual ability. The entertainment winds up with the usual show of animated pictures.

OLYMPIA.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. C. P. Crawford and F. A. Wilkins; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. B. Barnes.—The fashionable pastime of roller-skating has evidently taken a firm hold in the Wearside borough, judging by the crowded state of the rink nightly. As the previous masked and costume carnival was such a huge success, another one was held on Thursday.

SWANSEA.—THE GRAND.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. Walter Dean.—Man and Wife is the attraction at the Grand this week, played by Messrs. Van Biene and Traynor's company. Miss Kate Hallam makes a delightful Marcelli; Mr. John F. Traynor is the central figure of the piece, and as Paul Revere he bore himself admirably; Mr. Edward M. Hamilton as Captain D'Esparre was greatly successful; and Miss Millie Doris as Rosette made a charming Vivandiere.

THE STAR.—Manager, Mr. William Coutts; Assistant-Manager, Mr. S. J. Powell.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company is meeting with great success in A Lancashire Lad. As the lad Mr. Alex. Alexander acts with power, and is well supported by Miss Stanley Burt, who as Jessie Wincote is particularly effective. As the villainess Miss Nellie Oliver is excellent; and Mr. Percy Maitland as her husband is no less effective.

EMPIRES, LTD.—Manager, Mr. P. C. Rowe; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—That diverting couple Bella and Bijou top the bill here this week with the latest skit, The Suffragette, and the excellence of its humour is beyond doubt. The Frank L. Gregory Troupe give an extraordinary turn with wooden hoops; Reichen's dogs are certainly highly trained; Little Zola installs himself a big favourite; and Phil W. and Nellie Peters are acceptable comedy entertainers. Agnes Tina, a little lady of tender years, provides a clever turn; brilliant music is contributed by the Jumels; and Jennie Mackay, the lavender girl, sings sweetly. Bioscope pictures of the Marathon Race are A1.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—A capital programme is provided here this week, the turns including Sears, America's foremost illusionist, assisted by Edythe MacVermon; Zibb and Zibb, in their daring trapeze act; Lilian Boyne, dainty comedienne; Ara, Zebra, and Vara, acrobats; Hinton and Wooton, in a football match on bicycles; St. George Sylvesta, necromancer, supported by Vere de Courtney, in a series of illusory novelties; Diana Hope and company, in the society episode, Her Good Name; and the Empire pictures.

TORQUAY. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr Arthur Pearse.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is doing good business here this week in When Knights Were Bold. Miss Edith Anton Laing as Lady Rowena impersonates the part with particular ability; and Miss Madge Devereux is seen to advantage as Miss Sarah Isaacson. Mr. Charles Roadknight is good as Wittle, as is also Mr. Humphrey Warden as Sir Brian. Mr. Colin Johnson makes a typical cleric as Rev. Peter Pottlebury; Mr. Algernon W. Lee is very clever as Hon. Charles Widdicombe; and the rôle of Isaac Isaacsoft is in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Benson. The character which has made this piece so popular, that of Sir Guy De Vere, is admirably taken by Mr. Bert Beswick, who keeps the house in tumultuous roars of laughter the whole evening, and is heartily applauded after each act.

PRINCESS PIER CONCERT HALL.—Proprietors, the Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—A crowded house welcomed the appearance on Monday evening of that popular costume comedy company, the Tatlers, under the direction of Mr. Louis Rihll. Mr. Rihll is an entertainment in himself, and provokes hearty laughter whenever he is on the stage. The concerted numbers are thoroughly appreciated.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Welton Dale; Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—The dramatic season is continued this week with a visit from Mr. Mouillot's company in Tom Jones. Miss Margaret Stonar is a charming Sophia, and acts the part of Fielding's heroine with much grace and charm; Miss Florrie Saunders supplies an admirable study of Honor, the maid; the title-rôle is ably sustained by Mr. Cyril Thompson, who makes an ideal Tom Jones, and also sings well. Other characters are capably sustained.

TYNEMOUTH. — PALACE-BY-THE-SEA.—Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—Ernest Hastings, the popular musical humorist, is paying a welcome return visit here this week; Sydney James's strolling players contribute a capital turn; the Sisters Cora, comediana, have a hearty reception; Gilbert Fernie is a comedian of considerable ability.

WAKEFIELD. — OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—The attraction here this week is Mr. G. M. Copping's company in the drama Love Rules the World. The part of the hero, Harold Kingston, is well depicted by Mr. Richard Vane, and Mr. John Cecil is very effective as Stephen Blight, the villain; Mr. A. W. Wynne does full justice to Paul Carruthers; Mr. M. Russell is seen to advantage in his humorous rendering of Billy Blake; and Mr. Frank Etheridge proves successful as Farmer Carruthers. Miss Gertrude Sterroll gives a charming rendering of Maud; Miss Constance Medwyn merits praise as Flo Morton, and Miss Nelly Freeland is smart as Kitty.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Mr. Joe Peterman's company is creating much merriment here this week in a musical extravaganza, The Belle of the Orient; the Four Regals fully earn the ovations they receive for their feats of strength; Mlle. de Rose displays fine vocal powers; Mr. J. H. Hawtrey, vocalist, is cordially received; the Milfords, comedians, are amusing; Miss Adnee Mellor, ballad vocalist, and Mr. Harry Hutin, comedian, also merit appreciation.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Mr. Allan Wilkie is paying a welcome return visit here, and a hearty reception was given the talented actor on Monday evening when he submitted a scholarly interpretation of Shylock. A charming Portia was Miss Carrie Baillie; Mr. Alexander Marsh delivered the lines allotted to Bassanio with rare effect, and Mr. John Paley was especially successful as Antonio; Mr. Ernest Digges was an acceptable Lorenzo, and Mr. Ian Fleming a humorous Lancelot. The members of the company who have previously won their spurs in Warrington were all well placed in their respective rôles. Othello, Richard III., Romeo and Juliet, The Bells, David Garrick, and Hamlet were also billed during the week.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—There is another capital set of pictures here this week, and the entertainment is up to the usual high standard pitch of excellence.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. S. D. Bradbury.—There is another capital entertainment here this week, and the business done is excellent. The Gothams are exceptionally smart comedians and vocalists; Dave Samuels is a quaint comedian; Billy French is a smart wooden-shoe dancer; and Jim Cheetham scores with his whistling and imitation of many bird songsters; Little Dolly Brough is a delightful entertainer, and Les Frasettis play on several classical instruments in first-class style; Gravetta and Parr are clever novelty artists, and in the sketch, The Welsh Girl and the Artist, Gold and Sterling make a hit. The pictures are good.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Kuner.—Mr. Harry Battersby's Imperial Pierrots are being received here with every success. Mr. Alfred Brookes is a favourite comedian; and Miss Florence Holroyd proves herself a charming soubrette. A good performance is that given by Mr. Harry Plant, patter comedian and musical marvel; Mr. Carl St. Clair, mimic and impersonator, is heartily appreciated; and Mr. Bert Simner, baritone and musical-director, is greatly popular. Valuable assistance is forthcoming from the clever entertainer Paul Jones; and pictures, shown on the Pierroscope, bring the performance to a close.

WEST BROMWICH.—NEW HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Player.—Yukio Tani makes a welcome reappearance here. Among other prominent features in a strong programme are the Hayes and Watson Trio, in the original comedy, Three in a Bar; Iris Yohe, a delightful comedienne; the Three Celtics, in comedy and harmony; Harry Hasto, a clever comedian; Veld, a fine instrumentalist; and Silbon's Circus, which introduces some well-trained horses. The Hippodrome pictures depict the great Marathon Race.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Liconsee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale.—During the holiday season this place of amusement has been closed "for alterations and repairs," and it now presents a most charming appearance. New and more comfortable seats have been provided, it has been redecorated throughout, and lit with electric lights. It is also under new management, Mr. R. Nightingale, the popular manager, having become the lessee, in place of Mr. Harding Thomas. The attraction this week is provided by Mr. Joseph Bebb's company, which is producing A Lion's Heart, in which Mr. Henry Bedford appears with great success as the lion tamer, and Mr. Stephen Scanlan as Gaspard Dobre. Miss Ada Oakley is very fine as Louise, the wife of the lion tamer in the prologue, and as Marion in the play, while the other parts are all very admirably sustained.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND. — Manager, Mr. H. E. Feather.—Mr. Wilson Benge and his company present this week The Eve of Her Wedding, which is being appreciated by well-filled houses; Mr. Wilson Benge and Miss Sadie Smith appear in the leading rôles of George Treymain and Mavis Leverton, and are deserving of every praise for their admirable acting; a capital portrayal of the cripple, Jack Hearne, is contributed by Mr. A. E. Holland; Miss Effie Bartlett is realistic in the trying rôle of Reine de Tille; a capable rendition of the part of Gwendoline Younger is given by Miss Daisie Cook, and Mr. K. Arthur is successful as Bill Goggins.

PALACE.—Proprietor Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. E. Dobney.—Shrieks of laughter accompany the absurdities of Charles F. Best in his burlesque mountebank performance; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, is an old favourite, of whom a West Hartlepool audience never tires; ventriloquism has a capable exponent in W. E. Whittle in his scena, President Roosevelt on the Field of Battle; graceful contortions are performed by Mlle. Bartenelli; Lambert and Hands are well received in vocal scena; a clever and sensational gymnastic performance is given by the Millicent Frères, and other attractions are supplied by Three Sisters Elcott, vocalists and dancers; Lew Towers, light comedian, and Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Norman V. Norman is paying his annual visit here, and on Monday staged Still Waters Run Deep. Mr. Norman's interpretation of John Mildmay was a thoroughly artistic one; Mr. Alfred Gray made Captain Hawkesley sufficiently villainous, whilst Mr. Sam Wilkinson gave a fine character sketch of Mr. Potter; Mr. J. F. Lambe as Mr. Dunbilk, Mr. J. Cassell-Cott as Mr. Langford, Mr. Cyril Percy as Mr. Markham, Mr. C. Carson Freer as Gimlet, and Mr. J. A. Smith as Jessop were all good in their respective characters. Miss Beatrice Wilson's histrionic ability found plenty of scope as Mrs. Sternhold; Miss Violet made a charming Mrs. Mildmay, and Miss Adeline M. Granville was praiseworthy as Mary.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The Dandies are always sure of a big reception here, and on Monday the audience showed how thoroughly it appreciated their efforts. Miss Rhoda Gordon sang "Vilia" most charmingly; Miss Josephine Gordon's rendering of "If the world were ruled by girls" was loudly encored; Mr. Philip Moore's fine voice was heard to advantage in "The Yeoman's Wedding"; Mr. Stephen Fitzgerald is a great favourite locally, and this clever comedian's humorous songs were vociferously received; Mr. John Lambert shows some very beautiful pictures by Pathé Frères on the Bioscope which are well received.

PIER KIOSK.—Mr. Henri's variety company, The Happyknacks, are proving a big draw here. Miss Lalla Hankinson is an excellent comedienne; her song "Auntie" was loudly applauded. A really smart turn is Miss Kate Flynn, who sang with expression "The Gay River"; Mr. Will Cullen excels as a comedian, his rendering of "Afraid to go home" being really funny; Mr. T. Kaufmann is an artist whose efforts were much appreciated, and Mr. Ed. Rosse sang "Thora" artistically.

WEYMOUTH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. J. Nobbs.—Cowper Smith and Douglas Payne's company in The New Girl have scored an immense success, and have extended their stay in consequence; Miss Rosa Bennett as Hilda Coleman won tremendous applause; Mr. Arthur Poole as Col. Bullett was heartily received; Mr. Ralph Lynn as Bertie Holbrook was a capital impersonation, and Mr. Edgar McIntyre as Harry Harrow showed conspicuous talent; Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., played the butler, Browne, capitally; Miss Ivy Leighton was a charming Cerise, and Miss Beatrice Sutherland gave a pleasing rendering of her part; and Miss Victoria Douglas was very good as Martha Grimm. The chorus is a capable one, and the piece is well mounted.

WHITBY. — THE SPA THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Payne Seddon.—The attraction at this theatre during the initial days of the week has been Mr. Edward Compton's company in The School for Scandal, She Stoops to Conquer, and David Garrick, preceded each evening by The Desperate Lover. There were large and appreciative gatherings on each occasion. On Thursday evening Mr. George Robertson's company, in A Message from Mars, drew a capital house. On Saturday last "The Follies" appeared at the Temperance Hall, and met with a rousing reception.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Jas Kiddie.—This week the two-houses-a-night system is reverted to. The Musical Butlers do a good turn; the La Don Troupe are clever tumblers and double-ladder wonders; the Two Clarkes are good at their business; Melvin and Max dance with wonderful skill; the Three Singing Colliers have made a capital local reputation, and their turn is much enjoyed; Dewey and Clay are a coloured couple who sing duets and dance with decided ability.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Ian Maclaren, supported by his talented company, is appearing here in Shakespearean répertoire. The week's programme consisted of Hamlet, David Garrick, The Merchant of Venice, Romeo and Juliet, The Taming of the Shrew, and Othello. The characters in the various plays were most capably presented, and the visit of the company has been much appreciated.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The Dunedin Troupe are responsible for a daring cycle act, which creates quite a sensation; Spadoni presents her stud of well-trained horses, and an

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, by Fredk. Melville, entitled

"HER ROAD TO RUIN."

After a rather prolonged vacation the King's Theatre reopened on Monday for what promises to be a busy autumn season, judging from the attractive list of coming events already announced. For the present week Mr. Mulholland is content to rely upon one of the Melville series of dramas now so popular. Her Road to Ruin has been seen here before, and, as on the previous occasion, has proved a pronounced success. Large audiences have followed the story of Jess Willoughby, who, for the sake of leading a life of pleasure, allows herself to become mixed up with a gang of swindlers, and falls in love with the chief. The plot is ably developed in Mr. Melville's characteristic style, and, played by a good company, goes with a will. Mr. Henry Wolston, who undertakes the part of the Rev. Frank Temple, is a sound and powerful actor, and soon makes himself popular with the audience; very praiseworthy is Mr. Heaton Grey in the character of Tom Wells, a journalist; Mr. H. Williams is good as Mr. Derwent, the solicitor; and Inspector Homewood of Scotland Yard is capably handled by Mr. Wm. Brooke. The arch scoundrel Philip Hardy is exceedingly well played by Mr. Alex. Bradley, his final exit in custody being so loudly acclaimed that it is a tribute to his unquestionable ability; Mr. Victor Moors renders Charles Cholmondeley with much tact and skill; loud roars of laughter greet the very amusing acting of Mr. F. C. Brooke as Dicky Gerald; Mr. Dare Clarke gives a vigorous impersonation of the Bishop; and Mr. Thomas Henry is an excellent Billy Grimes. Miss Eva Moss repeats her very expressive and earnest performance of the heroine, Jess Willoughby, and duly secures the utmost approbation; Mary Dawson is represented by Miss Nellie Bonser with much power and effect; Miss Alice Bowes ensures everybody's sympathy by her pleasant acting as May Willoughby; an old Hammersmith favourite, Miss Marie Wright, makes a successful Jennie Crackling. The scenery is a credit to the handsome theatre, which, by the way, has been choicely redecorated during the recess.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

The attraction here this week has been Sunday, which has been produced under the supervision of Mr. Louis Calvert. As Arthur Brinthorpe Mr. Wilson Blake takes full advantage of his one chance; Mr. Wm. Giffard as Colonel Brinthorpe acts with earnestness and power; as Tom Oxley Mr. T. Norman Walter is excellent. Miss Marjorie Murray plays Sunday with remarkable skill and intelligence. Her appearance is decidedly in her favour, and her power of emotional expression is considerable. She delivers the passionate speech in the second act with striking energy and depth of feeling, and is tender and sympathetic in the sentimental passages. Altogether, Miss Murray may be warmly praised for her very effective performance. Miss Lila Barclay enacts the Nun with admirable reserve and distinctness; and Miss H. G. Edwin plays Mrs. Naresby quite cleverly. Mr. James Skea as Towzer, Mr. A. C. Holmes as Davy, Mr. James Hussey as Lively, and Mr. Alec Alves as Jacky all act with ability. The piece is well mounted.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 10,

"THE STILL ALARM."

The popularity of Joseph Arthur's great American drama The Still Alarm was amply testified by the large and appreciative audience which greeted its production at Kennington on Monday by Glenville and Osmond's company. The piece was presented with all the accessories which have contributed in no small measure to its success. The enthusiasm of the house was unbounded when the beautiful horses Pegasus and Bucephalus were harnessed to the fire-engine in the New York Central Station at the receipt of the "Still Alarm" signal, and dashed off to the conflagration in time to allow of Jack Manley, the hero, to rescue the heroine from the mansion which John Bird, the villain, had set ablaze. Not only was the presentation of these scenes a triumph of stage-craft, but the tragic intensity of the plot was relieved by the singing of the Lyric Quartette, whose tuneful melodies were excellently rendered. A more fearless and stalwart hero than the Jack Manley of Mr. Mathew Glenville it would not be easy to find. He acted with great power throughout. Miss Beatrice Shirley was well placed as the unfortunate Elinor Fordham, giving a faithful sketch of the girl who was sacrificing her love for Jack Manley in order to save her father. The rôle of the latter was admirably filled by Mr. Lewis Gordon, who furnished a good representation of the unhappy parent caught in the villain's toils. Mr. Gerald Kennedy was allotted the uncongenial part of John Bird, and he played it with a good deal of skill. The lighter side of the drama was also in able hands. Mr. Fred Osmond was seen at his best as Doc Wilber, the drunken old clerk, enacting the rôle with great cleverness. Mr. Tom Beasley won every heart by his lively delineation of Willie Manley, and as Carrie Wilber, his sweetheart, Miss Hettie Zillwood was a warm favourite. Miss Mabel Veriton made a loveable mother to the boys Manley, and Mr. T. Varney was exceedingly funny as Bill Nozzle, the station fireman. Others who deserved mention were Mr. J. S. Pateman, Mr. G. Francis, Mr. E. Tudnor, Mr. W. Edwards, and Mr. G. Owen, firemen, and Mr. E. Hamilton, a servant. The greyhound Laddie, the fireman's pet, was also an object of much interest.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, by Hall Caine, entitled

"THE BONDMAN."

Mr. Wentworth Croke's clever company is appearing in The Bondman at the pretty Notting Hill Gate Theatre. This is one of the most stirring and powerful of Hall Caine's dramas, and is likely to repeat its Drury Lane success "on the road." The scene of the Farm at Harvest Time is sweetly pretty and picturesque, and the "set" of the Sulphur Mines, with the convicts at work, and the explosion of the mines, provides a most realistic and awesome picture. The stage management reflects great credit on Mr. Reginald A. Hunt. Miss Georgina Winter is a very charming, and withal powerful, representative of the part of Greeba Fairbrother, and her gracious presence as well as her emotional strength, gain her golden opinions. Mr. R. Scrope Quentin is a fine virile figure of a man, and a good elocutionist, as the rough diamond, Jason, and he gains the sympathy of the audience throughout for the rugged force and nobility of the character portrayed, as well as for his personal merits in its interpretation. Mr. Lionel Atwill is an excellent foil to the more forceful character of Jason, as the gentle, unsuspicious, but over-exacting, Michael Sunlocks, and the scenes in which the two foster-brothers meet on the sulphur mines is tense and powerful to a degree. Mr. W. H. Rotheram doubles the parts of Grandfather and Father Ferrati, and right well he acquits himself, and gives just the delicate handling to the latter part which it requires. Mr. Alfred Fisher is duly saturnine and repulsive as Governor Testa; and Mr. F. J. Waller does well as his more suave and specious coadjutor, Dr. Boni. Mr. George R. Austin is noteworthy in the part of Marshal of the Police, a rôle to which he renders full justice; Mr. Oswald Lingard makes a fine heroic figure of the pious and good-hearted Adam Fairbrother; and Miss Madge Langrton secures many a hearty laugh by her crisp and droll delivery of Mrs. Fairbrother's kaleidoscopic comment on the affairs of life, and helps us to lose sight of the despicable nature of the woman's time-serving doctrines. Miss Gertrude Helene as Mona, Master Walter Neville as Danny, and Misses Marie Greenhouse and Julia M. Willis, as the Callow girls, do good service. All the smaller parts are well played, and the dance in Act II., from Edward German's "Nell Gwynne" suite, is excellently performed. Mr. R. W. A. Brewer is responsible for the steam production and effect, and Mr. G. E. Williams is business-manager.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Melodrama, entitled "THE GIRL WHO TOOK THE WRONG TURNING."

There was a well-filled house at the reconstructed and redecorated Kingston playhouse on Monday, when the first of six performances of this, one of Mr. Melville's best productions, was given, and the reception accorded to it was certainly of a most flattering description. The company is an excellent one all round. Mr. Ronald Adair, as the bluff and breezy Jack Tar, Willie Mason, wins the sympathies of the on-lookers in all parts of the house. Miss Jessie Belmore, who plays the part of the erring Sophie Coventry, also scores a great success with a very winsome piece of acting, which is enhanced by an equally pleasing appearance. Mr. Frank R. Robertson makes an acceptable Jack Fenton; and Miss Zoe Davis acquits herself admirably as Lucy Coventry, his wife, and the girl who took the right turning. The heavy lead is admirably sustained by Mr. Raymond Wood in the part of James Harcourt, who loses none of his polished villainy in his hands. Mr. Sidney Sarl makes good use of his opportunities as his tool, Bill Slater; and Miss Nannie Meade, as his accomplice, Vesta le Clare, gives a lurid portrayal of the reckless woman of Society. The lighter parts of the play are ably sustained by Mr. Fred Ingram as Johnny Walker, and by Miss Marie Kildare as Poppy Slater. The mounting of the play is beyond all praise.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Aug. 10, for the First Time in London, the Drama, in Four Acts, by R. A. Roberts, entitled

"STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER."

Dr. Francis Bedford ....Mr. Matthew Boulton
David Gleeson .....Mr. Leonard Clarke
Donald Macgregor ....Mr. Cuthbert Dennison
Henry M. Grant .....Mr. Franklin McAvoy
Sergeant Bright .....Mr. Bertram Carlton
Rev. John Armitage ....Mr. George H. Child
Jim Green .....Mr. Fred Beck
Fred Stafford .....Mr. George Fisher
Millicent Grant .....Miss Beatrice Burdett
Miss Brittle .....Miss Edie Casson
Gladys Brittle .....Miss Beatrice Moore
Mary Gleeson .....Miss Frances Bruce

A hit as effective as that suggested by its title has been made by the new drama, Straight from the Shoulder, which drew a large and enthusiastic audience to the Broadway on Monday, when the piece received its introduction to the Metropolis. The drama, which is the work of Mr. R. A. Roberts, the popular protean artist and actor, while dispensing with any lurid sensationalism, possesses many stirring incidents, and New Cross playgoers have during the week experienced a succession of thrills. There is, too, an agreeable freshness about the comedy element, which is seldom forced, and arises naturally out of the action of the play. The title is an alluring one, and indicates the lines on which the story proceeds, stimulating in the breasts of a popular audience that love of fair play which is to them a cherished tradition. The plot of the piece was fully detailed on its production at the Grand Theatre, Brighton, on the 3rd inst., but it may be recalled that the leading figure is that of Francis Bedford, a young doctor, who steps in to defend a weak woman from the cruelty of her blackguard husband, and with his forcible "left" sends him to earth. Bent upon revenge, the villain, David Gleeson, succeeds in fixing upon Bedford's shoulders the onus of a foul crime, with the result that he is sent to penal servitude. Six years later, released from gaol, the doctor, under an assumed name, woos the daughter of the man with whose murder he was charged, and Gleeson, coming upon the scene, is about to divulge the awful circumstances of the doctor's past when his mouth is stopped by his accomplice, who, vowing to do no more evil, declares he will reveal the truth. In the interval that elapses between the second and third acts, Bedford, the wrongly accused, and Millicent Grant, the murdered man's daughter, have become man and wife, but their domestic felicity is marred by the appearance of Gleeson, who has been in prison, but escapes and takes refuge in the doctor's house. He loses no time in informing Millicent of the fact that her husband is the man upon whom the guilt of her father's murder has been laid; but the villain does not get off triumphant, for the doctor again gets in his trusty left, and Gleeson goes off to seek shelter in a neighbouring abbey. The agonised wife finds herself unable to accept her husband's protestations of innocence, and, tearing off her wedding-ring, flings it at his feet. Francis sets out to follow his traducer in order to wring the truth from him, and traces him to the abbey, where, amid the ivy-clad walls and turrets of the ruin the two men struggle for mastery. Meanwhile Millicent arrives with a letter in which her husband's innocence is proclaimed, but Gleeson, simulating remorse, gains possession of the document, and destroys it ere he dies a miserable death. His former accomplice, however, is at hand to clear the doctor's name, and all is well.

Mr. Roberts's carefully-selected and well-drilled company have had the benefit of the chief's supervision at rehearsals, and work in perfect harmony. Mr. Mathew Boulton leads the way with an artistic interpretation of Dr. Francis Bedford, of whose sterling qualities he gives a convincing portrayal. He has admirable elocutionary gifts, and his utterance of many dashing speeches secure them a ready hearing. The emotional abilities of Miss Beatrice Burdett are put to excellent use in the exacting rôle of Millicent Grant. Delicacy and grace mark her earlier scenes, while in the episodes wherein the distressed wife undergoes so severe a trial, and, removing her wedding ring, casts it scornfully at the feet of her husband, her dramatic intensity is profound. Mr. Leonard Clarke is a skilful exponent of David Gleeson, who rejoices in the fact that he has no conscience, and revels in his nefarious work. His portrayal at the end of the broken and distracted man grovelling on the ground at the approach of the victim of his schemes is a skilful piece of work artistically coloured. The lighter side of the piece is sustained by a number of typical characters. Jim Green, the accomplice of the villain, who afterwards becomes his footman, is responsible for many diverting moments. He is represented with irresistible drollery by Mr. Fred Beck, who makes the utmost of every opportunity to create mirth, his efforts resulting in peals of merriment. Assistance in the cause of mirth is derived from Mr. George Fisher, an excellent light comedian, and from Miss Beatrice Moore, a prepossessing and vivacious soubrette, who enact a pair of young lovers who are constantly quarrelling. Their encounters are made decidedly diverting, and the enjoyment of the audience is unlimited. Great advantage to the comedy element is also obtained by the presence in the cast of Miss Edie Casson, who plays the maiden aunt with animation and charm, brightening every scene in which she appears by her amusing loquacity. Mr. George H. Child, in whom are invested the responsibilities of stage management, plays with marked ability as the Rev. John Armitage. Admirably made up and speaking with due emphasis, Mr. Child cuts a venerable figure as the Dr. Primrose-like parson, and commands the esteem of all. Miss Frances Bruce acquits herself ably as the unfortunate Mary Gleeson; as Sergeant Bright Mr. Bertram Carlton is all that could be desired; Mr. Cuthbert Dennison gives a characteristic rendering of Donald Macgregor; and Mr. Franklin McAvoy acts impressively as the ill-fated diamond merchant. The music, composed by Mr. Denham Harrison, has no small share in the success of the production, which is enhanced by entirely new scenery and elaborate lighting effects, and has all the elements of a money-making melodrama. Mr. Charles Boult is the business-manager for the company, and his presence in the front of the house ensures a hearty welcome to all.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, entitled

"A GIRL'S CROSS ROADS."

The popular parts of the well-appointed house at Clapham Junction have been crowded this week to extend a welcome to Mr. Walter Melville's company in one of his earlier works. The trenchant pen of Mr. Melville has dealt vigorously with various social sores in the dramas which he has given to the stage, and in A Girl's Cross Roads he has put the disease of dipsomania effectively before the public eye. His principal character is that of a lady of good position, and the ravages wrought by drink are shown with a dramatic ingenuity that results in many poignant scenes. The part of the wretched wife who falls a victim to the liquor fiend is played by Miss Hilda Beverley, who portrays with unerring skill each stage of the downfall of Barbara Wade until she reaches the lowest depths of degradation. The representation exerts an impressive effect, and Miss Beverley, who never spares herself in her portrayal, is justly the recipient of frequent and hearty cheers. The play is rich in picturesque characters, not the least effective of which is that of Nellie Meadows, a variant of the fascinating adventuress that Mr. Melville has so often portrayed. There is a distinct vein of humour in the rôle of the old farmer's erring daughter, and it is to this side of the character that Miss Nita Langford devotes much attention, with the most agreeable results. Her dramatic gifts and excellent facial play are also well employed, and the utmost effect is made out of the rôle. Cuthbert Lumley, her associate in villainy, is played in easy-going style by Mr. Edward Chester, who cleverly carries out the author's intention, and is responsible for much of the merriment that arises out of his scenes of repartee with Nellie Meadows. The virtuous and modest young schoolmistress, Constance Cornell, is realistically represented by Miss Dorothy Hildebrand, who gains the sympathy of the audience throughout the many trying scenes in which she figures. The distressed husband of the inebriate, Jack Livingstone, is depicted in forcible and vigorous style by Mr. Jack Fortescue, who looks the manly young squire to perfection, and delivers his lines in finished style. Mr. Charles Franmore's rendering of old Farmer Meadows is perfect in make-up and acting. Many of the heart-stirring lines of the piece fall to the old country farmer, and Mr. Franmore does not fail to make the most of them, acting with a force and truth to nature that win constant and hearty cheers. Fun is supplied in abundance by Mr. Fred Hodson, who develops the character of Toby Turvey on broad lines. Loyal service in this capacity is also done by Miss Daisy Maynard, a favourite exponent of low comedy in Mr. Melville's dramas. In the present instance she has the rôle of Tilly Vane, the affianced wife of Toby, and together they are successful in putting the house into roars of laughter. A pleasing portrayal of the generously disposed Dr. Weston is given by Mr. Edward Valentine; and the Luke Ramsden of Mr. Fred Withers is a sound and capable performance. Other characters of a lengthy cast are suitably portrayed, and the drama is set with completeness and care. Mr. Harold Wagner, the able manager of the company, must be congratulated on the success of its visit to the Shakespeare.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, entitled

"THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER."

Mr. Frank Bertram's company is entertaining Fulham playgoers with a vigorous representation of the above stirring melodrama. The play has plenty of effective situations, and gives scope for some good work by the actors. Mr. Bertram himself takes the important rôle of the convict, Grahame, and handles the part with no mean skill, being equally effective in drawing cheers and laughter. Mr. Escott Robson plays the villain, Jasper Thorn, admirably, and gets much applause; Mr. W. Burgess is dignified as Neville, the banker; and Mr. Walter Graham does well as Harold Trevelyan. Mr. Willie Black creates much amusement as the very Irish constable and warder, O'Laragan; and Mr. H. Loye-Staples is a properly stern Inspector Harper. Miss Lillian Dean plays with sincerity and charm as Edith Grahame; and Miss Amy Randolph is bright and amusing as Betty Hyne; while Miss Nellie Waddington makes the most of the trying part of Marian Thorne. The minor characters, such as the various convicts and warders, are well in their places, and all work hard to make the piece go.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, entitled

"MARRIED TO THE WRONG MAN."

Mr. Fred Melville's latest production, Married to the Wrong Man, entered upon its second week on Monday, and has been playing to packed houses. The play has achieved an unqualified success. Miss Gertrude Boswell has been the recipient of numerous bouquets during the run, and her fine acting in her many trying scenes has been greatly appreciated. Mr. Charles Vivian still continues to present an interesting study of Jasper Skinner; and Mr. Oswald Cray is a popular hero, Jack Gladwin. The Elephant Bioscope makes an acceptable break in the evening's entertainment, and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. Reillie, supplies some excellent selections. Mr. Sydney Barnard is an ever-courteous manager.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the modern drama, by David Muskerry, entitled

"A GIRL REDEEMED FROM SIN."

The members of Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's company are appearing this week at the Dalston Theatre in the modern drama, with a really interesting story, entitled A Girl Redeemed from Sin. The centre of attraction in the piece is Nancy Lee, a mill girl, who through the vicissitudes of what is commonly styled "fortune," is made the medium of many temptations and trials, even to the point of being brought to the gallows, from the grim jaws of which she miraculously escapes. This trying part is admirably sustained by Miss Olive Fulton, who brings an amount of dramatic art to bear upon the representation which does her infinite credit. Mr. Philippe Ore, who plays Lord Denham, contributes equally to the success of the play by the careful rendering of a part which is at once interesting and powerful. Mr. Clinton Baddeley as Ernest Sylveston, cousin to Lord Denham, whose title he assumes after he has helped to dispose of his relation, constitutes a villain who is cordially detested by the audience, and thereby wins the successful actor's reward. Mr. Jo Monkhouse as Will May, of H.M.S. Good Hope, is not only an ardent lover and a typical sailor, but, in adopting different disguises in the course of the piece, he proves that he is not only an expert in the art of making up, but that he is also a bit of a quick-change artist. His success is complete. Mr. Victor Knight as Jim Jakes, another sailor, Miss Ada Oxley as Peggy Grey, his sweetheart, and Mr. Wallie Spinner as the Hon. Bertie Boyes provide the fun of the play, and very successfully too, some of the most comical scenes keeping the audience in a roar. Mr. Gifforde Reynolds as Samuel Lee, Miss Fannie Olive as Mrs. Lee, and Miss Gertie Pawle as Mrs. Mac each help to sustain the interest of the story, for the full working out of which there are no less than twenty characters.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

The New Bioscope Company, under the able direction of Mr. F. R. Griffiths, has been here for several weeks past, and is attracting good audiences with a light and pleasant entertainment which is very suitable for the present summer weather. The films shown are above the average, and their general effect is enhanced by the appropriate incidental music which accompanies them. Some of the pictures are particularly good, notably Worthy of the Name, The Gambler, In the Shadow of the Law, and The Right to Live. Atroy, described as "a society juggler," provides a smart turn; Viola is particularly successful in her performance on various musical instruments; Amandus is loudly applauded for his facial mimicry; and Rosina performs ably on the silver bells and banjo. There is a complete change of programme every week. Mr. Albert Mathams is the courteous acting-manager. The regular dramatic season will commence in September.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Musical Comedy, entitled "FLORODORA."

A most welcome change is to be chronicled at this favourite South London house by the presentation by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company of this ever-popular musical comedy. The theatre was crowded on the night of our visit, and the melodies, duets, and songs, the amusing scenes with the irresistible Tweedlepunch and lively atmosphere of the piece, aroused much enthusiasm. Mr. J. Bannister Howard has surrounded himself with a clever body of artists; the chorus is capable, pretty and engaging; and the famous "Tell me, pretty maiden," receives an ovation. Florodora is also well staged and dressed, while the augmented orchestra materially add to the charm of the whole performance. Mr. Fred Eastman as Tweedlepunch is the life and soul of the performance. His acting throughout proved highly to the taste of the house. Mr. Stanley White (the general and stage manager for Mr. Bannister Howard) does extremely well as Cyrus Gilfain; Mr. Basil Mercer is a handsome and effective exponent of Frank Abercoed; Mr. Edwin Oxlee as Leandro does good work; Miss Maisie Ellinger is a capable and charming Dolores; Miss Lily Gullick is a dainty Angela; and high praise must be awarded Miss Edith Housely for her portrayal of Lady Holyrood. Throughout the evening there were numerous encores. Mr. Will T. Taylor, Mr. Fred Melville's urbane acting-manager, is ever to the front in looking after the interests of visitors to this successful theatre.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, entitled "THE FATAL WEDDING."

A warm reception is offered this week to Mr. Bert Coote's company in The Fatal Wedding. Mr. Cecil A. Melton as Howard Wilson has a part which suits him to a nicety, and he makes the most of his opportunity. Robert Curtis is successfully undertaken by Mr. Frank Harrison; Mr. Charles Locke affords much amusement in the character of Toto, a French butler; Mr. Cyril Melton is diverting as Peter Schwartz; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh gives a good impersonation of Cora Williams; Miss Ethel Kay imbues the part of Mabel Wilson with the necessary pathos, and gives an impressive rendering; Bridget is humorously essayed by Miss Ethel Sarjient, who causes genuine and hearty laughter; and Miss Lulu Wohlmann displays much ability as Jessie and speedily becomes on good terms with everybody. An agreeable feature of the evening is the introduction in Act 3 of some exceptionally clever children, amongst whom may be mentioned Miss Dorothy Pain, the possessor of an excellent soprano voice, her rendering of "Killarney" evoking hearty applause. Miss Sarah Rich, Miss Hilda Mablert, Miss Marie Wilson, Miss Violet Dupre, Miss Hetty Kelly, and Master Tom Grice, the little champion clog dancer, all show talent combined with clever training.

GREEENWICH THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Frank M. Thorne, entitled

"HER ONE GREAT SIN."

This old-established theatre has returned to the one-house nightly system, and is doing good business under Mr. Arthur Carlton's energetic management. The piece selected for this week's attraction is the drama entitled Her One Great Sin. Mr. Frank Thorne's capital play is well acted. Miss Lydia Donovan, as Grace Warhurst, is a tower of strength in herself, her performance being both powerful and sympathetic. Miss Donovan is admirably supported by her excellent company; Mr. Frank Lennard gives a fine performance of the character of Reuben Warhurst, which won general recognition; Mr. C. Quinton Fulford is very good indeed as Arnold Thornhill, bringing out the complex points of this difficult part with great cleverness; Mr. Alfred G. Raymond is very popular as Jerry Jumble; Mr. Charles E. Lambert's Dan Hundle is a capital performance; Jack Hundle is very well acted by Mr. J. Crondace; Mr. J. Nella is very good as Mr. Benton; as is Mr. M. Stirling as Ben Barkley and Mr. Charles Marshall as Robert Brown; and the rôle of P.C. Jackson is in the safe hands of Mr. C. Dale. Mrs. E. F. Brady gives a capital study of Bet Hundle, clever and unexaggerated; Miss Nellie Lambert is a bright and pleasing Nancie Wimpenny; and Charlie and Gracie are attractively impersonated by Ray Fairfax and Maudie Lambert. The play is well dressed and liberally mounted, and gives general satisfaction. Mr. John A. Powell is the able conductor of an excellent orchestra.

"The prices of admission to the early theatres," says Dutton Cook, "varied according to the estimation in which they were held, and were raised on special occasions. 'Twopenny rooms,' or galleries, were to be found at the larger and more popular theatres. In Goffe's Careless Shepherdess, 1656, acted at the Salisbury Court Theatre, appear the lines:—

'I will hasten to the money-box
And take my shilling out again;
I'll go to the Bull or Fortune, and there see
A play for twopence and a jig to boot.'

The money received was placed in a box, and there seems to have been one person specially charged with this duty. Dekker, dedicating one of his plays to his 'friends and fellows,' the queen's servants, wishes them 'a full audience and one honest doorkeeper.' Even thus early the absolute integrity of the attendants of the theatre would appear to have been a subject of suspicion. 'Penny galleries' are referred to by some early writers, and from a passage in the 'Gull's Horn Book,' 1609—'Your groundling and gallery commoner buys his sport for a penny'—it is apparent that the charges for admission to the yard, where the spectators stood, and to the galleries, where they sat on benches, were the same. In Dekker's 'Satiro-mastix,' one of the characters speaks scornfully of 'penny bench theatres,' where a gentleman or an honest citizen 'might sit with his squirrel at his side cracking nuts.' But according to the Induction to Ben Jonson's 'Bartholomew Fair,' first acted in 1614, at the Hope, a small, dirty theatre on the Bankside, which had formerly been used for bear-baiting, the prices there ranged from sixpence to half-a-crown."

ATTENTION AT THE THEATRE.

"At the first night of Mr. E. H. Sothern's Hamlet, in the fall of 1900," writes Clayton Hamilton in the North American Review, "I had just settled back in my chair to listen to the reading of the soliloquy on suicide, when a woman behind me whispering to her neighbour, 'Oh, look! There are two fireplaces in the room!' My attention was distracted, and the soliloquy was spoiled; but the fault lay with the stage-manager rather than with the woman who spoke the fatal words. If Mr. Sothern was to recite his soliloquy gazing dreamily into a fire in the centre of the room, the stage-manager should have known enough to remove the large fireplace on the right of the stage.

"Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, when she acted Hamlet in London in 1899, introduced a novel and startling effect in the Closet scene between the hero and his mother. On the wall, as usual, hung the counterfeit presentments of two brothers; and when the time came for the ghost of buried Denmark to appear, he was suddenly seen standing luminous in the picture-frame which had contained his portrait. The effect was so unexpected that the audience could look at nothing else, and thus Hamlet and the queen failed to get their proper measure of attention.

"These two instances show that the necessity of economising the attention of an audience is just as important to the stage-manager as it is to the dramatist and the actor. In the main, it may be said that any unexpected innovation, any device of stage-management that is by its nature startling, should be avoided in the crucial situations of a play. Professor Brander Matthews gave an interesting illustration of this principle in his article on 'The Art of the Stage-manager,' in the North American Review for February, 1904. He said:

"'The stage-manager must ever be on his guard against the danger of sacrificing the major to the minor, and of letting some little effect of slight value in itself interfere with the true interest of the play as a whole. At the first performance of Mr. Bronson Howard's Shenandoah, the opening act of which ends with the firing of the shot on Sumter, there was a wide window at the back of the set, so that the spectators could see the curving flight of the bomb and its final explosion above the doomed fort. This scenic marvel had cost time and money to devise; but it was never visible after the first performance, because it drew attention to itself, as a mechanical effect, and so took off the minds of the audience from the Northern lover and the Southern girl, the Southern lover and the Northern girl, whose loves were suddenly sundered by the bursting of that fatal shell. At the second performance, the spectators did not see the shot, they only heard the dread report; and they were free to let their sympathy go forth to the young couples.'

"'Nowadays, perhaps, when the theatre-going public is more used to elaborate mechanism on the stage, this effect might be attempted without danger. It was owing to its novelty at the time that the device disrupted the attention of the spectators.

"'But not only novel and startling stage effects should be avoided in the main dramatic moments of a play. Excessive magnificence and elaborateness of setting are just as distracting to the attention as the shock of a new and strange device. When The Merchant of Venice was revived at Daly's Theatre some years ago, a scenic set of unusual beauty was used for the final act. The gardens of Portia's palace were shadowy with trees and dreamy with the dark of evening. Slowly in the distance a round and yellow moon rose rolling, its beams rippling over the moving waters of a lake. There was a murmur of approbation in the audience; and that murmur was just loud enough to deaden the lyric beauty of the lines in which Lorenzo and Jessica gave expression to the spirit of the night. The audience could not look and listen at the self-same moment; and Shakespeare was sacrificed for a lime-light. A wise stage-manager, when he uses a set as magnificent, for example, as the memorable garden scene in Miss Viola Allen's production of Twelfth Night, will raise his curtain on an empty stage, to let the audience enjoy and even applaud the scenery before the actors enter. Then, when the lines are spoken, the spectators are ready and willing to lend them their ears.

"'This point suggests a discussion of the advisability of producing Shakespeare without scenery, in the very interesting manner that has been employed in recent seasons by Mr. Ben Greet's company of players. Leaving aside the argument that with a sceneless stage it is possible to perform all the incidents of the play in their original order, and thus give the story a greater narrative continuity, it may also be maintained that with a bare stage there are far fewer chances of dispersing the attention of the audience by attracting it to insignificant details of setting. Certainly, the last act of the Merchant would be better without the mechanical moonrise than with it. But, unfortunately, the same argument for economy of attention works also in the contrary direction. We have been so long used to scenery in our theatres that a sceneless production requires a new adjustment of our minds to accept the unwonted convention; and it may readily be asserted that this mental adjustment disperses more attention than would be scattered by elaborate stage effects. At Mr. Greet's first production of Twelfth Night in New York without change of scene, many people in the audience could be heard whispering their opinions of the experiment—a fact which shows that their attention was not fixed entirely upon the play itself. On the whole, it would probably be wisest to produce Shakespeare with very simple scenery, in order, on the one hand, not to dim the imagination of the spectators by laborious magnificence of setting, and, on the other, not to distract their minds by the unaccustomed conventions of a sceneless stage.

"'What has been said of scenery may be applied also to the use of incidental music. So soon as such music becomes obtrusive, it distracts the attention from the business of the play; and it cannot be insisted on too often that in the theatre the play's the thing. But a running accompaniment of music, half-heard, half-guessed, that moves to the mood of the play, now swelling to a climax, now softening to a hush, may do much toward keeping the audience in tune with the emotional significance of the action.

"'A perfect theatrical performance is the rarest of all works of art. I have seen several perfect statues and perfect pictures; and I have read many perfect poems: but I have never seen a perfect performance in the theatre. I doubt if such a performance has ever been given, except, perhaps, in ancient Greece. But it is easy to imagine what its effect would be. It would rivet the attention throughout upon the essential purport of the play; it would proceed from the beginning to the end without the slightest distraction; and it would convey its message simply and immediately, like the sky at sunrise or the memorable murmur of the sea.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

The usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held at 409, Strand, on Tuesday, with Mr. F. J. Arlton in the chair. There were also present Mr. H. W. Mote, honorary solicitor, Messrs. Robson Paige, Poole Kirkwood, Clarence Derwent, and Cecil Raleigh, Misses Agnes Imlay, Lucy Sibley, and Mr. Hubert Blount (secretary). The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A letter was read from Messrs. A. and S. Gatti to the effect that the Actors' Association would be unable to have the use of the rooms at the Adelphi Restaurant after Sept. 29 next. The secretary was instructed to write to Messrs. Gatti acknowledging the receipt of their letter, and informing them that possession would be given on the date named. A letter was also read from a medical officer saying that as he was shortly going abroad for an indefinite period he must fain resign his appointment of hon. medical officer, and recommending another doctor to fill the vacancy. In reply the secretary was instructed to write and express the Council's regret and their thanks for past services.

The Council decided to institute a fresh "Bogus Managers Book," in which the secretary was instructed to enter all the necessary particulars of each case as it came up. The book is to be kept under lock and key, and is to be reserved for the use only of the secretary and members of the Council at meetings. The honorary solicitor reported that he had issued execution in three matters. Mr. Arlton read the report of the Finance Committee, which was accepted.

Mr. W. H. Hargreaves was elected a member of the Association. The secretary placed before the Council the record of a candidate for election, which was asked for last week, and the Council, after perusing same, gave instructions for a letter to be written regretting they were obliged to postpone the applicant's election until he had had more experience. The Council decided that the secretary should each week place before them a short resumé of the letters he had received during the week and the replies he had made thereto.

The Council discussed at great length the question of new premises, and eventually gave the secretary instructions to put up a notice to the effect that, the Queensland Government having acquired the whole of the premises at No. 409, Strand, the Council would welcome any suggestions in writing as to any desirable premises that may be obtainable. Such suggestions were to be addressed to the secretary.

PORTABLE THEATRES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Your able article on the minimum wage I read with very great interest. There is not the slightest doubt that you hit the right nail on the head in remarking that the want of critical faculty and discrimination amongst the lower English classes makes possible the poorness of acting.

Just recently I was engaged to produce a play of my own in a portable theatre, and was greatly struck by the quality of the acting and the quickness and accuracy of the study of the actors. Amongst them I found an old Britannia stock comedian, versatile as ever, an ex-leading lady of the Melville touring companies, highly educated, refined, altogether an excellent actress, and three public school old boys, tall men, all in the prime of life, driven there by competition.

The portable theatre has in the last few years made enormous strides, while touring managers have been steadily losing ground. The portable in which my play was being produced stood in a town that once boasted a permanent theatre, where it was customary to run touring companies. As an actor-manager who has visited this town I am in a position to state that it was a particularly "frosty" date, £40 gross being considered an excellent week's business. The portable manager growls if he doesn't take that on a Saturday night, his other nights averaging about £10 each—£90 gross—not bad for a man who has no fares, very little printing, and ground-rent only (having once paid for his theatre).

I was utterly astonished at the cosiness of the interior. Beautifully fitted up with plush seats—even the pit was upholstered—half a dozen comfortable private boxes, an upper circle running right round the theatre, the walls lined with red baize, checkers in handsome uniforms, an excellent band of eight performers conducted by a well-known musician: everything suggested warmth and luxury, a striking contrast to the large permanent theatre in the next town—a dreary, barn-like building, where touring companies were playing to empty benches. By the way, the portable manager might with advantage improve the dressing accommodation. As wage-earners, portable leading people do far better than touring actors in Class 3 (melodramatic companies).

Their income runs right through the year. A married man can settle down with his wife and children. The wife, if she does not act, does all the housework, bakes the bread, cooks the dinner (and, mind you, she can cook), looks after the children, making their rooms a real home.

Of course, the great objection to portable work is the billing, building, and scene-shifting, but perhaps as time goes on this will be done away with.

To young people without private means I would advocate an apprenticeship to this stock work: it is excellent training, and a very valuable asset in the summer, when many shows are off the road and funds are low. I might add that the fare provided consists of up-to-date dramas by Shirley, George R. Sims, &c., musical comedies, comedies, and Shakespeare. I witnessed an excellent show of The Merchant of Venice. I enclose my card.—Yours faithfully,

PUBLIC SCHOOL OLD BOY.

23, St. Patrick's-road, Ramsgate.
Aug. 10, 1908.

MR. EDITOR,—Sir,—The Heathen and the Christian was produced at my theatre on March 31, 1902, consequently the date and place of production (St. James's Theatre, Manchester, July 8, 1907), as mentioned in your last issue are incorrect.—Yours faithfully, Joseph L. S. Moss. The New Royal, Edmonton, N., Aug. 13.

"GARRICK and Macklin," says Cooke, "frequently rode out together, and often baited at some of the public-houses on the Richmond road. Upon these occasions, whenever they came to a turnpike, or to settle the account of the luncheon, Garrick either had changed his breeches that morning and was without money, or else used to produce a 36s. piece, which made it difficult to change. Upon these occasions Macklin, to use his own phrase, stood Captain Flashman'—that is, paid the charge. This went on for some time, when Macklin, finding that Garrick never took his turn of paying the expenses, or repaying those he had advanced for him, challenged him one day for a debt he owed him, and then pulled out a long slip of paper, in which the several disbursements were entered, according to date, place, and company, 'and which, sir,' said the veteran, 'amounted to between thirty and forty shillings. The little fellow at first seemed surprised, and then would have turned it into a joke; but I was serious, sir, and he paid me the money, and after that we jogged on upon our own separate accounts.'"

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

PIETERMARITZBURG, JULY 15. — SCOTT'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. D. B. Scott; Lessees, B. and F. Wheeler, Ltd.—Yet another success has been achieved here by that popular production The Merry Widow, crowded houses being the rule nightly. The staging and the costumes do great credit to the management, and a specially augmented orchestra under the conductorship of Mr. Burton acquits itself in a capable manner. Miss Alice Pollard as the captivating and winsome widow Sonia scored a big success, her finished acting and dainty singing entirely winning the hearts of the audience. Miss Mabel Medrow made a stately Natalie, her duets with Mr. H. Hancock, who undertook the character of Vicomte Camille de Jolidan, being well rendered. Mr. Frank Wheeler played Prince Danilo, and was wanting neither in the serious nor the lighter side of the rôle, his change from the light-hearted inebriate to the serious, sober-minded man being artistically effected. Baron Popoff was ably represented by Mr. W. Clark, who also undertook the duties of stage-manager. A large amount of merriment was created by Mr. C. Willoughby as Nisch. Miss Ivy Louise executed a very pretty pas seul in Act. III. and proved herself an accomplished dancer. All the minor parts were in capable hands, and the chorus gave every proof that they had been carefully trained.

MISS KATHERINE POLE, assisted by a well-selected company, has begun a season at His Majesty's Theatre, Johannesburg, in a series of Bernard Shaw's plays. Miss Katherine Pole, as may be remembered, was leading lady with the Sass Nelson company.

THE Wheeler-Edwardes 1908 Gaiety company are due to open in The Little Michus at the Theatre Royal, Durban. The company includes Misses Elsa Porters, Ruby Vincent, Chrissie Rallands, and Messrs. De Beers and Foster Courtenay.

THE Tivoli, Capetown, is to be reopened in the near future, when local talent to a large extent will be used and prices consequently lowered.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, Durban, is doing good business under the able management of Mr. Aubrey Hyman, Mme. Alice Esty being largely responsible for the success achieved. She is heard nightly in several solos, and in the Miserère scene from Il Trovatore, in which she is ably assisted by the fine vocalist Mr. I. Mirwish. Miss Daisy Mayer is a clever coon delineator and sand-dancer. An excellent item is the farcical tabloid entitled My Little One, presented by Picton Roxburgh and Miss Fanny Wright. Another pleasing turn is Mr. Guy Ryder's singing and whistling. The comedy and dancing act by the Espinosas surpasses anything of that description seen here for some time; Les Donvells, the instrumentalists, are very interesting; and Williams and Warden, Irish comedians, keep the house in roars of laughter.

GLASGOW PRINCESS'S REOPENING.

This popular house has been in the hands of tradesmen for the past three months, and from gallery to stalls the building has been remodelled at a cost of over £2,000. The accommodation has been increased from 2,300 to 2,500, extra exits have been made, and the family circle has been remodelled and extended. There are ladies' cloak-rooms on each side of the circle, and also a gentlemen's cloak-room, while the bars in stalls and circle have been enlarged and modernised, and a new chocolate stall added in the vestibule. From an artistically arranged entrance-hall the dress circle is reached by a marble staircase adorned with Venetian mirrors and lighted with handsome electroliers. A crimson Axminster carpet gives tone and warmth to the stalls.

The interior of the auditorium generally has been tastefully decorated in cream, pale salmon, and gold, while the walls are papered with a crimson art pattern. The new kind of seating in the gallery will be appreciated by "the gods." It has been arranged so that the feet do not come in contact with the clothing of those in front. The Master of Works has expressed entire satisfaction with all the arrangements.

These extensive alterations have the effect of making the Princess's practically a new theatre, and a notable point is that Mr. Rich. Waldon placed all the contracts with local firms, a fact much appreciated in the present state of trade. The opening attraction was the famous Adelphi drama In the Ranks, and an audience which filled the house in every part gave a hearty welcome to Messrs. Sims and Pettitt's play. The company is that of Mr. Beresford Whitcomb, and is an excellent combination. Mr. Jerrold Heather plays the hero, Ned Drayton, with dash and go, and carried the sympathy of the audience with him from his first entrance. Miss V. Ennis Lawson is a charming Ruth Herrick, playing the part with simple pathos and unaffected charm; Miss Dorris Whyte is equally well suited as the more light-hearted Barbara, and her soldier-lover, Captain Holcroft, was well acted by Mr. Walter Thornton, who stage-manages the production. Villainy was accorded its usual reward, thanks to the finished acting of Mr. Wilton Reed; a very clever character sketch was the Richard Belton of Mr. T. Weldon Atherstone; another good performance was the Farmer Herrick of Mr. P. Beaufoy; humour was liberally supplied by Mr. Ern. Carlton as Joe Buzzard, Miss Eleanor Papera as his mother, and Mr. Will H. Moss and Miss Amy Byron as Mr. and Mrs. Timmins; Mr. Bert Lloyd was duly splenetic as old Colonel Wynter; Mr. Frederick Fox made a brisk Sergeant Searle; and the other parts were well filled. The play was specially well staged. During one of the intervals Mr. Rich. Waldon stepped in front and made a short speech of welcome and thanks to the large audience, and expressed the hope that the many alterations would all tend to the comfort of his patrons and still further enhance the popularity of the popular Princess's.

Played at Ramsgate on Aug. 8, the Gay Gordons winning by 9 runs. The scores were:—Gay Gordons, 59; Girl Behind the Counter, 50.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS NELLIE HEWITT.

The young and promising artist above named was born and educated in Birmingham, and began her musical career at a very early age. When she was six years old an Erard pianoforte was purchased for her, and her remarkable gifts developed. Engagements as a pianist followed while she was still almost a child at high-class concerts in London, Liverpool, and Birmingham. Miss Hewitt became mistress of other instruments, though still working at the piano, and gaining cap and gown and diploma for her playing. "At this moment the banjo was the vogue," says Miss Hewitt, "so my father secured me one, and soon I was playing the leading instrument with a hundred players, and was a success for several years." At this period Miss Nellie Hewitt operated on many musical instruments, including the xylophone, Japanese fiddle, mandoline, fairy bells, silver tubes, banjo, sleigh bells, the set of hand-bells, banjourine, guitar—in fact, about a dozen instruments. She played for the Countess of Warwick both at Warwick Castle and in Birmingham, at garden parties, at bazaars, at social functions. Miss Hewitt also took pupils. For the last three years she has toured with Professor Woods' musical and pictorial enterprises through the provincial towns of importance. Miss Hewitt also acts as pianist at the sacred concerts which Professor Wood exploits at the Grand Theatre, Douglas, every Sunday evening during the season. The young artist's musical act is perfectly equipped, and comprises the most up-to-date and first-class instruments. In the near future she contemplates a Barrasford tour.

HERMAN MERIVALE'S TOUR.

"We were not a success at Coventry," writes Herman Merivale, describing the adventures of an amateur travelling company. "The weavers didn't like us, and gathered round our lattice at the inn at night, even so far as throwing stones at us. We bore it bravely, and for the next night sent out double orders without result. Nobody used them. So, as the fair was on, we walked through it two and two, beating drums and blowing trumpets. And yet they came not. We picnicked, all of us, at Kenilworth, and the leading lady played Juliet to my Romeo from a ruined window, to the amazement of some honest families about. We wound up our engagement with a dance upon the stage, the band from Leamington having come over in our honour. We danced into the night, and I yet remember our boldest in his shirt-sleeves, a tankard of beer beside him, waltzing with the critic of the Coventry Herald!

"The company had to be left behind at Coventry in pawn, and when we four got back to Leamington, we bailed it out. On our return to Oxford as we should be, we raised a dummy in the corner-seat of the train. We set up a great-coat in sitting attitude, and covered our leading lady's muff on the top of it, looking just like back hair, with a tall hat leaning down over it. We inflated a glove, and set a cigar between the fingers and a ticket in the hatband. And then we threw a rug across the figure. When the guard asked for tickets, we said the man was ill, and we dared not disturb him. The guard declared that he must, and crossed between us. Then roused the dummy, who fell into bits. From Oxford, afterwards, I had to take the train and travel across country, to join a circuit of another kind—the Norfolk Circuit at Norwich, as judge's marshal to Chief Justice Erle.

"The pleasant companionship of Matthew Arnold lightened that circuit even for so young a man.

"Arnold was an amusing talker on the subject of the Drama, caring admittedly only for the classic. He looked upon the cothurnus as the truest analyst of the perplexities and destinies of life, and had small sympathy, which was odd in him, with the laughing portraits of the Muse of Comedy, which had in them to him something of the nature of mere caricature at best. The plays of Aristophanes were in reality but satire in burlesque, and even the comedies of Molière were to him but as weaker imitations. Twice only in my memory of him do I remember his going to the theatre; once, because our alliance induced him to ask me for a box to see a modern-life play of mine and Craufurd Grove's, then strongly running at one of the London theatres. He expressed himself afterwards to have been very much entertained, and interested too, but placidly observed that he had been most struck by the improbabilities, that is the unfailing companions of the Drama, which to my old experience seem more in attendance nowadays than ever. But people forget that a play is an epitome of a mere corner of time enlarged but in imagination, and that to touch the probable at all is as much as can be expected of it. 'People don't do such things' is the quieter comment on half the plays of nowadays. The nearest thing to do is not to be impossible. How can you be real in a room with only three sides to it? Well, I fell into my error in good company in that case. Baron Martin, the famous Yorkshire racing judge, had before him a case in which counsel quoted Romeo and Juliet. He said that he had heard of it but never read it; and as the case was adjourned on the rising of the court, would do so that night, and tell them what he thought about it the next morning. Whereon he opened the proceedings by remarking in his broad Yorkshire: 'I've read your Romeo and Juliet, and don't think much of ut. It's a tissue of improbabilities from the beginning to the end.'"

THE Electric Theatres, Ltd., 20, Bedford-street, Strand, are advertising in our columns for halls, theatres, or large shops (40 by 80 or 30 by 100), with entrance fronting upon principal streets in thickly-populated districts. Such premises are required on lease for a term of years.

Little Jack Mortimer LITTLE MAJORIE LAWRENCE

This new drama was played for copyright purposes at the old Queen's Theatre, Birmingham, as long ago as June 25, 1902, and it is the first dramatic work from the pen of Mr. W. Watkin-Wynne, an experienced and popular Australian actor. As a playwright Mr. Watkin-Wynne's experience of the stage has stood him in good stead. Light in Darkness is an excellent specimen of the type of drama that makes a powerful appeal to the average audience; and as there are signs of a revived interest among theatre-goers in the play of incident as a welcome change from the more complex problem play, the production under notice bids fair to have a successful career. It is certainly worth the attention of managers in search of a piece that has unquestionably many recommendations to the favour of provincial playgoers.

The plot shows evidence of careful construction. In the first act we learn that Sir Charles Mortimer, Bart., M.P., and squire of Helsby Hall, has quarelled with his eldest son and cast him off because the young man acted contrary to his wishes in regard to his marriage; though it is not easy to discover what valid objection the old man could have to his son's choice, for May Mortimer is not only an attractive young woman, but possesses many excellent qualities as wife and mother. The younger Mortimer, an outcast through no fault of his own, has gone for a sailor, and his father has made a new will leaving all his property to a nephew, Raymond Frere, who lives with the old man at the Hall. In her husband's absence May makes an unsuccessful appeal to the squire, as her little boy Jack is ill and in need of certain delicacies which she has not the money to purchase. Sir Charles tells her that he can only treat her as he would any ordinary pauper who asked for help, and she scornfully rejects his assistance on such terms. Raymond Frere, who has forged his uncle's name, and is hard pressed for ready money, plans to break open a safe belonging to the squire, and is assisted in his burglarious work by one Joe Stack, a sporting tipster. Will Mortimer, returning from a voyage, pays a visit to his old home, and arrives just in time to find the burglars at their work. He interrupts them, and is shot by Frere, who also denounces him as the would-be robber. The police are called, and the wounded man is given into custody for attempted burglary, eventually receiving for the alleged crime a sentence of fifteen years' penal servitude. In the meantime his unhappy wife has found true friends in Nora Power, a maidservant at the Hall, and her sweetheart, Denis O'Brien. The couple marry, and become the host and hostess of the village public house, known as the "Fox and Hounds"; and when May is by the action of the squire forced to leave her house on his estate, the O'Briens offer her and her boy the shelter of their humble home. News arrives that there has been an outbreak among the convicts at Portland, and that three of them have been shot dead, including Will Mortimer, but this report turns out to be untrue, Will having saved the life of the governor of the prison, and escaped. He returns to the village disguised, and obtains work on the very estate to which he is rightful heir. An incident of the first act is the appearance of Agnes Green, otherwise known as Black Bess, a gipsy, whom Raymond Frere has promised to marry.

May Mortimer, having effectually disguised herself, obtains an engagement at the Hall, where she is known as Mrs. Dean, and prevents the murder of the squire by poison. Having watched the arch-villain Frere "doctor" some port wine which Sir Charles is about to drink, she intercedes just in time, and denounces his nephew as the would-be murderer. Frere denies his guilt, but another witness of the crime appears in the person of Agnes Green, who seeks revenge on the villain who has deceived her, and has also attempted her life.

In the last act Frere abducts the boy Jack, who has been successful in winning the favour of his grandfather, and carrying him to a bridge which crosses a mill-stream, throws the struggling lad into the water. Jack is, however, rescued by his father, and Frere is taken into custody. Husband and wife are reunited, and Sir Charles is reconciled to his son, the story being thus brought to a happy ending.

Mr. Alfred Beaumont presented a natural and manly embodiment of the hero Will Mortimer, displaying force and vigour throughout. In a scene where he discovers his cowardly cousin Raymond Frere behaving brutally to little Jack, and applies the horsewhip to the scoundrel's own back, Mr. Beaumont aroused the genuine enthusiasm of the audience by his virile acting. Mr. H. Elmore Frith was also good as Sir Charles Mortimer, whose hard, unforgiving nature is somewhat redeemed by his kind treatment of his outspoken little grandson Jack, a part played with much intelligence an animation by little Marjorie Lawrence, who has had considerable experience in similar rôles. Mr. Arthur Rodney so ably portrayed the consistent villainy of Raymond Frere that he was loudly hissed at those times when the man's evil nature revealed itself in a particularly unpleasant manner. Miss Maud Buchanan played the heroine with a sincerity and force that won for her the favourable verdict of the audience. Prominent characters in the play are Denis O'Brien and his wife Nora, the warm-hearted Irish couple, who had capital representatives in Mr. Charles L. Ludlow and Miss Agnes St. Clair, both giving remarkably bright and racy portrayals. The native humour and drollery of Denis and the delightful vivacity and briskness of Nora were very welcome, and the couple quickly established themselves as firm favourites with the audience. Mr. Norman Clark gave a neat and telling sketch of Joe Stack, who in the last act is ruthlessly murdered by Frere. Miss Beatrice Western put plenty of force and feeling into the part of the gipsy Agnes Green, and scored well throughout. The author, Mr. Watkin-Wynne, was content to appear in the last scene, at the old mill-house, as Detective-Sergeant Seymour, who apprehends Frere; and Mr. Bert Lloyd, as P.-C. Jarvis, a village policeman, and Mr. Frank Sturt, as footman at the hall, completed a competent cast. Mr. Lloyd also fulfilled the duties of stage-manager. The play was produced by Mr. Watkin-Wynne, and the scenery was excellent.

THE Prince and Princess of Wales, accompanied by Prince Edward of Wales, witnessed the performance of Butterflies at the Apollo Theatre on Saturday evening. On Monday Prince Edward accompanied the Princess of Wales to the Playhouse, and enjoyed the representation of The Flag Lieutenant.

AT the Gaiety Theatre, Hastings, on Monday the orchestra, directed by Mr. Thomas Hilton, played the French national air, "La Marseillaise," in honour of Mlle. Fallière's marriage, a printed notice to that effect in French being placarded at the front of the house.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, Aug. 13.—Le Tour du monde en 80 jours has been successfully revived at the Théâtre du Châtelet, and the boys and girls, of which there were a great number in the house, grew as excited over the exploits of Phineas Fogg and Passepartout as did their elders when Jules Verne and Adolphe D'Ennery's work was produced for the first time at the Porte-Saint-Martin, on Nov. 7, 1874. The rôle of Fogg was then created by Lacressonniere; Dumaine impersonated Corsican; Alexandre played Passepartout; and Vaunoy, Fix; whilst the parts of Aouda and Néméa had been entrusted to Mlle. Angèle Moreau and Mlle. Pauline Patry. The cast this time was an exceptionally strong one. M. Hamilton proved a splendid Passepartout; M. Demay was excellent in the rôle of Fogg; M. Jullien imparted the necessary fierceness to the character of Archibald Corsican; and M. Bardès supplied an amusing sketch of Fix. Mmes. Marchetti and Maylianes did full justice to the rôles of Aouda and Néméa.

IN our last week's issue we announced the sale of the scenery and costumes of the Chevalier d'Eon, the piece which had come so hopelessly to grief at the Porte-Saint-Martin. Although the things were quite new, and had cost an immense amount of money, they fetched wretched prices. There is nothing surprising in this. Theatrical paraphernalia at a public sale are, so to say, given away. The uninitiated, of course, think that provincial managers and impresarios secure those lots; but here, in the theatrical world, we know better. There are in Paris two or three export firms who buy up all they can in the way of costumes, which are then carefully packed in boxes and sent to traders on the East Coast of Africa. These traders forward the goods to the interior of the country, where guileless blackies accept them greedily in exchange for their local produce. Not very long ago the whole of the Cirque d'Hiver property came under the hammer, and found its way to Africa; and we can be quite certain that ere long a negro chief will become the happy possessor of poor Chevalier d'Eon's Court suit, for which, very likely, the chief will give some valuable elephant tusks. But there is a dark side to everything. Sometimes the negro chief is dishonest, and not only refuses to pay, but squares accounts by knocking out the brains of the missionary who negotiates the transaction. This, too, sounds strange, yet is absolute truth. The export houses always apply to missionaries to act as their agents, and the latter, as a rule, consent to it, as it eases their own work. It is said that our Colonial Minister, during his short trip to Africa, was received by a dusky potentate in a most gaudy costume. "I fancy I have seen that dress somewhere!" exclaimed the Minister. "No doubt you have, sir," promptly replied the Minister's secretary, "at the Châtelet!"

So much has been written on the Comédie-Française, that it is quite surprising that a London magazine should have made such a misstatement in regard to the Sociétaires' salaries, mixing these up with the "feux," which is altogether a different thing. The system is simple enough. Let us take the Sociétaire who has a "part entière" (full share) in the concern. This share is sub-divided into three parts. There is the salary, which, be there a profit or a loss at the end of the theatrical year, is fixed at 12,000 fr. (£480) per annum. Then comes the share in the profits, which, of course, vary. Last year each full-share Sociétaire was entitled to 18,000 fr. (£720). I say "entitled," for according to the rules of the house only one-half of that sum was paid to him and the rest placed to his credit, to be handed to him the day he resigns his membership. Finally, there are the "feux," a small sum, varying from 10 to 15 francs, paid to the Sociétaire every time he or she plays. The "feux" on matinée days are, for some unknown reason, fixed at 50 francs, and, almost needless to say, are much sought after by Messieurs et Mesdames les Sociétaires. These "feux," on the average, bring in about 2,000 fr. (£80) per annum. In other words, each Sociétaire received last year: 12,000 fr. salary, 9,000 fr. share in the profits, 2,000 "feux," in all 23,000 fr. (£920), with £360 placed to their credit. To this can be added the sums they receive whilst on tour, or starring in the provinces, but which have nothing to do with the money they receive from the house.

"LE ROI CHARMANT," a fairy tale in two acts, by M. Michaud d'Humiac, was produced at the Théâtre de la Nature de Champigny, where it met with an excellent reception. It is a pretty story, pleasantly told in flowing verse, of a young King who marries a shepherdess, and was capitally interpreted by M. Jean Frederick and Mlle. Adrienne Beer.

FIRE INSURANCE IN NEW ZEALAND.

We have been favoured with the following letter which has been sent to Mr. J. F. Elliston, of the Theatre Royal, Bolton, and vice-chairman of the Theatres Mutual Insurance Company, by Mr. B. J. Fuller, the enterprising young manager of five theatres in New Zealand. Mr. Elliston has been instrumental in getting the rates of fire insurance on theatres in the United Kingdom reduced to 2ls. in the £100. In New Zealand no such happy conditions exist, the present rate being no less than 90s. per £100. Mr. Fuller wants to find a remedy for this excessive charge, and Mr. Elliston has kindly promised to help him in the matter.

"J. F. Elliston, Esq.,
"Bolton.

"Dear Sir,—I take the liberty of writing you on the subject of mutual fire insurance. I was very interested in your interview in The Era of April 4. The subject of mutual insurance has been discussed here, and until I saw that article I had no idea that theatres were penalised in Great Britain, but thought that New Zealand only suffered in that respect. Would it be asking you too much to ask you to send me a few particulars in regard to the scheme?

"To give you an idea as to how we are treated by the Underwriters' Association, and to quote one case only which is symbolical of the lot: The Princess's Theatre, Dunedin, is a two-tiered theatre, built of brick and stone, the front and back of which is detached. We have a fine asbestos curtain, the stage is entirely cut off from the dressing-rooms by fireproof doors; we have two paid firemen on duty at every performance, hydrants everywhere (including the flies), and we worked under stringent bye-laws. Our rate is 90s. per £100 insurance. There has not been a fire in the main centres at the theatres since 1864.

"Trusting that you will accede to my request, and thanking you in anticipation, — Faithfully yours, (Signed) "B. J. FULLER.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Mr. Edward Terry will begin his autumn tour on Monday at the Opera House, Tunbridge Wells, and his travels will take him to the principal provincial towns, including Liverpool, Manchester, Edinburgh, Cork, &c. In addition to his usual répertoire, which will consist of Liberty Hall, Sweet Lavender, The Magistrate, and other old favourites, the eminent comedian will present at Scarborough on the 25th, for the first time out of London (by arrangement with Mr. Arthur Bourchier), the popular Garrick piece Fiander's Widow. The company supporting Mr. Terry will include Misses Edith Coleman, Gwendolen Wren, Sophie Lingwood, Agnes Knights, Evelyn Ormonde, and Ella Dixon; and Messrs. Edmund Hollick, Kenneth Brampton, Percy Crawford, William Dexter, George Byrne, and Penn Hamilton. Mr. Poole Kirkwood will be responsible for the stage-management, Mr. A. R. Garland will be the advance representative, and Mr. Arthur Graeme the business-manager.

The new stage at Drury Lane is now nearly completed, and will be quite ready for the reception of the autumn melodrama. As has been before stated, Messrs. Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton have chosen for their main theme the subject of marriage and divorce, and have evolved an engrossing play. The story is that of a man of good family who has married a dancing girl, but wishes to wed a lady of title. He goes to a foreign land to obtain the needed divorce, and having accomplished his purpose returns to England. He enters into a second union, and in course of time a son is born. At the father's death, however, his offspring's title to the estates is disputed by a relative, but the ingenuity of the authors finds a way out of the difficulty quite satisfactory to the traditions of melodrama.

"Pete," the new adaptation of The Manxman by Hall Caine and Louis N. Parker, is making every progress towards production at the Lyceum on Saturday week. As in the Drury Lane drama, the subject of the divorce law is touched upon, but a different aspect of the theme has been chosen, the problem which is treated in Pete in the last act being the rights of the parties to the custody of the child.

Mr. Matheson Lang will play the title-rôle, and Miss Hutin Britton will be the Kate Cregeen. Many Lyceum favourites will be found among the cast, which is completed by Messrs. Eric Mayne, Wilfred E. Payne, Frederick Ross, S. Major Jones, Chas. L. Ludlow, H. K. Ayliff, Sidney Young, Joseph O'Brien, Sidney Vautier, Wilfred Edmunds, Henry Brooks, Ernest Cresfan, Charles Terric, and Henry Armstrong, and Misses Rita Tompkins, Lillian Digges, Blanche Stanley, Dora Clements, and Lillian Tweed. The play will open at the Parlour of the "Manx Fairy," changing in Act 2 to Pete's Cottage. Act 3 will show The Keep of Castle Rushden, and a return will be made to Pete's Cottage in Act 4. The production will be under the stage direction of Mr. Ernest Carpenter.

Miss Decima Moore made an instantaneous success as Mrs. Dot upon the presentation of the piece at Brighton last week, press and public speaking in the highest praise of Miss Moore's performance. Bank Holiday crowds filled the West Pier Theatre every night, and so encouraging were the receipts that Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison have arranged for another visit to be paid to "London-by-the-Sea" in October. At Southport this week Miss Moore's success has been equally great.

Miss Moore's triumph is enhanced in no small degree by her charming and artistic dresses, which were specially designed for her. In Act I. she wears a striking combination of the Empire and Directoire styles, carried out in soft grey and white striped chriptaline. The coat effect is in black taffeta laced across, and caught with gold filigree buttons and tassels, and the square-cut neck piece of sapphire embroidery brings in just the touch of colour which gives the cachet to the gown. The "fascination hat"—the latest creation for the coming season—is of black, with royal blue feathers and ospreys, and Miss Moore carries a Directoire parasol of royal blue to match.

The gown worn in the second act is particularly quaint, and is made rather on the Grecian lines in soft white Indian muslin. The stole ends, back and front, are of raspberry and white figured and bordered muslin, and are caught well above the waist with a loose knotted sash of black velvet ribbon. The stoles and underskirt are finished with several rows of narrow white fringe, and the wearer carries a raspberry and black sunshade to correspond. Act III. finds Miss Moore in a charming gown of champagne silk, beautifully hand-embroidered with large mediæval pattern heliotrope and green flowers. The costume is finished off by the introduction of a cascade of heliotrope down the back, a parasol of the same colour is carried.

Mrs. Brown Potter has borne the Hutchison flag to Brighton this week and achieved an instant success in Lady Frederick. Despite the hot weather, hundreds were turned away, and all records were beaten each night. The eminent actress was cheered again and again at the end of the performance on Monday, and Mr. Philip Cunningham's success as Paradine was almost as pronounced. Although appearing as Brewster at night, Mr. Percy Hutchison found time to conduct all the final rehearsals.

Miss Lilias Earle and Mr. Eille Norwood commence a long autumn tour on Monday at the West Pier, Brighton, in Peter's Mother with Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. This is the seventh tour of this popular play and its fourth visit to Brighton, which at present holds the top place as regards receipts of any of the thirty-eight Hutchison comedies.

Miss Earle, who is so well known both in London and the country as a comedy actress, has appeared in all the principal parts of Cousin Kate, Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, The Liars, Mrs. Dane's Defence, &c., playing in the last-mentioned piece with Sir Charles Wyndham during Miss Mary Moore's absence. Her performance of the title-rôle in Betsy at the same theatre will also be agreeably remembered.

Miss Earle is fortunate in having the support of Mr. Eille Norwood, who for the second time joins the Hutchison management. Mr. Norwood has lately added to his laurels as a comedian with Sir Charles Wyndham and Mr. Cyril Maude, and can ill be spared from the Metropolis. An excellent cast has been selected for this tour, Mr. Vivian Guilbert, who has been acting at the Court under Mr. Otho Stuart's management, being engaged to play Peter. The company will visit all the principal cities.

The numerous friends of Mr. C. B. Vaughan will be grieved to hear that he is suffering from a severe attack of rheumatic fever. Mr. Vaughan was taken ill a week before he was to begin his engagement to play Sir Charles Wyndham's part in Captain Drew on Leave, which is being toured by Miss Nora Carton. Fortunately Mr. Claude King, who has just returned from a tour abroad, was able to undertake the part, which he is now playing with great success. Mr. Vaughan, we are glad to say, is getting on as well as can possibly be expected.

Mr. Seymour Hicks is giving away, in the course of his autumn tour, a deliciously comic souvenir of The Gay Gordons, consisting of a series of caricatures of scenes in the play, drawn by Mr. W. Barton Wilkinson. They are introduced by a letter to "Mr. and Mrs. Public and all the little Publics," by Miss Betty Seymour Hicks, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hicks. A charming feature of the souvenir is found in a portrait of the little authoress herself, and annotations attributed to her at the foot of the pictures.

Thus it is learned that the dog which appears in Act 1 of The Gay Gordons is called Brandy, and has been so christened by Mr. Hicks "because he has only to pat the dog and say 'Soda,' and the servants understand." Of one of Mr. Wilkinson's drawings, the little commentator says, the artist has tried "to make everybody as funny as he can—even the comedians, which, of course, is a mad thing to attempt." She also vouchsafes the information that "Daddy is really a beautiful dancer—with one foot," and a picture which shows Mr. Seymour Hicks and party of the Gay Gordons singing with much gesticulation an uproarious chorus, she describes as "One of Daddy's Quiet Scenes." The souvenir is embellished by excellent portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Hicks.

London is not to be entirely deprived of the beautiful Imperial Theatre. It is being taken down in sections in order to be rebuilt on another site, the exact locality of which is for the present a secret. The house will be run by a firm of well-known caterers.

The housing of the Actors' Association is a problem once more confronting its executive. This time the change is not one of expediency, but of compulsion, the whole of the premises at 409, Strand, having been acquired by the Queensland Government. The upper floor at Gatti's Restaurant, to which the Association removed last January, was not an ideal place structurally for such an institution, but it possessed many advantages, and was not beyond the means of the society, which during its stay there has materially strengthened its position, and has added substantially to its roll of membership

Suggestions will be welcomed by the Council from members as to any desirable premises they might have in view. The Actors' Union are now considering the establishment of a clubhouse. Would it be out of place to suggest that now is the time for the opening up of negotiations for the joining of forces of two societies which have so much in common?

Miss Florence Lovell (Mrs. H. H. Barrington) desires to extend through our columns her thanks to many friends for their kind messages of sympathy in her terribly sad bereavement.

Miss Ethel Irving will in course of time be seen in a part in sharp contrast to that of the genial Irishwoman with which she has achieved such distinction. The new rôle is the central figure of a play by Mr. A. E. Jessup which bears a resemblance to the famous hypnotism scene in The Bells. The leading character of Mr. Jessup's piece is a girl who is thrown into a trance as the result of an accident, and under that influence reveals the incidents of her girlhood, when she was the victim of an unscrupulous scoundrel. Her statements, however, show her to have been innocent of evil, and the relations between herself and her betrothed are in no way impaired.

Mr. Charles Vane, who has recently returned from Australia after fulfilling a two years' engagement with Messrs. Meynell and Gunn, sails to-day for India and the Far East, where he will sustain a round of leading parts under the management of Mr. Maurice Bandmann.

Miss Georgie Corlass is due to arrive in England in a few days by the P. and O. s.s. Simla. She has had a most gratifying time out East, her greatest success being obtained in The Merry Widow.

Among the interested audience at the performance of Mr. Herbert Sleath's A White Man company at the Lyceum, Newport (Mon.) on the 3rd inst., were two students from the Carlisle University, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., the university supported by the United States Government for the higher education of the North American Indian or Red Man. Running Elk and Black Eagle, members of the University football team now touring England, and happening to be in Newport, spent the evening at the Lyceum, and were particularly struck by the characters of Tab-y-wana (Mr. Eric Hudson) and Baco White (Mr. F. T. Martin), and could hardly be made to believe these gentlemen were not really members of the Ute tribe, so perfect was both their characterisation and delivery of the Ute language. It may be added that Mr. Martin spent many years in Wyoming, U.S.A., and is a very fluent Indian linguist and student.

Miss Glossop-Harris, who has been having a long and much-needed rest at her bungalow on the river, starts rehearsing for her fourth tour on Monday week. She is adding The School for Scandal, She Stoops to Conquer, and David Garrick to her répertoire, and has made some important engagements, including those of Mr. Arthur Goodsall and Miss Gertrude Tate.

Amongst the distinguished audience who filled the Theatre Royal, Margate, last week to witness Miss Mabel Love's performance in the title-rôle of Lady Frederick were the Mayor, Mr. Henry Arthur Jones, Sir William Richards, and many other well-known people at present visiting this popular health resort. Mr. Percy Hutchison arranged for two of his companies, i.e., Lady Frederick and Peter's Mother, to be at the New Palace Theatre, Ramsgate, this week, and new record business has been the result.

Miss Gladys Lloyd, who was with Mr. Lionel Rignold's répertoire of comedies in the spring, has been re-engaged by Mr. Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche for their autumn tour of What the Butler Saw. Last week, owing to the indisposition of Miss Blanche, Miss Lloyd sustained that lady's part with complete success.

Mr. Francis Hawley has been engaged by Messrs. Paumier and Howard as general-manager for The Prince and the Beggar Maid South tour.

Some delightful dresses are to be seen in Captain Drew on Leave now being toured by Miss Nora Carton. Miss Carton herself as Miss Mills wears some charming "creations," including a blue evening dress in the second act that is specially to be noted. Miss Cynthia Brooke, who plays Miss Moxon with her accustomed success, dons a heliotrope satin frock with old paste buttons that is pronounced by fair frequenters of theatres to be "a perfect dream."

Disorderly scenes were caused by the "claque" during a performance of the opera Mascheri at Leghorn on Saturday. The claquers were refused tickets by the management, but contrived to purchase admission in order to revenge themselves for their exclusion. Missiles were thrown at the stage, and Mascagni, who was conducting the opera in person, was struck by an orange. He contrived to wield the bâton until the soprano was struck, as she was singing, by onions and garlic, and then left his place, exclaiming, "I will not remain in a theatre where onions are thrown at a lady." The composer subsequently returned and was warmly cheered, while the claquers were hissed.

Mr. Lewis Waller, having enjoyed a brief holiday, is making preparations for the production on Sept. 8 of Mr. Justin Huntly McCarthy's adaptation of The Duke's Motto, which will be produced at the Lyric on Tuesday, Sept. 8. The play is an entirely new version, but retains all the important points of the original plot. Mr. McCarthy considers that the fight of Lagardère at the Château de Caylus is a fine example of the case of one against a multitude, and as such worthy of comparison with the struggle of Grettis the Strong in the Icelandic Saga, of Bussy d'Amboise in La Dame de Montsereau, by Dumas, or the last fight of Hereward the Wake in Kingsley's novel.

The same date has been chosen for the production at the Aldwych of Paid in Full, a drama by Eugene Walter, which was brought out in New York seven months ago, and is still running. The cast is thoroughly English, and will consist of Mr. Louis Calvert, Mr. Paul Arthur, Mr. A. B. Tapping, Mr. H. V. Esmond, Miss Nora Lancaster, Miss Daisy Markham, and Miss Kate Sergeantson.

The Bandmann Comedy Company, twenty-five strong, left London by the P. and O. s.s. Britannia on Wednesday for their tour over Mr. Bandmann's eastern circuit. After a few weeks' sojourn in the Mediterranean and Egypt the company will proceed direct to India and the Far East. Miss Florence Hamer will again undertake the entire lead, and among the artists engaged are Messrs. Charles Vane, Douglas Gordon, Thomas Sidney, Douglas Vigors, Lloyd Lowndes, C. F. Cooke, Harry Neville, Spencer Geech, and Norman McLeod, and Miss Florence Hamer, Blanche Forsythe, Lucy Beaumont, Lallie Forsyth, Dutchie Forsyth, Esme Gordon, Sybil Harcourt, and Lilian Vaughan.

The company will play all the most recent London successes of which Mr. Bandmann has obtained the rights. They will include, When Knights Were Bold, Lady Frederick, The Flag Lieutenant, Mrs. Dot, and Jack Straw. In the répertoire will also be The Little Minister, The Night of the Party, Why Smith Left Home, What Happened to Jones, the Wrong Mr. Wright, The Lady of Ostend, The Scarlet Pimpernel, and English Nell. The stage manager and producer of the company is Mr. Thomas Sidney.

Miss Ida Molesworth's and Mr. Mark Blow's Under Two Flags company will begin its fourth return visit to the suburbs on Monday, starting at Kennington, with the Coronet and Fulham to follow. This week Under Two Flags is making its seventh visit to Brighton in six years, and that the business is better than on any former occasion speaks volumes in favour of this sterling play, which is a never-failing box-office attraction.

Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton will commence their autumn tour at Buxton on Sept. 3, their répertoire consisting of The Taming of the Shrew, Othello, and The Two Pins. The company will be practically the same as that which has supported the popular players during the last few years at the Adelphi and His Majesty's Theatres and on tour. At the conclusion of the autumn tour, which ends at the Broadway, New Cross, on Dec. 12, Mr. Asche and Miss Brayton hope to be able to secure a suitable West-end theatre to produce their new play, Count Hannibal.

Mr. C. Adolf Seebold deserves great credit for the great improvement made in the Theatre Royal, Worthing. The little house has been freshly decorated and upholstered, and the general appearance is both pleasing and effective.

Mr. Frank Nelson has now quite recovered from his serious illness. Mr. Nelson has served under two managements only for the last eight years, namely, those of Mr. Mouillot and Mr. Peter Davey, and has also run his own tours. He should find no difficulty in obtaining another managerial position.

Mr. Henry Swinerd's company, under the direction of Mr. J. W. Cordiner, will open on Monday at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, in the successful musical play Dare-devil Dorothy. The piece is now in its ninth year of tour, yet its drawing powers are as great as ever. The principal members of the company are Mr. Walter B. Nugent, Mr. Walter Ashley, Mr. Harry Ugar, Miss Nellie Valentine, and Miss Dorothy Desmonde in the title-rôle. Miss Nellie Harcourt will play Judith, a part she has enacted nearly three thousand times. Both Mr. Swinerd and Mr. Cordiner will be at the Fulham Theatre with the piece.

The reopening of the Royal County Theatre, Reading, marks the commencement of Mr. Edward Compton's proprietary connection with the theatre, Mr. Compton and Mr. Milton Bode being now the proprietors and managers. The Compton Comedy Company is booked for a visit to the County Theatre in the late autumn, and Mr. Compton will himself appear on the boards. Mr. Bode and Mr. Compton are also in partnership at the Brighton, Huddersfield, Wolverhampton, Northampton, Dalston, and other theatres.

Mr. Harry Phydora will long cherish remembrances of his dramatic triumphs in Australia under the ægis of Mr. J. C. Williamson, with whom he played the principal comedy parts in two pantomimes, viz, Mother Goose and Humpty Dumpty. Mr. Phydora might still be playing to the Cornstalks, who have made him a prime favourite, but he has returned to his native shores to continue a successful career only interrupted by his big record "down under."

Miss Evelyn Shelley, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now convalescent, and able and ready for work. She wishes to thank, through our columns, all friends for kind inquiries.

Mr. F. W. Marriott Watson, who is perhaps better known to the profession as F. Brooke Warren, the author of many well-known dramas that have been touring England successfully for the past twelve years, has just acquired a long lease of the Queen's Theatre, Dublin. The theatre will be rebuilt and enlarged, and will be one of the most up-to-date and comfortable theatres in the British Isles. The alterations will be very extensive, and the stage will be capable of presenting the largest attractions touring. It is expected to open the theatre in January next, when high-class drama will be the fare.

Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper's company with The Flag Lieutenant will open their tour at Kingston on Oct. 5. Mr. George Mallett has been appointed business-manager.

Mr. Monckton Hoffe has engaged Miss Maude Henderson to play the title-rôle in Irene Wycherley, this being her second engagement with Mr. Hoffe. Mr. Charles Garry, just returned from America with Mrs. Patrick Campbell, will play Philip Wycherley.

On the occasion of Mr. F. B. Woulfe's benefit at the conclusion of that gentleman's highly successful stock season at the Theatre Royal, Wednesbury, Mr. Harry Battersby, the proprietor, presented him with a gold watch. The gift was accompanied by a short speech, thanking Mr. Woulfe for his untiring work, and for the lavish and complete way in which all his productions were staged. On Sunday last Mr. Woulfe left Wednesbury after an eight weeks' stay for a long tour, to play the part of Ronjarre, and to act as general manager of Mr. Battersby's company. The season at Wednesbury has been an unqualified success, and on the night of Mr. Woulfe's benefit the house was filled to overflowing.

"The Passing of the Third Floor Back" was produced by Mr. Forbes Robertson at the Grand Opera House, Harrogate, on Thursday. It is an allegorical play, the scene of which is laid in a Bloomsbury boarding-house. A passer-by takes a room in the establishment, and embodying the Spirit of Love, points out to his fellow boarders their faults and petty spite. He thus plays upon the better side of each one's nature, and effects a complete reformation ere he departs. Mr. Robertson acted wonderfully in the title-rôle, and Miss Gertrude Elliott gave a clever assumption of a slavey. Mr. Edward Sass also scored a hit. There was a huge house, and calls were given for the author, who, however, did not respond. The piece will be seen at the St. James's on Sept. 1.

Mr. Leonard Rayne sailed last Saturday for Cape Town on the Union-Castle Company's steamer Walmer Castle. Both at Waterloo and Southampton many of the popular actor-manager's friends assembled to wish him God-speed on this his tenth trip to the Cape. He received, too, a large number of "send-off" telegrams, one well-wisher wiring to him, "If we do meet again, why, we shall smile," and receiving the reply, "If we do meet again we'll smile indeed"—both well-known lines from Julius Cæsar.

Mr. Rayne has with him two of the most popular pieces at present running in London, namely, Mrs. Dot and The Flag Lieutenant, with the latter of which he proposes opening his new season at the Standard Theatre, Johannesburg. He also holds the sole rights for South Africa of A White Man, Diana of Dobson's, Mr. Oswald Brand's powerful version of Monte Cristo, A Cigarette-maker's Romance, and The Breed of the Treshams. Then, as "curtain-raisers," he has The Chance (by Mr. Frank Vernon) and The Agitator and A Bit of Old Chelsea (by Mrs. Oscar Beringer). Replicas of all the dresses, uniforms, &c., used in the London productions are provided for the various plays.

The Gaiety Theatre, Methil, was reopened on Monday. During the recess the whole interior has been thoroughly cleaned and decorations have been completed. White and gold was the original scheme, but here and there have been added, with artistic effect, touches of pale blue. As it stands now, it is one of the prettiest little theatres in the country. The dressing-rooms are spacious and comfortably fitted and electrically lighted throughout.

On Monday, the opening night, Mr. Arnold, the popular manager, came before the curtain to make a little speech of greeting. He specially thanked Messrs. Edward Clark, scenic artist, Mr. Robert Cairns, stage carpenter, and Alex. Russell, electrician, for their loyal work. Modestly he kept his own name quiet, but his work is known and appreciated by the public. The bookings for the forthcoming season include a number of powerful attractions, and at Christmas or New Year Mr. Arnold will produce his own pantomime.

Mr. Norman Macowan, who recently completed his 677th performance of Monsieur Beaucaire, has been engaged by Mr. H. B. Irving for his season in London.

"The Early Worm" will make its appearance at Wyndham's on Sept. 1, which is also the date chosen by Mr. Forbes Robertson for the first performance of The Passing of the Third Floor Back at the St. James's. The former piece serves for the return of Mr. Weedon Grossmith to the West End in a part admirably designed for his talents, and the accomplished comedian will have sterling support in Messrs. A. E. Matthews, Alfred Bishop, Wilfred Draycott, H. Stephenson, A. W. Baskcomb, Forbes Dawson, and E. W. Laceby, and Miss Fanny Brough and Miss Muriel Beaumont. The play has distinct aristocratic tendencies, two acts being laid in the hall at Lord Mayton's and the other in the saloon on a Duke's yacht.

Miss Florence Watson has been engaged to play the part of Queenie Trevor in The Belle of the Ball, replacing Miss Maude Terry, who sails for America on Thursday next. Miss Watson opens at the King's Theatre, Glasgow, on Monday.

At Bow-street Police Court on Wednesday three young men, respectably attired, giving the names of Harry Luck, Charles Wilcox, and Samuel Reynolds, were charged as suspected persons attempting to pick pockets. A detective stated that at about a quarter past eleven on Tuesday night he saw the prisoners pushing among the people who were leaving the Vaudeville Theatre. Luck made an unsuccessful attempt to open a handbag carried by a lady whilst she was being pushed by the two other prisoners. Reynolds afterwards got in front of a lady and gentleman in evening dress who were about to enter a cab. Wilcox placed his hand on the gentleman's watch-chain, and at the same time Luck pushed against him. Witness and his colleague then arrested the three prisoners. There had been frequent complaints of late of robberies outside the Vaudeville Theatre. At the request of the police, the prisoners, who declared themselves innocent, were remanded for inquiries as to their antecedents.

A calamity was narrowly averted at the scenic studios of Mr. Leolyn Hart, in Latona-road, Old Kent-road, on Sunday evening, between the hours of six and seven, when a large fish-curing warehouse adjoining caught fire. By the untiring efforts of the Fire Brigade the flames were prevented from getting a firm hold of the studios. One portion of the storage department in which many tons of valuable scenery is kept had the roof completely burnt off, and this part of the premises also suffered considerably from water. If the fire had caught the main building, which occupies an enormous ground space, and in which much valuable work, wholly and partially completed, for several forthcoming productions is housed, the damage would have amounted to many thousands of pounds. The greatest difficulty was experienced in getting the horses out of the stables, which were completely burnt out. Fortunately, the damage is covered by insurance.

A change has taken place in the management of the F. R. Benson Shakespearean companies, and for the future the North, South, and Mid land tours will be under the direction of Mr. W. H. Savery, who for some years past has been connected with the Benson enterprises. Mr. Henry Herbert will be the stage-director of these companies, and also play the leading rôles in the North combination. Mr. Hugh Gwyther is the London representative of the firm, who retain their offices at 11, Henrietta-street, Covent Garden.

The North company finished a most successful forty-two weeks' tour at the Theatre Royal, Worthing, in June, and reopen on Sept. 7 at the same town, having been specially engaged for Mr. C. Adolf Seebold's annual benefit. During the autumn they will visit, among other towns, Plymouth, Exeter, Worcester, Burton-on-Trent, Coventry, Rochdale, and Wolverhampton. The company, which has worked its way into the front rank of Shakespearean combinations, has been considerably strengthened, and the effect of the productions has been enhanced by the acquisition of new scenery. The South company, which commences operations at Littlehampton on Aug. 20, has also been augmented, and will carry an extensive and popular répertoire. On Aug. 26 they are giving a pastoral performance of The Merry Wives of Windsor in the Vicarage garden at Bognor, in aid of the building fund of St. Wilfrid's Church.

At the finish of the performance of Brewster's Millions at the Gaiety Theatre, Hastings, on Monday, the directors sent the resident acting-manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt, to ask Mr. Percy Hutchison to wait upon them, and not only did they compliment him upon his rendering of "Monty" Brewster, but said the production was one of the finest ever offered to the provinces, "the great storm scene" in the third act, with the "elaborately realistic yacht," creating especial admiration.

A battle of flowers at Vizella in Portugal recently was converted into an encounter between two amateur bands of music. Great rivalry has for many years existed between the two musical forces, and when in the middle of the festivity they met in the street, their long-suppressed hate burst forth, and they commenced exchanging insults. Finally, losing all control, they rushed at each other, using their musical instruments as weapons. A portion of the public took part in the quarrel, and the place was soon transformed into something like a battlefield. Revolver shots were fired and knives were used, until the police and a force of infantry were called out, and order re-established. The number of wounded is very considerable. Some of the musicians, with their shapeless instruments, passed the night in prison.

The theatrical tastes of the present-day public are touched upon in an interview with Mr. Frank Rothsay, whose large experience, including twelve years as manager at the Borough Theatre, Stratford, should entitle his opinion to respect. "Good drama, of course," said Mr. Rothsay, "has its many patrons, but I am inclined to think that comic opera will shortly be more in the ascendant than it has been for the past seven years. At the same time, whatever may suit and tickle the public fancy for the time being—long or short period—I am firmly convinced that good, stirring plays like The Silver King and Lights of London will always command big and appreciative audiences." Mr. Rothsay thinks, however, that plays as written to-day are hardly of the same consistency or up to the standard of those of years ago.

Mr. J. Charles Imeson desires to avail himself of our columns to thank all his friends for their numerous kind congratulatory telegrams on the occasion of the opening of his new theatre at Stockton on the 3rd instant. He is pleased to say his enterprise is a great success.

Mr. Edward Thane, author of The Mockery of Marriage, will produce at the Theatre Royal, Stratford, on Monday, for Mr. C. Hamilton Baines a new drama from his pen entitled Dark Deeds of the Night. The piece will be played throughout the week.

Pius X.'s attitude towards the drama is evidently most favourable. He has sent his blessing to a new theatre at Malta, which has been built under the auspices of the St. Patrick's Young Men's Society. It bears the title of "The House of Youth," and it is proposed to use the theatre for the performance of high-class plays and operas. At the opening performance, says the Universe, a telegram was received from the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Merry del Val, conveying the Apostolic blessing "upon an enterprise which much interests him."

After fulfilling three special weeks with The Power of Lies, in which he played the part of a benevolent doctor and acted as "producer," Mr. Marshall Moore has returned to town.

Mr. Edward Beecher has been engaged by Mr. Seymour Hicks for the part of Andrew Quainton in The Gay Gordons, thus returning to musical comedy, from which he has been absent since managing Ma Mie Rosette for the Associated Managers. Mr. Beecher is an enthusiastic cricketer, and successfully led the Gay Gordons C.C. to victory in two matches last week.

Mr. Norman V. Norman has arranged to produce the great Haymarket success Under the Red Robe, adapted from Stanley Weyman's novel by the late Edward Rose, with himself as Gil de Berault, and Miss Beatrice Wilson as Renée de Cocheforêt. Mr. Norman will shortly revive at the Marlborough Anthony Hope's Adventure of Lady Ursula, which has not been seen in London for some time, Miss Beatrice Wilson will play Lady Ursula Barrington, a part in which she has won the greatest success in most of the provincial cities, and Mr. Norman will himself play Sir George Sylvester.

The Hicks Theatre will reopen early in October, when The Honourable Phil, written by Mr. G. P. Huntley and Mr. Herbert Clayton, with music by Mr. Harold Samuels, will be produced. The event will mark the return to the West End of Miss Denise Orme, whose admirable work at Daly's will be recalled with pleasure. In the cast will also be Miss Julia Sanderson, an American singer and actress of much popularity, Miss Elsie Spain, Miss Barbara Huntley, Miss Eva Kelly, Mr. Horace Mills, Mr. Clayton, and Mr. O. B. Clarence, with Mr. Huntley himself in the title-rôle.

Mr. Joseph Coyne, who has played without one interruption through the run of The Merry Widow, and Miss Alexandra Carlisle left on Thursday for New York. They will open at the Garrick Theatre there on Aug. 31 with The Mollusc.

Hardie and Von Leer's autumn production, The Sailor's Wedding, by H. Brinsley Hill, will be seen for the first time on Monday, Sept. 7, at the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway. The new piece, which is already in rehearsal, is described as "a romantic drama of life and love in sunny Italy." The action takes place amid the picturesque surroundings of the Neapolitan Riviera, and something quite exceptional may be looked for in the way of scenic illustration. A powerful company has been engaged, and a tour of the large towns will follow the initial production.

During the lengthy vacation the Theatre Royal, Dewsbury, has been overhauled, renovated, and refurnished, and the interior now presents a charming and artistic appearance. For the benefit of the pit and stall patrons the footlights have been lowered to the extent of 18in., thus affording a clearer view of the stage. In addition the electric lights comprising the footlights are now fully up-to-date, and include all the essential colour effects. The two walls at each side of the proscenium are now set out in panels with ornamental fibrous plaster moulding and elaborate painted shields. At each side of the proscenium two large fibrous plaster consols or tresses have been introduced, and these, along with all the rest of the ornamental plaster work, are now painted in cream and old gold shades, and freely gilded.

The walls throughout the auditorium are covered with a nice shade of rose du Barry, which harmonises with the chairs and carpets. The shafts of all columns are treated with Japanese paper in cream and gold shades. The dress circle, side circles, vestibule, corridors, promenades, and stalls have been carpeted with splendid Axminster. The boxes have new festooned crimson silk plush draperies and curtains, and the stalls, circle, and side stalls have been fitted with new, improved tip-up chairs, upholstered in rich crimson velvet. This work has been placed in the hands of Messrs. A. R. Dean and Sons, of Birmingham, and no expense has been spared in bringing the theatre up to date. In addition the dressing-rooms and the whole of the rear of the stage have been painted and cleaned.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Irving Anecdotes.

Up to the last moment of his career on the English stage, writes Mr. Walter Herries Pollock in his "Impressions of Henry Irving," he was more than willing to listen to any suggestion concerning either his own acting or the general conduct of any performance under his direction. There must be many friends by whom this trait in him will be remembered, and it is probable that, as one writes of his productions and acting, instances of it only too crowding will recur to the memory. For the present, at least, one may suffice. It was during a "long run" revival of Hamlet that he suddenly adopted the reading in the burial scene, "the cat will mew, the dog will have his bay," instead of "his day." This reading has always struck me as on a par with the famed suggestion that "the child is father to the man" should be changed to "the man is father to the child." This contention I presented to Irving, in his own frequent tone of affectionate banter, in more than one way. He said little; indeed, I think he only used an habitual and non-committal phrase—"Ah! you think that, do you?"—but a few nights later I found that he had gone back to his original reading. I do not doubt that he had had remonstrances other than mine, the which combined, if he had in truth resented criticism, would only have made him cling more closely than ever to his new departure.

Anything for a Change.

It seems probable that he first took to the baying dog from sheer desire to break, however little, the monotony of constant repetition. For during this, or a similar, long run of Hamlet, I was with him in his dressing-room just before the burial scene, and noted with surprise that a scarlet feather was being placed in his black hat. To my natural inquiry he answered: "Well, you know very likely that there's reason for supposing that scarlet was in old days the mourning colour of Denmark. But that's not really it—no. The truth is—anything for a change, however little, in these long runs." The thing, says Mr. Pollock, is trivial in itself, but what a comment on the inevitable effect of long runs!

Talking and Acting.

One curious instance of the double personality in Irving's case comes back to me from The Corsican Brothers. It may be remembered that at one point of the masked ball scene the Parisian twin, Louis, has to cross the stage with a moody and preoccupied air at the back of the noisy crowd of masks and pierrots. Just before this I had been with him in his dressing-room, eagerly discussing some matter quite unconnected with theatrical affairs. When we were getting to a crucial point he was called to make this traverse. He gave a slight movement of impatience and then, "Come on," he said, "or we may forget this. We shall just have time to finish it going down and crossing the stage." So down the stairs and across the stage we went, Irving, the moment his foot touched the boards, assuming an air of profound melancholy the while he continued with me a conversation which was perfectly cheerful. And he had timed it exactly; the point at issue had been cleared up just as we reached the opposite wing.

A Quick Change.

There was another instance of a more rapid kind in Faust, the great drama, which, however transmogrified, exercises a spell on the imagination and memory. Here, too, we had continued a conversation from his dressing-room down the stairs and to the wing where Mephistopheles waited the cue for his final appearance on the stage, wherefrom he carried off Faust in a blaze of lightning. The talk interested us both, and Irving kept it up till the last possible moment, when the man at the wing, ready with the lightning, urged him on. Then, "Step back out of the way of the blaze," he cried to me, and in a moment was on the stage saying, in cutting and commanding accents, "My horses shiver in the morning air." His caution, and that almost as hastily given by the lightning-man, came none too soon, as I had become absorbed in the discussion. Then he returned, with Faust half-enwrapped in the cloak of Mephistopheles, and so soon as Faust left him resumed the conversation exactly where he had dropped it.

A Quaint Cartoonist.

"When I was at Oxford," writes Mr. Edmund Payne in Cassell's Saturday Journal, "I lived with a certain actor whose father was on the original staff of Tit-Bits. We were both earning the same salary, and I found my new companion a very pleasant change indeed after the jealous coon with whom I had resided at Cardiff. As a matter of fact, as an actor he was a failure, but he was a clever lightning cartoonist; and the management, discovering this latest virtue, used to introduce his cartooning turn during the show, when he would, on big sheets of cardboard, rough out extraordinarily life-like likenesses of all sorts and conditions of celebrities of the day.

"Unfortunately, however, spoiled by the sudden influx of a whole thirty shillings a week, he took to excessive indulgence in the flowing bowl, with the result that on occasions when he came on to do his turn he was so 'disguised' that 'pon my word, if you'd have asked him I don't believe he could have told you whether he was in Europe or in Kamschatka. But he was a conscientious fellow, and would insist on doing his work. So, blinking like an owl, and swaying like a ship in distress, he would grip his pencil—once he leaned over the footlights and grabbed the conductor's bâton—and proceed to draw—or rather try to do so, as, in this condition, he generally started too near the edge of the paper—and after beginning by drawing Gladstone's head he would wander right off the paper with half Bradlaugh's nose, meander back again and trace out Disraeli's mouth, and finish up with Jem Mace's chin. For the back of the head he was generally content to sketch Disraeli's. Underneath this mosaic masterpiece he would write 'Lord Tennyson.'"

Doughty and Grimaldi.

Mr. James Doughty, the old actor and clown who will celebrate his ninetieth birthday on Aug. 28, remembers the famous song "Hot Codlins," which was sung by Grimaldi and by Doughty after him. It ran, the Mail reminds us, as follows:—

A little old woman, a living she got
By selling of codlins, hot, hot, hot;
This little old woman, so we have been told,
Tho' her codlins were hot, she was monstrously cold;
So to keep herself warm she thought it no sin
To run and get half a quartern of ——

Here the audience shouted the names of various beverages, starting with gin, and the expert clown finished off the line triumphantly with some potation they had not mentioned. "And what are codlins?" asked the interviewer. "Hot baked apples." "There, now," said a member of Mr. Doughty's family, "I have heard that song hundreds of times and I always thought it was fish!"

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The third of the novelties vouchsafed by Mr. Bourchier during his stay at Eastbourne was reserved for Thursday of last week, and was by far the most important of the series. It afforded opportunity of seeing Mr. Bourchier in a purely comedy part, and his success was proved by the frequent and hearty laughter and the numerous recalls. The action of the play opens in Judge Watts' Room in the Third Precincts Court at Washington, U.S.A. The officials of the Court are discussing a charge against a supposed groom giving the name of "James Osborne," who is accused of disorderly conduct, reckless driving, and of the abduction of two ladies. "James Osborne" is really Lord Kintire (brother of the Hon. Charles Henderson), and is fond of practical joking. After a ball Lord Kintire had the idea of taking the place of his brother's coachman, shaving off his beard, and driving home his sister-in-law, Nancy, and Mrs. Conway, and then at the end of the drive to snatch a kiss from Nancy. By mistake he gets a ticket numbered 66, which he mistakes for 99, and proceeds to drive carriage 99 furiously along two miles of street in Washington. He does not discover his mistake until he has attempted to steal the kiss, upon which he is given in charge by the lady occupant, Miss June Annesley, with whom Lord Kintire had previously fallen in love. Appearing at the Court to give evidence against the coachman, Miss Annesley denies abduction, but blushingly admits the kiss, and in the result James Osborne is fined 35 dollars. Favourably impressed by the appearance and behaviour of the charged coachman, Miss Annesley pays his fine and writes him a note offering him the place as her groom. In order to be near his lady-love and to carry out the joke his lordship determines to accept the proposal. Act. II. finds Lord Kintire duly installed as groom to Miss Annesley at Chevy Chase. He greatly advances in the estimation of his mistress by pulling her safely off her runaway horse. James, however, refuses to wait at table, and proves a difficult fellow-servant to work with. Having lost his fortune by gambling at Monte Carlo, Colonel Annesley, father of June, has agreed to sell plans of fortifications for 20,000 dollars to a Russian count named Karloff, and the final arrangements for handing over the plans are overheard by James. Miss June thanks James very tenderly for saving her life. She realises he has occupied some higher position, and her suspicions being aroused she asks Nancy (Kintire's sister-in-law) to bring a photograph of Lord Kintire without a beard. Nancy and June put their heads together and determine to unmask the false groom. James is sent for, but as he has been mending a stove pipe his hands are covered with soot, and when Nancy appears to identify him as Lord Kintire, he rapidly passes his grimy hands over his face and is quite unrecognisable. Outwitted in this attempt to prove the identity, Miss June, in Act III. is waiting for the arrival of the photograph. James is made to wait at dinner, and is sent to bring a packet containing a portrait of Bob Kintire without a beard. Miss June, in a second attempt to prove James a fraud, opens the packet, only to find the picture of a bald-headed baby—the only photo of Bob without a beard. Count Karloff now appears again, and in offering the 20,000 dollars demands also the hand of Miss June. In desperation Colonel Annesley is tempted to accept the money, but the demand with threats for his daughter's hand is more than the Colonel can bear, and he strikes the Count. James now appears to refer the Count to a high official of State, who is waiting for him. The Count, thinking that James is in the Secret Service, at once withdraws. Lord Kintire now gives up his masquerading, and a very pretty love scene takes place between Lord Kintire and Miss June, which ends in their betrothal.

The representation of the piece was heartily enjoyed. Mr. Bourchier played the part of Osborne, the coachman, in a calm, imperturable manner that had an irresistibly humorous effect. He has much funny business in the Court scene, where he proved a most unruly prisoner and quite a rival to Sam Weller in smartness and repartee. As the deferential groom, too, he was very funny, and his appearance as an improvised nigger especially caused peals of laughter, and cheers that brought the distinguished actor back many times with face still blackened. Miss Pamela Gaythorne as June Annesley proved a popular hit. Delightfully bright and animated, she entered into the spirit of the part, played without a trace of affectation, and won the unstinted applause of the audience. The other parts were all rendered in sound and capable fashion, and the production gave proof of every future success.

MRS. LEWIS WALLER SUED.

The case of Wilkes v. Waller came before His Honour Judge Woodfall in the Westminster County Court on Friday afternoon, Aug. 7. It was a claim by a theatrical and variety agent against Mrs. Lewis Waller, the well-known actress, for commission on an engagement.

Mr. Simner was counsel for the plaintiff, whose case was that his client secured an engagement for defendant at the Pavilion, Glasgow, at £150 for a week and £12 10s. for one matinée. She performed, and was paid £162 10s. On that plaintiff claimed the usual agent's commission of 10 per cent., of which 2½ per cent. went to Mr. Lloyd, the manager of the hall.

The defendant conducted her case in person, and early in her statement was gently pulled up as she was relating what could not be admitted as evidence. Judge Woodfall took great pains to explain the position to her—that as the case stood there was no defence to the action. She said it was represented to her that there would be two matinées paid for, but that was a matter for a counter-claim. If she wished to make a counter-claim and call Mr. Lloyd, he would grant an adjournment.

Eventually it was agreed that the case should be adjourned on defendant paying the amount claimed into court. If, after taking advice, she decided not to go on, then judgment would be entered for the plaintiffs with costs.

Miss Elsie Forster has made an encouraging first attempt at juvenile lead, this week playing the child of twelve in the third act and the charming girl of eighteen in Acts 4 and 5 of In the Midst of Life at the Theatre Royal, Aston, Birmingham. The young actress was highly complimented on her appearance and rendering of the dual-rôle.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

The Girls of Gottenberg was produced at the Gaiety Theatre on May 15 last year, and afterwards had a long and successful career at that house. The cast on that occasion included Mr. George Grossmith, jun., as Otto, Mr. Robert Nainby as Brittlbottl, Mr. Edmund Payne as Max Moddelkopf, and Miss Gertie Millar as Mitzi. Previous to despatching the present company on a tour to the principal provincial cities, Mr. George Edwardes has given them a fortnight's season at the Adelphi, the twelve nights commencing on Monday, when the popular musical play was again received with loud laughter and enthusiastic applause. The company is happy in retaining the possession of that tower of humorous strength Mr. Edmund Payne, whose irresistibly droll impersonation of the comic hairdresser sends the house into roars and screams of laughter. He is particularly funny in the last act, when the intrigues of Max Moddelkopf culminate in a series of absurd embarrassments. Mr. Lawrence Grossmith plays Otto, Prince of Saxe-Hildesheim, with an easy grace and a neat and quiet comedy that are very effective; and the part of the Burgomaster's daughter, Clementine, has a very quaint and artistic exponent in Miss Maisie Gay, a winning comedienne with a natural style and a humorous emphasis that is never overdone. Miss Thelma Raye is full of spontaneous gaiety and activity as Elsa. Miss Florence Phillips is a very agreeable, alert, and prepossessing Lucille, and her dance in the second act is a great success. Happy Fanny Fields is absolutely exuberant with electric energy; and her distinctness of utterance and the expression which she puts into her delivery of her lines combine to make her performance an exquisitely piquant one. Her dances, alone and with Mr. Payne, are repeatedly encored, and, altogether, Happy Fanny supplies a most exhilarating addition to an entertainment which already bubbles over with feminine fascination and girlish frivolity. She sparkles and scintillates with smartness, and sings her songs with inspiriting animation. Mr. Fred Payne is genuinely amusing as the Sergeant of Hussars, Brittlbottl; and Mr. Arnold Lucy gives due weight and emphasis to the rôle of Colonel Finkhausen, Mr. Fred Allandale making Albrecht sufficiently smart and conceited for the character and acting with skill and alertness. Mr. Douglas Munro is duly demonstrative as the Burgomaster; and Mr. Charles Brown repeats his extravagantly effective impersonation of Adolf. The scenery, by Mr. Alfred Terraine and Messrs. Joseph and Phil Harker, well bears a sound inspection; and the costumes, designed by Percy Anderson, again please the eye, as the strains of Mr. Philip Braham's competent orchestra delight the ear. Mr. Edward Royce has produced the piece for Mr. George Edwardes with care and ability.

"I remember," writes Mr. Butler Stanhope to us, "the late Henry Irving's first visit to the city of Dublin. He was engaged as juvenile leading gentleman to appear at the Queen's Theatre, then under the management of Mr. Henry Webb, who appeared in London afterwards with his brother, Chas. Webb, as the Two Dromios. Irving's opening part was that of Frank Friskly in The Boots at the Swan. Friskly has to speak outside before he enters on the stage, 'Upstairs is he? Then I'll find him?' The moment Irving appeared he was greeted with a perfect storm of hisses, shouts, and groans; the audience refused to listen to a single word. The manager had to come on the stage and endeavour to appease the angry 'gods,' who would not be silenced, but kept on shouting out the name of the actor who had left the previous week owing to some disagreement with the management. He had been a tremendous favourite with the habitués of the theatre. They wanted him back, and refused to listen either to the new actor or the manager. 'The actor you call for,' cried the angry manager, 'shall never again appear at this theatre. You have crushed the sensibilities of this young actor. This uproar is a perfect disgrace, and I shall shut up the gallery altogether!' 'Arrah, shure, you can't afford to do that, Mister Webb!' cried some of the 'gods.' Eventually Irving left, and the other actor was reinstated. Some years elapsed. Irving had created for himself a name which had become a household word, and had become a great tragedian. His next visit to Dublin was to the Theatre Royal, where he opened in Hamlet. After the performance students from Trinity College and the townspeople assembled in their thousands, waiting for him to appear. His carriage was in readiness to take him to his hotel. The moment he was seated the horses were taken out of the shafts and the students drew him through the streets, which were lined with people, with bands playing and a big torchlight procession. He was escorted, amidst deafening cheers, to his hotel, where he was called on for a speech, and the same ovation awaited him each evening during his stay."

An anecdote which illustrates Irving's readiness of repartee is told by Mr. Alfred Turner. When the production of The Medicine Man was in preparation at the Lyceum, Irving played the part of the strange medico, who had a solitary affection for some "little yellow birds," which he kept in his surgery. When at last the property man had procured a cage for the purpose, it was bran-new, and there were no evidences that it had ever been used as an aviary. On Irving complaining that it looked too clean, the zealous property master ran for a brush of whitewash and made four or five gigantic "droppings" on the floor and perches of the cage. "That is worse still," said Irving, much annoyed. "It is canaries that I am supposed to be keeping—not eagles!"

His Highness the Sultan of Zanzibar witnessed the performance of The Mikado at the Savoy Theatre on the evening of the 7th inst.

IRVING IN INTIMACY.

Time has mellowed our estimate of the late Sir Henry Irving, and it is a weighty testimony to the intrinsic beauty of the actor's character that, when the excited admiration of his lifetime has moderated into affectionate regret, the dead man remains as admirable and as lovable as ever. Mr. Walter Herries Pollock's book "Impressions of Henry Irving," which was recently published by Longmans, Green, & Co., is full of the interest which attaches to intimacy with genius. Mr. H. B. Irving in his Preface remarks: "Walter Pollock knew my father first at that critical time when he had just set his foot on the ladder of fame; and he saw and talked with him during those succeeding years in which, in the teeth of opposition, less scrupulous and considerate than the successful actor of to-day is called upon to encounter, the 'fashionable tragedian' fought his way to full and general recognition. Mr. Pollock writes as a friend; his writing will be none the less interesting and trustworthy for that. No man was ever more loved and regarded by a few good and tried friends than my father. It is well that those of them who will should tell us something of Henry Irving."

And this book is full of actuality, appreciative understanding, and kindly and sympathetic humour. The "little weaknesses" which are described as delightfully harmless, and very agreeable. They endear Irving to us by their gentle humanity, and one rises from the perusal of these impressions, "gathered in public and private during a friendship of many years," with even a better opinion of the great actor than before. Mr. Pollock does not represent him as above all imperfection, but he shows him as always simple, natural, and sincere. How pleasant, for instance, is the following revelation:—

"When he had decided, after considerable hesitation, to produce Romeo and Juliet, he had further and deeper misgivings as to whether he should himself play Romeo or Mercutio, and his final decision was mainly due to a feeling, probably correct, that the public would expect to see him as Romeo. His rendering of the part was not one to which as a whole any honest critic could give unqualified approval, although in some scenes, particularly those with the Friar and with the Apothecary, he played up to his best mark. That he was among the critics who did not think well of the whole performance will now be seen.

"After he had made up his mind, he came one evening to see my wife, myself, and my late brother-in-law, Captain Pipon, R.N., who was staying with us. After some talk to which the foregoing observations are due, he sat down to read to us many of the scenes in which Romeo appears. He read at half tone, yet gave its full force and meaning to every character, and it was evident throughout that his conception of the part of Romeo was instinct with beauty and truth. He indicated fully all the passion, all the moods, all the impulse, and all the weakness of the character, and, in a subtle fashion, brought all the movement and life of the various scenes before one's mind's eye. I doubt if he ever had a more rapt audience, and certainly not the least rapt of the three was the sailor, who was a very keen student of Shakespeare. When the glamour of the reading had come all too soon to an end the reader put down his book, looked round at us, and said with a half-humorous sigh: 'There, that is what I want to make of Romeo. Unluckily, I know that on the stage I cannot come anywhere near it.' He waved away all attempts at protest and repeated, 'No, no. I know I can't do it. How I wish I could! But I must do the best I can.' When he had gone back to his rooms Captain Pipin expressed the feeling of all three hearers in the words, 'If only he could play Romeo as he read it he would set the town ablaze. But what a Mercutio he would make!'"

There is a revelation in the account given of the workings of Irving's mind with respect to his Lear. Of this Mr. Pollock writes:—

"I have no reason to suppose that Irving ever really altered the conception of a part when once he had thoroughly studied it, save in one truly amazing instance. Of this instance I am told by my old friend Mr. F. Tyars, a thoroughly excellent and accomplished actor, for very many years one of Irving's most trusted lieutenants. On one occasion he, as Irving's understudy, played King Arthur, and a fine, dignified, chivalrous performance he made of it. I learn from him that the exception to Irving's general rule was actually in the tremendous character of King Lear, and that the change was definitely adopted in the time between Irving's arrival at the theatre to dress and the rise of the curtain on the first night of the production. Such a transformation is as bewildering to the student as one imagine it must have been to Irving's play-fellows. It fully accounts for the strangely-hesitating touch which was noticeable in Irving's treatment of the earlier scenes on that night, and which never wholly disappeared afterwards. The swiftness of mind which decided so portentous an alteration in so short a time could hardly meet with an equally swift response from other faculties trained through many rehearsals to obey a different command from heart and intellect. Nor, I think, can this 'handy-dandy' process have failed to affect the actor's reflections on the part and on his own performance of it as time went on. Therefore, it may well have had something to do with the fact that he never thought of reviving the play. For his own sake this was matter for rejoicing to those who knew how much 'more than common' the acting of the character moved and shook him.

"But nothing here said is in contradiction of what has been put forward as to his never-ceasing study of every part he undertook, whereof a further instance comes into my mind as I write, and may therefore, perhaps, be here mentioned. It was told to me by my mother who, during a revival of Hamlet, observed, with friendly concern, that he was looking harassed and worn. 'Ah!' he said, 'that's nothing; only want of sleep last night. As you know, with acting and with the management of the theatre I have not too many hours for sleep, and I was kept awake by thinking of that poor young fellow.' 'Of whom?' 'Why, of Hamlet! Think of him, all alone with his misery in that abominable court, and you won't wonder that it kept me awake.' This is noteworthy, too, as showing that to Irving as to Macready the great characters of the drama were not abstract ideas to be dissected, or ingenious imaginations to be turned to the player's account in a showy performance, but living, thinking, feeling beings to enlist sympathy, study, penetration whereby the actor might call up their semblance as in a mirror to the very best of his power."

Irving thought that the effect of his Othello was marred by the disappointment of the audience with his costume:—

"His Othello was apparelled as a Venetian General, and thus he was shown in a beautiful water-colour sketch by Sir John Tenniel, which before and during the first performance of Othello and, to the best of my recollection, ever afterwards, hung in Irving's dressing-room. After this sketch his armour and costume were designed and executed, and very well they became him.

"The effect on the audience, however, was not identical with that produced on some approving critics. Irving seemed always to have, apart from what reached him by hearsay, a kind of sixth sense as to what an audience was thinking and feeling—a component part, no doubt, of the magnetic contact he established between them and himself, or, if you will, a corollary to it. Not long after the first night of the play I noted that he had introduced decidedly marked hints of Oriental costume in the scenes where armour was not the only wear. He explained this to me by saying, 'The fact is "they" expect to see Othello as something entirely Eastern and mysterious; they've always thought of him in that way, and they don't at all understand finding him dressed like the other characters in the play. I ought to have thought of that and given up the idea, which, as you know, I greatly liked, of correctness.' The concessions made were no doubt judicious from this point of view, but Irving thought, rightly I imagine, that a certain amount of irreparable harm to the production's success had been done by the first surprise or disappointment of spectators who had expected to see a thoroughly Moorish Moor."

The following anecdote would be incredible if it were not so well authenticated:—

"I recall," writes Mr. Pollock, "yet another illustration of the actor's 'dual personality,' which reminds one of Garrick cracking jokes at the wing between the passionate outbursts of Lear, taken from the first representation of Othello at the Lyceum. It was told to me, not by Irving himself, but by the actress who was then playing Desdemona, and who clearly did not believe in the 'dual' theory, since she found its exemplification somewhat upsetting. 'What,' she said in pathetic tones, 'what do you think he said when he was supposed to be stifling me behind the curtains? Can you guess?'

"I replied, naturally, that I could not.

"'Why, he asked me what my mother had ordered for supper. Think of it!'

"I did think of it; and came to the conclusion that with Garrick and with Irving this thrusting of trivial matters into the interstices of a great emotion may at first sight seem (as it did to Dr. Johnson with his 'Punch has no feelings') evidence of shallowness, but is, in fact, a temporary and much-needed respite for an actor who has been, and immediately again will be, at the highest strain of mental and physical intensity, in feeling and expressing a storm of passion."

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

After a production at Stafford on July 27 and last week at Farnworth, the above new play reached the Theatre Royal, Tyldesley, this week. It opens with a scene in the grounds of The Grange, where preparations are going on for a marriage between Guy Manor alias Guy Clavering and Nell Paget. Ned Merrick, who also loves Nell, is supposed to be in America, but having made a large fortune there, returns home and arrives at the Grange shortly before the hour appointed for the wedding. Ned has brought back with him to England a child called Nance Manor, whom he has learned is the granddaughter of Allen Paget, her mother being dead. He has discovered that her father is Guy Clavering, who had previously married Nell Paget's elder sister, and then deserted her. The projected wedding is in consequence abandoned. Subsequently Clavering murders old Allen Paget, who is blind, but possesses great wealth, and tries to throw suspicion on Ned Merrick by wiping his bloodstained knife on the latter's coat. Caught in the act by little Nance, he reveals the fact that he is her father, and by this means extracts from her a promise not to betray him. Ned Merrick is arrested and sentenced to death for the crime of which he is innocent. Nance obtains means to see the condemned prisoner in his cell, and tells him all she knows. Ned advises the girl how she can assist him to secure his liberty, and Ned makes good his escape. Finally Clavering and Ned meet in the grounds of The Grange, where a struggle takes place, and the villain is shot dead. The play has many capital situations, and interest is well maintained throughout. It is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Day's company. Mr. Arthur Chisholm acts with commendable force and earnestness as Ned Merrick; Mr. Eustace Day submits a very capable performance of Allen Paget, and a powerful characterisation of Guy Manor is given by Mr. Fred Lloyd; Miss May Day is entitled to much credit for her clever delineation of Nance Manor; Miss Dorothy Routh is effective as Nell Paget; Marjory Hulmes is well represented by Miss Elsie Shelton, and Miss Eva St. Vincent is admirable as Jane Manor. Genuine humour is supplied by Mr. Charles Ninian (Major Hulmes), Mr. Leonard Harrison (Albert St. Everamond), and Mr. Fred Ramsdale (Sam Holland). The piece is prettily costumed and effectively staged.

THE QUEEN'S, DUBLIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In the interest of Mr. Ellis Jones and the Joseph family, who for upwards of half a century were patentees and proprietors of the Queen's Royal Theatre, Dublin, we think that it is only fair, in view of some of the statements which were made in connection with the recent application by Mr. Marriott Watson for a new patent for the theatre, that the following facts should be placed before the public:—

1. The theatre, which was then known as the Adelphi Theatre, was acquired by the late Mr. John Charles Joseph in the year 1844, and the building was remodelled at his expense and reopened in that year under the name of the "Queen's Royal Theatre."

2. The interest of the Joseph family was purchased by Mr. Ellis Jones in the year 1892 for the sum of £5,000.

3. In the year 1893 Mr. Ellis Jones acquired a new patent for the theatre, and expended a further sum of over £5,000 in alterations and improvements to the building, such alterations and improvements being carried out in accordance with the city bye-laws.

4. That the improvements referred to included the installation of a double fireproof curtain, which was either the first of its kind or among the first to be installed in any of the Dublin theatres.

5. That on April 6, 1908, Mr. Ellis Jones made an offer in writing to the Provost and Senior Fellows of Trinity College (the landlords of the theatre) to take a lease of the theatre and the four adjoining houses for ninety years, at the yearly rent of £350, and undertook to expend £6,000 in improving the property, and in making that offer it was pointed out to the College that Mr. Jones considered he had a prior claim to consideration to anybody else by reason of the fact that he had been in occupation of the theatre for a long number of years, that he had paid £5,000 for the interest in the theatre and patent, and that he had expended more than another £5,000 in renovations.

6. That the reply which the Bursar of Trinity College made to Mr. Jones's offer was that negotiations with Mr. Watson had been finally concluded in February, 1908.

7. That at the recent inquiry held at Dublin Castle in connection with the granting of the new patent to Mr. Marriott Watson it was stated that the date of the contract between him and Trinity College was June 15, 1908.—Yours faithfully,

HAMILTON AND CRAIG.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

LONDON PAVILION.

An entertaining novelty in Mr. Frank Gleniser's programme at the London Pavilion is the smartly-enacted interlude given by Terry and Lambert, entitled "English Types through American Eyes." This exceedingly clever lady and gentleman first impersonate a London cabby and his fare—a vivacious and daintily-attired damsel who decidedly gets the better of a verbal encounter with "Gentleman Joe"; and next represent a Lancashire lass and her sweetheart, admirable and amusing impressions that won loud applause, as did also their singing of "Sally in our alley." Their most humorous contribution was, perhaps, that in which they submitted an American's idea of an English lord and an Englishman's impression of a Yankee heiress. Mr. Terry's portrayal of a penniless peer, with a "skinful of blue blood," and his partner's impersonation of a slangy American girl who persuades him to propose, were droll caricatures, the dialogue being very laughable. The clever and versatile couple concluded their highly-appreciated turn with impressions of a coster and his "donah," and the flattering reception accorded them left no doubt as to the success of their latest creation. Mlle. Alexia, in "The She-Devil and the Demon," continues to arouse enthusiasm and admiration by her wonderful whirlwind dancing, valuable assistance being given her by M. Orfeo, as the demon lover; and the Darras Brothers submit one of the cleverest equilibristic acts at present to be seen on the halls, praticularly skilful being the ease and sureness with which one of the twain balances himself on his head on a swinging trapeze.

Mr. Allan Shaw's entertainment quite justifies its description on the programme as a "masterpiece of modern coin manipulation," a demonstration of digital dexterity which must have taken years of patient practice to have brought it to its present state of perfection. Mr. Shaw has a pleasant way of taking the audience into his confidence while producing and vanishing coins, and the wonderful control he has over the muscles of his hand is shown in his concluding item, his entire turn being greatly enjoyed. Mr. Gilbert Girard submits some most realistic imitations of various musical instruments, &c., his canine mimicry being particularly like the real thing. Rose and Challoner have an amusing playlet in The Porter and the Singer, the male of the duo contributing some appreciated mimicry of Mr. Gus Elen and Mr. T. E. Dunville; Thorpe and Coe submit their admirably enacted comedy sketch, My Burglar; and Haines, Borthwick, and company also arouse much merriment with their farcical playlet, Half-a-Dollar.

A quartet of comedians in the bill who long since won fame as funny men are Mr. Tom Leamore, Mr. T. E. Dunville, Mr. Harry Ford, and Mr. Edwin Boyde. The first-mentioned has a comical "Rajah" song, but his most humorous contribution is his droll impersonation of a broken-down swell. An impossible dude is also a most mirth-provoking personage, as portrayed by Mr. Harry Ford, who likewise compels laughter with "Can't he take my word." Mr. T. E. Dunville is well supplied with comic material in "Actions speak louder than words" and "Sticky-back, the postman," the last-mentioned a particularly funny number; and the droll style and songs of Mr. Edwin Boyde create the usual hilarity. The refined instrumental act given by those two accomplished musicians, Florence and Lillian, is keenly appreciated, the fine violin playing of one of the ladies being loudly acclaimed; Mr. Eli Hudson, the well-known and accomplished flute and piccolo soloist, is awarded a flattering reception; and other enjoyable items in the well-diversified and alluring programme are given by Clare and Pastor, comedy artists; Mr. Gene Selby, comedian and bone soloist; the Pavilion Girls, in their attractive songs and dances; Miss May Henderson, the popular darkey impersonator and clever dancer; and the Three Laurels, in their acrobatic act.

THE COLISEUM.

It was in 1849 that Alfred Wigan adapted Le Père de la Débutante under the title of The First Night, and on the same plot Henry J. Byron founded his comedy of The Prompter's Box, in which he played Fitzaltamont, the crushed tragedian. In producing a tabloid version—Behind the Scenes—of the original at the Coliseum Mr. Albert Chevalier—who, by the way, has been drawing packed houses—has not erred in the way of diffuseness or business. His treatment of the character of Achille Talma Dufard has been extremely judicious, and it is interesting to note that the farcical element which has so often disfigured the performances of Wigan's adaptation mentioned above is very much subordinated to the legitimate comedy vein. There is no clowning, and therefore the humour is legitimate and produced by legitimate means. The cast of Behind the Scenes is as follows:—

Achille Talma Dufard ..Mr. Albert Chevalier
Mr. Flat .....Mr. E. W. Garden
Mr. Vamp .....Mr. Harry Brett
Mr. Parnassus .....Mr. Arthur Brankston
George .....Mr. Bertie Baxter
Celia Fitz-James .....Miss Daisy Irvine
Rose Dufard .....Miss Mabel Garden

Mr. Chevalier adopts a wonderful make-up for the part of the proud old father who proclaims with all the dignity of an ancient sociétaire that he is artiste of the Théâtre Français. His "tickling" of the vanity of the author, Mr. Parnassus, is delicious, and there is always the note of pathos running through the impersonation. We never lose sight of the old man's abiding affection and tenderness for his daughter, and we cannot fail to recognise that he is instinctively a gentleman. A most interesting début in the piece is that of Miss Mabel Garden, whose sire and grandsire have assisted to make theatrical history. Miss Garden is fresh, ingenuous, and winsome, and as Rose Dufard wins sympathy on her first entrance. She gives every promise of sustaining the high reputation of her family. Her father, Mr. E. W. Garden, plays the manager, Mr. Flat, with all the assurance of wide experience. Mr. Harry Brett is amusingly fussy as Vamp, the stage-manager, who guides the "storm" at the Corinthian Theatre, and Miss Daisy Irvine is duly haughty and autocratic as Miss Celia Fitz-James, the established star, who walks out of the theatre and gives the débutante her chance. Mr. Arthur Brankston emphasises cleverly the egregious vanity of the author.

A great success is scored by that excellent comedian Mr. John L. Shine in The Actor's Art, which is vivified by his series of remarkable impersonations of a Lancashire man, a Scotch elder, and a coster. Incidentally, also, he doubles the parts of an unsuccessful solicitor and a briefless barrister, the comic confusion resulting being possible only through his marvellously realistic make-up and powers of mimicry. The public have welcomed many fine artists at the Coliseum, but none more accomplished than John L. Shine.

Time was when serpentine dancing was done without serpents; but, as the tragedy of Cleopatra is associated with an asp, Miss Odette Valéry in her impersonation of the Egyptian Queen, fondles a sinuous snake which twines itself round her beautiful shoulders and neck. The dramatic strength of the production is undeniable, and Miss Valéry expresses with eloquent gesture the grief and determination of Cleopatra, but the spectacle of the coiling reptile is not exactly entrancing. The compiler of the programme is slightly incorrect in his natural history. The asp and other poisonous ophidians bite, and do not "sting." We know that Shakespeare makes Shylock say "Wouldst thou have a serpent sting thee twice?" But the natural history current in Elizabethan days was not for all time.

Other artists include Maud and Sydney Wood, comedy artists, in Tennis Courtship; Eldra and his well-trained dog Prince; Ross and Lewis, in an American idiosyncrasy; Miss Florence Maymen, in her burlesque coon business; Mr. James Moran, Scotch humorist; Lydia Yeamans (accompanied by Mr. Fred J. Titus), who brings the house down in her imitation of a kiddy reciting, and sings "Sally in our Alley"; Belloni's cockatoos, Mlle. De Lilo, the Parisian star; the Cole de Losse Duo; and Julius Tannen, who is a quaint American story-teller.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

The most important item in a lengthy and particularly fine programme at the Shepherd's Bush Empire during this week has been a new sketch, The Brigands of Tarragona, produced for the first time on Monday evening last. Author and producer are one—to wit, that well-known and popular comedian and writer for the music hall stage, Mr. Herbert Darnley. It may be said at once that this new sketch, which has four scenes, is extremely funny, and that its progress called forth roars of laughter, and was undoubtedly very much to the taste of the audience; which, of course, is almost everything. If an audience likes a turn, then that turn is good enough, and The Brigands of Tarragona was certainly liked. Mr. Darnley has not, perhaps, devoted so much attention to the invention of a plot as to the invention of humorous business, but the slight connection between the scenes and the lack of coherent dramatic action militate not in the least against the success of his latest effort. The four scenes are The Tarragona Barracks, The Colonel's Quarters, The Tarragona Express, and The Brigand's Mountain Home. The cast is as follows:—

Pepo .....Mr. Chas. H. Bell
Nipo .....Mr. H. Snowdon
Banano .....Mr. Lowry Leslie
Caraneta .....Miss Annette Sellens
Colonel Montano .....Mr. Wallace Bosco
Clarissa .....Miss Clara Bell

As suggested above, the sketch is chiefly remarkable for its funny business, which is almost entirely of the "chasing round" and "knockabout" type, but which, all the same, is really very laughable. In the first scene we have a brigand hanging round, anxious to abduct the Colonel's daughter, an enterprise which is unsuccessful; the second is devoted entirely to the examination of recruits by the Colonel; in the third we witness soldiers boarding a train en route for the brigands; and in the fourth we see them arrive at the brigands' lair. The whole business winds up with a most comic fight. Praise for the success of the sketch is chiefly due to those who play in it, in particular, Mr. Chas. H. Bell. Mr. Bell was on the go all the time, and always funny; a very bright and inventive comedian, Mr. H. Snowdon, also did very well, and Mr. Lowry Leslie and Mr. Wallace Bosco were quite good. Miss Annette Sellens as the Colonel's daughter had one or two numbers to sing, which she did extremely well, and Miss Clara Bell was picturesque and graceful as the brigand's wife. The dancing of the Tarragona Dancing Girls was also distinctly worthy of mention.

The remainder of the programme includes the Poluski Brothers, who are going better than ever, and have some new business, which includes the throwing on a screen of some most funny "views"; the Brothers Redmond, acrobatic comedians ("Willie, come here"); Charlene and Charlene, in a particularly good act, expert juggling and playing on the xylophone; Mlle. de Dio, in her beautiful dances, including "Terpsichore's Dream"; the Crown Trio of speciality vocalists, very good; C. J. Johnson, "champion cake-walker of the western parts of New York and Paris"; Leslie Harris, very funny in his entertainment at the piano; Fred Lincoln, in his clever scena My Pal Jemmy; Miss Marion Scott, a dainty comedienne; and the American Bioscope, showing a series of pictures, entitled A Bird of Freedom. It is not to be wondered at that at the second house on Monday this lengthy programme lasted until within a few minutes of midnight Mr. E. P. Morgan, late of the Hippodrome, Manchester, is the acting-manager at this house, and the ever-busy Mr. Jess Smith his genial assistant.

BOW PALACE.

Mr. Leo Dryden is winning high favour at Mr. Macnaghten's magnificent East-end hall this week. Mr. Dryden's song-scenas are well known and well liked. He first appears dressed as a cowboy in a cabin scene, and sings a song, "A White Man"—which, we are told, was suggested by Mr. Milton Royle's play of that name—from which we learn that the singer is proud of belonging to the race the distinctive colour of whose skins is fair. Mr. Dryden's second song is "Good-bye, bachelor boys," and his third is "Lucy Manette." Here he appears as the familiar Sydney Carton, and gives ample evidence of his fine voice and expressive manner. The audience is not slow to appreciate Mr. Dryden either as an actor or as a vocalist. Cherry Lass, comedienne and dancer, does some capital coon singing and dancing, her ditties, "Cherry" and "Mr. Wright," being extremely well received. Mr. Sydney Mason and Miss Theresa Moore present the dramatic episode, The Usurer, and in it Mr. Mason as Herbert Dane, the hero, and Miss Moore as Mrs. Dane act uncommonly well. They are well supported by Messrs. H. Russel, Syd Leslie, Harry Arnold, and E. J. Harris. The Desmonds submit a most attractive illustrated song act, the prettily sentimental numbers rendered being "Two blue eyes," "Daddy's little girl," and "My sweet Elaine." The Lannons distinguish themselves as duettists and pedestal dancers; and the Sisters Thurban as vocalists and instrumentalists in their songs, "Won't you float with us?" and "Drummer Girl," prove very popular. Miss Nellie Willis is a refined comedienne and dancer with a most pleasing style, and her ditties, "Pack your trunk to-night" and "Why don't you come round and see me?" are immensely appreciated. The Roxbys have an excellent comedy speciality in which their voices are heard to advantage in "Come back again," "Between the trees," and "There she is." Agustin and Hartley engage in some clever barrel jumping in their act, Athletes at Play; and Fields and Lewis give a delightful turn as comedy duettists. Raymond's Bio-tableaux display several interesting pictures. The comfort of the audience and the general conduct of affairs are ably looked after by Mr. Charles Harvey, the popular manager.

EMPRESS, BRIXTON.

An entertaining and high-class programme is current at this popular surburban hall, and the management certainly cannot complain of lack of support on the part of the public. On the evening of our visit the house presented a most animated appearance, seating accommodation being at a premium. Early in the evening Miss Florence Schuberth sings with much success, and has to listen to much applause on concluding. Maxey and Pete, a couple of trick cyclists, have assuredly adopted originality as a password. The easy and graceful manner in which they perform many daring tricks clearly goes to show that no small amount of time and pains must have been spent in bringing their act up to a pitch of excellence. The comedy merchant especially is a most quaint individual, and roars upon roars of laughter greet his efforts to master the mysteries of trick cycling.

Mlle. Zoula Boncha, described on the programme as a wonderful child Salome dancer, gives three dances entitled 'The Snake Charmer," "The Dance of the Egyptian Mummy," and "The Spring Fairy." A more familiar and more popular turn is that given by Dora Lyric, a charming comedienne, who sings a couple of numbers in a taking manner. Those chosen are excellent vehicles for displaying her vocal abilities, and the choruses, and especially that of her second number, the popular "I'm leaving Monte Carlo," are right nobly taken up by the boys on the top shelf. S. and G. Auer, a most versatile couple, piece together and make into pictures numerous pieces of rag. This is very clever; but a great asset in their performance is the remarkable acrobatic ability displayed by the male member, much laughter being evoked by his many funnosities.

Fred and Arthur Conquest and Co. make a decided hit with their farcical sketch, entitled Something for Nothing. In this much scope is given these clever brothers for a display of their talent, and it is almost needless to say that whilst they are in possession of the stage there is one long continuous laugh. Fred, as Old Grabbit, the moneylender, is admirably placed, and Arthur as Simon Soppy, the office-boy, has a part that suits him to a "T." Ted Cowan, in a droll manner, sings a couple of capital numbers, which are evidently much appreciated. James Brady, tenor vocalist, has certainly chosen his songs well, and it is a pity that time does not permit of his giving the encore demanded by the house.

A prime Brixton favourite is Will Evans, the signalling of his number alone being the cause of a perfect hurricane of applause. He is giving his protean sketch, entitled, Richard Turpin, Esq. As a mirth-maker this is great, and kind friends in front are fairly convulsed with the quaint interpretation of the various characters he is supposed to play single-handed. Edna Latonne, a male impersonator, sings a capital song about "Old friends." Looking immaculate in evening clothes, she scores an instant success, and her style leaves little to be desired. The whistling of Ted E. Box is wonderful, and he must certainly take a prominent place in the ranks of sifflеurs. Amongst other items in the programme may be mentioned Roxborough and Wright, in a sketch, entitled My Little One; Lee and Kingston; and, lastly, Rose Atherton and Co., in a funny sketch, entitled Murphy's Affinity. A pleasant evening is brought to a conclusion with some interesting pictures on the Bioscope.

THE BEDFORD.

When we visited this cosy hall on Monday evening we found a packed audience, for Mr. B. Pearce Lucas's patrons never seem to be drawn away from their favourite resort, even in the summer evenings, and the management can always be relied on to provide a first-class programme. Heading the bill is a dramatic sketch of the Reign of Terror period, entitled A Daughter of the Revolution, which is presented by Miss Georgette Thierry's company. It tells of an actress who has attracted the attentions of Maurice Seulis, an aristocrat, and she knowing some facts of his past life taunts him with it, and hands him over to the grim tribunal of the sans-culottes. It is a well-written little play, and Miss Thierry plays the character of Marcelle, the actress, with great skill. Mr. Bernard Liell too is to be highly complimented on his portrayal of Maurice, his acting at the end of the play and his final exit being especially fine. The whole is well mounted, and has a cordial reception nightly.

Miss Dulcie Laing is a most winsome lady, whose dancing is far above the average, and her skipping-rope dance won her tremendous applause. The Harleys present a comic absurdity, entitled The Navvies' Rest, and it is of the most mirthful description. They give some really clever and entirely new tricks on bicycles, and make a very big success. There are few ventriloquists, if any, better than Coram, who, with his "pal" Jerry, makes his appearance here. His patter is most diverting, and the little jokes with the audience are very amusing, and his welcome is quite a hearty one. Marie Goodwin is a bright comedienne and scores with her songs, especially her second number, "Stupid Mr. Cupid." A very smart hand-balancing act is given by the Stowe Brothers, whose work is all neatly done, and the catch from the spring-board is very striking and novel—in fact the whole turn is uncommonly fresh and interesting. A comedian with a style of his own is Mr. Walter Wallis, who soon has his audience in a roar of laughter with his song, "I see you've got your high hat on," and he makes himself so popular that his audience are loath to part from him. Miss Amy Elvira, a finished artist, sings a couple of songs in fetching style. One of them, "My Lady Molly," is an extremely pretty number. Lambert and Butler are a couple of patter comedians who sing and dance themselves into high favour and keep the house full of amusement. Charles Sloman is a comedian who cannot fail to please; he has much amusing patter, and his song "Waiting" has a chorus which the gallery soon caught hold of and joined in. Some neat dancing is given by Davis and Dene, who make a big success. Those old favourites, the Kimberley Boys, are also on the programme, and are as irresponsible and diverting as ever with their new business and songs. The bioscope completes the bill. Mr. George R. Hatley and his orchestra add much to the success, and the courteous acting-manager, Mr. Donald Brown, is as usual well to the fore to welcome his many friends.

HACKNEY EMPIRE.

An exceptionally good programme is being presented at this popular hall for the current week, and business continues particularly good. At the top of the bill is George Auger and company in an extravaganza entitled Jack the Giant Killer. Mr. Auger, who is billed as the tallest man on earth, finds his physical proportions very useful in depicting the giant, which he does most successfully. He is supported by a company that contains some of the smallest people in the world, and the effect is decidedly humorous. Chief among these is Ernest Rommel, a most acceptable comedian, who plays Jack. He scores a distinct hit. The production causes a good deal of laughter, and must be credited with making a most successful bid for popularity. Fred Kitchen and Frank Lister's company is presenting No. 99, a very clever and highly dramatic trifle. Mr. Lister, who is well known locally for many fine performances, is to be congratulated on a very powerful study of the ex-convict, and is capitally supported, very good being the gentleman who plays the District Attorney. Duncan and Godfrey are appearing in that old favourite of theirs, Me and 'Er, and the humour and semi-tragic elements of the sketch finds a ready response in the audience. Ben Albert does well in two songs, sung in his original style, his reception being very good; Madge Osmond, a male impersonator, goes down very well; Leo Tell is certainly one of the cleverest imitators of musical instruments that has been here, and his "equine conversations" are very realistic, and he gains a good deal of applause; the Eight Lancashire Lads, in songs and dances, meet with their usual success, their turn being very smart; the Haytors in a comedy oddity, The Plumber, make a good impression, laughter being continuous; and Carney and Armstrong in a whistling, singing, and dancing and cross-talk turn scores a success. Their methods have a touch of novelty in them, and their reception is very cordial. The Bioscope is very good this week, and Mr. Walter Greco's fine orchestra is of great service during the evening. Mr. Percy Percival is most courteous in the front of the house.

BARNARD'S, GREENWICH.

Mr. Bert Dent has this week given his patrons a bill of great excellence, as usual, and has been rewarded with very good business. Mr. Randolph King, the clever protean artist, interested all present with his smart impersonations of familiar characters. He was especially successful in the following, viz., a countryman, a celebrated French ventriloquist, a Chinaman, coster, and a miser. He was warmly applauded. Mr. John Parrot contributed a clever turn, consisting mainly of smart and original patter, but he can also—as he puts it—make a noise like a singer. He is very amusing. Miss Susie Dole, an attractive young artist, sings very pleasingly her pretty song, entitled "Little Maid of Sunshine," for the rendering of which she was loudly applauded. Daley and Collins, billed as the funniest couple in the Western Hemisphere, do much to justify their description. Their turn is bright and decidedly funny, the dialogue being crisp and cleverly spoken. Auto, an excellent musician, manipulates with great skill such instruments as the saxophone, concertina, and other popular instruments. The Knick-Knacks contribute a clever duologue entertainment, and also introduce some smart dancing, which is greatly appreciated and warmly applauded. Miss Minnie Hunt sang her song "She is a lady" in a style that wins general approbation. Miss Gladys Hooley appears with great success in her excellent sketch, entitled The Violin Girl. Miss Hooley is responsible for a charming performance, and is capitally supported by her company. The entertainment concludes at each of the two nightly performances with some interesting pictures on the Bioscope. A word of praise is due to the excellent band, so ably conducted by Mr. D. Dealer.

THE SOUTH LONDON.

Legendary lore is put to dramatic use at the South London, where St. George and the Dragon is a prominent item of the current bill. The sketch is presented by Messrs. Fred Ginnett and Wal Pink's company, and gives a version of the doughty deeds of England's patron saint in picturesque fashion. The realms of Beelzebub are shown, and St. George is awakened from a long sleep by a sorceress, who causes him to be clad in a suit of mail and commands a procession of the remaining Six Champions of Christendom to appear before him. In a subsequent scene St. George is found in Egypt, where the fabled encounter with the dragon takes place, ending in the intrepid youth's triumph. Miss Cissie Wade makes a gallant St. George and Miss Dora Gregory declaims her lines effectively as the enchantress. Mr. Harry Valdo plays in whimsical fashion as a quaint denizen of the woods. The dragon is a lifelike property, and its descent upon the stage, with gleaming eyes, flaming mouth, and tail wagging ferociously, is very impressive, and heartily cheered. A striking display is also made by the seven champions, who are mounted on ponies and clad in traditional garb.

One of the foremost exponents of the saltatory art appears in the comely person of My Fancy, whose twinkling feet are watched with delight. Her intricate step and sand dancing positively fascinates the audience, who become completely absorbed in the performance, and express their approval of many a neatly-executed movement in enthusiastic cheers. Jordan and Harvey are again at the South London, and their Hebrew cross-talk creates the usual hilarious effect, their duet about "Solomon" being no less diverting. Mr. Walter King, the quintessence of melancholy, secured many a hearty laugh on Wednesday by the domestic amenities of a much-married man, into the relation of which amusing references to the Variety Sports just concluded managed to creep.

An exhilarating interlude is supplied by a dozen or so of bluejackets called the Union Jack Boys, whose concerted singing and dancing is greatly relished. One lad did very well with a ballad about "Sweet Marie," and another essayed "Love me and the world is mine." Mr. Will Driscoll, announced as the "swell comedian," sings of "Bachelor Boys" in dashing style, and also has an admirably-conceived song in "His one redeeming feature," the sentiment of which makes a direct appeal to the popular ear. The Express Baby, in which many piquant allusions are contained, is represented by Evelyn and Esmond to the accompaniment of uncontrollable laughter. Mr. Leonard Teel makes a hit as a comedian, and Phillips and Merritt are also in the bill, which concludes with a display of interesting pictures by Ruffell's Bioscope. Mr. William Payne, greatly invigorated by a fortnight's holiday at Yarmouth, has resumed his duties as manager.

"THE TOAST OF THE TOWN."

A Dramatic Sketch, by Luke Jellings, presented at the Holborn Empire, on Monday, Aug. 10.

Capt. Roger Staversley ....Mr. Sydney Brough
Lord Ray Tremaine .....Mr. F. D. Yates
Prudence .....Miss Marshall West
Lady Peggy Fordingbridge..Miss Maude Millett

The donning by a young and beautiful lady of masculine attire for the purposes of an affaire d'amour forms no new incident in play and story, but it at least has the advantage of affording an attractive and pretty situation, for the duplicity is of the kind that charms rather than offends the spectator. So when the winsome Lady Peggy Fordingbridge pays a surprise visit to the house of her lover, Lord Tremaine, and finds a letter addressed to a celebrated actress, the idea occurs to her to adopt some disguise, and deceive the amorous nobleman into believing that it is her brother who is confronting him. Previous to this, however, she has induced one Captain Roger Staversley to regard her as the actress, and she arranges with him to face Lord Tremaine as the Hon. Walter Fordingbridge. When his lordship arrives the angry "brother" of the Lady Peggy charges him with unfaithfulness, and in such unmeasured terms does she denounce his conduct that he challenges her to a duel, under the impression that she is a man. Of course, the lady's identity is disclosed after a short bout, and Captain Staversley is agreeably surprised to learn that she herself is Lady Peggy, and that he is her accepted. Miss Maud Millett acts in a most engaging manner as Lady Peggy; and Mr. Sydney Brough makes a fine figure of a soldier as Captain Staversley, and gives us a gallant lover withal. Mr. F. D. Yates submits a capital study of the part of Tremaine; and Miss Marshall West is an acceptable maid.

"A SOUTHERN WEDDING."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Seeing Mr. Francis O'Flynn's letter in The Era of last week respecting the banjo sketch A Southern Wedding, I would like to say that there are so many versions of bells, organs, choirs, &c., all built round the imitation of a parson's voice, that I consider it would be somewhat difficult to say who really was the first to produce a sketch of this particular character, there being so many performers who have worked the idea during the last twenty years.

I remember as a boy in the eighties seeing an itinerant street musician named Billy Mills doing an imitation of a parson's voice on an old cheese-box banjo in Bristol; also Mays and Hunter were doing a similar thing, entitled A Country Church Service. This would be in the nineties. I also have Press cuttings showing I was doing fourteen years ago a similar sketch, in which was introduced the modulations of a parson's voice, with usual bells, &c.

I could enumerate others who were doing similar stuff nearly two decades ago, and it shows the truth of the old saw, "There is nothing new under the sun."—Yours faithfully,

A. VOWLES REEVES.

Denis Murphy, of Elm Park-road, Chelsea, was summoned at Woolwich last week for having driven a motor-car at Lower Market-street, Woolwich, without having a registration mark affixed, and his employer, Fred Karno, of Vaughan-road, Camberwell, was summoned for aiding and abetting in the commission of the offence. It was stated for the police that Murphy was stopped on July 7 while driving a motor-bus, in which were sixteen passengers, and which bore only a maker's identification mark. Murphy told Police-sergeant 25 R that "his guv'nor, Fred Karno," had the car on seven days' trial. Application had been made to Spring Gardens to have it registered, and he (Murphy) had been told that the papers would be sent on. The registration was completed at 2.30 p.m. on July 7.

Mr. Clarke argued that there had been no reasonable opportunity for registering the car. Mr. Barker withdrew the summons against the chauffeur. The magistrate (Mr. Hutton) said he knew Mr. Karno as a very busy gentleman, and had activities in other directions. It appeared to be a technical offence. Mr. Clarke having pointed out that a Saturday and Sunday intervened between the purchase of the car and its registration, the magistrate imposed a fine of 5s., with 10s. 6d. costs, on the summons against Mr. Karno.

A music-hall singer named Mansuelle is bringing an action against M. Pataud, general secretary of the Electricians' Trade Union, who through plunging Paris in darkness and consternation last Monday night, has been nicknamed "the King of Paris." On Monday, just as Mansuelle was about to appear at his music-hall, the electric light went out, the establishment was closed, and Mansuelle lost his night's salary. He now sues "King" Pataud for it, and also claims £4 damages. The matter will be decided by a county court judge, who has never before been called upon to settle such a dispute. If the singer wins scores of his colleagues may be expected to bring similar actions.

Mr. Frank Parker's new production at the Hippodrome is due on the 31st inst. Its chief sensation will be a gigantic wave which engulfs the villain. Specially ingenious machinery is being installed. The title is The Sands of Dee, written by those experienced authors Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova. Carl Keifert is responsible for the incidental music, and the celebrated scenic artist, Joseph Harker, will probably present his best work in an up-to-date seaside scene.

Widdicomb.—In loving memory of Jarvis Widdicomb, who passed away Aug. 17, 1898. Never forgotten, dear, by your wife. Ten lonely years.

About forty of the employés of the Empire and Hippodrome, Bristol, attended the annual staff outing on Sunday. In beautiful weather the party, which was in charge of the popular resident-manager, Mr. Sid Macaire, were conveyed in brakes to Cheddar, via Red Hill. The celebrated little town was reached shortly before one o'clock, and dinner was served at the Cliff Hotel. The toasts included the healths of Mr. B. Pearce Lucas (the managing-director) and Mr. Macaire, and they were received with the utmost cordiality, Mr. Macaire responding in suitable and appreciative terms. Subsequently Gough's caves were visited, and the return journey was completed by about ten o'clock.

Roller skating is again fast coming to the front, and it is suggested to form a society, to be known as the Association of Professional Skaters. Several well-known performers have agreed to join, among them being Capt. Ben Woodger, expert ice and roller skater, late manager of St. Stephen's Rink, Westminster, and elsewhere; Hal Bert, England's champion speed and fancy skater; Arthur West, the Pocket Expert; Percy Powell, eccentric dancing skater; the Sisters Neil, and Miss Mable Whayte. It is intended to run this Association on the same lines as that of America, run by Carl Reynolds. Professional skaters who would like to interest themselves in this should send their names to Capt. Ben Woodger, Empire, Camberwell.

The Claughton Music Hall, a valuable freehold property, situate in Claughton-road, Birkenhead, is to be sold by private treaty. The electric car to all the railways and Woodside Ferry passes the property. The hall is completely fitted, and replete throughout with all requirements necessary for carrying out the various purposes for which it was built, viz., the holding of balls, concerts, religious services on Sundays, dramatic performances, and exhibitions. Further particulars and information will be furnished on application to J. R. Simm and Sons, estate agents, 56, Hamilton-square, Birkenhead.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

For Sustaining the Voice.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS

Gentlemen,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), Marie Rose Mapleson.

During the last half-century everyone travelling in Hot Climes has made a point of carrying some

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

so as to stop immediately an attack of

DIARRHŒA, CHOLERA, or DYSENTERY.

Hot weather in the British Isles strikes suddenly, and everyone should take a little precaution. Don't wait until you actually need the Chlorodyne, but always keep it by you.

Avoid disappointment. Insist on having DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE—it

ACTS LIKE A CHARM
IN STOMACH TROUBLES.

Convincing Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, AUGUST 15, 1908.

"THE STAGE AND STARVATION."

As a rule, one pays little attention to statements about the stage which are made in the non-professional Press, which is, first and foremost, concerned in creating a sensation; and perhaps the above heading, which struck the eye at the top of a column in the Daily Graphic last week, was not entirely free from a suspicion of "scare." When, however, an authority of the weight and experience of Mr. H. BLACKMORE, the head of the long-established agency in Garrick-street, vouchsafes information, it is certain to be reliable; and the Daily Graphic was wise enough to go to the fountain-head for information respecting the state of the stage at present. Though Mr. BLACKMORE's remarks hardly warrant the startling title of the article, they are serious enough. He attributes the difficulty in obtaining engagements at this season to the fact that fewer companies than usual are this year being sent on tour, largely in consequence of there being a dearth of really attractive plays. In the spring, touring companies experienced such bad times that caterers decided to restrict their enterprise. One popular company organiser has reduced the number of companies from twelve to three or four.

Mr. BLACKMORE is of opinion that there is about 5 per cent. more overcrowding than usual. In one sense, he says, the theatrical profession is never overcrowded, because whenever there is a vacancy for a part requiring real talent the number of people qualified to fill it is very, very small. For the most part, the existing overcrowding is due to the failure of so many who, coming from other callings, manage to get a single engagement through "thieving agencies," and then, on account of their incompetency, are thrown on the stream. "Too many young people," says Mr. BLACKMORE, "score successes at smoking concerts and penny readings, and then never rest content until they face the footlights. That is the curse of the theatrical profession, and these are the people who are overcrowding it, making the competition unduly keen, wasting the valuable time of others, and doing no good for themselves."

"Recently," Mr. BLACKMORE adds, "I noticed a statement to the effect that 800 so-called actresses applied for a small part in a touring company. I venture to say that of that total not more than twenty were really suitable for the position. Nearly everybody disengaged applies. The advent of the music-hall sketch has led to a reduction in the number of turns, and that has proved a serious matter for the variety artist. The distress is largely confined to those who, without real qualifications, have forsaken other vocations for the stage."

The theatrical profession, ever since the remarkable "boom" of some years since, has been suffering from inflation. Fortunes have been made in the provinces with such ease and with such small expenditure of individual genius that the difficulty of the task has been minimised. It must be remembered that, in the last generation, the people who made money by touring did so by giving the country folk practically the same show that was offered to the Londoners, and the same recipe for success is employed by the leading London managers at the present day. It takes some time for people to wake up to the fact that they are not getting the worth of their money; but, when they do arrive at that conclusion, it takes some time also to alter their opinions again. Vogue, reputation, the general estimate are matters of more importance than is generally considered. Many people are apt to fancy that the public can be imposed upon; and so it can, but only for a while. No business can run long merely on the momentum it acquired in its days of life and spirit. These things move in cycles. There is the cycle of intense effort, producing prosperity and success; this is followed by over-confidence, carelessness, and laziness, resulting in time in loss, retrenchment, and revived activity. We are now passing into a cycle of the third sort. The paying amateurs and untrained individuals, the bad companies and the weak plays, are, by a natural process of the rejection of the unfit, becoming eliminated. The travelling managers are sending out fewer companies, finding, as Mr. BLACKMORE says, that it is impossible to secure a sufficient number of "attractions." When reform and regeneration are in the air, there is always hope. Things had got to be so bad that they were "bound" to mend. As for "starvation," there is less danger of that on the stage than there ever was. There are so many persons with private means or other sources of income now on the boards that, in many cases, it will be merely a case of "going home to mamma," and returning to a sphere which should never have been deserted, leaving the professional actor and actress to find openings for their ability and experience. It would be unfair, indeed, if these parasites of the stage, after being only a few months upon it, should add to the burdens already laid on our noble theatrical charities; and we may rely on discrimination being exercised by our almoners in the relief of applicants. Let the help go to those who have deserved it by long and patient service, not to the grasshopper visitors of a passing day.

NEW SOUTHSEA PAVILION.

A new pier and pavilion, built by the Corporation of Portsmouth at a cost of £70,000, to replace the South Parade Pier, which was destroyed by fire four years ago, was opened on Wednesday by the Mayor, Councillor Foster. It will take rank as one of the handsomest piers on the South coast. The length of the pier is 610ft. The pavilion, which is the principal feature of the pier, is approached through a handsome vestibule opening on a minor hall, which may be used as a skating rink. A large concert pavilion leading from this has seating accommodation for 1,700 persons on the ground floor, and for 600 in the balconies. The auditorium is decorated in white enamel, with gilt floral designs. From a promenade outside the balcony Spithead, the Solent, and the Isle of Wight can be viewed; and there is a spacious promenade around an ornamental bandstand at the pier-head. After the opening ceremony on Wednesday, the Mayor (Councillor F. G. Foster) entertained at luncheon a large party, which included Vice-Admiral Robinson, Colonel Bor, R.M.A., Mr. F. R. Y. Radcliffe (Recorder of Portsmouth), Sir John Baker, M.P., Engineer Rear-Admiral Corner, Engineer Rear-Admiral Haddy, and the Mayor of Bournemouth. Concerts and entertainments are to be given every day in the pavilion, which is one of the handsomest buildings of its kind on the coast.

SOMETIMES one hears with dread that a new melody has "caught on," and within a few hours has been sung and whistled all over a great city. Again, it happens that a tuneful number deserves to live. Such a one is "Far away in Australia," sung for the first time this week in Manchester by Miss Annie Braddan, a young lady who has left musical comedy for the variety theatres. The song was immediately taken up by the audience at the Tivoli and sung with the greatest enthusiasm.

MISS BRADDAN is booked with Mr. Robert Arthur for pantomime, and already Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter have received many requests for the singing rights. It may be mentioned that "Far away in Australia" was specially written and composed for Miss Braddan by those prolific music manufacturers, Charles Wilmott and Hermann Darewski, jun.

A CASE was heard at West Bromwich County Court, before Mr. Registrar Walker, in which Stanley Rogers, pantomime writer, of North Shields, claimed £10 damages from Albert J. Withens, of the New Hippodrome, West Bromwich, for the infringement by unauthorised performances of the plaintiff's pantomime entitled Aladdin. In the alternative the plaintiff claimed £10 or his fee for licence to perform the said pantomime for the season 1907-8.

MR. A. A. MILLICHIP, who appeared for the plaintiff (the action being undefended), explained that the plaintiff had written a pantomime entitled Aladdin, of which he owned the copyright. Last Christmas this pantomime was produced at the West Bromwich Hippodrome, where it ran for two weeks. No application was made to the plaintiff for the use of the pantomime, and the production was quite unauthorised. It was now stated that the defendant had sent a letter to the Registrar saying that he had decided not to defend the action, and offering to pay the claim by monthly instalments. The Registrar gave judgment for plaintiff for the full amount claimed, and an order was taken for the payment of £2 down and £2 a month.

THE Sunday Chronicle last week, dealing in extenso with audience and vaudeville management, pays a particular compliment to Mr. William Collins, the general superviser of the Syndicate halls, which embrace some fourteen vaudeville entertainment houses. It says: "It is a thousand pities that the management of some music halls cannot keep their cheaper patrons in order. As an example of orderly audiences and excellent management of the gallery contingents, I can think of none better than the Ardwick Empire, where a system laid down by William Collins, the first manager, and maintained by the present one, H. Hall, is enforced to-day. It is a veritable school of order."

THE Cardiff Palace and Hippodrome staff held their first annual outing on Sunday. Chepstow and Tintern Abbey were the places chosen, and a delightful day was spent. Mr. Arthur Burton, the popular Palace manager, was in charge, and tributes were paid Mr. Frank Macnaghten, the proprietor, and those associated with his circuit.

MR. JACK ROWLAND intends to run his popular concerts at Tankerton-on-Sea until the middle of September. He has had his pavilion, recently destroyed by the gale, reconstructed, and good business is reported.

THE "GEM" MUSIC CASE.

On Saturday at Yarmouth, before Mr. J. W. de Caux (chairman), and Messrs. E. B. Blake, T. J. Saul, J. Sutton, and A. S. Cooper,

Chas. Blake Cochrane, manager of the "Gem," appeared to five summonses for keeping open this hall for public singing without having first obtained a licence, and also for causing an obstruction on the footpath by the playing of a gramophone from the balcony. The Town Clerk prosecuted; Mr. G. Elliott (London), instructed by Messrs. Ferrier and Ferrier, defended.

Mr. Elliott first asked that any magistrates interested in any rival entertainment should not adjudicate, as the case would probably have to go to a higher court, and he did not want to raise any objections hereafter.

Mr. W. Harrison, Dr. A. C. Mayo, and Mr. H. D. Arnott thereupon withdrew, but Dr. Mayo stated he had no interest in any entertainments. Mr. W. Barnard said that as he was also a member of the Corporation he would withdraw.

The Town Clerk said the summonses were laid under the Public Health Act Amendment Act. A music and singing licence had been applied for, which the magistrates in their discretion refused. The performances consisted of a cinematograph show, the playing of a gramophone, piano playing, and singing accompanied on a piano. The verses of the song were thrown on the sheet and the audience joined in the chorus. There had not been any recent decision on the 1890 Act, but the law might be taken to be that where the music or singing is subsidiary to some other performance a licence is not necessary; but if the music was a substantial part of the entertainment then a licence was required. The Town Clerk submitted that in carrying on this entertainment without a licence at the "Gem" hall defendant had acted unlawfully.

Mr. Elliott said the only issue was as to whether the music was "subsidiary."

The Chairman said it was an elastic word.

Chief-Inspector Moore said that on July 31st he visited the "Gem" at 8.50 p.m., when pictures were being shown. Then there was an interval and the gramophone played. Next a man sang, accompanied by the piano, pictures being thrown on the screen to illustrate it. The song was "Love me and the world is mine," and after that another, "When sweet Marie was sweet sixteen." The audience sang the chorus in each case. "When sweet Marie was sweet sixteen" was described on the posters as a musicalette. Exactly the same kind of thing was going on at a later date. On Sunday he paid two more visits, at eleven and twelve, when the proceedings were similar, the song he heard being, "Love me and the world is mine." He paid two other visits, at 4 p.m. and 7.30, when the programme was the same. The audience left about 10.30, and the place was shut up shortly after. On Bank Holiday, at 11.30 a.m., a gramophone was being played from the balcony outside. At 12.15 the same show was being given, and also in the afternoon and evening. On Tuesday he found the programme was the same.

Cross-examined: He saw nothing objectionable in the entertainment. The pictures were entertaining and possibly instructive. He saw the rough riders and axemen of the Australian bush. Except when the gramophone was playing there were always pictures on the sheet. He believed this was so from morning till night. Songs were given about four times a day. The hall was opened at eleven in the morning, and closed at eleven at night, so that there was twelve hours' entertainment and a song every three hours. The soloist did not stand in the light, but in a corner. The audience was not invited to sing the chorus. During the song pictures were shown to illustrate it.

Mr. Elliott said that on one day one song was sung, and on the next day another, but no two songs were sung on the same day.

Chief-Inspector Moore, re-examined, said he always heard the same song on any one day. There was applause and an encore was demanded, but not complied with. If the hall was lighted up the soloist could be seen.

By the Chairman: The gramophone in the interval he considered fairly entertaining. The songs were very nice. He considered the gramophone and songs a part of the entertainment, which drew and pleased the public.

Detective Boulton said the chorus was a catchy one, in which the audience might be expected to join, and it was very likely to be heard about the streets. He had heard the same song on the beach. Cross-examined: He saw nothing objectionable in the nature of the entertainment.

By the Chairman: The audience appreciated the entertainment. After the song there was loud applause, and a request made for an encore, which was not granted. The words of the chorus appeared on the screen.

The Chief Constable, Mr. W. Parker, said he had several times visited the Gem Hall. He entirely agreed with what the previous witnesses had said, and the audience certainly applauded whether from pleasure "or the other way on." (Laughter.) Either the piano or the gramophone was going.

Cross-examined: There was no platform. He had not seen anything objectionable in the slightest degree.

The Chairman: Has the singer a good voice?

The Chief Constable: Is he here? (Laughter.) He did not please me. (Laughter.)

By the Chairman: He considered the music and singing a very substantial part of the performance. The piano was a good one, and the lady accompanist was a very decent player.

Mr. Elliott said the point at issue was one that was not merely local, but one which, sooner or later, would be made to apply all over the United Kingdom. Apart from the legal position, defendant was not, in carrying on the entertainment, attempting in any way to rebel against the authority of the Bench, and whenever the law was definitely stated he would be the first to give it respectful obedience. Nothing was farther from the mind of the Legislature than to interfere with any innocent form of entertainment, the original object of the statute being to control deleterious amusements. He denied that it was defendant's intention, by getting in the thin end of the wedge, to blossom out into a full-blown music hall. His object was simply to give an elevating, instructive, and attractive entertainment. No song had been sung there, no photograph shown, in which the sternest moralist could find a shadow of reproach. Defendant came to Yarmouth as a stranger, and it would have been preferable that he should have come first to the magistrates, produced his plans, and explained what his entertainment would be, but he took advice and relied upon it. The solid part of the entertainment was the exhibition of pictures, while the music and singing were purely subsidiary, incidental, and subordinate; though he quite agreed they might be an interesting and amusing part of the entertainment. Although believing his legal position was secure, he acted on a suggestion to apply for a music licence, but that application was made without sufficient consideration and under some misconception. The licence was refused, and he then took further advice, and was informed his entertainment did not need a licence, and for that reason he continued it. Defendant was anxious, even at expense to himself, to obtain an authoritative legal definition, and for that reason defended these summonses. If the magistrates found the music was the substantial part of the entertainment then undoubtedly a licence was required, but if, on the other hand, the pictures were the main part of the entertainment, no licence was needed. The principal object of this entertainment was a cinematograph exhibition which went on continuously, and was its permanent feature throughout the day, as distinguished from, and in contrast with, the musical performances and the songs which were merely added to it as a kind of sauce or relish to make the main part of the performance more attractive. If it only rested on the gramophone, he would point out that there were plenty of places in Yarmouth where it was allowed to be used without any licence at all. Then there was the piano, and he would ask the Bench to decide whether or not a mere piano accompaniment to pictures illustrating a song was a main part of the entertainment given.

Defendant, a director of the Yarmouth Amusement Centre, Limited, and one of the lessees of the "Gem" entertainment hall, said the entertainment consisted of animated pictures, which were continuous, except for slight intervals, when people went out and others came in. The hall was open from eleven to eleven, and while the pictures were appearing on the screen a piano accompaniment was played. To give the operator time to clear his films every three hours there was a four-minute interval, during which a song was sung. The class and type of the entertainment were the same day by day. He had never allowed the exhibition of any picture to which the smallest exception could be taken. The scenes were interesting, amusing, and instructive. Nothing was shown on Sundays to offend anyone's religious susceptibilities, the pictures consisting of Scripture or travel scenes.

Cross-examined: The last place of entertainment he managed was the International Horse Show at Olympia, in London. He had been into a cinematograph show on Ludgate Hill, where an automatic piano was continuously played. He would not say the entertainment would be deadly dull without the music. Quite as many people would probably come to the "Gem" without the music, but he would not like to drop the music, as he considered it an attraction. When the audiences had sung the choruses he had many times requested them to desist, and some who were rowdy were put out. The duration of the programme was roughly an hour. The gramophone occupied about ten minutes. The soloist and his wife, who were ready to sing when required, were paid £5 per week, but the individual operating the cinematograph, the main part of the entertainment, received a good deal more. Musicalette was a coined word of his own to describe the combination of music and pictures.

Re-examined: The cinematograph side of the entertainment cost six to seven times as much as the musical part of it.

By the Chairman: He considered the music a distinctive embellishment, and he would not mind giving up the gramophone, as he did not think it would affect the popularity of the entertainment one whit. Music in melodrama was an embellishment. He would call it a useful adjunct, not a necessary adjunct.

Mr. G. H. Lovewell Blake, solicitor, said he went into the "Gem" entertainment at 9.30 on Sunday night, and during the next half-hour there was nothing but pictures. Then came the interval, when the gramophone was turned on. He considered the music very decidedly subsidiary.

Cross-examined: He heard one song outside before he went in, and he heard one song inside. He paid his admission in the ordinary way, and no one connected with the building knew who he was. He considered the song a good one, speaking musically.

Mr. J. H. B. Gedge, chief clerk in the County Court office, and local correspondent to The Era, said he considered the entertainment an all-day picture show. The musical part of the performance was quite subordinate. He had been each week, and had not yet heard a song.

The Rev. W. T. Goodrich said he had twice visited the "Gem," and the cinematograph was the dominant feature.

The Town Clerk: You did not go to hear "When sweet Marie was sweet sixteen"?

Witness: No. (Laughter.)

The Chairman: You did not attend on a Sunday evening?—No, I did not. (Laughter.)

Dr. A. H. Moxon said he had been three times to the "Gem," and the pictures were the principal feature. The gramophone began to play at the end of the entertainment, and the people began to go, at which he was not surprised. (Laughter.) He did not join in the chorus because he could not sing. (Laughter.)

The Town Clerk: Have you ever been to the London music halls?—Yes; years ago. (Laughter.)

Mr. A. Taylor Harbord, solicitor, said he paid two visits to the "Gem," and he considered the pictures the chief thing. He did not join in the chorus because he could not catch the refrain.

The magistrates retired, and were absent ten minutes. On their return the Chairman said there could be no doubt that a public entertainment was given at the "Gem," and a majority of the magistrates were of opinion the music and singing were not merely subsidiary, but formed a substantial part of the entertainment. On the first summons defendant would be fined £5 and £1 each on the other four.

In regard to the summons for causing an obstruction by the playing of the gramophone, Mr. Elliott said he had assured the Town Clerk it was with great regret Mr. Cochrane found himself in trouble with the police. It was not admitted that any obstruction was caused, but Mr. Cochrane expressed great regret that it should be even thought he had done anything contrary to the wishes of the police. He offered every possible undertaking a man of honour could give that under no circumstances whatever should anything of the kind take place in future. He was assured by the Town Clerk, with whom he had consulted, that on this understanding he would apply that the summons for obstruction might be adjourned sine die. With regard to the magistrates' decision as to a licence he bowed to it, but Mr. Cochrane, of course, reserved all the rights of appeal he might have.

The Town Clerk said that in view of the undertaking he would ask that the "obstruction" summons might be adjourned sine die.

To this the magistrates assented.

THE National Co-operative Exhibition will open at the Crystal Palace on Wednesday next, and remain open until Saturday, when it will be supplemented by co-operative flower, fruit, and vegetable shows. There will be adult and junior choirs with thousands of voices under the bâton of Mr. Allen Gill, F.R.A.M., and Mr. Charles J. Jeapes' athletic sports, gymnastic drill displays, choir contests, and dramatic performances, concluding with a grand display of fireworks by Messrs. Brock. On this day thousands of Co-operative Trade Unionists and others interested in this movement will travel from all parts of the country to the Palace.

SPECIAL fireworks for the children are given by Messrs. C. T. Brock and Co. at the Crystal Palace every Saturday with an amusing set piece entitled "This Little Pig went to Market."

THE Printing and Allied Trade Charity Sports will take place at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, Aug. 15, commencing at 3 p.m.

MISS EILEEN DOUGLASS is making a hit at the Palace Theatre with her new number "Rosie's young man," by Messrs. Fred W. Leigh and Henry E. Pether.

"OH, oh, Antonio" is the rage of the Isle of Man, where it has been sung for three weeks by Miss Florrie Forde. Messrs. Dan Lipton and C. W. Murphy, the authors and composers, may well feel satisfied with their success.

FEDERATIONS AND FUNDS.

THE usual monthly meeting of the committee of the Music-Hall Sick Fund was held on Tuesday at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. Fred Karno, the president of the Fund, the chair was taken by Mr. Pat Carey, and there were also present Messrs. Frank Heath, Tom Carney, Geo. Fredericks, and R. T. Baines (secretary). The business was of a purely formal character, and concluded with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

THE general meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation, to be held on Sunday, Sept. 6, is marked "important." The chief business will be to consider the position of the V.A.F. with respect to the reported combine of managerial syndicates and circuits. It is also proposed to rescind Rule 30, which refers to loans.

MISS MELINDA MAY, secretary of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., begs to thank Mrs. Vernon Cowper for the sum of 6s. kindly collected by her; also La Foy, Miss Alice Chapin, Mrs. Crowther, and an anonymous donor at Gravesend for gifts of clothing, and she would be grateful for similar gifts. All are welcome to the receptions, held at the offices every Wednesday from three to five.

MR. DOUGLAS STUART'S river outing on the 23rd inst. in aid of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund will be under the patronage of Mr. Joe Elvin (President). Arrangements have been made with the London and South-Western Railway Company, through Mr. A. H. Hoyle, to run a special train of first-class saloons to carry the party from Waterloo to Reading and back, the journey being made in an hour and a half. From Reading, the commodious steam launch, Queen of England, has been engaged, and the river trip will be through Caversham, Mapledurham, Whitchurch, and Pangbourne (the pearl of English landscapes, the whole district being a painter's paradise). The price of ticket (inclusive of every item—train, launch, luncheon, tea, refreshments, &c.) is 21s. They may be obtained from Mr. C. Douglas Stuart, 28, Wellington-street, W.C.

THE secretary of the Music Hall Home has received from Mr. Jesse Sparrow the sum of £1, collected by Mr. Jesse Sparrow; from Mr. W. F. Channdy (Birmingham Theatre Gala and Charity Sports), £5; also contributions from Mr. P. A. Lennon (box collection Palace, Camberwell), Mr. Percy Ford, Empire, Camberwell, and Mrs. O'Brien (Rule's, Maiden-lane). The secretary also desires to acknowledge the kindness of Atlas in sending cigars to inmates.

THE TIVOLI OUTING.

The Tivoli "wayzgoose" was a tremendous success last Sunday. For five years the employees at the Tivoli had not had a general outing; not because they did not want it, but by reason of stress of business.

It was indeed an ideal day, and the genial Mr. A. L. Groth, who presides over the box-office in town, made a capital president. Not a hitch occurred. Some fifty members of the staff, gay and happy, assembled at the L. and S.W. Railway Station, Waterloo. It was pleasant to see the beaming face of Mr. James Howell flitting around like the proverbial good fairy, Mr. Howell on this occasion representing his coadjutor, Mr. Joseph Wilson, who is on his annual vacation. A message was duly received from the chief and read out to the "boys and girls." It ran: "I am present with you in spirit, and wish you all a jolly enjoyable time." Cheer oh! One almost thought it to be a miniature Ascot Cup Day, judging by the pretty frocks of the ladies and the "Sunday best" of the boys. Everything went off with a bang, and all returned home as pleased and jovial as they started. The meeting of the staff at Waterloo Station was timed for 8.25 sharp; the train arrived at Shepperton at 9.54 a.m., the party going by brakes to Chertsey, which was reached at 10.40 a.m., a halt being made for sandwiches and refreshments; then on to the beautiful district of Virginia Water (11.30 a.m.). The return to Chertsey (1.30 p.m.) immediately preceded dinner at the Cricketers at 2 p.m., which was followed by a pleasant voyage in a launch up the Thames, Chertsey being again reached at 5.30 p.m. Tea was taken at 6 p.m., and the party returned to Waterloo at 10.10 p.m.

MISS WINIFRED HARE'S song "It's better than being a Carnegie" is taking the provinces by storm. This dainty number is making such rapid headway that Messrs. Edgar Bateman and Hermann E. Darewski, jun., may surely count upon it being a most prominent panto. number.

MR. HERMANN E. DAREWSKI, JUNR., who has been spending a short holiday at Morecambe, was highly delighted on visiting the Winter Gardens to hear his "Twilight Valse" played by Mr. Tom Shaw's fine orchestra, Miss Madge Temple singing his and Lester Barrett's latest number "Sue, Sue, Sue," the Pierrots on the West End Pier singing eight of his songs, and Mr. Wilhelm Morgan's Blue Viennese Band playing yet another of this well-known composer's compositions, "Paquita" intermezzo, as well as the "Best of All Selections," which included those well-known songs "In the twilight," "In the valleys of Switzerland," and "Sue, Sue" as a cornet solo, that in itself shows how popular Mr. Darewski's compositions are and how rapidly he has come to the front.

MR. HERBERT LA MARTINE is pleasing the patrons of the Oxford this week with his quaint rendering of the song "Just because he couldn't sing 'Love me, and the world is mine.'" Mr. La Martine has recently returned from Australia, where he was most successful, "Bye-bye, my Caroline" being one of the great hits of his répertoire.

MISS FANNY ROBINA made an enormous hit on Monday night at the Hippodrome, Hulme, Manchester, with a new song entitled "The Land of Promise," written and composed by Billie Bint and Florry Cooper.

MR. EUGENE STRATTON is scoring at Blackpool with "Somebody's been around here since I've been gone." The song is just in 'Gene's vein, and is a splendid vehicle for the quaint humour in which he rejoices. It will be heard in London shortly.

M. WITMARK AND SONS are very jubilant over the success of their instrumental success "The Teddy Bears Picnic." This catchy foot-moving melody has "caught on" everywhere, and all kinds and conditions of bands and orchestras are playing it to the delight of their audiences.

MISS MINNIE D'AUBYN introduced for the first time at the Paisley Hippodrome on Monday a new song-scena entitled "Back in that home once more." The song is in praise of the miner, and was written and composed by Miss Marie le Frane. With an appropriate setting and excellent lighting arrangements, Miss d'Aubyn scored an unqualified success.

"TAKE me on the Flip Flap," sung by Miss Ella Retford, and "Meet me under the golden dome," sung by Miss Millie Hylton, are undoubtedly the two greatest Exhibition songs on the market. Both are excellent specimens of Messrs. Charles Wilmott and Hermann E. Darewski, jun.'s work.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

In consequence of the retirement of Mr. Harry Bawn from the Empire, Camberwell, Mr. Jesse Sparrow has been appointed sole managing director for a term of years.

In the absence of Mr. Percy Ford, who is enjoying a well-deserved holiday at Worthing, Mr. Gus Danter is officiating as acting-manager at the Empire, Camberwell. Mr. Gus Danter, who is in his twenty-fifth year, is the son of Mr. Jesse Sparrow, and is the proprietor of The Sword of Justice sketch recently produced with such conspicuous success at his father's establishment. Gus Danter made his first appearance on the stage at the Grand, Clapham Junction, in the children's pantomime of Cinderella, produced there on Boxing Day, 1896, when he was associated with Georgina Leno, the Sisters Pine (daughters of Bob and Jennie Leonard), Edie King, Charlie Warren, and others who have since become well-known music hall artists.

Mr. Frank Postlethwaite, the well-known variety agent, has acquired Mr. Harry Bawn's interests in the Camberwell Empire, and most of the future bookings will pass through his hands.

Miss Alice Lloyd, at present on a visit to Austria, will play the star part in Flo Ziegfeld's new musical comedy, The Bonnie Belles of Scotland, which will be produced in the States in September. Messrs. John P. Harrington and Mr. Orlando Powell are busy preparing a new budget of songs for the lady, who, like her celebrated sister, has conquered two hemispheres.

American soubrettes and comediennes have for years been a feature of the Drury Lane pantomime. Mr. Arthur Collins has introduced therein Miss Madge Lessing, Miss Marie George, Miss May de Sousa, and his latest engagement is Miss Truly Shattuck, who made so great a success recently at the Coliseum and Empire. Miss Shattuck is appearing during the current week at the Empire, Nottingham, and is making an especial feature of Ernest R. Ball's song "As long as the world rolls on."

Miss Meredith Meredro, who played Hugh de Longespée in Mr. Arthur Collins's Christmas production of Robin Hood at Old Drury, has been enjoying a well-earned vacation in the country, but will resume business in London on Aug. 31, when she will sing "Star of my life" and "Way down in Colon Town." After a short season in London Miss Meredro will proceed to Australia, where she will appear in pantomime.

When a new production is necessary at the Empire the new ballet Paris, written by Lieut.-Col. Newnham-Davis, with music by Mr. Cuthbert Clarke, will be presented, but Coppelia and After the Opera are doing such excellent business that no important change in the programme need yet be anticipated.

Mr. W. Leslie Gooch, son of Miss Fanny Leslie, who for about a year past has been acting-manager at the Walthamstow Palace, has been appointed acting-manager and treasurer at the reconstructed Metropolitan, Edgware-road. Mr. Gooch, who enters upon his new duties on Monday, will have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Mr. Walter Stanton opens at the Oxford and Paragon on Monday next in his lifelike impersonations of the Cockatoo and the giant dancing Rooster, in both of which creations he caused such a sensation in the Lyceum pantomime. Mr. Stanton's bird dresses are invented, patented, and made entirely by himself, and it is interesting to note that 15,000 feathers are used in the rooster dress and 10,000 in the cockatoo dress. For his performance Mr. Stanton has just trained a cockerel which was bred by Lady Craven.

Stylo with his wonderful hoop juggling effects is doing exceedingly well at the London Hippodrome. Audiences there are evidently more than satisfied with Stylo, even though they have seen Everhart.

Mademoiselle Lydia Kyakset, prima ballerina assoluta of the St. Petersburg Imperial Theatre, will appear at the Empire on Monday in a series of dances selected for the most part from the ballets which so delight the Russian nation. She will be supported by M. Adolph Bolm, the solo dancer of the St. Petersburg Imperial Theatre. This gentleman had the honour, some few weeks ago, to receive personally from the King of Sweden a decoration which is only awarded for the greatest artistic merit.

Mr. William Payne, manager of the South London, has been the recipient of a handsome silver cigar-case, presented by his staff in appreciation of the enjoyment derived from the recent annual outing, over which he presided. The excursion to "magical Margate" on July 20 was voted a record success, an agreeable finale being supplied by a supper, to which Mr. Payne entertained the party at a local restaurant on the return to town.

Mr. Leon Bassett, musical director of the Oxford, and his brother, Mr. W. L. Bassett, have received many messages of sympathy on the death of their father, who expired on Monday at King's College Hospital after an operation.

Another successful motor run was organised by the Rats on Sunday, when a number of cars, headed by Mr. W. H. Clemart, King Rat (who had with him Misses Amy and Adrienne Augarde), started at 12 o'clock for the beautiful district of Marlow.

Here lunch was taken at the Compleat Angler, and an enjoyable afternoon was spent on the river by many of the party, which included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tate, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Radford, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maple, Mr. and Mrs. Dusty Rhodes, Messrs. Dave O'Toole, Dave Carter, Chas. Austin, Sam Poluski, Seth Egbert, Frank Haytor, Carlton, and others.

Miss Sable Fern, the star turn at the Northampton Palace this week, returns to London on Aug. 24 for thirteen weeks, opening at Mr. Gibbons' halls. Her Quakeress character song, "Oh! Mother Eve," by Frank Leo, has caught on immensely at Northampton.

Mr. Gus Elen will enjoy many happy recollections of his stay in Scotland, where he has been fishing in Loch Leven, Loch Lomond, and in the Rivers Tay and Endrick. During his holiday he has caught about 90lb. of fish.

Mr. George Dance's new musical sketch, entitled The Local Amateurs, which was recently produced, has scored a remarkable success, and is delighting holiday-makers in the seaside towns. The sketch is being elaborated on, and will continue its successful career on the principal variety theatres of the country later in the autumn.

Mrs. John Lawson has been appearing at the Euston this week with her sketch, The Woman and the Apple. This episode has proved a worthy successor to The Devil's Sunday, though the latter work is still called for, and promises to become a classic like the famous Humanity. Next week Mrs. Lawson will be seen at the Olympia, Shoreditch, where she will wear for the first time two new and specially-designed costumes.

The Liverpool Parthenon is no more. Since the advent into that city a dozen years ago of the big music hall syndicates its existence has been somewhat precarious, and before closing its doors a few months since the old place was used for a cinematograph show. In its hey-day the Parthenon was controlled by Mrs. Stoll, mother of a gentleman who now stands high in the music hall world. It is about to be converted into a clothing emporium.

Mr. C. F. Morgan, the well-known and always popular acting-manager, whose latest engagements with Mr. W. W. Kelly, of Royal Divorce fame, and Signor Pepi—both in his Blackpool and Barrow houses—have proved so successful, has accepted another engagement from Signor Pepi as acting-manager of the Palace, Carlisle. Mr. Morgan commenced his duties last week.

There was a large gathering of directors, friends, and the staff at the Palace Theatre, Carlisle, last week, to bid adieu to Mr. A. E. Nicholls, on the occasion of his leaving to take up his duties as acting-manager of the New Hippodrome, Middlesbrough.

Mr. Nicholls, who has acted as manager of the Palace since its opening in March, 1906, has made himself highly popular, and rejoices in the following presentations: From the directors and friends, an illuminated address, cheque for a very substantial sum, and a solid and handsome travelling bag; from the front of the house, a massive gold watch, suitably inscribed; from the orchestra, a heavily silver-mounted ebony walking-stick; from the stage hands, a writing bureau; and from business firms in the town, a large silver photo frame and beautifully bound book of music.

Mr. Long, chairman of directors, made the presentations, and expressed in feeling terms the general regret felt at Mr. Nicholls leaving the border city, Mr. Nicholls responding. After the presentations the company sat down to supper, the chair being taken by Mr. C. F. Morgan, and a happy and convivial night was spent.

Mr. A. E. Pickard, of the Panopticon, Glasgow, was approached by various friends to allow his name to be nominated for a vacancy in the Glasgow Town Council, but in a letter of thanks he excuses himself on the ground of the work connected with his many enterprises, including his recent acquisition, the New Gaiety Theatre, Clydebank.

Mr. E. H. Bostock, the popular proprietor of the Zoo-Hippodrome, Glasgow, and numerous other enterprises, has just had the honour of being returned unopposed for the Town Council of Glasgow as representative for the Cowcaddens Ward of the city. Mr. Bostock's sympathetic efforts in the cause of charity at all times, and his keen business ability and sound common sense, have made him a great favourite in Glasgow, and his election to the Council Chamber is an honour to him and to the municipality.

Mr. E. P. Morgan was entertained at dinner at the Victoria Hotel, Manchester, on Sunday, by a number of prominent Manchester gentlemen, the occasion being to bid him farewell after a residence in the town of nearly four years. At the conclusion of a sumptuous repast, Mr. Geo. Ashton (the chairman), in a eulogistic speech, presented Mr. Morgan with an illuminated address, together with a pair of double-handled solid-silver vases for Mrs. Morgan, inscribed "For old time's sake, from her friends in Manchester," and to Miss Ida Morgan was given a silver and gold jewel casket.

Mr. Morgan was also the recipient of many other beautiful and costly presents from the gentlemen of the local Press, the Hippodrome Choir, the entire front and back staff of the theatre, &c., and from Mr. Robert Peacock, the Chief Constable of Manchester, he received a letter, which he prizes very highly.

On Wednesday afternoon, under most perfect conditions as to weather and natural surroundings, the new Corporation Pier and Pavilion was formerly opened by the Worshipful Mayor of the County Borough of Portsmouth (Councillor F. G. Foster, J.P.). The new pier has been erected to take the place of the one destroyed by fire some years ago, and a large and fashionable company assembled at the reception, and for a preliminary view of the very handsome structure as a whole.

The Concert Pavilion is beautifully modelled and spacious, and with its general decorations in fibrous plaster, enrichments picked out in colours and gold, with its maple floor, gives a delightfully sumptuous appearance, most restful and charming. Its seating capacity is nearly 1,500. Ample provision has been made for emergency exits, four being placed on the first and nine on the ground floor. The illumination and lighting is on a most liberal, not to say lavish, scale, and the stage has all the latest possible improved style of electric fittings.

Mr. Josiah Law, who has succeeded Mr. Leon Bassett as musical-director at the Camberwell Palace, held a similar position for several years under Mr. John Hart at the Star Palace. He is an excellent violinist, having studied under Herr Maurice Ruda, and was a favourite pupil of the late Auguste Wilhelmj, who presented him with a valuable violin.

Williams and Warden and Picton Roxborough and Fanny Wright, on their return from South Africa, organised a concert on the "Briton," and the result, £6 3s., will be divided equally between the V.A.B.F. and the Seamen's Charities.

The annual picnic of the Manchester Hippodrome staff took place on Sunday last. The party, accompanied by their manager, Mr. Nelson Barry, left Manchester at 8.15 a.m. en route for Castleton. After partaking of breakfast on arrival some enjoyable sports took place, the prizes for the various events including a valuable watch and bracelet. These two latter prizes were given by the manager for the winner of the mountain climbing competition. At the conclusion of the sports the party were photographed, and an adjournment was then made for dinner. Mr. Harry Garnham (the advertising manager) proposed the health of their chief, Mr. Oswald Stoll, and the directors. Mr. Nelson Barry responded, and in a very pleasantly worded speech expressed his thanks for the kindly manner the whole of the staff had received him amongst them. After dinner the party had a pleasant drive to Hathersage.

"Sal, Oh My!" and its "Up-to-date" continuation, in which Mlle. Leonora has made such a hit at the Alhambra, owe much to the music arranged by Mr. George Byng, the musical-director of the house. It is now an open secret that the delicate satire which has made all London laugh during the last five months emanates from the busy brain of the managing-director, Mr. Alfred Moul. To him are due the charming incidents which have provided patrons of the Alhambra with an amusing burlesque of le dernier cri in classical dancing, and also the introduction of Mlle. Leonora, who bids fair to remain a popular favourite for a long time to come. Mr. Robert Steidl, the German humorist, remains at the Alhambra for another two weeks, he having been successful in obtaining postponement of his immediate Continental engagements.

Mr. Richard Warner is taking his annual holiday at Homburg, where he is deriving great benefit from the waters.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sugden have received so many communications regarding their successful sketch A Quiet Night in a French Hotel, that they wish it known that they have made no contracts for the sketch till 1909.

At a general meeting on Monday of the shareholders of the Camberwell Palace presided over by Mr. Howard Smith, the adoption of the annual report and balance-sheet was moved. The chairman pointed out that there was a fair profit on the working of the theatre during the past twelve months. The motion was agreed to.

The issuing of debenture stock became the subject of an interesting discussion, and it is probable that a scheme will shortly be formulated for the creation of debentures to replace the existing mortgage. It was maintained that as the property was freehold the debentures would form a safe and fair investment. Messrs. Howard Smith and Arthur Bray, the retiring directors, were re-elected.

Mr. John L. Shine, the eminent comedian, who is delighting Coliseum audiences in The Actor's Art, proposes presenting himself as a "single turn" at the Palace Theatre, Reading, on Monday next. His entertainment will consist of a bunch of personal anecdotes and songs by Messrs. Frederick Shine and Dr. F. Osmond Carr, the famous composer of His Excellency, Morocco Bound, In Town, &c. May we predict a similar success to this departure as was attained by Mr. Shine in the world-renowned "Irish Parliament," in Morocco Bound, by the same composer? As we before remarked, "Why not?" The engagement has been engineered by that astute agent Will Oliver.

Mrs. George Everard, widow of the late popular song-writer, is returning to the stage under her old professional name of Miss Beverley Yorke. She opens at the Chelsea Palace on Monday.

Miss Lil Hawthorne has found another big winner in the novel song "The boy who stuttered and the girl who lisped." Miss Hawthorne has been so long identified with chorus songs that her character comedy impersonation in this novel number comes as a surprise to her legion of admirers. The song is published by M. Witmark and Sons, who have given exclusive rights of it to Miss Hawthorne.

The directorate have appointed Mr. Charles Marte successor to Mr. Charles Beecham in the management of the Paragon. For eight or nine years Mr. Marte was manager of the Palace of Varieties, Southampton, under the Graydon régime. He deserted the entertainment world a couple of years ago in order to take up a very good commercial position, but now returns to his old love. Not only has he fulfilled managerial appointments in various parts of England, but is still an excellent performer. He will be best remembered as being a partner with "Harlow" at the old Royal, where he appeared in a musical sketch. Mr. Marte, who is a thorough organiser, received valuable lessons in discipline when his life was devoted to the sea, before he went to Southampton.

Mr. Marte's assistant-manager, Mr. Pierre Cohen, is also an expert. He received his schooling at the neighbouring Pavilion Theatre under his uncle, Morris Abrahams. For some years he was resident-manager at the Standard Theatre, Johannesburg, for Frank De Jong, and has just finished a tour with Charles Macdona's Duchess of Dantzig company. Mr. Cohen is extremely well known in the East End.

There has just been included in the Urbanora exhibit at the Palace Theatre a full series of animated pictures of the Cowes week. The scenes, which were expressly taken for this theatre by the Urban operators, and are singularly clear in definition, include close views of Shamrock, Germania, Cicely, Britannia, Creole, Carina, and other racers in all classes, as well as the splendid cruiser Indomitable, and a delightfully intimate picture of their Majesties on board the Royal yacht.

Miss Mabel Sinclair, the premier lady ventriloquist, accompanied by her husband and manager, Mr. Arthur Palling, sails to-day for New York per s.s. Columbia, for the purpose of an extended tour through the Western States. She returns to Great Britain early in April to fulfil continuous engagements over the Moss and Stoll circuit.

Miss Marion Fawcett, author of the clever sketch Lucky Jim, produced at the Walthamstow Palace on Aug. 3, is in the proud position of having had no less than four successful sketches from her pen produced in England, America, and Australia respectively during the last eighteen months.

Mr. J. A. Wilson has received his wonderful dog Private Towser from Mr. Taylor, veterinary surgeon, Nottingham, absolutely cured and in the pink of condition. After a week at the seaside he will resume business with Moss and Stoll at Liverpool, Aug. 24.

Miss Helene Forest will be playing a revised version of her dramatic sketch A Woman of Paris at the Canterbury next week. A powerful cast has been engaged, and Miss Forest will, we may rest assured, repeat her previous success as the intensely dramatic Phédéle Lemoine. She is now booking a tour.

Miss Madge Temple, before commencing her Coliseum and other London engagements with new songs by Messrs. Wilmott and Darewski, is taking a short holiday at her home in Boston Spa. This delightful vocalist has been compelled to decline many good concert engagements for the winter in town owing to the fact that astute variety managers have fully booked her.

Miss Kitter Rayburn is particularly proud of the letter of acknowledgment from his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, to whom she sent a copy of her successful song, "Won't you come to me in Canada?" Miss Rayburn is enjoying excellent receptions at the Oxford, where her dainty costume of black and white is particularly admired, and the chorus of her chief song resounds from gallery to stalls.

Mr. Herbert Darnley's sketch, The Brigands of Tarragona, which was successfully produced at the Shepherd's Bush Empire on Monday last, is referred to in our notice of the current programme at that popular hall. On Monday Mr. Darnley and the principal members of the company were rewarded with an enthusiastic call.

The creditors met recently under the failure of George Abel, described as of Greycoat-gardens, Westminster, music-hall artist. The debtor, well-known in connection with the production of the sketch Three of a Kind, states that he has been connected with the theatrical profession for the past eighteen years. He attributes his present position to the cancellation of contracts for the performance of sketches in music-halls, in consequence of the sketch prosecutions. He returns his liabilities at £2,217, and states that he has no available assets. The case was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

Miss Vesta Tilley opened her engagement at the Palace, Douglas, I.O.M., to a record house on Monday, 8,500 people paid for admission, and the enormous ballroom was packed during the forty-five minutes she occupied the stage, during the interval in the dancing, &c. This breaks all records at the Palace, there being twice as many people as attended the Melba concert.

Miss Vesta Tilley had an amusing, but not with her an altogether unusual, experience at Douglas on Sunday night last. The popular artist had attended a concert, and the crowd, recognising her as she left, gathered round, and the police had to clear a way for her to her vehicle. Thousands followed as Miss Tilley drove to her hotel, cheering as they ran by the side of her carriage.

Mr. Ernest Bridgen, the manager of New Cross Empire, is holiday-making just now. He is enjoying a coasting steamer trip as far as Plymouth, but will return to Deptford and duty next Monday, his vacation having been curtailed for the time being owing to the fact that Mr. Christie, the district-manager, must be in Paris next week.

Rousby's company goes to the Hackney Empire on Monday with Greater London, which will be seen for the first time on any stage. It is produced in a form of a scenic review, with elaborate panoramic cloths, in connection with the most up-to-date electrical appliances, preceded by a reproduction of the earliest panoramic view of London extant, as Shakespeare saw it 1543, from the Sutherland Collection, Oxford. In the first scene our French friends will be seen admiring the Mighty London of 1908, looking east from the roofs of Westminster.

Mr. Bransby Williams has been spending a pleasant time at his seaside home at Elsinore, Selsey, enjoying the sea and country, with an occasional lark. He was one morning discovered with an apron as a new barber in the village shop, "lathering up" and talking of the weather, &c. Later he astonished the natives by serving tobacco and cigarettes in the "village Gluckstein's," an experience that has been giving him opportunity for meeting some interesting character-studies. Her Majesty the Queen honoured the village by the sea the other day, motoring down. No one quite knew who she was. The fishermen talked to her of their lobsters and crabs, and afterwards stood open-mouthed when they were told that they had been conversing with the Queen.

We record with regret the death of Mr. William Closs, for the past eleven years musical director of the Bolton Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd. Mr. Closs, who was only thirty-four years of age, was a well-known figure in the Grand Theatre orchestra as leader of the band. He had also been the composer for more than ten years of the incidental music of the various pantomimes produced by Mr. J. F. Elliston. He was a native of London, and at the early age of nineteen he became the musical director for Roby's Midget Minstrels, with which company he toured the country.

Signs of consumption manifested themselves during his conductorship of the last Christmas pantomime at the Theatre Royal, and he visited Southport for several weeks at the conclusion of the pantomime. Other complications ensued, and a fortnight ago he sought restoration to health at Southsea, but without avail, and passed away there on Saturday. Sympathetic telegrams were received from Wilkie Bard, Harry Tate, Cinquevalli, Lil Hawthorne, Maud Mortimer, and others equally famous. The deceased, whose Bolton home was at 25, Halstead-street, leaves a wife and two children.

The sympathies of entertainers of every degree throughout the country will go out to Mr. Henry J. Corner, of the Dandies, who has just lost his wife and great helpmate. Mrs. Corner died in St. Thomas's Hospital last Saturday night of typhoid fever, after only a few days' illness, at the early age of thirty-six. She was well known and greatly respected in the profession.

As Kate Augusta Davies Mrs. Corner, who was a brilliant vocalist and distinguished professor of the pianoforte, held for some years the position of official accompanist at the London Academy and the Guildhall School of Music, where her remarkable musical ability secured her many prizes. Her services, too, were in great request at the Sunday concerts of the South Place Ethical Society.

She coached many members of the Carl Rosa and other operatic companies, and, among many pleasant associations, she contributed in no small degree to the success of Miss Clara Butt at the instance of Sir Joseph Barnby on the occasion of Miss Butt's first important public engagement in The Golden Legend at the Albert Hall.

Eventually Miss Davies joined her husband (Mr. Henry J. Corner) in the now well-known company, "The Dandies," shortly after participating in a Royal command to appear before their Majesties the King and Queen at Sandringham on the occasion of her Majesty's birthday. At the conclusion of the entertainment she had the honour of being presented and congratulated by their Majesties. She was related to the Watkin Wynnes, who claim to be descendants of the royal blood of Wales.

The funeral took place at Lambeth Cemetery, Tooting, on Wednesday. The funeral service was read by the Rev. Mr. Carrack. The coffin was covered with beautiful wreaths. Among those who sent them were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Russon, Stephen Fitzgerald, and Rhoda and Josephine Gordon, Mrs. Anspach, Florrie and Lionel Wallace, Margaret Parker and Herbert Harden, Alfred and Julie, Eddie and M. Warren, Mrs. Charles P. Smith, Guildhall School of Music, Frederica Smith and Freddie, Rose and Charlie, Bert, Mater and Nell, from the husband, and from mother and father. The arrangements were admirably carried out under the direction of Mr. Theophilus Dunkley.

An extraordinary scene was witnessed at the second performance at the Liverpool Olympia on Saturday night. The appearance of Miss Gertie Gitana was the signal for enthusiastic applause from a packed house, and after singing "Jessie Dear" Miss Gitana said that in response to the call for an encore she would give "My Sweet Iona." Despite the tremendous applause, Miss Gitana did not sing another number, but made repeated bows from the wings.

Although the curtain had in the meantime been lowered, and raised again preparatory to the appearance of Mr. Tom Edwards, the clever ventriloquist, the applause did not cease, and the introductory music by the band was prolonged. This, however, had no effect, and when Mr. Edwards made his appearance not a word was audible. Putting his dummy on the couch, he called from the wings an attendant, who brought him a magazine and a bottle of stout, which Mr. Edwards leisurely consumed. Even then it was impossible for the artist to commence. Consequently he removed his dummy underneath the couch and took its place. After the outburst had lasted more than ten minutes he was able to proceed. The demonstration was in no way directed against Mr. Edwards, who at the conclusion of his entertainment was loudly applauded.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

Messrs. Francis and Day are issuing Miss Vesta Tilley's new song, written by Edgar Bateman and Archie Mills, the latter a smart young member of the celebrated Colwick Hall (Nottingham) Pierrots, and entitled "That's the time a fellow wants his ma." Maurice Scott is the composer. Another new song, which will be issued instanter, and as a "Sixpenny Pop," by Messrs. Francis and Day, is the number with which Mr. Dan Crawley has been scoring so heavily at the Oxford—to wit, "We've all been doing a bit." The ditty is, words and music, by Tom Connor, the writer who supplied consistently for years George Beauchamp and Herbert Campbell with songs ever in the public ear, and who has found in Mr. Dan Crawley a good and clever singer.

Happy Tom Parker, a comedian who has earned his spurs at that great training ground of many a "star," Chappell's Ring at Yarmouth, has gone so great at Mr. Stoll's halls that one of his songs has been in demand everywhere and will be published by Messrs. Francis and Day directly. It is called "I don't know whether I'm on my head or whether I'm on my feet," and is by Will Hyde and J. P. Long.

Miss Florence Goodwin, the daughter of a late well-known artist of that name, has scored a great success at the Bedford this week with "Every little bit added to what you've got" and "Stupid Mr. Cupid," two of Messrs. Francis and Day's songs.

"The Daylight Bill," the new humorous song which Hermann Darewski has set to music, has been already sought for by artists innumerable and by representatives of the big voice-reproducing companies, and one of the greatest and most wideawake of the foremost stars of the variety firmament, Mr. R. G. Knowles, has, we hear, secured the song. It is by T. M. Down and Edgar Bateman.

Fred W. Leigh, a song writer and melodist better than whom few exist, has just started a fortnight's vacation at Worthing, and one of his fellow-workers—like the Irishman who enlisted in the 39th Foot so as to be near his brother in the 40th—has carried his sea-fishing gear to Eastbourne for a like period because it is only three towns distant from his confrère on Mr. David Day's staff. On Friday evening the latter (a well-known Cockney writer) was seen in a small boat off Beachy Head, inditing a truthful fishing experience to the Anglers' News, and ever and anon casting a nervous glance backward at the noble promontory, as though half expecting it to fall on him and what he was writing.

Paul Pelham has, maybe, as a writer solus, had the week of his life, having supplied Miss Freda Sharlotte with a dramatic monologue, "Is life worth living?" the Sisters Sprightly with two items, "The simple life" and "Fashions"; a song for Mr. Geo. D'Albert, "Put yourself in his place"; two comic songs for Mr. Fred French; three ditties for Miss Mabel Moss; and three for Miss Flo Turner, the latest recruit from the legitimate stage.

Miss Millie Hylton's stage setting to her new song, "Meet me under the golden dome," which has during the week been cheered to the echo at the Shoreditch Olympia, is worthy of the best traditions of the scene painter's art. The Daily Mail building at the Franco-British show is beautifully limned, and the scenic night effects in the latter part of the number, which reflects the greatest credit on Chas. Willmott and Hermann E. Darewski, are worthy of the master electrician of any first-class West-End house.

Miss Dora Lyric has been at the Holborn Empire during the current week, in her truly great success, "I'm leaving Monte Carlo," by Worton David, Edgar, and Lyle, and enthusiastic audiences have joined in the catchy chorus. Miss Lyric has duplicated her West-End success, with the same song, at the Empress, Brixton, this week, also, and the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. may certainly be congratulated on possessing in this song one of the biggest potential winners of the forthcoming pantomime season.

Sunny Boscombe has this week in no half-hearted fashion fully endorsed Brighton's verdict the week before that Miss Kate Carney's latest stupendous winner, "From Poverty-street to Golden-square," by Paul Pelham and Herbert Rule, is undoubtedly the finest motto chorus song of the present season, and the success of this number has been simply phenomenal at the local Hippodrome, where delighted audiences assist the fair singer, with almost deafening results. Miss Carney is to be felicitated on having in this song one of the catchiest in her répertoire, and the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. are equally lucky, inasmuch as they are the publishers.

Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell are, in conjunction with Mr. George Arthurs, busily engaged in writing a new number for Miss Marie Lloyd, the tentative title of which is "Names." For Miss Marie Lloyd's "Directoire Girl," by the two first-named gentlemen, there are ever-increasing trade demands.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. are now issuing a few music-hall permissions for several of their most popular songs hitherto tied up to one or two singers, notably, "Rose with her Sunday smile," so successfully sung by Miss Gladys Mavius; "Bilbao," sung by Misses Bijou Russell and Kitty Tims; "How'd you like to float me?" sung by Misses Dolly Denton and Barbara Babington; and last, but not least, "I must trouble you to pack your trunk to-night," Miss Bijou Russell's coon number. As only a limited number of permits will be granted, applications should be immediate.

Miss Daisy Dormer is at present on a short provincial tour, and is reaping a rich harvest of applause for her dainty rendering of Castling and Godfrey's catchy number, "Anywhere will do." This song is exclusively reserved for Miss Dormer and must not be sung by any other artist at music halls. Pantomime permissions will be granted by the Star Music Co.

Miss Gwennie Hasto is specially featuring on the Moss tour Lawrence and Godfrey's "Have you got another girl at home like Mary?" which is winning its way to a tip-top place among popular songs. The Lovelaces are also making a hit with this number, illustrated by most effective slides. The chorus is taken up first time, and looks like being as big a success here as it is in America. This is another Star Co.'s winner.

Mr. Herbert Melville has just secured for Miss Jean Macduff, the lady Scotch comedian, a new song, entitled "Mrs. Jock McGra." It is by the same composers as her "I'm getting married in the morning," and is certain to prove another big winner.

The season's song-hit at Douglas, Isle of Man, is undoubtedly "Love me, and the world is mine." Possibly no song has ever been sung by so many singers in so short a space of time as this popular number. It is very satisfactory to the composer (Mr. Ernest R. Ball) to know that his composition has been sung in every country in the world, and enjoys the greatest sale of any similar song in the market to-day. M. Witmark and Sons, the publishers, are also to be congratulated on the enormous success of the song.

VARIETY ARTISTS' SPORTS.

The committee, officials, and all responsible for the conduct of the fête, gala, and sports held on behalf of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund, on Wednesday afternoon, at the Herne Hill Athletic Grounds, are to be heartily congratulated upon the excellent manner in which everything was arranged. And in saying this, we refer not merely to the organisation and direction of the purely athletic portion of the afternoon's programme, but also to the arrangements made for the convenience of the public. The wants of the members of the Press had also been well studied, and were well attended to, Mr. C. W. O'Connor, the Press representative of the Palace Theatre, rendering yeoman service in this direction. There was a capital attendance of spectators to witness what proved to be a most interesting series of contests, and fine weather helped to make matters still further agreeable both for competitors and onlookers. It should be mentioned that this was the first occasion on which sports were held with the object of augmenting the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund, although last year's similar function, which was held at the Crystal Palace—a little previous to the formation of the new music-hall charity—was concerned with Wednesday's meeting in so far as the temporary holders of some of the prizes were concerned. Amongst those present in a big representative gathering of variety folk were Mr. Joe Elvin (president), Mr. Paul Martinetti, Miss Victoria Monks, Mr. G. H. Chirgwin, the Burnetts, the Brothers Egbert, Miss Marie Kendall, Miss Adrienne Augarde, Miss Amy Augarde, Mr. Joe O'Gorman, Mr. Wilmer Hallett, Mr. Walter Stanton, Mr. Will Oliver, and Mr. Fred Ginnett.

The officials for the sports were:—

President: Mr. Joe Elvin.
Vice-President: Mr. Wal Pink.
Hon. Trustees: Mr. J. W. Cragg, Mr. G. H. Chirgwin, and Mr. Harry Lauder.
Hon. Treasurer: Mr. Harry Blake.
Secretary: Mr. C. Douglas Stuart.
Chairman of Sports Committee: Mr. Albert Le Fre.
Sports Committee: Messrs. Fred Herbert, J. E. Dunedin, Harry Bancroft, W. H. Altas, G. H. Smythson, Arthur Rigby, Horace White, T. C. Callaghan, Mike Fitzgerald, H. Griff, Bob Hutt, R. Abel, J. Alexander, and Sid Laurel.
Judges: Messrs. H. Vanderhout, Joe Cohen, Jack de Frece, Sydney Hyman, Frank W. Shorland, and R. C. Warnes.
Timekeepers: Messrs. Percy Longhurst and Frank Matthews.
Official Starter: Mr. George Thurling.
Stewards: Messrs. Seth Egbert, J. Tray, Fred Neiman, B. Stavordale, Albert Voyce, and Bert Williams.
Clerk of Course: Mr. Hal Forde.
Marksman: Mr. George Dyball.
Handicapper and Referee: Mr. R. P. Watson.
Press Representative: Mr. C. W. O'Connor.

Motor-cycling formed almost the principal feature of the Sports, and no small excitement was created by it. There were originally two heats in the five miles' handicap, but as only five competitors turned up out of a total entry of ten it was decided to run only one heat. Mr. Harry Tate, on a 2¾-h.p. Matchless, won easily by two laps. It was clear almost from the beginning that, accidents barred, his would be the victory. Ted Cowan, who came in second, had a close finish with the third man, L. Mortimer, there being only a wheel's length between them. The five miles' invitation auto-cycle race was won by Mr. C. R. Collier in 5min. 49sec., and that gentleman, in giving an exhibition of motor racing by way of attempting to lower the five-mile record on the Herne Hill track, performed the distance in 5min. 45sec. The five miles' invitation motor-cycle handicap was won by the same rider, after a keen contest, in which Mr. H. Martin, who was leading until the last lap but one, had a spill, fortunately without injury to himself. In the one mile walking handicap for the Frank Allen Challenge Cup, previously won by Thomas McGowan, Harold H. Jeapes distinguished himself after a tough struggle, and passed the tape first. This event proved, perhaps, the most interesting in the whole programme, by reason of the excellent form shown by practically all the competitors. Hal Forde won the premier prize, consisting of a handsome solid silver tea and coffee service, presented by the Grand Order of Water Rats, in the 120 yards running handicap, and here again music hall athleticism was seen at its best. Considerable attention was attracted to the one mile V.A.F. running championship for the fine challenge cup, the previous holder, George Clarke, jun., again securing the trophy. He has only to win it once more to become its permanent possessor. In the running high jump for the challenge cup given by Miss Vulcana (of Atlas and Vulcana), which is also to be won three years in succession to secure ownership, Geo. Avolo triumphed with a capital performance of 4ft. 9in., which he eclipsed by a subsequent jump of 5ft. The Buchanan Challenge Cup for the one mile bicycle race, won last year by Gent Lotto, was on this occasion taken by James Braun, his time being 2min. 28sec. The 120 yards hurdle handicap also proved a sensational event in its way, J. Agustin winning the solid silver cup given by Miss Marie Kendall, Sam Mayo and Harry Ford coming in second and third respectively. In the 440 yards Press running handicap, Mr. C. Douglas Stuart took the first prize, a dessert and flower-stand, the gift of Miss Lil Hawthorne. As Mr. Stuart, however, was allowed a start of 220 yards, the probabilities of his victory were only too obvious before the race commenced. Mr. Alfred J. Manning, of The Era clerical department, rendered an admirable account of himself, and entered second, thereby adding to the appointments of his table a beautiful silver-plated fruit épergne, presented by the Elliotts and Savonas. Without unduly flattering our own household, we might be permitted to say that Mr. Manning's leg work was far superior to that of any of the other contestants in this race. Of course, there was the usual hilarity over the comic costume scramble and the obstacle races.

MR. BOB HUTT,
CHIEF FUN-MAKER, V.A.B.F. SPORTS.

There was plenty of fun in other directions, too. Mr. Bob Hutt's humour being no less diversified than the various costumes he assumed, and the antics he and his little band of comedians indulged in gave rise to uproarious merriment. Then there was a wonderful aeroplane, which was sent in motion at the sound of an explosion, but which did not appear to attempt to gain ascendency over Count Zeppelin. There was, too, a laughable—almost cruelly laughable—burlesque of Dorando entering the Stadium after the Marathon Race. The side-shows also proved entertaining. Jack Collinson and company presented at intervals in a tent the weird and thrilling drama Maria Martin; or, The Murder in the Red Barn, Mr. Collinson appearing as the murderer, supported by well-known comedians, including Miss Selina Seaforth. The Bros. Egbert exhibited a marvellous novelty, which they guaranteed nobody had ever seen before. In Harry and Flora Blake's U.C.M. Museum were shown "curiosities collected at enormous expense from all portions of the earth," Mr. Sanders being the lecturer. A "Simple Life" Exhibition, for men only, was under the direction of Mr. Bob Hutt, and the "Talking Parrot" was another sensation; not to forget the sale by auction by Mr. Walter Inge of "a very valuable collection of curios and antiques, &c., obtained by artists from everywhere." Mr. Peter Adair, the veteran pedestrian, amused himself, at the suggestion of Mr. Will Oliver, by walking around the field for five hours.

THE FLIP FLAP RACE. Photo by Half Tones, Ltd.

It was quite a valuable collection of prizes that Mrs. Joe Elvin charmingly presented to the successful competitors at the conclusion of the Sports, and it was computed that their value exceeded the sum of £500.

One could scarcely leave this subject without paying a compliment to Mr. Leon A. Bassett for the delightful selections of music performed by his Light Infantry Band during the afternoon, and for his able conductorship.

The results of the different contests are as follow:—

120 YARDS RUNNING HANDICAP.

First prize, handsome solid silver tea and coffee services on stands, presented by the Grand Order of Water Rats; second prize, fitted gentleman's leather travelling case, presented by the Stage; third prize, set of razors for every day in the week, presented by Mr. Jimmy Shields; fourth prize, salad bowl, presented by Mrs. Fred Neiman.

Heat winners: Fred Laurel, 3yds.; J. Augustin, scratch; Will Crackles, 21; Bert Brantford, 9½; W. L. Murray, 1; Hal Forde, 7; Dick Kendall, 10; D. M. R. Hoffman, 2; Ted Cowan, 2½; W. C. Campbell, 2½. Second Round.—Heat 1: Kendall 1, Brantford 2. Time, 12 3-5sec. Heat 2: Forde, 1; Cowan, 2. Time, 13sec. Heat 3: Crackles 1; Murray 2. Time, 13 2-5sec. Heat 4: Mayo 1, Asher 2. Time, 13 2-5sec. Final: Forde 1; Kendall 2, Cowan 3, Mayo 4. Won by a foot; same. Time, 13 2-5sec.

MOTOR-CYCLING AT THE SPORTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I attended the Music Hall Sports meeting at Herne-hill on Wednesday last, and witnessed the "gamest" struggle of a roadster motor-cycle against Messrs. Colliers' trade racing "Matchless" motor-cycles it has ever been my good fortune to see. The rider of the roadster (1908 3½ "Triumph," all on—mud-guards, pedals, number-plate, &c.) was Mr. Leonard Mortimer (who, I understand, is an enthusiastic "Triumph" motorist) and he simply made "hacks" of the only other two roadsters in this amazing competition.

He started scratch, and had to give Mr. Harry Tate (on C. R. Collier's famous "Matchless" racer) 200 yards start. This start he also conceded to Mr. Ted Cowan, who had Harry Martin's equally famous "Matchless" racing bike, and eventually finished only a wheel behind Mr. Cowan, who secured second place.

The result to me was as astonishing as the handicap was amazing. Mr. F. Straight, of the Auto-Cycle Club, was down on the programme as handicapper for this curious event; but surely he never knew the machines that Messrs. Tate and Cowan intended to ride?

Much amusement was caused by Mr. Harry Tate, who kept the other competitors waiting on their lines while he went round the track two or three times to "warm" his racer.

Mr. Mortimer must feel proud of his fine effort, and equally proud of his "game" mount.—Yours faithfully,
A. T. STANTON.

GAUMONT COMPANY.

The Prince of Wales took great interest in the cinematographing of the Quebec Pageant by the Gaumont Company, and when in Mid-Atlantic sent a Marconigram to express his hope that the pictures would turn out successfully, and that through these cinematograph records the whole world would be able to see and appreciate the wonderful scenes enacted on the Plains of Abraham or Quebec. Messrs. Gaumont paid for and obtained the exclusive rights, which were cabled to them from Quebec, notwithstanding much influence brought to bear upon the authorities in favour of an American concern. In view of Messrs. Gaumont's wide experience with the English Pageants, it was felt that they were better able to do justice to the subject than any other concern.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

FILM GOSSIP.

Showmen and Managers throughout the United Kingdom, and in every English-speaking country, will find in this column particulars of some of the best and newest Films in the Market. Many of these Films we have seen ourselves, and can confidently recommend showmen to add them to their list of attractions.

Pathé Frères.

A Hydropathic Revenge treats the spectator to several comic scenes. This is how the story can be told:—At the hotel: An American lounging in a rocking-chair, rings the bell near at hand. Enter a servant. The Yankee: "My pipe." The servant gives it to him and goes. Another ring. The Yankee: "Tobacco." The servant, irritated, gives it to him grudgingly, and bangs the door on leaving the room. A minute later the Yankee rings again, and says "A light" to the exasperated servant. Ten p.m. The Yankee comes back, and throws himself on the bed without undressing. He rings the bell, and loosens a shower bath apparatus. The water pours down upon him, while the servant, through the keyhole, enjoys his revenge. Not for long, however, for the Yankee having seen him, makes him partake of the free bath.

The Border Limit.—Under this title we get a story of two neighbours (Rochin and Roval), who had been on bad terms for some time on account of a border limit between their respective pieces of ground, which Rochin was sure was not exactly where it ought to have been, and which Roval always replaced a little further into his own—Rochin's—field; of this he was sure. The last time Roval had to put back the stone he uttered some threats, for it was really too much for the man's patience. As ill-luck would have it, the ox-drover was in love with Roval's daughter, and a rival to Rochin's son with whom he had picked a quarrel; but instead of giving a fatal blow to the young man, it was the father he killed, and everybody in the village said that it was Roval who did it. The police come to arrest the supposed murderer; but his daughter, distracted with grief, runs away from home and wants to kill herself. The ox-drover, however, having followed her, confesses to his crime the moment she is going to throw herself into the river. Young Rochin, overhearing the dreadful thing, throws the murderer into the water, where he is drowned, then he opens his arms to the girl, who is now ready to face life again and its sorrows and joys.

A School Friend.—Comedy is well represented in this series. Two ladies meet in the street, look at each other in surprise, hesitate at the recollection of a likeness to a well-known face, then come forward with hands outstretched, while they utter each other's names. They had been school friends, but their paths in life lying in different directions, they have not met for years. One is richly married, while the other has linked her life to that of a man whose profession can be termed house-breaking, although he makes a show of having a trade of some sort. During lunch, at which the wealthy couple have been invited by the wife school chum, the latter receives a false telegram summoning her "to the death-bed of her aunt." In reality she goes to the house of her school friend, which she strips of its valuables, with the aid of her husband. However, the two burglars are discovered and punished according to their deserts.

The Beauty and the Beast.—This film is the staging-up of a fairy tale written by Madame Leprince de Beaumont, in which an incautious merchant is obliged to send one of his daughters to the dwelling place of a terrible monster. Yet the beast loves the girl, and she, after pitying it, loves it on account of its kindness. This love causes the beast to resume itse former state of human being, and they are married and live happily ever after.

The Unlucky Winner.—A conflagration at Spitzberg having caused the ice houses to melt and the inhabitants to be drowned, the small town of Catchit is organising a lottery for the benefit of the victims, the first prize being a South American animal. Old Peter being the lucky winner, he walks about the town with his beautiful Peruvian llama, which, struggling for freedom all the time, makes everybody run away. After various incidents the beautiful Llama lands at an important menagerie, where Old Peter makes up his mind to let it stay, for really it was too much in the way in his small cottage and town.

In connection with the Marathon Race film Messrs. Pathé Frères have received the following letter:—

"Messrs. Pathé Frères, London,
"31, 33, Charing Cross-road, W.C."
"8, Church-street, Soho, London,
"Aug. 6, 1908.

"Dear Sirs,—After having seen the film you took of the Marathon Race and my arrival inside the Stadium, I am pleased to compliment you on this wonderful production, as I am very pleased with it, for it shows all the incidents of the finish of the race.—I am, dear Sirs, yours truly,

Dorando

Charles Urban Trading Co., Ltd.

Travelling Through Russia.—Original, quaint, realistic, and impressive incidents of life in little-known Russia, which will edify and amuse at one and the same time. Beginning with St. Petersburg, delightful views of the Nevski Prospect and the principal streets, buildings, and bridges across the Neva, with their civil and military traffic, are afforded. A grand review of soldiers is next presented. First appears the infantry in line of battalions with fixed bayonets, and in more or less perfect alignment, every man fit and workmanlike. A regimental band is next shown, accompanying with its music the march of a regiment in sections of four on their way to kinematograph instruction and entertainment in the official school. Examples follow of Russian peasant industries: primitive spinning and weaving by women and children.

Views of Moscow next occur—a panorama from the river front, the Kremlin, the Great Bell of Moscow (showing the fracture), some of the cannon left by Napoleon, the ornate Pokrovsky Cathedral, &c. Scenes in and around Tiflis, the capital of Caucasia, are then projected. River and town views, narrow streets, quaint bullock carts claiming right of way over the more modern tram car. Russian racecourse scenes open with the arrival of the Viceroy and a dashing Cossack escort. Episodes of the races follow, including the paddock, the enclosure, the signal bell, the race, the winning jockey and his mount, weighing-in, &c.

Next we get a palase courtyard scene, which shows the Viceroy and his lady accompanied by a brilliant staff. Then there are scenes at the river-side, rafts floating down stream, the landing, refreshing the powerful oxen used to haul the heavy logs, a quaint team of six oxen, log rolling and haulage by bullocks—archaic, but effectual methods—and drivers seated backwards on the wide cross-bars or yokes. These are followed by characteristic Cossack dances and pastimes. Officers and men alike enter into these national sports with a zest and individual rivalry pleasant to witness. Formed in a semi-circle, the onlookers accompany the dancers by beating hands to the lively measures. The dancers detach themselves from the circle, and with nimble feet and twirling bodies emulate the previous performances with great verve in solo, duet, trio, and quartette dancing.

The interesting series concludes with a folk play performed by Cossacks—the enactment of a love scene, rivalry, fight, victor brings in the bride. The ring closes, and the fair lady is chased round the inner circle by the aspirant for her hand, until finally his ardour apparently convinces her of his eligibility.

The Asphalter's Dilemma is a comic picture-story of two Italian asphalters. One is industrious and the other arrives in a lazy mood. Expostulations and a quarrel ensue, which result in the loafer throwing his chum into a cauldron of boiling tar. The survivor then goes on the spree, but his crime so works upon his mind that everyone with whom he comes in contact assumes the form and features of his late victim. Most amusing incidents follow each case of "mistaken identity," and the climax is reached when the loafer is sleeping off the effects of his potations. The victim emerges in sections from the cauldron, the parts unite, limb to limb, and a happy ending is furnished by the villain and his victim, both greatly relieved, going to celebrate the occasion.

The Signalman's Sweetheart.—The signal-cabin is brightened for its occupant by a visit from his beloved. On her departure, and while still in sight of the signalman, the girl is assailed by two ruffians, robbed, and maltreated. Her lover dare not leave his post: the express is signalled, and a strenuous conflict between love and duty is depicted as the pointer indicates the near approach of the train. He remains at his post, but telegraphs for assistance, which arrives in the nick of time. The girl is carried to the cabin, but the signalman has fainted. His duties are undertaken by the relief men, and the lover bears his precious charge home. The subsequent meeting of the convalescent lovers forms a touching scene, and concludes a most absorbing and exciting series.

The Wrong Lottery Number.—The story of an official mistake in the publication of a lottery number is most amusingly depicted here. The holder of the declared winning number makes merry with his friends, borrows money, and purchases clothes in anticipation, holds high revel at an expensive hotel, and finally arrives at the lottery office, to be plunged into comic despair by the statement that the winning number is 5866, not—as originally stated—5899.

"Urbanora" at the Palace Theatre.—There has just been included in the "Urbanora" exhibit at the Palace Theatre a full series of animated pictures of what cannot be regarded other than as the most memorable Cowes Week—alike from a national, social, and a sailing point of view—that has ever been celebrated on the waters of the Solent. The scenes, which were expressly taken for this theatre by the Urban operators and are singularly clear in definition, include close views of Shamrock, Germania, Cicely, Britannia, Creole, Carina, and other racers in all classes, as well as the splendid cruiser Indomitable and a delightfully intimate picture of their Majesties on board the Royal yacht.

CINEMATOGRAPH ACTION.

An action of considerable importance to cinematograph proprietors and proprietors of music halls and other places of entertainment where the cinematograph is an attraction came before his Honour Judge Benson in the Sheffield County Court on Thursday, Aug. 13. The plaintiff was Elisha Charles Clayton, cinematograph proprietor, of 276, Western Bank, Sheffield; and the defendant was William Holland, of the St. James's Theatre, Manchester. Plaintiff sought to recover £25 damages, representing two weeks' engagement in lieu of notice, for breach of contract, and 10s. for the use of a special film of the Grand National Race. Mr. T. E. Ellison (instructed by Mr. Kesteven) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Meunier represented the defendant. Plaintiff's case was that early in the year, hearing that the defendant had taken over the control of the St. James's Theatre, Manchester, he went to see him for the purpose of obtaining a contract to show Bioscope pictures at his theatre. Plaintiff's terms were £15 for a ninety minutes' show nightly, or £12 10s. for a sixty minutes' show. A contract was entered into, and one of the terms of this contract was that a fortnight's notice should be given before the engagement was terminated. In accordance with this agreement plaintiff commenced showing his pictures at the theatre on March 2. The pictures were shown for some time without complaint, and then the defendant wrote, stating that some of the pictures were not as new as he desired, and to the effect that he was very anxious not to be beaten by the Grand Theatre, a rival place. A little while before the Grand National Race was run defendant wrote to the plaintiff, asking him to endeavour to procure a picture of the race to be shown on the Saturday night. If plaintiff could not obtain this film so soon after the race defendant suggested that a picture of the old Grand National be shown, as "one Grand National is very much like another." Plaintiff was not able to obtain a picture of the real Grand National the day after the race was run. Accordingly he obtained a film of an old Grand National, and this film was shown on the Saturday night, and the real one was put on the screen on the following Monday.

When on one occasion plaintiff went to see the defendant he pointed out to him (the defendant) that he (the defendant) had taken off one of the latest films and one of the best in that week's show—The Pumpkin Race. On Monday, March 30, defendant wired to the plaintiff, stating that the pictures had not been the latest and most up-to-date, and giving him notice that the engagement terminated on the following Saturday. Plaintiff thereupon went to see him, and in the interview defendant admitted that he was going into partnership with another man who had films and apparatus of his own. Therefore, plaintiff's services would be no longer required. Plaintiff, in the course of his evidence, admitted that three of the films he had used were not up to date, but these, he stated, were included in the programme at the desire of the defendant. Mr. F. W. Holmes, manager for Jasper Redfern and Co., Ltd., Sheffield, said the pictures exhibited were a first-class show. Some of the films were supplied by his firm to the plaintiff. In some cases, said witness, their films were shown first at their own place—the Grand, Manchester—and were then supplied to the plaintiff, and in other cases the plaintiff had the use of the films before they appeared at the Grand. Some of the films supplied to the plaintiff never had appeared at the Grand. Mr. W. E. Dennison, manager of Films, Limited, said the pictures that plaintiff had shown were "a good average for a picture show." A great many of the pictures were up to date. Mr. Lacy Lyne, the late manager of the Palace Theatre, Attercliffe, and Mr. John Mason, Bioscope operator, also spoke as to the good quality of the pictures shown by the plaintiff.

For the defence it was urged that there had been a general breach of the contract by the plaintiff, as he had undertaken to show the most up-to-date and best pictures procurable, but he had not done so. The defendant, in the witness-box, asserted that a number of the pictures were anything but up to date. The film The Pumpkin Race, which he acknowledged was up to date, he did not use, as he understood that it had been shown at the Grand Theatre a week earlier. He denied that he had expressly desired the plaintiff to show the three old films that plaintiff had referred to in his evidence. Also he denied that he had told the plaintiff that he would have kept the plaintiff on if it had not been for his losses and for the arrangements he had made with another man. On several occasions he had said to the plaintiff that the pictures were not as new as they should be. Under cross-examination, defendant admitted that whether or not a film was up to date was purely a matter of opinion. His Honour, in summing up, said the question to be considered was: What was an up-to-date picture? No two witnesses in the case appeared to have specifically agreed as to what really constituted an up-to-date picture. It seemed to be purely a matter of opinion as to the length of time during which a picture might be so described. He came to the conclusion that there had been no substantial breach of the agreement to justify the sudden termination of it not in accordance with the terms of the contract. But his Honour held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover only the damage that he had sustained on account of the loss of the two weeks' employment. Accordingly he gave judgment for the plaintiff for £6 10s.

Godolphin Eugene S. Cooke, aged 16½, son of Mrs. Mab Barton, was passing on Friday morning, Aug. 7, at half-past ten on his bicycle in front of the Eye Hospital, St. George's-circus, when the horses of a country cart drew in to take water from a trough and knocked him over. A doctor and nurse ran out of the hospital and attended to him. The police then came on the scene, and the sufferer was removed on an ambulance to St. Thomas's Hospital, where he now remains as an in-patient. From X-rays examination the doctors find the arm is not broken. The accident has been a great shock to his mother.

An important engagement for The Sands of Dee is that fine actor, Mr. J. H. Barnes, who it is interesting to recall, first appeared at the old Lyceum as Irving's double in The Bells, and later, at the same house, supported Mary Anderson as Ingomar, some years after his series of successful engagements at the old Strand. He is as well-known, too, in America as in London. Mr. Barnes is an original member of the Green Room Club, and has written quite a quantity of serious verse.

The story of this latest Hippodrome drama opens with a representation of the sands of Dee, the sea being seen in the distance. Basil Dean, the village villain, as he cannot honestly win the love of Mary Stephens, determines to sell up the home of her old fisherman father, whose bond he holds for £100. The old man's grandson, on his arrival from America, learns of his family's dire straits, and offers to settle the financial difficulties.

By a pretext Basil persuades Mary to come on the sands of Dee in the hope of meeting John Hooper, her lover. When she arrives, he seizes her and binds her to the warning post. He knows that the racing tide will turn in ten minutes and sweep everything to destruction. But a tiny child gives warning of Mary's awful fate, and, just in time, John gallops into the rapidly-rising waters and rescues her in sight of Basil, who in his madness falls over the edge of the cliff, and is lost in the swirl of the current.

The new Hippodrome, Middlesbrough, will open its doors on Monday. This magnificent building, which is one of the finest music halls in the North, will accommodate 3,000. The chairman of the company is Mr. John Price, the managing-director, Signor Pepi, and on the board of directors are Messrs. Will Sley and David Bliss. The acting-manager is Mr. A. E. Nicholls. The company engaged for the opening is Arthur Prince, Cynthia, Three Royal Dreadnoughts, Athas and Collins, Jock Whiteford, Tally Ho Trio, the Carmos, Pepiscope, and Florrie Forde. Enormous success is anticipated.

Mr. Fenwick, who has for some years been stage-manager at the Palace, West Hartlepool, has been appointed stage-manager.

Frame, the evergreen, who, with his talented variety company, is touring Scotland, on his last American tour received an unsolicited testimonial as a mirth-provoker from a New York physician, who wrote as follows:—"Shut up in the house with grippe for three weeks, I determined to go and see if a good laugh wouldn't cure me. Sure enough, this morning I feel better than for a long time, and I shall recommend Dr. Frame to my patients suffering as I have." Hooch aye!

The interment of the remains of Miss Adelaide Macarte took place at Brockley on Wednesday, the funeral being from 54, Tressillian-road, St. John's, S.E.

Mr. Frank Price, whose play, A Country Girl in London, was so successful on its recent production by Messrs. Northway and Garrod that these enterprising managers have already secured another drama from his pen, has disposed of a musical-comedy sketch to Moss' Empires. Some delightful music has been written for the sketch by Mr. Ernest A. Thiel, one waltz song in particular being calculated to linger in the memory. The principal parts will be in the hands of Mr. Daley Cooper and Miss Mabel Lait, who have already scored largely in the same author's sketch The Duke of Codham.

A striking tribute has been paid to John Lawson's drawing powers this week at the Portsmouth Empire, where he is playing the never-failing Humanity. Notwithstanding that it is the week after the holidays, "House Full" boards have been in evidence all the week. This week Mr. Lawson has tried some new staircase effects in the big fight, and he promises to introduce them on his appearance in town. Pigs in Clover, by J. J. Spencer Sutcliffe, will be Mr. Lawson's first production on his return to London. This episode has proved a remarkable success in the country.

The latest quotations of music hall shares are as follow:—Alhambra 1½; Canterbury, ½; Empire (15s. pd.), 1½; Do. (10s. pd.), 1; Gaiety, 1½; London Pavilion Ord., 3½; Do. Pref., 4½; Metropolitan, 10s.; Moss Empire, 5½; Do. 5 p.c. Pref., 3½; Oxford, 6 1-16; Palace, 19s. 9d.; Tivoli, 5; Variety Consolidated Theatres, ½.

At the Holloway Empire this week Mr. E. A. Esmonde has produced a sketch without a name, by T. M. Paule, offering a prize to the discoverer of the best title. Sir Richard Temple, a politician, annoyed at being excluded from the Cabinet, writes an angry letter to the Prime Minister, which falls into the possession of one Barrington Selmore, M.P. Sir Richard fears that Selmore may use it to ruin him. Eric Duncombe, who is in love with Sir Richard's ward, induces his servant, a reformed convict, to "burgle" Selmore's house and secure the letter, obtaining as his reward Sir Richard's consent to the match. The little piece was well acted all round.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

Fairs Ahead.

The fairs ahead for next week are: Kirkstall, on the Midland; Long Eaton, on the Midland; Lowmoor, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Morley, on the Great Northern and London and North-Western; Barnsley, on the Great Central, Midland, Lancashire and Yorkshire, and Hull, Barnsley, and West Riding Junction; Birstall, on the London and North-Western; Darley, on the Midland; Great Harwood, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Hartlepool, on the North-Eastern; Stonehouse, on the Midland and Great Western; Ashbourne, on the London and North-Western and North Staffordshire; Bracknell, on the London and South-Western; Darlaston, on the London and North-Western; Delph, on the London and North-Western; Ipswich, on the Great Eastern; Middleton, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Newton Heath, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Shipton, on the North-Eastern; Saddleworth, on the London and North-Western; Whittington, on the Midland; and Irvine, on the Glasgow and South-Western Railways.

GUILD subscriptions, 1908: Per Mr. Frank Mellor, Oldham, subscribers to the funds for opposing the Movable Dwellings Bill, £15; Mrs. E. Whittaker, hon. member, 10s. 6d.

Featherstone Feast.

HERE for the Feast were Tuby's Coliseum, Wortley's two shows, White's Dime Museum and No. 2 show, the Stereorama, Kent's great freak crab show, Tuby's motor track, Tuby's four-abreast horses, and swings and highfliers by Messrs. Pullan and A. and W. Fisher. The Winchester ranges, bottle batteries, novelty and throwing games were by Messrs. Pullan, Fisher, Culver, Walsen, Griffiths, Johnson, Caulfield, and Smith.

Bilton Feast, Harrogate.

AT this well-known Yorkshire pleasure fair were Dennis's circus of varieties, Smith and Warren's switchback, Harniess' steam horses, and the usual minor attractions, in well-ordered variety.

Middlesbrough Holidays.

FOR the amusement of the people at holiday time, the following capital aggregation of shows, roundabouts, &c., was at the Market Fairground: Crow's cinematograph show and galloping horses, Rich's juvenile horses and swings, Lamonds' gem motors, and swings, shooters, and variety frames by Duffield, Twillery, Hutchinson, Walkins, Hasker, and Rich.

Brighton Fair.

LONDON-BY-THE-SEA had its holiday fair. Here were two great menageries, the well-known concerns of Wm. Sedgwick and A. Purchase, Tom Norman's show, the Dahomey Village, Elliott's boxers, roundabouts by Carter and Smith, and shooters, throwing games, and stalls by a big crowd of amusement caterers.

News from Scotland.

KELSO Fair holidays were kept in famous swing by Miller's cinematograph theatre, Cross and Broughton's machines, swings, shooting ranges, and variety stalls, and the concerns of Messrs. Russell, Cooper, Black, and other caterers.

Biggleswade.

MESSRS. BARKER AND THURSTON are paying their third annual visit to this town, and are located in the large Market-square during this week. The electric motor-cars are quite an attractive item, and are well patronised. The cinematograph exhibition, under the direction of Mr. Charles Thurston, is crowded at every show; the films exhibited are very much up to date, and universal satisfaction is given to appreciative audiences. On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Chas. Thurston, with his usual generosity, invited the inmates of the Workhouse to the show, and after the performance each visitor received a present in the shape of tea, sugar, tobacco, &c. Needless to say, the visitors were very grateful to Mr. Thurston for this act of kindness. On Sunday Mr. Thurston gave a show, the proceeds, amounting to about £10, being given to the local Blanket Society for the poor.

Stockport August Fair.

THE principal concerns at this fixture were supplied by the local firm of show caterers, Hibbert and Sons, who exhibited galloping horses, racing birds, and park swings. The big show was Capt. Tom Payne's superb new bioscope. Shooters and varieties were supplied by Messrs. Jewell, Cordwell, Thomas, and other caterers.

Drypool Feast, Hull.

DRYPOOL is the great riverside suburb of Kingston-on-Hull. It keeps its own fair the second week in August, and is usually well supplied with shows, machines, and fairground novelties. The machine novelties were the principal attractions this year, and these included motor-tracks by Howden and Son and J. W. Waddington, Richards's new cake-walk machine, Morley's steam swings, Shipley's galloping horses, and Payne's manual swings. The other amusements were Payne's rifle saloon and coker sheets, T. Burgin's variety frames, and W. H. Doubtfire's throwing games.

Holiday Fair at Hastings.

IN the cricket ground at this popular seaside resort Messrs. Hastings and Whayman have held a Fancy Fair for a fortnight. These enterprising showmen are able to set up a complete fair—cinematograph theatre, motors and galloping horses, aerial flight, swings, shooting galleries, and throwing games.

Lindfield Fair.

THIS old countryside fair was held under ideal conditions as regards weather and the attendance of visitors. There was the usual aggregation of fairground novelties, and right well did the people enjoy the fun of the fair.

Moss Side Wakes, Manchester.

THIS new venture on the suburban circuit of Cottonopolis was well maintained by P. Collins, jun.'s No. 2 Wonderland exhibition of living and talking pictures, Mander's Star menagerie, Westwood's Colonial giant children show, J. Hastings' two ground booths, the giant lady and Major Mite, the Midget Wonder, and various side shows.

THE riding machines were John Collins' three sets, the motor-cars, the electric jumping horses, and the steam yachts; there were shooting ranges, throwing games, penalty frames, pannum and toy stalls, by a crowd of caterers, including Messrs. S. Mercer, Walsen, Humphries, W. Murphy, and J. D. Humphreys.

Hazel Grove Wakes.

A GREAT aggregation of fair-ground novelties gathered at this suburb of Stockport for the annual wakes. There were two grounds, and on these were seen E. Holland's machines, W. Davies' machines, Marple's living pictures, Dobson's shooting gallery, Jewell's varieties, Birch's similar concerns, S. Jones' throwing games, and a well-ordered display of minor novelties, stalls, &c.

The Latest News from Penzance.

THE Western Evening News, under date Aug. 13, has the following short report of the proceedings in the Penzance Borough Council with regard to the extraordinary claim of the Corporation to prevent carnivals on private land in or near the borough:—

"CORPUS CHRISTI FAIR: LEGAL ACTION.

"On the subjects of South-terrace and Corpus Christi Fair, the Mayor asked the Corporation to go into committee immediately after the close of the meeting.

"Mr. W. H. Julyan said these matters were important, and he hoped members would not be annoyed if incorrect information appeared in the Press consequent upon the absence of reporters.

"When the committee proceedings were over, the Town Clerk (Mr. T. H. Cornish) said the Council had received a report with regard to the state of the negotiations for the purchase of land at South-terrace, and, as those negotiations were incomplete, it was resolved that they should be continued.

"Concerning Corpus Christi Fair, the Corporation had had read to them the case submitted to counsel (Mr. S. H. Leonard, Recorder of Penzance), and his opinion thereon regarding the rights of the Corporation, and the opinion was distinctly favourable to their contention. Consequently, he (the Town Clerk) was directed to take the necessary steps at law, as laid down in counsel's opinion.

"This meant (added Mr. Cornish) that the Town Council would commence an action for a declaration of rights, damages, and an injunction against Colonel Bolitho, Mr. J. Kemp White, Messrs. Hancock, Anderton and Rowland, and Brewer."

IT will be extremely interesting to our readers to read the full text of the learned counsel's opinion. The claim to a monopoly of fair rights is a big claim in itself, but the further claim to prevent the owners of land letting sites for pleasure carnivals and fêtes is a much more serious matter, and is an invasion of the right of property that will meet with the strongest protest and opposition.

The World's Fair, 1908-9.

MR. T. E. READ is again making forward arrangements and preparations for the Empire's greatest fair under cover, at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Islington. Bostock's No. 1 Menagerie will again be the zoological attraction; Hanneford's Canadian Circus, with great aerial and equestrian turns, will again have command of the arena. We draw our readers' attention to the advertisement in this week's issue. We note that Mr. Read is giving a preference to his old tenants.

CARMARTHEN August Fair was held on Wednesday in beautifully fine weather The attractions at the pleasure fair were not so numerous as in previous years, but business on the whole was good. Messrs. Haggar and Sons' electric bioscope and Mr. Steel Parry's electric bioscope were the chief attractions, and there were numerous cokernut shies, Aunt Sallies, aquariums, &c.

AT the Winter Gardens, New Brighton, another first-class programme is provided this week. Cronow, in his protean act; the Lynnes, in a smart musical sketch, and the Six Colberts, in a clever juggling interlude, have all scored unmistakably. Mr. Vernon Harcourt recites "The Dream of Eugene Aram" in a masterly manner, and Mlle. Vernona, who plays upon several novel instruments, and Mr. Alex Lofton, coloured comedian and dancer, are both favourites with the audience. Herr A. Spiegler arouses enthusiasm by his splendid violin solos. The animated pictures are all admirable.

THE Pierrots are appearing at the Pier Pavilion, New Brighton. Mr. Charles Harvey is warmly received by his admirers, and Mr. Harrison Latimer proves himself the possessor of a fine baritone voice. Mr. Fred Barnes and Mr. J. Watson are smart comedians, and Miss Edith Benson has a sweet voice, whilst Miss Edna Barrett is a good dancer; Mr. Harvey also appears in a sketch, The Broken Statue. Mr. A. J. Braddock accompanies admirably.

THE bill for the variety entertainment given in the New Brighton Tower Theatre this week includes a second week for the Four Scoreys, with their queer musical entertainments and peculiarly attractive effects; the Emerald Gems, a combination of four bright young ladies in Hibernian songs and dances; Miss Nellie Hill, a clever young songstress and acrobatic dancer; and the Zuyder Zee Girls in Dutch songs and dances; together with the Tower Bioscope with a number of pathetic and comedy pictures.

THE New Brighton Tower Theatre has taken a new lease of life since the change in policy was inaugurated, and the business now is constantly what is termed "capacity."

THE Cummins's Wild West in the big arena and all the numerous attractions at Brighton Tower are doing an exceptionally large business since Bank Holiday, and as the people of Liverpool, Manchester, and district have their outings mostly in August and September, the prospects for a big business at the Tower are particularly bright.

HERETOFORE the theatre at the Brighton Tower has been closed during the winter season, but it is altogether probable that it will be kept open as a variety house all through the cold weather.

FOR the concert on Sunday night at the Brighton Tower Theatre the eminent tenor Ben Davies, with the renowned Tower orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Thomas Rimmer, will furnish the programme. Last Sunday night Miss Marie Hall, the famous violinist, and party gave the concert, and packed the great house to its utmost.

MISS MABEL MAVIS writes:—"In noticing the Pier Pavilion, Hastings, last week your representative omitted all mention of my name. Truly, on Tuesday evening I was able to do little more than apologise, as I had cut my hand when finishing the previous evening; but all the rest of the week I gave my usual entertainment, and met with a more than gratifying reception. To be omitted from a notice in The Era is a calamity to be avoided when possible."

MR. LOUIS DE REEDER'S agency has been moved to more commodious offices at 24, Buckingham-street, Strand.

WITH much éclat the Sylvan Palace in the Elysian Grove, Aberystwith, was opened on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 5., by Sir Edward W. Parry-Pryse, Bart., Gogerddan. The building, situated close to the entrance to the Grove, is 80ft. long by 40ft. wide, and is capable of seating 800 people. It is constructed of red pine, which on the outside is decorated with cream and blue paint and on the inside varnish has been used. At the upper end is the platform, which is 40ft. wide by 15ft. deep.

IN declaring the hall open, Sir Edward Pryse said he was delighted with the hall which Mr. Richardes had provided. It would form a great addition to the attractions of the town. Mr. Richardes, in reply, thanked Sir Edward Pryse for the many kind things which he had said. Mr. Harry Collins' Merry Mascot Minstrels then submitted an entertainment, which was much appreciated. In the evening Captain Fossett Roberts was in the chair, and another excellent programme was submitted by the Minstrels. The manager is Mr. A. Vaughan.

SHOWMEN AND CITIZENSHIP.

THE remarkable development of showman enterprise in the present day has opened up great possibilities of public service to the showman. We need only refer to the fact that showmen are to-day distinguished and useful members of Town Councils, and in some instances have been chosen as aldermen and mayors. This, of course, has been where, in addition to the travelling concerns following the fairs, the showman has had large interests and fixed exhibitions in his own town.

The latest candidate for civic honours and for public service is the world-famous and universally respected Edward H. Bostock, proprietor of the Glasgow Zoo and Hippodrome. Mr. Bostock is a vice-president of the Showmen's Guild, a man of great business acumen, and closely identified with all that is best in the world of shows.

The Glasgow paper, the Bailie, under date Aug. 12, gives the following interesting local biography of Mr. Bostock under the heading "Men You Know":—

"One of the men whom all Glasgow folk know, whose name is a familiar word in their mouths, is

MR. E. H. BOSTOCK.

Mr. Bostock, of the Zoo-Hippodrome. The Bostock family have long had a leading place in the ranks of wild-beast tamers, of those who apply themselves to the work of forming zoological collections or establishing menageries. They are descended from the George Wombwell whose travelling menagerie was so popular half a century ago over the length and breadth of the land. But popular as had been the Wombwell collection with our fathers, that of Bostock when it visited Glasgow was equally popular. Something like a dozen years back, or thereby, Mr. E. H. Bostock, who had already formed an intimate acquaintance with Glasgow, made up his mind to settle down in our midst. He leased the building known as Olympia, at the east end of the New City-road, converting it into a zoological museum, wherein he placed his extensive collection of beasts, birds, and reptiles, the largest private collection of its kind in the United Kingdom. The 'Zoo,' to give it the name by which everybody knew it, and everybody knows it to-day, was opened in 1897, and became, from the date of its opening, a place of general resort. Later on he added a variety theatre to his zoological establishment, and the theatre—its recognised title is 'The Hippodrome'—is as popular as 'The Zoo.' To run two such enterprises, and run them successfully, means that Mr. Bostock is a first-rate man of business. His work is work that demands energy, foresight, and a close acquaintance with affairs. He must know, down to its most minute detail, the work of both departments of his establishment; what is more, he must know Glasgow and the people of Glasgow—what the people of Glasgow like, how they desire to be amused, and the prevailing trend of their feelings and tastes on all matters of public import. It was consequently a happy inspiration that led Mr. Bostock, when Councillor Dallas intimated two or three weeks ago his retirement from the representation of the Sixteenth Ward, the Cowcaddens Ward, in the Town Council, to determine that he would become a candidate for the vacancy. Mr. Bostock is essentially a Cowcaddens man. He lives and moves in the Cowcaddens. While he has necessarily a general interest in the city as a whole, his special interest is in the ward in which he is one of the largest ratepayers. His prosperity is bound up in no small measure with the prosperity of his own district. As a member, moreover, of the Town Council, he would bring a fresh eye and a vigorous brain to the consideration and discussion of things municipal. The City Fathers, as everybody knows, are prone to get into ruts. They follow in one another's footsteps, coming into odds over minor matters, but seldom holding more than one view in regard to subjects of the first importance. Consequently the appearance of Mr. Bostock in their midst would constitute something of a new departure, and a departure distinctly advantageous to the city, in the membership of the Corporation. Mr. Dallas, who has retired from the Cowcaddens seat, was a model member of the Town Council. He was unconventional; he was never afraid to speak out. And these are two qualities which, we may feel certain, would distinguish the George-square career of Mr. Bostock, should the vacancy, as everybody understands that it will, fall to his lot. Like Mr. Bostock's other friends, the Bailie wishes him all manner of success—continued success in his Zoo-Hippodrome establishment, and success in his candidature for the representation of the Sixteenth Ward."

LAST Saturday Captain Cecil Clayton, managing-director of the Grand Theatre Company, Mansfield, held his second annual fête. During the afternoon and evening good stage performances were given. Captive-balloon ascents were a great feature. About seven o'clock a right-away ascent and a parachute descent took place. After rising to a height of 6,000ft. the lady parachutist left the balloon and landed about three miles away. The balloon continued its voyage, and eventually landed at Boston, a distance of sixty miles. The fête was a great success.

"PATENTS AND DESIGNS"—a new illustrated weekly journal—will be published at 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, London, W.C., on the 22nd inst., by Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, whose name has been so long associated with successful newspaper management, and should be carefully perused by every reader of this column. This paper is called into existence by the coming into force on the 28th inst. of the principal provision of the new Patents Act, which will practically revolutionise existing relations between foreign patentees and British manufacturers. The price of the paper will be twopence. A special column will be devoted to "Inventions Needed," and will no doubt contain many useful suggestions which readers of inventive faculty will turn to profitable account.

INVENTIONS.

[The particulars furnished below of recent applications for patents are taken from the official records. Correspondence is invited with our readers on all matters relating to new ideas and inventions, with a view to affording them advice and assistance. Letters should be addressed to the Manager, Inventions Department, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, London.]

Inventors and others who have no business representative are invited to communicate with the Manager of the Inventions Dept. as above.

ABRIDGEMENTS OF SPECIFICATIONS.

5,808.—Tobogganing. Mateyka, F. J., of London. A tobogganing track consists of a serpentine course, Fig. 1, surrounded by canvas scenery, a staircase leading from an opening (B) in the scenery to the top (D) of the track. The floor of the track is polished, and rows of balls are let into the track so as to reduce the friction in places and allow the toboggan to descend at varying speeds. The toboggan is shaped like a slipper, as shown in Fig. 2, and is formed with a leather bottom, canvas or leather sides, and a cone framing (E) with handles (a) around the top. The track is formed with hand-rails and with raised sides, which, at the curved parts of the track, are provided with casings in which are mounted balls to guide the toboggans in their descent. Electric fans for producing breezes are placed near the track.

5,553.—Advertising; kaleidoscopes. Spong, J. O., of London.

Apparatus for producing and exhibiting kaleidoscopic effects, and in some cases advertisements, announcements, &c., consisting of a box capable of being inclined at a suitable angle, and provided at the front with an opening such as 2, enclosed by means such as 6, arranged at an angle to each other; a rotating disc or box such as 5 carrying the coloured objects, and in some cases advertisements, and having its centre near the angle of the mirrors; a spring hammer for tapping the disc and actuated by its movement; and a device for controlling the movement of the disc. The disc is provided with means such as studs (14) on its face to retard the movements of the objects. In the construction shown, the disc is rotated by a spring motor, and its movement is controlled by an arm (15). The spring hammer (10) is caused to give a succession of taps by projections (9) on the underside of the disc.

In addition to the advertisements on the disc, carried, for example, on a suitable projection, figures or devices may be placed on the plate (11), or wire, or wall in the opening, and an advertisement glass illuminated by a lamp in the box may be arranged in the front of the casing. According to the Provisional Specification, the mirrors are so arranged as to be capable of adjustment as regards angle and position.

THE CHARTER FAIR AT MITCHAM.

Despite the persistent efforts of the Mitcham Conservators to extinguish the fair, the people of Mitcham had their annual three days of open-air amusement without let or hindrance—not the people of Mitcham alone, but of South London (Clapham, Balham, Tooting, Merton, Croydon) have joined in the great carnival of the open fair. If ever an old-time institution deserved to live on account of its present-day usefulness then Mitcham Fair deserves not only to live and prosper, but it deserves full opportunity, on a bigger site on the people's common, to grow with the growing needs of the vast population the fair serves.

The Conservators' Great Opportunity.

Again we ask the Mitcham Conservators to consider the matter on wise and broad lines—to get away from the merely personal and sectional reasons for their present line of action and to give generous consideration to the wishes and the claims of the people of Mitcham and of South London. The Home Secretary is prepared to favourably consider any reasonable scheme for the removal of the old fair to a new and bigger site on the common.

The Conservators are to-day what the Lords of the Manor were years ago. To make a fair was to confer a public benefit; it was good for the people and good for the trade and business of the town. No one who has given any real thought or study to the social and economic problem of to-day will deny that wholesome open-air amusement is altogether good for the workers of our towns and cities. The Conservators of Mitcham Common Lands have a great opportunity of providing for this undeniable need of the people. We ask them to do the right thing—in this instance the wise and generous thing—provide a larger fairground, and ask the Home Secretary to transfer the Charter rights of the fair to the new ground. We already know that the showmen would gladly co-operate with the local authorities in asking for its removal to a new site. Surely it is not beyond the resources of the leaders of the people to bring about a peaceful and practical solution of a matter that appeals so directly to public sentiment as the maintenance of the people's ancient fair?

Honest Sentiment and Sound Business Sense.

To acknowledge that public sentiment is right in desiring to retain and to improve the fair the Conservators will best attain the great object for which the Board was created—the maintenance of the people's commons for the people. The increased revenues from the larger fairground would give them means to improve the commons and to make them more and more the playing-fields and the gardens of the people. We understand that to a certain extent there has been a change in the personnel of the Board and its officials. We suggest that a review of its past policy with regard to the people's fair would be not only wise and opportune, but it would win the esteem and respect of the great masses of the people to whom the commons are the precious heritage of the past, and the only land that remains common to all alike, rich and poor, lord and commoner.

London's Interest in the Fair.

All the great London newspapers sent their representatives to Mitcham to chronicle day by day the incidents of the fair. Thousands of visitors from all parts of the Metropolis went to "Lavender Land" to see and hear the very latest development of the struggle of the people of the old village to maintain their fair and ancient annual holiday.

Showmen from all parts of England gathered in order to make the fair. In point of actual number of showmen, stallholders, fairground traders, and amusement caterers Mitcham has never seen so great an invasion. The liberty of the Charter to draw on to the ground is well known to the whole body of showpeople, near and far. The attempt of the Conservators for the past three fairs to set up another custom by issuing a notice of wholesale refusal to let sites on the Fair Green was again ignored, and at the customary time the showmen drew on the Fair Green, and the shows, roundabouts, &c., were soon in process of erection. This took place, according to the usual plan, at noon the day before the fair, and all the concerns were ready for their crowds of patrons on Fair-day—Wednesday, the 12th—and the two following days.

Shows and Machines on the Fair Green.

Biddall Bros.' electrograph stood on the central pitch at the top of the green, J. Mander's fine set of steam horses were on the ground at the main entrance, and G. Beach's composite set, racing birds and horses, was on the central pitch. G. Holmes's juvenile motors were also erected. These concerns were quite sufficient to occupy most of the available ground on the green, but in addition to these were numerous stalls, throwing games, swings, side-shows, and toy bazaars.

On the other available sites at the junction of Mitcham and Croydon roads were the minor shows—stalls and throwing games, shooters, strikers, cokers, and novelty frames of a big crowd of amusement caterers. The one great result of the action of the Conservators has been to ensure an entirely new aggregation of fairground novelties and fresh set of entertainers for the people's fair.

Private Venture Fairgrounds.

The chief of these again this year, as last, was provided by Mr. H. Thurston, whose enterprise in the matter is most commendable, and whose success has fully shown what we have endeavoured to impress upon the minds of the Conservators, that, given a chance to grow, Mitcham Fair would become the best of the few remaining fairs of Greater London. Mr. Thurston was able to find room for some of the old tenants of Mitcham Fair now under the injunction of the High Court not to trespass on the Fair Green. Mr. Thurston exhibited his fine set of motor-cars—his No. 2 set—the galloping horses, and the helter-skelter tower. The other shows, &c., on this ground were:—W. Le Neve and Norah Sullivan, the "Sandows" of the fairground; C. Bailey's fine art show and shooting gallery; Harris's park swings and shooting range; and throwing games, coker sheets, and variety stalls by Messrs. Harris, H. Smith, R. Theodore, H. Barnard, W. Harris, C. Ives, E. Shaw, C. Kefford, W. Stackwood, Swales, J. Harris, and other caterers.

Mr. Alf. Ball's Private Ground.

Mr. Ball was able to exhibit his splendid new show on the same commanding position as last year. He was also able to find room for some of his fellow-showmen, who like himself are under the ban of the High Court. The new Lyceum was again the centre of attraction, and Mr. Ball himself more popular than ever with the people of Mitcham.

Other Private Pitches.

Mr. Wm. Biddall with the Royal Electric Bioscope again pitched on private land adjoining the Fair Green. This show was deservedly much admired and drew big audiences.

On several small pitches of private land a number of the old tenants now under injunction found opportunity of still catering for the amusement of their old friends and patrons. It was easy to see that the people of Mitcham sympathised with the old tenants of the fair, and that popular feeling ran high in favour of the showmen forbidden to use the Fair Green.

MOUNTING SHAKESPEARE.

Mr. Tree, wrote Mr. A. B. Walkley, in "Drama and Life," in respect to Mr. Tree's production of Much Ado About Nothing, is not only justified in giving us a fresh treatment of Shakespeare; he simply cannot help himself, if he would keep Shakespeare alive; and the text-worshippers, the strait sect which would turn Elizabethan stage-directions into phylacteries, are in reality the people who can only think of Shakespeare as dead. Their absurd attitude is at the acme of absurdity when adopted over such a play as Much Ado About Nothing, which as a play is as bad as bad can be. It is just the play which Aristotle might have had, by anticipation, in mind when he dwelt on the supreme importance of plot. Everybody knows the weaknesses of Much Ado. It has the initial weakness—shared with many another of Shakespeare's plays—of a dramatised novel. In the church scene Claudio is cheerfully degraded into a blackguard for the sake of a coup de théâtre. The cock-and-bull story of Hero's death is invented, and Claudio is turned into a weak ass, for the sake of another coup de théâtre in the final scene. What, then, is it that, despite its crying faults, makes Much Ado so delightful? It is, to begin with, its strong and pulsing vitality—the expression of Shakespeare's experiencing and enjoying faculty—the intense animal, semi-savage vitality of Benedick and Beatrice, the "May of youth and bloom of lustihood" in Claudio, the enduring vitality of Leonato and Antonio leaping out into flame in their old age, the minx-like vitality of Margaret and Ursula, the roystering and bacchanalian vitality of Borachio, the sturdy bovine vitality of Dogberry. And then it is its panache, its careless non-moral Renaissance romance. And, again, it is its Hugoesque touch of the luridly-fiendish in Don John set against the shifting polychromatic revel of masque and dance. Here is the "virtue" of the play, the set of elements by which it lives; and all the questions we need ask ourselves about the present revival are concerned with these elements. Does it make the best of them? Are they helped or are they hindered by Mr. Tree's innovations?

I believe that any jury of "average sensual men" will unhesitatingly find for Mr. Tree on both counts. The acting is brimming over with that vitality which, as I have said, is the prime characteristic of the play. Mr. Tree "keeps the pot a-bilin'" as merrily as Mr. Pickwick when hustled down the slide by Sam Weller. There are parts, it may be, in which his temperament would be more comfortably at home; his Benedick is, however, a very careful and on the whole successful "composition." If, as has been objected, he has his own way with stage directions, I can see no harm in it. He climbs a tree in the scene in the arbour instead of hiding behind the usual shrubbery, he jots down "The God of Love, that sits above" on his tablets instead of singing the song—and why should he not? There is tremendous vitality in Mr. Calvert's Dogberry—an altogether admirable piece of work. But this Dogberry harangues the watch from a window, instead of from the causeway. Heavens, what sacrilege! Vitality, again, is the mark of the scene in Leonato's garden, which in Mr. Tree's version becomes the capital scene of the play—the vitality of nature as well as of men and women. Moonlight dwindles to darkness, darkness greys into dawn, dawn glows into broad sunshine; a strepitous carnival is stilled to dead silence, which gives way to the song of birds and cheerful morning sounds—always there is movement, always a sense of life. But the stage-directions give no warrant for all this.

Mr. George Bastow, of "Galloping Major" fame, will make a welcome reappearance at Hackney Empire on Monday in his latest song success, "They won't know I come from the country."

Miss Lily Hall, of the Sisters Hall (correct name Lily Alexander), is to be married to Mr. Harry Mason, of Mason and Bart, at St. Mark's Church, Clapham-road, on Sept. 7.

Mr. Kyburn-Dellar has temporarily seceded from the cast of The Pixies' Revel in order to fulfil some previously made contracts in London, and he is this week playing his original part in The Violin Girl. He returns to the Empress, Brixton, on the 31st inst. with a revival of The Moneylender, as formerly played by him in London for over 300 nights. Mr. Kyburn-Dellar's next new production will be called The Flaming Hussy, and is "in one flame."

Miss Sylvia Cavalho, assisted by Mr. Clifford Pembroke, is appearing with great success this week at the Hippodrome, Rotherhithe, in the mirth-provoking sketch The Husband of Peggy.

Miss Dott Coutts, wife of the cleaver protean artist Mr. Henry Coutts, we regret to say, was taken ill during her performance on Monday, and has since undergone a serious operation, which will keep her inactive for several weeks to come. She only started work on Monday after several weeks off through illness.

We have few dramatic singers among the ladies of the variety stage, and therefore the turn of Miss Bertha Stuart—now on her third visit to the Tivoli—is all the more welcome. Miss Stuart, who is a Scots lassie, has intense feeling, which she puts into the rendering of the immortal ballads of her native land. The Tivolians listen intently, and her rousing reception at the end of her turn must be sweet music in her ears.

Mr. Leslie Stiles is on Sept. 5 sailing for the States, being under engagement to Mr. Frohman.

Mr. Carl Lynn, who has been called "the crowned king of animal mimics," will be seen on Monday at the Coliseum. He is booked on the Moss and Stoll tour for 1909 and 1910, and has received tempting offers for America.

The Burnley magistrates have resolved that in premises where cinematograph exhibitions are given licences will only be granted under the same conditions and restrictions as exist at the local Empire.

Brien McCullough will play Coupeau in a condensed version of Drink at the West London Theatre on Monday next. In this part Brien has created quite a sensation, and the public have pronounced it a psychological study.

On entering her bedroom on Sunday night Mrs. Woolf, wife of Jack Woolf, the proprietor of Wonderland, Whitechapel-road, found the room in disorder and a wardrobe forced. £20 in gold and jewellery valued at £20 being missing. The thief or thieves must have effected the robbery while the licensed part of the premises was open for business. No arrest has yet been made.

Mr. Henry Herne and Miss Ida Millais, who have been continuously working their water sketch Blackmail for over two years, are being well booked with their new success, The Merry Widower. Owing to the huge volume of water used in Blackmail, Mr. Herne finds it impracticable to heat it, and the rescue from drowning sensation has to be performed winter and summer in cold—sometimes icy—water.

Mr. Alfred Lester, of the Gaiety Theatre, gave selections from his monologues on Sunday afternoon and evening at the Palace Pier, Brighton, where he was received with the greatest enthusiasm by large audiences.

The Belfast Press.
Glows and scintillates with passionate sentiment. The mystic effects are worthy of extra attention, but we may safely say that every character in the play is finely portrayed.—News Letter, Aug. 4.

Admirably presented by Miss Loie Esmond's company, under the direction of Mr. Edward Neville. This fine actor plays the central figure of Prince Lucio Rimanez. He is at his best in the scene with Lady Sybil in the third act. Miss Rosie Neville makes a good deal out of a difficult and intense part. She, too, is best in the scene already referred to, in which she displays considerable force. . . . Miss Esmond as the American railroad magnate's daughter is refreshingly downright, and emphatic. . . . The piece is well staged and mounted.—Northern Whig, Aug. 4.

The Theatre Royal was reopened last night, when a large holiday audience was provided with one of the best plays ever staged. "The Sorrows of Satan," which is finely presented by Miss Esmond's company, has lost none of its charm. It is brimful of excitement, interspersed with glimpses of fun and humour, that adds greatly to the pleasure of the audience. The whole company is of all-round excellence, and they treat in a masterly manner a subject requiring much ability.—Echo, Aug. 4.

Upon the bookings the management must be heartily complimented. . . . Mr. Neville has a fine sense of satanic dignity and command, borne out by gesture and pose; he gives emphasis to the grim and grisly humour of Mephisto in evening dress, and his elocution makes every word audible and significant. Miss Rosie Neville gets right into the heart of Lady Sybil Elton.—Telegraph, Aug. 4.

LOIE ESMOND, Paisley T., Paisley.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT BULMER,
The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT MITCHELL,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. J. CHRISTIE,
Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.
ACTUAL OUTPUT OF FILMS PER DAY, 80 MILES.

THIS WEEK'S NOVELTIES.

THE WRIGHT AEROPLANE.

Ready for delivery. A Good Film, depicting the Flights of this wonderful Airship at Le Mans.

A SCHOOL FRIEND.

Code Word, "EPIAGE."

Two ladies meet in the street, look at each other in surprise, hesitate, and come forward with hands outstretched. They have been school friends, but now one is richly married, while the other has linked her life to that of a man whose calling could be termed house-breaking, although he makes a show of having a trade of some sort. During lunch at which Mr. and Mrs. Wealthy have been invited by Mrs. Make-up, the latter receives a false telegram, summoning her to "the death-bed of her aunt," while in reality she goes to the house of her school friend, which she strips of its valuables with the aid of her husband. On discovering the theft, Mrs. Wealthy puts in a claim, and the two burglars are punished according to their craftiness.

610ft. The Subject, £10 3s. 4d. Toning, 15/-

THE UNLUCKY WINNER.

Code Word, "ENVELOPPE."

In the small town of Catchit has been organised a lottery for the benefit of the victims of a great fire, the first prize being a South American animal. Old Peter being the winner, he walks about the town with his Peruvian Llama, which, struggling for freedom all the time, makes everybody run away in all directions. After various incidents the troublesome Llama lands at an important menagerie, where Old Peter makes up his mind to let him stay, for really it was too much in the way in his small cottage and town.

346ft. The Subject, £5 15s. 4d.

THE BORDER LIMIT.

Code Word "EPITRE."

They had been on bad terms for some time, these two neighbours, on account of a border limit which Roval always replaced a little further into Rochin's property; of this the latter was certain. As ill-luck would have it, the ox-drover was in love with Roval's daughter, and a rival to Rochin's son, with whom he picked a quarrel; but, instead of killing the young man, it was the father who received the fatal blow, and everybody in the village said it was Roval who did it. When the police came to arrest him, his daughter went straight to the river in search of oblivion. But the ox-drover having followed her, confesses to his crime, and young Rochin, who happens to be near, throws the murderer into the water. Then he opens his arms to the girl, who is now ready to face life again and its sorrows and joys.

676ft. The Subject, £11 5s. 4d. Toning, £1 1s.

THE BEAUTY AND THE BEAST.

Code Word, "ENTRAVE."

This film is the staging-up of a fairy tale written by Madame Leprince De Beaumont, in which an incautious merchant is obliged to send one of his daughters to the dwelling-place of a terrible monster. Yet, the beast loves the girl, and she, after pitying it, loves it for its kindness. This love causes the beast to rssume its formal state of human being, and they are married, and live happily ever after.

626ft. The Subject, £10 8s. 8d. Colouring and Toning, £6 2s.

A HYDROPATHIC REVENGE.

Code Word, "EPINARD."

At the hotel:—An American, lounging in a rocking-chair, rings the bell near at hand. "My pipe," says he to the servant, who gives it to him and goes. Second ring.—"Tobacco," says the Yankee. The servant proffers the tobacco-pouch, and bangs the door on leaving the room. Third ring—"a light!" This time the servant is very exasperated. At 10 p.m. the American comes back to his room, and throws himself on the bed without undressing. He rings the bell, and . . . loosens a shower-bath apparatus. The water pours down upon him, while the servant, looking through the keyhole, enjoys the fun immensely. Not for long, however, for the Yankee, having seen him, makes him partake of the free bath.

346ft. The Subject, £5 15s. 4d.

ANIMATED POSTERS.

Code Word, "EPOPEE."

The bill-sticker spreads his posters on the wall, and they all change into animated pictures, all very comical and charming.

198ft. The Subject, £3 6s.

WANTED, A SON-IN-LAW ON TRIAL

Code Word, "EPICERIE."

Now that every girl wants to get a position outside her home, as a barrister, or a doctor, &c., a mother, when she wants to choose her son-in-law, must make sure that he is domesticated. Mrs. Solid wants for her daughter a perfect husband, so she asks for one who knows how to do washing-up, carpet-beating, floor-cleaning, &c. Mrs. Solid is delighted with her future son-in-law, and she gives him her daughter in marriage; but the next day poor Mrs. Solid has a hard time, for he makes her do the housework for him.

LAST WEEK'S NOVELTIES.

PIERRETTE'S TALISMAN.

Code Word, "ENCRE."

Pierrot, faithless and clumsy lover that he is, has left an incriminating paper in the pocket of his clothes. This Pierrette finds, and she leaves him in the middle of the night and lays down on the trunk of a tree and goes to sleep. A good fairy, always obliging in these matters, comes to her and gives her a talisman which will enable her to have anything she wishes for. First she asks for a sedan chair, and all sorts of magnificently dressed young gentlemen come to her and make love to her. She is so pleased, for Pierrot will be jealous. But she is not cruel, and it is only in her dream that she tried to punish Pierrot for his unfaithfulness. All's well that ends well, and one moonlight night we find Pierrot and Pierrette as much in love with each other as ever.

890ft. The Subject, £14 16s. 8d. Colouring and Toning, £8 2s. 6d.

ON BAD TERMS WITH THEIR HOUSE PORTERS.

Code Word, "EMPLOI."

Mr. and Mrs. Cake had the good luck to be on good terms with their doorkeepers, but with their wish to have a dog they upset everything. The picture of the accidents and misadventures of the tenants harried by the worthy officials is one of the most comic, ending in the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Cake and their dog to a quieter abode.

528ft. The Subject, £8 16s. 0d. Toning, 9s.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1908.
Morning Advertiser, Jan. 20:—
That very useful, one might with truth add indispensable, publication, "The Era" Annual, has once again made its welcome appearance, and once again it is crowded with information concerning the theatrical doings of the past year. Those who purchase it (it is sold at the modest price of 1s.) will have in their possession a complete and succinct history of the year's drama in this country, and a record of the plays produced in Paris and Berlin. As an appetising hors d'œuvre to the solid information, the book contains a number of interesting short stories and amusing anecdotes by well-known actors and theatrical managers.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.—NEW THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Aberdare Public Hall, Theatre, and Billposting Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. Richards.—The Old, Old Story is this week presented by Miss Bonwin Carlton. Mr. Edward Surrey, in the character of William Grimshaw, a detective, is irresistible, his acting keeping the house in a constant state of merriment; Miss Bonwin Carlton capably portrays the part of Tilly, and Mr. Conwell Clark makes an excellent James Marlow; while Mr. Alvin Sanger makes a clever study of the part of Bobby Blossom; Sir John Humphrey Hazel is in the capable hands of Mr. H. J. Butler; an effective rendering of Jessie Hazel is presented by Miss Kitty Maynard; Miss Marie E. Dempster scores a success as Netty Hazel, and Miss Esther Lamont is seen to advantage as Janet Marlow; Mr. D. Bell is responsible for the rôle of John Hazel.

ABERDEEN.—H. M. THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The exciting piece, The Female Swindler, draws large audiences to popular parts of the house this week. It is exceedingly well-played. Miss Violet Ellicott makes an admirable adventuress; Mr. John Hitchings, a man of many disguises, and Miss Mabel Moody are most amusing in their love-passages; Mr. Joseph Millane plays incisively as a detective; and Mr. S. Radcliffe is a vigorous and convincing villain. The minor parts are all capably represented.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, the United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Miss Kadie Furman acts a Dutch girl to perfection; her songs and patter are very amusing, and her clog-dancing calls forth the most enthusiastic plaudits. Miss Maude Hillman and Mr. Maurice Russell present a clever vocal comedy dialogue, The Somnambulist, which is most successful; the Two Bow Boys are heartily encored for their singing and dancing; The Bride's Wedding, a laughable sketch, is well acted by Mr. Tom Boyce and Miss Price; and the turns of Mr. Joe Humphreys, comedian, and Miss Daisy Morell, comedienne, are also appreciated.

BEACH PAVILION.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. David Thomson.—The Downes Family continue to increase in popularity, and the turn of Chester and Lee, with their marionettes, is very highly appreciated. The other members of a first-class combination are Miss Violet Davidson, soprano; Mr. David Thomson, humorist; Mr. Dan Williams, comedian, and Vulcaris, piano entertainer.

ALHAMBRA MUSIC HALL. — Proprietor, Mr. John Sinclair; General-Manager, Mr. George B. Lee.—The principal artists this week are Miss Rosie Bell, a piquant comedienne; Miss Amy Bathurst, who sings and dances most gracefully; and Belle and Bright, a pair of clever comedians, who appear successfully in an amusing sketch, Down by the Sea. Mr. Dave Paterson's Cinematograms include The Countess's Wedding, The Swashbuckler, The Ragpicker Caricaturist, and An Economical Overcoat.

ABERTILLERY.—THE PAVILION.—Lessees, E. and H. Tilney; Manager, Mr. E. Pryce.—The premier place on the programme here is held by Harry Roxbury's company in The Prince of Monte Carlo, supported by the popular comedian Tubby Edlin, who, as P.C. Longfellow, of Scotland Yard, never fails to amuse. The Wambas appear in an instrumental entertainment introducing good bagpipe playing. The Gilberts have a clever acrobatic rope act. The Jackley Trio are smart as table experts. Bass and Guinness make a hit in their dancing. Some excellent pictures are depicted by the bioscope.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. J. Seaborne.—Mr. F. H. Neville's company had a good reception on Monday, when Napoleon's Divorce was presented in quite a realistic manner. The part of Napoleon is impersonated with ability by Mr. F. H. Neville. Joseph Bonaparte is most effectively rendered by Mr. John Soden; Colonel D'Arville has a clever representative in Mr. C. Moore; and Sergeant Baton is ably sustained by Mr. W. Ellythorn. Miss Garnet Vayne gives a natural rendition of Josephine, and Miss Veronica Clinton submits a capital interpretation of Marie Louise.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—A pleasing attraction here this week is Mr. Ronald Yorke's company in The Old Home. Mr. J. H. Clyndes gives a praiseworthy rendition of the part of Daddy Dean; Mr. David G. Noble portrays the part of the Rev. Eric Armstrong with manly expression; Mr. Ronald Yorke is responsible for a forceful exposition of the villain, Lord Avondale; Mr. Fred L. Connynghame provokes plenty of mirth as Sam Adams, and is ably assisted by Miss Mattie Crawford, who plays the part of Polly Popp in a most acceptable manner; Miss Laura Walker shows womanly charm and sympathy, and is decidedly successful as Hazle Dean, and Miss Mara Collings acts with real earnestness as Biddy Donoghan. The piece is very finely staged.

TOWN HALL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Sam Richard's Eight 'Varsity Girls hold the premier position here and are enthusiastically received; G. H. Keith, vocalist, is popular, and Cavilli is a ventriloquist of more than ordinary ability; Capt. Ellis and Son provide a capital musical turn which is loudly applauded, and some artistic, dramatic, and comic films are depicted on the Bioscope, including A Redman's Justice, the Young Protector, and Elixir of Life.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Gladwin.—One of the many good turns in the full programme presented at Aldershot this week is the famous Tintos in their comedy act, African Gambols, in which are seen marvellous acrobatic feats by these two clever artists; Astley's American Circus creates considerable interest, intelligent ponies, dogs, mules, and sheep showing wonderful training in the many acts in which they appear, and there is also a very funny clown; Les Sardous give a "mystic" performance with a tied lady behind a screen, who plays tambourines, &c.; the Sisters Delmore as vocalists and dancers are highly successful; Terry and Tate, in a duet and patter, are amusing; Marie Rivers sings illustrated songs; and Tom Carney does well in songs and dances. The Bioscope and band are also features of the programme that are much enjoyed.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Revill.—For the Wakes holidays Miss Ellen Snow and a company of capable artists are presenting here Mr. Walter Howard's stirring drama, Why Men Love Women. The part of Gerald Fielding, a young English artist, the hero, is assumed by Mr. Oliver Rogers, who invests the part with considerable show of vigour and manly courage. Mr. Lionel Godsden as Capt. Staniloff, of the Russian Army, is a villain of the sardonic type, and while giving due impress to the worst features of the character, nothing is over-emphasised. Mr. N. Carter Slaughter is full of vigour as Lieut. Fitzherbert. Impressive figure and good presence is found in Mr. Basil Horsfall as the Maharajah of Balore, a native Indian prince. Minor parts are suitably cast to Messrs. A. W. Norman, A. Radford, F. West, and Harwood Roberts, the last-named as Orlando Figgins, a comic actor. Miss Ellen Snow invests the part of the heroine, Violet Livingstone, with a charm of manner and a force and intensity of acting in the more trying situations of the play, which win her great applause. Miss Maud Court as Muriel Zoluski is all that can be wished as the Russian lady who is seeking to revenge a favourite brother's death. Miss Nita Owen and Miss Freda Vaughan do satisfactory work as members of Mr. Figgins' opera troupe, and Miss Roland Watts Phillips is good as Mrs. Figgins. The play is well mounted.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—A medley of popular airs by Mr. Robt. Peel's orchestra opens the programme at the Empire. For the holidays De Lil, illusionist, is a popular "turn." Very clever, indeed, are his sleight-of-hand performances. Gala and Norris give an artistic musical duologue entitled "Down South." The Camerons are really funny as well as smart in song and cross-talk. Leo D'Alvar introduces something of a novel character in gymnastic exercises, daring as well as ingenious. The Morander and Darius Trio are lighting simultaneous gymnasts dressed in white costume. A very interesting musicale is given by the performers called "The Garden of Melody," with elaborate scenic effects. Hilda De Grey is a smart burlesque lady and Tyrolean vocalist. Henry Vernon Harcourt gives some dramatic impersonations of operatic celebrities of a past period. Hulbert is a very skilled ventriloquist. The great feature of the programme, however, is a performance of musical comedy, Duchess of Tooting. Mr. Stephen Adeson as Fitz is the soul of fun. His grotesque pantomime creates immense laughter. He is well supported in song, dance, and attractive stage "business." Messrs. Marius Girard, Henry Latimer, Miss Violet Craveling as Peter, Miss Edith Barwell as the Duchess, and Miss Josie Farrington as Rosa Latour, and a smart chorus and troupe of dancers.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten.—The principal pictures here this week are In Memory of His Mother, Why Mary was Dismissed, In the Days of Richard III., The Hat Came Back, The Enchanted Cloak, and A Gipsy's Daughter.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry Sanders.—Miss Ada Fawn, the popular comedienne, is paying a return visit here and repeating her previous success; an exceptionally clever card and coin manipulator is Seima, who thoroughly mystifies the audience; Royston and Royce (lady and gentleman) are good in a comedy and burlesque scena; Willman, instrumentalist, makes a big hit; Lord, Murray, and Lord give a smart exhibition of ball-punching and boxing; Miss Ethel Donna is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; Mr. Ernest Clifford, comedian and expert dancer, meets with much favour, and the Attergraph pictures complete the programme.

AYR.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—Messrs. Skardon and Martin's company, in The Way of the World, started a six nights' engagement on Monday. Mr. J. P. McBryde gave a fine, manly portrayal of Cecil Hardy; Captain Fred Slade, as represented by Mr. Victor Gordon, made himself sincerely detested by the bulk of the audience, which is the best testimony to the skill of the performer; and in no less a degree was this hatred evinced towards his companion in evil, Lady Adela Hardy, played by Miss Marie Fontaine; Mr. Clarence Temple, as the circus proprietor, Mathew Malyon, was capital throughout. Humour was imparted by the clever by-play and smart acting of Mr. D'Arcy Kelway as Joe Sparrow, the clown, and Miss Violet Vivienne as Polly Bell, champion strong woman. A very sweet picture did Miss Nellie de Lacey present of Kate Montague, equestrienne. The other members of the company gave good support. The setting of the piece was elaborate.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—A Merry Maid, by Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Caldwell's company, is proving a strong attraction this week. Chorus and principals are well chosen. Mr. W. Shaw Hutchinson as Biddy, together with the diminutive Master Geo. Wood, are more than droll; Miss May Gibson is a charming Peggy, and her songs are encored.

HIS MAJESTY'S.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh are this week presenting With Edged Tools to good houses, and it is the first drama staged since re-opening. Mr. Campbell Goldsmid as Victor Durnovo holds the rapt attention of the house.

THE TIVOLI.—Mackinnon's Meisters are an attractive quartette, and receive much applause; Barrett and Knowles's garrulous turn is very funny, and Harry Vardon, ventriloquist, gives a clever exhibition of his art. The bill is a good one, and is filling both houses.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Continued success follows the efforts of this management. Large audiences nightly fill the house and will evidently continue to do so if the films exhibited maintain the present standard of interest. Miss May Sinclair ably supplies this week's variety turns.

BARRY DOCK. — THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—Driven from Home was presented here last night by Andrew Melville's company to a packed house. Mr. Percy Dawsone as Willy the Waif was a distinct success, and Miss Nancy Roberts adequately filled the parts of Laura and Walter. Mr. Felix Pitt as Antony Raybrook acted in good style, and Mr. Charles Burdon showed a sound conception of the rôle of the villainous Geoffrey Waring. Miss Kate Walfred as Fanny Jones effectively portrayed her part, and the same thing may be said of Mr. Geo. Beresford as Walter Hatherleigh. Others deserving of praise were Miss Edith Leslie and Mr. F. C. Imbert in their respective parts.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—A crowded and fashionable audience greeted The Follies, who made their initial appearance locally on Tuesday. The accomplished artists of the troupe all gave of their best, and great enthusiasm prevailed.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Several of the turns this week are old favourites, such as Lennie and Hast, who once again are seen in their fantasy, The Sea Nymph, with many up to date and local gags introduced; the Twin Sisters Edwardes, vocalists, dancers, and drummers, and Harry Cotton in his droll burlesque pensioner song, meet with good receptions; Ryder Slone strikes quite an original vein in his character songs, and is immensely popular; the Pichel Troupe of tumblers and risley acrobats execute difficult feats successfully; Millie Howell sings a couple of sentimental songs with clear enunciation; Chas. Resti is an exceedingly skilful sleight of hand artist, and the pawky humour of Jack Walker goes well. Raymond's Bio-tableaux as usual are worth witnessing.

BATLEY.—THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty; Manager, Mr. Alfred A. Taylor.—The entertainment here this week is provided by Mr. Alex. C. Grant and company in A Master of Millions. Mr. Grant is responsible for some capital acting in the part of Alexander Daunt, an American millionaire; Mr. John L. Schofield successfully portrays Eric Gordon; Mr. Arthur L. Read makes a capital villain, being ably supported by Miss Gipsy Alexander as "The Vampire" and by Mr. Chas. Cameron as "The Smasher." Miss Isobel Edbrooke makes the most of her part as Marion Gordon, and Mr. W. Lester Norton as Isaacs, and Miss Minnie Ward as Jenny Hicks create considerable amusement.

BEDFORD. — ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The Soldier's Wedding, a vigorous and well-constructed drama, is being presented here this week by the company of Mr. Walter Melville, who is the author. The players have been well selected, and the scenery is especially good. Mr. Wingold Lawrence as Jack Brown, a Grenadier, is first favourite, his acting being all that could be desired; Mr. Beresford Whitcomb is entirely successful as the dignified —not "peppery"—colonel; Mr. Gerald Jordan, as the villain, is all that the character demanded, and Mr. Johnny Chippendale and Little Albert as Tommy Spratt and Teddy Munroe respectively, create much amusement; Mr. Fred Yarnold, as the old farmer, appears in an excellent make-up, and gives a clever study; Miss Dorothy Richardson, as Nancy Lee, displays much grace and charm; Miss Marie McAulay gives an admirable rendering of Julie De Beauvais, and Miss Mabel Lowe creates an excellent impression as Peggy Munroe; Miss Mattie Everett is frequently applauded for her amusing interpretation of Lizzie Walker. The clever performance of Towser adds to the success of the piece.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Mr. William Greet's chief company opened here on Monday with The Sign of the Cross. Marcus Superbus was played by Mr. Cyril Austin-Lee, an exceedingly clever actor, who furnished an admirable impersonation of the young Prefect. Mr. Lee was conspicuously successful, receiving an ovation at the close of each act. Honours were shared by Miss Constance Little, who as the gentle Mercia scored a triumph, her emotional acting being very impressive. A fine impersonation of the cruel tyrant Nero was submitted by Mr. C. Yorke; and a dignified representative of Poppæa, Empress of Rome, was found in Miss Beryl Hamilton. Mr. Charles Aldred as Tigellius deserves a special word of praise for his exceedingly capable impersonation, and Mr. J. Weatherall as Licinius must also be included for praise. Mr. Frank Wood as Glabrio was very humorous; the difficult rôle of Stephanus could scarcely be in better hands than those of Miss Edith Drayton. The two spies Servilius and Strabo were well filled by Messrs. H. Thurston Harris and G. W. Ruff, and Miss Lily Ward displayed some fine acting in her interpretation of Berenice. Mr. Walter Fleet as Favius spoke his lines with much effect, and Mr. Arthur Budd filled the rôle of Virturius admirably. Miss Cissie Carlton was all that could be desired as Dacia, and Miss Mary Newcombe and Messrs. Clifton Yates, Harry Jones, J. Newman, and H. Roose were adequate in their respective parts.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—Mr. John Tiller's company tops the bill and produces with much success the successful comedy extravaganza High Jinks. Mr. Bob Selvidge is very funny as George Jesmond Deane, and Miss May Sharples is charming as Mrs. Jesmond Deane. Miss Madge Gray is a capital mimic, her imitations being quite realistic; Mr. E. S. Kempton is a clever American comedian and fine dancer; the Bros. Ford, vocalists and hurricane dancers, take well, and deservedly so, and the fine programme is completed by the Palace Pictures, which are always up to date.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Will Sley and Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The premier attraction here is the illusion performance of Von Etta, described as the lightning protean artist, whose feats are certainly marvellous; Miss Lilian Lea is the happy possessor of a fine voice, which she knows how to use, and a really wonderful performance has been submitted by Mr. Francis Gerard, whose feats of strength have not been excelled here. Mr. Pete and Miss Minnie Lee appear in their capital act The Scotchman's Visit to London, which has been accorded a hearty reception, and Blake and Amber, comedy duo, are most amusing. The Sisters Brooks are charming vocalists and dancers, and also appearing are Mac, Greg, and Mac in their melodious mixture, Mr. Fred Maitland, and the Hipposcope.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Mr. Fred Lindsay tops the bill, and his feats with the whip are admitted to be very clever; the Beau Ideal Troupe of Juveniles appear in their taking act, consisting of mimicry, songs, and dances; Kloof and Ramsey are a smart comedy duo, and the same may be said of Roze and Calvert, who are always welcome here. Mr. Eugene Brandt is a droll comedian with good songs, and Miss Mayme Cannon is aptly described as a refined comedienne. Also here are Camille Flo, dainty speciality artist, and the Bioscope, which exhibits a very droll picture, A Commissioner of Police.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Success continues to attend the enterprise of Mr. Will White. This week the following films, among others, have been exhibited:—Mandrill's Feats, The Dieppe Motor Races, 1908, The Hostage, Jack's Rival, and Shipwreckers. Miss Annie Casey, comedienne, appears with success, and a capital reception has been extended to Mr. Charles Chard, whose songs are very amusing.

BILSTON.—New Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Battersby; Musical-Director, Mr. J. E. Machin.—This week Beneath the Stars is being presented by Mr. Coleman Davies and his company. Mr. Terry Davies is very successful as Stephen Harcourt, the young farmer, and Mr. Harry Reynolds does well as Major Blonson. Mr. Coleman Davies is very amusing as Jemmy Hopblossom, a Lancashire lad, and Miss Eunice Udall is good as Becky Wiggins. Miss Gladys Vane plays with skill and feeling as Angel Marsden. Miss Cissie Winter also meets with success as Paulina Petrowski. For Friday Jerry the Tramp was announced.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—A return visit from Mr. Alfred B. Cross's company in The Manxman has aroused considerable interest. Mr. Cross repeats his very able and consistent rendering of Pete, bearing the burthen of the piece with commendable skill and effect; Miss Minnie Watersford (Mrs. Cross) wins general admiration by a powerful portrayal of Katie Cregeen, and Mr. Harold B. Lewis emerges successfully from a fine performance of the thankless rôle of Philip Christian; Mr. Fred Mace is an admirable Cæsar Cregeen; Miss Nancy Mitchell is an efficient Nancy, and Miss Blanche Lee is well placed as Miss Christian. Mr. Fred Charles is a good Ross Christian, and the welcome comedy relief is afforded by Mr. E. C. Howitt as Monty Missit and Mr. T. Lynton as Professor Mawley. The play is carefully staged.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. Herbert Cottesmore's company in the petite drama, Her Princely Betrayer, is a prominent attraction here. Miss Sable Fern, a chic comedienne, is fulfilling one of many return engagements, and Miss Margaret Ashton, a talented American comedienne, is a general favourite; a really excellent combination also includes Farr and Farland, patterers and banjoists; Dave O'Toole, comedian; Haig and Novel, acrobatic comedians; Alec Kendall, patterer; the Whittakers, comedians; the Sisters Henderson, musical speciality artists; Harry Mattie, comedian, and Brown's Royal Bioscope. Mr. Ernest Denney is musical director.

Olympian Gardens, Rock Ferry.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Edwin Adeler.—A thoroughly enjoyable performance is supported by Mr. Charles Harvey, the droll; Miss Edith Benson, soprano; Mr. Harrison Latimer, baritone; Mr. Jimmy Watson, comedian; Miss Edna Barrett, comedienne and dancer; and Mr. Arthur Braddock, accompanist. An entertaining sketch, entitled The Broken Statue, is also included with success.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Prodigal Son is presented here by Mr. Wentworth Croke. Large houses are the rule, and sympathy has rightly gone out to Mr. Hugh Montgomery for his powerful portrayal of the noble and unselfish Magnus. Mr. Gordon Macintosh does everything possible to make the rôle of Oscar popular; Mr. Charles Cooper invests the character of Stephen with due dignity; Miss Barbara Gott as Anna avails herself of her brief opportunity well; Miss Marie Harcourt scores handsomely as Margaret; Miss Mildred Cottell exercises her blandishments as Helga very effectively; Miss Valerie Crespin acts with gentle grace and pathos as Thora, and is no less successful as the daughter Elin; while Mr. Philip Renouf, Mr. E. Christopher, Mr. Ernest Rivaz, Mr. Chas. A. Maynard, and others are of great assistance to the play, which is put on in a most picturesque style.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—The Flower Girl is making a big success here on its first visit, with Mr. Chas. M. Bestic's company. That sterling comedian Mr. Martin Adeson is well remembered for his admirable work with another, The Golden Girl to wit, but that is all eclipsed, for here, as Joe Wheeler, he fairly excels himself, both in the quantity and the quality of his humour. Miss Dorothy Firman makes a very prepossessing Flower Girl, being well up in the triple accomplishments of singing, acting, and dancing; and Miss Florence Wilton as Lizette, Miss Jeannie Holmes as Miss Greenhill, Mr. Alfred Donohoe as Johnny Wheeler, Mr. Henry Adnes as Alphonse de Racquet, Mr. Norman Bowyer as Reginald Rackit, Mr. Robert H. Howard as Billy Greenhill, and numerous others, including a big chorus, make this production one of the best.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—The Girl With the Angel Face, the newly-produced London success by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Willard, is bearing out all its promises on its production here this week. The plot is followed with avidity, the mounting is praised highly, and the acting brings out all the possibilities of the play. Miss Florrie Green as that fiend in angel's guise, Angel Leigh, fulfils all the exigencies of the rôle; Miss Phyllis Dailley interprets the good woman, Ena Wentworth, with delightful charm; Mr. H. Naylor Grimson skilfully doubles the rôles of Sir John and Thomas Wentworth; Mr. Austin Mortimer gives a clear and forcible impression of the villain, Stephen Arkwright; Mr. Fred G. Evison stands out finely as Jaspar Death, and the other rôles are played to advantage.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Love's Golden Dream has been followed here with strong interest by large audiences, and Miss Frances Delaval as the sinning and also suffering Margery has received unmistakable proofs of her talents and her popularity. Mr. Harry Rutland's portrayal of Jack Darrell is based on excellent lines; Mr. Edmund Grogan brings much light to bear on the character of the Rev. Harold Tre-Wynne; Mr. W. Bradford cleverly enacts the part of the Italian, Gustave de Marconi; Miss Ethel Crauford is good as the sister, Vashti; Mr. Larry Stokes bears out the character of the "gallant soldier," Lieut. Tyrone; and Miss Kate Olive as Mrs. Tre-Wynne, Mr. L. W. Halfpenny as Covey, Miss Tiny Carry Johnson as Tommy Tittlemouse, and Master Johnny Johnson as Pete, shine among others.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—A Fight for a Throne has furnished an exciting week's fare here, for which Mr. Lingford Carson's company have been much applauded. Mr. John S. Millward is cast well as Jack Fortesque; Mr. Gerald Byrne acts fittingly as the King of Saxovina; Mr. Chas. E. Linney is an admirable Prince Otto, and Mr. Tom Roydon as General Rodna acts up to him very well; Miss Dora Eastlake has all the grand air of the Princess Esmée, and elicits cordial admiration; Miss Margaretta Tueskie shows fine ability in the part of the Countess Valeska Lorenski; Miss Lilith Gabriel takes the rôle of Lady Pat very ably; Mr. George Beck is successful as Lieut. Paul Rodna; and Mr. Chas. H. Hughes is a highly diverting Ferrett. Other characters are played by Messrs. Patrick Evans, Stewart Quartermayne, &c.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. B. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—Sexton Blake is on its first visit here, and is pulling big houses on the occasion. Mr. Horace Hunter makes an engrossing character of the title-rôle, encountering dangerous situations and emerging therefrom with a sangfroid that brings him thunders of applause; Mr. Billy Ross as his humorous but able assistant, Tinker, is very popular; Mr. William Felton is an able portrayer of Roger Blackburn; Mr. Charles East stamps the rôle of the murderer, Randolph Lovell, with much individuality; Mr. Jno. M. East scores well as Simon Faggas; Miss East-Robertson as Philadelphia Kate gives a vivid picture of the abandoned creature of sin; Miss Lily Hammersley affords a charming contrast with her sympathetic acting as Marjorie; and Miss Midge Clark is good as Euphemia.

Palace Theatre, Bordesley.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Alone in London, under the personal direction of Mr. J. F. Elliston, has proved tremendously successful here. Miss Theresa Osborne is entrusted with the part of the flower girl, Nan, which she plays with melting pathos; Mr. Percy Rhodes portrays her callous husband, the swell mobsman, Richard Redcliffe, with a keen eye for his opportunities; Messrs. Percy Bell and Frank Sutherland act capably as his disreputable allies, Jenkinson and Spriggins; Mr. W. S. Hartford makes a popular and well-moulded character of John Biddlecomb; Mr. Harry McClelland wins respect as Mr. Burnaby; Mr. Blundell Fenton has a highly pleasing style as the son Walter; Miss Rose Grey acts gracefully as his cousin Ruth Clifton; and others who are thoroughly good are Mr. Lonnen Meadows as Charley Johnson, Miss Mary Stafford Smith as Tom Chickweed, Miss Nelly Lauraine as Mrs. Maloney, Miss Elsie Clarke as Little Paul, Miss Gertie Douglas as Liz Jenkinson, and Mr. G. Clements as Jack Woods.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—There is an excellent bill here. The big turn of the evening is Alice Raymond and her company in the musical extravaganza A Night in Egypt, in which some capital musical selections are rendered. Whit Cunliffe has a big reception, his songs being loudly encored; Marie San Toy and her company have a bright scena, A Japanese Tea Garden; Big Ben Brown and Little George Le Clerq are exceedingly amusing; Lockhart's elephants, Harry Bedford, Grace Merton, Margaret Radcliffe, and Mason and Bart are all popular turns.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Phil Ray and Lil Hawthorne are the star turns here. Both these clever artists are exceedingly popular. George Newburn, mimic, comes in for a good share of applause; Elsie Robey is clever in her mimicry entertainment at the piano; and the Four Jumels, Dot Stephens, Kent and Keith, the Borellis, and Rich and Rich complete the bill.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Lyons.—The Six Brothers Luck, in their pantomime absurdity Lift 'Ems, Limited, are the big attraction here; Ross and Grayson, well known in Birmingham, are a quaint couple; Shaun Glenville and company have an amusing turn, The Art of Deception; the Brilliants are xylophonists of a high order, and win loud applause; Marcel and Boris perform some clever equilibristic feats; other good turns are supplied by Flo Warner, George Antill, L. W. Harris, and the Permane Brothers.

Gaiety Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles Owen.—Ben Hur, the patrician athlete, is the big turn here, his spectacular sketch, Pompeii, being watched with interest. Walker and May are good coon singers and dancers; the Brothers Weltman present some smart acrobatic dances; Maxey and Pete are expert trick cyclists; Vi Davis is a delightful turn and was well applauded. Other turns include the Davenports, Johnny Dewer, and Oakley and James.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—This week Mr. Harry Battersby's company is here in The King of Crime. Mr. F. B. Woulfe gives a pronounced rendering of Ronjarre. Mr. Wm. Melvyn is capable as Louis Mascolrot, and the house is kept fully alive by Mr. Sam Wilford as Mick Maloney. Miss Agnes D'Aragon has many admirers in her rendering of Mère Crochard; Miss Mildred Eversleigh sustains her part as Mathilde in a characteristic manner; and as Clarisse Miss Edith Loraine is also good. Miss Ethel Griffies is an ideal exponent of Henriette.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Forbes Robertson and company are welcomed with open arms here this week, and their appearance in Mr. Jerome's latest "idle fancy," entitled The Passing of the Third Floor Back, is meeting with the success it so richly deserves. Every "character" is portrayed with telling effect. Mr. Robertson plays with consummate art, and it is safe to say that no bishop ever preached a finer sermon than is taught by his portrayal of A Friend. Miss Gertrude Elliott also acts remarkably well as "the slavey," but, as a matter of fact, criticism of such a play as this is altogether out of place. The subject of it is too sublime. Mr. Hendrie plays the bookmaker; Mr. Edward Sass, Jake Samuels, of the city; Miss Agnes Thomas, a landlady; Miss Haidee Wright, a painted lady; Mr. Marsh Allen, an artist; Miss Alice Crawford, a hussy; Mr. Ian Robertson, a bully; Miss Kate Carlyon, a shrew; Mr. Wilfred Foster, a cad; and Miss Kate Bishop, a snob. Carrots is played as a curtain raiser, with Miss Elliott in the title-rôle, and Mr. Robertson as Mr. Lepic.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is paying a very welcome return visit here with The Merry Widow. Several changes have taken place in the personnel of the company since the last visit. The title-rôle is played this week by Miss Sylvia May, who both in singing and acting justifies her selection; and Mr. Leonard Mackay is successful in every respect as Prince Danilo. Mr. Eric Thorne as Baron Popoff, Mr. W. Talleur Andrews as Vicomte Camille, and Mr. W. H. Rawlins as Nisch are old favourites, and their popularity is undiminished. Miss Ethel Cadman makes a capital Natalie, and Miss Eileen Orme gives a good account of Olga. Chorus, dresses, and scenery are alike excellent.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The popular George Robey tops a big bill here this week, and his reception at every performance is of the most cordial description. Lily Burnand, the burlesque actress, is also well received. Other good turns are Binns and Binns, in a comedy and musical act; J. W. Hall, a favourite comedian; Radford and Valentine, the jolly jugglers; Burley and Burley, a pair of very amusing comedians; Lilile Lassah, comedienne and dancer; Columbia Comedy Trio, and Cissie Walmer, a breezy comedienne.

Hippodrome.—Manageress, Mrs. Fioni.—Bennett and Stirling, a pair of very clever comedians, are the star turn here this week. Lillian O'Gorman, vocalist and dancer; J. H. Greener, the singing pit lad; Blarney and Kinnaird, comedians, together with the pictures, complete the programme.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. Bulmer has presented his excellent company in the successful play, The Girl Who Went Astray, and large audiences have been attracted. Miss Gwynne Warren, in the chief rôle of Madge Harvey, at once established herself a favourite.

Gaiety.—Lessee, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thos. Baugh.—At the head of the bill we have Barney Stewart, a versatile entertainer; Violet McNab, comedienne; George Langden and Connie Laurie, sketch artists; Sisters Fardy (Rosina and Belle), and the Arntes appear with much success.

Hippodrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Doyle and O'Connell.—The new arrivals include Mike and Lena, in comedy duologue, and the Great Sira, together with the usual pictures.

BOLTON. — Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. Fred Granville's No. 1 company is the attraction here this week, with the drama It's Never Too Late to Mend. The principal characters are ably taken by Mr. E. Howard Templeton as Tom Robinson, Mr. V. W. Carlyle as George Fielding, Mr. Charles F. Johnson as Rev. Francis Eden, Mr. Harry Cave as Peter Crawley, Miss Gertrude Entwistle as Susan Merton, and Miss Millie Wilton as the poor waif, Josephs.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—John Lemm, the champion wrestler, heads the bill here, and the following turns give good support to an excellent programme:—The Sisters Belmont, dancing stars; Zaro and Arno, in their original comedy bar act; the Rangers, Australia's trick cyclists; Marie Terry and J. S. Bentley, refined comedy artists; David Poole, ventriloquist, with his happy family; Georgino Leno, comedienne; the Great Albas, sensational wire performer; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOOTLE. — Muncaster Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Wilmott; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Young.—The stock company is this week presenting the domestic drama Waiting for the Verdict. The principal characters are well represented by Messrs. Albert Sember, Stanley S. Gordon, Alfred D. Adams, Cyril Grier, Tom H. Solly, and Misses Nina Vaughton, Kathleen Magee, and Effie Macintosh.

BOSCOMBE. — Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—This week James Fawn is paying a return visit; the Westwoods provide a sensational cycling performance, the feats being executed with great dexterity; Devan and Earle are loudly applauded for their hurricane dancing; Josie Gallimore is successful in her dancing and singing; Johnny Fuller gives a clever display on the slack wire; Minnie Warner, described as the "Indiarubber Girl," is clever in her tambourine dance; and Zenora provides a remarkable balancing performance. The Hippo Pictures conclude.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—This week Mr. George Dance's company is playing here to crowded houses in Miss Hook of Holland. Mr. Tom Shale gives an original and humorous impersonation of Mr. Hook; Mr. Geo. Ide, as Captain Paap, plays with distinction, and has an excellent voice; the bandmaster is taken by Mr. Frank Crimp, who has a good appearance and renders his songs well; Mr. Geo. Mudie, jun., as Schnapps, makes the most of his part; Miss Alice Coverick makes a dainty Miss Hook; Miss Cissie Sephton scored a great and well-deserved success as Mina, her "petticoat" song being encored; and Mr. Tom Seymour makes a good Simon Slinks.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Charley's Aunt, produced by the author's company, is productive of roars of laughter here. Mr. G. A. Seager is funny as Lord Fancourt Babberley; Miss Vere Gerald very charmingly fills the part of Donna Lucia; Mr. Theo McCausland Stewart's Col. Sir Francis Chesney and Mr. Roy Byford's Stephen Spettigue are capital impersonations; and Mr. Hastings Lynn as Jack Chesney, Mr. Basil Lynton as Charley Wykeham, Miss Olivia Glynn as Kitty Verdun, Miss Grace Russell as Amy Spettigue, and Miss Evelyn Grey as Ela Delahay give excellent support. Mr. Brandon Thomas's excellent curtain-raiser, The Lancashire Sailor, precedes the comedy.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Very finely staged, and well represented by Miss Mary Neil and Mr. George Kirk's company on Monday, Mr. Charles Darrell's play, From Shop Girl to Duchess, was accorded a hearty reception. Miss Mary Neil, an actress of great emotional power, won the sympathy of her audience as the orphan girl, Sylvia Grey, in whom the chief interest of the play centres; and Mr. Douglas Cecil in a fairly convincing performance of Arnold Vyvian (her lover) supported her well. Mr. T. Lionel Ellis stood out prominently as Sir Morris Maitland; and a most effective effort was the Gilbert Spate (Sylvia's evil genius) of Mr. F. S. Strickland. Miss Beatrice Hudson played the part of the scheming Lady Ecleste Delamere well; Miss Florrie Groves was very bright and humorous as the outspoken Tilly Dobson; there was much humour in Miss Marie Clavering's acting as Lady Cinderella Portcullis and Mr. R. Cromwell's Tommy Tinkler; Miss Amy B. Ellis was good as the Duchess of St. Baynum, and all the other parts in the big cast were well filed.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Ernest Shand, the comedian, had a big reception here on Monday, and his excellent songs elicited hearty laughter. With a voice of fine quality and a dashing style Truly Shattuck won applause for her songs; Hans and Lux are amusing comedians; a delightfully humorous musical turn by the Two Anartos elicits hearty laughter; Cecilia Maude's excellent descriptive songs win marks of favour; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden amuse greatly with their bright little sketch; Tom Edwards gives a ventriloquial turn which is distinctly clever; there is humour and originality in the turn submitted by the Kirbys; Billy McClain and company are diverting in their broad Southern scena, Parson Johnson; and the fine pictures shown by the American Bioscope are up to date.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Lillie Soutter, the comedienne, is winning golden opinions here; and a clever equilibristic act by Alfonzo is amongst the good things on the programme. George James submits good comedy; in a pot-pourri of dancing and acrobatic feats Gibbon and Belle are clever; dancing of a well-varied type by the smart Glenroy Troupe wins marks of favour; as a whistler and mimic Jim Cheetham is good; Millicent Frères provide a skilful gymnastic entertainment; roars of laughter greet Ferguson and Mack in their absurdity The Dimple Sisters; and Raymond's Biotableaux prove very interesting.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Princes' Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The season at this fashionable resort is now at its height, and Mr. Palmer has provided a full bill of fare for his patrons, who nightly crowd the Floral Pavilion, and also the Grand Pavilion. In the former Mr. Norfolk Megone and his splendid municipal orchestra give some of the choicest programmes of music; Miss Annie Bartle, soprano, concluded a most successful engagement on Sunday evening, and this week Miss Palgrave Turner is using her fine soprano voice to good effect in some choice songs. Mr. H. Flockton-Foster and his entertainers gave a special prgramme on Monday in the Grand Pavilion, which was crowded. The special turn this week is Mr. Gandy, a very clever ventriloquist, and in conjunction with Miss Inglefield he gives a remarkable exhibition of "thought-reading," which is highly entertaining. The Loyal Dominion Company's animated pictures are always well received, Mr. Will H. Emmerson, the proprietor, keeping them well up to date. One of the latest is a Pathé film, The Jealous Foreman, which includes one of the most realistic fire scenes ever exhibited here.

New Spa and Gardens.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The Lindon Vaudeville Entertainers continue to draw large audiences to their popular entertainments under the Glass Dome. Herr Simon Würm's Viennese Band give some good programmes at the promenade concerts, the vocalist this week being Mr. Alexander Tucker, whose bass songs are highly appreciated. The Spaograph animated pictures in the open air draw large crowds, who are highly delighted at this novel exhibition of animated photography, the pictures being so remarkably clear.

Spa Opera House.—Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The Belle of Mayfair opened here on Monday night to a very full house. The company is Mr. J. Bannister Howard's, and is a most talented one. Mr. Stephen Hall was capital as the peppery Earl of Mount Highgate; Mr. Sidney Burt kept the house in constant mirth with his quaint humour and droll sayings; Mr. Stanley Ravenscroft was a smart Raymond Finchley; Mr. Michael Raven was admirable as Hugh; and Mr. D. Bathing was a most capable Comte de Perrier. Miss Nellie Barnwell was a charming little Julia Chaldicott, her dancing being very smart and cleverly executed; Miss Rosina Effingham was an excellent Princess; Miss Denny Fitzherbert fairly revelled in her well-acted part of Lady Chaldicott; Miss Dora Lyons gave a chic rendering of the part of Pincott; and Miss Grace Mackay was very effective as the Gibson Girl. The chorus and orchestra were very good, and the piece was handsomely staged and dressed. For the last half of the week we have Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in the amusing play Mrs. Ponderbury's Past.

The Palace.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Delma.—The Parisian animated pictures continue to be a source of great attraction, and Mr. Delmar is constantly adding new films for the entertainment of his patrons. The programmes include some capital variety turns, and the various side-shows and the spacious ballroom are a source of enjoyment to the visitors, who can thoroughly enjoy the many attractions of this place of variety.

Summer Gardens.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Denton; Manager, Mr. Chas. Beanland.—Novelty is the order of the day at this resort of the visitors, and the programmes include farces and interludes, as well as an occasional performance by the popular Waterloo Pierrots of the old-fashioned Christy Minstrel type, which is always heartily welcomed. Last Friday the popular and esteemed manager, Mr. Beanland, had his benefit, which was a "bumper." The smiling "Sam" was supported by a host of talent, including some charming songs by Miss Vera Dudley and Miss Rena Rees; some humorous contributions by Coda, Danton, and Bath; and a musical monologue by Mr. C. H. Gough, the talented pianist of the troupe; Mr. Will H. Emerson contributed a recitation; the Lindon Vaudeville Entertainers, from the Spa, gave some of their choice items; and the amusing sketch The Suffragette was admirably played by Mr. Geo. Hyam and Mrs. Pank-ake. Mr. Harry Tomlin sang some of his choicest items in a talented manner, and the beneficiare gave one of his most amusing comic ditties. The amusing sketch Bundle's Blunders concluded a big programme, and "Sam" was cheered on thanking his patrons for their appreciation of his catering for their amusement.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. Frederick Melville's drama, Married to the Wrong Man, occupies the boards here this week, and is attracting crowded and enthusiastic audiences. Miss Gertrude Boswell gives a very fine impersonation of Ruth; Mr. Oswald Cray makes an admirable Jack Gladwin; Mr. H. Lane Bayliff is highly effective as Captain Deering; Miss Maisie Hanbury is a graceful Rose O'Connor.

Alhambra.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—An attractive programme is sustained here this week. Jack Lorimer, "the Scotch breeder of smiles," is very amusing; Chris Richards is a clever and eccentric comedian; the Motramos are capital in the drawing-room sketch Do You Reverse? Kitts and Windrum are very entertaining in the sketch The Cuckoo; Lieut. Travis, ventriloquist, is cordially received; Beaty and Blanche are charming duettists and dancers; Stella Stahl sings and dances admirably; Walter King, "the doleful comedian," is diverting with song and patter; Bonnetti and Corrie contribute a good eccentric juggling act; and the Alhambrascope pictures are excellent.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—There is a capital company here this week. Lafayette, who met with such distinct success last week, is still here, and is mystifying and clever in the pantomimic sketch, The Lion's Bride; the Hadji Mohamed Troupe of tumblers are warmly applauded; Tom E. Hughes is a smart comedian; Kendrick and Laura appear in a dainty interlude; Ethel Walker is a pleasing entertainer at the piano; the Three Cunards are appreciated in their dancing act; the Three Sisters Sprightly are versatile artists; and B. Babington, vocal actress and comedienne, is well received, and the Barrascope pictures are interesting.

West Pier.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. W. Norman.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is here this week with Peter's Mother. Miss Lilias Earle submits a charming representation of Lady Mary; Mr. Eille Norwood's John Crewys is a masterly enactment; Mr. Vivian Gilbert gives a capital portrayal of Peter; Miss Hilda Sims makes a pleasing Sarah; Miss Mary Griffiths (Lady Belstone) and Miss Josephine Rae (Miss G. Crewys) are capitally suited; and others meriting commendation are Mr. Townsend Whiting (Sir Timothy), Mr. Walter Russell (Canon Burch), and Mr. Edward Jephson (Dr. Blundell).

Palace Pier Theatre.—Miss Annie Hughes and company, continuing their short season here, are repeating The Mollusc this week. Miss Hughes is delightful in the title-rôle; Mr. Athol Stewart is an excellent Tom Kemp; Miss Lilias Waldegrave displays finished acting as Miss Roberts; and Mr. Wylie A. Thompson is effective as the docile husband.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs M. Barrasford; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Fred Bauer.—The animated pictures here continue to attract good houses at the three daily exhibitions. A Tale of Autumn Leaves is especially appreciated; The Reprieve submits a thrilling story; much amusement is afforded by The Stolen Duck; The Asphalter's Dilemma and An Interrupted Bath, The Spectre Portrayals (a capital story); and other excellent films include An Interrupted Idyll, The Baby's Playmate, and A Carnival at Nice.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Miss Lena Ashwell and her London company, direct from the Kingsway Theatre, are here for the week. On Monday evening Diana of Dobson's was performed, the house being a really good one in all parts. Miss Ashwell acted with her accustomed skill as Diana Massingberd; Miss Gertrude Scott presented a good study of Mrs. White Fraser; Mr. Dennis Eady hit off the peculiarities of Sir Jabez Grinlay, Bart., in capital style; Mr. C. M. Hallard made a good part of Captain the Hon. Victor Bretherton; Miss Frances Ivor acted cleverly as the mercenary Mrs. Cantelupe; Miss Beryl Mercer displayed skill in her study of the old woman on the Thames Embankment, as also did Mr. Norman McKinnel as P.-C. Fellowes. The remaining small parts were all carefully taken by the Misses Nannie Bennett, Mary Barton, Muriel Vox, Doris Lytton, Ada Palmer, and Mr. W. Lemmon Warde. The comedy was staged effectively. The performance commenced with The Likes o' Me, which was nicely played by Miss Beryl Mercer, Master Philip Tonge, Miss Dorothy Brunt, Mr. W. Lemmon Warde, and Mr. T. A. Shannon. Irene Wycherley is billed for Friday evening.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—The Lancashire Lad, well performed by Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company, is the attraction here. Mr. Alec Alexander acts very effectively as David Elmore; Miss Stanley Burt is pleasing as Jessie Wincote; Mr. T. G. Vane displays considerable power as Max Carlton, as also does Miss Nell Oliver as Lorna Wincote; Mr. Percy Maitland acts in convincing style as Jem Wincote; and other important parts are carefully taken by Miss Molly Monoghan (Mother Wardle) and Mr. Bob Anderson (John Willie); the remainder of the cast being in good hands. The drama is excellently staged, and a variety entertainment in the third act adds considerably to the attractions.

Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls head the programme successfully. There are five boys and two girls, and they all sing and dance well; the Kurios present an amusing speciality, which includes trick scenery and lightning sketching; Alfred Wellesley and company score with a smart little sketch entitled Uncle's Courtship; Adeline Yohle and company have a pleasing musical interlude, Miss Yohle's song, "Sweet Memory" being much appreciated; the Tafanos display considerable musical skill as comic serenaders; Jimmie Laurie, patter comedian, is smart in his line; Bessie Knight is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and interesting animated pictures conclude the entertainment.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—G. P. Trevor and company successfully present a dramatic sketch entitled Her Country's Enemy, which is well staged, and capitally played by Miss Mary Allestree, Mr. G. P. Trevor, Miss Mary Barton, Messrs. S. C. Henry, Charles White, and T. S. Crook. Dorothy Sephton is a pleasing comedienne; Elton and Edwin are expert banjoists; Haydn's Vaudeville Artists do a pleasing turn, and are exceptionally clever dancers; Johnny Johnston, instrumentalist and whistler, is successful; Chard's dogs are marvellously well trained; and Arthur Slater scores as a bird imitator, &c. The performance concludes with animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—The company under the control of Edward L. Garside and J. Forbes-Knowles is an all-round capable one, and a full house on Monday appeared to thoroughly enjoy the performance of the domestic drama, Her Marriage Vow, by Owen Davis.

tions have been made in the front of the house. Mr. Bartlett Garth, a powerful actor, plays the rôle of Jasper, and Mr. J. H. Twyford is distinguished as Neville Landless; Mr. G. Ridgway Thorne is good as Edwin Drood, and Mr. Richard Harris does well as Mr. Crisparkle; Mr. David Phillips is responsible for endless laughter as Durdles; and a characteristic rendition of Princess Puffer is given by Miss Adie Adair; Mrs. Morton Powell supplies a charming rendering of Rosa Bud, and Miss May Beatrice is pleasing as Helena Landless.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Crowded houses give a hearty welcome to each successive turn. The Lavails on the silver arch and revolving bars are worthy of high praise, and the Bob Hanlon troupe of gymnasts give a sensational performance of somersaults from horizontal bars; neat and clean hand and head balancing is done by the Nettig Janowsky Trio, and Jack Clark, Lancashire comedian, has a store of good jokes; W. H. Downs, Australian ballad vocalist, sings well, and Nellie Farrell, a sweet little Irish girl, is greatly appreciated; the Four Breens introduce fun into Indian club juggling; the Sisters Silcott, as vocalists and dancers, are good, and the picture by the Empire Theatroscope, Bewildered Bobbies, is most laughable.

PALACE THEATRE AND HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The star turns here are decidedly novel. Mr. Cliff Berzac presents Woodward's seals and sea lions, and their performance is received with high approval; Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, are distinctly funny and clever, and Frank Leon, character comedian, sings well, and is responsible for the arrangement of a clog-dancing competition; Les Frasettis are a pair of clever musicians, who give selections on harp, violin, and xylophone; John G. Brandon and company appear in a dramatic sketch, The Girl and the Tough, which is well received; Ellis and Watts are clever dancers, and Billie Burford is a good comedienne, and Margit and Lenner are very peculiar acrobats and cause much mirth. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux shows a funny picture, A New Hair Remover.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company with A Royal Divorce occupy the stage this week. Mr. Keith Fraser (Napoleon) infuses into the rôle of that despotic autocrat a vein of tenderness, with occasional flashes of humour, which appeal irresistibly to the large audience. The acting of Miss Margaret Watson as dignified Empress, or broken-hearted woman, deserves nothing but unqualified approval, recalls being frequent and enthusiastic. Miss Maud Lacy's bright and charming personality is exactly suited to the part of Stephanie; her scenes with Mr. Walter T. Clifford (a capital Aughereau) create much amusement. The wily Talleyrand is skilfully played by Mr. Percy H. Vernon; while the traitorous De Beaumont has a clever representative in Mr. Stanley Harrison. Other characters are creditably undertaken by Miss E. Magna France, Miss Violet Hudson, Miss Ethel Love, Mr. Geo. Hudson (an amusing Grimaud), and Miss Winnie Tempest (Marie Louise).

BURY (Lancs).—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—An excellent programme here includes Jan Rudenyi, the celebrated Hungarian actor-violinist, in The Power of Music. He is well assisted by Miss Dora de Winton and Mr. John D. Saunders. The Three Arleys, acrobats; Mlle. Renee plays on various instruments; Mike Nono, comedian; the Martelloni Family, acrobats; Mr. John Donald, vocalist; Lina Leslie, vocalist; and Recco, burlesque acrobat.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—A good series of pictures are provided here. They include The Great Marathon Race, A Tour to Copenhagen, Poor, but Honest, A Game of Hide and Seek, &c. The variety turns are Vaubert, an illusionist of ability, and Phyllis Seymour, singer and dancer.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Sons.—The turns include the original Szarvasi Ferencz Troupe of singers and dancers; Coverdale and Huxley's Bijou Juvenile Troupe; Picquo, a comedy gymnast; Fritz Kornan, whistler; Major Moss, baritone; Ethel Loftus, comedienne; and Martin Conway, comedian.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robt. Redford.—Mr. F. W. Bolam's company is here in The Sins of Society. It is some considerable time since such a magnificent first-class drama has been presented here, and on Monday night a distinctly critical audience pronounced the piece to be well worth a visit. The cast is an unusually large one, but the name of Mr. Blake Adams stands out in prominence, this clever fun-maker being one of Cardiff's first favourites. His impersonation of James Hogg is a great success, and nothing funnier could be imagined than his portrayal of the would-be "sport." A huge victory is achieved by Miss Grace E. Leslie as Lady Marion Beaumont, her rendition being a perfect masterpiece. The bright and vivacious Lady Goldbury is more than successfully undertaken by Miss Pattie Browne; while Miss Dorothy Giles is a charming Lady Gwendolen Ashley. A faultless delineation of Mr. Noel Ferrers is presented by Mr. C. F. Collings, the society scoundrel being depicted with remarkable consummate ease. The representation of Sir Dorian March by Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan does him infinite credit, and Mr. Frederick Annerley as Mr. Morris is a decidedly clever piece of acting. The company all-round is an exceptionally strong one, while the scenery and effects are in no mean measure responsible for the well-deserved success of the production.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—At the head of a carefully-selected programme appears Mr. Laurence Irving and Miss Mabel Hackney, in a duologue entitled The Dog Between. Never before have Cardiffians had the opportunity of witnessing such a pleasing and simple sketch, and yet its charm is in its simplicity. The ease with which Augustus Mackenzie and Joan Craddock were depicted can be the outcome of only born histrionic abilities. Protean plays are always remarkable, but Herbert Shelley, in his thrilling episode Dan the Outlaw, presents a piece in which marvellous quick-changes are combined with first-class acting. A mimic with startling qualifications is Syd May, his famous wrestling skit being funny and well-contrived; while Cruikshank is an old favourite who gains tumultuous applause for smart sayings and clever ditties; Charlene and Charlene prove expert juggler and lady xylophonist, the union providing an exceptionally talented performance. In an amusing skit, How to Treat a Burglar, the Maples introduce wonderful trick dancing, which is accorded well-deserved approbation; Harry Barnes and company in the School of Dancing, which includes six charming and clever dancers; Bros. Redmond, exceptional acrobatic comedians, the Crown Trio, speciality vocalists, and a screaming absurdity on the Bioscope complete a good all-round bill.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Rollo Balmain.—It's Never Too Late to Mend is put forward in excellent style at the Theatre Royal this week. Mr. Edward Sullivan's company is responsible for the capital representation of this popular piece. Mr. George Delaforce appears in the rôle of George Fielding, submitting a really fine portrayal; Tom Robinson is rendered in first-rate style by Mr. Ronald Boyne; the villainies of Mr. Meadows are given just the necessary prominence by Mr. Geo. Dent; while Mr. G. Arundel certainly makes a capital bluff farmer. Miss Eirine Douglas achieves fair success as the heroine, Susan Merton, and other clever impersonations are those given by Mr. Alfred Willing (William Fielding), Mr. Gus Walsh (Isaac Levi), and Mr. J. W. Braithwaite (Peter Crawley).

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—A varied programme is headed by the gifted vocalist Herbert Clifton, who succeeds exceptionally well at the Palace; Keith and Merson appear in their hunting absurdity, with their customary popularity; Kelly and Ashby are another merry duo, who "go down" with much appreciation in Cardiff; Harry Nelson strikes an original skit, My Wife's a Suffragette; and the Varleys, harmonising vocalists; the Three Alskarnos, Risley comedians; and the Gregson Comedy Trio all appear in capital form to contribute their share in the excellent bill of fare.

CARLISLE.—H.M. THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. C. Watson Mills's company in the powerful drama A Warning to Women is drawing good houses here. The principal part, Dr. Marcus Dread, is splendidly enacted by Mr. Leonard Lawrence, whose study of a by-no-means pleasant or popular character meets with unqualified approval. Miss Lillian Herries, too, has a thankless part, which she treats with artistic skill and a fine appreciation of its many opportunities. A clever character sketch by Miss Marie Moore is a strong feature of the performance. Mr. William Vane as Shaun, Mr. Harry Douglas as Lord Eversleigh, Mr. Chas. O'Connor, and Mr. Henry Rutland give excellent performances. Mr. Oscar Power as the comedy Irishman, Mike M'Quade, is amusing and Miss Alice Findlayson and Miss Edith Rutland fill their parts with credit.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Morgan.—Pipifax and Paulo, who top the bill this week in their eccentric acrobatic act, entitled "Humpsti Bumpsti," contribute a distinctly novel, clever, and amusing turn; their knockabout business is something to be seen. Another novel act is given by Rozel, whose daring feats created amazement and enthusiastic applause. Amy Marden sings effectively, and E. Rutland is a comedian with a quaint and funny style which at once made him popular. A breezy and smartly-written little comedy, entitled Elizabeth and the Baby, was amusingly played by Benson and Rose. Harry and Elsie Mayville are on a return visit with their always-welcome Liliputian novelty act. A laughable scena, The Fire Station, by the Fenians, was not the least popular item of an interesting and enjoyable entertainment.

NEW PUBLIC HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Sydney Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Thomas France; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Uden.—The Edison Picture Company continues to be a great attraction here. Black-eyed Susan is the special film this week. Rennie, the ventriloquist, is remarkably clever and funny, and has established himself a favourite.

CARMARTHEN.—ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietors, Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—A crowded house welcomed the appearance of Mr. Arthur Roberts and his vaudeville company in their repertoire of sketches, entitled Courtship and Marriage, Till Sunday, A Midnight Kiss, and The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife. In the former sketch Mr. Roberts and Miss Ruby Celeste in their respective parts were really amusing. In Till Sunday Mr. Roberts was at his best, and kept the large audience in a continual roar of laughter. Miss Ida Furneaux as Mrs. St. Hilary was excellent. Biggs was excellently represented by Mr. Harry Huddleston; Mr. William Rokeby was really good as Mr. St. Hilary; Mr. Harry J. Worth as Ephraim was very effective; and Miss May Hallatt as Rose most capably represented her part.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—The Nihilist is being presented here by Messrs. O. Silverstone and Hy. Wright's company. Mr. Walter Bentley makes an excellent Ivan; and is well supported by Miss Edna Clare as Alexina Orloff; Mr. Leo R. Neilson, in the heavy part, makes a capital Prince Alexander; Miss Florrie Kelsey, as Princess Olga, and Little May Ediss, as Alexina's daughter, play their parts to perfection; and Mr. Hy. Wright and Miss Jessica Ford are amusing in their respective parts.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Beanland and Emerson; Manager, Will H. Emerson; Acting-Manager, James Travis.—The Loyal Dominion Co.'s pictures at the Queen's continue to maintain their high standard of excellence, and each week something new is added to interest their many patrons. This week's programme includes the great Marathon Race, that great dramatic picture The Motherless Child, Tour Through Savoy, Custom House Officer's Stick, Round the Table, Jack in the Letter Box, and numerous others interesting and educational, whilst Miss Lilian Neville, in illustrated songs, adds to the enjoyment of the evening's programme.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—G. Carlton Wallace's company occupies the boards here with The Love that Women Desire. Mr. J. O. Stewart is natural as Squire Abingdon, Mr. John Hignett makes a capable Dennis O'Rourke, Miss May Neilson is a lively Patty Swift, Mr. J. W. Wilkinson is drily humorous as P.C. Sowerburry, Miss Aimee Grattan Clyndes creates a decidedly favourable impression as Sybil Thorburn, and other parts are in good keeping.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Sam Mayo is once again starring here with his usual effect. Another leading attraction is Maurin's Fairy Fountains, by means of which some very pleasing effects are gained. The Bros. Dean dance together with great precision. Winnie Derson makes many friends and admirers. Lacey's Erascope has some excellent films. Others appearing are Will Brockton, vocalist; Nellie Chandos, serio; and the Lorrisons, fun-makers.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. E. G. Woodhouse.—Yukio Tani tops the bill here, and his nightly displays and contests arouse much interest and excitement. Roma and Romani, on a return visit, are again pleasing all with their skilful musical selections. Mollie Woolstenhulme's vocal contributions are quite appreciated. The Falcons perform acrobatic feats in a very clean manner. Gena Manon's songs go well. The Society Quartette dance to everyone's satisfaction. The Edisonograph has a smartly-worked trick film, entitled The Invisible Fluid. Cyril Carle, in dramatic scena, and the Katos, in their automatic theatre, complete the company.

CHESTER. — ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—A welcome change is made this week in the form of a visit of Mr. Milton Bode's company in the successful musical comedy, A Chinese Honeymoon. The chief parts are in the capable hands of two Chester favourites, viz., Mr. Billy Harman, who plays as Mr. Pineapple, and Miss Veronica Brady, who appears as Mrs. Pineapple. Mr. Harman is successful in all he does, and was accorded a flattering reception at his first entrance on Monday; Miss Veronica Brady acts, sings, and dances to the evident satisfaction of the audience, and her work well justifies her popularity; Mr. Rudolph Kloss makes an imposing Emperor as Hang Chow; Mr. P. Allerton Turner submits an excellent character study as Chippie Chop, and also undertakes the duties of stage-manager; Mr. Harry Jennings is well to the fore as Tom Hatherton; Mrs. Brown has an efficient representative in Miss Maud Adams; Mr. Leonard May gains many laughs for his humorous impersonation of the Lord High Admiral Hi Lung, and is a great success; the Fi-Fi of the production is Miss Gwennie Harcourt, and her funny antics convulse the house, the applause after her song, "When I make my début," being enthusiastic. The chorus and augmented orchestra are under the able direction of Mr. Knight Pearce, and Mr. Alfred Monro is the business-manager for Mr. Bode. The production is tastefully dressed and well staged.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hemingway.—Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Day's company is here in For Love of a Woman. As Ned Merrick, Mr. Arthur Chisholm displays considerable talent; Mr. Fred Lloyd is an acceptable Guy Manor; Mr. Eustace Day cleverly renders Allan Paget; Mr. Fred Ramsdale is good as Sam Holland; Miss May Day capitally renders Nance Manor; Miss Eva St. Vincent depicts Jane Manor ably, and Miss Elsie Sheldon vivaciously undertakes Marjory Hulmes, Nell Paget being capably presented by Miss Dorothy Routh.

CLACTON-ON-SEA.—PALACE BY THE SEA.—Managing-Director, Mr. P. W. Willard. — Farley, Rernie and Farley are creating screams of laughter with their farce, The Terrible Tailors; and Harding and Preston are also extremely funny in The Editor and the New Sub; Miss Vera Patey, "The Summer Girl," is still a great attraction, her laughing song being particularly good; Lily Esplin is a charming comedienne, and wins hearty applause; Master Bernard Crook presents a very clever turn at the piano; Mr. Percy Maye's impersonations are enthusiastically received, and Henri Becker, the modern wonder-worker, certainly deserves his title; Mr. Fred Bronte, comedian-vocalist, gives a good account of himself. The Palascope shows some fine pictures.

WEST CLIFF GARDENS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Graham Russell and Bentley.—In addition to the stock company, Mr. Walter Montague, raconteur, Mr. Joseph Bull, operatic banjoist, and Miss Maggie Jarvis, soprano, are appearing here with success. The complimentary benefit to Mr. Bert Graham proved an immense success, and seats were at a great premium.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. W. F. Jury; Business-Manager, Mr. Dudley Harcourt.—This hall is still running with great success. The pictures shown are of the highest order, and fully merit the hearty applause they receive. Miss Clairetta Florence adds greatly to the enjoyment of the entertainment with her well-rendered humorous songs.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Robert Macdonald's company in The Dairymaids opened a three-nights engagement here on Monday, and that very pleasing musical play was quite to the taste of the large and appreciative audience. Mr. Dan Agar, obviously a billiard enthusiast, was the hit of the piece, his evolutions and engaging personality as "Joe Mivens, A.B.," forming the nucleus of unbounded fun; Mr. Richard Telford, too, was exceedingly funny as Lieutenant Sam Brudenell, and the dancing of this comedian was loudly redemanded; Mr. Bernard Vaughan filled the rôle of Dr. O'Byrne, R.N., with very pleasing correctness, whilst Miss Carrie Lacey looked very smart as Lady Brudenell; Miss Empsie Bowman and Miss Vera Crichton as Peggy and Winnie respectively, were most charming; and an immense favourite was the Eliza of Miss Nellie Bowman. The very numerous subsidiary characters were splendidly shown, and the whole piece went with commendable smartness, many of the topical allusions being loudly applauded. On Thursday, for a matinée and one evening performance, The Besses o' the Barn Band paid a return visit, its previous one being an eminent success, adding to the interest manifested, though it was extremely unfortunate that all the troops in garrison are temporarily away on manœuvres.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Henry Herne and company are this week presenting the dramatic sketch, Blackmail. Edward Cranston and Mrs. Bennett's company appear in the comedietta, Poor Master; Wallan, the young juggler, pays a return visit, and shows marked improvement, for which he is deservedly applauded; Amy Elcock, comedienne and dancer, goes well; whilst Florrie St. Roy dances in clever style and shows much agility; Jack Binns shines as a vocal comedian; Tom Dunmore contributes to the bill; and the concluding item is the film, A Chauffeur's Dream, by the Charles Urban Company.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's principal company opened on Monday with The Dairymaids, which was seen for the first time here. The piece is well mounted and the scenery and dresses excellent. Miss Phyllis Dare appears in the part of Peggy, and proved herself a delightful actress, singing and dancing very gracefully. Her first appearance on Monday was greeted with enthusiastic applause. Another clever lady is Miss Gladys Ivery, who takes the part of Winifred. This artist possesses a pleasing and well-trained voice, and won much favour in the numbers allotted to her. Miss Lottie Serjeant as Eliza (maid-of-all-work) sings, dances, and acts admirably. As Lady Brudenell Miss Edith Blanche fills the part capably, and Mrs. Rose Edouin Lewis as Miss Pyechase gave good support. Miss Marjorie Manners as Helen and Miss Maisie Sinclair as Lady Hyde acquitted themselves admirably. Mr. E. Statham Staples as Lieut. Sam Brudenell was full of humour, and Mr. Harry Dent as Joe Mivens was irresistibly droll, and created much laughter. Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., as Lieut. Frank Meredith, R.N., also contributed towards the fun. In the part of Dr. O'Byrne Mr. Percy Marshall gave a breezy rendering. The Lieut. Brereton of Mr. Horace Percival was also a capital characterisation. The choruses were good. Some prettily-arranged exercises were given by the Sandow girls.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—An American comedy drama, entitled A Millionaire Tramp, is being produced at the above house this week with much success by Mr. Herbert Lloyd's company. Mr. W. W. Jones, as an hotel porter (Abraham Jones), is a clever comedian and dancer. In the title-rôle (Mr. Jay Pierpont), Mr. Joseph Lyle causes much amusement; Miss Sybil Carl Rosa is admirably suited to the part of Estella Hampton; Mr. Gilbert Clark (Arthur Edgerton) and Mr. Charles Weir (Dr. John Staley) act ably. A number of good songs are very well rendered, and a word of praise should be given to the excellent scenic effects.

THE HIPPODROME.—A varied and interesting programme is being well patronised this week. The star turn is given by Mr. Charles Worlands company in an historical playlet, Cromwell and the King, the chief characters being sustained by Mr. Ashley Page and Miss Marion Denvil; Nat Clifford is paying a welcome return visit, and is well received; the Three Merrils, cyclists, appear with some clever tricks; Dale and O'Mally are smart comedians; the Lynchs give some illustrated picture songs; other capable contributors being the Fitzroys, trapeze and rope gymnasts; the Westbrooks in a dancing scena, and Ethel Dunford, vocalist. The Hipposcope concludes the programme.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. George Dance; Manager, Mr. K. Draco.—Large audiences are attracted this week. The head of the bill is occupied by the Ten Loonies, or "mad musicians," who cause roars of loughter and win admiration for some well-concerted music. The New York Nippers, in their sand and long boot dancing are well worth witnessing; Blanche Vincent, who possesses a strong contralto, receives great applause; Sydney Lee shows the art of palming in a clever way; and other contributors to the programme are the Three Panamas in a pot-pourri act; Allis and Cassanti, comedians and dancers; Bob Hamilton, Scotch comedian, and Nellie Martell, comedienne; the Bioscope pictures concluding.

CREWE.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—An excellent programme here is topped by the Royal Banzai Family, Japanese jugglers and contortionists, whose clever work is much appreciated; Stylo does marvellous feats with wooden hoops; Bennett and Martell, in The Shipwrecked Mariners, create amusement; Calile and Walker are refined entertainers; Beatrice Bonnie, comedienne, is a pronounced success; Frank F. Street, in "I won't keep you a minute," is good; Kate Eplett, comedienne and dancer, is above the average, and the Marathon Race on the Operascope proves interesting.

CROYDON.—HIPPODROME AND NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Jackson Hayes; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Samuel James and Newman Maurice.—May and Barnes, in vocal scens, The Dreamer, are good; The Roslyns are capable vocalists and dancers; Lillie Lisle is a pleasing comedienne; Winnie Burgess, serio and dancer, is appreciated; Chas. Williams is a talented comedian; Albert Wyndham and Co. produce two excellent sketches, Shylock and Prince Arthur; Mr. Albert Wyndham and Miss Glorence Pateman are well adapted to their respective parts; and some fine animated pictures are shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

PUBLIC HALL.—Messrs. Gale and Polden's animated pictures are being exhibited here to crowded houses. Special mention may be made of the pictures of the Indian Mutiny, Motor-car Racing on the Brooklands Track, the Army and Navy scenes, and the various humorous subjects.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Langley Wyatt.—An attractive programme this week is headed by Boswell's stage circus, comprising some cleverly-trained ponies, dogs, and donkey; the animals go through their varied performance in a highly commendable manner. Frank E. Burdett's company appears to advantage in an exciting military sketch, entitled Mutiny, in which the various characters are very capably portrayed. Chas. Ronen, a spindle-legged comedian, has some funny songs, patter, and dances; the Sisters Selwyn, vocalists and dancers, are well received; Sandy and Carl, clever burlesque comedians, create roars of laughter; the Cecilias are pleasing lady instrumentalists; the Betsons, comedy cyclists, are both diverting and clever; and Tiny Arnold is a praiseworthy diminutive comedienne. The Bioscope depicts an interesting film of the Dieppe motor races.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Mr. Horace Stanley's company is producing Guilty Gold at the Devonport playhouse, and appears to be doing remunerative business. Mr. J. A. Plummer creates a very favourable impression with his representation of Harold Elmore, the clergyman hero, while Mr. Fred Wilberforce, as Ralph Bartlett, the villain, seems to be the embodiment of everything that is bad. The company also includes the Misses Cora Linda, Amy Ellam, and Josephine, who work very hard in the several parts allocated to them.

DEWSBURY. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—The Prodigal Son, staged by Mr. Geo. D. Day's company, has made a profound impression upon theatregoers here. Mr. Albert Ward impersonates the prodigal, Oscar Stephenson, with irresistible power and skill, which gain him great favour; Miss Pauline Emeric figures in the dual rôle of Thora and Elin with charm and delicacy; worthy of high praise is the well-marked exposition of Magnus Stephensson by Mr. H. J. Crane, who impresses one with his sincerity and earnestness in the part; Miss Pearla Gardner, as the "serpent in the garden of Eden," adequately represents the double-dealing sister Helga; the quaint human nature in Margaret Neilson, the spinster, is brought out fully and amusingly by Miss Kate Osborne, who revels in the rôle and makes it a huge success. As Anna Magnusson Miss Florence Lovell infuses sympathy and sincerity into her work; a very powerful presentment of the Governor, Stephen Magnusson is given by Mr. Chas. Herberte; and Mr. James English makes the utmost use of the opportunities afforded in the part of Oscar Neilson. Numerous subordinate characters are all capably handled.

DONCASTER.—GRAND THEATRE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—An entertaining programme is supplied this week by W. Salmon, clever trick and musical cyclist; Happy Attwood, a good comedian; the Smarte Brothers, acrobatic eccentrics; the Bohemians, skilful instrumental and comedy artists; Mack Ollive, in his whistling scena, "The Candy Store," assisted by Miss Daisy Baldry; Harwood's Juveniles; Gertrude Moore, in a singing and dancing speciality act; and the Original Four Regals, as the Armourers, the latter being an especially popular turn.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND.—Chairman, Mr. Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—The first visit of Mr. George Dance's company with The Girls of Gottenberg has resulted in crowded audiences at the Grand. Mr. Bertie Wright as Max Moddelkopf was screamingly funny; Miss Laura Lyndsay was as pretty as a picture as Mitzi, and acted with spirit and sang with taste; Mr. Tom Shelford as Otto was excellent. It was to be regretted that Miss Ellaline Thorne, the leading lady of the company, was too ill to appear. Miss Susie Raymond as Lucille presented an up to date dance which caught on. The costumes, dresses, and scenery are artistic.

GAIETY, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—The revised version of The Christian at this beautiful playhouse has created quite a furore. It is admirably acted by the players, who work under the banner of Mr. Wentworth Croke. Mr. Henry Renouf as John Storm is impressive, passionate, convincing; the Glory Quayle of Miss Doris Gilman has power and pathos; Mr. Oswald Marshall's Horatio Drake is well balanced; Mr. G. B. Montford as Lord Robert Ure is entirely in the picture; Mr. Edwin Long imparts dignity to the rôle of Father Lamplugh; the Archdeacon Wealthy of Mr. C. E. Turpin is clever; the Bert of Mr. W. S. Carter is a realistic study; Miss Sinna St. Clair's Mrs. Callender wins the audience by the quaint humour of the impersonation; Miss Margaret Brodie as Polly Love did not strain sentiment to the snapping point; Miss May Dudley as Black Meg was effective; and Miss Katherine Maude's Lady Robert Ure was of distinct value to the ensemble. The scenery is beautiful, and the play is effectively staged by Mr. Oswald Marshall.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—Mr. Bransby Williams is this week causing a stir amongst not only the visitors but the residents in his theatric reproduction of Dickensian characters. His Bill Sikes, Micawber, and Pegotty have excited the warmest admiration. Other turns at the Palace are Sylvo, a clever comedy juggler; Helena Cecile, a sweet-toned vocalist; W. B. Raby, who is funny; Edie and Ramsden, smart musical comedy artists, and Maria and Lona, equilibrists, who do graceful work. In addition, there is dancing to the music provided by Mr. Harry Wood's orchestra. The attendances this week have beaten the record.

DERBY CASTLE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alfred Kelly.—Mr. Fred Sinclair and Miss Gracie Whiteford are scoring heavily here this week with their sketch, Getting Even; little Agnes Tina, a child actress, has many admirers; Mr. Frank Hartley, a clever boy juggler, secures applause; and Mr. Charles Bignell repeats his success of last week. The great turn is Mr. Horace Wheatley, who must be tired of responding to encores; Miss Lillie Lonsdale sings ballads with taste and expression; the Four Delevines, and Vernon's Bioscope are also in the bill.

Other entertainments in Douglas are Mr. F. J. Connor's Hippodrome, where Mr. Walter Munroe is a great draw and Whimsical Walker still increases his popularity, and little Mona Connor is an established favourite; Buxton's pierrrots and tea village, Mr. Charles Dare at the Empire Theatre, and Messrs. Adeler and Sutton on Onchan Head.

DOVER.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor Mr. Sidney W. Winter.—The Eight Stello Girls, who are the star turn, are vocalists and dancers of exceptional merit; Tamamoto, the Japanese acrobat, gives a wonderful performance on the perpendicular rope; Mannish and Strand, speciality artists, contribute a most attractive turn; while Walter Wallis, a comedian of much humour, is entirely successful; some pleasing songs are rendered by Miss Mollie Doone, a charming comedienne; Ella Loraine has a magnificent voice, and sings with much expression; Charles Sloman introduces some very amusing ditties. The Hippodrome Pictures conclude a strong programme.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—A fine reception is accorded Ivor Harvey's troupe of American boys and girls on this, their first appearance, in Dover; a highly amusing comedy sketch, entitled True Blue, is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard; and the Ives have a novel ball-punching act; the Sisters Thorne, duettists, Nellie Gannon, an attractive vocalist, Peggy Fame, comedienne, and Harry Wright, a smart extempore vocalist, with the Bioscope, complete the bill.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. H. B. Irving, Miss Dorothea Baird, and company occupy the boards here this week, and on Monday night Hamlet was presented, when the distinguished actor and his able supporters received a cordial reception from a large and fashionable audience. Mr. Irving's Hamlet was a great interpretation, perfect in elocution, and wanting in nothing to make the character ideal; Miss Dorothea Baird contributed a touching and effective reading as Ophelia; Mr. Stanley Howett gave a capital impersonation of Horatio; Miss Eily Malyon successfully filled the rôle of Gertrude, Queen of Denmark; Polonius had an able exponent in Mr. Tom Reynolds; Laertes was in the capable hands of Mr. Eric Maxon; Mr. Frank Tyars was most dignified as Claudius, King of Denmark; Mr. Charles Dodsworth was exceedingly good as the First Gravedigger; Mr. Frank Cochrane was eminently satisfactory as the Ghost. The remaining parts were well filled. On Tuesday night The Lyons Mail, preceded by the curtain-raiser, The Sergeant of Hussars, was presented, and was well received. Also billed are The Bells and Louis XI.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—A hearty reception was accorded to Miss Ellaline Terriss and Mr. Seymour Hicks on their reappearance here for a short season with their latest success, The Gay Gordons, which was produced in an excellent manner. The honours of the night certainly rested with Miss Ellaline Terriss, who appeared as Peggy Quainton, with her pleasing and effective singing and dancing, for which she was richly applauded; Mr. Seymour Hicks gave a splendid representation of Angus Graeme, and also won appreciation; Mr. Johnny Danvers as the old showman, Nervy Nat, was particularly good, and he was ably assisted by Mr. George Carroll as Edmund Siddons, who was very quaint and amus-

About six weeks ago I was suffering with

PIMPLES

ALL OVER MY FACE,

brought on probably by painting my face for my eccentric business. I was also suffering with SCURF IN THE HAIR. Being rather alarmed, I asked a friend's advice, and he recommended me to take "Clarke's Blood Mixture." I purchased a 2/9 bottle, and within a week I found marked improvement. The pimples

ing; Miss Dorothy Ward fulfilled the rôle of Victoria Siddons with excellent taste, and sang her songs in capital style; Mr. E. Lugg ably presented the character of Mr. Andrew Quainton, and Miss Sidney Fairbrother was most conspicuous as Mrs. Charlotte Siddons. The remaining parts, which are numerous, were most capitally played, and a word of praise is due for the excellent singing, which was a feature in itself, together with the gorgeous dresses.

Queen's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. W. S. Pearse; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Hereford Jones.—The animated pictures, which continue to attract here, include:—The Workman's Honour, The Orphan Girl, Students' Jokes, Rival Cyclists, Will He Overtake Them? The Countess's Wedding, A Comedy of Errors, Diabolical Itching, Thief by Necessity, Toula's Dream, &c. The variety artists appearing are Mick and Mack, a smart pair of patter comedians; Fitz and Fitz, comedians and dancers; and the popular humorist and guide, Bob Pearson.

Empire. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Neil Kenyon, the popular Scotch comedian, provides the star turn here this week, and meets with an enthusiastic reception; the Herald Comedy Four in their singing and dancing act, The Indians and the Sailor, prove a decided attraction, and Boden and Bell score in a series of pretty duets and dances; the Norman and Leonard Trio in their musical sketch, The Itinerant, evoke hearty applause, and Bessie Benson is a dainty dancer as well as a pleasing vocalist; Little Ganty's humorous songs prove as popular as ever, and Zimpah displays displays marked ability as a mimic; Madge May is a vivacious comedienne, and has many admirers, and the Empire pictures portray the latest events.

Tivoli.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—A good bill of fare is attracting capital houses here. Mooney Holbein and company present an amusing sketch, entitled Oysters, 1s. per Bucket, which is much enjoyed; the Andos Japanese Troupe go through a clever and sensational acrobatic performance; the Three Chanters in a vocal comedy act are heartily received, and Wall Owen is an amusing comedian; the great Wieland is a wonderfully smart juggler, and Ivey Aberdare is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Fremel and Fremel, eccentric comedians, make a decided hit; in a refined musical act Mlle. Zelda merits applause; Percy Johnson, comedian, and the Bioscope, depicting Too Old for Work, complete.

Round Room, Rotunda.—The second week of the Irish Animated Photo Company has been attended with convincing proof in the shape of large audiences daily. The change of pictures, which are heartily enjoyed, include The Angel of the Village, Marathon Race, The Mountaineers' Son, The Dieppe Motor Circuit Tests, A Charmed Umbrella, Matrimonial Stages, Hide and Seek, &c., and the variety programme is also of a high order. Mr. Patrick O'Shea, an excellent tenor, is nightly encored for his capital rendering of "Love me and the world is mine"; Miss Daisy Buckley, soprano vocalist, is heard to advantage in some pleasing numbers; Miss Dorothy Hall in coon song and dance is warmly applauded; and Mr. W. A. Sheehan, baritone vocalist, is also successful. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Henry Peters, is deserving of mention.

Antient Concert Rooms.—During the week the well-known pugilist Gunner Moir has been giving sparring exhibitions here to full houses nightly. He is supported by a capital vaudeville company, in which the following artists appear:—Miss Belle White, favourite comedienne and dancer; Mr. Charles Bruton, celebrated vocalist; Miss Madge Reddin, in several pleasing ballads; and Mr. Ralph Goggin, character vocalist.

Pavilion (Kingstown).—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—The Old Virginia Company, who are paying a return visit here, are delighting large audiences this week. Amongst the performers must be mentioned specially Miss Lilian Page, an accomplished soprano vocalist; Mr. Bert Errol, female impersonator; Miss Nellie Sheffield, a highly amusing comedienne; Leonard Russell, baritone vocalist; Mr. Kit Keen, a capital comedian; Mr. H. Buckland, Miss Joey Ellis, and Mr. William Pringle. Mr. W. H. Eveleigh ably assists at the piano.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The newcomers appearing here this week are:—Will Titman, comedian and lady impersonator; Fox and Fox, duettists and dancers; Will Rollason, baritone vocalist; Nellie McMerry, comedienne; Prof. Wallace, novelty ventriloquist; Harold Colin, comedian; and the Cinematograph.

DUNFERMLINE.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—The season opened here this week, when, for the first time in the history of the theatre, a series of Ibsen's plays was presented by Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and company. In A Doll's House on Monday Miss Octavia Kenmore, as Nora Helmer, gave one of the most able and finished performances seen here for a considerable time; Mr. Lovel as Torvald Helmer gave a very fine character study of the part; Mr. E. Stanley Yorke made a good Dr. Rank; Mr. Arthur McCulloch proved himself a capable Nils Krogstadt; Miss Katherine Maynard provides a meritorious Mrs. Linden. The week's répertoire includes The Master Builder and Hedda Gabler.

EASTBOURNE.—Devonshire Park Theatre.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Murray King and Clark.—Mr. Wentworth Croke presented The Bondman on Monday and the two following evenings. Mr. R. Scrope Quentin's Jason was a remarkably fine portrayal of a most difficult rôle, and Mr. Lionel Atwill impersonated the part of Michael Sunlocks with gratifying success; Mr. W. H. Rotheram skilfully doubled the totally dissimilar Father Ferrati and Grandfather, and Mr. Oswald Lingard's study of Adam Fairbrother merits the very highest commendation; Mr. Alfred Fisher did not in the least minimise the very unpleasant attributes of Governor Lesba, and Mr. F. J. Waller's Dr. Boni was a very worthy companion picture; the important and difficult part of Greeba was entrusted most satisfactorily to Miss Georgina Wynter; Miss Madge Lanerton proved herself more than equal to the requirements of Mrs. Fairbrother; Miss Emilie Mayhew's Christian Ann was a well-placed assumption, and Miss Gertrude Helene and Master Walter Neville played pleasingly as Mona and Danny respectively. The Merry Widow is the week-end attraction.

The Royal Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Holloway.—Clarice Mayne is the bright particular star, her songs and mimicry being in the highest degree excellent; she is cleverly assisted by a male accompanist, whose humorous work evokes the heartiest merriment; Goodfellow and Gregson bring down the house with their immensely funny patter and business; Wright and Ellor might well be styled the dancing acrobats; their act is as original as it is indisputably clever; W. T. Thompson and company submit the very amusing sketch Watching the Chalk, and Mabel Carr (a pleasing comedienne), Gene Selby (a clever coon artist, with a smart bone solo), and the Hippodrome pictures complete.

Pier Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr. G. Hayes.—Miss Lena Ashwell's principal company opened on Monday for a three nights stay with Diana of Dobson's, the name-part of Miss Diana Massingberd being entrusted to Miss Dorothy Green with eminently satisfactory results; Mr. H. Grendon Bentley was really excellent as Capt. the Hon. Victor Bretherton; Miss Mary Stuart was perfectly delightful as the match-making Mrs. Cantelupe; Mr. Alfred Harris contrived to be immensely amusing as the vulgar trader, Sir Jabez Grindley, Bart.; the host of minor principal parts were admirably undertaken by Misses Molly Tremaine, Kate Turner, Nannie Griffin (excellent alike as Miss Jay and Old Woman), Eva Leonard Boyne, Helen Vicary, Georgette de Serville, and Mr. Albert Wainwright. The Bishop's Candlesticks preceded. Tom Jones succeeded on Thursday.

EDINBURGH.—Royal Lyceum Theatre, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—A return visit of What the Butler Saw has drawn good holiday houses during the current week, and this popular farcical comedy is brought quite down to date by well-timed allusions to suffragettes, old-age pensions, the Licensing Bill, and so forth. Mr. Lionel Bignold, in his old part of Pink the butler, acts with the typical style of drollery which never fails to amuse; and the pretended bachelor and widow, Mr. and Mrs. Burrington, are again excellent and lively impersonations in the hands of Mr. Charles Fawcett and Miss Ada Blanche; the long cast in other respects is well filled, the specimens of male and female inmates of a hydropathic establishment being duly differentiated by their respective representatives; Mr. Harry H. Rignold, Mr. George Ascot, and Mr. George Nelson Wallace are conspicuous as the wealthy Jew, the peppery general, and the fossil professor; with Mr. Raymond Dudley and Miss Christine Jensen in the rôles of Sir Charles Foden and his aunt; while Miss Mona Garland, as Mrs. Fleming-Symthe, Miss Julie St. George as Mrs. B. Hake, and Miss Rose Carew as Maria all give useful aid.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—The Silver King still holds its place among the most attractive of popular dramas, and the piece loses nothing of its power or fascination in the interpretation given here by Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company for the reopening of this theatre after the summer recess. Mr. Fred D. Daviss is convincing and artistic in his rendering of Wilfrid Denver; Miss Edyth Goodal is charmingly effective as Nellie; Cissy is very nicely played by Miss Flossie Hale Daviss; and Daniel Jakes finds a trusty and sympathetic representative in Mr. Edward J. George, who has delighted so many playgoers in this particular part; the fraternity of scoundrels is well portrayed, collectively and individually, by Mr. Stanton Sharp, Mr. George Belmore, and Mr. Arthur Wright, in their respective rôles of Captain Skinner, Henry Corket, and Elijah Coombe; and the many minor characters are all in capable hands.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Miss Louie Freear and company with the broadly farcical sketch Snooks have the premier place in this week's bill; and the success of the clever comedienne, in the congenial rôle of Jemima the slavey, is in every way complete; Ian Colquhoun gives great pleasure to his hearers by his fine rendering of Scottish songs; a young vocalist and dancer in the person of Gertie Gitana makes a very favourable impression; and Charles Harker's Six Æolians contribute an entertaining vocal and dancing act; another strong combination of singers and dancers is found in Seener and Fridkin's Imperial Russian Troupe of performers, whose gyrations are something to wonder at; and great volubility is displayed by Lee and Bentley, who carry through a racy comedy sketch in high-mettled style; Will Polnski, jun., puts a good deal of quaintness into his eccentric turn; Vanando is to be congratulated on the novelty he contrives to introduce into his ventriloquail act; the Bioscope pictures are of much interest; and well-merited honours fall to Mr. Hymack for his most ingenious and extraordinary chameleon-like changes of costume, which he accomplishes in a truly marvellous and inexplicable manner.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Herbert Sleath's company is here in A White Man. Mr. Frank E. Petley as Captain James Wynnegate, V.C., scores a success; Mr. Lewis Broughton presents the part of the Earl of Kerhill in an efficient manner; Mr. R. A. Brandon as Big Bill is excellent; Mr. A. C. Hardie as the bully, Cash Hawkins, is all that can be desired; and Mr. John Wilmer is good as Bud Hardy. Miss Rhoda Ray is pathetic, and Miss Eleanor May delightfully sympathetic.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—The entertainment this week is being provided by Mr. Edward Marris's company in The Dandy Doctor, and the piece has been well received. Mr. George Brentwood appears in the rôle of Melchisadek Brown (the tinned meat millionaire), and does well; Miss Mollie Wynne makes a charming Ivy, her singing being much enjoyed; Miss Florence Smithers as Jane is responsible for much of the fun, and with Mr. A. Leslie Martin as Bertie Bolingbroke (the locum tenens) she keeps the audiences in laughter. Mr. C. Burrunston Williams makes a manly Dr. Vandyke, and Mr. Herbert Pearce acts well as Colonel Pendred. The other parts are also well filled.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Mouillot's No. 1 company in Tom Jones occupied the boards the first three nights of the week. Mr. Cyril Thompson, in the title-rôle, gave a fine, manly impersonation, and his singing evoked loud applause; Miss Margaret Stonor as Sophia Western played in admirable style; Miss Florrie Saunders was a sprightly and charming Honour; Mr. George Elton caused much fun as Benjamin Partridge; Mr. Michael Dwyer, as Gregory, was responsible for much merriment; and Miss Olive Eltone's Lady Bellaston merited warm praise. For the last three days of the week Mr. George Alexander's company was billed in The Thief.

Leas Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Gipsies and their Jester are drawing crowded houses nightly; Mr. Will Gane and Mr. Walter Grigg are particularly pleasing in duet; Mr. Edgar Berte gives some exceedingly clever monologues; Miss Dorothy Francis and Miss Florence Crofts add to their reputation in several well-chosen songs; and Miss Inez du Buisson dances with much grace.

Victoria Pier.—Manager, Mr. Robert Forsyth.—Victoria Degmar, the Bohemian lady gymnast, gives a marvellous horizontal bar and rope display which is well worth seeing; Miss Belle Green is an admirable child mimic; Miss Florence Bostock has a good soprano voice; and Mr. James Singleton as the singing collier scores a genuine success; Kemp and Harris give a sketch, Off to the Races, which is very popular; Charles Kay and Harry Edwards are a couple of smart comedians; Mdlle Dory-Ta gives a display of Parisian dancing, and gains applause; and Whit Acre, boy comedian, retains his popularity.

GLASGOW.—King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—The attraction for the week at this house is Miss Violet Osmund's company in the successful musical play The Belle of the Ball. The piece affords an excellent comedy part for Mr. Johnnie Schofield, who as Timothy Timkins is responsible for most of the funny business. Mr. Robert Hyett sings and acts admirably as the handsome young squire, Sir Francis Lake; in the pleasing rôle of Poppy—the Cinderella of the story—Miss Gertrude Melville appears to great advantage; Mr. Charles Adeson gives a humorous touch to the character of Farmer Jones; and as the plotting steward, Foster, Mr. E. W. Chewd is good. The parts of Bobbie Fletcher and his sweetheart, Queenie Trevor, are agreeably filled by Mr. Llewellyn C. Hughes and Miss Florence Watson; Lucy is handsomely represented by Miss Vera Grafton; while Poppy's ugly sisters are played with a deal of quiet humour by Miss Ethel Bertram and Miss L'Estrange. The part of the Showman is characteristically filled by Mr. Frank Collins; and Mr. E. Osborne makes a good Footman.

Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—The Royal opened on Monday after the summer vacation, and a good audience welcomed back Mr. I. Zangwill's pleasant comedy, Merely Mary Ann. The company is that of Mr. Herbert Greville, and the play is well cast. Miss Jessica Solomon makes a charming and unaffected Mary Ann; and the musical genius, Lancelot, is exceedingly well acted by Mr. Martyn Roland. Mr. Stanley Logan is a brisk and cheery exponent of Peter, his friend; Miss Violet Greville is excellent as the landlady, Mrs. Leadbatter; and her affected daughter is amusingly portrayed by Miss Florence Radcliffe. Clever character-sketches are contributed by Mr. Robert Entwistle as the Vicar; Mr. Herbert Snale as the music publisher, Brahmson; Mr. Arthur Foster as O'Gorman, the journalist; and Mr. Harold Everard as Jim Blaydes. Various types of society people are neatly hit off by Miss Lester Stephen as the Chaperon, Mr. H. Montagu Lowe as Lord Tottenham, and Misses Ethel Carlyle, Stella Farmer, Grace Lovell, and Mary Colquhoun in other parts. The two music-hall sisters are cleverly played by Misses Enid Hall and Vera Lisle.

Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—The production here this week is by Mr. Tom H. Taylor and company of the stirring drama Is Life Worth Living? which was presented on the opening night to a large audience. Mr. Ernest Owtrim as Lionel Roy and Mr. Herbert Hollister as Randolph Kerr give outstanding performances, and receive the able support of Messrs. Harry Belford, James E. Maning, Joe Bardsley, and Harry Bristow. Miss Jeannie Burgoyne, Miss Lillian Earle, and Miss Lottie Moss are also successful.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The attraction here this week is supplied by Miss Winifred Maude and her company in the sensational drama The Convict. Mr. J. M. Olivert bears himself admirably in the part of Jack Britton; and a fine piece of acting is that of Miss Winifred Maude as Dora Renshawe. Mr. St. Clair Forbes displays sound ability as the villain, Captain Hurley; and the exacting rôle of Olga Brandon is cleverly taken by Mrs. Wingold Lawrence. In the dual rôle of Freddy Freckles and Alphonse Godin Mr. Victor Du Cane gives a good reading; Mike Larne is well sustained by Mr. Frank Dane; and the Nero of Mr. W. E. Simpson is a well-acted study. The Jennie Perkins of Miss Alice Leslie is a very attractive performance. Other parts are in good hands, and the drama is well staged.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—In the Ranks is presented by Mr. Beresford Whitcomb and his company, with Mr. Jerrold Heather and Miss Violet E. Lawson as Ned Drayton and Ruth Herrick. Both are of exceptional value in their respective parts. Messrs. Wilton Reed, Bert Lloyd, and Walter Thornton get through their various rôles acceptably; to Mr. Ern Carlton and Miss Eleanor Papera is left the humorous side of the story, and their unstinted efforts go far to please. The reception accorded the piece on its appearance in the Lyceum was very gratifying.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Mike S. Whallen is once again here, and in song, patter, and character-sketches he easily maintains the firm hold he has on the Glasgow public. A racing sketch, The Outside Chance, is a clever playlet, and serves to introduce Master Edward Garrett (of Little Stranger fame) as a jockey. Pip Powell and Katie Vesey give a clever comedy and dancing turn, founded on the old farce, Perfection; Rex Fox is a smart and daring artist on the wire; A. D. Robbins shows his skill as a cyclist; Harry Drew's songs take well; and three particularly good dancing turns are given by Hallen and Hayes, American comedians; Frances McNulty, a dainty comedienne; and Les Marbas, who combine acrobatic feats with their dances.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. A. Bostock.—At the top of the bill Joe Peterman's talented company, including Geo. Ricketts, appear in the musical comedy extravaganza The Belle of the Orient. The dresses and scenery are elaborate, and the company is well selected. Much appreciation is bestowed upon the Geni Family, whose Risley and acrobatic work is marvellous; Dallas and Vardon are responsible for a capital poetic fantasy, entitled A Christmas Dream, their singing and eccentric dancing being much above the average. The Sisters Terry's latest hit, Auld Reekie, catches on immensely; Ted Waite, comedian, proves a rare favourite; Flo Cecil is a clever dancer, and her most recent success, "Matilda," is well received. Almon, who is described as "the upside down marvel," does a lot of really clever balancing and jumping on his hands; George Rapley and Mark Henton, as comedians, also do well. The Bioscope, as usual, concludes.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Evan Good.—Malcolm Scott tops the bill here, and in his Directoire dress and patter he keeps the audience on the grin, while his Salome dance is an exceedingly clever parody on the prevailing craze. John Le Hay and company take extremely well in their sketch, Poor Beggar, which contains lots of clever comedy and many fine old songs specially well sung. Jack Pleasants is another strong favourite, and relies mostly on "I'll be cross, Arabella" for his success. Marguerite Broadfoote contributes several well-rendered songs; Otto and Olga give an enjoyable musical turn; Vandinoff's lightning painting in oils is wonderfully good; and Austin and Cowan, in their vocal act, complete an attractive programme.

Palace.—Proprietors, Mr. Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—The piano monologue of Will H. Fox is the leading feature on the programme here, and proves as popular and acceptable as ever; some smart acrobatic cycling is done by that clever trio the Villions; and a well-acted sketch, entitled Bluff, is presented by Duncan and Brasque. Walter Emerson, a humorous and agile comedian, gets a good reception; the cross-talk of Harris and Worth is highly diverting; Nellie Lawrence displays wonderful power as a vocalist; Monie Emerald's song and dance turn is neat and pleasing; Scotch comedy is amusingly represented by Jack Easy; and several new and up-to-date pictures are shown on the Palacescope.

Coliseum.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—An interesting programme is submitted here this week. Chung Ling Soo, the accomplished conjurer, is the chief item, and his performance completely mystified the large audience. Walter Bellonini, renowned juggler, and Bert Woodward, steeplechasing cyclist, are a couple of turns marked out for especial approval. The other artists include Sidney Stern, in illustrated songs; Gwennie Hasto, the charming comedienne and dancer; Orpheus, a really accomplished musician; Five Olracs, acrobats; Tom Wootlwell, the favourite character-comedian, in some very clever songs; and the Bioscope, with amusing and interesting pictures.

Gaiety, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—During the week this comfortable little Anderston hall has been favoured with extremely good houses, the popular artist, Rose Elliott, being the chief attraction. An extra feature was a singing contest, in which the competitors had to sing a verse and chorus of any of Miss Elliott's songs. There was no lack of entries, and the talent was of a very fair class. Conan and Doyle, Irish comedians, give an entertainment of a most enjoyable description; Lena Brunton's impersonations of Vesta Tilley, Gertie Gitana, and Florrie Gallimore made a distinctly favourable impression; Rosy Dawn contributed a smart exhibition of skipping-rope dancing; the Prinellas, in their cornfield scena, A Country Flirtation; and Ingram and Irving, in a laughable sketch entitled The New Office Boy, in which they introduce a bit of first-class burlesque boxing; and the Bioscope are included in a well-selected programme.

Panopticon.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—The Seymours display wonderful skill in their balancing feats; and Ashby and Rose contribute an excellent dancing turn. Lily Moore, a chic comedienne, is popular; P. M. Fraser, Scotch comedian; and the Bioscope, with pictures grave and gay, also form a strong attraction.

GLOUCESTER. — Palace. — Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.).—Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole.—The Achmed Ibrahims troupe of Arab acrobats are a novelty and very clever; Mlle. Haydee presents a unique marionette show; the Three Lloyds give a very smart wire performance, and Kisbey, the call boy, patters in excellent style; Charlie Deane has the house with him in his chorus songs, and the Musical Keiths pay a return visit; Miss Adey Spencer plays the piano nicely, and adds singing and dancing to her turn; Miss Bessie Willow, actress and vocalist, sings two songs, and the Palacescope interests.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — Royal Aquarium —Sole Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. George Edwardes's company in The Merry Widow is here this week. Miss Clara Evelyn is very captivating in the title-rôle, her singing and dancing being loudly applauded; Mr. Loinel Victor causes much merriment as Baron Popoff; Mr. Haigh Jackson's excellent voice is heard to advantage as Vicomte Camille de Jolidon; Mr. Tom Redmond is very funny as Nisch; Mr. Albert Kavanagh makes a pompous Marquis de Cascada; Miss Mary Grey is excellent as Natalie; Mr. Grafton Williams's excellent humour as General Novikovitch is much appreciated; Prince Danilo has a clever exponent in Mr. Basil S. Foster; Mr. Ernest Spalding gives a clever character sketch of the waiter at Maxim's; a clever dance is executed by Miss Dora Langham as Frou-Frou; the scenery and dresses are superb. The orchestra is directed by Mr. Harrison Trewin.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Crowded audiences are witnessing Miss Lena Ashwell's company in Diana of Dobson's. Mr. Frank Woolfe as P.-C. Fellowes and Miss Emilie Polini as Diana display great ability. The play is preceded by a one-act piece entitled The Bishop's Candlesticks.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert.—An excellent programme is being presented here this week. Jackson and Maclaren are creating quite a sensation as the Australian woodcutters; Pasquali Bros. are extraordinarily clever acrobats; Max Gruber and Miss Adelina introduce a very cleverly trained elephant, horse, and pony; Natalia and Diana are very graceful gymnasts; the Debreans appear in a very picturesque Japanese entertainment; Addison introduces some cleverly trained dogs; Leicester Cooke is a daring equestrian; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud are a very pleasing turn; Doodles introduces absurdities throughout the evening; Ada Webb's troupe of lady swimmers perform new tricks; excellent pictures are exhibited on the Bioscope.

Britannia Pier Pavilion.—Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—Billie Barlow is the star here this week, and is proving a huge draw, having to sing three songs nightly; Harry Archer is an excellent comedian; Sisters Clare are pleasing comediennes and dancers; Maggie Strachan introduces new numbers at the piano; Bros. Hamilton are smart cross talkers and dancers; the Arleys appear in a very clever comedy cycling turn; Harry Carsdale is an expert in producing the voices of animals; the Garden Quintette are clever vocalists and dancers. Excellent pictures are exhibited on the Bioscope.

Wellington Pier Pavilion.—Proprietors, the Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Arthur Cash.—Fanny Wentworth's sketches at the piano are very pleasing, and are loudly applauded; Addie Lennard is a charming comedienne; Chas. E. Nott is a very funny comedian; Irene Meldon has a very refined style; Frank Maura appears in an exceptionally clever equilibrist turn; Violet Ray contributes an excellent 'cello solo; Cissy Dryden is a very pleasing comedienne; Fred Cleland accomplishes wonderful feats as a juggler; Victor Travers is a smart dancer; Verdone and Chase gives an excellent exhibition of different styles of dancing.

Chappell's Promenade Concerts. — Proprietress, Mrs. S. Lawton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Barker.—The new-comers here are George Hyatt, an excellent juggler, and Les Blancs, clever horizontal bar artists.

The Gem.—Proprietors, the Yarmouth Amusement Centre, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. C. B. Cochran.—A splendid set of pictures are being shown here, the "Salome Dance" being worthy of special note.

Minstrel Arena.—The Dandy Darkies are drawing large crowds daily.

GREENOCK. — Alexandra Theatre, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Hayman and Franklin top the bill, and appear with great success in their latest legal skit, A Suit for Divorce; Chinko is indeed a clever juggler; Minnie Kaufmann, cyclist, performs difficult tricks with wonderful accuracy and precision; the Brothers Webb as instrumentalists, give a pleasing show on various musical instruments; Dale and Vale, vocalists and dancers, do well, and Miss Mollie Seymour as a vocalist and violinist is well received. The Alexandroscope concludes the entertainment with some excellent pictures.

Empire.—Lessees, the Greenock Empire Syndicate; Responsible-Manager, Mr. Edward McCormick; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. J. Colquhoun.—After being thoroughly cleaned and redecorated this popular place of amusement reopened for the season on Monday. Mysticus, with his quick-change act, in which he introduces several novelties, tops the bill with a capital turn; Fred Moule, E. D. Nicholls, and company, in a burlesque drama, entitled That Dreadful Detective, cause uproarious laughter; and other good turns are Lytton and Bland in A Lesson in Love; Cliff and Kean, in song and dance; the Three Coopers, speciality vocalists; and J. G. Aitken, Scottish comedian. The Prince Edward Bioscope throws some good films on the screen.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry L. Skivington.—Under the name of the Hippodrome the building formerly known as the Theatre Royal, and latterly as the Pavilion, was opened on Monday as a variety hall by Mr. Skivington. The old drama house has been transformed into a palatial and tastefully-decorated hall. The stage has been lowered, and the orchestral accommodation sunk, giving those seated in the pit an uninterrupted view of the stage. New seating has been provided for all parts of the house, the dressing room arrangements have been modernised, and stage appliances of the latest type introduced. The electric lighting installation is practically all new, and the preventives against fire are of the most approved type. The performances on Monday were attended by enthusiastic audiences, who marvelled at the great change Mr. Skivington has made. Barton and Ashley top the bill, evoking the merriest laughter by their comedy; Gustave Fasola mystifies the audience with his wonderful tricks; the McConnell Trio score a success in their musical comedy sketch; Sibb and Sibb would be hard to beat on the double trapeze; Miss Frances Letty, coon singer and dancer, and Jack Nell, Scotch comedian, also earn the appreciation of the audience. The Hippodrome pictures are also an attraction.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The first three nights of this week were occupied by Mr. C. Watson Mill's company in the new romantic drama, For Love and the King. Mr. Mill, who is the author, himself appeared as the Englishman Jarval, giving a fine representation of an interesting character; Mr. John Burton supplied a clever study of the miser, Michael Obrenovic, and his scheming son Vladimir was well played by Mr. Henry Earlesmere; Mr. Frank Lyndon acted with dignity as the King; Mr. Alfred Hilliard was equally good as Prince Uros; Miss Rosalind Tate was well suited to the part of the Princess Athene, and Miss Joan Ellis acted with pleasing charm as Natila. Others taking prominent parts were Mr. Geoffrey Chate as Duke Fernand, Mr. Jim K. Wooda as Karl Oppenheim, Miss Marie Ault as Grazia, and Miss Francis Tierney Edith as Meredith. During the last three nights of the week a visit is being paid by Mr. Edward Compton and his comedy company in a répertoire of plays, including Davy Garrick, The School for Scandal, and The Gentleman in Grey.

The Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—A pleasing speciality, which includes excellent singing, pretty dancing, and an amusing burlesque interview, is contributed by Edward Lauri and May Beatty; Gravetta and Parr, a versatile couple, are clever ventriloquists, and also display skill in clay modelling and impersonations; Saidie Seymour is a pleasing comedienne with good songs; the Ramlos give a smart gymnastic display on the triple bar; Pueblo and Cropp submit a bright turn with some excellent sand dancing; the Lyric Mummers sing duets with good effect; and the Olmar Trio give an interesting exhibition of strength and statuary business.

GUERNSEY. — Theatre St. Julians.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris.—On Monday Mr. Joseph Poole's Myriorama entered on its third week. The crowded houses nightly is convincing evidence how highly popular this class of entertainment is. The frequent change of programme, the new pictures, and latest films all combine to make the show thoroughly attractive and up-to-date.

HALIFAX.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Douglas Bruce's company is at the Royal this week with The Girl Who Lost Her Character. Mr. Bruce has a fine all-round company; Mr. E. Maclean makes a manly, true-hearted cleric as the Rev. Robert Everton; Mr. S. Macartney is excellent as Jack England and Private Johnson; Mr. R. Ferris is a gentlemanly blackguard as Captain Caversham; Mr. G. H. Asquin gets a lot of good comedy out of the part of Dick Punch; the difficult part of James Sutton finds an excellent exponent in Mr. George Mitchell; and as Molly Vernon Miss Madge Morley displays histrionic ability, and acts with power and feeling. Miss Sybil Hare is a winning and lovable Rose Seymour; as Marian Franklyn Miss Lydia Mannington plays the unscrupulous adventuress true to life; Miss Mary Poulton has a good stage presence, and renders the rôle of Isabella Jones in clever comedy style; and the drama is elaborately dressed and mounted.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Reg. H. Foster.—Taree, in a novel and accomplished musical act, meets with universal approval; Alpho is a successful ventriloquist; Carlton mystifies the audience in two separate turns—first as a card manipulator, and as a second turn introducing the mysterious cross; Charles F. Best as a burlesque mountebank gives a clever acrobatic display; Will Douglas's troupe of Five Jolly Bakers are smart tumblers and good Risley performers; and Rosie's Birthday Party, Nellie Lunell (comedienne), Matthews and Brown (coloured comedians), and Raymond's Bio-tableaux also contribute to an enjoyable programme.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—The management at this house are still relying on pictures as the principal attraction. There are several very good subjects thrown on the screen this week, the humorous ones predominating. Hurry up, Cabby! is a very laughable picture. Mr. R. Dunning contributes a clever ventriloquial turn, and Kahn and Kahn receive hearty applause for their illusions and second-sight act.

HAMILTON, N.B.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. René Clayton.—Miss Marie Loftus, the star turn here this week, justifies her reputation as a comedienne ever-popular; Bert Kemble is a comedian and raconteur with a style which is quite refreshing; The Ragman in the Drawing Room, a comedy act presented by Tony Iveson, assisted by David Hornby, is very amusing; Silvo gives pleasing selections on the silvochimes, and those on the musical glasses are specially appreciated; Carpos Brothers are equilibrists of considerable ability; the songs of Minnie D'Aubyn are sung in a manner which do not fail to please; May Morton is a charming and sprightly little comedienne; the Two Walonells are comedy acrobats and gymnasts. The Bioscope this week presents pictures of a most interesting nature.

HANLEY. — Royal. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—Woman and Wine is proving a powerful magnet this week. Miss M. Austin and Mr. V. Edmond's company interpret the drama with decided distinction. The scenery and dresses are capital. Mr. Vivian Edmonds has the lion's share as Dick Seymour, but he acts the rôle perfectly; Mr. J. Milne Taylor as his father plays

Voice and Throat.

Mr. SIMS REEVES, the World-Famed Tenor, writing on "The Art of Singing," said:—"Condy's Fluid clears the Throat and braces up the uvula, which in some singers interrupts the pure emission of the Voice."

Used as a gargle 8 drops of Condy's Fluid in a tumbler of water instantly clear the Throat and Strengthen the Voice. Condy's Fluid is guaranteed to contain NO Permanganate of Potash, which is poisonous. Insist on having "Condy's Fluid."

with great skill a difficult part; Mr. Harry Harrop is a grand comedian as Sauter; Mr. Ashmore Vincent as Collins, an attorney, is decidedly clever; Miss C. St. Elmo has a strong part to play as Marcel, which she does effectively; Miss Ethel Vinroy as Janet is responsible for clever comedy; Miss Nellie Hayes as Perinet does well; Mr. W. Manning causes considerable hilarity as the Professor; Mr. Edwin T. Kisby is clever as Caliban; Miss Violet Sims plays Mary Andrews well; Miss Octavia de Noel as the demi-mondaine is very strong; and Lottie Stone's Whirlwind Dancers are introduced with splendid effect.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—Business is splendid here, as is the programme submitted. The Three Meers, comedy wire artists, cause laughter and wonder by their act; the Daunton-Shaw troupe of trick cyclists verge on the miraculous; Arthur Reece and Daisy Dormer are billed, but do not appear, their places being filled by Victor Newman, a most talented mimic of our great actors, who makes a big hit; and the Macbanns, in a marvellous club-swinging and juggling act which brings the house down. Picitt and Lizette in a sketch The Crazy Cook are exceedingly smart and most original; Violet Englefield, comedienne, has a nice style; Curwen and Belle have a fine show, and the male makes masterly mimicry; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux shows Worthy the Name and Uncle's Rejected Present in splendid manner.

KING'S.—Lessees, Messrs. Kennedy and Moore; Manager and Operator, Captain F. Shaw.—Packed houses watch with keen interest the splendid series of pictures put on this week, which include The Brigands of Cababria, The Wreckers, It Served Him Right, The Irascible Father, The Slap in the Face, Sausage-fruit, Engaged all the same, Happy Bob as Servant, and The Paper-tearers. Miss Lila Vestas returns to the scene of her former triumphs and goes if possible better than ever.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding Smith.—For the first three nights of the week the Compton Comedy company occupied the theatre, and School for Scandal was in the bill for Monday. Mr. Edward Compton as Charles Surface repeated his well-known performance; Mr. Henry Crocker gave an excellent account of Sir Peter Teazle, and Mr. Henry Worrall was well placed as Joseph Surface. Miss Viola Compton was very good as Lady Teazle, and Miss Marie Hassell made a capital Mrs. Candour; Mr. Philip Gordon made the best of his opportunities as Sir Oliver, while Miss Constance Merton gave a meritorious portrayal of Maria. Smaller parts were well played. On Tuesday Gentleman in Grey was in the bill, and on Wednesday the ever-popular David Garrick. For the rest of the week Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company appear in Lady Frederick, with Mrs. Brown-Potter in the title-rôle.

THE KURSAAL.—General-Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. Eldrid.—Harrogate is at the height of its season, and the above popular place of amusement has large and fashionable audiences twice a day. Among the attractions for this week are Miss Marguerite Cornille, singer and comedienne, and Miss Alice Mandeville, contralto. For Tuesday a special night was announced, when the McConnell-Wood Northumbrian Choir of forty voices would sing, and the Hon. Mrs. Julian Clifford would also appear. Mr. Hugh Peyton, tenor, the band of H.M. Coldstream Guards, an Miss Marie Hall, the eminent violinist, are also billed for various days of the week. Mr. Julian Clifford, the popular and clever conductor, is still unable to appear owing to his serious illness, but his place is taken by his able lieutenant, Mr. John Bridge.

HARTLEPOOL. — EMPRESS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—Pictures continue to provide the programme here, and the series shown this week include some clever and interesting films. Those depicting A Tour in Scotland, The Fire-Fiend, and Branding the Colts are particularly enjoyed, and the song "Sweet Genevieve" is well rendered to capital illustrations.

PROMENADE AND MARKET HALL.—The Premier Pierrots are very popular here, and their performances are being well attended. Wednesday was set apart for a complimentary benefit to Mr. Rawson Buckley, who as pianist to the troupe has played himself into general favour. The large hall was well filled by an audience who thoroughly enjoyed the songs, dances, and monologues by May Thorne, Will Smith, George Derricke, and Fred Carrol of the troupe. The success of the evening was also considerably contributed to by Vesta Dawson, a clever little vocalist, Cissie Noble, and Wee Wullie, a capital little Scotch comedian.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr Charles E. Scutt.—On Monday Mr. George Alexander's company opened a three days' visit here with the first performance out of London of The Thief. The audience was large and friendly, and at the conclusion expressed its approbation of the play and the players. The rôle of Richard Chelford was played by Mr. Rupert Lister with much force and earnestness. Marise Chelford was enacted with impassioned fervour by Miss Mary Polini; the scene with her husband in the second act was entirely convincing. Very effective were Mr. Cyril Harcourt and Miss Jean Cadell as Raymond and Isabel Leyton and Mr. Owen Nares as Harry Leyton. The impersonation of Mr. Protheroe by Mr. Luke Forster was authoritative and able, and Mr. Bernard Stevens did well as the servant. The piece was preceded by Too Happy by Half. On Thursday Mr. Edward Terry and company were billed in a répertoire of plays, opening with Liberty Hall.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Vivian-Fisher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Norman.—Miss Daisy James is a charming vocalist comedienne, and receives great applause here. Miss Evie Temple opens the programme. Quite a variety of subjects are shown on the new Hipposcope. A good comic comedian is found in Harry Lawson; the accomplishments exhibited by a group of white parrots reflect the greatest credit on their trainers; the Misses Lily and Elsie Judge; a musical comedy, In Ould Kildare, in which some capital dancing and singing is introduced by George Kirk and Flo Kennedy, is warmly greeted; selected poems are recited by George Edwardes; and the Bouncing Dillons (Hilda and Willie) go through some novel gymnastic comedy on a bouncing spring-board.

PIER PAVILION.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—A pleasing variety entertainment is holding the boards here. Miss McCready is an accomplished soprano; some interesting films are shown on Payne's Bio-Photoscope; the Ladderites do a clever act of acrobatic climbing; Mr. Charles Coverdale's original patter is remarkable; Lauri Wylie's mimicking mannikins are always welcomed; Miss Florrie Bray is a pleasing singer; the Five Vernons are wonderfully expert on the xylophone; and the comedy bar act by the Three Zaracs is amazingly clever.

BEACH CONCERT PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Blackmore.—Miss Edith Blanchard is welcomed, and sustains all her former popularity; and Mr. Frank Wood proves a comedian entirely to the taste of his numerous audience. Miss Elsie English continues to charm all comers with her daintily-rendered songs and accompaniments. Favoured by the fine weather, the company draw large crowds to the Alexandra Park to their daily afternoon alfresco concerts under the auspices of the Borough Entertainments Association.

PUBLIC HALL.—The visit of the London Animated Picture Company concludes to-day. The attractiveness of the subjects exhibited is evidenced by the sustained interest they have commanded throughout the ten weeks they have been located here. The pictures this week are of a very high merit.

ST. LEONARDS PIER PAVILION.—Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Ian Maclaren and company are making a welcome return in Shakespearean and Old English comedies. In The Rivals Mr. Ian Maclaren is excellent as Captain Absolute; Mr. Gordon Phillott is no less happy in the part of Sir Anthony; Mr. J. V. Bryant as Faulkland proves himself a sound actor; the Acres of Mr. Stafford Dawson is full of racy touches; Mr. Murray Hathorn deals with the character of Sir Lucius O'Trigger in no half-hearted fashion; Mr. George Relph is capital as Fag; and very good sketches of David and Thomas are given by Mr. Linson Wells and Mr. Brooke. Miss Gertrude Littlewood makes an ideal representative of Mrs. Malaprop; Miss Marguerite Cellier is charmingly natural as Lydia Languish; Miss Claire Townshend plays the part of Lucy with grace and finish. Other comedies during the week are The Taming of the Shrew, Twelfth Night, The Merchant of Venice, David Garrick, She Stoops to Conquer, and The School for Scandal.

HUDDERSFIELD. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. J. Phillips.—Mr. Frank Bertram's principal company is (by arrangement with Mr. Frank Harvey) playing The Breed of the Treshams. In the part of "the Rat" Mr. Sydney Bland appears to advantage, especially in those scenes calling for powerful handling. Batty is played with delightful swagger by Miss Grace Harlington; the stern Viscount Dorsington is impressively presented by Mr. Alfred Holles; Colonel Hungerford is cleverly portrayed by Mr. W. R. Winning, and Mr. Howard Brenan is an adequate Cornet Tresham. Miss Mildred Hodson displays grace and charm in the part of Margaret Hungerford.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The Riogoku Family of real Japanese in their brilliant feats of balancing head the bill. Other turns are Miss Emmie Ames, comedienne; the Mezettis, horizontal bar artists; Harry Bancroft, comedian; Miss Florence Somers, light comedy vocalist; Mount Stephens and Harry Rennior, comedians and dancers; Cecile Francois and company in a series of clever dances, and the Bioscope.

HULL. — GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, MORTON'S, LTD.—Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch is a play that has instantly caught the public taste, its rippling comedy, its naturalness, appealing alike to every part of the playhouse. Miss Gertrude Irving has just painted the picture of Mrs. Wiggs until one almost realises that she has slipped bodily out of the pages of the story. Miss Christine Rayner is a delightful Lovey Mary, whilst there is a charm and sense of freshness in Miss May Deverell's Miss Lucy. The bride of Miss Rita Carlyle just catches the audience's fancy, whilst Mr. Frederick Forrest is a very acceptable bridegroom. Mr. Walter Cameron is a pleasing Mr. Wiggs. In point of fact, the play is just the thing.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Manager, Mr. Tom Bogue.—The Unhappy Pair, pleasantly played by Miss Marian Brereton and Mr. Laurence Derrick, is an attractive playlet which, added to the pictures, makes a further attraction for the light entertainments.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—The Best of Her Sex is now being presented at this house for the first time in Hull. Miss Dora Price fills a large place in the play with striking effect. The title-rôle is filled with good effect by Miss Alvina Mining, and Mr. Wm. Ovenden gives a good impression as the Rev. Stephen Maxwell, M.A. Mr. Henry Lloyd gives the heavy rôle proper emphasis. The comic relief is effectively presented by Mr. Dan Mining.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Appearing here are Ginnett's Rejected Remounts; Fraser and Haley, who owing to their great success stay on a second week; the Keegans, in some funny cycling tricks; Lola Patey, an old favourite; Tom Lloyd, Fred Bamford, and Harry Taft.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Kingsby.—Atlas and Vulcana and Sisters Atlas make a welcome appearance at this hall; Allan Morgan and the Milfords are good in their dancing; Arthur Elvey makes himself popular. Other artists include Arthur Alexander and company and Queenie King.

THE CIRCUS.—Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—A constant change of animated pictures has created a regular weekly clientele.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company are appearing here in The Face at the Window, in which Mr. E. Hoggan-Armadale as Le Loup makes his usual success. Miss Elsie Marriott-Watson as Marie de Brisson gives a pleasing performance, and Mr. Andrew Money as Lucian Cortier is well chosen for the part; Henri de Brisson is ably represented by Mr. Alfred Warne; Mr. Scott Leighton gives a clever impersonation of Paul Gouffet; Miss Louie Lonora as Babette and Mr. Henri Stewart as Peter are amusing. For Friday evening The Sleigh Bells was announced for presentation.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM.—The theatre is occupied this week by Mr. Charles Frohman's company, under the management of Mr. Silvanus Dauncey, in Mr. Henry Arthur Jones's play, The Hypocrites, and is drawing excellent houses. The part of the curate, the Rev. E. Linall, in the hands of Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton, is a fine piece of acting, and well merits the applause bestowed; the other characters are in the hands of Mr. Ernest Ruston, Mr. F. G. Thurston, Mr. Frederick Morland, Mr. John Dennys, and Mr. Fred Lake, and are well-sustained; Miss Laura Graves sustains a difficult part admirably, and is supported by Miss Muriel Pope, Miss Muriel Mason, Miss Sybil Brooke, Miss Eva Turnour, and Miss Mary Wincott.

IPSWICH HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Manager, Mr. Stead.—The Royal Tokio company of five Japanese gymnasts is the star turn this week, and at once evinced its popularity, some of their equilibristic feats are clever and cleanly performed; Irve Hayman and Marie Montagu appear in a sketch entitled Christmas Eve; Frank Elliston and company are paying a return visit with Aunt Matilda, which is as laughable as ever; Miss Rose Sartella is an American ballad singer of considerable merit; Miss Nora Stockell is a graceful dancer, and also contributes some songs; Simms and Simms are amusing in a musical sketch; Jack Rae is an eccentric gymnast; and George Acre has a baritone voice of some power; the Bioscope concludes.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Rex Sugden.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company is paying a first visit with Leah Kleschna, which is well received. Miss Bessie Rignold displays great ability in the title-rôle, and Mr. William Clayton plays with skill the part of Leah's father; Mr. Hamilton Deane's performance of Paul Sylvaine is virile and vigorous; Mr. Algernon J. Hicks renders a good account of Raoul Berton; Mr. Charles Barrett looks the part of General Berton, and Mr. Gilbert Heron is well placed as Sehram. The mounting of the drama is excellent.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. E. Marris.—There is a capital programme here this week, and Monday night's audience was most enthusiastic, and demanded numerous encores. Vestor is a good all-round artist, and after giving skilful cartoons of Bob Sievier and Dorando, winds up with a skit on the Salome dance; the Two McKays are particularly smart and sprightly comedians, one being heard to great advantage in "The dashing white sergeant," whilst both are good dancers; Wright and Elton provide the most amusing turn of the evening, the latter's dancing provoking tumultous applause; Clara Beck is an ambitious comedienne; Mlle. Rosina plays on several instruments; Lillie Stewart is an attractive singer and dancer; Amandus gives excellent impressions of a number of well-known statesmen, soldiers, and actors; Harry Maynard's "Under the golden laburnum tree" scores a big success with the "gods," and the performance is brought to a close by those clever gymnasts, Onda and Artell.

WEST PARK PAVILION AND TRIANGLE PARK.—The popular Æolians are paying a return visit. A monster programme was given on Thursday after the battle of flowers, followed by an illuminated fête, with fireworks by Messrs. Pain and Son, a battle of confetti, a torchlight tattoo, and a bal de nuit.

KEIGHLEY. — QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. R. Kendal; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Carson.—Mr. Bebb's company in A Lion's Heart is the attraction this week. An excellent cast interprets the play, headed by the well-known actor, Mr. Henry Bedford, who appears as Rizardo; Mr. Stephen Scanlan's performance in the part of Jaspard Dobree is very clever; Mr. Leonard Booker scores as Dick Lorimore; another good character is Mr. Archie Helsby as the Colonel; Miss Ada Oakley is a capable Marian, and Miss F. Barnes deserves praise.

LANCASTER. — HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. Porter and W. J. Fergusson.—Mlle. Selma Braatz, lady juggler, is the star turn this week, and has a good reception; Clara Reid and John Power appear in an amusing sketch, The Chambermaid; and the Bros. Lawrence give a fine display of dancing; Arthur Gill, "a man with many voices," is paying a return visit; Bella Braham, illustrated songstress; A. G. Spry, comedian; Gertrude Martini, vocalist; and the Hippograph, with amusing pictures, complete.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Miss Horniman's company is here this week with a répertoire of plays, the opening piece on Monday being Shaw's Widower's Houses, which was presented in really capable style. Mr. Jules Shaw gives a clever character study of Sartorius, and on the same high plane of ability is Mr. B. Iden Payne's representation of Lickcheese. The young medico, Dr. French, is faithfully portrayed by Mr. Lewis Casson, and Cockane is a convincing conception by Mr. Charles Bibby; Miss Penelope Wheeler does admirably with the rôle of Blanche. The company is also to be warmly congratulated on their excellent presentations of David Ballard and The Return of the Prodigal.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—A Girl's Cross Roads is filling a return engagement here. Miss Hilda Beverley again demonstrates her ability with a telling personation of Barbara Wade; Mr. Jack Fortescue makes a manly Jack Livingstone, and John Meadows is portrayed in good style by Mr. Charles Franmore; Miss Nita Langford wins plaudits with a sympathetic conception of Nelly Meadows, and Mr. Fred Hodson and Miss Daisy Maynard are successful in broad comedy characters.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—There is no more popular comedian here than Mark Sheridan, and a rousing reception is this week accorded him by crowded houses. Another sound favourite, G. H. Elliott, again wins enthusiastic applause for his very tuneful singing and neat dancing; Stelling and Revell are to the fore with a capital vocal comedy sketch; Sanford and Lyons are doing a clever dancing speciality; Lady Mansel's Juveniles again provide a capital entertainment; the Twin Sisters Anderson evoke applause for their dancing; and Will Johnson, Daisy Martell, and Irene Rose each provide much-appreciated turns.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—At this popular suburban hall Haley's Juveniles head the bill with a capital singing and dancing entertainment which is well liked; Harry Claff and company present their amusing sketch, The Demon and the Fairy, in clever style; that smart comedian Josh Dixon is having a big week; the Haverleys are popular in a musical comedy speciality; Speedwell, the lightning painter, meets with the usual good success, and a pleasing musical act is subscribed by Lettie and Florence. Last but by no means least, Chummie La Mara delights with new vocal items.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford.—Walter C. Kelly provides a deal of the fun this week, the vehicle for which is a sketch of a Virginian police-court, each character being depicted in clever style by this versatile artist. Bellman and Moore achieve success in a novel speciality; an acrobatic dancing speciality by the Berthos evokes unstinted applause; Tom Yorke scores as a coster comedian; Charlie Carr is a successful humorist on different lines; an expert gymnastic show is provided by Ajax and George; Beattie and Babbs are a pair of clever juveniles; and the Creo Bros. with smart song and dance complete.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Mabel Thorne is prominent at this hall, her clever turn being favourably received; Derenda and Green score in a neat speciality; the Raymond Trio are successful in a musical and dancing act; a smart and amusing turn is that subscribed by Drum and Major; Phil Bransby is a clever coster comedian; Andy Burns is another successful humorist, and Lambert and Hands also hit the popular taste.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. Charles Hermann.—Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart's company occupies the boards here this week with the thrilling play Sherlock Holmes, in which Mr. Hamilton Stewart is deserving of special praise for an exceptionally clever portrayal of the title-rôle. Others who render excellent assistance are Miss Betty Fairfax as Alice Faulkner, Miss Edith Vogne as Madge Larrabee, Mr. Robert Gilbert as Professor Moriarty, and Mr. Mark D. Draper as James Larrabee. The play is well mounted.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—We are being entertained with a first visit this week of Hardie and Von Leer's company in the play Two Lancashire Lasses in London. Miss Rosslyn Vane as Constance and Miss Alice Defoe as Nelly, the two lasses, are good; Miss Marguerite Trevosper is excellent as Bessie Edmunds; Miss Evelyn Shaw as Jane Adelaide Bloomfield does well; and as Lucy Miss Marie Corri deserves much praise; Mr. Herbert Pearson fills the part of John Edmunds in a manner leaving nothing to be desired; Mr. Chris. Mason makes a good impression as Samuel Hallett; Mr. E. Rayson-Cousens is a success as the Rev. Frank Selby; Mr. Fred Morgan is a capable Jonas Deane; and Mr. Harry V. Mann as Edward Langley is also to be praised.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—Heading another excellent and pleasing programme here this week is John Lawson in a repertoire of sketches, including Pigs in Clover, The King's Minister, The Monkey's Paw, and Humanity. The former was presented on Monday and Tuesday, and met with a splendid reception, Mr. Lawson as "the reformer" displaying his high histrionic abilities in a manner that evoked unstinted approbation. At the other end is Arthur Lennard, an immense favourite here, whose cleverly-rendered and acted songs delight all sections of the audience; Gladys Mavius makes a big hit with her delightful scena Over the Garden Wall; Ruth Lytton, who looks charming in her beautiful Scotch costumes, is another popular lady artist; Fred Curran keeps the house in continual merriment; Cavallotti Bros. render selections on various musical instruments in a clever style; C. J. Johnson, a coloured gentleman, evokes enthusiasm with his original cake-walk dancing; Spry and Austin are an entertaining and versatile couple; the Sisters St. Julian are excellent vocalists and smart dancers; and the Bioscope throws on the screen Snatched from a Terrible Death.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—Mr. Leonard Mortimer and company are making a most successful first appearance here this week in the comedy-sensational sketch The Kettledrum, which is both well-staged and played. Mr. Mortimer makes a big hit as Capt. Owen Kettle, and Miss Edith Lewis as Dora Inez Thelestina, Miss Ida Clifford as Lady Edna, and Mr. Charles Ludlow as General Caranger should also be singled out for special commendation. The Menzies are most mirth-provoking and popular in their comedy act The Suffragette. The Sisters Northcote are excellent duettists; H. J. Merrylees is a Scotch comedian of ability; Maston mimics sounds, &c., in a manner that deserves the appreciation bestowed; the Almos give a quick, smart, and sensational equilibristic act that is well received; Nora Noble is a capital comedienne and dancer; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope is a popular feature with Baby's Playmates and Troublesome Theft.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. A. Hurley.—The chief films here this week include A Brother's Sacrifice, The Smuggler's Son, The Devil's Three Sins, Chamois Hunting, and The Lovelorn Goatherd, which are interspersed with acceptable turns by Ada Wood, male impersonator, and Ernie Francis, comedian. Singing competitions continue to be very popular at this hall, the ninth of the series of which is taking place this week, and is unearthing some capital local talent.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and his company are appearing here throughout the week in a number of Shakespearean and old English plays, The Merchant of Venice being selected for Monday. Mr. Wilkie undertook the part of Shylock with great skill, achieving the success of the evening. Miss Carrie Baillie displayed exceptional ability in the trying rôle of Portia; Mr. Alexander Marsh as Bassanio acted the part to perfection; the Prince of Morocco of Mr. Sinclair Neill was well balanced and effective; Mr. John Paley was dignified and earnest as Antonio; Mr. Ian Fleming supplied much humour as Lancelot Gobbo; Miss Maud Gill gave satisfaction as Jessica, Miss Mildred Surrey was a successful Nerissa, and Mr. Frank Royde was an animated Gratiano. Romeo and Juliet, Two Orphans of Paris, The Fool's Revenge, Julius Cæsar, and Othello are also billed.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Walker's Sovereign Animated Picture Co. reopened at the above hall on Monday. The interior of the building has during the summer vacation been thoroughly redecorated, and now presents a very attractive appearance. This week's programme is a remarkably bright and up-to-date one, each film being very clear and steady. The illustrated song "Side by side," sung by Miss Doris Myddleton, received great applause. Other pictures produced were A Motherless Child, The Wreckers, and a very humorous one entitled Friday the 13th.

LIMERICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. George Victor Fogerty.—The Royal reopened the theatrical season with a strong variety company on August 17, and gave two performances before large audiences. The great attraction was Goliath, the herculean Eton boy, who gave several exhibitions of strength and physical endurance. The prepossessing comedienne Miss Winnie Loftus was very well received, and so were the speciality dancers Newham and Latimer, the Breetons in their novelty turns, and the sensational necromancer Imposticardo. The male impersonator Miss Lily Gaston was much appreciated; and Mr. James Franklin as eccentric comedian was very clever.

LINCOLN. — ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Pope.—Sherlock Holmes, presented by Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart, proved a big score on its return visit. Mr. Stewart's work as Holmes being if possible more of a hit than before. It is in all respects a remarkably fine study.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. R. R. Black.—A strikingly interesting bird act is put forward by Victor Niblo, whose Indian parrakeet and parrot made a hit on Monday. Ethel Sheffer has an illustrated song number that effectively introduces an inexplicable illusion, the Faceograph, while Marie Nielson goes well as a dashing dancer; Charles Banks, with his dog Woof; Sterling and Love, in an instrumental act; Madge Field, comedienne; Harrigan and Holt, singers and dancers, and Raymond's Bio-tableaux also obtain much success.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—A company which did full justice to the merry Belle of Mayfair was sent here this week by Mr. Milton Bode. A lively and humorous Earl of Mount Highgate came from Mr. Percy Yorke, whose work found general favour; Mr. Harry Parker enjoyed the honours of the evening with his diverting Sir John; Miss Queenie Finnis played exquisitely as Julia Chaldicott; Miss Agnes Tandy charmed everybody with her singing in the part of the Princess; Miss Aurelie de Loriere as the leader of the Gibson Girls pleased immensely; Mr. Lawrence Wensley made an interesting Hugh Meredith, and sang with taste; Miss Blanche Astley proved an agreeable and sprightly Pincott; while worthy support emanated from Messrs. Edward Hugounet (Finchley) and Laurie Leslie (Perrier).

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—A fine production of Captain Drew on Leave delighted everybody at this house during the week, and all who witnessed Mr. Hubert Henry Davies's skilfully-constructed play were loud in their praise of it. Miss Cynthia Brooke, an accomplished artist with a charming style, and particularly musical voice, submitted a Mrs. Moxon that captivated her audience; Mr. Claude King dealt with Captain Drew in a manner which left not the slightest reason for complaint; Miss Nora Carlton, whose company it was, fitted the rôle of Miss Mills to a nicety, showing great tact; Mr. Gerald Venning did everything possible with the thankless part of Chester Hassell; Mr. Tom Mowbray made the most of the stolid Mr. Moxon; and Mr. Willox Cadogan deserved thanks for his humorous Ernest White. Cut Off with a Shilling, supported by Miss Lydia Hayward and Messrs. Gerald Venning and Tom Mowbray, was the curtain-raiser.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The Power of the King paid a first visit to this theatre during the week, being presented in admirable style by Messrs. Kimberley, Green, and Hinton's company. Mr. Travis Green assumed the leading part of Prince Oscar, which he played with much effect and power; Miss Leila Zillwood was prominent and telling in the rôle of Lady Annastasia; a character which found general acceptance was that of Captain Langrage, the people's friend, carefully handled by Mr. Gerald Blake; Mr. Charles Whitlock acted with credit as the King of Vallambrosa; Mr. John H. Firman made an excellent General Stenovie, the unfaithful officer; Mr. Wilton Drury as Fritz, and Miss Grace Barton as Marget proved exceedingly amusing, and Lady Glorina was in the capable hands of Miss Georgina V. France. The play lacked nothing in costumes and scenery.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Love Rules the World paid a welcome return visit here during the week, Mr. G. M. Copping's company staging it effectively. Miss Gertrude Sterroll as Maud Carruthers played in a manner that earned for her a most flattering reception; Miss Constance Medwyn undertook her original part of Flo Morton, in which she was seen to great advantage; Mr. Richard Vane proved highly successful as Harold Kingston; the, Jim Dimey of Mr. Sidney Rennef reflected credit upon that artist; Mr. Alex Wilson Wynne was well placed as Paul Carruthers; a carefully-presented character was that of Stephen Blight by Mr. Stephen Langton; and the comedy work of Mr. Walter Dale (Billy Binks) and Miss Kitty Russell (Kitty Snowdrop) met with general acceptance.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—A musical treat was provided here during the week by the Reano Band, which paid a first visit; Callahan and St. George delighted everybody with their musical duologue The Old Neighbourhood; May Mars had some pleasing illustrated songs; Charles Whittle proved as funny as ever; endless laughter followed the burlesques of Charles T. Aldrich; some capital dancing was performed by the Northern Troupe; and also in the list were Anthony Holt, with his illustrated chorus songs; Sados, who went through some clever juggling; and Little Keeno, boy comedian and dancer.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Granville.—Here throughout the week Mr. Percy Boucher's stock company, from the Roscommon, have held the boards with The Shaughraun, The Ticket-of-Leave Man, and The Octoroon.

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Top of the bill here this week have been Lee Piccolinos, able midget acrobats, whose entertainment was greatly appreciated; the singing and eccentric dancing of Ritter and Foster met with general favour; a most amusing sketch, The Substitute, came from Sid Cotterell and company; Clarke's Nippers went through a smart speciality act; Woodhouse and Wells gave an excellent turn as patter comedians and dancers, introducing their chorus song "Is everybody happy here?"; an able pot-pourri turn was provided by the Three Pirmans; and others in the list were May de Rowse, comedienne and dancer, and Florence Deighton, vocalist.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Great laughter has been provoked here this week with The Pawnbroker, a funny sketch, brought by Joe Peterman and company; Wild, Willie, and West, the bounding navvies, proved as rich as ever, and created endless amusement; a neat comedy animal act was submitted by Clown Barker, assisted by Miss Rozsika; Miss Bayley and company had a cordially-approved dramatic sketch; Violet King showed high talents as a musician; Fyne and Hurley had a comical trifle, The Dude and the Coster; Carrie Laurie's miniature comedy company in The Belles of the Kitchen pleased immensely; Starr and Leslie were foremost with a smart American comedy act; and Lily Black, vocal comedienne, and the Harmony Four also appeared.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Vultures of London, from the pen of Julian Rochefort, has been given here this week by the stock dramatic company. Mr. Harry Tresham played with effect as John Manners; Mr. Leo Montgomery acquitted himself in admirable style as Lord Almers and Convict D5; Mr. Sydney Grant was seen to advantage as the rascally Captain Dacre; Mr. Robb Wilton made an amusing Joseph Spudkins; Miss Lilian Radbourne pleased as Edith Manners; and other satisfactory parts were held by Messrs. E. D. Allen (Joshua Moses), Cecil Ravenswood (Governor Bright), R. Seath Innes (Dan Dawson), Miss Florence Cameron (Biddy Murphy), and Miss Emelie Erithwistle (Ruth Manners). Mr. Anthony Brown's Bioscope showed some of the latest films.

WESTMINSTER.—Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—In addition to the series of cinematograph pictures given here, the following artists appeared during the week:—Mabel Moss, comedienne, and Beau and Bell, operatic vocalists.

OLYMPIA.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—The popular Hetty King headed the programme here this week, and had a rousing reception; also prominent were Ludwig Amann, the able impersonator, and George Formby, a most humorous comedian; Ouida Macdermott pleased greatly with her charming singing, including the popular number "Redwing"; Ritter von Renroff introduced his highly-trained dancing horse; Les Martinekx found favour with the novelty creation The Rag Doll; Gaumont's remarkable chronomegaphone was listened to with deep interest; the whirlwind dancing of the Four Molasso's caused surprise; and contributions likewise came from Bi-bo-bi, novelty musical act, and Cissie Curlette, comedienne.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. Henry Hearn.—Public patronage of this new place continues great. Heading a good working bill this week has been the funny pantomime Hotel Grande by the Six Brothers Luck, Ltd.; Scott, Scott, and company added to the merriment of the evening with their amusing That Awful James; Wyndham and Waters had a humorous drawing-room act The Professor and His Pupil; Louie Hurman sang several of her own copyright songs with taste; Frank Sley and his Nipper were refined comedians and speciality dancers; Rose and Wold, acrobatic bounding wire artists, gave their comedy sketch The Sentry and the Maid; and others who appeared were Jack Foley, comedian; Mary Blythe, comedienne; and Ikey Moe, Hebrew comedian.

LLANDUDNO.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Mr. Martin Harvey and company appeared here for three nights in The Breed of the Treshams and The Only Way. Playing before an enormous audience on Monday night Mr. Harvey excelled himself in his original part of Lieut. Reresby, and was time after time called for by his admirers, who would not be appeased until he had thanked them in a short speech at the fall of the curtain. He was ably supported by a talented company, Miss N. de Silva evoking applause as Batty and Miss Madge Fabian faithfully portraying the Hon. Margaret Hungerford; Mr. Charles J. Cameron was excellent as Viscount Dorsington; Mr. Charles Glenney as Colonel the Hon. Clement Hungerford gave a good impersonation of a difficult part; Mr. Alfred Mansfield was commendable as Captain Rashleigh, and Mr. Leonard Craske was well placed as the Hon. Francis Tresham. The scenic effects were excellent. The Thief was announced for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Ritson.—Mr. Leslie Faber's company occupy the above theatre this week with The Liars and The Manœuvres of Jane. On Monday The Liars was presented to a good audience, Mr. Leslie Faber being all that could be desired as Colonel Sir Christopher Deering; Mr. Lewis Willoughby as Edward Falkner does exceedingly well; Mr. Walner Gregory (Gilbert Nepean), Mr. Frank Bickley (George Nepean), and Mr. Richard Neville (Freddie Tatton) are all suitably placed. Mr. Jerrold Manville as Archibald Coke deserves mention. Miss Hilda Moore as Beatrice Ebernoe acts with feeling throughout, and Miss Ethelwyn Arthur-Jones as Lady Rosamond Tatton also plays skilfully. Miss Winifred Arthur-Jones as Lady Jessica Nepean is all that could be desired, her capricious moods being charmingly assumed.

PIER PAVILION.—Secretary, Mr. Sam Hughes.—The large orchestra, under Mr. A. W. Payne, F.R.C.M., continues to draw large audiences, the vocalists for Saturday being Miss Louise Dale and Mr. Herbert Brown. On Wednesday Backhaus, the famous pianist, and Mme. Ella Russell, the well-known prima donna, delighted a large audience.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. G. Callis.—The roller skating apparently is as popular as ever, hundreds attending at each session. A great deal of the attraction centres in the capital music rendered by an excellent military band under the conductorship of Mr. Ted Murray.

LLANELLY.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manageress, Miss Alice Rocheforte.—This week the bright musical comedy, The Honeymoon, by Gilbert Payne, is being given here by Mr. Payne's own company, the author appearing with success as Nathaniel Noodles. Miss Rosie Kearnes is equally good as Mrs. Noodles; Mr. Leslie Earle as Jack Armstrong and Miss Celestine Brandon as Madge Armstrong also do exceedingly well; as Colonel Vandyke Browne Mr. Chris. Ainslie is good; Messrs. Fred. Fulton and Gus Tomlin as Archie Mashington and Victor Le Strange are highly capable; Mr. Fred Bentley and Mr. Bert Gray also do well; as Stella le Brun Miss Myra Douglas is excellent; and Miss Maggie Cronie is funny as Sarah Slab. The Four Godfrey Girls do excellent work as speciality dancers.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Manager, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Continuing her successful tour in East Anglia, Miss Ellen Terry and company opened here on Monday with a clever representation of Bernard Shaw's well-known work, Captain Brassbound's Conversion. On this, her first appearance locally, the well-known actress secured a popular welcome, and was cordially received for a really artistic and well-thought study.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—Considerably more than 3,000 persons witnessed the performance here on Monday, and hundreds had to be turned away. In addition to a new series of beautiful animated subjects shown by the British Biograph Company, the variety programme includes Haley's Garden of Girls, a pleasing turn in song and dance; the Czar's royal troupe of Russian dancers; Fred Horsfall, double-voiced comedian; Fanny Humber, instrumentalist and vocalist; and Friskey, a really fine comedy juggler, who is making a welcome return visit to Lowestoft.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—Mr. Edmund Tearle has brought a very strong company to this theatre this week, opening on Monday night with Othello. Mr. Tearle gave a very strong personation of Othello, while Miss Vera George characterised Desdemona in a very marked and telling manner; the Iago of Mr. Bernhardt Turner was perfect; Cassio was characterised by Mr. Stuart Black, whilst Mr. A. W. Jones personated Montano. The other characters were very ably undertaken by Messrs. J. A. Keogh, Faucett H. Lomax, Herbert Tawse, and T. Price; Misses Madge Raper, Madge Newell, Helen Macrae, and Mary Campbell. On Tuesday and Wednesday the Adelphi drama A Woman's Revenge was enacted, when much better audiences were present. Mr. E. Tearle gave a very pleasing representation of the Barrister. A very stirring scene was the trial and verdict on Mary Lonsdale, undertaken by Miss Kate Clinton, the passionate appeal of the barrister to the jury being very effective.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager and Proprietor, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mr. Edward Lloyd and Mr. Frank Adair's company is here in the sensational drama entitled Man to Man. Mr. Edward Lloyd gives a powerful presentation of George Gordan, and Mr. Frank Adair submits a finished performance of Richard Ellerton; Mr. Clifford Brown displays ability as Bill Burley; Miss Louis Adair gives an excellent portrayal of Ethel Maythorne; and Miss Adeline Lester capably characterises the part of Miss Lavinia Dove, Miss Evelyn Warde being seen to advantage as Gipsy Madge, and Miss Ada Martin making a pleasing Mary Mr. H. Holland as Mathew Ellerton and Mr. Alfred Val Shain as the Rev. Phillip Ormond are both good in their respective parts; and Miss Phyllis Oakley as Ned Doyle is highly successful.

MAIDENHEAD.—PAVILION PLEASURE GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. G. Gude.—The alfresco entertainments by the Pavilion Cadets are of the usual excellent character, Clown Garford's acrobatic educated dogs forming a novel and clever extra turn. In the well-known duet, "Excelsior," Mr. Colin Gent and Miss Adelaide Twort are heard to great advantage, and are vigorously encored; Mr. Will Harris causes much fun by his song, "Louisa brought him home last Sunday," and Mr. Leo Fallowfield, in his usual amusing style, renders among other songs, "The Earl and the Girl. Much appreciated is Mr. Jack Anders' song, "She came home in a taximeter cab," and the song-scena, Pansy, by Miss Florrie Delamere, is effective and pretty. Mr. Alec Tyson manipulates the piano in his usual clever style, and the concerted numbers are good. A very amusing sketch by the Cadets, The Cook's Birthday, concludes.

TOWN HALL.—Secretary, the Town Clerk.—Miss Inez Howard's company, under the direction of Mr. Henry Chattell, drew a good house on Aug. 15, in the favourite drama, Driven from Home. Miss Winnie Donovan merits much praise for her pathetic representation of Laura Raybrook, and afterwards of Walter, the son; and Mr. George Claremont was excellent as Anthony Raybrook; Mr. W. Jeffery was very good as Walter Hatherleigh; Mr. H. Creagh Hunt ably represented Geoffrey Waring; Mr. C. Milley Doyle was admirable as Willie; Mr. H. C. Gilpin did well as Dick Saunders, and the part of Jabez Thomas was successfully taken by Mr. W. O. Billington. Mr. Albert B. Mann represented John Anderson capitally, and Miss May Rosine was a real favourite with her bright interpretation of Margaret Bailey. Other characters were ably sustained. The scenery, which includes a real circular steam saw and machinery in motion, was excellent.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—The leading line here is Miss Maidie Scott, one of the cleverest comediennes we have had here for many a day. Her singing is distinctly characteristically droll and fascinating, and she was recalled again and again; the Hayadas, champion acrobats, give a smart and skilful act; Geo. Campbell sings popular songs which "catch on"; Sylvia Du Barry presents a pretty scena with song, "In Andalusia"; Kathleen Kennedy is a refined comedienne and dancer; Zani mystifies with his clecer conjuring; Stevens and Brett do a cross-talk and song act; and Lynch dances to the admiration of all. The Biograph has some fine films.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—This theatre reopened on Monday with a performance of The Lady of Ostend by Mr. Lawrence Brough and his company. The piece is well known in Manchester, but it attracted a large house, and considerable laughter attended the efforts of Mr. Lawrence Brough (Baron de Longueville), Mr. William Spray (Dick Whortles), and Mr. Robert Boulder (Joseph Carbury)—to name no more—who succeeded in making the eccentricities of the story go with every appearance of freshness. All the subsidiary parts were capitally handled. At the Rising of the Moon, an Irish romance, preceded, and was well played by Miss Edith Adeson, Mr. E. Stanley Yorke, Mr. Harry Collier, and Mr. W. Macready.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Andrew.—An excellent programme here this week is headed by Cumminger and Colonna, expert sand dancers; and Foy Bros. and company in an amusing sketch, entitled Pat in China. The Days, second-sight seers, give a smart and mystifying performance; Will Doran and company introduce a very funny sketch, An Inventor's Troubles, with complete success; and other good turns are Eldra, in a juggling and balancing act; Kirk and Saraski, ornamental swimmers; Dolly and Elsie, juvenile singers and dancers; Daleno and Stream, comedians and dancers; Victor and Louis, comedians and vocalists; and George Griffin, comedian.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Quite a number of remarkably good turns distinguish this week's programme here. Bert Wickham, the world's champion all-round athlete, gives a fine exhibition of strength in man v. motor tests; Ramsey and Cordova's sensational sketch, The Organ Grinder, is realistically presented; the Poluski Bros., the Bashful Bounders, continue their successful career; and R. H. Douglas (deputising for Carlotta Levey) provides an excellent turn in character comedy. Other clever and entertaining turns are Barlee and Smith, musical comedy artists; O'Malley and Brown, in a comic sketch; Harold Thorley, baritone vocalist; Mlle. Eldee, in a beautifully-illuminated posing performance; and Frank Couch, patter comedian.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Mlle. Celia Galley, the clever Parisian chanteuse, is one of the star turns here this week, and meets with a good reception. Edward Clark and his Winning Widows are entertaining in a pleasing tabloid racing and musical comedy; and Oswald Williams, assisted by Winifred La Barte and company, is bewildering in a series of smart illusions. De Wynne Brothers, in a refined act, prove to be exceedingly neat and original athletes; Barry Lupino gives an extremely funny dance of the eccentric order, and is deservedly applauded; R. H. Douglas is a first-rate monologue artist; Told in a Flat; Bonnie Goodwin, assisted by Lily Vine and four Piccaninnies, gives a delightful dancing turn; and the Bastow and Franklyn Trio are good in an instrumental, vocal, and dancing speciality. Vocal items by the Choir and Bioscope pictures are also included.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—A strong attraction this week is The Little Bread-winner, played by J. A. Campbell's company. Little Winnie Crisp as Meg, the title-part, is a clever juvenile actress, and is quite sympathetically received; and strong parts are admirably rendered by Mr. Alf. Maurice as Joseph Prior and Mr. Sidney Lynn as Charles Prior. Many minor rôles are proportionately well rendered. The piece is given twice nightly, and is invariably well received, the scenery contributing much to the realistic effect.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Harry Randall, the popular comedian, is here this week, and makes a decided hit with his latest song, "I wonder where he gets his ideas." Frank Fenton is highly successful in Only An Actor; Graham's Juveniles, in a pretty scena, A Concert on the Lawn, are greatly enjoyed, their singing being exceedingly good; and Broughton's Electric Scena, with fourteen performers, including Elsie St. Clair, a splendid singer, and the Sisters Mawdsley, fine dancers, is particularly effective. Walton and Lester are excellent laughter-makers; Selby and Myers are capital dancers; and other smart turns are those of Evelyn Taylor, chorus comedienne; Harry Brown, a coloured comedienne; and Little Tichbourne, comedian and dancer. The Palace pictures are good as usual.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The Day of Reckoning, a romantic costume play, by Stanley Houghton and Frank Nasmith, is the leading item here this week; it is well staged and played by Miss Elsie Vron, and Messrs. Bartlett Garth and Alan Mudie. The Maids of the Mill, a pretty pot-pourri, introduces some neat and effective dancing. Zarmo, an eccentric juggler, is deservedly well received; and the kaleidoscope dance by Effie White is extremely pretty. Others who offer good turns are Sylvene, equilibrist; Wheelan and D'Alcourt, in vocal scena; Davis and Deane, comedians and shadow dancers; and Lizzie Hands, comedienne. The pictures are good, as usual.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—A Trip to Chinatown is the chief item in this week's bill, and is presented by William Garland and Fred Douglas's capital company in a highly delightful and successful manner, the singing and dancing being greatly enjoyed. Caban's French Circus introduces very cleverly-trained animals; Langslow goes through a surprising sharp shooting act whilst balancing on a flexible rope; and Mlle. Edythe and Toto, in a contortionist and tumbling act, are quite out of the ordinary. Other smart turns are offered by the Farrows, capital sketch artists; Pat O'Connor, comedian and dancer; and Jessie Jukes, smart dancer. The Mysterious Parcel is shown on the Bioscope.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred. Day.—Florence Yaymen, the well-known singer of coon songs, tops the bill here this week, with great success. Henri Cazman, the "one-man music-hall," is particularly good in his clever act, Le Café Chantant; Rousby and Rene are seen to advantage in a comedy study of Lancashire life, Fine Feathers; Fame and Fortune are highly-amusing comedians with smart jokes; George Young plays well on the concertina, and is well received; Patrick Playfair and Vera Davis are marvellous papierographists; Victor Courtney scores as the "Boots" at the piano; the Four Netherlands are good dancers; Petro and Leon are clever in a comedy gymnastic act; Kingston Trollope, in his dramatic monologue, Only a Dream, does well; and Elliott and Warne appear with success in a novel scena. Pictures complete.

RUSHOLME PAVILION. — Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—An excellent all-round performance is given here this week to packed houses. Prominent and well-received turns are those of Harry Herbert, comedian; Elfie Vincent, comedienne and dancer; Lillian Barnes, contralto; and Maynard Dakin, humorist. Others who contribute enjoyable items are Aline Sudbury, soprano; Reginald H. Stephens, entertainer; and Sullivan Brooke, at the piano.

MANSFIELD.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Capt. Cecil Clayton.—Geoffrey Langdon's Wife, presented by Mr. F. C. Somerfield's company, is the attraction here. Mr. Paul Beckett proved himself capable in the rôle of Felix Beverley; as Geoffrey Langdon, Mr. Wilson Summers is successful; Mr. Edward Louis is suited to the rôle of Jack Stirling; Colonel Miles is well played by Mr. William E. Passmore; Miss Cissie Bellamy plays with ability as Mary; the Hon. Mrs. Sands is in the capable hands of Miss Elsie Capell, and the comedy element is well supplied by Miss Kate Lever as Sweet Nancy and Mr. Percy Brown as Thomas.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hardy.—Mr. Harry Bennett's company was here from Monday to Wednesday evenings with the musical play Sergeant Brue. Mr. Denis Lyndon filled the rôle of Sergeant Brue with complete success; Mr. Lister Morrah made a vigorous Michael Brue and sang well; Mr. Edwin Lancaster also did well as Mr. Crank. Mr. Frank Farant was bright and natural as Gerald Treherne; and Mr. F. Lionel did good work as Matthew Habbisham. Mr. Harry Benet was responsible for an excellent portrayal of Crookie Scrubbs; Miss Daisie Dale achieved distinction as Aurora Brue; Miss Stella Miller did well as Daisy; and Miss Ray Anderson made a dignified Lady Bickenhall. The chorus was a tuneful and well-balanced one, and all the minor parts were capably filled. On Thursday night the bill was changed for Miss Hook of Holland.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—Miss Kate Carney heads the programme this week with her company in the new scena, The Yiddisher Boy, which is a skit on Petticoat-lane of a Sunday morning. Miss Carney also gives her scena Good-Morning, Mr. Postman with equal success. Other contributors to a heavy programme include Leah Adell, operatic light comedy vocalist; Cissie Easdale, comedienne; Harry May Hemsley, caricaturist and impersonator; Hettie Oehms, lady juggler; Frederick Neiman, with his animated ventriloquial minstrels; and Archie Rover, eccentric tumbler.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Sole Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Evans.—The management have put on an attractive programme here this week, the contributors to which are Hughes and Carney, comedians and dancers; Daisy Hicks, comedienne; Guest and Newlyn, vocalists and eccentric dancers; Curtis Leo, who is assisted by Little Noblesse, in a conjuring entertainment; the Llewellyns, Australian operatic vocalists; and the Spanish Goldinis, acrobats and carpet spinners. The ball each evening after the concert has been well attended and much enjoyed, under the courteous management of Mr. W. Dennis, the M.C.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, the South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; —The Prodigal Parson presented by Messrs. Northway and Garrod's company is here. In the title-rôle Mr. Logan Darra is both earnest and convincing; Mr. Alfred Northway plays with distinct success the part of Enoch Jaggins; Miss Violet Hammersley plays with ability as Fern Godley; Mr. Charles Ashwell is effective as Ben Jaggins, and Mr. Owen Redmonde humorously acts Phil Drive; Miss Enid Edoni is an entertaining Gretchen; Miss Madge Gillard pathetically acts the child part of Myrtle Godley, and Miss Carlene Yorick scores as Fräulein.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—Will Godwin and company head the bill here, and their scena, Repentance, is received with rounds of applause; the Peps are a smart pair of acrobats; Mlle. Yetta is exceedingly clever in her wire speciality act; Charles Field excels as a juggler, and other good turns are contributed by the Glancy Girls, Miss Godwynne West, Benno, and Harry Coates. The Biograph pictures are up to date and form a pleasing part of the entertainment.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arnold.—The Convent Bell, a comedy drama, is being played here. Mr. Howell Webb is very amusing in the character of Pickle Pods; Mr. B. Croucher as Philip Vautier plays ably; Messrs. C. E. Howell and H. C. Osborn are well placed as Col. Vautier and Henri Casella; Miss Fanny Williams, Miss Emily Huby, and Miss Amy Blanche act excellently as Christian Valgrave, the Mother Superior, and Margaret Courier. The remaining parts are in good hands.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company is this week presenting the drama, Her Nameless Child. Mr. J. W. Evelyn appears to good advantage as the old blacksmith Anthony Ford; Mr. Arthur Pringle, as the villain, Lord Woodville, makes the character sufficiently despicable; Mr. Sidney C. Cranston plays cleverly as Arthur Ford; Mr. Larry Clements imparts a wealth of humour to the part of Tom Rivers, a would-be detective; Miss Pattie Hastings imparts grace and refinement to the character of Phyllis Ford; the thankless rôle of the adventuress, Lady Sybil Woodville, is skilfully enacted by Miss Mona Grey; Miss Renie Douglas is a piquant Bessie Brooks.

NEW PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Will Hunter; Manager, Mr. E. H. Jones.—This week's programme is an exceptionally good one and includes a film representation of the well-known Irish drama, The Shaughraun. Other pictures are: Forsaken, Tell-tale Cinematograph, Arabian Legend, Peggy's Portraits, &c.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—Brewster's Millions was produced here on Monday before a large audience by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. P. Hutchison's company. The combination is a remarkably clever one, and the play proves very amusing. Mr. Percy Hutchison, who has the part of Monty Brewster, the unwilling inheritor of millions, provides any amount of delightful comedy, and from the beginning to the end of the play keeps the audience in a constant titter. He is ably seconded by Mr. Cyril Rawdon, who as Charlie Harrison is very effective. Miss Cicely Stuckey is a most entrancing Peggy, whose graceful acting won the hearts of all; Miss Mary Seton is very attractive in the rôle of Miss Baynton; and Miss Violet Ley as Mrs. Dan de Mille and Miss Francis Dovie as Jamie Armstrong give delightful impersonations of their respective parts. The piece is remarkable not only for clever acting but for the perfect triumph of stage-craft to be seen in the third act when the good ship Flitter comes upon the scene. It is one of the most sensational and realistic sets ever put on a stage.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Jno. Ed. Jowsey; Manager, Mr. W. Ker Chatto.—Mr. Herbert Lloyd's company occupies the boards here this week in a laughable musical comedy entitled Happy Hooligans. Catchy music, pretty dresses, and clever dances all play their part in an entertaining production. As Happy Hooligan Mr. William H. Lester is irresistable; while Mr. Jas. J. Sullivan as the Irishman and Mr. John R. Hawley as the Jew convulse the audience. Miss Lottie Wilson makes a capital Widow Johnson, and Miss Rose Lyndon is a vivacious comedienne. The piece is admirably staged.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Chas. Rembges.—An attractive programme is provided here this week, and holiday crowds are the rule. Fred Karno's company in London Suburbia keeps the house in a constant roar of laughter; the "Enchanted Iona" is a charming stage effect, and a smart dancing turn is given by My Fancy; the Kimberley Boys are as amusing as ever; and other items are provided by Mackintosh and Royal, clog dancers; Ethel Dove, comedienne and dancer; Avrignys, Japanese jugglers; and Joe Archer, comedian.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Signor R. Pepi; Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—On Monday night, in the presence of a large number of well-known ladies and gentlemen, the Mayor of Middlesbrough (Lieut.-Col. T. Gibson Poole) performed the opening ceremony in connection with this new music hall, to which reference is made in another column. The Three Royal Dreadnoughts gave the audience amazing evidence of the accuracy with which rifles can be used. Miss Florrie Forde scored a great success with her new song, "Antonio"; the Scotch comedian, Jock Whiteford, gave a capital impersonation of an enthusiast at a football match; and a smart turn was given by Carmos, herculean and novelty juggler. The Tallo-ho Trio were very good in their musical farce The Three Buttercups; Arthur Prince well maintained his claim to be the king of all ventriloquists; and other items were supplied by Cynthia, Athas and Collins, sketch artists, and the Pepiscope.

OXFORD PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alf. Graham; Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—The Cinematograph plays the principal part in the programme here this week. A pleasant break in the picture exhibtion is provided by Adams and Ward, grotesque comedians.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. C. M. Julian.—Mr. Julian Malvern's company in I Defy the World, have been doing good business here. Mr. Percy Ballard has sustained the rôle of Leon Darville with great success, and he has been supported by an excellent company, including Miss Blanche St. Albans, Miss Violet Crawford, Miss Maud Lilian, Messrs. J. Leicester Jackson, Charles Conway, C. M. Julian, D. J. Barber, and Newton Pearce.

ALHAMBRA PALACE.—Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—Carl and Mary Ohm's performing animals are drawing well, and the show is a bright one; Abel and Welsh are a most amusing couple of acrobatic comedians; Flake White sketches with lightning rapidity, and Chas. M. Daly and company have a neat sketch, I Must Have It; Johnson and Devere are capital on the tight wire with the cycle; Denby and Dent have a smart comedy act; the Lauri Bros. are capital acrobats, and Henriette and Selina are neat entertainers; the Monte Carlo Girls sing and dance effectively.

WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Atkinson.—The leading attraction here has been John Warren, with his act, The Magic Carpet, a mystical production which is splendidly worked by a capable company; the Hilgert-Arkas Troupe have introduced a wonderfully neat continental acrobatic act; very amusing are the four Maisanos, musical clowns; Tom Foy in his Yorkshire Lad in London, is as funny as ever, and Fred Land has some neat songs and clever antics; Tambo and Tambo are an excellent turn, and Ada Parker is a dainty comedienne; good and novel dancing is the forte of Will and Alice Vokes; Hurman manipulates the hoops smartly, and Wills and Mackenzie are a good singing couple.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr. Emilius Hill.—In Miss Zona Vevey, with whom is Herr Max Erard, pianist-composer, Mr. Hill has secured a highly attractive turn. In a magnificent stage set of great beauty Miss Vevey sings several songs of an original character, and the effects are appropriate to each character. Altogether a most creditable production, which should draw money everywhere. The Rio Brothers are seen in clever gymnastic work; Madame Roma's six juggling girls are well trained; T. E. Johnstone is a capital character vocalist; the Erolls are good leapers and tumblers; Steve Bartle is a clever concertina soloist; the Edmonds have a well-conceived statuary act, and the Sisters Cora help in the general success of this show.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hales.—The attraction here this week is In Holy (!) Russia, by Lilian Clare Cassidy. This drama is in the main sensational, but the dramatic tension is ably and pleasingly relieved by Mr. J. Rice Cassidy in the rôle of Micky Nolan, a witty Irish servant. His acting thoroughly merits the applause accorded. The part of Renee Rubinoff is by no means an easy one, but it is very cleverly sustained by Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy; Miss Roma Tremayne takes the part of Catska Lavotski, and the manner in which she enters into the spirit of the adventuress is worthy of much praise; Mr. Henry Compton as Colonel Richard Forrest, is well suited. The acting of Mr. Jerold E. Reed as Michael Natolski is praiseworthy.

NELSON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Mudd.—This place of entertainment was reopened after the summer vacation on Monday, when Mrs. Greenwood Croft's London company presented Captain Swift, with which and The Idler they have been on tour. The first night was marked by an entire innovation in theatres, invitations having been sent out to the leading ladies and gentlemen of the town, including members of the local corporation and their wives. In consequence the theatre was crowded by a very fashionable audience. At the close of the second act tea and coffee were served in the stalls and in the circle refreshment-room, the latter being daintily laid out with small tables. The kindness of the proprietress and Mr. Mudd, who received the guests, was greatly appreciated. An entirely new orchestra has been engaged, and their playing was a distinct success. The performance of Captain Swift, which is preceded by an amusing curtain-raiser, entitled The Maniacs, afforded the company every enjoyment. In the title-rôle Mr. Herbert Ford, who joined the company upon Mr. Philip Cunningham leaving to take up an important engagement in London, fulfilled his task in an eminently satisfactory manner. Gardiner found a most agreeable exponent in Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont; Mr. Richard Dalton gave suitable treatment to the character of Mr. Seabrook, his well-assumed short-sightedness provoking much merriment; whilst as Harry Seabrook, the petulant lover, Mr. A. E. Walker was quite at home. Mr. Wm. Attfield made a convincing Ryan, the detective, and Mr. Haldane Walton's characterisation of Marshall was all that could be desired; as Mrs. Seabrook Miss Elsepeth Dudgeon performed a difficult task with every ability; Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft made a charming Stella Darbisher, her fine acting and the general tone of her depiction winning unanimous approval. During the course of the play she was presented with a lovely bouquet of roses. Miss Geraldine Somerset made a vivacious Mabel Seabrook, whilst as Lady Staunton Miss Rita Trefell showed much histrionic ability. The dresses and scenery were beautiful. From Thursday night to Saturday The Idler was produced.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The return visit of Mr. Charles Macdona's company in the popular farce Are You a Mason? was accorded a hearty welcome here on Monday. Mr. W. H. Paterson in the part of Amos Bloodgood is both clever and amusing, while Mr. Francis J. Bithell as the son-in-law adds considerably to the gaiety of the entertainment; Mr. H. Langdon Bruce as George Fisher meets with hearty appreciation in his efforts to amuse; and Mr. Erskolme E. Clive deserves praise in the rôle of Mr. Hamilton Travers. Other leading rôles are ably played by Miss Adelaide Grace, Miss Rita Narcelli, and Miss Dulcie Verney. An interesting curtain-raiser, entitled A Bad Penny, precedes Are You a Mason? the characters being well played by Miss Dulcie Verney, and Messrs. Erskolme, E. Clive, G. P. Polson, and Wilton Ross.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. T. W. Rowe.—Mr. Lingford Carson's No. 1 company is here this week in a repertoire of plays, The Heart of a Hero being presented on Monday before a large audience. Mr. Ernest J. Fare as Jem Resdale is a success; Miss Rosa Mervyn as Nell Resdale is equally good. Other prominent parts are in the hands of such capable artists as Mr. J. Borland, Mr. F. Rivers, Mr. F. Kellard, Miss Emma Rainbow, and Miss Amy McNeill. During the week A Modern Adventuress and The Ticket-of-leave Man will be staged.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. F. W. Bolam.—The Great White Chief, a play from the prolific pen of Mr. Lingford Carson, is the attraction here, and is meeting with hearty appreciation. The title-rôle is in the safe hands of Mr. Mansell Vane, and the author has an important part as Reindeer. Mr. Charles Ritland and Mr. George Torice are also conspicuous. The ladies in the cast are Miss Dollie Denville, Miss Dulcie Lawrence, and Miss Amy Ross Clyde, and all help to make the play a huge success.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—George Mozart is once more delighting Newcastle audiences in his own inimitable style, his turn proving as clever and amusing as ever. Addie Dorina, a clever protean actress, appears in a happy sketch, Dr. Spot's Patient, in which she plays six different characters with remarkable skill. Other artists contributing successfully to the programme are Marion Armitage, comedienne; Sisters Wingrove, Botello and Virginia, J. G. Scatter, May Brilliant, and a comedy sketch, Astronomy, by Messrs. W. Fulbrook and company, the Barrascope completing.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—The Elliott Savonas in their elaborate musical scena are the chief attraction at the Empire this week. They never fail to give pleasure to North-country audiences, and they received the usual hearty reception. Their entertainment is unique and wholly enjoyable. The Donaldson Brothers in a fantastic sketch, Sports in the Jungle, prove extremely amusing, and evoke any amount of merriment; and Mr. Walter Wade, a comedian with a good voice, scores well in a monologue. A really pleasing turn is that of Stewart and Morgan, whose singing of old Irish melodies is quite delightful. Other smart turns are Howe and Ardie, gymnasts; Arabella Allen, "the Dickens Girl," in character representations; Howard and St. Clair in a comical sketch; the Proveanies, a troupe of lady cyclists; Jennie Johns in a song scena, "The Middy in the King's Navy"; and Nora Emerald, soubrette and dancer. The Dieppe Motor Race on the Bioscope completes an excellent programme.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett.—The Avolas are scoring with their novel and exciting performances on a row of six vertical parallel bars; Amy Bellwood is a lively a piquant singer and dancer; Marion Fletcher is a charming and youthful ballad vocalist; Kellini is a clever and funny comedy juggler; Jules Kiarno, equilibrist; Morimura, magician, assisted by Miako; and Fred S. Peake and company in a dramatic sketch, The Hypocrite, also appear. The pictures presented this week are the motor races at Dieppe, including the Grand Prix and the Voiturettes Race.

THE NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Thos. A. Evans; Musical-Director, Walter Ashton.—Heading the programme is Mlle. Viviana and company in a dancing scena, The Toy Shop, which serves to display some very good dancing in various styles, both operatic and modern, and the three ladies and the two gentlemen are deservedly highly applauded. Yamamoto and Miss Koyoshi, undoubted Japs, give an unique equilibristic performance, which is duly rewarded; Violet Beatrice makes a pretty Irish boy, singing sweetly "Soon I'll be leaving Dublin town," and finishing with a smart dance; and Madge Bryce, a contralto comedienne with a good style and faultless presence; the Ronney Trio of knockabouts; Mike Asher, comedian and dancer; Alfred Grady, comedian; Matt Wilkinson and company in a comic sketch; and Percy Farrimond, the original Lancashire singing collier, also furnish acceptable items. The Palace pictures are the Dieppe Motor Races, 1908.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company with The Gambler's Daughter is playing a return visit here this week. In the dual rôle of Mildred and Miriam Grant Miss Hill submits an excellent performance, and Mr. Ayrton as Desmond O'Dare is worthy of much praise; Mr. Harry Ellison makes a capital Solomon Solomons; Mr. Richard Pitt acts well as John Grant; Mr. H. C. Robinson wins high praise as Stephen Brand, and Mr. Cedric Thornley creates a good impression as Tom, his son; Mr. Frank Wheatcroft figures creditably as Captain Stanhope; Mr. Basil Mitchell is well suited as Jack Grant, and Mr. Fred T. Ingleby makes the most of Ralph Gillman. As Auntie Zeb Miss Harriet Loydall makes quite a hit; Miss Maud St. John is much appreciated as Carmen Sancho; Miss much approval; Mr. George Bernard, actor-vocalist, keeps adding to his popularity, and the Mouldoscope exhibits some capital pictures.

NORTHWICH.—THE PAVILION.—Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Fletcher; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry S. Dacre.—The Serenaders (originally masked singers) are here this week, and a splendid entertainment they provide. The company consists of Miss Mabel Johnson, soprano; Miss Ellice Rayne, contralto; Mr. Alfred De Grey, tenor; Mr. Malcolm Cockerell, baritone; Mr. Sidney Hamilton, entertainer; and Mr. Leonard Burke, pianist, all of whom are artists of high-class ability. Their répertoire is a large and varied one, and whether it be solo, duet, trio, quartette, coon, or humorous song, all are rendered in such perfect style as to earn for each and every artist well-deserved rapturous applause. The costumes are splendid. The Leonas in their electrical illuminated musical acts give an exceedingly good performance and meet with a hearty reception.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company, presented by Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux, in The Walls of Jericho, occupies the boards this week. Mr. Alfred Goddard is excellent as Jack Frobisher and Mr. Russell Barry is very good as Hankey Bannister. Mr. Ben Lewin is well placed as the Marquis Steventon, and Mr. A. W. Tyrer deserves praise at Harry Dallas. Miss Nancy Beresford cleverly acts the part of Lady Alethea Frobisher; Miss Elsie Ross is good as Lady Lucy; Miss Ormond Wynne is pleasing as Lady Westerby; and the other characters are ably filled. The piece is excellently staged.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Messrs. Arnold Richardson and A. Gordon Laws, with Miss Ethel Lonsdale, present a laughable sketch entitled Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, which creates convulsive laughter. Mr. Alec Hurley and company are heartily received in the sketch The Costers' Friendly Lead; the Scottish Belles give a pleasing musical turn; Shirley and Ransome are amusing in an episode, "'Arf a Quid"; Lawrence Barclay as a comedian is a favourite; Rubie and Elsie Redfern are appreciated; and Dolly Ross, comedienne and dancer, is very pleasing. The Hippo-Bio pictures are interesting.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company is presenting the evergreen comedy The Private Secretary. As the timid little curate Mr. Donald Price-Evans scores heavily, and few better representations of the part have been seen here. Mr. Cattermole is represented by Mr. W. Hargreaves, a fine comedy actor, who loses no opportunities; and Mr. Fredk. Tyrrell as Gibson is good. Mr. Frank Stanley is responsible for the part of Mr. Marsland, and acquits himself creditably; Mr. Andrew Wight enacts the character of young Marsland cleverly; Mr. Lawrence Grove is thoroughly at home in the rôle of Douglas Cattermole; and Mr. F. Dudley does well in a small part. Miss Florence Tressillian and Miss Dorthy Ripley look charming and act successfully as Edith and Eva respectively; and as the sedate Miss Ashford Mrs. Alfred Davis does good work. Miss Cicely Wade and Mr. John Macready complete the cast. The funny farce, The Wild Man from Borneo, precedes the comedy.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—For exciting drama one could not wish anything stronger than Straight From the Shoulder, produced this week by the company travelling under the auspices of Mr. R. A. Roberts. Mr. Matthew Boulton acts with vigour and determination in the dual rôle of Dr. Bedford and Harry Bletchley; and hard work is put into the representation of the double part of David Gleeson and Major Lucas by Mr. Leonard Clarke. Another double representation deserving of special mention is that of Mr. Fred Beck. Miss Beatrice Burdett successfully undertakes the representation of the heroine; Mr. Cuthbert Dennison and Mr. Franklin McAvoy both do good work; and Miss Beatrice Moore is a winsome Gladys Brittle. Messrs. Geo. H. Child as the Rev. John Armitage and George Fisher as Fred Stafford add no little to the success of the play; and Miss Edie Casson's mock dignity as the wealthy Miss Brittle is very amusing. The play is well written, staged, and produced, and attracts large and enthusiastic audiences nightly.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—At the top of the programme this week Miss Queenie Leighton attracts in her usual powerful manner, and her reception at every performance is most gratifying. Mr. Russell Wallett, in his unique turn The Lady in Black, convulse the house with laughter all the time he is on the stage; the Famous Craggs demonstrate once more to what a high point of perfection they have developed the acrobatic art, and the sketch in which Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas appear is a very pleasing and well-acted little comedy. Rhoda Paul sings in very good style a song in male attire; and the harmonised choruses and the solo singing of the King's College Boys are very pleasing. Jock Mills is one of the best of Scotch comedians, and his song, "The Suffragee," brought down the house. Rosa and Kitty Simms are song and dance artists of no mean ability; and Ralph and Nellie Howard have a capital turn in their comedy music mélange, The Military Maid. Bioscope pictures bring a good bill to a conclusion.

OLDBURY.—PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Tyrer.—The artists here this week include Fred Roman; the Sisters Holly, duettists; Miss Martin, an accomplished instrumentalist; Fred Crosbie, an excellent comedian; George Coll, a refined vocalist, and Miss Nancy Renshaw, who is encored nightly. The pictures conclude.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Eugene Stratton is attracting large audiences here on his first visit, and his songs and dances earn several recalls; Mastro and Mlle. Oretta in their equilibristic act are exceedingly smart and clever; the Arthur Lloyd trio (Arthur, Lillie, and Dulcie) are excellent in a drawing-room sketch, and cause much amusement; Wyndham and Kitty, in a capital wire act receive much applause; Alf. Holt is very good in mimicry, and Bert and Eddie Hughes are very amusing in football on cycles; the Elduns, in a vocal scena, provide some capital singing; Will 'E Stopit is a smart, eccentric comedian, as is Little Dando, and Fred Athalon is a good head balancer. The Bioscope shows some good pictures.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—A Woman Worth Winning is here, played by Mr. Percy Norman's company, and they have had a capital reception. Miss Chrissie Dunbar as Roma Pauloff acts a trying part in her well-known style; Mr. Geo. E. Clive makes the character of Fergus Lovinsky a most manly hero, and the machinations of Mr. A. B. Mackay as General Borinsky are ably portrayed; Mr. Carthage Calcleugh is well known here and earns much applause for his able acting as Ivan Bardoff; Miss Ida Mackay impersonates Katerina Kloss in a most amusing manner; Mr. L. Newman as Bertie Scribbles causes much amusement, and Mr. Ernest Kendrick as Peter Popples is responsible for much hearty laughter by his clever comedy; Miss Trixie Leighton makes a capital Lola, and Mr. Jack Corlass makes a smart Col. Mashemoff; Mr. Gilbert Standing as Amos Pauloff is very good, and Mr. S. Barton does well as Czar Nicholas.

OXFORD.—EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Carr Loates' company is fulfilling a week's engagement here with At the World's Mercy. Mr. Leo. Rodway is robust as Capt. Frank Manley; Mr. C. D. Knight is effective as Morris Goldstein, and Mr. Carr Loates makes the most of Jabez Barber. Mr. W. Griffin is a good ruffian as Slouching Sam, while Mr. Jess Boxer causes endless merriment as Charley Smart; Miss Molly Bee is sympathetic as Alice Lloyd, and Miss K. Saunders acquits herself admirably as Dot. Miss Cissie Milford undoubtedly scores easy honours in her dual rôle of Skittles and Kitty Knott; her impersonation of Skittles is exceedingly clever, whilst her singing and dancing make her a favourite.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—On the top of the bill here this week is Tarro Miyake, the champion ju-jitsu wrestler; the Ettenas, globe speciality artists, introduce a combination of marvellous balancing feats and genuine comedy; Theresa and May, in their quick-change act, are cordially received; beautiful songs, smart dances, and clever acrobatic feats are contributed by the Sisters Lee; May Fayre is heard to advantage in two good songs; a capital ventriloquial performance is contributed by Robert Grieve, and Kack and Ford, trio of comedy acrobats; Miss Maie, with a wire and rope posing act, and the Tivoliscope complete an excellent bill.

PETERBOROUGH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—An excellent programme here has succeeded in drawing a crowded house each night. Beatie Bloom is a comedienne with a good voice; George Phillips is a clever comedian and dancer; the Sisters Hampel are original cross-talk comediennes; Ted Saunders is a capital mimic; Jen Keppel, comedienne; Whisper is a tricky comedy juggler; the Two Bostons introduce the great bull fight, which causes roars of laughter; J. W. Foster is a very funny comedian, and Arthur Norton is the nine-stone Græco-Roman wrestler of the world.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The Beloved Vagabond is staged this week at the Royal. Mr. Arthur Royston portrays Gaston de Neroe, and is equally at home as the happy-go-lucky Bohemian or as the objectless tramp on the road, his acting being marked by brilliancy and finish; Mr. Warburton Gamble as the Comte de Verneuil is the evil angel of the piece, but performs his allotted task excellently, and one cannot but admire the close character study the part displays; Mr. Alfred Drayton has a comparatively small part as Lord Rushworth, but carries out his duty in a commendable fashion; while Mr. Ramsey Macbeth as Asticot admirably "plays up" to his leader Gaston. Miss Kathleen Harrington is particularly fascinating as Joanna Rushworth, and carefully treats a part requiring delicate handling to prevent any suggestion of its being overdone; and Miss Nita Faydon earns warm applause for her representation of the faithful Blanquette de Veau.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Coram is the most successful applause-earner at the Palace this week, his ventriloquial business being smart and up to date. Ernie Mayne catches on wonderfully, his patter and general style being original and genuinely funny, and Hayes and Merritt are a daring pair of trampolinists, and bring off some startling evolutions on the horizontal bars; Fred Karno's company in their musical extravaganza, Saturday to Monday, furnish some acceptable musical and comedy business; Mr. Gilbert Childs as John Willie Jaggs being very strong in the latter department; Clark and Hayden amuse with their comedy duologue, entitled By Appointment, and Harry Zetter has few equals as an eccentric dancer. Other contributions to a good bill are Les Zelovas, acrobatic equilibrists; and Madge Allan, comedienne.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff.—The standard of excellence is quite maintained in the programme submitted this week. Cliff Ryland heads the bill, and hugely pleases the popular taste with his quaint stories and funny ditties; Brady and Johnson and company prove that old farces bear revival when played as smartly as they do the sketch Turning the Tables; Miss Alexandra Royal sings impressively songs of a tender character, and Shrillo, unlike many a siffleur, whistles musically, his phrasing being particularly artistic; Les Currys go through a programme of instrumental music which, although ambitious, is well done; Silly Billy Elliott finds great favour; Patty Bella is a comedienne with infinite vim and go, whilst Patty Dancit is a smart and dainty dancer. The Alexandra Bioscope shows some capital pictures, notably the Dieppe motor race.

PORTH.—PALACE.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole; Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—The star turn here is Ivan Tschernoff's animal act, which is greatly admired; Hampton and Bauman, in Down in Kentucky, are accorded a hearty reception; Wylie, the tramp musician, is very popular in his musical act; Titan, a fine athlete, is a marvellous weight lifter; Frank Coyle meets with great approval as the Continuous Comedian; Alfonso Silvano, equilibrist, is enthusiastically received; Telka, contralto, renders some fine songs; Vowles and Bryan in their refined scena are deserving of praise; and the Palascope, with its grand series of pictures, is greatly appreciated.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—The farcical musical play, The Dairymaids, is being presented by Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company. Mr. Johnny Osborne, with imperturbable humour plays the part of Joe Mivens, A.B., causing roars of laughter, and the rôle of Lieut. Sam Brudenell is well taken by Mr. Nelson Keys; Lieut. Frank Meredith is capitally presented by Mr. A. Wykes Ashdowne; the good-natured, genial Irishman, Dr. O'Byrne, has a good representative in Mr. J. A. Warden; Mr. Boris Bellew does excellently as Lieut. Brereton, and sings "Dreamland" in the last act with great success; Miss Mabel Younge as Lady Brudenell is well placed, playing with grace and style; Miss Clare Marsden makes a piquant and comely Peggy; Miss Clarice Lockstone is a delightful Winifred; Miss Gladys Silvani acts the maid-of-all-work Eliza in characteristic fashion; and Miss Madge Avery as the very proper Miss Penelope Pyechase, is also worthy of praise.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company in the romantic military drama, Second to None, is here for the week. The arduous rôle of Harry Wilding is played by Mr. Leonard Williams in a manly, convincing manner; Mr. Theo Balfour's impersonation of the old soldier, Sir Reginald Greystone, V.C., is a most capable one; the sinister and heartless captain Phillip Mannering is presented in first-rate style by Mr. Frederick F. Lloyd; Mr. Charles Halling sustained the part of Frank Wilding in a natural and vigorous manner; Mr. J. G. Maine makes the most of the rôle of Sergeant Jack Horseman; Lieut. Archie Ballater is amusingly depicted by Mr. Arthur D. Layland; Mr. Allan Carruthers is very diverting as Joe Ruggles, and Mr. Louis Edmonde as private Flutter; and Miss Clarrie Yandall as Norah are responsible for much laughter in their respective parts; the character of May Greystone is portrayed by Miss Mary Mallalieu with much success, and Miss Dorothy Clifton's impersonation of Nell Greystone is refined and very winsome.

KING'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Miss Marie Dainton, the charming musical comedy actress is winning golden opinions for her daintily presented series of imitations of well-known actors and actresses; Joe Mac, comedian, is highly entertaining, and gains much applause; the Complins, comedy duo, are quite up to date and very smart in their business; Mlle. Orthine, trapeze artist, is graceful and daring; Mr. Maurice H. Hoffman and company submit a dramatic adaptation in two scenes of Miss Corelli's novel, The Sorrows of Satan, in which Messrs. Hoffman, Wright, Fox, and Miss Ethel King appear to great advantage; Griff, the favourite festive juggler, with his quaint patter and clever work is also here; a pleasing novelty is furnished by Charles Prelle's bijou circus with wonderfully well-trained dogs; Miss Daisy Jerome, "the vital spark," in her intense vigorous style, carries the audience with her, and made a most successful first appearance here. Some excellent animated pictures by the Barrascope conclude.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Captain Warren Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Messrs. Fred Kitchen and Frank Lister's company present in good style the interesting dramatic scena, The Sundowner. The efforts of Sadie Simpson, a pleasing and vivacious soubrette and danseuse are meritorious; Sisters Caselli are smart high kickers and duettists; Rappo and Ella, society gymnasts, submit a brisk and clever performance; Albert Le Fre in novel mélange, That What You See on the Halls, shows marked ability, and had gratifying recognition; Mulvay and Miriam, comedy entertainers furnish some amusing cross talk; Lade Henderson, character vocalist of the vigorous type, gains favour for his well-rendered songs; Payne's Biophotoscope with films of interesting subjects, and Cliffe Berzac's comedy animal act, in which much docility and careful training is evidenced, complete a capital programme.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—The Lew Lake combination is here for another week, this time in the petite comedy drama, My Pal Jerry, a sequel to last week's Bloomsbury Burglars. Miss Rosie Bartlett, vocal comedienne, has several pleasing numbers; Mr. Mark Leslie, the swell coon, also goes well; Ted Curtis and Pics. give an excellent turn; Miss Peggy Pryde, comedienne is in good form and is much appreciated; Austral trio in musical act proved able musicians and dancers; Mr. Leo Stormont, baritone, renders some descriptive numbers most tunefully. The Hippo. pictures conclude.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Executors of the late Mr. W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. H. F. Maltby's company is meeting with a hearty welcome this week in Mr. Maltby's new play, Fraud. In Mr. Robert Jones the author has a part which suits him admirably, and of which he makes much; as Ernestine Kershaw Miss Nora Maltby has a difficult rôle, to which she does every justice; Mr. Brember Wills as the Rev. Stanley Kershaw is excellent; Mr. Arthur Claremont gives a clever portrayal of Leslie Parkington; Mr. Wyn Weaver, under whose direction the play is produced, treats the audience to a neat bit of acting as Mr. Barnes; Mr. James Willoughby is capital as the clerk, Mr. Bramber, and Mr. S. Clegg is funny as Jackson; Miss Lizzie Maddocks is good as Mrs. Kershaw, and Miss Florence Wynn is admirably suited in the part of Miss Butler; Miss Kathleen St. George as Harper, and Mr. H. B. Dewhurst as the messenger complete the cast.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—The Ugliest Woman on Earth succeeds in attracting large audiences here this week. In the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Homer acts with much feeling, and is fully appreciated; Mr. Philip Darien is a manly Jack Merriman, and Mr. Leyton Cancelor is a sufficiently unprincipled Hubert Gold; Mr. Leonard Thackery as Antonio Luchesi ably supports him in his nefarious schemes; Mr. William de Brigord is capital as Tom Redvers, and Mr. Richard Jollyboat is a breezy Griffiths; Mr. Freddie Bently raises many a hearty laugh as Tubby Herrick, and is well supported by Miss Nellie Jackson as Aggie Brown; Miss Violet Macaree as the Italian girl Morita displays much versatility; Miss Gertrude Harrison is a powerful exponent of the scheming Rose Courteney; and other artists worthy of note are Messrs. W. Boyne, Harry Leyton, Gerald Nolan, Stuart Roberts, and Henry Williams. The play is well staged.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—At the top of the bill this week is The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, a side-splitting musical comedy sketch, in which Messrs. Arthur and Harry Watson, supported by a talented troupe of comedians and comediennes, including Miss Flo Stanley, succeed in keeping the house in merry mood. The dances of the Vera Troupe (principals Hettie and Stella) are also much appreciated. The Three Sisters Tree give a capital turn in their refined act Hunting. George Leavern is a comedian who pleases; Del, the necromancer, performs some capital conjuring feats; Florry Cooper sings some good songs and is much appreciated; Miss Fanny Robina, an old favourite here, scores heavily; the Five Juanitos are an exceedingly clever troupe of acrobats and tumblers, and are loudly applauded; Billie Bint sings a patriotic song, and, to use his own catch phrase, "Tries to please," and succeeds. The Gaieties of Divorce on the Bioscope concludes.

RADCLIFFE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—Mr. J. F. Preston's company is presenting the sporting drama, Rogues of the Turf, and during the holidays the houses have been very large and appreciative. Miss M. F. Barlow plays well the notable and striking character of Marion, and Mr. W. H. Barlow effectively takes the character of Captain Clifton, her abettor; Mr. Preston has a character to suit him as Joe Flaxman, the trainer, and he acts capitally; Mr. Macro is also seen to advantage as Moses, a humorous Jew.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—The enterprise of Mr. Manager Richeux in securing thoroughly attractive and up-to-date shows for the thousands of visitors to Ramsgate during the season has been well rewarded of late, and our representative, on visiting the Victoria Theatre on Tuesday evening just prior to the time for the curtain to rise on the performance of Miss Hook of Holland, by Messrs. Dudley Bennett and T. C. Wray's company, was gratified to learn that "standing room only" was the order, and that there was not a seat to be had. May this run of success continue! Those who witnessed the production on the first three evenings of the week are unanimous in their praise concerning its excellence. Miss Amy Grey proved herself a charming actress in the rôle of Sally, otherwise Miss Hook of Holland. On Thursday Mr. Robert Macdonald's company commenced a welcome three nights' engagement with a return visit of The Dairymaids.

ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; Resident-Manager, Mr. Dan Forrest.—The revised dramatic version of Hall Caine's great play The Christian has been produced every night of the past week at the above place of entertainment by Mr. Wentworth Croke's company, and large and enthusiastic audiences have attended each performance. The acting of Mr. Roy Redgrave as John Storm and Miss Daisy Scudamore as Glory Quayle leaves absolutely nothing to be desired, and on every occasion has elicited outbursts of applause; Mr. Wilfrid Noy is good as Horatio Drake, and Mr. Herbert Hewetson ably plays Lord Robert Ure; the Father Lamplugh of Mr. F. Llewellyn is also a capital piece of work. Miss Cora Deane as Polly Love and Miss Molly Hayden as Mrs. Callender add considerably to the success of the production. The strong passages of the play, particularly that in the last act, are splendidly led up to and brought out, and curtain calls have been frequent. The Christian is admirably staged and mounted, and will rank as one of the successes of the present season.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Benton.—At Duty's Call, a story of Gordon and Khartoum, is being presented by a strong company this week under the direction of Mr. John Gerant, who gives a telling impersonation of the character of Harold Alison; Mr. Charles C. Calvert acts very effectively as the hero of the piece, Captain George Alison; Mr. Ernest St. John impersonates the gallant General Gordon with skill and soldierly bearing; Miss Beatrice Western plays the part of Dora Drummond (General Gordon's ward) in graceful style, and Miss Ada Roscoe is very successful as the slave Salena; Mr. J. Telly Dillson as Terry O'Halloran is highly amusing, and is well supported in the comedy scenes by Mr. Walter P. Carr and Miss Laura O'Neill.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—A sensational attraction is provided this week by the Three Röhrs, who go through a series of marvellous cycling feats. The manner in which they maintain their equilibrium while cycling round and round a large cylinder is really wonderful. The last feat, in which Mr. John Röhr "loops the loop" when the cylinder is turned on its axis, creates enthusiastic applause. Mr. J. L. Shine is a first-class comedian, and his original songs and patter are well appreciated; the Mahatma gives a clever thought-transference exhibition; Jack Crawley gives some clever instrumental imitations in the new act, Lights Out; Cull Pitt gives a capital show of "tricks, talk, travesty, and topics"; Charles Lilburn, comedian, and Lottie Rigg, comedienne and dancer, are well received; Horace Pollock and company produce an amusing comedietta, entitled Hester's Mystery, and some amusing scenes are shown on the Palace Bioscope.

THE Royal Pierrots, on the Thames Promenade, continue to attract large and appreciative audiences.

REDHILL.—MARKET HALL.—Proprietors, Market Hall Co.; Secretary, Mr. A. Simmonds.—Mr. G. W. Bowes opens the season at this house with the presentation of Wilson Barrett's great play, The Sign of the Cross. The scenery and costumes reflect credit upon the designers, being handsome in the extreme. Mr. Wallace G. Court as Marcus Superbus is well cast, his fine physique and clear enunciation well fitting him for the part; the Nero of Mr. Burton W. Yaldwyn is very good, as are also the Tigellinus of Mr. G. Osmond Tearle and the Licinius of Mr. Rupert Carlton; the Glabrio of Mr. Donald McAdam is a clever piece of comedy; the Poppæa of Miss Kathleen Day leaves nothing to be desired; whilst Miss Nora Craigie is a powerful Berenice; Miss Dorothy Lambert as Dacia is pert, piquant, and pleasing; Mr. W. Burton is a dignified Favius; Miss Effie Dane deserves credit for her impersonation of the boy Stephanus, which she imbues with real and touching pathos; Miss Vera Crichton has been admirably chosen for the character of Mercia, whose natural gifts add charm to a difficult part. Songs are well sung by Miss Florence Maber, and Miss May Romney dances gracefully. Miss Harriet Greet is the manageress of the company.

RHYL.—PAVILION.—A concert was given on Wednesday under the direction of Mr. E. De Jong. The artists included Mr. Charles Tree, Miss Laura Evans, Miss Frances Andrews, Mr. Davidson Wilson, and Mr. William Henley. Several musical selections were supplied by Mr. De Jong's excellent orchestra.

TOWN HALL.—Mr. Charles Constant's company opened here on Monday with Florodora. Miss Lillie Blythe pleased greatly as the vivacious Lady Holyrood; Miss Daisy Lake as Dolores made good use of her fine voice and acting abilities; Mr. Gus Danby was irresistibly funny as Anthony Tweedlepunch; Mr. Martin D. Pitt was heard to advantage as Frank Abercoed; Mr. Jack Parker was excellent as Cyrus Gilfain, and Mr. Stanley Bartram was well suited to the part of Capt. Donegal; as Angela Gilfain Miss Louie Danby was very good, and the remaining characters were well represented.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Eric Charlswood.—Wee Mona Vivian is an immense favourite here; the popularity of Mr. Tom Stuart, impersonator, is well evinced by his reception; Mr. Arthur Aldridge's vocal contributions are always appreciated; Mr. Eric Charlswood sings some catchy chorus songs in such a manner as to quickly persuade his audience to join in; Mr. Alf. Ripon, ventriloquist, Miss Edith Benson, comedienne, Mr. F. Gordon, and Mr. Stanley Holt, accompanist, are also in the programme.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—London with the Lid Off, by Arthur Shirley, is a drama of the metropolis full of sensational incidents. Mr. William G. Marshall sustains the principal character of Grattan Gale, a blind burglar of great cunning; the heroine is well played by Miss Rubie Maude; Madge Rendall, a female detective, is in the capable hands of Miss Amy Ellam; Mr. Stanley Carlton as the Rev. Allen Gordon and Mr. Marshall Meade as Mr. Templeton give careful studies; comedy is well sustained by Mr. Alfred Deane as Cousin Peter, Miss Rose Morton as Mord Emily, Mr. Lancelot Usher as Percy Plunker, and Miss Emily Lewis as Dolly. Villainy is well represented by Mr. James Hart as Collini, Miss R. H. Balesco as Mrs. Glendale, and Miss C. E. Bellinger as Sarah Shafto.

ROBERT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Mr. E. H. Bostock's group of highly trained baboons, introduced by Captain Graham, give an enjoyable performance; Hanvarr and Lee, the Golfer and the Maid, are very smart jugglers; Sisters Herbert are a pair of dainty duettists and dancers. An excellent programme also includes smart turns by Amy Elvira, burlesque artist; Spencer and Marks, comedians; Bert and Dora, comedy artists; Sisters Lytton, duettists; the Florias, comedy wire act; Lily Watson, comedienne; and Charles Ridgwell, comedian.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; District-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—Morny Cash, the Lancashire Lad, keeps the house in roars with his comic songs and business; Le Diabelo is a very clever and daring cyclist in "looping the devil's wheel"; much amusement is created by J. W. Gallagher with his songs and patter; "The Artist and the Monkey" is a smart acrobatic act by Les Rallis. Angelina, in smart juggling act; Moon and Morris, comedians and unique dancers; Les Trippellos, in novelty musical act; Geo. Edney, character vocalist; and Frances Hanlon, dainty comedienne and dancer, give interesting turns.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Lester King.—Astonishingly large houses twice nightly assemble here to witness and enjoy the animated pictures, which this week include The Haunted Castle, Debt of Gratitude, Stone Industry, The Spectre, Yacht Race, Holy City, Why He Signed the Pledge. Mr. T. S. Sherlock sings well the song (illustrated) "When you know you're not forgotten," and the audience enjoy joining in the chorus.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington and Son; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—My Mimosa Maid is attracting the holiday crowds here, with Miss Marie Studholme in the title-rôle. That lady is as pleasing and captivating as ever she was, and is repeatedly encored; Mr. Charles McNaughton as the Sweep has a part that fits him exactly, and right worthily does he discharge his multifarious duties; Mr. Chas. Paton as Max was delightful, and Master Archie McCraig as Bock contributed materially to the success of the programme.

SPA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. Francis Goodricke.—Mr. James Welch's company in When Knights Were Bold is occupying the boards here. Mr. Welch, in the rôle of Sir Guy de Vere, keeps the fun at a high ptich during the whole of the play; to Miss Ertina Lascelles great praise is due for her clever impersonation of the part of Lady Rowena, and Mr. Wm. Lockhart as the Rev. Peter Pottlebury was all that could be desired. Mr. Welch is supported by a clever cast, and is playing to full houses.

THE AQUARIUM.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. L. Holland.—The principal item on the programme this week is Leoni Clarke, who gives his first-class entertainment with a large number of cats, rats, mice, monkeys, and canaries, all the animals fraternising wonderfully. Wilfred Burnard presents his clever impersonations of well-known comedians; Ferris and May always have a good reception here with their comedy sketch; Bentley shows his whistling abilities in a wonderful way. A clever acrobatic exhibition is given by the Mayos, and Nickita is a clever lady contortionist. The programme also includes George Rae, Scotch comedian; the Lettas, comedians; the Austin Trio, concertinists; and Mons. Le Clair's Canine Picture Gallery. The other season's attractions are Mlle. Levantes' Ladies' Orchestra and Prof. Jones's troupe of lady swimmers.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr. C. Fielding Smith.—An excellent programme of varieties is arranged here this week, the popular music-hall artist Harriett Vernon being one of the principal attractions, her efforts winning great applause. Agnes Spadoni appears with three beautiful stallions, who display marvellous training and intelligence; the Bros. Etharien are very eccentric in their movements; Dan Thomas does his female impersonations well. Daisy Yates, comedienne; Leslie Race, vocalist; Amos Howard, coloured dancer; and the Rollos, knockabouts, are also included. Herr Hintze's clever Roumanian Orchestra is always well received.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Garside; Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan.—The Idol of Paris, with Mr. James Bell's company, is this week's attraction here. Miss Annie Bell as Flare Flare gives a fine delineation of the character. With Mr. Henry Hare as the husband she receives strong support, and Mr. Ellis Carlisle as Tatave made a good impression.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Drama, by Walter Melville, entitled

"THE GIRL WHO TOOK THE WRONG TURNING."

The theatre this week has been visited by Mr. Walter Melville's company in the above-named play, in which Mr. Melville displays his usual ingenuity in catering for the more popular parts of the house. This drama, from Mr. Melville's prolific pen, contains innumerable incidents and situations, which are ably contrived, and have met with much enthusiasm from crowded audiences, who evidently appreciate the moral contained in the play. In the title-rôle, Sophie Coventry—the girl who took the wrong turning—Miss Jessie Belmore appears with notable distinction, and displays talent of no mean order in portraying, without offence, a rather difficult part. In the contrasting character of Lucy Coventry—the girl who took the right turning—Miss Zoe Davis is seen to much advantage. An excellent performance of Poppy Slater is given by Miss Marie Kildare, who keeps the audience in good humour, in which she is ably assisted by Mr. Fred Ingram as Johnnie Walker, their various scenes being received with shouts of laughter. Willie Mason, a British tar, receives a sound rendering at the hands of Mr. Ronald Adair, his appearance and impersonation being at once as breezy and natural as one could wish. Very creditable is the representation of Bill Slater by Mr. Sidney Sarl, an actor of real merit. Mr. Frank R. Robertson is a pleasant Jack Fenton. As Vesta Le Clere, the adventuress—without which no Melville drama is complete—Miss Nannie Meade is completely successful, thoroughly emphasising the viciousness of the character. Mr. Frank Denis plays Richard Fenton with much vigour. In James Harcourt, the villain, Mr. Raymond Wood revels in his schemes of betrayal and deceit, and quite earns the hisses which are lavished on him without stint by the audience. The parts of Graham, an old roué, and P.C. Sharpe are intelligently filled by Mr. Frank Barnard and Mr. Danell Greene. Various small characters are adequately sustained. The mounting and dressing are in keeping with the style and completeness always associated with Mr. Mulholland's enterprises.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Drama, by Fredk. Melville,

"HER ROAD TO RUIN."

Mr. Fredk. Melville's company forms the attraction here this week with Her Road to Ruin, and the performance on Monday proved highly interesting, and was received with enjoyment by all present. The company, which includes Miss Eva Moss and Mr. Henry Wolston, are very capable, and the whole performance runs smoothly. Mr. Dune Clark plays in a convincing and telling manner as the Bishop, and Mr. Henry Wolston as Frank Temple, the Curate, who is so persistently victimised by the villain, gives a clever interpretation of a part of more than ordinary scope. Mr. Heaton Grey submits a powerful and artistic portrayal of, at times, an exacting part, and Mr. Victor R. C. Moors plays effectively as the "ne'er-do-well," Charles Cholmondesley. There are no half measures about the villainy of Philip Hardy, an overbearing, impudent, heartless, yet withal gentlemanly, scoundrel, who finds a clever exponent in Mr. Alex. Bradley. Miss Eva Moss has a very arduous rôle to sustain in Jess Willoughby, but she acquits herself admirably, playing with much grace and power. Miss Alice Bowes as May Willoughby has a part which she is splendidly fitted to play, and quite wins the hearts of her audience. Miss Nellie Bonsor quickly gains the sympathies of an appreciative house as one of Philip Hardy's victims, Mary Dawson, and is to be highly commended. The comic element is in the hands of Miss Marie Wright as Jennie Crackling and Mr. Harry Talbot as Billy Boots. Although their humour is hardly of the quiet and dry order, it is, nevertheless, highly telling, and wins unbounded applause.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Drama, taken from Ouida's novel

"UNDER TWO FLAGS."

Edwin Elsner's dramatisation of Ouida's famous novel "Under Two Flags" is occupying the boards at Kennington Theatre this week, and as might be readily expected from a play of such powerful interest is attracting big business. The absorbing story of Bertie Royellieu's noble self-sacrifice in immolating himself in Algiers in order to save his brother's honour, and of Cigarette's heroic devotion in giving up her life that she might save that of the man she loves, is vividly portrayed by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's talented company. The play is magnificently mounted, and Cigarette's ride for life on a fine Arab steed up the picturesque mountain pass in the fourth act forms one of the most thrilling and realistic scenes that can be imagined. In the part of Bertie Royellieu, afterwards known as Louis Victor, Mr. Mark Blow scores a big triumph. His splendid presence and manly bearing make him an ideal soldier hero, and he interprets the rôle with great skill. Miss Agnes Verity is magnificent as Cigarette, the warm-hearted, courageous vivandiere acting throughout with great force and passion. She is the vivandiere to the life, and seems to have stepped right out of the pages of Ouida to fascinate the imagination of all who see her. Miss Verity was the recipient of a tremendous ovation at the close of the play on Monday, and she well deserved this popular tribute to her artistic genius. Mr. Dermot Fitz-Gibbon is well placed as Barklie Royellieu, the scapegrace brother, and Mr. Charles Brooke is a good Lord Royellieu. The Lord Rockingham of Mr. Austin Milroy is decidedly powerful, that artist giving a fine sketch of the generous-spirited English noble. Miss Sylvia Harrington is a stately Princess Venetia, and Miss Madge Stevens is charming and graceful as Lady Beatrice Guinevere. Mr. Arthur Elwyn is at home in the unenviable rôle of Colonel Chanteroy, which he enacts with much ability. The lighter side of the story is supplied by Mr. Harry Benson (Rake) and Miss Kitty Saville (Lavina). Mr. Benson is a rattling good comedian, and his songs and dances and quaint humour keep the house in roars whenever he is about.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the drama, adapted from Mrs. Henry Wood's novel,

"EAST LYNNE."

At the Coronet Theatre this week Mr. Robert Arthur has given all and sundry a chance of seeing the old-time emotional domestic drama and "tear compeller," founded on Mrs. Henry Wood's novel of world-wide fame, East Lynne, and, judging by its hearty reception on Monday, there are many yet left who "love to have a good cry" and indulge in the luxury of grief. Miss Margaret Murch comes out strongly with some fine emotional acting as the much-tempted and long-suffering heroine, Lady Isabel. Mr. E. Maule Cole is every inch a villain as that past master in the art of betrayal, Francis Levison by name; Miss Rosemary Rees shows character in her impersonation of Barbara Hare; and Miss Lucie Evelyn is clever and entirely commendable for her rendering of the character of Cornelia; Miss Gladys Hedgréve is deserving of special mention in the pathetic part of little Willie; Mr. Maitland Marler as Justice Hare brings down the house by his splendid service in the part, and no praise is too high for his excellent performance. Mr. Walter Gay does his best with the part of the flaccid, backboneless lawyer, Archibald Carlyle, whose mild benevolence is powerless to cope with jealousy and intrigue. Mr. Wilfrid Beckwith as Lord Mountsevern, Mr. Edgar Kent as young Richard Hare, Mrs. Henry Gascoigne as Joyce, and Miss Winifred Ryan doubling the rôles of Wilson and Suzanne, are quite satisfactory in small parts. Mr. Harry Cane is cast for the part of Mr. Dill. Mr. Wilfrid Beckwith stage-manages the production, and an innovation is the capital rendition of "When Other Lips" by Miss Rosemary Rees. The staging is good and the music excellent.

THE NEW LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the drama, by Joseph Arthur, entitled

"THE STILL ALARM."

Suburban playgoers just now are having an opportunity for renewing acquaintance with the well-known American drama, The Still Alarm, and the enthusiasm of large audiences at the popular Hammersmith Lyric this week testifies that the many exciting situations and telling lines with which the piece abounds are as keenly enjoyed as ever. Particularly effective is the scene representing the interior of the Central Fire Station, New York, where the two highly-trained horses, Pegasus and Bucephalus, are rapidly harnessed to the engine and start off for the fire at Fordham's house, arriving just in time for Jack Manley to rescue his sweetheart, Elinor. The concluding episode, the fight with knives between Manley and the villain, Bird, also especially appeals to the occupants of the "top shelf," who demonstrate in no uncertain fashion their entire approval when Bird is finally vanquished. The company responsible for the production, Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's, is an admirable all-round one, Mr. Glenville giving a buoyant and breezy representation of the hero, Jack Manley, in the first act of the play, his acting in the other scenes being very impressive. A finished and convincing representative of the villainous John Bird was Mr. Gerald Kennedy, and Mr. Lewis Gordon contributed a careful and in all respects praiseworthy portrayal of Mr. Franklyn Fordham, the New York merchant, who is in the power of Bird. A droll portrait of the usually inebriated Doc Wilber was presented by Mr. Fred Osmond, particularly humorous being his scene with Bird, where he succeeds in extracting the incriminating letter from the latter's pocket; and Mr. Tom Beasley, as Willie Manley, also contributed largely to the merriment of the evening by his quietly humorous performance. The self-sacrificing Elinor Fordham was pathetically enacted by Miss Beatrice Shirley, especially telling being her acting in the scene where she decides to give up her lover in order to save her father from disgrace. Miss Mabel Veriton made a natural and lovable old lady of Mrs. Manley, who so dotes on her boys; and a vivacious and amusing portrayal of the kind-hearted serio, Carrie Wilber, was submitted by Miss Hettie Zillwood. Mention must be made of the firemen's pet, the well-trained greyhound, Laddie; and the Lyric Comedy Quartette also contributed to the enjoyment of the audience by their vocalism. Numerous minor parts were all well played, and the drama was excellently staged throughout.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Comedy, entitled

"LADY FREDERICK."

Good houses have rewarded the enterprise of Mr. Peter Davey, the managing-director, in bringing this delightful production to Kingston, and the cordial reception accorded to Mr. Percy and Miss Emma Hutchison's company by appreciative audiences showed that he was justified in his selection. It was Lady Frederick's début in the ancient borough, and it is safe to say that a return visit would be welcomed by all classes of playgoers. Miss Mabel Love, who is no stranger to Kingston audiences, appears in the title-rôle, and it is needless to say that she invests the part with the charm that characterises all her histrionic efforts. That this was the general verdict was shown by her recall at the end of each act on Monday night. Mr. Robert Minster appears as the matter-of-fact Mr. Paradise Fouldes, a part which he presents with considerable ability. Valuable assistance is rendered by Miss Eleanor Delaporte as Lady Mereston, Miss Lyne Fontanne as Rose, Mr. Patrick Quill as Sir Gerald, Captain Gerald Gambier as Admiral Carlisle, Mr. E. F. Meads as Lord Mereston, Mr. Edward Bonfield as Captain Montgomery, Miss Beatrice Grosvenor as Madame Claude, and Miss Rita Ward as Analique. The play is preceded by the comedietta The Peacemaker, in which the parts are taken by the Misses Delaporte, Fontanne, and Ward, and Messrs. Quill and Bonfield.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Drama, by Theo Kremer, entitled

"THE FATAL WEDDING."

This evergreen drama is meeting with unqualified appreciation here this week, and is drawing large audiences. It is well acted, especially by Mr. Cecil A. Melton, who gives a manly and vigorous impersonation of Howard Wilson; Mr. Frank Harrison is a clever and sufficiently villainous Robert Curtis; Mr. Charles Locke, an amusing Toto, has some splendid scenes with Bridget (capitally played by Miss Ethel Sarjient); Mr. Cyril Melton gives a clever performance of Peter Schwartz, and is also the capable stage-manager of the production; Mr. Frank Ashley is a capital Police Constable O'Reilly, and Mr. J. Newton a good Rev. Dr. Lanceford. Miss Ethel Kay is an attractive and sympathetic representative of Mabel Wilson; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh both looks and acts well as Cora Williams; Miss Lulu Wohlmann, a clever and interesting young actress, makes a delightful "Little Mother"; Miss Hilda Mahlert is excellent as little Frank; and there are numerous other clever children in the production, foremost among whom is Master Tom Grice, who is very good as Tim.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, for the First Time in London, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Madge Duckworth and Ridgewood Barrie, entitled

"THE CONSCIENCE OF A JUDGE."

Herbert Granstone	Mr. Kenyon Musgrave
Cecil Bentley	Mr. Reginald Maurice
Sir Edward Mervin	Mr. Sam Courtney
Geoffry Granstone	Mr. Lawrence Stevenson
John Summers	Mr. Frank Ayerton
Horatio Winters	Mr. Walter Clarke
Old Jervis	Mr. Ford Edwards
Carter Ben	Mr. Tom Carter
Officer	Mr. Charles Benson
Mrs. Draycott	Miss Mona Dawlish
Ethel Vaughan	Miss Mabel Coleman
Mary Rostron	Miss Madge Seymour
Little Kitty	Miss Elsie Isaacs
Jessica Draycott	Miss Nellie Howitt

There seems no reason to suppose that the conscience of a judge should be any more sensitive than that of, say, a barrister or even a policeman. The mental perturbations of a justice of the peace nevertheless form the nucleus of the drama above named, which had its first London representation on Monday, having been originally produced at the Theatre Royal, Ton-y-pandy, on Dec. 23 last. The piece is reminiscent of other dramas—East Lynne in particular—which have gone before, but it plays upon the emotions with unerring effect, and a large audience received it with unbounded favour at the Elephant and Castle on Monday. Herbert Granstone, a barrister-at-law, is the name of the man thus afflicted. At the opening of the play he is found to have betrayed Jessica Draycott, a village maiden, and the first curtain descends upon her vow of vengeance. In the second act Granstone has become a judge and a widower, and having suffered years of remorse, seeks in vain for Jessica in order to make her his wife. His youthful error is known to the unscrupulous Sir Edward Mervin, who seizes upon it as a basis for blackmail. The judge is deaf to his threats until Mervin points out that the obloquy which would result from the exposition of his crime would fall upon the judge's son, and then he promises to pay the sum demanded. When, however, the villain demands in addition the hand of his ward Ethel, who is affianced to Geoffry, Granstone refuses, and dares him to do his worst. Mervin then appeals to Ethel, and by asserting that Geoffry's career is at stake induces her to break off the engagement in favour of himself.

The long-sought-for meeting between the Judge and Jessica is nearly effected in a London park, wherein she and her child, in a state of starvation, seek rest. While the mother has gone to try and procure food, the Judge appears, and drops his pocket-book, which is handed to him by little Kitty. Soon after the mother, returning from her fruitless errand, and apparently not recognising Granstone, while his back is turned, purloins his pocket-book from the coat which lies on a seat. The act has not escaped the vigilant eye of Mervin, who promptly charges Jessica with the theft, but his accusation is met by the appearance of Geoffry, who with no regard for veracity declares he gave the notes to the woman. Mervin nevertheless determines to prosecute the charge, and going to the Judge's house tells him of the incident, the truth of which the son is unable to deny. Meanwhile Jessica has obtained the hospitality of a worthy couple named Mr. and Mrs. Summers, who are in the employ of the Judge, and occupies rooms in their cottage, whither she is traced by Cecil Bentley, a faithful admirer and a detective. The child Kitty is in rapid consumption, and is fast sinking. After exacting from her mother a promise to return the stolen pocket-book she dies, leaving the heart-broken parent in a paroxysm of grief. It is just at this moment that the police-officers, led by Mervin and accompanied by the Judge and the detective, enter, and the Judge thus meets Jessica, and obtains the first view of his child in the body lying lifeless on the bed. The last act finds the Judge also dying of consumption. He is totally blind, and is being assiduously nursed by Jessica, of whose identity he is unaware. Jessica herself is in despair, and goes to a chemist's to purchase laudanum with which to commit suicide, but her attempt is frustrated by the ever-watchful Bentley, who thought she had obtained the drug in order to carry out her revenge on the Judge. His impression is strengthened when he finds Jessica administering poison to Granstone in what she considers is a humane attempt to end the sufferings of a dying man. The Judge, however, has already passed away. The reuniting of Geoffry and Ethel, and the betrothal of Jessica and Bentley, who secures the arrest of Mervin on a charge of a brutal murder, brings the somewhat morbid story to a close.

Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company has the production in hand. The rôle of the Judge, arduous and exacting, is played with artistic restraint by Mr. Kenyon Musgrave, whose well-modulated voice gives telling expression to the emotional lines which he has to deliver. An equally impressive sketch of the much-harassed Jessica Draycott is given by Miss Nellie Howitt. Her acting proclaims throughout the experienced actress, and the scene of the death of the child is portrayed with much feeling, followed by an outburst of dramatic force. Cecil Bentley is more conspicuously associated with the story than is the usual stage detective, and, in fact, savours much of the hero of melodrama. He is played in that strain by Mr. Reginald Maurice, who invests his performance with much agreeable sentiment. Mr. Lawrence Stevenson plays with vigour and manly force as the Judge's son Geoffry, going through some difficult scenes with credit; and the rôle of the niece, Ethel Vaughan, is enacted with refinement and grace by Miss Mabel Coleman, who wears some becoming dresses. Sir Edward Mervin is played in traditional style by Mr. Sam Courtney, who is a polished villain, but is perhaps over-liberal with his gestures. The child Kitty is represented with much charm by Elsie Isaacs, who speaks with commendable clearness, but should be taught to avoid pronouncing "back" as "buck," and similar affectations. Plentiful fun is supplied by Mr. Frank Ayrton, a well-experienced comedian of melodrama, and Miss Madge Seymour, who has been his associate in many a comedy character. They play the rôles of John and Mary, a chauffeur and a maid-servant respectively, and though the drollery of the scene in which the former essays to teach his wife to ride a bicycle is not very apparent, there are many incidents which are made comic and cause hearty laughter. Merriment is also provoked by Mr. Walter Clarke, who plays a seedy individual named Horatio and employs the methods of a well-known music hall comedian with hilarious effect. Other parts are ably represented. The play is well set with new scenery, and quite a stroke of humour is provided in the third act, when the comedian's garden, hitherto minus a flower of any sort, is found suddenly to have been turned into a mass of bloom.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Play, entitled

"HER FORBIDDEN MARRIAGE."

A good, sound melodrama is that written by the popular lessee of this theatre, and presented to his numerous patrons this week. It is full of exciting incidents, admirable comic relief, and embellished with real motor-cars, horses, ponies, &c. Mr. H. Gomer May is seen to advantage in the part of Sir George Lancaster; Mr. Henry Lonsdale realises the heroic inventor to the life; Mr. Louis Hector is successful in depicting an unmitigated scoundrel as Charles Devereux; Mr. Leonard Maxwell makes a good Geoffrey Broughton; Mr. Fred de Vere is highly amusing as a jack of all trades and master of none; Miss Maude Merrick admirably assists Mr. de Vere as Polly Lovejoy, and is very diverting; Miss Grace Lester is to be congratulated on her capable acting as Lady Lucretia Lancaster; Miss Gertrude le Sage is a charming representative of Sir George's ward, Lucy. Miss Agnes Imlay realises to perfection the Mother Superior; the remainder of a strong company do justice to their respective rôles. The drama is handsomely mounted and staged.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Musical Comedy, entitled

"THE GAY GORDONS."

The attraction at the Dalston Theatre this week is the musical comedy The Gay Gordons, and it is proving a decided "draw." Mr. Frank Lincoln, who appears as Angus Graeme, makes an ideal lover. Miss Maie Ash as Peggy Quainton acts, sings, and dances in a way which can only be described as fascinating. On the spindle side she is the life and soul of the piece. Mr. Tom Graves as Nervy Nat, an old showman, is a source of amusement to the audience every time he is on the stage. He is a character-sketch of the cleverest type. Mr. Edward Nainby is mournfully humorous as Edmund Siddons. It falls to the lot of Mr. Norman Forrest, who plays the part of Corporal John Smith, to represent Angus Graeme at certain periods of the story, and he is specially good while posing as that interesting individual. Mr. J. Cranstoun Nevill is dignified as the Marquis of Dalesbury, and equally good is Mr. Harry Ulph as Viscount Belstairs. Mr. Arthur Bravo is Lord Elmington, and Mr. William Terriss Lord Merstham, while Mr. Herbert Cannon as Archibald Speedy and Mr. J. S. Woolley as Jack McPrisky make up the male cast. Others taking part in this most attractive entertainment include Miss Emily Mellon as Janet McLeod, Miss Nellie Connen as Victoria Siddons, Miss Ida Laurie as Charlotte Siddons, Miss Gladys Deane as Mary McLeod, Miss Katie Butler as Lady Millicent Graeme, and Miss Ida Mann as Lady Graeme.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Play in Four Acts, entitled

"SUNDAY."

This charming play was presented on Monday to an enthusiastic crowd at the Shakespeare, and was acclaimed a complete success. The interesting story was excellently interpreted by Mr. Louis Calvert's company. In the title-rôle Miss Marjorie Murray's acting was at all times agreeably spontaneous, and she gave to the part of the irresponsible Sunday a charm and gaiety of manner that quickly endeared her to all hearts. The pathos of the part was also artistically treated, and it was at these moments that Miss Murray's dramatic talent peeped forth most conspicuously. Mr. Walter Giffard invested the rôle of Colonel Brinthorpe with a tenderness that added impressiveness to the lines. Mr. Wilson Blake made the most of his opportunities as Arthur Brinthorpe, and Mr. T. Norman Walter played Tom Oxley with an ease that stamped him as an experienced actor. Mr. James Skea as Towzer and Mr. A. C. Holmes as Davy contributed excellent studies, and Mr. Alec Alves showed to advantage in the rôle of Jacky. Mr. James Hussey as Lively submitted a carefully considered rendering of this cleverly drawn character. Miss Helen G. Edwins was a dignified Mrs. Naresby, and Miss Lila Barclay created a good impression by her impersonation of a Nun. The play, which was admirably staged and mounted, was produced under the direction of Mr. T. Norman Walter.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Drama, adapted from Zola's work "L'Assommoir," entitled

"RUINED BY DRINK."

Some excellent work was done by the members of Mr. Harry Barford's company in Marylebone this week, and Mr. William Bailey is certainly most persistent in his efforts to put before his patrons weekly a long and strong bill of attractions. As Coupeau Mr. Brien McCullough was responsible for one of those clever character studies such as only an actor of his ripe experience and ability is able to portray; Mr. W. H. Perrette was well to the fore as Gouget; Mr. Charles Freeman did well as Lantier; and that old West London favourite Mr. Harry Barford made a distinct hit as M. Bottes. Miss Clarice Shirley enacted Marie with much feeling and expression; whilst the two sisters Gervaise and Virginie were well played by Miss Lena Flowerdew and Miss Beatrice May respectively. The play was followed by a display of animated pictures, and concluded with the laughable farce Paddy Miles's Boy, the title-rôle of which Mr. Harry Barford sustained in a broadly humorous way.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the Drama, entitled

"THE LIGHTHOUSE ROBBERY."

Mr. E. H. Knight's No. 1 company is appearing this week in an interesting play, which provides agreeable entertainment to the patrons of this house. Mr. Stanley Bedwell, possessing a keen sense of his responsibilities in the character of Tom Manly, a poor fisherman, acts with spirit and fervour, and offers a good representation. Mr. H. Wallace Curnock makes a favourable impression as William Farren. James Farren, his son, is ably sustained by Mr. Wilfred Mansfield, who carries out his villainies in a facile manner. Mr. Herbert Lewis submits a careful rendering of the part of David Morris. Sam Kidder, a stage-struck rustic, is humorously dealt with by Mr. Willie Reid, who, in conjunction with Miss Maggie Stewart, who makes a lively Ruth Manly, contributes a good deal of fun. Miss Hilda Baynton has a prepossessing appearance and maintains the part of Rose Prescott successfully. Little Nellie, a waif of the ocean, is very ably undertaken by Miss Ethel Lovett. Miss Francesca Stickland gives a capable rendering of Mrs. Manly. Mr. Charles Mackay and Mr. George Thompson also assist in minor rôles. An excellent selection of music is played by the orchestra during the evening, under the bâton of Mr. S. Callcutt.

GREENWICH THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 17, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Charles March, entitled

"THE GAMESTER OF METZ."

Mr. Charles March, after a long absence, is paying a welcome return visit with his capital play, The Gamester of Metz, in which the author-manager gives a capital rendition of the leading character, Paul Baldot. His many changes and disguises are warmly applauded. Mr. George W. Gregg as Captain Henry Badaire gives a skilful and impressive performance; Mr. Haviland Haworth is good as Louis Badaire; and Mr. Fitzroy Cooper is decidedly good as Lieutenant Herve. Mr. Fred Rolls makes a capital Goliath Gron; Mr. Charles Dockwray an excellent Ferdinand du Basson, Mr. Percy Windglass an impressive Curé d'Artois; Mr. A. Lockhart is good as the Executioner, and Mr. Henry Oakley is successful as Peter Runhild. Miss Lizzie Prescot acts with power and pathos the character of Gwendoline Pearson; Miss Una Lane is a capable Countess, and Miss Ellen Armour a pleasing Lucia Baldot. The drama is well mounted.

A series of short "Stage Stories" is at present appearing in the Mint, a new weekly magazine. The stories are written by Arthur Eckersley, who will be remembered as the author of several successful curtain-raisers, and deal, in the guise of fiction, with various themes of interest to members of the profession.

A confetti fête and carnival will be held at the Crystal Palace on Wednesday, Sept. 9. Some magnificent prizes will be given. They are now on view in the centre transept facing the theatre. We would recommend visitors to the Palace, and particularly those young people being in the neighbourhood, to go and see these prizes. If they do they are bound to wish to enter the competition. Mr. C. H. Hyatt, the popular up-to-date amusement caterer, has presented what is undoubtedly the best of all the prizes. It is a beautiful canteen, full of knives and forks and spoons and everything calculated to make a dinner-table look delightful. This will be gained by the lady who shows the handsomest dress. Mr. A. Gibbs, of the Cambridge Hotel, and one of the directors of the football club are presenting a charming Princess tea set. There ought to be a very keen contest for this. The winner will be the lady who is attired in the most original costume. The other prizes include a toddy kettle, a stationery combination, a tantalus, a dinner gong, an egg combination, an afternoon tea set, a smoker's companion, a trinket set, a flower-stand, a case of silver brushes, a necklet in case, a watch, a lady's enamelled watch, cigar and cigarette combination, pipes and vesta-box in case, and a handsome pocket knife. Go and see them for yourselves.

For the first time at the Crystal Palace, Mr. W. D. Mackenzie will present an entirely new and musical entertainment entitled "Moments with the Masters." This company consists of twenty persons, all of whom are recognised as leaders in their various styles of music. Master E. Brockett, whose natural voice gives a phenomenal imitation, of the ocarina, will prove one of the features of the entertainment. This company will play at intervals each day during next week.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. AND MRS. F. H. GRAHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Graham, who recently returned to England from Australia by the R.M.S. Athenic, are touring the world on pleasure. Many of our readers will remember Mr. Graham as a well-established comedian, from the time when he played the late Fred Leslie's part in the Gaiety burlesque Little Jack Sheppard (Johnny Dallas, Frank Manning, and Ada Blanche being also in the cast). After a two years' tour he ran his own companies for seven years, playing drama, burlesque, and pantomime; then three tours, playing the Frenchman in Cissy Graham's All Aboard; then five tours, playing George Giddens's part in the Drury Lane play, The Derby Winner; then six tours, playing "Bobbie" Nainby and Fred Wright, jun.'s., parts in the Gaiety productions, A Runaway Girl and The Messenger Boy. During the latter run he was specially selected by J. A. E. Malone to play principal comedy for J. C. Williamson in Australia. He was originally engaged for six months only, but after playing one month he was immediately re-engaged by Mr. Williamson for three and a half years. During that time Mr. Graham produced the following musical comedies, in addition to playing principal comedy:—Li, San Toy; Flipper, A Runaway Girl; Bronson, Belle of New York; Captain Coddington, In Town; Biggs, The Circus Girl; Charles Brown, The French Maid; Tommy Bang, The Messenger Boy; Tweedlepunch, Florodora; Wun-hi, The Geisha; Dr. Brierley, A Gaiety Girl; the Gilbert and Sullivan operas; Mad Hatter, Alice in Wonderland; Mrs. Sinbad, Sinbad pantomime; &c. At the termination of his lengthy engagement Mr. Williamson presented him with a testimonial benefit, and has since then made Mr. Graham several tempting offers to return. Subsequently Mr. Graham and his wife (Miss Nellie Dent) were engaged by Mr. Harry Rickards to "star" in vaudeville, and they have during the last four years toured Australasia with their extensive répertoire of comedy plays, under the management of Mr. Harry Rickards and John Fuller and Sons of New Zealand. Mr. and Mrs. Graham have played continuously throughout Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand for the past seven and a half years without one week's break, so that their present holiday is well earned.

During the time Mr. Graham had charge of Mr. Williamson's musical comedy company, his wife was playing special parts with the Knight-Jeffries company, also under Mr. Williamson's management. Mr. and Mrs. Graham have received several offers to play seasons in America, but their future plans are far-ahead fixed in the colonies. They return to Sydney in January next to play their fourth engagement with Mr. Harry Rickards, having been re-engaged for a fifty-two consecutive weeks' season. Mr. Rickards also has a claim on their services for a much longer extension. This is a record engagement for the colonies for any artists engaged in the vaudeville profession. Mr. and Mrs. Graham speak in glowing terms of Australia and New Zealand. A more hospitable and generous set than the colonials it would be impossible to meet. "Life out there is one long round of sunshine—if you like to make it so," says Mr. Graham with great pride. Mr. and Mrs. Graham refer to the ninety-six weeks' season with John Fuller and Sons (who control six theatres in New Zealand) as a most happy experience. Their seven and a half years in the colonies, however, have not been without some exciting adventures. They were in two startling earthquakes in New Zealand; in a serious explosion on the French mail steamer Polynesien in mid-ocean; in the mishap to the steamship Paroo when she drifted helplessly for days in the South Pacific; in the tragic explosion at the Waverley Hotel, Melbourne, where they nearly lost their lives; and were nearly dashed to pieces on the rocks in Sydney Harbour during a fearful storm whilst holiday-making on their yacht, the Nona, one Sunday in October, 1902. Mr. Graham will be pleased to give advice to all and sundry who contemplate playing the colonies, and he is also prepared to treat with authors for recognised musical plays. His address is care of The Era.

MR. JOHN WILMER.

After leaving school Mr. John Wilmer first embarked on a walking tour through Normandy, and then joined the ranks of the commercial world in London and New York. He saw Mrs. Langtry play on her first visit to the latter city, and also patronised the Vokes family at Niblo's Garden. After having travelled for six months in South Africa, visiting Cape Town, Mossel Bay, Port Elizabeth, Port Alfred, and Grahamstown, Mr. Wilmer returned to England, and joined the good old school of the late Miss Sarah Thorne at the Theatre Royal, Margate, where he remained for a stock season, taking part in plays along with Mr. Malcolm Scott, Mr. Lennox Pawle, Mr. John Brabourne, and others. He subsequently went on a fit-up tour with Judge Nat, in which he played Bob Allen, and took small parts in Miss Thorne's pantomime, opening at Maidstone. By the kindness of Mr. Henry Arthur Jones, Mr. Wilmer obtained an introduction to Mr. E. S. Willard, then playing at the Shaftesbury Theatre, who engaged him for two small parts on the tour of The Middleman, which lasted altogether about forty weeks, during a portion of which Mr. Wilmer assisted in the stage-management. His next move was to go out as acting-manager, and then business-manager, with The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith company. Two short tours with Miss Fortescue followed, after which he was general business-manager for Miss Ada Blanche's Telephone Girl company. After a spell as acting-manager for Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's pantomime Little Red Riding Hood, Mr. Wilmer went out in advance with Mr. Penley's Charley's Aunt company, and acted in a similar capacity with Little Miss Nobody. After officiating as manager for Mrs. Lewis Waller's The Three Musketeers, Mr. Wilmer went to the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, as acting-manager for the run of the pantomime. Returning to Mrs. Lewis Waller, he opened at the Coronet Theatre, Notting-hill, with the late Mr. H. A. Kennedy's version of Tess. Next he was in advance with Mr. Mark Blow's companies Lady Ursula and The Swashbuckler, and was acting-manager for Mr. Bourchier and Mr. Jerrold Robertshaw's Held Up company, Messrs. A. and S. Gatti and Charles Frohman's company Quality Street, with which he remained for three tours as general-manager, and fulfilled a similar position with these gentlemen's tours of The Belle of Mayfair.

"THE HEATHEN AND THE CHRISTIAN."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I note Mr. Joseph L. S. Moss has written to correct a statement in your issue of Aug. 8 re the production of my drama The Heathen and the Christian. He is quite right. I had the pleasure of producing The Heathen and the Christian at Mr. Moss's theatre; but that was for copyright purposes. I had no opportunity from then until last year of testing it as a commercial enterprise, and took it on a short tour in the summer of 1907, which started at the St. James's Theatre, Manchester, where it was successfully produced, as already stated, for the tour arranged. Other business, however, prevented my continuing the tour, and I have now let the play to Mr. Frank Adair, whose well-known ability both as a manager and an artist should ensure for it a long and prosperous career.

—Yours faithfully, FRED MAXWELL.

Aug. 18.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, JULY 14.—The Red Lamp, after years of absence, was relighted by Mr. Herbert Flemming at the Criterion on the 11th, and as the popular actor-manager himself was the Paul Demetrius and Miss Beatrice Day was the Princess Claudia Morakoff, a successful production was guaranteed. Mr. Flemming gives an entirely new reading of Demetrius's personality. He makes him a drowsy grand-paternal dreamer, cloaking a cunning and insight into human character which shines through his quasi-somnolence like flashes of light in the dark. Miss Day's Princess Claudia is graceful, winning, loving, and royal, even though helping the Nihilists' safety from love of her implicated brother. Her interview with General Morakoff, her husband, is finely acted. Mr. A. S. Homewood, in the somewhat small part of Prince Alexis, is sufficiently good, and Mr. Winter Hall makes the General stand prominently out. The sympathy-winning rôle of Allan Villiers is delicately Americanised by Mr. A. Mallalieu, and Miss Elise Clarens plays love scenes with him as Olga Morakoff in charming style. Mr. J. F. Forde makes Kertch very strong and picturesque—a valuable item in a good cast. Mr. H. W. Varna has Ivan Zazzulic in charge, and he gives a creditable result, besides doing the stage-management. Miss Nellie Mortyne, comely and always distinct, gives all possible prominence to Mme. Dannenberg, and Miss Guildford Quinn is a Felice good to behold. The play is capitally mounted, the ladies well frocked, and the whole produced under Mr. Herbert Flemming's personal supervision. Mr. Harry Whaite painted the two largely-applauded scenes.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE was crammed on the 11th to witness Mr. J. C. Williams' presentation of The Red Mill, which included a newcomer in the person of Mr. John Ford, an American actor and dancer. Mr. Ford proved to be worthy of all that has been said of him—a clever comedian and expert dancer of attractive character. He was the Con Kidder, whilst his mate, Kid Conner, had Mr. Fred Leslie as his counterpart. The latter is an immense favourite, and received a very hearty welcome back to the company. Mr. Chas. A. Loder, the only Dutchman in the cast—all Dutch rôles—who adopted an accent, played his new part, Willem, with acceptance. Mr. G. Whitehead and Mr. Edward Sherras, the baritones, were specially good as Captain Doris Van Damm and the Governor of Zeeland. Mr. Percy Denton adiposely represented the Burgomaster, and he was bulkily clad and made up à la Oom Paul Kruger. Miss Fanny Dango, sprightly and terpsichorean, made Tina very bright, and Miss Alice Barber was a dainty Gretchen. Handsome Olive Godwin was an attractive Bertha, and Miss Ada Stirling spoke the Countess de la Fere's lines in French, which, not being understood by the audience, excited some merriment. Mr. Pat Bathurst was the Sheriff, and Mr. A. Liseant Joshua Pennyfeather. A very fine chorus, trained by the conductor, Mr. Alfred Moulton, and full ballet from Miss Minnie Hooper's hands, with beautiful scenery by W. R. Coleman, deserve special mention.

"THE THIEF" is crowding the Theatre Royal, the very fine acting of Miss Margaret Anglin, together with her attractive personality and superb dressing, proving a loadstone to connoisseurs of superexcellence in matters Thespian. The lady has created a fashion to demand the best, and Mr. J. C. Williamson always attains to that standard. Mr. Henry Kolker and Mr. Titheradge, with Miss Susie Vaughan, make a trio hard to beat on any stage, and no note of change of bill has yet been sounded.

THE TIVOLI welcomed Regan and Ryan and Tod Lowen on Saturday, and received Fanny Powers back with open arms. The Desmond Sisters are prominent in Mr. Harry Rickards' bill, which holds a long list of prominent artists.

MESSRS MEYNELL AND GUNN produce Miss Hook of Holland at the Criterion on the 25th, with Miss Ruth Lincoln and Mr. Edwin Brett in leading parts.

MR. PHILLIP NEWBURY, Mme. Emily Spava, and Mr. Sydney Scott returned after a long and successful tour of Queensland, and gave a concert at the Town Hall on the 11th. Mr. Newbury was in magnificent voice, and enthused a large audience. In the fine programme were also Mr. Henri Staell, violinist, Mr. Laurance Philip, and Mr. J. Edward Sykes, pianist.

MR. DAN BARRY, well known as head of travelling dramatic companies, died on the 12th in Victoria.

MELBOURNE, JULY 13.—PRINCESS THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson.—Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch has been playing to record houses since the opening night. The quaint humour of the piece is quite to the liking of Melbourne playgoers.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—The Merry Widow still continues her successful career, and although the season is now in its ninth week there are no signs of falling off in the attendances. New musical numbers have been introduced into the production, which bids fair to establish a record in Melbourne as far as musical comedy is concerned. Mr. Williamson has made arrangements with the railway authorities to run cheap excursions from all the principal inland towns to enable our country cousins to witness this delightful production. The result is that the theatre is besieged nightly.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Meynell and Gunn; Business-Manager, Mr. Stanley W. Cherry.—The farewell performances of the musical comedy company appearing in The Belle of Mayfair are announced, the lengthy season terminating on Friday night next. The company immediately leave for Sydney, where they open in Miss Hook of Holland. During their stay in Melbourne the various members of this popular organisation have established themselves as genuine favourites, and their return will be looked forward to with pleasure.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon.—A startling new turn was presented on Saturday evening, when the Rigoletto Brothers (two) made their first appearance in Melbourne. Their performance is in every way unique. One of the feats performed by the Rigolettos consists of the brothers standing on each end of a ladder suspended in mid-air, from which decidedly shaky position they discourse some excellent music on the mandoline and guitar. The turn throughout was warmly applauded. Mr. J. P. Ling made his final appearance, and met with a tremendous reception. During his stay in Melbourne Mr. Ling has made hosts of friends, and his departure is regretted by all. The Meymotts are presenting a new sketch. Mr. Charles Mildare (mimic) is as popular as ever. Other artists appearing with success include Irving Sayles, Austin Rudd, Musical Ibsons, May Reid, Four Rosebuds, Ethel Preston, Les Warton, Marjorie Bray, Andy Roberts, and Eugénie Elliott.

BIJOU THEATRE.—Director, Mr. Henry Hayward.—Maskelyne and Devant's mysteries were presented here on Saturday evening in the presence of a large audience. The performance is largely composed of juggling, interspersed with music and comedy. Mr. Owen Clarke appeared in a series of illusions, his best being entitled "The Tub of Diogenes." Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Mr. Barclay Gammon for his clever and amusing performance on the piano. Mr. Gammon is a humorist of a high order.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—Mr. Brennan is certainly keeping faith with the public as regards rapid changes of programme. Saturday night was no exception to the rule, for besides a complete change of programme by the members of the company a number of new artists made their appearance, foremost amongst these being Lyndon and Wren, comedy sketch artists, who presented a highly amusing turn. The Minapere Dartos are now established favourites; while excellent items are given by Jim Marion, James Craydon, Frank Yorke, Maggie Fraser, Bauvara Brothers, Lal Logie, Victor Meyers, Maxwell and Roberts, J. P. Knowles, and a host of others. The performance concludes with a series of interesting pictures shown by the Miorama.

WIRTH'S OLYMPIA.—Lessee, Mr. T. J. West.—A full house witnessed the "all new" series of pictures on Saturday night. Chief interest was centred on a pictorial illustration of the opening of the Franco-British Exhibition by the Prince of Wales. This study proved most realistic and lifelike. Another picture, The Brigands of Calabria, was highly sensational. During the performance West's full military band played a number of enjoyable selections.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

JOHANNESBURG, JULY 21.—STANDARD THEATRE.—Lessees, Leonard Rayne Dramatic Co.; Manager, Mr. Grant Fallowes.—The above company are presenting that evergreen masterpiece The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Good houses are the rule, and the performance is satisfactory. Mr. Norman Partriege is a superb Robert Brierly, and Mr. Chas. Howitt is admirably cast in the rôle of Hawkshaw. As Melter Moss Mr. Payne shows himself to be a versatile actor; Mr. Brough Pearce gives a fine rendering of Mr. Gibson; a clever representation of a difficult rôle is supplied by Miss Vera Morley as May Edwards; Emily St. Evremond is in the capable hands of Miss Dorrie Roberts, who misses none of the many points that go to make the part a success; Miss Dorrie Philipps as Sam Willoughby displays much talent; and Mrs. Willoughby is ably sustained by that experienced actress Mrs. Annie Leaf.

EMPIRE.—Patronage does not seem to fall off at this popular house, notwithstanding at this period of the year the Joburgians have all left for the respective seaside resorts. Alice Pierce in her impersonations of leading actresses met with prolonged applause; Miss Annie Heath sang and danced herself into popular favour; Willie Gardner, roller-skate dancer, is an acceptable turn, his dance on a small slab of slate being very clever. David and Maynard are talented operatic singers, their fine voices blending harmoniously; the Tamico Quartette are ideal musicians; Miss Jennie Belmore fairly brings down the house with her songs; the Kremo Family of acrobats execute some daring feats; Hunter and Mars are an amusing comedy duo; and others also here are Arthur Stacey and Fred Shepherd.

DURBAN, July 25.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sub-Lessees, B. and F. Wheeler, Ltd.—The Wheeler-Edwardes' New London Gaiety Company opened their season at the above theatre on the 17th, the play produced being The Little Michus. In the title-rôles Miss Chrissie Ralland and Miss Elsa Partiss were charming, their acting and singing being of a high standard. Mr. William Everard was successful as Gaston Rigaud, and Pierre Michu was capitally played by Mr. F. J. Blackman. Mr. Foster Courtenay is a first-class comedian, and his portrayal of the part of General Des Ifs was exceedingly amusing. He was ably seconded by Mr. Alfred Beers as Bagnolet, his servant. Miss Florence Vie as Mme. Michu gave an excellent performance of the part; Miss Nellie Lawrence danced neatly; and Mr. H. E. Pearce was a decided success as Aristide Vert. The chorus work was admirable, and the whole performance was received nightly with unqualified approval by packed houses.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The Empire Theatre Co., South Africa, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. C. Hyman.—A new combination of artists occupy the above theatre, and crowded houses are the rule. The Kremo Family of acrobats are the chief attraction. Their daring feats keep the audience spellbound, and their "turn" can only be described as marvellous. The Kellaways, child vocalists, provide a very acceptable item, their singing being much enjoyed; the top-boot dancing and singing of Mr. Arthur Stacey is very clever; Mr. Fred Shephard, comedy vocalist, is encored; Miss Daisy Mayer, coon impersonator, and Mr. Guy Ryder, comedian and whistler, both members of the former company, are still welcome "turns"; Miss Jenny Belmore, comedienne, is very successful, and the clever dance she gives as an encore has to be repeated nightly; the burlesque entertainment of Hunter and Maris provides delightful fun throughout; and new scenes and songs by the Gaumont Chronomegaphone and new Bioscope pictures complete the excellent fare provided.

MR. H. F. PARKER, on behalf of the Sports Committee of the Printing and Allied Trades Society, has written a letter to the Lord Mayor stating that his committee represent 300 City firms, and saying:—"We sincerely trust that your efforts to secure assistance from the Government or the public authorities in the preservation of the Crystal Palace to the public as a permanent national possession will be crowned with success. For the past eight years we have held our sports at the Palace because it possesses the finest racing (and the safest) tracks and the best dressing-room accommodation in this country. The average number of competitors at each of our meetings have been well over 1,000. The running championships of the London Elementary Schools, representing the champion of 22,600 competitors, are also held in conjunction with these sports, because it is an ideal spot for children to assemble and ramble and yet be safe from any kind of danger, hence most of the London Schools athletic associations are now forsaking other athletic tracks so as to avail themselves of the Palace track.

"THE truth has leaked out, at the eleventh hour, that the Olympic Sports could have been held to better advantage at a mere fractional cost of the expenditure which has been made at the Stadium, whilst the much-vaunted track at this place is far from being anything nearly as good as the tracks at the Crystal Palace, the cycling track being particularly unsatisfactory and unsafe.

"ONE of the most urgent demands of the times is a rifle range (suitable for military and miniature rifle-shooting) for practice and for competitors near the Metropolis, and we venture to suggest that the site is available in the Crystal Palace grounds, so that the members of the rifle clubs may use the same at convenience. We have looked into this matter, and find that such a range could be built in absolute safety to the public and without destroying any of the beautiful Palace grounds. The expense incurred bars the Palace authorities in taking up the matter, despite the constant applications for such accommodation, and it was only after a great expense and trouble that the Palace Company were able to accommodate our Miniature Rifle Club Competitions (over 1,200 competitors) on Aug. 15 last. The same difficulty was experienced with our outdoor swimming gala, and here again we are indebted to the Palace Company."

COPY OF TESTIMONIAL.—From Madame Borelli, Empire Theatre, Birmingham, Aug. 18, '08. T. Harris, Esq. Dear Sir,—Have been very pleased indeed with the work done, and will send shortly other dresses to be cleaned.—Sincerely yours, ANITA BORELLI. [Advt.]

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

The weekly meeting of the council of the Actors' Association was held at 409, Strand, on Tuesday, when there were present Mr. F. J. Arlton (in the chair), Mr. Henry W. Mote (Honorary Solicitor, Messrs. Robson Paige, Jackson Wilcox, Clive Currie, and Clarence Derwent, Miss Agnes Imlay, and Mr. Blount, Secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The council debated at great length the question of new premises, several places being under discussion, and an offer was made for one.

The Secretary read a letter from a member on a private matter, and was instructed to write thanking the writer for her letter, and saying that the council noted the contents thereof. A letter was also read from Mr. Kenneth Blackmore re laws affecting the licensing of theatres and plays and the Censorship. The council instructed the Secretary in reply to Mr. Blackmore to the effect that they quite approved of same, and also to sign the paper sent by him. The Secretary also read a letter from a doctor applying for the vacant post of honorary medical officer of the Actors' Association caused by a recent retirement, and was instructed to inform the applicant that he had been duly elected. A letter from Mr. Brooking regarding the new premises was read, and the Secretary was instructed to write thanking Mr. Brooking for the suggestions contained therein.

The Hon. Solicitor reported that he had had interviews with two members and had had correspondence with another, and advised them.

The Finance Committee's report was read and accepted.

Ruby Celeste, proposed by Jessie Burgwitz, and seconded by Dora Levis, and Agnes Ray, proposed by R. Mayne Young, and seconded by Cecil Brooking, were elected members.

The Secretary informed the council as to his interview with Mr. Gerald Clifton Boyne as to his rejoining the Actors' Association, and was instructed to inform Mr. Boyne that the matter had been decided by a previous council, and could not be reopened, but that they would be very pleased to reinstate him as a member.

The council discussed at some length the question of a standard contract between managers and artists. A contract, it was stated, was accepted by the Touring Managers' Association some time ago, and last year an agreement was come to with regard to payment for rehearsals to members of the A.A. A contract drawn up by the A.A. and the A.U. is now being considered by the Touring Managers' Association. The Secretary received instructions to write to another association with regard to the acceptance of a standard contract.

The Secretary drew the council's attention to a letter from Mr. Kirk with reference to a bogus actor, and was instructed to write to Mr. Kirk and ask him for the name of the actor.

The Agency report was received and accepted, three engagements having been made during the week.

ACTORS' UNION.

The usual weekly meeting of the committee of the Actors' Union was held on the 13th inst., when the following were present:—Messrs. Frank Gerald (in the chair), Edward Chester, Cecil G. Calvert, G. H. Child, E. Y. Rae, Orlando Barnett. Letters were received from the following committeemen during the week: Messrs. Frederick Loyd, Jerrold Heather, Henry Bedford, George P. Lester, H. Naylor Grimson, and J. Hastings Batson.

The case of a member who was in arrears with his subscriptions and had tendered his resignation was considered. Application had been made to the member for the payment of the amount due, and his attention called to Rule 7, Clause B, and no reply being received, it was decided to place the matter in the hands of the Hon. Solicitor.

A letter from a member exposing a bogus sketch manager and agent came under discussion, and it was decided that members should be requested when in doubt in such cases to apply to the Secretary for information.

The Secretary was authorised to forward a cheque to the Local Secretary at Manchester in settlement of the account rendered.

It was reported that the agency at Northampton had been transferred to the North-Western Hotel.

Two new members were elected.

Letters are waiting for the following at the A.U. office:—Mesdames H. Braithwaite, Ada Marius, Jessie Wynd, Bertha Woolcote, B. Webb; Messrs. Percy Baverstock, H. G. Brandon, Edwin Bennett, Percy Everard, J. E. Fraser, Beryl Mercer, Gordon Philpott, Leonard Stanton.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—SIR HENRY IRVING.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

A TERRIBLE accident occurred in the Alpine district on Tuesday, when the Polish actress Leontine Roman and the violin virtuoso Posselt, while ascending the Gorles Peak, fell over a precipice. The actress was killed instantly, and the violinist was much injured.

AT the Buxton Opera House on the first three nights of the week Mr. George Alexander's company opened with The Thief. The thrilling play was excellently acted by an exceptional company. Mr. Stephen Ewart, in the leading character was remarkably strong, and his fine work, coupled with the powerful acting of Miss May Congdon, fairly brought down the house in the famous second act. Mr. Gerald Ames as Raymond Leyton acted with admirable judgment, and Mr. Alfred Lugg played efficiently as Harry Leyton. Mr. Cyril Cattley did his work acceptably as Mr. Protheroe, and Mr. Frank Elton was satisfactory in the small servant's part. Miss May Congdon's Marise Chelford was a most artistic embodiment, and Isabel Leyton was excellently represented by Miss Mary Dibley. The staging of the play was in every way admirable. The chief piece was preceded by Too Happy by Half. Mr. Martin Harvey and company filled the remaining three nights.

GOETHE'S Iphigenia in Tauris, translated by the great Esperantist, Dr. Zamenhof, was to be given in Esperanto at the Royal Opera House, Dresden, on Wednesday.

IN his book "Sir Arthur Sullivan and His Operas," Mr. B. W. Findon, the accomplished musical critic, writes:—"We have not to note any of those stormy vicissitudes which dogged the footsteps of Mozart, and drove to the verge of distraction the impetuous Berlioz. We have not to linger regretfully over days of neglect, as in the case of Schubert, or sorrowfully recall to mind the misunderstanding which embittered the greater part of Wagner's career." From the time that he won, at the age of fourteen, the Mendelssohn scholarship, Sullivan never looked back. He at once found recognition, and it was not long before he was a prosperous man. He had simply to work to succeed.

STAGE CHILDREN AND TRUSTEES.

An application was made, at Marlborough-street, on behalf of Mr. McCabe, manager to Mr. Charles Manners, of the Moody-Manners Opera Company, to permit Ethel Maud Summers, a little girl of twelve, to take part in Madame Butterfly at the Lyric Theatre.

Mr. Henry W. Mote, solicitor, explained that the first performance was taking place on Wednesday, and the child would be required for two appearances, one being at a matinée. At the latest the performance would be over by 10.30 p.m., and the child lived with her mother at Lambeth. Previous licences had been granted.

Mr. Mead (the magistrate): It is half an hour to get home, and she would not be there until eleven.

Mr. Mote: But she is not performing every night.

Mr. Mead (reading the doctor's certificate relating to the child's health): "Reasonably sound constitution." That is very qualifying. (To the girl's mother): What does it mean?

Mrs. Summers: I don't know, sir.

Mr. Mead: "Reasonably sound constitution" looks as if there were something wrong.

The mother explained that there was no sign of anything being wrong with the child's health, and that she was well looked after and attended a "school for professional children."

In answer to further questions from the magistrate, it was stated that the girl would be paid £1 for each performance. The mother said that she put the money the child had previously earned in the bank for her, but her husband, a porter in regular work, fell ill, and she drew out the sum of £15 which had accumulated.

Mr. Mead: I do not see why you should live on your children.

Mrs. Summers: I do not, as a rule.

Mr. Mead: I think if you employ this girl, the money ought to be entirely saved for her, subject to, say, 10 per cent., for travelling expenses or something of that sort.

Mrs. Summers: It costs something travelling backwards and forwards.

Mr. Mead: A penny or twopence for the omnibus. There is a good deal of margin between £2 a week and that. I do not approve of parents living on their children. It is not natural, but a detriment to the child to act like this. You must appoint a trustee for this child, and the money must be paid to the trustee to be saved for her, subject to ten per cent. for expenses. (To the solicitor): You can draw up a short deed for that purpose. The best thing would be some independent gentleman.

The solicitor explained that that course raised difficulties, and expressed the opinion that it would prevent the opera company having the services of the child, who was experienced in playing by this time, as she had performed with Signor Caruso, Mme. Destinn, and others, and had been with Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. Perhaps the magistrate would be satisfied with the word of honour of the mother that the money should be devoted entirely to the benefit of her child.

Mr. Mead remarked that he had had experience of promises of that kind.

Mrs. Summers said she would give such a promise, and there would be no temptation to spend the girl's savings.

Mr. Mead: There was temptation, and you yielded to the extent of £15.

Mrs. Summers: What is the little girl going to do? Does she not want money?

Mr. Mead: No; there is only ten per cent. for expenses. It is your duty to keep your children, and I think if a child is brought up to this kind of thing, which is in many ways unhealthy and detrimental to her—I don't say to a serious point, but in certain ways—it is taking something out of her. I am not a bit narrow-minded on the matter, but I think there ought to be something saved for the child. I do not believe in parents using children for supporting themselves. Parents have to keep their children at any rate up to fourteen or fifteen years of age. (To the mother): It is not as if you were in abject want, because your appearance denies that. It is all surplus money. It may be good for the child to be trained as an actress, but I think any money she earns ought to be reserved for her. I only want the money to be secured for her, and I think the whole dramatic profession will be with me in thinking that these children should not be exploited for the parents' gain.

After a short adjournment the parties to the application returned and expressed their agreement with the magistrate's views. A gentleman who offered to become trustee, as suggested, went into the witness-box, and was informed by the magistrate that money might be advanced by him at a later stage for the girl's benefit and education, but at present only ten per cent. of her earnings was to be expended for expenses.

Sub-divisional Inspector Mackay, representing the Commissioner of Police, offered no objection to the licence being allowed, and the magistrate granted it.

STAGE CHILDREN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I read in the papers the other day the remarks of Mr. Mead, the magistrate at the Marlborough-street Police Court, on the subject of the employment of children for stage purposes, and, I must say—speaking as a member of the lay public, and not as a theatrical personage—that I consider he struck a proper note in insisting that the greater portion of the earnings of the child in the case under review should be vested in a trustee for the future benefit of the child. Mr. Mead put the whole matter in a nutshell when he said that he thought the whole theatrical profession would be with him in thinking that children should not be exploited for the parents' gain, and insisted on only ten per cent. of the money paid as salary to the child being expended for the girl's personal necessities.

Personally, and as a somewhat old-fashioned individual, I do not like to see children upon the stage at all, but I willingly waive whatever sentimental objections I may have in that respect in face of the requirements of theatrical productions, and of, possibly, the advantages likely to accrue from such training to a child with suitable ability.

The law, as expressed by the 1904 Act, does not aim at the prevention of the employment of children on the stage. What it does aim at is that the children shall work under such conditions as shall not be hurtful to their health. Thus Clause 3 of the measure referred to enacts that a Petty Sessional Court in England, or the School Board in Scotland, may grant a licence for such time, or during such hours of the day, and subject to such restrictions and conditions as the Court or Board may think fit, for any child exceeding ten years of age to take part in any entertainment or series of entertainments to take place in premises licensed according to law for public entertainments, or in any circus, or other place of public amusement, if satisfied of the fitness of the child for the purpose, and if it is shown to their satisfaction that proper provision has been made to secure the health and kind treatment of the children taking part in the entertainment, or series of entertainments.

But the Act might have gone a little further, and it might have secured a portion of the earnings of the child for the future use of the child. Mr. Mead's demand at the Marlborough-street Police Court, that only ten per cent. of the little girl's wages should be allocated to her current expenses, is one that other magistrates might be well advised to insist upon.—Yours, &c.,

PLAYGOER.

MATTHEWS THE ELDER.

"Mathews the elder," says H. Barton Barker in his "History of the London Stage," "has had many imitators in this kind of entertainment, his own son among the number, but never an equal. To judge by the stories related by Mrs. Mathews, his powers of mimicry, or rather of transformation, must have been nothing less than marvellous, for without make-up, change of dress, or any stage trickery, he could so transform his personality as to deceive his most intimate friends. He was once expelled from behind the scenes of the Liverpool Theatre, where he was actually playing at the time, as an intrusive stranger; and the next moment, after simply allowing his features and figure to assume their normal appearance, passed through the stage-door again and was recognised as Mr. Mathews. In those days the habitués of the boxes had the entrée of the green-room of Drury Lane. Among those who availed themselves of the privilege was a curious old gentleman, who name, it was understood, was Pennyman, and whose behaviour was so eccentric that he soon became a notorious character. 'No one,' to use Mrs. Mathews's words, 'could tell how the gentleman got admittance, and therefore there was no mode of excluding him. Every night he attracted inconvenient numbers to the green-room; and on the nights when my husband performed it was a matter of much regret to the performers that Mathews always came to the theatre too early or too late to see a subject whom he, of all others, ought to see. It was really surprising that no suspicion of the truth arose. One night, in the midst of a greater excitement than was usually created by him, he suddenly revealed himself to the assembled crowd as Mr. Mathews.' When Godwin was writing 'Cloudesley,' he asked Mathews to furnish him with some hints upon the possibilities of disguise. Mathews invited him to dinner, and while his guest was conversing with Mrs. Mathews, slipped out of the room; almost immediately afterwards a servant entered to announce a Mr. Jenkins. Mrs. Mathews looked vexed, and had scarcely time to explain that it was a troublesome and eccentric neighbour when the new visitor entered. He was introduced to Mr. Godwin, and began to talk so incessantly about that gentleman's works, and made such impertinent inquiries concerning the forthcoming one, that the illustrious author, bored and annoyed, rose from his seat and went to the window, that opened on to the lawn. But Mr. Jenkins was not to be so easily evaded. He pushed before him, and officiously offered to unfasten the window; after fumbling a little he threw it open and turned round. Then to his astonishment Godwin saw another man—not Mr. Jenkins, but Charles Mathews. After this Mathews became a terror to judges and barristers whenever he was seen in Court. One day, while on a provincial tour, he strolled into the Sessions House at Shrewsbury during a trial. Presently an usher came to him with the judge's compliments to inquire if he would like a seat upon the Bench. Rather astonished, as he had no acquaintance with his lordship, Mathews followed his conductor, and was most effusively received. Relating the incident some years afterwards to a legal friend, he was commenting upon the politeness shown him, when the listener burst out laughing. 'I've heard the judge tell the story,' he said, 'and I remember him saying, "I was so frightened when I caught sight of that d——d Mathews in the Court with his eyes upon me that I couldn't fix my thoughts upon the case, for I believed he had come there for the purpose of taking me off on the stage that night, so I thought it was best to be as civil to him as possible."'

IN the Court of Bankruptcy on Wednesday the first statutory meeting of creditors was held, before the official receiver, in the case of Mr. Ellis Dagnall, who filed his own petition, describing himself as of Regent-street, W., late of the Shaftesbury Theatre, theatrical manager. From the debtor's statements it appeared that in April, 1907, he took a lease for 21 years of the Shaftesbury Theatre, and it was opened by the New Shaftesbury (Limited), to which company he granted a sub-lease. At the end of July the theatre was closed, and in the following September the debtor, with the company's consent, retook possession. He reopened the theatre in December, and ran it until July 1 last with various attractions. Being then in arrears with rent the landlord retook possession.

THE debtor attributed his insolvency to losses sustained in the working of the theatre. He stated that he had been associated in the enterprise with Mr. Norman John Norman, whose affairs were now in bankruptcy. The chairman said that a statement of affairs had been lodged showing liabilities £3,012, and assets of uncertain value. The debtor had been adjudged bankrupt, and the case would remain in the official receiver's hands.

THE Royal College of Music is contemplating the production in the near future of Hermann Goetz's Francesca da Rimini. This work, which has never yet been heard in England, was the second of Goetz's operas, and was produced at Mannheim in 1877 nine months after the composer's death. He had not lived to complete the score, but had left sketches which enabled his friend, Ernst Frank, to finish it. Goetz's Taming of the Shrew, which enjoyed considerable success throughout Germany, was performed in London at a matinée at Drury Lane in October, 1878, and two years later was revived at Her Majesty's by the Carl Rosa Company.
